Death of Samuel P. Jewett.

After a lingering illness, Mr. Samuel P. Jewett died last Saturday evening at his residence on West Huron street. He was held in high esteem by the many of our citizens who knew him, and although he had grown to manhood before coming here, he was one of our earlier settlers. He was born in Connecticut in 1809, and hence was in his seventy-ninth year at the time of his death. He graduated at the Cayuga Academy in 1826. In 1833 he first came to Michigan, but returned to New York. In 1837 he again came to this State, locating at Ann Arbor, where he engaged in the mercantile business for many years. Afterwards he had the management of the Chicago branch of the great stove house of Sherman S. Jewett & Co., of Buffalo. Ill health compelled him to abandon active business in 1873. In 1840 he built his residence on Huron street in which he resided for so many years. He was a devoted father. He leaves four daughters, all of whom are married, Mrs. Hyde and Mrs. Kinne, of this city, Mrs. Paul of Montreal, and Mrs. Smith of Detroit. The funeral Mrs. Smith of Detroit. We are indebted to County Treasurer Belser for the following statement of taxes paid in 1887, per $1000 valuation, in the various supervisors districts of the county. From it, it will be seen that Sharon pays the lowest rate of state and county taxes, the rate there being one dollar and seventy cents for state taxes and 70 cents for county taxes. In the third district of Ann Arbor city the H. Kittredge, A. Norton. rate is the highest being three dollars and forty cents per one thousand dollars valuation for state and county taxes.

The Junior Exhibition.

The chapel room of the high school was crowded last Friday evening, the occasion being the annual junior exhibition. The hall was tastefully decorated with evergreen, and upon the wall back of the platform appeared the junior class motto: Animo non Asutio. The school directors and several other prominent citizens were on the platform. Prof. J. G. Pattengill presided. After a selection of music, prayer was given by the Rev. Mr. Galpin. The prayer was followed by music, after which the literary exercises were begun term; Fifth, William Murray; Sixth, with an oration by Thos. Chalmers, of Sparta, on "An Old Subject." We do not know the motive of the Dexter Leader in the insertion of an extract of our item on eavesdropping in the Argus of the 16th, but we will here remind him of an old and true adage that may be he has never read or heard, and that is "That a little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men." The epithets used in the article referred to, were, we confess, somewhat uncouth, and may, by the intensely fastidious, be pronounced in bad taste, but we believe in the adoption

Washington City, March 26.—Saturday was devoted in the house to consideration of business from the judiciary committee, the lebate being on the question of the jurisdicdiction of state and federal courts, the bill being one to define and regulate the jurisdiction of the latter. Weaver and Anderson, of Iowa favored the curtailment of the jurisdic-tion of United States courts. The amendment inimediately under discussion was one which makes a corporation a citizen of a state in which it may be a party to a suit regardless of where it was organized. Pending action the house adjourned.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 27 .- The first business done by the senate Monday was the passage of an appropriation of $5,000 for the expenses of the funeral of Chief Justice Waite. Riddleberger offered a resolution for consideration of the fisheries treaty in open session, hoping at the same time that it and the extradition treaty would go over to next session and die together. When Spring Comes

This is the way a horse and a poor blanket look at the end of winter.

Why is it that of two horse blankets which look and feel equally well one won't wear at all, and the other wears well?

Horse Blankets which are strong and have a reputation are always imitated in poor qualities which look like them, but having fewer warp threads are not as strong.

Some dealers buy these poor imitations for a few cents less and by saying they are "just as good," sell them at the same price as the strong blankets to parties who do not know the difference.

You cannot tell whether horse blankets are strong by the look or feel, as the warp threads do not show on the face. How then are you to know?

In order that you can tell a strong blanket from a weak one, the manufacturer of 5/A Horse Blankets sews the above 5/A Trade Mark inside of each blanket. This is a guarantee that it is the strongest blanket made for the money and will wear well.

Many poor imitations have been sold as 5/A blankets. Remember none are genuine unless the 5/A Trade Mark is sewed inside.

walked to the home of Senator Heast, because of the illness of his coachman. He also walked home. Next morning he comis one to his taste. He is an able plained of feeling unwell, and a physician was summoned, who announced that he was suffering from a slight cold. He remained in the house during Sunday, and when Monday came conferred with two of the associate judges and his physician, and determined to go to court because of the important decision to be delivered on the telephone case, deciding, however, that he would not read the decision, but would transfer the duty to Justice Blatchford. The exposure incident on this journey accentuated the cold, and on Tuesday he was advised to go to bed. Nothing serious was expected, but on Wednesday Miss Waite decided to telegraph to her brother, Mr. C. C. Waite, of Cincinnati, who arrived here Thrusday afternoon. Surgeon Rath, U. S. N., the physician in attendance and a friend of the family, advised Mr Waite on his arrival that it would be advisable to call in another physician in consulta tion. Dr. Gardner was summoned, and the result was that Thursday night at midnight the patient and family was assured that there was no danger. At 5:30 Friday morning the nurse heard the chief justice moan, and on going to the bedside was informed that he felt pretty well. The nurse retired, and a half hour later, hearing a gasp, ran to the bedside and found a corpse.

The associate justices of the supreme court met at 11 o'clock Friday morning, and Jus-tice Miller announced that the court would stand adjourned until a week from Monday out of respect for the dead. The senate and house also adjourned on the an-nouncement of the chief justice's death. Senator Edmunds paid a touching tribute to Mr. Waite. Senators Sherman, Hoar, Wil-son, Pugh and George were appointed a committee to represent the senate at the funeral. Edmunds was excused on account ill-health. At 2:15 p. m. the following official notice of the death of Chief Justice Waite was issued by the department of state:

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES: The painful duty devolves upon the president to an-nounce the death at an early hour this morning at his residence in this city of Morrison R. Waite, chief justice of the United States, which exalted position he had filled since March 4, 1874, with nonor to himself and high usefulness to his honored dead, it is ordered that the executive offices in Washington be closed on the day of the funeral and be draped in mourning for thirty days, and that the national flag be displayed at halfmast on the buildings and on all national vessels on the day of the funeral.

By Order of the President. T. F. Bayard, Secretary of State.

Morrison Remich Waite was the seventh chief justice of the United States and was born in Lynn, Conn., Nov. 29, 1816. He graduated at Yale college in 1837, studied law, and began to practice in Maumee City, Ohio. In 1849 he was a member of the legislature and in 1850 he removed to Toledo. He de clined repeated nominations to congress and also a seat on the supreme bench of the state. In 1871-2 he was one of the counsel of the United States before the tribunal of arbitration at Geneva. In 1873 he presided over the constitutional convention of Ohio. On Jan. 21, 1874, he became chief justice of the United States, and since that time has resided in Washington.

"Not always," she smiled strangely and reached out her hand to Philip. It was but a woman's hand, small and velvety, but he touched it as if there were a dagger in its white palm. He knew by the look of evil triumph in her face that she had not been away for nothing. Could it be there was anything worse than he had forgiven already page of Bertha's life so black no depth of love could cover it? A deadly faintness was upon him.

"I have brought two visitors," she went on; showing the tips of her white teeth in a

To be sure, there sat a portly woman with the slightly elevated chin of a certain variety of the sex when on its dignity. But Jane said "two"-where was the other? Ah, the other was in the woman's lap. It was a baby. Mr. Ellingsworth had a very peculiar expression on his face to-night, as if his wife were disappointing him. It was rather a dangerous look if Jane had understood it. She was offending his elegant tastes extremely by bringing to his house a vulgar, fussy old woman and her baby whom she, no doubt, had picked up on the railroad cars. Philip stood nervously fumbling his watch chain, and waiting for a blow to fall on him, he did not know whence

It was a little baby's hand that caught at Philip's arm, and he turned to look into its great star like blue eyes. He had seen that same marvelous tint in cheeks before, and a cold horror of recognition darted through his soul. He tried to lift his spellbound eyes, and they rested instead on the face of Jane Ellingsworth, which was lit up with a fiendish exultation as she held the child up to

"What-not kiss the baby?" she laughed gayly. "Such a pretty baby, too; why it really has complexion and eyes like Bertha's." She did not cease to look at his shrinking "But its mouth and chin" - Something made him look at the baby's features as she mentioned them, and then he shud-dered; it was too terrible, "are more like somebody else I know." Her small, flashing black eyes seemed burning their way to his very brain. "Who is it?" She bent toward him so that her hot lips seemed almost to kiss his ear, "Curran," she whispered, Could he not tear himself away from her poisonous breath? "Not so strange, though?" She let the baby put its chubby hands into his hair, though she saw every touch was a thrust through the quivering fibers of his heart. She fancied he did not understand, he was so still and silent. "Not strange that a child should look like its-father.

Had the young bridegroom forgotten all about his wedding and the beautiful woman up stairs wondering why she was not called! It seemed so, for he sat down, and they foisted the pretty baby on him, and his face wore a ghastly smile as he looked at it. Once, at an expression in the little face, he caught it to his lips, but as suddenly he thrust the child into the nurse's lap and rose to his feet.
"What are we waiting for?" His face was

"Hush," and her woman's soul qualled at the look he bent on her. "If you dare to whisper a word to Bertha, or show her that "I thought you would thank me," whispered the false lips. She saw it was all in vain—her journey to Vineboro. She had fol-lowed Bertha's tracks like a bloodhound, and had found her fatherless child in a stranger's home, learning to forget its high bred mother. Now surely she must suffer repulse and disdain as the poor factory girl had suffered it in her very wedding dress. For the sight of this baby face would chill the most ardent love that ever burned in a bridegroom's heart. But no. This man's love was deeper than the entiment and vanity that commonly makes the chief part of what is absurdly called pas-sion. His faith was so subline, shame was ashamed before it.

His face had lighted up at her words. "Oh I will thank you a thou-a thousand times if you will send that woman and the child

He would have given her a fortune, but she had sold herself once, and her price was enough. He could only pray to her in all the phrases of entreaty the agonies of life have taught mankind.

They shall leave the house at once," she said at last, as she turred to go back into the room. He thought his prayers had moved her. But she knew her plot had failed; she had wrung his heart, but his will was un-moved. She made a virtue of her necessity. Philip would be grateful to her forever, but there would be something else, perhaps. Such hate as hers could not be turned aside by so feeble a thing as pity.
"How pale you are, Philip. Are you afraid?" and Bertha smiled royally on him as she took his arm, and they passed up the

'I am the happiest man in the world," and he tried to smile as his hand closed over her fingers like an iron vise, it was so cold and

But how sad he was, as if an exquisite piece of sculpture that he loved had fallen from a great height and been shivered into a thousand fragments. The hope and joy of his life seemed slipping away from him. That little child's face hung between him and the bride who was promising to be faithful—if she only had been faithful to him; its baby hands seemed to shield her bosom from him, its quavering cries to reproach him for daring to kiss its mother. So small and sweet a baby, but its face seemed threatming him, its infant form linked indissolubly a past he had hoped he might forget with a present and future he had foolishly thought had a great store of happiness for him.

The minister had taken his seat. Was he really married to the golden haired woman whose hand he held to tightly! Was this the moment he had dreamed of as marking his entrance into a new ideal life? Had he said everything correctly! He could not remem ber, but he did not want any mistake made about this at least. Oh yes, it was now he was to kiss his wife. He held her to his heart an instant. This was his wife, but joy was dead behind his dry, feverish lips, and his smile, meant to cheer her, was as if some terrible pain was gnawing every moment at his heart. But Bertha appeared to notice

The train which bore away the bridal pair had not traveled a great many miles when something caused Philip to look in the seat and the baby with Bertha's eves and Curran's mouth. One of Bertha's coils of hair had become loosened, and a braid of golden hair hung over the back of the seat as she let her head rest on her husband's shoulder. Bertha's eyes were closed drowsily, the nurse in the seat behind nodded in her dreams, but the child reached out its baby hands to play with its mother's golden tresses. The young husband watched the child's lips forming again and again one word, "mamma, wife fell asleep and dreamed she was the hap-piest woman in the world, while beneath her head every throb of the man's heart was an charged-Hiring New Men. CHICAGO, March 27.—The time for the Burlington switchmen to return to their work expired Monday afternoon, and as none of the old men appeared at the yards the formal announcement was made that the strikers were all discharged. New men were at once hired, and several trains were dispatched. The "O" officials say that none of the strikers will be taken back under any circumstances, and that inside of forty-eight hours a full working force of switchmen will be secured.

"The men are simply fools," said President
Perkins, of the Burlington. "They had no complaints or grievances to make, and they have made none. They have struck for the sole purpose of helping somebody else, and the result will be they will lose their places."

It was stated by officials of the Switchmen's union that the strike would probably extend along the entire line of the road as soon as the men could be reached. The brakemen, it was stated, were also getting ready to strike. The arguments in the suit brought by the Burlington against the Rock Island, which were to have been made before Judge Gres-

THE FARMERS' DEBTS.

THIS COUNTY MORTGAGED.

Statistics Showing the Farms Mortgaged and Unincumbered, their Value and the Nativity of their Annually.

Out of 20 townships in this county, statistics have been compiled for the State labor bureau from ten, by the supervisors of those towns, showing the farms, mortgaged and unincumbered within the townships. These ten towns have 590 mortgaged farms, the mortgages amounting to $1,232,331 and the annual interest charges to $78, 658.78. The ten townships from which reports have been collected by State labor commissioner Heath are Ann Arbor, Bridgewater, Freedom, Lima, Lyndon, Northfield, Saline, Superior, Sylvan and Ypsilanti and we are indebted to the commissioner of labor for an early copy of his report from which we have culled the statistics given below.

In the ten townships reporting are 1,346 farms, of which 756 are unincumbered and 590 are mortgaged. Of these farms, 117 were worked by tenants. By a little figuring we discover that the average unincumbered farm in Washtenaw comprises 1284 acres and is assessed at $5,079, while the average mortgaged farm comprises 1141 acres is assessed at $4,356 and is mortgaged for $2,097. The average rate of interest paid is six and three-tenths. In the ten towns there are 705 farm laborers emlately left the service of the road are not ployed, whose wages average $16.69 per month.

The labor commissioner estimates the mortgage indebtedness of the whole county at $4,852,959.16, on which the annual interest charges would be $305,-736.42.

The largest farm reported had between 600 and 1,000 acres; 37 farms had between 300 and 600 acres: 91 between 200 and 300; 585 between 100 and 200 and 632 had 100 acres and under.

The nativity of the farmers in the townships reported was America, 961; Germany, 318; England, 91; Ireland, 64 Canada, 21; Scotland, 5; Switzerland, 1; France, 6; Russia, 2; Sweden, 1; New Zealand, 1; Austria, 1; Wales, 1. The total number of farmers of foreign birth was 513, of these 94 had money on coming to this country and 419 nothing. The 94 brought $61,007. The foreign born farmers are assessed at $2,230,465 and have a mortgage indebtedness of $415,206; the American farmers have bardi, who was convicted Wednesday last an indebtedness of $817,125 and an assessed valuation of $5,248,510.

A Caledonia farmer, heavily loaded with firewater, tried titles with a train on the Detroit, Bay City & Alpena railway the other day, and was knocked out in the first round. He now inhabits another sphere.

Three Rivers folks are having a tussle over the location of their postoffice. Some of 'em want it moved, but more of 'em don't, and the Washington authorities have been appealed to for a settlement of the dispute.

Those who partook of the soup doled out at a Hartland church social discovered a decidedly peculiar flavor, which, upon investiga-tion, proved to have been caused by a cud of tobacco that had been placed therein by a heartless heathen of the town.

A Kent county man took out a license to wed the girl he so dearly loved. The girl took the license, pondered over the matter and concluded that she hadn't better. Then the K. c. m. hunted up a damsel who was willing, but the county clerk refused to issue a second license until the first one was returned. As the first object of his heart's adoration refuses to surrender the legal permit the would-be benedict is about the unhappiest man in the state.

A BRUTAL PARENT.

He Burns His 3-Year-Old Son in a Terrible Manner with a Poker.

DETROIT, Mich., March 24.-Mrs. George Woltemuth of 165 Harrison avenue sent for Humane Agent Vhay Saturday and told him a shocking story about her husband's cruelty to his 3-year-old son. The woman is Wolte-muth's second wife, and contrary to the traditional stepmother, is, according to her story, as kind to the boy as she is to her own offspring. She states that last Friday Wolte muth, who is a Grand Trunk brakeman, be came incensed at the child and heated a poker red hot and ran the heated iron up the little fellow's clothes, inflicting several horrible burns. When the innocent victim shrieked with agony he laid the poker on his hand and wrist, inflicting burns three inches long. He also beat the child with the poker and otherwise abused it. She says she was afraid to interfere. A female friend of the family took the little sufferer away, and Agent Vhay says he will prosecute the inhuman father to the full extent of the law.

A Plucky Michigan Woman.

GREENVILLE, Mich., March 24-It has just been learned that a few nights since Mrs. Hamilton, living five miles east of here, hearing noise, and thinking cats were trying hearing noise, and thinking cats were trying to get into the pork barrel, jumped out of bed to investigate. Upon opening the door she found a man filling a sack with pork. Grabbing a club she whacked him over the head and back, and followed up his retreat until they reached the gate. A "pal" was watching at that point, and hearing a peculiar sound like that made in threshing grain with a fiall, he turned his light on and saw rea fiail, he turned his light on and saw re-vealed "a woman in white." This frightened him, and exclaiming "It's a woman," he fled, leaving the stolen pork in the road, while the plucky lady returned and found her husband still slumbering.

Miss Fellows Heard from.

Washington City, March 27.—Homer Fellows, the father of Miss Fellows, who is reported in dispatches from Dakota to have married Chaska, a Sioux Indian, says that he received a letter Monday night from his daughter, dated March 11, announcing that she was to be married to Samuel Campbell, nephew of Rev. Dr. Hanford, of the Episco-pal church. Mr. Campbell is employed by the bureau of Indian affairs and is stationed at Fort Bennett. In a letter of the same date received from Mr. Campbell Monday night that gentleman says that he has a slight trace of Indian blood in his veins, and Mr. Fellows asserts that from this frail foundation has sprung the sensational reports that have been published. Mormons Convicted.

Impure Food.

Exceeding caution should be exercised in the purchase of a new article of food. Many recent cases of serious illness have been reported from the use of the new patent foods for infants, from untested baking powders, and cheap flavoring extracts. The desire for rapid wealth induces unscrupulous manufacturers to place anything before the public that will sell at a large profit, without regard to its usefulness or any address of the regard to its usefulness or any address of the sent to any address four months, postage free, for $1.00. THE VENEZUELAN PATRIOT

Gen. Paez's Remains Being Taken to Carracas for Burial.

New York, March 24.—The preparations for the removal of the body of the Venezuelan patriot, Gen. Paez, from the armory of the Twelfth regiment, where it had been lying in state, began early

Saturday morning. It was 11:15 o'clock however, before the procession started for the foot of East Twenty-sixth street, sacola was moored, and on which the body was to be conveyed to Venezuela. Large crowds lined the route of march. All the standards borne by the soldiers were heavily draped GEN. PAEZ with crape, and the six horses drawing the bearse in which the casket rested had sable trappings and plumes. A large number of notable people followed the remains.

The Pensacola raised her anchor soon after the coffin was placed on board, and sailed for Laguayra. She is expected to reach her des tination in about ten days. The remains will then be taken to Carracas, where they will be interred in the national pantheon.

Fleeing for Their Lives. SIOUX CITY, Iowa, March 27.—The people of Jackson, Neb., are leaving their farms on low lands and seeking shelter on the hills, fearing that when the great gorge at Cotton wood Hill breaks everything will be swept away. The lower sections, opposite the mouth of the Big Sioux, are now overflowed, and some stock has been lost. Anxiety is growing greater every day, as the gorges are becoming stronger with the cold weather, so that when the break comes nothing can withstand the rush of water. The water at Sioux City continues to fall slowly, while at Yank ton the banks are full, showing that the several gorges between the two cities are yet

The State Must Prosecute Alone.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 28.-An important decision was rendered in the su-preme court at Madison Tuesday. A few months ago Andrew Bremel, a non-union sailor, shot and killed a union sailor. He was tried for murder, convicted and sent to state's prison, where he now is. During the trial the Sailors' union hired a lawyer to as sist the prosecution. Gen. Bragg, counsel for Bremel, objected, and the objection was sustained by the supreme court, which gives Bremel a new trial. The higher court ruled that private parties had no right to hire counsel to assist in the prosecution. The decision is believed to be of considerable more than

Refused to Issue a License.

Sr. Louis, Mo., March 27.—Recorder Hobbs has refused to issue a marriage license to Fenton Cox and Effic Ellis, Dr. Cox, who threw acid in Effie's face, having declared Fenton to be under age. Young Cox claims to have been born March 30, 1866, which would make him nearly 23 year old, and this is what he represented himself to be before stowed on the old firm to me. the present trouble. He says that he is going I shall try my utmost to prove to marry the girl, and soon, too, if he has to worthy of the confidence placed in leave the country to do it. A telegram to Springfield inquiring about Cox's age brought back the response that his father claimed he was only 18 years old.

Clara Louise Kellogg, with a carefully selected Concert Company, will appear at the grand opera house, Monday, April 9th, in a program of concert selections and scenes from the Grand operas of "La Favorite" of "Donizetti" and "Rigoletts" of Verdi. This engagement is already exciting considerable stir in musical circles and a large house will undoubted greet Miss Kellogg Kellogg.

Orders for this popular work will hereafter be promptly filled.
