Laughlin, $98,000 of the $100,000 stock of the road, or all but the $2,ooo of stock which was in other hands. Or to state it more accurately, they have purchased $58,000 of stock, and $40,000 stock yet remains in the treasury unissued. Possession of the road will be given to-morrow.

Various unauthorized and unfounded rumors have been afloat, and it is proper here to state that the got real vexed at another Ann Arbor Argus information is from inside quarters and is correct. They intend as soon as the sale is completed to make a contract with the Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti road, in which they are both stockholders, by which continuous cars will be run between Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor. As soon as the Packard street route is completed this will probably be done by attaching an electric motor car to the Ypsilanti passenger cars, bringing them in as trailers.

No better equipped electric road than the Ann Arbor road can be any road in the United States. steel rails. It has been well built and Messrs. Corliss and McLaughlin deserve the thanks of our citizens for the excellent manner in which they have equipped it.

The new owners of the road intend business. They will extend its facilities and improve its service. Mr. Morton, our fellow citizen, needs no introduction to our Ann Arbor readers. Mr. Glover, of Ypsilanti, is one of the most public spirited men in the county. It is also a matter of congratulation to our citizens that the two roads will be run in harmony.

The Ypsilanti road is proving of great benefit to Ann Arbor. That it is a success is shown by the fact that during the short time it has been running, it has already paid expenses and interest on its bonds n Dexter accounted for a great many 'stay-at-homes," it being the occasion of Father Dowling's lecture on "Faith and Worldliness," the second of the C. M. B. A. series. Still there was a good-sized audience present to listen to the learned and choir of Ann Arbor, selections being criterion. taken from Weber, Millard and Gi-

Father Dowling's lecture:

If ever there was a time when man claimed "If you weren't so dirty, days of infidelity, when arrogance and mental imbecility stand ready funct Christianity. Surely in a so- and aggressive faith. called age of reason, of light and truth, it is shameful to contemplate, as we must contemplate, the advance of infidelity among the masses and the gradual retreat of the outposts of the Christian camp. We are to ask ourselves the question, what are the external signs of faith? Do we possess a faith that is living, consistent with trufh, active, aggressive? In this country, which boasts of its Christian associations, its churches, its temples, its Christian constitution, what are the facts which glare out through the gloom? Look round about you. Do we not seem to be dealing almost exclusively in matter? What wonderful developments have been made lately in electricity! Hardly a business man in the country can get along now without a telephone. Electricity is no longer a theoretic affair, but a practical domestic necessity. What developments have likewise been made in medicine and surgery! How grand are the triumphs of those sciences! Surgery can give us false eyes, false teeth, false hands, etc. But what of the false hearts which men and women carry about with them? These are acquired without the aid of science and in opposition to faith. No fault is found with the modern evolutions in sciences, but where are the promoters of faith and truth? Look at our business men investing in stocks, in real estate, A case was recently tried in this investing in everything, we might city, before the proper legal official, say, except in faith, living short lives, trampling to the ground their fellow-men, and imagine, if you can, such to be prepared to meet their Creator. They leave their ricbes, go down to their graves, unprepared for that eternal life which God has prepared for them. How many there are who salute the world with a sigh and leave it with a groan! Did God create man to serve matter or for some higher object? Have we not just reason to argue, from facts plainly thrust before us, that there is a want of faith and an almost universal worship of worldliness?

> A great many denominations of the country are joined together under a certain mystic comprehensiveness of the Bible, some of which teach the absolute necessity unto salvation of one doctrine, others partly admitting such doctrine or denying it altogether. In this respect they are held up to ridicule by infidels or are pinioned by the religion of the future as the result Ancient York Masons of the state.

of this vagueness of doctrine, this rampant and aggressive infidelity? Christian religions must be united and present a solid, unbreakable phalanx to the onward march of infidelity. We are the dyke raised up against the flood of infidelity, and if we go down Christianity must perish with us.

What are the causes of infidelity? Losening of the bonds of authority and neglect especially of the authority established by God upon earth are at the base of infidelity. Infidelity is the hydra-headed monster The rain on Wednesday evening which we must fight. To do this we must train the young. We must deliver to them the heirloom of faith which we received from our forefathers. They must take our places twenty-five years from now, but unless they are prepared while their minds are waxen and impressionable, they will not stand in defense of a cause which does not find a response in their hearts.

County President Alfred Davenport, of York, presided over the meeting, which was held with closed doors, which consequently greatly abbreviates our report. The object of the meeting was the election of county officers and of delegates to the state convention, which meets in Lansing, February 24. The following officers were elected:

President, B. F. Gooding; vice president, G. W. Merrill; secretary, W. M. Fowler; treasurer, W. Dexter; sentinel, Benj. Cook.

George A. Peters and J. H. Boyden were elected delegates to the state convention.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 28.-A Scottdale, Pa., special to The Times says: Eighty miners are known to have been killed in the shaft of the Mammoth Coke works mine by a terrible explosion which occurred early yesterday. Mine Boss Eaton, who escaped about one minute before the fatal explosion, is the only individual remaining to relate the story. An order for eighty coffins has been given to a Mount Pleasant undertaker. John Boles, whose brother is in the fatal shaft, was here last evening, and relates the following story: "About 9 o'clock this morning we heard a loud report in the direction of the shaft, We immediately started to the opening only to find a suffocating volume of smoke and gas gushing therefrom, and at once knew what was wrong. We began the work of subduing the flames and clearing the shaft of gas. This we accomplished by starting the large fans. I am convinced that every man who was in the his parents Mr. and Mrs. Stephen shaft at the time was killed, either by falling timbers or by the after-damp. SOME DETAILS OF THE HORROR.

Recovery of the Mangled and Scorched Bodies-Cause of the Explosion.

As soon as it was possible preparations were made to recover the bodies of the The Light Guards will be inspected victims, and a gang of workmen was at once organized to undertake the work. Superintendent Keighley, who was the inspector in charge at the Dunbar mine after the accident there, assumed direction of the rescuing force, and an army of men was sent down into the pit to stay the progress of the flames and recover the bodies of the hapless victims. Soon the first body was brought to the surface. It was that of John Kleen, a German, who had been dashed against the side of the shaft and rendered lifeless in an instant. His body was fearfully crushed and burned, but yet his relatives, with sight made keen by anguish, recog-nized him, and claimed the poor remains.

Sixty Corpses Brought Up. In a few moments another body was hoisted to the mouth of the shaft, and thus the stream of bodies from the fountain of death below flowed on till by 7 o'clock at night sixty of the victims of this fearful sacrifice had been recovered. Many more were below and it was feared that it will be impossible to save all from the fires, which were steadily advancing despite every effort to check them. Fresh relays of men were sent down into the shaft every hour to relieve the exhausted crews below, and the work of rescue was pushed with almost superhuman energy. Effect of the Explosion.

Those who have been in the shaft prosecuting the work of recovering the bodies say that the scene is one of awful horror. The force of the explosion shattered the walls of the shaft and filled the drifts with masses of earth torn from the roof and sides. The bodies of many of the dead are buried in the debris and are difficult to find. The entrance to one of the drifts was completely closed and the timbers in the mine have been torn out or broken, making the work of rescue exceedingly difficult and dangerous. The fires stead We ing the air throughout the mine absolute-

The scene at the mouth of the shaft when the disaster became known was one to rend the heart. In what seemed but a moment a crowd had collected, and when they learned of the extent of the calamity and wives crowded around the mouth of the pit and urged the men around to rescue their loved ones. Some even attempted to descend into that yawning chasm of death themselves to search for strained, threw herself into the shaft, and added one more to the list of the victims, She was found lifeless at the bottom by the first body of rescuers, who sent her to the free air above, and lies beside the day. A Defective Lamp the Cause

The explosion is said to have been caused by a miner with a defective lamp going into an abandoned chamber where the gas had gathered. In an instant the entire shaft was a mass of flame and the walls of the chamber and shafts where the men were at work fell in every direction, crushing many of the miners beneath them. Everybody in the pit was killed. The position of their bodies told the story of their end. The force of the explosion was felt for miles around.

The List of Killed Growing. LATER.—It is said that at least 150 men were killed by the explosion. At 10 o'clock last evening word was received that 111 bodies had been taken out of the mine, and yet about fifty were missing. The Mammoth works where the explosion took place is one of the largest mines in the Connellsville region, and were formerly owned by the Morre coke firm, but a few years ago were purchased by the H. C. Frick Coke company.

THE NATIONAL LEGISLATURE.

Proceedings in the Senate and House of

WASHINGTON CITY, Jan. 28 .- In the senate yesterday Aldrich moved consideration of his resolution to amend the rules. A point of order was made by Harris that the question before the senate was the approval of Tuesday's journal. After an extended debate the point of order was overruled, and the cloture resolution was brought before the senate. Discussion on this resolution continued until 6 o'clock, when the senate adjourned.

In the house the journal of last Tuesday was finally approved. The District of Columbia appropriation bill was then passed without further difficulty, and the house in committee of the whole considered the naval appropriation bill, but without action on it adjourned. feature of the proceedings were that they were orderly.

WASHINGTON CITY, Jan. 24. - In the house, on demand of Breckinridge of Arkansas, the journal was read in full, and after some debate was approved. There were some sharp passages between the speaker and Cooper of Indiana, growing out of a point of order by McKinley on a resolution offered by Cooper directing the committee investigating the pension bureau to report the resolution to the house. The resolution was finally reported, and referred to the committee on rules. The house then went into committee of the whole on the naval appropriation bill, but without action on it adjourned.

The senate passed the entire day discussing the cloture rule. Cockrell and Gray addressed the senate in opposition to it, and without action a recess was taken to 11 o'clock to day.

WASHINGTON CITY, Jan. 26.-Yesterday after a brief executive session, spent the remainder of the day discussing the cloture resolution. Senators Stewart and Morgan spoke in opposition to the pro-posed change in the rules, and Senator Saunders in favor thereof. Morgan had not finished his speech at 5:15 p. m. when a recess was taken until noon Monday. During the afternoon Aldrich asked unanimous consent to limit debate on the resolution, and named Monday as the day for taking a vote on it, but objections to each request came promptly from the Democratic side of the chamber.

The house spent two hours' time in the reading and approval of the journal. Breckinridge of Arkansas, having demanded the reading of the journal in unabridged form, and a yea and nay vote having to be taken to secure its approval.

WASHINGTON CITY, Jan. 27.—The senate met yesterday at noon. Morgan continued his speech against the cloture rule and elections bill. He yielded to Wolcott, who offered a motion to take up the house apportionment bill, thus displacing the cloture resolution. The vote stood 35 to 34-Cameron, Jones of Nevada, Teller, Stewart, Washburn, and Wolcott, all Republicans, voting to take up the bill. Ingalls was announced as paired on the same side. The result was greeted with wild cheers, and it is probably the last of both the cloture rule and the elections

In the senate the reading of the journal in full was demanded by the Democrats. McKinley demanded the previous question on the approval of the journal, which was accorded, and the journal was approved. The naval appropriation bili was taken up and passed, the ayes and noes on its passage being interrupted by the cheers of the Democrats when news of the senate's action on the cloture rule reached the day last, including the whole time up to Monday evening. The credentials of Stanford of California and Irby of South Carolina, were filed. Hoar objected to the wording of the latter's credentials, the governor having undertaken to "commission" the senators, instead of simply certifying to their election. The apportionment bill was taken up, and Davis and Berry spoke in favor of an amendment increasing the representation to 360. Hiscock and Hale opposed, and the senate ad-

McKinley made the point that the speaker was justified under the rules, as the demand was clearly dilatory. point was sustained, and an appeal was laid on the table The military academy bill was then taken up and the Democrats killed time by talking on any subject except the bill until adjournment.

TRAINS MOVING AGAIN.

The Chicago and Erie Strike a Thing of the Past.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—The strike of conductors and train dispatchers on the Chicago and Erie railway is over, and trains are moving again. A settlement was effected Saturday, the men agreeing that Train Dispatcher Scott should not be reemployed. They also made it a condition of going back to work that a minor official at Huntington should be discharged, but he saved the company the trouble by sending in his resignation, which reached this city while the officials of the railway were considering the matter. More than 600 men are em ployed by the company in these shops, and the loss will be a severe one to Huntington if the removal is made.

ILI INOIS LEGISLATURE.

Proceedings in Both Branches-Work of the Law-Makers.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Jan. 22.-The two houses of the legislature met in joint convention yesterday and took the first vote for senator. McDonald nominated Palmer and Fuller performed that office for Oglesby. The vote was the same as in the separate houses-Palmer, 101; Oglesby, 100; Streeter, 3. Tw omore ballots were taken with the same result, and the joint convention adjourned. How long this thing will be kept up no one can predict. Little business was done in the senate, the most important being the reception of the resolution adopted by the house favoring the election of United States senator by the popular vote. In the house Merritt introduced a bill amending nineteen sections of the revenue law, one provision of which makes taxes payable in two install-ments. Geher introduced a bill prohibiting unions among contractors to refuse to compete with each other. A resolution to investigate the conduct of the Anna Insane asylum was introduced. Brutality to the inmates is charged SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Jan. 23.—There was another ballot taken in joint legislative session for United States senator yesterday with the same result as those previously taken. The Democrats wanted to take another, but the Alliance men voted with the Republicans and adjourned the The Republicans cheered enthus iastically, but the incident probably amounts to nothing as indicating in any way the intentions of the Alliance men.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 23.-In the senate resterday bills were introduced: Prohibiting life insurance agents from giving policies to persons who solicit business for It has room for a them unless such persons pay premiums like others; to require life insurance agents to take out licenses. In the house: Pro-hibiting any public officer or legislator from accepting railway passes; requiring bogus butter and cheese to be dyed a dis-tinctive color; requiring railways to provide automatic brakes on freight cars be fore June 1, 1893; including all boilers under the boiler inspection laws.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Jan. 24.—The senate yesterday did no business of general interest. Bills in the house: To elect county jailors by the people; to provide for fees for appointed attorneys in criminal cases; to establish a state board of arbitration compelling the parties to strikes to submit their case thereto and to accept the decision—the board is made a judicial tribunal, and it is provided that two weeks' notice must be given by employers before discharging any one; to prohibit the carrying of deadly weapons.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Jan. 26.-The Republicans of the house filibustered Saturday, and prevented the anti-"force" bill resolution from coming to action. A set of reso lutions, beautifully engrossed, was record ed from the Missouri legislature encour-aging the Democrats in their fight for Palmer. A communication was received from the governor and Mrs. Fifer inviting mem-bers to the first legislative reception at the executive mansion on Wednesday evening. In the senate a bill was intro duced providing for a state board to con trol the state exhibit at the World's fair. It provides that five of the twenty-one members shall be women. A bill was introduced appropriating $300,000 for the enlargement of the Kankakee insane asylum, and another placing the stock yards under control of the railway commis-

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Jan. 27.—There was a full attendance on the joint session of the legislature yesterday, even Adams being in his seat. The monotony of voting for a United States senator was promptly begun and for nine successive votes the figures were-Palmer, 101; Oglesby, 100; Streeter, 3.

A bill was introduced to prohibit the charge of an admission fee by any monument association.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Jan. 28.—The senate yesterday abolished the rule requiring senators when present to vote on all questions. Bills were introduced: To fix rates for telephones; to give the balance of Dearborn park, Chicago, for the use of a public library to be built with the Soldiers' Memorial hall for which one-fourth of park has already been given; to change the name of the Illinois Reform school at Pontiac to the Illinois State reformatory, and providing for its government; appropriating $135 000 for contingent expenses of the state militia; to regulate insurance com-

In the house bills were introduced: To consolidate the supreme court at Springfield in continuous session; to dictate to street railway companies what they shall charge for tickets for a number of rides; to permit doctors to sell medicines to others than their patients; an anti-Dinkerton bill, prohibiting owners of property from employing private policemen to guard the same; to repeal the statute which limits damages against a railway for loss of life to $5,000; making a mortgage, etc., an interest in the property which secures its payment, and taxable; to reduce legislators' per diem to $4, and cut other legislative salaries 20 per cent. (Taubeneck). A petition was received from the K. of L. asking certian legislation for workingmen. The resolution instructing the senators for the state to vote against the "force" bill was adopted by a strict party vote the F. M. B. A. men not voting.

In joint session six ballots were taken, resulting like all the others, the farmer members voting with the Republicans for adjournment. These members continue to assert that under no circumstances will they vote for either Palmer or Oglesby.

In all governments, the legislative and executive functions are wisely divided. The council fs the city legislature, the board This is a work which should not be of public works is an executive thrown upon the council. It is too board. The council determines large a body to be an executive what shall be done in the line of board. street improvements, the board does it. The work of the board is purely executive in its character. Being such it is very properly divorced from the law-making power of the city. Universal experience has shown that this division of executive and legislative powers is the best. In all branches of our government it is observed. In absolute monarchies it is not observed. If the council had both the legislative and executive powers it would be an oligarchy, with annually changing mem-

The onslaught on the board of public works, is largely due to the fact that certain men have not been given a large share of the work. It is natural that they should go to the aldermen with their complaints. But if the business men and the taxpayers are to be consulted, the to the W. C. F. Free From Lime and Alum

Royal Baking Powder

Is the only baking powder yet found by chemical analysis to be free from both lime and alum and absolutely pure. This perfect purity results from the exclusive use of cream of tartar specially refined and prepared by patent processes which totally remove all the tartrate of lime. The cost of this chemically pure cream of tartar is much greater than any other, and it is used in no baking powder except the "Royal."

Dr. Edward G. Love, formerly analytical chemist for the U. S. Government, who made the analyses for the New York State Board of Health in their investigation of baking powders, says of the purity and wholesomeness of the "Royal":

"I find the Royal Baking Powder composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder, and does not contain either alum or phosphates, or other injurious substance.

(Late U. S. Gov't Chemist), "E. G. LOVE, PH. D."

Prof. Love's tests, and the recent official tests by the United States and Canadian Governments, show the Royal Baking Powder to be superior to all others in strength and leavening power. It is the purest and most economical.

December in San Francisco.

If any resident of the eastern states visited Golden Gate park Christmas he must have been forcibly struck with the striking contrast it presented to what would be seen that time of year in any eastern pleasure ground. The air was mild and pleasant and invited outdoor exercise. The recent rain had freshened the flowers, trees and grass, causing brighter colors and more vivid tints. Thousands of men, women and children sat during the afternoon in the open air listening to the music of the band or reclined on the greensward, at ease with filled the swings, rode on the merry-goround or ate popcorn on the grass. Society and Wall Street.

Wall street's intimate relationship with society has often been denied. But the other is almost complete. The enormous depression of values down town and the animated and erratic condition of the market resulted in the abandonment of literally scores of dinner parties and the postponement of many entertainments in that portion of New York which has its center on Murray Hill. Now that things are quiet again in Wall street the theatres are beginning to fill up, the restaurants are crowded, and there are numberless announcements of new parties and dances,-New York to weak womankind is the finding of lost health-the building-up of "a run-down" system. Nothing does it so surely as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures all the derangements, irregularities and weaknesses peculiar to the sex. It's the most perfect of strength-givers, imparting tone and vigor to the whole system. For overworked, debilitated teachers, milliners, seamstresses, "shop-girls," nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, it is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic. "Favorite Prescription" gives satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it is promptly refunded. That's the way it's sold; that's the way its makers prove their faith in it. Contains no alcohol to inebriate; no syrup or sugar to derange digestion; a legitimate medi-cine, not a beverage. Purely vegetable and perfectly harmless in any condition of the system. THE MICHIGAN STATESMEN.

Some Notes from the Journals of Senate and House.

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 24.—The senate yielded yesterday to the demands of the house for a recess of only five days, and in the evening the legislature adjourned until next Wednesday night. The visiting committees appointed to visit the public institutions have scattered to the four corners of the state, and the next few days will be exceedingly lively for them Not only will they thoroughly overhaul the state institutions from cellar to garret, but they must also investigate the ex pediency of combining the numerous boards of management into four or five general boards to have charge of all the institutions as proposed by Governor Winans in his message.

She is described as being both young and beautiful. The unfaithful Murphy is also young. Mr. and Mrs. Murphy were married six months ago. Mrs. Murphy was then living in a fashionable boarding house. Her husband had died two years before and left her a small fortune. His name was John Everett. He was the representative of a Cincinnati brewing company and made a great deal of money. Their daughter had poor health, and on the advice of physicians she was sent to live with an aunt in Denver. She remained there until two weeks ago.

Takes the Matter Coolly. Meanwhile Mrs. Murphy again entered the matrimonial field. Among her suit-ors was Richard Murphy. He was about 25, without money or visible means of support. His love-making with Mrs. Everett was conducted on a rapid scale and ago she had never seen her step-father. Mrs. Murphy's anxiety about how they would get along was soon quieted. Last Friday the two disappeared. "Well, I don't care," said Mrs. Murphy, "but I hate to see Agnes bunkoed by the same fraud that caught me, but she will have to do as I did-learn by experience.'

GEN. MILES REVIEWS HIS TROOPS.

Column of 8,000 Veterans Passes Be fore the General-The Gallant Sixth and Seventh and the Ninth, of Well-Won Fame, in Line-Redskins Line the Hills and Watch, Suspicious of Everything-The Review a Great Success in Spite of bad weather.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, S. D., Jan. 23.-The thousands of Sioux had the opportunity yesterday to see the strength and discipline of the United States army, for the end of the ghost dance rebellion was marked by a review of all the soldiers who have taken part in crushing the Indian rebellion. The day was one of the most dis agreeable of the campaign. A furious wind blew from the north, driving the sand and snow over the valley in blinding and choking sheets. The camp of soldiers was two miles from the agency. The tents ran in a long line through a great ravine, the sides of which were still flecked with snow from the early morning storm

The Reds Still Suspicious. Through the stifling gale of sand Gen Miles and his staff rode in a ragged group the wind tossing the tails of their horse over their flanks. It was after 10 o'clock when all preparations were made for the review. The summits of the buttes to the north were fringed with Sloux warriors, who were closely wrapped in their blank ets and staring stolidly at the long line of cavalrymen and infantrymen which stretched away to the south until they were lost in the flying sand. The redskins were a strange group of spectators. They looked like Arabs as they are sometimes seen in paintings, squatting on the ground or mounted on ponies on the top of the knolls when the sun is sinking. Stretching in a long, ghostly line on the ridges of buttes to the north were their pickets, ready to give the word that would send the redskins flying in case the soldiers should advance upon them.

The Sounds of the Bugles.

Finally there came through the gale the shrill notes of the bugle. They were so faint that they were almost lost in the storm. Then one by one the trumpeters took up the call and the great parade of the regular army, began to pass in review. Gen. Brooke, muffled up in a wolf skin overcoat, grimy from the sand that swirled about his horse, and followed by his staff, led the procession. First came the great detachment of Sioux scouts with Capt. Taylor, his sword at a salute, at their head. Sergt. Red Shirt, the hand-somest Indian in the Sioux nation, was at the extreme right, his long hair tossing in tangled masses over his shoulders. Yankton Charley, who saved the revolvers of poor Lieut. Casey, rode at the left of the line, his overcoat buttoned so closely about him that the war feathers on his breast were concealed.

The Guns Come Into View. The shrill blasts of a dozen bugles were next heard. Behind the trumpeters tramped the Second infantry, of Omaha, in blue overcoats and brown leggings with Maj. Butler at their head. Then came the Seventeenth infantry, swinging along with the jauntiness it displayed when it marched through the blizzard and sand along the Cheyenne river. There was a rumbling back of the infantrymen. The mules, with patient-looking faces, and statuesque ears, were dragging the machine cannon, those guns the Indians declare shoot to-day and kill to-morrow. The noise came from a battery of Gatling and Hotchkiss guns, with mules plodding along at their sides, with cartridges they were married quietly. Until Miss packed in white canvas bags on their Everett returned to her home two weeks backs. Behind these machine cannon was Capt. Capron's battery of three-inch rifled guns, with soldiers holding carbines sitting on the caissons.

The Glorious Sixth Cavalry.

Behind the artillery was Gen. Carr, astride a bay horse and leading the Sixth cavalry, which had cut its way through the southwest from the Indian nation to Rio Grande. More Hotchkiss guns followed. Then came the Leavenworth battalion, a mixed regiment commanded by Col. Sanford. Behind these troops was still another battery of grim Hotchkiss guns, the carriages of which still bore evidence of the furious storm of shot that raged for an hour at Wounded Knee. A lean, shrunken-faced man, with his overcoat buttoned tightly around his throat and mounted on a splendid horse, followed the cannon. It was Col, Guy V. Henry, who was shot through the face in the bat tle with the Sioux in 1876, and who led his flying negro troopers of the Ninth in an all night ride of eighty miles to save the Seventh cavalry, which was treatened with Custer's fate less than four weeks ago.

A Line of Black Heroes. Behind him were long lines of black faces peeping from fur caps and the high collars of buffalo overcoats. The red and white guidons fluttered before each company. The negro cavalry came in unbroken colums, with its world-famed and decorated heroes of the Thornburgh massacre riding at the extreme left, their carbines at a salute. Every man in the Ninth cavalry was in that long ebony wave of faces, and as it swept in front of Gen. Miles the famous Indian fighter dipped his hat again and again. There was another battery of machine guns and then came in long column front the most celebrated regiment in the west ern army. It was preceded by a bugle corps mounted on white horses and from glittering instruments there came a shrill blast, that even the screaming of the storm could not drown. The troopers of the Seventh savalry, a regiment that has been torn and leveled by the silent ghost dancers on the buttes, was approaching. The musicians from California began to play "Garry Owen," a stirring, rollicking melody, which Custer said was fit music for any soldier's death.

Nearly Four Thousand Men.

The only one who was not killed or wounded in that terrible fight, and the only one to lead B troop was a second lieutenant with a bandage about his head, but the gallant troopers who remained rode with proud bearing, their rifles being held over the heads of their horses. hind the cavalry came the hospital and supply trains and pack mules. The column was an hour passing Gen. Miles, there being nearly 4,000 soldiers and 3,700 horses and mules in line.

Many negro families in Alabama are moving to Oklahoma.

Vermont's Centennial

Bennington is looking forward to a gigantic celebration next summer. The act of the legislature providing for a celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the admission of Vermont into the Union, and for the dedication of the Bennington battle monument, Aug. 19, 1891, makes the governor, with the lieutenant governor, speaker of the house, state treasurer and secretary of state, a committee of five, who shall make the necessary arrangements and have general charge and management of the ceremonies attending the dedication of the monument and the centennial celebra-

The committee shall invite in the name of the state of Vermont the national government and the states of New Hampshire and Massachusetts to unite with Vermont in the dedication and celebration. Furthermore, the committee shall issue in the name of the state all invitations to invited guests, and shall call the annual encampment of the National Guard of Vermont. It is discretionary with these officials what amount of money to spend. The responsibility of the celebrations is on the state and not the battle association nor the people of Bennington.

The battle of Bennington was fought Aug. 16, 1777, but as Aug. 16 next year will fall on Sunday it was deemed best to have the celebrations in the middle of the week for the convenience of those who may come from a distance, and for this reason Wednesday, Aug. 19, was designated by the legislature.—Burlington Free Press.

Eugenie's Cousin Casafuerta Dead. Our Paris correspondent writes that a cousin of the Empress Eugenie, the Marquis de Casafuerta, has just died at the for many years in what might be termed a domain, the wall of which skirted one side of the Rue des Ecuries d'Artois, and a part of what in his time was the Rue de l'Oratoire. But carefully as the secret of Queen Isabella's consent was kept it leaked out, and Prince Bismarck and Signor Rattazzi put their heads together, and by getting her dethroned defeated the scheme.—London News.

Reform in Smoking.

Some New Haven smokers have started a tobacco moderation society, members being limited to three cigars a day. They have to deposit daily a sum equaling what they have been accustomed to spend on tobacco, minus the value of the three cigars. And in case a member smokes more than three cigars on any day he forfeits all the money he has deposited. Those who adhere to the agree-ment for one year will share equally in the fund created by the forfeitures. This is very good as far as it goes, but it would seem as though there ought to be some prize for the members who smoke less than three cigars a day.—New York Tribune.
