Wasted Time.

Alone, in the dark and silent night,
With the heavy thought of a vanished year
When evil deeds come back to sight,
And good deeds rise with a welcome cheer;
Alone with the spectres of the past,
That come with the old year's dying chime,
There glooms one shadow dark and vast,
The shadow of Wasted Time.

The chances of happiness cast away,
The opportunities never sought,
The good resolves that every day
Have died in the impotence of thought;
The slow advance and the backward step
In the rugged path we have strived to climb;
How they furrow the brow and pale the lip,
When we talk with Wasted Time.

What are we now? what had we been
Had we hoarded time as the miser's gold,
Striving our meed to win,
Through the summer's heat and the winter's cold;
Shrinking from nought that the world could do;
Fearing nought but the touch of crime;
Laboring struggling all seasons through,
And knowing no Wasted Time?

Who shall recall the vanished years?
Who shall hold back this ebbing tide
That leaves us remorse, and shame and tears,
And washes away all things beside?
Who shall give us the strength e'en now,
To leave forever this holiday rime.
To shake off this sloth from heart and brow,
And battle with Wasted Time?

The years that pass come not again,
The things that die no life renew;
But e'en from the rust of his cankering chain
A golden truth is glimmering through:
That to him who learns from errors past,
And turns away with strength sublime,
And makes each year outdo the last,
There is no Wasted Time.

Ladies and Women.

Some words have a magical effect on us from the mental pictures connected with them, or from the estimation in which we think the things represented by them are held. If two or more words express the same qualities in an object, and one of these words implies a manifestitation of these qualities more valued, we are flattered when that word is applied to us. What female is not more pleased to be called a lady than to be called a woman? When the word is spoken, nobody, now, thinks of what is said to have been its original meaning—one who gives bread. Neither, as commonly used in this country, does one think of a woman of rank, so called. But a lady is something nice—redolent of bandboxes. The word is suggestive of ribbon- and dress-making, delicacy and leisure, money and ease; and the puerilities of factitious refinement so predominant in the modern training of the young, that these things and conditions are as the good of life.

Lady!—The word is full of softness and refinement, accompanied with weakness and dependence. The white fingers, dexterous in ornamental art, glitter and tantalize; the eye, unused to watch over the feeble, flushes to enchant; the voice, using culled flowers, ravishes with sweetness never tested by corroding acids. Lady!—the word falls from the lips like the dropping of balsam.—But, sometimes, we are amused by its queer use. We have heard of a woman who always calls the scrubbing woman, "the lady that washes for me." Why not? "Is Miss Potter a lady, mamma?" asked a little girl of six years, who was with her mother visiting in a certain city. "Yes, Miss Potter is a real lady," the mother replied. "But, mamma, she works!" returned the child; "she washes, and cooks breakfast; how can she be a lady?" The ornamental only is associated with the word lady.

But the word woman smacks of nothing artificial It means only what the Lord God made for man to love and to live with as part of himself—a dearer part, and a part he will not do without. Many men, do, in truth, live their whole lives apart from this half, which would make them perfect men; but it is because some lady has given them a serpent instead of the bread their souls craved; or the finer half has, in the transforming process of fashionable culture become so changed to a lady, that the stupid men do not recognize in it the one designed to finish up the structure of their manhood.—Perhaps, indeed, the modern schools have so modified mind and body, that the "last best gift to man," is no longer a "help mate" for him; the rib is so bent that it will not fit: he dares not say it is his last one. So the poor bachelor goes through life mourning for his spare-rib. All that he sees seems too polished to be natural.

What female, when called a woman, feels a quickening of the blood? None. It is a common word, expressing a common object, simple, free, and like all common things coming direct from God's hand, just adapted to a man's nature. Woman expresses just the combination of qualities which fills the vacuum in a true man's heart; just what is fitted to establish his happiness, to perfect his human existence. When a real woman marries a real man they cannot be put asunder. God hath joined them. Ladies can never meet the heart-want of men. If they marry, it is to their mutual sorrow and chagrin. Ladies are beautiful, enchanting. But the true man wishes to go through life a natural being rather than an enchanted one His highest earthly aspirations is to walk, side by side, in sunshine and in storm with a WOMAN.—Se ected.

"IT'S VERY HARD."—"It's very hard to have nothing to eat but porridge, when others have every sort of dainty," muttered Charlie, as he sat with his wooden bowl before him.

"It's very hard to have to get up so early on these bitter cold mornings, and work hard all day, when others can enjoy themselves without an hour of labor.

"It's very hard to have to trudge along through the snow, while others roll about in their coaches."

"Its a great blessing," said his grand mother, as she sat at her knitting, "it's a great blessing to have a roof over one's head, when so many are homeless; its a great blessing to have sight, and hearing and strength for daily labor, when so many are blind, deaf, or suffering."

"Why grandmother, you seem to think that nothing is hard," said the boy still in a grumbling tone

"No, Charlie, there is one thing that I think very hard"

"What's that?" cried Charlie, who thought that at last his mother had found some cause for complaint

"Why, boy, I think that heart is very hard that is not thankful for so many blessings!"

South Carolina, Thirty Years Ago.

On the fourth of July, 1832. "Independence day" was celebrated in Charleston by two separate meetings, one, the Unionists, and the other the Nullifiers. Colonel Hayne, the Southern Champion, who was so discomfited in the tilt with Webster, spoke to the Nullification meeting, and Drayton to the Unionists. At the conclusion of Drayton's powerful and splendid oration, the following beautiful ode was chanted by a full choir:

Hail, our country's natal morn!
Hail, our spreading kindred born!
Hail, thou banner, not yet torn!
Waving o'er the free!
While this day, in festive throng,
Millions swell the patrio'ic song,
Shall we not the notes prolong?
Hallowed jubilee!

Who would sever Fredom's shrine?
Who would draw the invidious line?
Though by birth one spot be mine,
Dear is all the rest—
Dear to me the South's fair land,
Dear the central mountain band
Dear New England's rocky strand,
Dear the prairied West.

By our altars pure and free,
By our law's deep rooted tree,
By the past's dread memory,
By our Washington—
By our common kindred tongue,
By our hopes—bright, buoyant, young,
By the tie of country's strong,
We will still be one

Fathers! have ye bled in vain?
Ages! must ye droop again?
Maker! shall we rue thy stain
Blessings sent by Thee?
No! receive our solemn vow,
While before thy throne we bow,
Ever to maintain as now,
"Union—Liberty!"

The Journal of Commerce, in commenting upon the scene, remarks that the "effect of the ode was truly sublime. When the choir came to the last verse, the whole audience arose spontaneously, and there was an awful grandeur in the sound of thousands of voices exclaiming:

No! receive our solemn vow,
As before Thy throne we bow,
Ever to maintain as now,
Union—Liberty!

"Choir, and organ and harmony were drowned by the wild torrent of ejaculations; but it started feelings not unsuited to the sacredness of the place of meeting, and the light of the uplifted eye had to struggle through tears, and there was not a man present who would not at that moment have pledged life, fortune and sacred honor to UNION—LIBERTY!"

We would respectfully suggest to our groups that they can find nothing more beautiful nor sublimely patriotic than the foregoing lines; and the tedious hours of the camp, as well as the weary miles of the march, would be greatly relieved by singing the song that South Carolina (!) has furnished in the days when her poets were patriots.

No better melody than "AULD LANG SYNE" can be found for those soul-stirring words. Try it, boys.

The Order for the Arrest of Mason and Slidell.

The following is a copy of the orders issued by Capt. Wilkes, of the San Jacinto, to Lieutenant Fairfax, executive officer of that vessel, for the arrest of Messrs. Mason and Slidell:

U. S. STEAMER SAN JACINTO,
AT SEA Nov. 8. 1861

SIR: You will have the second and third cutters of this ship fully manned and armed, and be, in all respects, prepared to board the steamer Trent, now hove to under our guns.

On boarding her you will demand the papers of the steamer, her clearance from Havana, with the list of passengers and crew

Should Mr. Mason, Mr Slidell, Mr Eustis, and Mr Macfarland be on board you will make them prisoners, and send them on board this ship immediately, and take possession of her as a prize.

I do not deem it will be necessary to use force—that the prisoners will have the good sense to avoid any necessity for using it; but if they should they must be made to understand that it is their own fault. They must be brought on board.

All trunks, cases, packages, and bags belonging to them, you will take possession of and send on board this ship Any dispatches found on the persons of the prisoners, or in possession of those on board the steamer, will be taken possession of also, examined, and retained it necessary.

I have understood that the families of these gentlemen may be with them If so, I beg you will offer of them, in my name, a passage in this ship to the United States; and that all the attention and comfort we can command are tendered them, and will be placed at their service.

In the event of their acceptance, should there be anything which the captain of the steamer can spare to increase the comforts in the way of necessaries or stores of which a war vessel is deficient you will please to procure them; the amount will be paid by the paymaster.

Lieut. James A Greer will take charge of the third cutter, which accompanies you, and will assist you in these duties.

I trust that all those under your command, in executing this important and delicate duty, will conduct themselves with all the delicacy and kindness which becomes the character of our naval service.

I am very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
(Signed) CHARLES WILKES, Captain.
Lieut. D. M. FAIRFAX, U. S. Navy,
Executive Officer, San Jacinto.

AN HONEST FARMER.—Two farmers having a dispute as to some land, an action at law was commenced to determine it. On the day fixed for trial one of them called upon his opponent to accompany him to the court that each might give his own statement of the case.—Finding his neighbor at work in the field, he said to him:

"Is it possible that you have forgotten our cause to-day?"

"No," said he, "I have not forgotten it, but I cannot well spare the time to go. You will be there, and I know you are an honest man, and will state the case fairly, and justice will be done.

And so it proved; for the farmer stated his neighbor's claim so clearly, that the cause was decided against him, and he returned to inform his opponent that he had gained the property Such a character is worth more than the wealth of the Indies.

Synopsis of the Report of the

SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Nov. 30, 1861.

SIR—The Report of the operations of this department during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1861, will exhibit a diminished amount of business in some of the most important bureaus connected with the department. This is attributable mainly to the insurrection which has suddenly precipitated the country into a civil war.

GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

On Sept. 30, 1861, there were 55,555,595.25 acres of the public lands which had been surveyed but not proclaimed for public sale. The lands surveyed and offered at public sale previous to that time, and then subject to private entry, amounted to 78,662,735 64 acres, making an aggregate of public lands surveyed and ready for sale of 134,218,330.89 acres.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1861, and the first quarter of the current year, ending September 30, 1861, 5,289,532.31 acres have been disposed of Of this amount, 1,021,493.77 acres have been certified to the States of Minnesota, Michigan, and Louisiana, under railroad grants made by Congress; 606,094 47 acres have been certified to States as swamp lands; 2,153,940 acres have been located with bounty land warrants, and 1,508,004.07 acres have been sold for cash, producing $925,299.42.

It will be seen from this statement that the public lands have ceased substantially for the present, at least, to be a source of revenue to the Government. The liberal manner in which the acts of Congress, granting swamp and overflowed lands to the States, have been construed and executed, the grants of large quantities to aid in the construction of railroads, and the quantity required to locate bounty land warrants for military services, have combined to reduce the cash sales to an amount but little more than sufficient to meet the expenses of our land system. The net income from sales during the last fiscal year will hardly reach the sum of $200,000.—During the last fiscal year there were certified to the States for railroad construction, under the several acts of Congress making grants for such purposes: To Minnesota, 308,871.90 acres; to Michigan, 636,061.82 acres; and to Louisiana, 76,560.45 acres The whole amount certified to all the States, under such grants, is 9,998,497.77 acres.

The grants of swamp and overflowed lands to the States have absorbed a large amount of valuable lands, and have caused a heavy drain upon the treasury. The claims of the several States cover an aggregate of 57,895,577 40 acres.

The United States have also paid to the States, in cash, under the indemnity act of March 2, 1855, on account of lands claimed as swamp lands, and which were sold by the United States subsequent to the date of the grant, $276,126.50

Certificates have been issued for location upon any of the public lands subject to entry, to indemnify the States for lands claimed as swamp lands, but which had been located by bounty land warrants after the date of the grant, amounting to 145,595.92 acres. Additional claims are pending, yet undecided, for cash, $142,435, and for lands, 301,429 acres.

The bounty land warrants and scrip issued under different acts of Congress, previous to Sept. 30, 1861, embrace an aggregate of 71,717,172 acres of land. Of this amount there have been located: For revolutionary services, 8,200,612 acres; for services in the war with Great Britain, 4,850,120 acres; for Canadian volunteers, 72,750 acres; for services in the Mexican war and other services, under the acts of 1847, 1850, 1852, and 1855, in all 51,138,970 acres, leaving yet to be located on warrants and scrip, already issued, 7,454,720 acres.

Unless Congress shall authorize the issue of additional warrants, this drain upon the public lands will soon cease.

The propriety of issuing bounty land warrants to the volunteers who have been called into service to suppress the existing insurrection, is already a subject of discussion, and must be determined by Congress. A warrant for 160 acres to each volunteer engaged in the service, would absorb over one hundred millions of acres—a much larger amount than has been issued under all previous laws. It is evident that the issue of such an amount of warrants would destroy all hope of deriving any revenue from the public lands, at least for many years. And while such a measure would deprive the Government of all income from this source, it would afford but little benefit to the volunteers These warrants are now sold in the market at about 50 cents per acre. An addition of the large amount necessary to supply the volunteers would necessarily reduce the price of them to a merely nominal sum.

The expense of surveying private land claims in the territory acquired from Mexico, based upon grants of the Mexican Government, have heretofore been paid by the United States. These surveys have cost the Government large sums. The cost of surveying one claim amounted to $2,200; another cost the Government $1,400 The aggregate cost of surveying them has taken from the treasury a large amount of the public funds.

The valuable and extensive mineral lands owned by the Government in California and New Mexico have hitherto produced no revenue. All who chose to do so have been permitted to work them without limitation.

The Territorial Governments of Colorado, Dakotah, and Nevada have been successfully organized since the adjournment of the last Congress. The surveys of the public lands in those territories have already been commenced, and the lands are now open for settlement.

Congress, by an act passed May 26, 1860, authorized the appointment by the President "of a suitable person or persons" who should, in conjunction with persons to be appointed on behalf of the State of California, "run and mark the boundary lines between the Territories of the United States and the State of California" Fifty-five thousand dollars was appropriated for the performance of the work. Sylvester Mowry was appointed a Commissioner on the part of the United States, and the sum of $37,551.19 was placed at his disposal for the prosecution of the work. Very soon after taking charge of the Department, I ascertained that the whole sum which had been placed in the hands of the Commissioner had been disposed of by him, and a large amount of drafts for additional sums had been drawn upon the Department, while no progress had been made in the work beyond the fixing of one of three initial points, viz: the intersection of the 35th parallel of north latitude with the Colorado River. The whole appropriation had been squandered while the work had been only commenced. Under these circumstances I deemed it my duty to arrest the creation of further claims against the Government without authority of law, and accordingly directed the suspension of the work and a discontinuance of the services of the Commissioner. It is believed that the whole work might have been completed for the sum appropriated by Congress; but while only a small part of the work has been accomplished, the claims presented amount to nearly $20,000 beyond the appropriation. It remains for Congress to determine whether further appropriations shall be made for the continuance of the work.

The running of the boundary lines between the Territories of the United States and the State of Texas, authorized by the act of Congress of June 5, 1858, has been completed in the field, and the office details will in a short time be finished. For this work, $80,000 was appropriated. Of this sum $73,250.81 had been expended on the 30th of September, 1861, leaving an unexpended balance of $6,749.19. This balance is estimated to be sufficient for the completion of the entire work.

INDIAN AFFAIRS

Our Indian affairs are in a very unsettled and unsatisfactory condition. The spirit of rebellion against the authority of the Government, which has precipitated a large number of States into open revolt, has been instilled into a portion of the Indian tribes by emmissaries from the insurrectionary States

The large tribes of Cherokees, Chickasaws, and Choctaws, situated in the Southern superintendency, have suspended all intercourse with the agents of the United States.

Although the Indian Office has not been able to procure definite information of the condition of affairs, and the extent to which the Indians have assumed a hostile attitude, enough has been ascertained to leave no room for doubt that the influences which have been exerted upon the Indians have been sufficient to induce a portion of them to renounce the authority of the United States and to acknowledge that of the rebel government.

The tribes upon the Pacific slope of the Rocky Mountains have manifested a turbulent spirit, but have committed no acts of violence.

Much trouble has been experienced in New Mexico from depredations committed by some of the tribes in that Territory. The presence of a military force in that Territory is indispensable to preserve the peace and cause the Indians to respect the laws.

The tribes in Kansas and Nebraska, and in the States of the North-west are gradually progressing in the arts of civilization. The plan of allotting portions of their reservations to the individual members of the tribes has been found by experience to result beneficially Many of them have improved their lands and become quite proficient as farmers. A continuance of this policy, by familiarizing them with the habits of agricultural life will gradually lead them to depend upon the cultivation of the soil for subsistence

The practice of licensing traders to traffic with the Indians has been productive of mischievous results The money received by them in payment of their annuities generally passes immediately into the hands of the traders They are left to depend upon their annuities from the government for subsistence, and these find their way into the hands of the traders, while the Indians receive from them goods at a profit of from one to three or four hundred per cent

PATENT OFFICE.

No branch of the public service connected with this Department has been so much affected by the insurrection of the Southern States as that of the Patent Office.

The receipts of the office from Jan 1 to Sept. 30, 1861, were $102,808.18; and the expenditures were $185,594 05, showing an excess of expenditures over receipts of $82,785.87.

During the corresponding period of the last year the receipts were $197,348.40, being $94,840.22 more than the receipts for the same part of this year. During the same period 3,514 applications for patents and 519 caveats have been filed, 2,581 patents have been issued, and 15 patents have been extended.

PENSION OFFICE.

The report of the Commissioner of Pensions furnishes, in detail, the operations of this bureau during the past year. The number of pensions has diminished, during the year, 575, and the amount required to pay them was $43,246.87 less than the previous year.

The whole number of pensioners, of all classes, on the rolls on the 30th of June, 1861, was 10,709, requiring for their payment an aggregate of $957,772.08.

They were classified as follows: 4,725 invalid pensioners, receiving $425,256.02; 63 revolutionaary pensioners, receiving $3,690 85; 2,728 widows of revolutionary soldiers, receiving $212 548.36; 2,236 widows and orphans, half-pay, receiving $178 672; 957 navy pensioners, receiving $137,604.85.

EIGHTH CENSUS.

The returns of the Eighth Census are being condensed for publication with all the expedition practicable in a work of such magnitude and varied and comprehensive details.

The report which the Superintendent of that work will be prepared to make during the present Congress will confirm the general belief, that no previous period of our history has been distinguished by greater prosperity or evidence of more substantial progress in all the material interests affecting the welfare and happiness of a people.

AFRICAN SLAVE-TRADE

The President, by an order dated the 2d of May last, devolved upon this Department the execution of the act of 3d March, 1819, and other laws enacted for the suppression of the African slave-trade.

The subject was immediately taken in hand, under a deep sense of our obligation as a nation to put an end, if possible, to this odious traffic, and with a full conviction that the power of the Government, in the hands of competent honest and faithful officers, was adequate to the purpose. Among other things, I caused the Marshals of the loyal Atlantic States to assemble at New York for consultation, in order to insure greater concert of action They were thereby afforded an opportunity of inspecting vessels fully equipped for the African slave-trade, and of seeing the arts and devices employed to disguise and conceal the real objects of their voyage, thus enabling them to detect and prevent the clearance of vessels designed for this trade. It is gratifying to know that unprecedented success has crowned the efforts of the past few months. Five vessels have been siezed, tried and condemned by the courts. One slaver has been taken on the coast of Africa with about 900 negroes on board, who were conveyed to the republic of Liberia. One person has been convicted at New York as the captain of a slaver, having on board 800 captives, and two others (mates of a different vessel), and another one at Boston for fitting out a vessel for the slave trade. In the first named case the penalty is death; in the others it is fine and imprisonment. Hitherto, convictions under the laws prohibiting the African slave trade have been very rare.

This is probably the largest number ever obtained, and certainly the only ones for many years. It is believed that the first-mentioned case is the only one involving capital punishment in which a conviction has been effected.

The full execution of the laws in these instances will no doubt have a most salutary influence in deterring others from the commission of like offense.

A number of other indictments have been found which are yet to be tried.

Much credit is due to the United States Attorneys and Marshals at New York and Boston for the vigilance and zeal evinced by them, and I avail myself of the first occasion to make them this public acknowledgement.

Within a little more than a year, the Government of the United States, under contracts made with the government of Liberia, through the agency of the American Colonization Society, have taken into that republic 4,500 Africans, recaptured on the high seas by vessels of our navy. They are supplied with food, clothing, and shelter, medicines and medical attendance, for one year from the date of landing, and are thus brought within the civilizing and christianizing influences of a government founded and administered by intelligent and right minded persons of their own race.

They are under the special charge and supervision of an agent of the United States, the Rev. John Seys, who has been a devoted missionary in Africa for many years. His report, when received, will no doubt afford abundant evidence of the wisdom and philanthropy of the policy adopted by the United States in regard to these unhappy victims of a cruel and relentless cupidity, whose misfortunes have thrown them upon the fostering care and protection of the American people.

JUDICIARY.

The expenditures from the Judiciary Fund, during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1861, were $727,000.6. This includes the expenses of the Courts, jurors, and witness fees rent and repairs of court houses, and all other expenses attendant upon the administration of the laws of the Federal judiciary, except the salaries of the judges, district-attorneys, and marshals.

The suspension of the courts in several of the Southern States will diminish the expense of the judiciary to that extent; but what may be gained from this cause will be more than counterbalanced by extraordinary expenses in the Northern States, occasioned by the insurrection, chargeable to the judiciary fund.

PUBLIC PRINTING.

The change in the manner of executing the public printing, adopted by the last Congress, has been eminently successful. Under the direction of the present efficient Superintendent the work has been performed with more dispatch and at less cost to the government than at any previous time.

The report of the Superintendent will show the cost to the government of the work already executed, and what would have been its cost under the prices established by the law of 1852.

It will be seen that there was a saving of $21,127 95 on so much of the printing of the XXXVIth Congress as was done in this office, and $3 628 66 on that of the first session of the XXXVIIth Congress.

On the printing for the Executive Department the saving amounts to 50 per cent.

Upon the binding for the Executive Department there has been a saving of $1.000 per month; but the binding for the XXXVIth Congress having been done under a contract existing at the time the Government printing-office was established, there has been no opportunity to show what might have been saved on that work.

The expenditures for paper, printing, binding, engraving, and lithographing have heretofore constituted a very large item in the expenses of the Government. The orders of the XXXIVth Congress for these objects involved an expenditure of $1,586,407.53. Of this amount $390,679.72 was paid for printing, $317,927.92 for engraving and lithographing and $364,990.84 for binding. To this should be added the cost of the Daily and Congressional Globe for the same Congress, which was $257,904.28, and the printing for the executive departments for the same time, $152,883 04, making the whole expenditures for the two years $1 990,494.85. The cost of engraving and lithographing, from August, 1852, to December, 1858, was $892,139.59.—This work can be done much more economically under the direction of the Superintendent of Public Printing than by the present contract system. The Superintendent can as well control and direct this part of the work as the printing, and without additional expense.—At least fifty per cent. of the present cost of engraving and lithographing can be saved by having it executed in the Government Printing Office.

HOSPITAL FOR THE INSANE.

Since the institution was opened, in 1855, 439 persons have been treated—The number of patients in the house on the 30th of June, 1861, was 180, classified as follows: From the army, 25; from the navy, 11; from the revenue cutter service, 1; from civil life, males 71 and females 72

Of the inmates during the last fiscal year, 19 died, 63 were discharged, of whom 15 had so far improved that they could be safely removed, and 48 were completely recovered. The large proportion of patients who were discharged or recovered (which was 50 per centum of the admissions) furnishes ample evidence of the treatment observed.

COLUMBIAN INSTITUTION FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB AND THE BLIND.

This institution was organized in 1857. The number of pupils at the close of the first year was but seventeen. At the close of the last fiscal year the number was thirty five. The whole resources of the institution amount to but $8,126.19, of which $6,425.94 was appropriated by Congress. With such limited means but small results could be expected; but from the great liberality of the Hon. Amos Kendall, president of the board of directors, and his watchful care of the interests of the institution, much good has been accomplished.

CALEB B SMITH,
Secretary of the Interior.

To the President.

Report of the Postmaster General.

The Postmaster General's report states that the whole number of postoffices in the United States on the 30th of June, 1861, was 28,586: and that the entire number of cases acted upon during the same period was 10,638, including appointments made by the President of the United States. The whole number of appointments made by the Postmaster General was 9,235, and the number by the President during the same period, 337.

The aggregate earnings of the different trans-atlantic steamship lines during the year ending June 30, 1861, were $392,887 63.

The expenditures of the department in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1861, amounted to $13.606.759.11.

The expenditures were $14 874,772.89, showing a decrease in 1861 of $1,268,013.78.

The gross revenue for the year 1861, including receipts from letter carriers and from foreign postages, amounted to $8,349.296.40.

The estimated deficiency of means for 1861, as presented in the annual report from this department December 3, 1859, was $5,988.424.04. Deducting the actual deficiency, $4,651.966.98, and there is an excess of estimate deficiency over actual deficiency of $1,436.457.06.

The revenue from all sources during the year 1860 amounted to	$9,218,067 40
The revenue from all sources during the year 1861 amounted to	9,049,296 40
Decrease of revenue for 1861	$168,771 00

The net proceeds from Post-offices in the loyal States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1860. $3.688,690.56, and in 1861, $3,801,487.08, showing an increase in 1861 of $112.796.52; and in the disloyal States, in 1860, $820,546 57, and in 1861 $677,706 70, showing a decrease in 1861, of $142,839.81

The decrease in 1861 from the net proceeds of 1860 in all the States appears to be $30.043.29.

Statement of the receipts and expenditures of the disloyal States and amount alleged to be due to contractors; also the amount actually paid to contractors from July 1, 1860, to May 31, 1861.

Total expenditure	$3,699,150 47
Total gross receipts	1,241,220 05
Excess of expenditures over receipts	$2,457,930 43
Amount alleged to be due to contractors for transportation	3,135,637 12
Amount actually paid for transportation	2.323,061 63
Leaving amount alleged to be due and unpaid	$ 812,595 49

The estimate of the total expenditures for 1863 is somewhat less than those of previous years heretofore submitted.—This difference arises from the fact that only partial estimates are made for the cost of postal service in States where it is now suspended.

The appropriation for defences in 1862 was $5,391,350.61, while the amount estimated to be required from the Treasury for 1860, is $3,145.000.

The whole number of ordinary dead letters received and examined during the year was about 2,550,000.

The number of these letters containing money, which were registered and sent out during the year ending June 30, 1861, was 10,580

The number of dead letters returned unopened to foreign countries during the fiscal year was 111,147, which, added to the number of domestic letters (103,880,) sent out as above, gives the whole number sent out from the dead letter office for the year, 215,033

The result of successful investigation in 7,560 cases, confirms the past experience of the department, that the failure of a letter to reach its destination is, in the vast majority of instances, the fault alone of the writer or sender. Out of the above 7,560 valuable dead letters, 3.095 were directed to the wrong office, 467 were imperfectly addressed; 612 were directed to transient persons; 257 to parties who had changed their residences; 821 were addressed to fictitious persons or firms; 83 were uncalled for; 10 without any directions; 2 136 were not mailed for want of postage stamps; 79 were missent; and for the failure of postmasters to deliver 133, no satisfactory reason was assigned. The department therefore can justly be held responsible for the non-delivery of but 212 of these letters.

Much other valuable data is given on this subject, and it is worthy of remark that out of 76.769 letters, before alluded to, originating in the loyal States, and addressed to residents of disloyal States, 40,000 could not be returned, either because the signature of the writer was incomplete, or because the letter contained no clue to his residence. The experience of the Department shows that a large proportion of domestic letters written by educated persons, and particularly women, are deficience in one or both these respects.

In view of these and other facts the Postmaster General suggests that valuable dead letters, when returned to their owners, should be charged trebel the ordinary rate of postage, comprising one rate for return transportation to the dead letter office, one rate for registration there, and one rate for return transportation to the writers or owners.

A treaty with Mexico has been concluded, awaiting the ratification at Mexico, establishing a common international rate of twenty-five cents on letters, with other useful provisions.

The Postmaster General has accepted the offer made in 1857 by Great Britain for a reduction of the international rate between the two countries on letters from twenty four to twelve cents, which, however, has not yet gone into operation, as it awaits the response of the British office.

The above abstract presents merely a few of the points of the important report.

The Postmaster General gives at length his reason for the change of contracts, for disloyalty. Not only was it unsafe, he says, to entrust the transportation of the mails to a person who refused or failed to recognize the sanctity of an oath, but to continue payment of public money to the enemies of the government and their allies was to give direct aid and comfort to treason in arms. We could not thus permit this branch of government to contribute to its own overthrow.

The Postmaster General also gives his reasons for excluding disloyal publications from the mails. To await the result of slow judicial prosecution was to allow crime to be consummated, with the expectation of subsequent punishment, instead of preventing its accomplishment by prompt and direct interference. Of the cases presented for his action, upon the principles which he names, he has, by order, excluded from the mails twelve of these treasonable publications, of which several had been previously presented by the grand jury as incendiary and hostile to constitutional authority.

The Capture of Mason and Slidell---A British Precedent to the Point.

Just before the outbreak of our war with Mexico Mr Slidell was sent on a mission to that country, but his diplomacy proved fruitless, for he encountered, at the head of the Mexican government, a bitter enemy of our country in General Paredes, who, a couple of years later, furnished a precedent for us in the case of the Minister whom he then foiled.

The war broke out, and in 1846 Paredes was forced to give way for the popular chief; and, while attempting to escape from Mexico was captured and kept in close confinement in the Castle of Perote. By the interposition of friends he was finally allowed to retire to Europe, whence after a year, he returned to Vera Cruz via Havana, on the 14th of August, 1847, in the British mail steamer Teviot, commanded by Captain May. Paredes landed very early in the morning, under the assumed name of Martinez, and, immediately repairing to the house of a Mexican, procured horses, and was soon beyond pursuit on his way to the interior.

Col. Wilson, our commanding officer at Vera Cruz in reporting these facts to the government at Washington, declares "that it is a well-known fact, ascertained from passengers, that the captain of the steamer was aware of the character of his passenger," though that character was at the time, in fact, not official, and only remarkable for the ex-General's known hostility to the United States.

On the 14th of September, 1847, Mr. Buchanan, then Secretary of State, complained, of this conduct in a dispatch to Mr. Bancroft, our Minister to the Court of St. James, and directed him to require satisfaction for the breach of neutrality.

"A neutral vessel," said Mr. Buchanan, "which carries a Mexican officer of high military rank to Mexico, for the purpose of taking part in hostilities to our country, is liable to confiscation, according to the opinion of Sir William Scott, in the case of the Orozimbo (6th Robinson's Reports, page 430), and this even although her captain and officers were ignorant that they had such a person on board. This is their lookout. Such ignorance is no excuse, because it is their duty to inquire into the character of their passengers. The consequence is the same to the belligerent as if they had acted with full knowledge. 'Otherwise,' in the language of a distinguished jurist, 'such opportunities of conveyance would be constantly used, and it would be almost impossible, in the greater number of cases, to prove the knowledge and purity of the immediate offenders.'"

On the 8th of October Mr. Bancroft addressed the following letter to Lord Palmerston, the present Premier:

"90 Eaton Square, Oct. 8, 1847.

"My Lord—In consequence of instructions from the American government, I called at the Foreign office a few days ago to represent to your Lordship the conduct of Captain May, of the British mail steamer Teviot, who, unmindful of his duty as a neutral, and using improperly the extraordinary privilege which the American government has granted to British mail steamers ever since the commencement of the present war with Mexico, in the month of August last brought from the Havana to Vera Cruz General Paredes, late President of Mexico, the author of the war of Mexico against the United States, and their avowed and embittered enemy. By the principles of British law, according to the opinion of Sir William Scott (6 Robinson's Reports, 430) Captain May has rendered the Teviot liable to confiscation, or the President of the United States might effectually prevent similar aid to the enemy by withdrawing from these steamers the privilege of entering the port of Vera Cruz. But I am confident her Majesty's government will render such steps unnecessary by adopting efficient measures to prevent for the future such violations of their neutrality. If Captain May, or any of his officers implicated in this serious charge, are officers in the British service, I feel bound to ask for their dismissal, or punishment in such other way as may clearly manifest that the British government has disapproved their conduct.

"I have the honor to be, my lord, with high consideration, your Lordship's obedient, humble servant,

"GEORGE BANCROFT.

"Viscount Palmerston, &c., &c., &c."

To this demand the following conclusive and satisfactory replies were returned by his Lordship:

Foreign Office, Oct. 12, 1847.

"Sir—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 8th inst., stating that you have been instructed by the government of the United States to complain that Captain May, of the British mail steamer Teviot, violated the belligerent rights of the United States by bringing the Mexican General Paredes from Havana to Vera Cruz in the month of August last; and I have to inform you that I have referred the above complaint to the proper department of her Majesty's government, in order that the charge brought against the captain of the Tevoit may be officially investigated.

"I have the honor to be, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

PALMERSTON.

"George Bancroft, Esq." &c., &c.

"Foreign Office, Nov. 16, 1847.

"Sir—In answer to your letter of the 8th inst., complaining of the conduct of Captain May, of the British mail steamer Tevoit, in having conveyed General Paredes from the Havana to Vera Cruz in the month of August last, I have the honor to state to you that the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty having investigated the circumstances of this affair, her Majesty's government have informed the Directors of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, to whom the steamer Tevoit belongs, that the Directors are bound to testify, in a marked manner, their disapproval of Captain May's conduct in having thus abused the indulgence afforded to the company's vessels by the government of the United States; and the Directors have accordingly stated to her Majesty's government that they will immediately suspend Captain May from his command, and that they publicly and distinctly condemn any act on the part of their officers which may be regarded as a breach of faith towards the government of the United States, or as an infringement or invasion of the regulations established by the United States officers in those parts of Mexico which are occupied by the forces of the United States.

"I have the honor to be, with high consideration, sir, your most obedient, humble servant,

"PALMERSTON.

"George Bancroft, Esq, &c, &c."

Thus was the precedent set by Great Britain herself, as unquestionable public law, in the case of a person who, without any actual official character—and really an exile and adventurer—was only known to be a prominent enemy of the United States, who had formerly enjoyed high political and military rank in his country, which was then unhappily at war with ours.

The Abolition Plot in Congress.

Washington, Dec. 11.

The events of the first week of the session of Congress have proved the correctness of the views expressed in my letter of Nov. 27. The opposition to the President on the part of the radical and ultra members of Congress, has taken the form of a regular organization. This organization is led by Sumner and Trumbull in the Senate, and by Lovejoy and Thad Stephens in the House. They boast that they can command 77 votes in the House, and a clear majority in the Senate, and do not hesitate to express their designs openly. They declare they have nothing to hope from the President, who, they are convinced, is false to all his pledges, and has sold himself to the slaveholders. But, at the same time, they assert that they fear nothing that the President can do to thwart their designs. They are confident of being able, in the course of the next two months, to command a two-third vote in both houses on any question that they may bring up. As soon as they reach that point, they propose to carry, over the President's veto (for they know he will veto them), the following measures:

1. A joint resolution declaring that slavery is the cause of the war, and that it is impossible to bring the war to a successful issue without abolishing slavery wherever it exists;

2 The total and unconditional repeal of the fugitive slave law;

3. The passage of a bill declaring free, and ordering our Generals to offer freedom to, all slaves who shall leave their masters;

4. The passage of a bill confiscating all the property of the rebels, including their slaves;

5. The passage of a joint resolution requesting the President to dismiss Gen. McClellan, and to appoint Gen. Banks Commander-in-Chief of the armies of the United States in his place;

6. The passage of a bill obliterating the boundary line between the States of North Carolina and South Carolina, consolidating the two States into one, and calling the new State "Carolina."

The bill for effecting these objects are already drawn up, and are being privately circulated. I have seen a complete set of them (one of each) with interlineations and erasures in the hand-writing of one of the great high priests of abolitionism.

The President is fully aware of the powerful combination that has been formed against him. And while I will do him the justice to say that he is insensible to fear, I must also add that he lacks that firmness and decision of character which alone can enable him to withstand it effectually, and to overcome it. One of the most prominent characteristics of his mind is his habit of permitting matters to drift on and to regulate themselves. The historian who, in future years, writes the history of this war will show that this, and this alone, was the cause of the fall of Fort Sumpter. To use his own homely illustration, he wants "to run the machine as he finds it," and is unwilling to take the responsibility of putting it in that order in which alone it ought to run. On the present occasion, it is in his power to rally around him not only all the conservative men in Congress, but all the conservative men in the nation, and to crush this atrocious conspiracy in the bud. But up to this hour he has done nothing in that direction. Nay, worse than that, he is inclined to temporize with the unscrupulous faction which is undermining his administration. The whole country awaited his message with breathless suspense. But the whole country turns away from it, sick with disappointment. It is silent on the very topic of all others that the nation is most anxious to have settled. Mr. Lincoln has had the reputation of being plain and straightforward. But he has been anything but plain and straightforward in his public messages. No one could tell whether his inaugural meant peace or war. The whole country wrangled over it until the guns of Fort Sumpter settled that point. In this message he will not say what ought to be done towards the negroes. The only point on which he is explicit is his re-affirmation that the Chicago platform is a law unto him. If, instead of his faux pas, Mr. Lincoln had said frankly in his message that he preferred a course towards the slaves, such as has been inaugurated by Gen. Dix and Gen. Halleck, there would have been no more doubts as to where he stands. That one declaration would have rallied around him all the conservative men in the nation. Every conservative member of Congress, too, would have rallied to his support, and he would have found himself at the head of a party in Congress powerful enough to defy the radicals to do their worst. He may do so yet. He cannot do so now.

From Port Royal.

New York, Dec. 17,

A private letter from Beaufort says that the stone fleet which sailed from Savannah for Charleston, in company with a man-of-war ship, was to be sunk in Charleston harbor Saturday last.

Tybee Island is occupied by one thousand men, who are to throw up batteries to use against Fort Pulaski, if necessary. The sloop-of-war Savannah, and 3 or 4 gun-boats were off Tybee Island. The steamer Baltic, with 1,000 troops, left Port Royal for Fernandina, with the Bienville, and another gun boat. The fortification there consists of a battery of 5 guns, manned by 200 or 300 men. It is thought it will fall into our hands after a brief struggle.

Rebel Vessels Excluded from Egyptian Ports.—Mr. Thayer, American Consul General at Alexandria, writes to the State Department:

"I have the honor to announce that the Viceroy of Egypt has again shown his good will to the United States by directing the Captains of the Port of Alexandria to exclude all vessels bearing an unrecognized flag from the harbors of Egypt Instructions to this effect, I am informed by the Minister of Foreign Affairs, were issued about two weeks ago in consequence of a suggestion addressed to his Highness by the Consulate General. At an interview which I had with him on the 3d of November, at Cairo, his Highness assured me that no privateers in the service of the domestic enemies of the United States will be allowed to be fitted out, or to bring their prizes in any part of his dominions."

☞ Rev. Peter Cartwight, in a recent camp sermon to Colonel Updenstaff's regiment, declares that he "will fight the rebels to the death, if for no other reason than for their breaking up the Democratic party."

Statement of the Purser of the Trent.

The following is the most material portion of the statement of the Purser of the "Trent," relating to the seizure of Mason and Slidell:

"We left Havana yesterday morning at 8 o'clock. This morning about half-past 11 we observed a large steamship ahead, and on a nearer approach found she was hove to, evidently awaiting us. We were then in the narrowest part of the Bahama Channel abreast of Paredon Grande lighthouse. As soon as we were well within range we had the first intimation of her nationality and intentions by a round shot being fired across our bows, and at the same moment by her showing American colors. We were now sufficiently near to observe that all her ports were open, guns run out, and crew at their stations. On a still nearer approach she fired a shell from a swivel gun, of large caliber on her forecastle, which passed within a few yards of the ship, bursting about a hundred yards to leeward

We were now within hail, when Captain Moir, commanding this ship, asked the American what he meant by stopping his ship, and why he did so by firing shotted guns, contrary to usual custom. The reply was that he wished to send a boat on board of us. This was immediately followed by a boat pushing off from the side of the San Jacinto, containing between twenty and thirty, men, heavily armed, under the command of the First Lieutenant, who came upon the quarter-deck, and, after asking for Captain Moir, demanded a list of passengers As his 'right of search' was denied, the information required was, of course peremptorily refused. He then stated that he had information that Messrs. Slidell, Mason, Eustis and McFarland were on board, and demanded that they should be given up. This also being indignantly refused, Mr. Slidell himself came forward and said that the four gentlemen named were before him, but appealed to the British flag, under which they were sailing for protection.

"The Lieutenant said that his orders were to take them on board the San Jacinto by force if they would not surrender. He then walked to the side of the ship and waved his hand; immediately three more heavily armed boats pushed off and surrounded the ship, and the party of marines who came in the first boat, came up and and took possession of the quarter-deck; these, however, he ordered down on the main-deck, to take charge of the gangway ports. Captain Williams, R. N., the naval agent in charge of the mails, who was of course present during this interview, then, in the name of her Majesty, he being the only person on board directly representing her, made a vehement protestation against this piratical act. During the whole of this time the San Jacinto was about two hundred yards distant from us on the port beam, her broadside guns, which were all manned, directly bearing upon us.

"Any open resistance to such a force was of course, hopeless, although, from the loud and repeated plaudits which followed Captain Williams' protestation, and which were joined in by every one, without exception, of the passengers congregated on the quarter-deck, men of all nations, and from the manifested desire of some to resist to the last, I have no doubt but that every person would have join d heart and soul in the struggle had our commander but given the order. Such an order he could not, under such adverse circumstances, conscientiously give, and it was therefore considered sufficient that a party of marines with bayonets fixed should lay hands on the gentlemen named. This was done, and the gentlemen retired to their cabins to arrange some few changes of clothing.

"A most heartrending scene now took place between Mr. Slidell, his eldest daughter, a noble girl devoted to her father, and the Lieutenant. It would require a far more able pen than mine to describe how, with flashing eyes and quivering lips, she threw herself in the doorway of the cabin where her father was, resolved to defend him with her life, till, on the order being given to the marines to advance, which they did with bayonets pointed at this poor defenseless girl, her father ended the painful scene by escaping from the cabin by a window, when he was immediately seized by the marines and hurried into the boat, calling out to Captain Moir as he left, that he held him and his government responsible for this outrage.

San Francisco, Dec. 13.

About $20,000 have been subscribed in this city for the relief of sufferers by the Sacramento flood. The water has been from two to twelve feet deep in nearly every house in that city. One-third of the city is still overflowed. The water is slowing receding.

The steamer Golden Age sailed for Panama to-day, carrying 400 passengers and $8,600 in treasure. Among the passengers is Gen. Shields, who accepts a Brigadier-Generalship.

The freshet from the recent rains extends throughout the valley and other portions of the State, doing immense damage to farmers, carrying off bridges, fences, &c. Parts of Stockton and Marysville were overflowed, as well as Sacramento. The entire number of lives lost is unknown. A number of brick buildings have fallen at Marysville—The loss of property at Sacramento is estimated at $500,000. Communications with many districts is cut off and business suspended. The weather for the past two days has been apparently settled, and the waters have seceded.

The funeral of Gen. Baker is engrossing the general attention at San Francisco to-day. The volunteer force and the State military and civic organizations, with citizens generally, make up the largest procession ever witnessed.

Trusting in a Broken Reed.—Some of the rebel prisoners in Fort Warren evidently have confidence in the ultimate success of the rebellion, and they amuse themselves singing, to the tune of "Dixie" a lot of doggerel, in which are the following lines:

"We have no fleet, we have no navies
But we put our trust in old Jeff Davis."

☞ When Colonel Corcoran was told that he was to be hung if one of the privateersmen were executed, he said:

"Well, sir, I am ready. When I engaged in this war I made up my mind to sacrifice my life, if necessary, in defence of that flag under which I have lived and gained an honorable position."

☞ Napoleon was not so extravagant as many people imagine, when he declared that, in modern times, "bayonets think." Is it not evident that every polished bayonet is capable of reflection.

England and the Mason-Slidell Arrest.

The news from England savors a little of brimstone, and yet we do not believe that our people or Government need be alarmed. Reports say that great indignation meetings were held at Liverpool and other places on receipt of the intelligence of the "outrage" upon the Trent, and the Government called upon to "maintain the dignity of the flag." The Press, too, waxed wrathy, and in leaded columns—not so dangerous as leaded cannon—poured out the besom of destruction upon the whole Yankee nation. The journals even announce that the Government has determined to demand an apology, and the delivery of the captured embassadors on board of an English vessel in presence of a dozen war steamers. A few journals, however, and influential ones, even sustain the arrest and advise the Government to act with coolness.

We have no space for the windy denunciations, and, as the Queen's messenger is already in Washington, we prefer to wait official action. If the English Cabinet had determined on a war with us before this affair of the Trent, it may make it a pretext, the English record is such that it can not make it the cause. We think the sober second thought of the English people will moderate their demands.

Throughout our country we see no exhibition of craven fear. The disposition is to advise our Government to plant itself upon the right, and if the laws of nations justifies the arrest of Mason and Slidell, to hold them and let the world howl.

—The first reports indicated that France would side with England in demanding redress, but later advices show that French sentiment is not in favor of hostilities.

"King Committee."

If the following paragraph, extracted from the Congressional proceedings of the 11th inst., is a truthful report, it is quite evident that the ultraists in Congress are aiming to indirectly—and not so indirectly, either—depose the President, and place all the power, at least all the military power, now exercised under the constitution and laws by that officer, in the hands of a Joint Committee of Congress. We quote:

"Mr. Chandler offered a resolution instructing the Military Committee to inquire into the expediency of appointing a Joint Committee of the two Houses of Congress, who shall have power to retire any improper officers of the army or navy." Agreed to.

Let the above contemplated Joint Committee be raised, and the President is no longer commander-in-chief, will no longer select the officers of the army and navy, or if he selects them they will be compelled to obey the behests of "King Committee" or be "retired." Raise such a Committee, and off go the heads of McClellan, Halleck, Dix, Sherman, and of all others who refuse to convert the war into an abolition raid; and the President will be compelled to fill their places with officers in favor of arming the negroes and turning them loose upon the people of the South, or leave them vacant. The "resolution of inquiry" means this if it means anything, and its adoption was a reflection upon the President. It matters not that the Constitution gives the President the power to appoint and remove officers, the Constitution stands in the way of fanatics and must stand one side.

A more dangerous proposition has not been advanced in Congress or out, and it stands the people in hand to look to it.

Great Fire at Charleston.

Norfolk and Richmond papers give details of the recent destructive fire at Charleston, S. C. The fire broke out in a sash and blind factory on the 11th inst., was speedily communicated to other buildings, and swept a broad track through the City from East Bay to King street. The Mercury says fifty-seven buildings were destroyed, including five churches, several hotels, and other public buildings. The loss is estimated at $7,000,000, and the list of sufferers from 200 to 300. The owner of the factory in which the fire originated, thinks it the work of an incendiary, or caused by the negligence of the negroes. Nothing is said of any insurrection, and the fact that the fire, if an incendiary one, was only set in one building, is an evidence that there was no conspiracy.

—The Confederate Congress, in view of the loss, has generously appropriated $250,000, "as an advance on account of the claims of South Carolina upon the Confederate States."

☞ The rumored evacuation of Fort Pulaski by the rebels, and its occupation by our troops, is probably unfounded. Our brave boys need not anticipate getting posession of that stronghold without a fight, at least not until the rebels have concluded to evacuate Savannah.

☞ Capt. Seymour, special messenger from the British government to Lord Lyons; also a special messenger from Minister Adams, arrived at Boston on Tuesday by the Europa, and left immediately for Washington.

Dr. Holland's Lecture.

It is to be expected that an attack upon the generally received opinions of men, will be met with violent opposition—Especially is this to be expected when the old maxims, the so called "wisdom of the ages," are pronounced false.—There are men in every community, small men usually, holding important positions, who fancy themselves to be living witnesses of the truth of such proverbs as the distinguished lecturer denounced.—In view of some adverse criticisms which have been made, founded, as we think upon a misapprehension of the lecture, it may not be amiss to present a brief abstract of it.

In the main, the propositions advanced are eminently truthful; and they were presented with an elegance of style, with a beauty and clearness of diction, and with an impressive, graceful eloquence, which are not often surpassed.

The power of "Self Help" distinguishes man from animals. All forces are of this power. It is the mainspring of industry. In this age there is a great deal of talk about self-help, self-culture, self education. In all this, there is a measure of truth; but, in the main, it is so fallacious, so mischievous that it is quite time that the idea is combatted. Teachers instil into the minds of students the notion, that they can rise to any position which they choose, in any profession; and enforce their instruction with such maxims as the following. "Where there is a will there is a way." One of the largest lies ever palmed off upon humanity. All men can not be rich. Look at the multitude in this country who will to be President. "Labor conquers all things."—Another lie. Put an ass to carry an elephant's burden, and his back will be broken. "Nothing is impossible to him who wills," a motto which he had seen over the door of a school house in Massachusetts. Led on by such allurements, the young choose professions for which they have no natural fitness, and, as a consequence, a large majority fail.

Every well made man is a self-made man. There is no process by which a man can be manufactured; no mill into which you can put a boy, and turn out a man. There are many self-made Governors, Congressmen, Judges, and office holders of all kinds; but few self-made men. The expression is usually applied to educated men who have not had the ordinary advantages of education, in contra-distinction to college-made men.—It is probably a fact that a majority of well-made men are college men; but most of the latter are mere machines; men who pray by rote and teach by rule, who prescribe the name of a drug for the name of a disease, and often lay down their lives, but oftener those of their patients.

The characteristic of self made men is individuality. Whether in college or out, they choose, they reject, they grow from the center. Power, in its quality and degree, is the measure of manhood Scholarship is not. Mere college-made men can tell what they have learned; but their learning is too often a dead weight upon them. They are fine ornamental men, make very respectable candidates for respectable offices, very fashionable prescribers for fashionable diseases, and unexceptionable preachers for very exceptionable congregations; but they are not the men to board with. In the slang phrase of the day "they can't keep a hotel." Self-made men may be abrupt, may scare and horrify you by their disregard of established opinions; but it is at their table you love to sit; they alone can satisfy you. They produce whatever is new.

Every man's natural ability is adapted to some purpose. Every man has individuality, and may be a self made man; but the fact is there is little individuality in the world. We are all soldiers of the King of Fashion, and march in battalions. Individuality is suppressed.

Every man is respectable, and grows in power, when in his place; neither is true, when out of it. "He who aims at the sun will shoot higher than he who aims at the earth." Another of those beautiful maxims. Better shoot a gray squirrel from a Virginia fence, than fire away at the sky. The maxim is applied to choice of business, rather than to excellence in that for which one is fitted.—Doubtless, it is a fact, that there are more men in the professions of law and medicine than the world has need of.—He spoke with more hesitancy of the christian ministry, as it was a delicate subject. Most of this class are actuated to a choice of their profession from a sense of duty, rather than a sense of fitness. He believed them to be the least corrupted and least corruptible class of men; but of them few are self-made men; few are a power in the world. It seemed to him that it would be a more christian thing to be a first rate farmer, mechanic or tradesman, than to be a fifth rate minister—a mere mouth-piece of a certain school. He spoke with less delicacy of the other professions. They are usually chosen from different motives. Boys who "aim high" commonly expect to be lawyers or doctors; yet there are few first rate men in these professions. Think how delicate and sacred the duties entrusted to the physician, how rare the qualitics of mind and heart capable of fulfilling them, and then think of the men turned out by our medical schools—Bob Sawyers—and marvel not that a Professor distinguished alike at the dissecting and the breakfast table has said, that "if all the drugs were thrown into the sea, it would be all the better for man, and worse for the fishes."

It requires rare ability for a good lawyer. Place those of your acquaintance under one of these heads, and judge for yourselves: those of eminence: those of respectability; those of mediocrity; and those of inferiority A man has no right to be in a position where he is inferior.—When Eve, our respected Grand-Mother, did that thing which brought sin into the world, the lecturer feared that she did also that thing which brought lawyers, doctors, and ministers. During the millennium they will be little needed.

He deprecated the prizes set up in our schools. Manhood is the highest prize.—The child is not taught that a self made Governor is not a self made man. He is less. There is no danger so threatening to our country, even in these times of war, as the ambition of small men for office, and the ease with which they gain it.

All true self-making must be with reference to self-hood. Colleges treat men in masses. All are put through the same text books. The man who puts himself to what he craves, in or out of college, has an advantage over the routinest.

Nearly all men make themselves after they leave college. They drop the books which do not aid them. In the conflict of life it is a question of brains and power—what a man can do.

When a man finds that to which he is adopted, there he can find his manhood. It is better to be a christian than a philosopher; better to be a man (begging pardon of the ladies) than anything else. Manhood is the measure of man. There is no work to which God puts you that is menial or mean. Much dirtier work is done in politics and the professions than bootblacking.

The loss of individuality is the greatest calamity. He who has found his place is the happy man. Q.

From Stockton's Regiment.

Hall's Hill, Va., Dec. 11th, 1861.

Dear Brother:—

On Friday morning, Dec. 6th, furnished with a pass signed by the Orderly Sergeant; by Lieut. Swan acting Captain of Company A; by Col. Stockton, Colonel of the Regiment; and by the Adjutant of Gen. Butterfield, I started for the city of Washington. The pass was in the following words:

"Sergeant Jared Pond has permission to be absent from camp from 6 o'clock A. M. to 6 o'clock this P. M., for the purpose of visiting Washington, to purchase necessary clothing and transact other business. His tent is in good order, his apparel and accoutrements clean, and he has not been in arrest during the month."

This pass (dated and signed of course) was to take me across the Potomac, and into the city of Washington; and when there all of "Uncle Sam's" officers were to respect it and let me go up and down the streets at my leisure. I left camp at 7 o'clock, A. M., and took a short cut across the country for Georgetown, striking the Potomac at the Acqueduct, on which I crossed into Georgetown.—There is a sentinel stationed at each end of the Acqueduct, whose business it is to examine passes and let no one pass without one. Here, for the first time, mine was examined, found all right, and I was permitted to pass out of Virginia into the District of Columbia.

Reaching Georgetown, I took an omnibus and soon found myself riding down Pennsylvania Avenue toward the Capitol building. On being set down I made my way for this building. Having but a little time to stay, and Congress not being in session, I saw but little. I went through the rotunda and into the gallery of the Senate Hall, in both of which were to be seen plenty of soldiers and but few civilians. The vaults under the Capitol is now used for a bakery, and there hundreds of teams may be daily seen loading bread, to be taken to the soldiers on this and the other side of the Potomac.

After a few moments spent looking around, I made my way once more to the Avenue, but I had not proceeded far before I met a squad of soldiers, the officer of which commanded me to "halt," and I "halted," when he demanded if I had a "pass?" I pulled it out and passed it to him; and after examining it he passed it back, with the remark "all right," and I passed on to 9th Street, up which I went to the place of business of Goodridge. I found him well. After a short time spent here, in company with him I visited the Patent Office. Time would not permit but a hasty glance through one room, when we went to the Post Office, where we parted. A part of this building they have appropriated to supplies for the army; and here you may see the mail carrier going off with letters for the soldiers, and teams loading with supplies.

From here I made my way again to Pennsylvania Avenue. While standing on the corner of the Avenue and 4½ Street, the Hon. Mr. Granger came along He invited me to his room, which is situated on 4½ Street, a few doors from the Avenue. After spending a few moments there I made my way to the Avenue, took a Hack and started for home, via. Georgetown. On reaching Georgetown the Hack was stopped by a squad of soldiers and my pass was demanded, found all right, and I was permitted to pass. On reaching the Acqueduct, again my pass was demanded, and again on the Virginia side, where they also search soldiers to see if they have any liquor about them. I now made tracks for Hall's Hill, which I reached at 7 o'clock, P. M. Washington is something of a City, but it is too far from Ann Arbor to ever amount to a great sum

On Sunday, this whole regiment was detailed to do picket guard duty. At 8 o'clock, A. M., we took up our line of march for our lines. The day was pleasant It was warm as summer. The sun shone beautifully, it was just the day for a march, a day that made one feel good. Company A went on guard at camp on Saturday morning, came off on Sunday morning, and after twenty-four hours duty, immediately formed under the command of Lieut. Swan, who, by the way, is just the man to go out on such an expediton with, and took their position on the right of the regiment, ready for a seven mile march, over a rough country, forty eight hours duty, and a fight if necessary. The regiment was under the command of Major Welch. On our way we passed by the camp of the Michigan Fourth, and I saw and had a short conversation with Capt. Randolph. He had just returned from Ann Arbor, and I was glad to hear so directly from home.

At 10½ o'clock, A. M., we reached our destination, and Company A took up its headquarters in an old log house, situated on the pike a few miles from Fall's Church, from which position we had a splendid view of the surrounding country. From these quarters our relief was stationed and deployed. The guards are stationed along the line by twos, and the posts are but a short distance apart. They have small sheds built of rails standing upright against the limbs of trees, or built of bushes, which protect them from the storm, and from which they can see from station to station, and towards the enemy's line It is their business to let no one pass them into the enemy's country, and to let no one approach near them from the enemy's country. If they see any one skulking around, their orders are to shoot them

The first night out a few guns were fired from our pickets, at imaginary objects, I presume, as some of the timid ones imagine that every object they see is a rebel. The night passed away without any serious alarm, although signal lights were seen in plenty of places in the enemy's country. On Monday afternoon we received information that the pickets of the division South of us had been driven in, and that a number of regiments had been sent out for their support. Monday night passed quietly, and nothing happened more serious than the shooting of a hog by one of the men of our regiment. At 11 o'clock, Tuesday morning, we were relieved, and started for home, which we reached late in the afternoon, in good spirits.

This morning the regiment was called in from drill by a dispatch from Gen. Butterfield Our canteens are filled with water, and our haversacks with provisions, and we are expecting marching orders every minute, What is up I can not say, but probably the pickets have again been driven in.

The weather, which had been for the last week as warm and fine as a Michigan summer, has changed; and to-day the wind blows a perfect gale, accompanied occasionally with rain; and it is growing cold.

J. P.

☞ Col. Innes' regiment of Fusileers left Marshall on Tuesday last for Kentucky. Michigan is paying Kentucky the debt she has owed since the gallant spirits of that State came so nobly to the rescue in the war of 1812.

☞ Fort Wayne, below Detroit, is now garrisoned by 100 regular cavalry, of Companies B and F, Third Regiment, under the command of Capt. Gibbs. It is understood that the Fort is to be put on a war footing, guns mounted, magazines filled, walls strengthened, etc.

☞ On the second day of the session of Congress Mr. Holman, of Indiana, introduced a resolution reaffirming the declaration of the Crittenden resolution of the extra session that the war was to be prosecuted to sustain the Government and put down the rebellion, and for no other purpose, not even to destroy slavery. We give the spirit and not the words. This resolution was tabled by a decisive vote, but we are happy to see that Hon. B. F. Granger, of this district voted no on the motion to table. Messrs. Beaman and Trowbridge voted aye, and Mr. Kellogg was absent

☞ Messrs Wade, Chandler, and Johnson, of Tennessee, have been appointed by the President of the Senate a committee to investigate the general conduct of the war, and especially, we suppose, the disaster at Bull Run and Ball's Bluff. An appropriate committee, two thirds of it having aided in the retreat at Bull Run.

☞ The Eleventh regiment Michigan Infantry—Col. May left White Pigeon on Tuesday of last week for Kentucky, and now forms a part of Gen. Buell's division. It will probably get a taste of active service soon.

☞ Capt. Gordon Granger, of the regular cavalry service, has been appointed Colonel of the Second Michigan Cavalry, and has assumed the command. He is reputed one of the best cavalry officers in the service.

☞ Congress has yet done little or nothing but discuss the slavery question. It evidently thinks the constitution an "old fogy" instrument, and that the nation and white men have no rights that it is bound to respect. After the holidays we hope work will begin.

☞ The Secretary of War asks an apropriation of $710,000 for putting our coast defenses in order from the lakes to San Francisco.

☞ The fortifications around Washington are forty in number, extend thirty-five miles, and mount 300 guns.

☞ W. H. Johnson, a private in one of the New York regiments, convicted on a charge of attempting to desert to the enemy, was shot on Friday last, near Fairfax Seminary, by order of Gen. McClellan. It is the first military execution which has taken place.

Dried Beef.—Slice dried beef very thin, put it in the spider with water sufficient to cook it tender, add sweet cream (or sweet milk with a little butter will answer;) let the milk come to a boil; stir in a little flour previously wet with cold milk, and let it boil long enough to cook the flour. This is an excellent dish to eat with baked potatoes. Try it.

The Sumpter takes a British Brig.

New York, Dec. 14.

Captain Briggs, of the British brig James Park, reports that she was overhauled by the pirate Sumpter, which had the American flag flying, in lat. 60° north, long. 42° west, when he was ordered to heave to, and an officer came on board, saying the brig was a prize to the Sumpter. At the same time the pirate run up his rag, hauling down the American flag. The brig was thoroughly overhauled, and everything valuable robbed from her, we only being allowed our clothes. 165 sovereigns were taken from Captain Briggs, who, with his crew, was put aboard the pirate, and the vessel burnt. The Sumpter sailed northward, not losing steam, and reporting herself to various foreign vessels as an United States craft. On October 27th the schooner D. Trowbridge was captured.

Rebel Demand for Trunks.—The Charleston Mercury says the sale of trunks in that city was unusually brisk. Frightened traders were packing up their goods and sending them to the interior in large quantities, until Gen. Lee put a stop to their unmanly doings. Pretty soon this demand will exceed all other demands.

ATTENTION.

Kind friends having reported that I gave up and failed in raising my company, having, no doubt, in view the high and honorable motive of interfering with my recruiting service, I take the utmost pleasure in informing them that they are entirely mistaken, as I intend and shall muster in before Christmas, having now more than half of the men required and am positive that I will soon have the balance. Therefore let those who wish to enlist in my company call at once at my Head Quarters, in J. M. Gould's store and be sworn in.

NEW YEAR'S EVE HOP.—The third hop of the "Young Men's Cotillion Club" takes place Tuesday Evening Dec. 31.—Their hops heretofore have been well attended, and there is every reason to believe this one will be the largest and pleasantest of the series The managers are making extensive preparations, and we have no doubt their efforts will be appreciated, and that Haugsterfer's Hall will be crowded.

☞ We have received the January number of the Ladies' Repository—Its engravings are a "View on the Esopus," a beautiful landscape; a portrait of Sir Henry Havelock; and "Learning to Ride," a superb Vignette title. The contents are varied, and we need not say excellent, for the literature of the Repository is always of the highest order. As now is the season for selecting and subscribing for periodicals, we commend the Repository to all who would give their families a pure literature. $2 a year Address POE & HITCHCOCK, Cincinnati, Ohio.

☞ TOOKER, Photographer, Exchange Block, has taken a number of Stereoscopic Views in and around Ann Arbor, which, besides being admirably executed, are really fine pictures. Our citizens would do well to purchase these Views and send them to distant friends. It would both make our beautiful City favorably known abroad and encourage TOOKER to enlarge his operations.

☞ We have received the January number of Peterson's Magazine, and a good number it is, promising much for the coming year. Its illustrations are numerous and beautiful, and, besides, the ladies will find them useful. The table of contents embraces a large list of papers from well known and popular pens; in fact Peterson always brings something readable. Now is the time to subscribe. $2.00 a year; three copies $5.00; five copies $7.50. Address CHAS. J PETERSON, 306 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

—Peterson and the Argus for $2.75 a year.

☞ Among the most welcome weekly visitants to our editorial table, for several years past, has been the Rural New Yorker. Its large, clean looking, beautifully printed pages are always attractive, and then the several departments are filled with matter to interest and instruct. It is a first class family paper and especially commends itself to every person who cultivates half an acre or a farm. We recommend it to our friends with confidence. $2 a year; three copies $5; ten copies, and one gratis to agent, $15; twenty copies, and an extra one to agent, $25. Address D. D. T. MOORE, Rochester, N Y.

☞ We have received the January number of the Eclectic Magazine. It brings two magnificent historical engravings: "The Wife of Bunyan interceding for his release from prison," engraved by Sartain from the orignal painting by Duval; and "The Battle of Bunker Hill," engraved by Perine from Trumbull's painting. These engravings are accompanied by descriptive articles, and the latter also by a paper upon the Battle of Bunker Hill, by EVERETT. Besides, we have nineteen papers from eleven leading foreign periodicals, and all but two of them from periodicals not reprinted in this country. The Eclectic contains monthly 144 large, double column pages, and each number superbly illustrated, making three valuable volumes yearly. $5 a year. Address W. H. BIDWELL, 5 Beekman street, N. Y.

CHRISTMAS VACATION.—The several Public Schools of this City will close on Tuesday next and open again on Monday, January 6th. Unless the weather changes the boys will have to postpone sliding down hill and seek some other amusement.

☞ Those Photographic Albums, Photographic Portraits, Engravings, Frames, Stereoscopes and Stereoscopic Views, at SCHOFF & MILLER'S, are going off rapidly, an evidence that Santa Claus is to make many a heart glad on Wednesday next. A HINT FOR THE SOLDIERS' AID SOCIETY.—We find the following paragraph in a late letter from Washington to the Detroit Tribune, and commend it to the consideration of the ladies of the Soldiers' Aid Society of this City, and to other similar societies in the county. Speaking of the organization in Washington of a "Michigan Soldier's Relief Association," the writer to the Tribune says:

"It has been recently ascertained that large amounts of blankets, clothing, hospital stores, &c., forwarded from the several States to the Sanitary Committee, have been for months lying in the depots and warehouses uncalled for and untouched, while the soldiers for whom these comforts were intended, have languished and suffered from the want thereof. I hope Michigan will send no more donations to any but Michigan men, and then only through organizations (for that purpose) of Michigan men. The Committees of this association are already at work investigating the condition and wants of our men, preparatory to the distribution of any goods or stores which may be forwarded to it from the Aid Societies of our State or elsewhere."

Judge EDMUNDS, Commissioner of the General Land Office, is President of the Association, and H. J. ALVORD, Secretary, and packages addressed to their care will be sure to reach their destination, and not rot in store-houses

A Fight n Kentucky.

Louisville. Dec 17.

Four companies of Wilch's German Indiana regiment was attacked this afternoon, on the South side of Green river, opposite Mumfordsville, by Col Terry's regiment of Texan rangers, two regiments of infantry, and six pieces of artillery Willch was reinforced, and drove the rebels back with a loss of 33 killed including Terry, and 50 wounded The Federal loss was 8 privates and 1 Lieutenant killed, and 16 wounded

The Democrat has advices of the Federal forces crossing Green River, going Southward all day with great rapidity.

The Democrat also has a business letter, dated Somerset, Monday, which mentions no engagement in that vicinity. The Twelth Kentucky regiment, Col. Haskins, is intrenched two miles south of Somerset. All was quiet in the vicinity of Campbellsville up to the 16th inst.

IRON-CLAD SHIPS.—By order of Congress the Secretary of the Navy appointed on the 8th of August a board of officers to investigate plans for the construction of iron clad ships The officers were Commodores Jos. Smith and Paulding and Captain C. H Davis They have handed in their report, in which they express the belief that iron clad ships, though fitted for harbor defences and for special operations on coasts, will not be successful as cruisers.

OHIO AND THE WAR.—The Columbus Statesman says that the State of Ohio had expended up to November 15th about $1,525 000 on account of the war, about a million of which is due back from the United States Government. The expenditures have all been inside the appropriation made by the Legislature.

PRIZE POETRY.

Let Chieftains boast of deeds in war,
And Minstrels tune their sweet guitar,
A nobler theme my heart is filled—
In praise of HERRICK'S matchless pills.

Their cures are found in every land—
Amid Russia's snows—and Afric's sands;
The wondrous works—the papers fill.
Produced by HERRICK'S matchless Pills.

Does disease afflict you? never doubt
This charming compound will search it out,
And health again your system fill,
If you fly at once to HERRICK'S Pills.

They're safe for all—both old and young—
Their praises are on every tongue;
Disease, disarmed—no longer kills,
Since we are blessed with HERRICK'S Pills.

MOTHERS READ THIS.

The following is an extract from a letter written by the pastor of a Baptist Church to the "Journal and Messenger," Cincinnati, Ohio, and speaks volumes in favor of that world renowned medicine—MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING:

"We see an advertisement in your columns of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. Now we never said a word in favor of a patent medicine before in our life, but we feel compelled to say to your readers, that this is no humbug—WE HAVE TRIED IT, AND KNOW IT TO BE ALL IT CLAIMS. It is, probably one of the most successful medicines of the day, because it is one of the best. And those of your readers who have babies can't do it better than to try in a supply."

IMPORTANT TO FEMALES
DR. CHEESEMAN'S
FEMALE REGULATING
PILLS

THE HEALTH AND LIFE OF WOMAN is continually in peril if she is mad enough to neglect or maltreat those sexual irregularities to which two-thirds of her sex are more or less subject.

DR. CHEESEMAN'S PILLS, prepared from the same formula which the inventor, CORNELIUS L. CHEESEMAN M. D., of New-York, has for twenty years used successfully in an extended private practice—immediately relieve without pain, all disturbances of the periodical discharge, whether arising from relaxation or suppression. They act like a charm in removing the pains that accompany difficult or immoderate menstruation, and are the only safe and reliable remedy for Flushes, Sick Headache, Pains in the Loins, Back and Sides, Palpitation of the Heart Nervous Tremors, Hysterics, Spasms, Broken Sleep and other unpleasant and dangerous effects of an unnatural condition of the sexual functions In the worst cases of Fluor Albus or Whites, they effect a speedy cure.

To WIVES and MATRONS.

DR. CHEESEMAN'S PILLS are offered as the only safe means of renewing interrupted menstruation, but.

LADIES MUST BEAR IN MIND

There is one condition of the female system in which the Pills cannot be taken without producing a PECULIAR RESULT. The condition referred to is PREGNANCY—the result, MISCARRIAGE. Such is the irresistible tendency of the medicine to restore the sexual functions to a normal condition, that even the reproductive power of nature cannot resist it

Explicit directions stating when, and when they should not be used, with each Box.—the Price One Dollar each Box, containing 50 Pills.

A valuable Pamphlet to be had free of the Agents, Pills sent by mail promptly, by enclosing price to any Agent. Sold by Druggists generally.

Hurrah for the Union! Death to its Enemies!

ATTENTION!

100 able-bodied steady young men

WANTED! FOR

MEN OF WASHTENAW!

Most of you have known me for the last 17 years, and now in this hour of our country's need, I confidently appeal to your patriotism in aiding me to raise a Company of 100 true, brave and steady young men, willing and ready to stand by me in fighting the enemies of our beloved Union. TO SUCH MEN I pledge my honor and life to see them well treated, and in ever order them to go where I would not be ready to lead. COME ON! you brave, patriotic boys, your time has come, give me the opportunity of proving the truth of my words, and I will enlist you in the most dashing and effective corps of this or any other country's service. It has never been surpassed in splendor and executica in the field. Our equipment is to be complete and every way similar to the 16th English Lancers. Our Colonel, Honorable ARTHUR RANKIN, is a gentleman of indomitable energy and experience in military matters, as well as a brave and accomplished officer. His wish is to make his Regiment a model one in every respect, and mine, BOYS OF WASHTENAW, is to make Buchoz' Company of Lancers stand A No. 1 in that Regiment.

With such men all I desire is that the enemy should give us an opportunity to make them feel (Lancers fashion) of what metal the Washtenaw boys are made of. And now my friends who have been waiting for me to get over my broken leg scrape and get my commission, I am ready for you, and the sooner you show your welcome faces and sign your name on the Muster Roll the better your friend and Captain will like it.

DR. HOOFLAND'S BALSAMIC CORDIAL,

For the speedy cure of Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Croup, Hoarseness, Bronchitis Pneumonia, Diseases of the Bowels, arising from Cold, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief and (at all possible) cure of Patients in advanced stages of the latter disease.

THE Balsamic Cordial is entirely a Vegetable production, combining the healing properties of the Balsam, with the invigorating qualities of a Cordial, producing a combination so well adapted to the purposes intended, that there are but few cases of disease which will not, at an early period, succumb to its healing and life giving properties.

For ages, has the treatment of pulmonary diseases occupied the greater portion of the attention of the scientific of the medical world, but none acquired more eminence in his treatment of these diseases, than the celebrated Prussian, Dr. Hoofland, the originator of the Balsamic Cordial. His life was devoted to the production of remedies that would stand unrivalled. How well he has succeeded, the American people are able to judge; and we positively assert, that no preparations that have ever been placed before them, have conferred the same amount of benefit on suffering humanity, or have elicited so many commendations from all classes of society, as the remedies of Dr. Hoofland, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson & Co., of Philadelphia.

The Cordial is designed for a class of diseases more general and more fatal than any other to which the people of this country are subject—those springing from a "slight cold." That eminent authority, Dr Bell, says: "I will not say that Cobs are to our inhabitants what the Plague and Yellow Fever are to those of other countries; but I can aver confidently that they usher in diseases of greater complicity and mortality than these latter."

Entirely Vegetable. No Alcoholic Preparation.

DR. HOFLAND'S
CELEBRATED
GERMAN BITTERS
Prepared by
DR. C. M. JACKSON & CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

Will effectually cure LIVER COMPLAINT, DYSPEPSIA, JAUNDICE, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Diseases of the Kidneys, and all diseases arising from a disordered Liver or Stomach.

Such as Constipation, Inward Piles, Fulness or Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heart burn, Disgust for Food, Fulness or weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried and Difficult Breathing Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating sensations when in a lying posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots of webs before the sight, Fever and Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back Chest, Limbs, &c. Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of evil, and great Depression of Spirits, and will positively prevent YELLOW FEVER, BILLIOUS FEVER, &c

The Proprietor in calling the attention of the public to this preparation, does so with a feeling of the utmost confidence in its virtues and adaptation to the diseases for which it is recommended.

It is no new and untried article, but one that has stood the test of a twelve years' trial before the American people, and its reputation and sale are unrivalled by any similar preparations extant. The testimony in its favor given by the most prominent and well-known Physicians and individuals in all parts of the country is immense, and a carefull perusal of the Almanac, published annually by the Proprietors, and to be had gratis of any of their Agents, cannot but satisfy the most skeptical that this remedy is really deserving the great celebrity it has obtained

Read the Evidence

From J. Newton Brown D. D., Editor of the Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge.

Although not disposed to favor or recommend Patent Medicines in general, through distrust of their ingredients and effects, I yet know of no sufficient reason why a man may not testify to the benefit he believes himself to have received from any simple preparation, in the hope that he may thus contribute to the benefit of others.

I do this the more readily in regard to "Hoofland's German Bitters," prepared by Dr C. M. Jackson, of this city, because I was prejudiced against them for years, under the impression that they were chiefly an alcoholic mixture. I am indebted to my friend Robert Shoemaker, Esq., for the removal of this prejudice by proper tests, and for encouragement to try them, when suffering from great and long continued debility. The use of three bottles of these Bitters, at the beginning of the present year, was followed by evident relief, and restoration to a degree of bodily and mental vigor which I had not felt for six months before, and had almost despaired of regaining. I therefore thank God and my friend for directing me to the use of them. J. NEWTON BROWN.

Turkeys.—If young the legs will be black and smooth, the eyes lively and the feet pliable. If old, the eyes will be sunk and the feet dry. Geese.—If young, the bill will be yellow and the feet limber. If old, the bill will be red and dry. Hens.—If their combs and legs are rough, they are old; if smooth and limber they are young. Wild and Tame Ducks.—If young they will be limber footed: If old fat, hard and thick on the lower part of the body. A wild duck has red feet and smaller than tame ones. Partridges.—If young, will have a black bill and yellow legs; if old, the bill will be white and the legs blue. Old fowls, tame and wild, may be told by their hard, rough or dry feet. Hares and Rabbits.—If young, they will be white and stiff; the ears will tear like brown paper.—If old, the flesh will be dark, the body limber, and ears tough.

Salt for the Throat.

In these days, when diseases of the throat are so universally prevalent, and so many cases fatal, we feel it our duty to say a word in behalf of a simple, and what has been with us a most effectual preventive, if not a positive cure, of sore throat. For many years past, indeed we may say during the whole of a life over forty years, we have been subject to a sore throat, and more particularly to a dry, hacking cough, which was not only distressing to ourselves, but to our friends and those with whom we were brought into business contact. Last fall we were induced to try what virtue there was in common salt. We commenced by using it three times a day, morning, noon, and night. We dissolved a large table-spoonful of pure salt in about half of a small tumbler full of cold water. With this we gargled the throat most thoroughly just before meal-time. The result has been that during in the entire winter we were not only free from the usual coughs and colds to which, as far as our memory extends, we have always been subject, but the dry, hacking cough has entirely disappeared. We attribute these satisfactory results solely to the use of salt gargle, and do most cordially recommend a trial of it to those of our readers who are subject to diseases of the throat.

Many persons, who have never tried the salt gargle, have the impression that it is unpleasant. Such is not the case. To the contrary, it is pleasant, and after a few day's use, no person who loves a nice clean mouth, and a first-rate sharpener of the appetite, will abandon it.—Farmer and Gardener.

PRESERVATION OF FOOD.—A new method of preserving animal and vegetable substances has been recently patented at Paris by means of immersion into a solution of gum tragacanth and gelatine, in the proportions of one pound of the former to six ounces of the latter, with the addition of twelve ounces of acetate of alumina. These ingredients are dissolved in water, and kept boiling for twenty-four hours, in order to insure their intimate mixture. The meat, &c., after being washed and cleansed from all blood or other extraneous matter, is dipped into the hot solution and moved about in it for the space of two minutes; and then withdrawn, it must be exposed to the air for a day and night, in order to dry the coating it has acquired in the solution, which, if not dry, would decompose. This operation may be repeated two or three times, if it be thought desirable to form a thick coat over the substance which it is intended to preserve.—Ag. Report.

Quartering on the Rebels.

St. Louis, Dec. 12.

The following General Order will be issued to-morrow morning:

HEADQUARTERS, DEPARTMENT OF MISSOURI, ST. LOUIS, December 13, 1861.

The suffering families driven by the rebels from South-west Missouri, which have already arrived here, have been supplied by voluntary contribution made by Union men. Others are on their way to arrive in a few days, and these must be supplied by charity from persons known to be hostile to the Union. A list will be prepared of the names of all persons of this class who do not voluntarily furnish their quota, and a contribution will be levied on them of $10,000 in clothing, provisions, quarters, or money in lieu thereof. This levy will be made upon the following classes of persons in proportion to their guilt, and the property of each person. First, those in arms with the enemy, who have property in this city. Second, those who have furnished pecuniary or other aid to the enemy or to persons in the enemy's service. Third, those who have verbally, in writing, or in publication, given encouragement to the insurgents.

Brigadier-Gen. Curtis, B. G. Farrar, Provost-Marshal-General, and Charles Berg, Assessor of St. Louis county, will constitute the Board of Assessors for levying the afore-mentioned contributions. As soon as any part of this contribution has been assessed, the Provost-Marshal-General will notify the parties assessed, their agents or representatives, stating the amount of provisions, clothing or quarters, and money, the value thereof required of each, and if not furnished within the time specified in such notice, he will issue an execution, and sufficient property will be taken and sold at public auction to satisfy the assessment, with a cost and penalty of 25 per cent. addition. If any person upon whom such assessment shall be made, shall file with the Provost-Marshal-General an affidavit that he is a loyal citizen, and has been true to his allegiance to the United States, he will be allowed one week to furnish evidence to the Board to vindicate his character; and if, at the end of that time, he shall not be able to satisfy the Board of his loyalty, the assessment shall be increased ten per cent., and be immediately made. Supplies so collected will be expended for the object designated, under the direction of the Provost-Marshal-General, with the advice of the State Sanitary Committee. Where money is received instead of supplies it will be expended for them, as required, and any money not so expended will be turned over to the Sanitary Commissioners, for the benefit of sick soldiers. Any one who shall resist or attempt to resist the execution of these orders will be immediately arrested and imprisoned, and will be tried by a military commission.

(Signed) MAJ.-GEN. HALLECK.
JNO. C. SKELTON, Adjutant General.

NUTRIMENT IN APPLES.—Chemical researches by Mr. J. H. Salisbury, of Albany, show that good varieties of the apple are richer in those bodies which strictly go to nourish the system, than potatoes are; or in other words, to form muscle, brain nerve and in short, assist in sustaining and building up the organic part of all the tissues of the animal body.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS.

Are you sick, feeble, and complaining? Are you out of order, with your system deranged, and your feelings uncomfortable? These symptoms are often the prelude to serious illness. Some fit of sickness is creeping upon you, and should be averted by a timely use of the right remedy. Take Ayer's Pills, and cleanse out the disordered humors—purify the blood, and let the fluids move on unobstructed in health again. They stimulate the functions of the body into vigorous activity, purify the system from the obstructions which make disease. A cold settles somewhere in the body, and obstructs its natural functions. These, if not relieved, react upon themselves and the surrounding organs, producing general aggravation, suffering, and disease. While in this condition, oppressed by the derangements, take Ayer's Pills, and see how directly they restore the natural action of the system, and with it the buoyant feeling of health again. What is true and so apparent in this trivial and common complaint, is also true in many of the deep-seated and dangerous distempers. The same purgative effect expels them. Caused by similar obstructions and derangements of the natural functions of the body, they are rapidly, and many of them surely, cured by the same means. None who know the virtues of these Pills, will neglect to employ them when suffering from the disorders they cure.

Statements from leading physicians in some of the principal cities, and from other well known public persons.

From a Forwarding Merchant of St. Louis, Feb. 4, 1856.

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the paragon of all that is great in medicine. They have cured my little daughter of ulcerous sores upon her hands and feet that had proved incurable for years. Her mother has been long grievously afflicted with blotches and pimples on her skin and in her hair. After our child was cured, she also tried your Pills, and they have cured her.

ASA MORGRIDGE.

As a Family Physic.

From Dr. E. W. Cartwright, New Orleans.

Your Pills are the prince of purges. Their excellent qualities surpass any cathartic we possess. They are mild, but very certain and effectual in their action on the bowels, which makes them invaluable to us in the daily treatment of disease.

Headache, Sick Headache, Foul Stomach.

From Dr. Edward Boyd, Baltimore.

DEAR SIR, AYER: I cannot answer you what complaints I have cured with your Pills better than to say all that we ever treat with a purgative medicine. I place great dependence on an effectual cathartic in my daily contest with disease, and believing as I do that your Pills afford us the best we have, I of course value them highly.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 1, 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER. Sir: I have been repeatedly cured of the worst headache any body can have by a dose or two of your Pills. It seems to arise from a foul stomach, which they cleanse at once.

Yours with great respect, ED. W. PREBLE,
Clerk of Steamer Clarion.

Bilious Disorders—Liver Complaints.

From Dr. Theodore Bell, of New York City.

Not only are your Pills admirably adapted to their purpose as an aperient, but I find their beneficial effects upon the Liver very marked indeed. They have in my practice proved more effectual for the cure of bilious complaints than any one remedy I can mention. I sincerely rejoice that we have at length a purgative which is worthy the confidence of the profession and the people.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, Washington, D. C., 7th Feb., 1856.

SIR: I have used your Pills in my general and hospital practice ever since you made them, and cannot hesitate to say they are the best cathartic we employ. Their regulating action on the liver is quick and decided, consequently they are an admirable remedy for derangements of that organ. Indeed, I have seldom found a case of bilious disease so obstinate that it did not readily yield to them. Fraternally yours, ALONZO BALL, M. D.,
Physician of the Marine Hospital.

Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Relax, Worms.

From Dr. J. G. Green, of Chicago.

Your Pills have had a long trial in my practice, and I hold them in esteem as one of the best aperients I have ever found. Their alterative effect upon the liver makes them an excellent remedy, when given in small doses for bilious dysentery and diarrhœa. Their sugar-coating makes them very acceptable and convenient for the use of women and children.

Dyspepsia, Impurity of the Blood.

From Rev. J. V. Himes, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston.

DR. AYER: I have used your Pills with extraordinary success in my family and among those I am called to visit in distress. To regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood, they are the very best remedy I have ever known, and I can confidently recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. V. HIMES.

WARSAW, Wyoming Co., N. Y., Oct. 24, 1855.

DEAR SIR: I am using your Cathartic Pills in my practice, and find them an excellent purgative to cleanse the system and purify the fountains of the blood.
JOHN G. MEACHAM, M. D.

Constipation, Costiveness, Suppression, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Dropsy, Paralysis, Fits, etc.

From Dr. J. P. Vaughn, Montreal, Canada.

Too much cannot be said of your Pills for the cure of costiveness. Of others of our fraternity have found them as efficacious as I have, they should join me in proclaiming it for the benefit of the
