that you will be astonished at the prices we are asking for our Spring Suits. These prices go as low $5.00, $6.00, $7.00, and $7.50. Perhaps you cannot realize how such suits can be made for such a figure; and it does seem incredible. But you will be still more amazed when you find out how excellent they are as to quality of material. As a matter of fact they would be cheap at much higher figures, for the greatest possible care has been ex-ercised in finishing them, and they can scarcely be distinguished from made

THE HENNING SUIT.

The Damages Against the City to His Property Opposite the Central Depot.

TO BE DROPPED ON HIS OWN MOTION

But Will Be Continued Against the Rail-Road Company. Ann Arbor May Be Relieved of an Important Law Suit.

The Argus understands that Mr. David Henning, of Chicago, has decided to drop his suit against the city for damages incurred by the building of the Michigan Central railroad bridge. The suit was originally brought against the city and the railroad company. It will be continued as against the railroad company, who were the real parties as Pontiac, thus closing two cross- houses. ings and saving the expense of flagmen and lessening the liabilities for damages by accidents. It is probable that Mr. Henning reached this conclusion out of regard for his old time home [and its citizens who are his old time friends. This decision relieves the city from defending a bad suit, for the supreme court has drawn a fine distinction since the bridge was built. Previous to that time, the decisions were that a city might raise the grade of a street any time and adjoining property owners could claim no damage on account of the change in the grade. But two years ago in a case similar to this one, which went up from Detroit, the supreme court decided that building the approaches to a bridge was not changing the grade of the street and that abutting property owners could claim damages.

During the past few days Mr. Henning has had several conferences with the city authorities, who are old friends of his, and has at last decided that, although he believed he could collect damages from the city, he would not do so, for old friendship's sake, and for this the thanks of our citizens are

Mr. Henning's love for Ann Arbor is well known to his many acquaintances and we are sure, if he could arrange it to again reside here, it would please very many of his

While Mr. Henning's decision to drop the case has been openly announced as above indicated, the case has not yet been formally dropped.

The town itself skirts the western shore of the lake, and consists of two hotels, a half dozen stores, and a number of summer cottages and farm residences. In winter the town loses its vitality to a certain extent; but in the summer the inhabitants wax fat upon fresh fish and succulent summer boarder. Ann Arbor people make the place their favorite holiday ground, and many a prodigious fish story has been incubated along the pebbly borders of the limpid lake. F. M. Lumbard, minstrel and bard, famed throughout a hundred townships, has reared his home upon the northern margin. The lake is surrounded by a shady road, and several steam and sailing craft ply its benefited by the closing of State waters, while rowboats innumerable street and the building the bridge can be secured for a stipulated conover Beakes street, formerly known sideration from half-a-dozen boat

Here are ninety acres of level meadow land, bounded on the west by an inviting forest. "Dead" lake lies to the south and west in convenient proximity to the encampment grounds. Upon the east are "pleasant fields and pastures green," and on the north the highway. The Spring Lake ice company has a mammoth ice house full to the rafters with the congealed product of Whitmore lake. It is conveniently located within 100 rods of the camp grounds. Water for culinary purposes will be piped from an adjacent flowing spring, and Dead lake furnishes a splendid beach for bathing.

Is Ashley Worth That Much?

Ex-Gov. Ashley, of Toledo, formerly of this city and principal owner of the Ann Arbor road, has just been cited to appear in the Toledo courts and show why during the past six years he has not paid taxes on $28,385,713 worth of bonds, stocks and credits, nearly all of which is on the Ann Arbor road. Attached to the affidavits of the tax inquisitors is a list of the stockholders of the road and an affidavit made by Ashley in Ashley vs. Alley in the United States Circuit, in which he showed that he owned the bonds now said to be listed. There are only ten miles of the road in Ohio, but as Ashley lives there, it is claimed that the tax on hsi entire property should be paid in Toledo. The taxes claimed amount up in the hundreds of thousands of How "Rocker" Separating Was Carried on in Pioneer Days in California.

The most expensive instrument of the early miner was the rocker, which, though simple in construction, cost in the mines from fifty to a hundred dollars. In general appearance it was not James McLaren has moved his unlike a baby's cradle as used by our frontier. It consisted of a flat bottom with two sides that flared outward, and an end board at the head, while the foot was open save a riffle about an inch and a half high at the bottom to catch the gold that might pass another riffle across the bottom near the middle. At the head of the cradle was a hopper about eighteen inches square, with a perforated sheet iron bottom or wire screen. Under this was an apron, or board, sloping downward toward the head. Two sub-stantial rockers under the whole completed the simple machine which gave to the world millions of dollars.

The modus operandi may be described as follows: Two sticks of wood hewn on the upper side were imbedded at the river's brink, one four inches lower than the other, on which the rockers were to rest, thus securing a grade in the machine to facilitate the outward flow of the water and sand. Two miners usually worked together as partners. One shoveled the earth into the rocker, while the other, seated on a bowlder or block of wood, dipped the water from the river and poured it upon the earth in the hopper with one hand, all the time rocking with the other. When the earth was thoroughly washed, he rose, lifted the hopper from its place, threw out the stones and gravel, replaced it, and thus the work went on. As the ground about the rocker became exhausted to the bedrock, recourse was had to the bucket. and the earth was carried sometimes a few rods, making laborious work for the miner.

To keep the rocker going another hand would be employed to carry earth, and each would carry two buckets at a time. Hard work of this kind suggested improvements in mining. At noon the gold and black sand collected above the riffles were taken up on a scraper and thrown into the pan, which was carried to the river and carefully washed to remove as far as possible all but the gold. The yield of the forenoon was carried to the camp, dried over a blaze, the dry sand blown out, and the gold weighed in scales or guessed at, and poured into the partnership purse and deposited under the bed or anywhere else out of sight.-Cent-

Riders in the Time of Alexander.

One of the most precious relics of the past is a bronze statuette dug up at Herculaneum in 1751, and thought to be a copy of the equestrian statue known to have been made of Alexander the Great by Lysippus, after the battle of the Granicus, when statues of all the brave who fell in this initial victory were made by the famous sculptor. If it is truly a copy of Lysippus' work we can judge from it how the Macedonians managed their horses in a hand-to-hand conflict. The king is shown sitting on a blanket firmly held in place by a breast strap and girth. Without dropping the reins from his bridle hand he grasps this substitute for a saddle at the withers, and turning full half way to the right and looking backward, gives a swinging cut with his sword to the rear, covering as big an arc of the circle as the best heels well away from the horses' flanks, or rather that they did not rely on their heels to cling to him, is shown by their commonly wearing spurs, a thing the Indian usually avoids, and the same habit shows clearly in this piece of art. -Colonel T. A. Dodge in Harper's.

Care of the Hair.

The hair, like every other portion of the human frame, if uncared for will go to waste and eventually drop out. This is due to a splitting of the ends of the hair, so that the interior oil duct which nourishes the hair is exposed, and the natural nourishment of the hair runs to waste, overflows upon the head, forming dandruff, which impedes the growth of the hair just as much as the tares among wheat. The best means to prevent this is a strengthening of the hair, and this can easily be accomplished by frequent cutting and the use of salt water and

Have you ever noticed what bushy hair seafaring men have? Did you ever see a bald sailor? It is because their hair is in constant contact with the invigorating salt air, and is often wet with salt water. A good tonic of salt water should contain a teaspoonful of salt to a tumbler of water, and should be applied to the hair two or three times a week. The effect at the end of a month will be surprising.—American Spectator.

Where Gold Comes From.

The gold taken from the river bars was mostly in the form of scales resembling cucumber seeds, and of varying size. It was most plentiful on the bed rock and in a few inches of soil above it, though sometimes three or four feet of earth would pay to wash. Where the bed rock was hard the miner cleaned it, for a shovelful of dirt might contain a few dollars in small particles. Where the bed rock was soft shale or slate on edge the miner picked away an inch or so What Bell and Edison are to the and washed it, as frequently the scales were found to be driven quite thickly into the crevices. When the ground was very rich the rocker was cleaned of gold every hour or so .- E. J. Waite in Cent-

TERMS .- $1.25 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE.

Mr. Iredell Meares, formerly deputy collector of customs at Wilmington, N. C., has given a description of the jute drawback frauds by which the government was robbed of $242,000 by the Jute Bagging trust. The law in force up to last October allowed a drawback of 90 per cent. (it is now 99) "on articles manufactured of materials imported, on which duties have been paid.'

There are manufacturers in the United States, in various lines of trade, largely dependent upon foreign raw material to supply the needs of their business, and where they take the product of their factories, made entirely of imported duty paid material, and export it to foreign markets, or where the purchasers of their product, who thereby indirectly pay the duty upon the raw material, export the manufactured article to foreign countries, it would seem that the statute operates justly in refunding the duty. Jute is now on the free list by the McKinley law, but it is of interest still to recall these jute drawback frauds to show what steals are possible in our cus-

The person entitled to a drawback is the exporter, and he alone. When the manufacturer sold the bagging he made the buyer pay him the duty on the jute, and clearly he had no further claim upon anybody for a refund of the duty. The cotton planter bought the bagging with the duty added to the price, and the cotton itself sold with the duty added. The exporting merchant was the last in the line of American purchasers to pay the duty, and if anybody was to receive the refund of duty from the government he was evidently the man. Hence the law provides that the exporter shall produce the certificate from the collector of the port where the duty was originally paid; that "the exporter shall produce the sworn affidavit of the proprietor and foreman of the manufactory at which the article was manufactured."

The law never contemplated that the importer of the raw material should receive the refund of duty unless he were also the exporter of the manufactured article. Likewise, the law makes no provision for a refund of duty to the manufacturer unless he himself exports his product. The law recognizes the principle that when goods made of foreign raw materials are sold, the seller makes back all that had been paid in duties.

Now, in the jute bagging referred to there was the grossest fraud. When, in 1883, it was determined to extend the drawback provision to jute bagging the determination was not generally made public. Mr. Meares says:

"The decision of the department to this effect was made by letter to the collector of customs at New York, dated at Washington, Nov. 14, 1883, and signed by the assistant secretary of the treasury. Copies of this letter were inclosed in communications separately sent to each office for the guidance of collectors at smaller ports. The letter does not appear, however, in the bound volume of synopsis of treasury decisions for the year 1883. It is the custom of the department to issue in printed circular form for gratuitous distribution instructions of this kind.

"Why was this not published in the monthly and yearly editions of instructions and decisions? It may have been intentionally withheld from too much public notice. In any event, it served well the manufacturers' purposes. It is not charged that they instigated the letter above quoted and had notice of it quietly forwarded to the several ports by some one friendly to their scheme and having some power over the matter in the department at Washington, instead of publishing it widespread, but it is mentioned as one of the coincidences which so nicely fit in with the suspicious payment of the drawback claims discussed. Had the intention of the department to allow jute bagging to become subject to drawback duty been given out publicly exporters would have immediately sought their rights in the premises, having notice of the law and regulations, but the manufacturers would have been disturbed in their quiet progress in collecting it."

As this ruling of the department was not properly published, the exporters of cotton were not aware that a refund of duty would be made; but in some way the United States Bagging Manufacturers' association or jute bagging trust got the information, and the members of this trust went quietly to work to gobble up what belonged to the cotton exporters. The members of the trust, being importers, could produce evidence that they imported at certain times and in certain quantities the raw material, and as manufacturers they could furnish the required affidavits as to when and where this pile was made into bagging, but how could they identify this raw material in the exports? They could not, but they made a bluff at it. Mr. Meares

"With this evidence in hand, which nominally but substantially met the requirements of the regulations to produce evidence of import and manufacture of the article upon which the demand for drawback is made, and armed by a power of attorney, the local agent watched the exportations of cotton at his particular port, and whenever local exporters cleared a cargo of cotton to foreign markets he forthwith proceeded to file his claim, in behalf of the association, for the payment of the drawback duty, and during the season of 1883 and 1884 succeeded in collecting it at a number of the cotton ports. The form in which these claims are made state under oath of party making them that the particular lot of jute bagging therein stated to have been exported was manufactured in the United States of the jute butts certified to in accompanying documents as having been imported and duty paid, and the date of import, when, where and by whom manufactured is inserted and sworn to

"When it is remembered that it is a practical impossibility to follow this bagging from the factory, through the mer-chants' and farmers' hands, and back to its place of exportation, after the rolls in which it was first sold have been cut up and separate pieces wrapped around the cotton bales, and identify it as that made from any particular importation, it will readily be seen that the certificates filed as to import and manufacture are merely nominal, and substantially proved nothing as to identity."

These gentlemen seemed to have no fear of perjury before their eyes. They had to swear that the exported bagging was made solely from the jute butts imported, and manufactured as "in said entry stated"-a thing which they could not possibly know. Of course a man who will juggle with an oath in this fashion will not hesitate about mixing himself up with another man's property, but the nerve of this proceeding is something delightful. The exported property did not belong to the United States Bagging Manufacturers' association. That association was not exporting the cotton or the bagging. It had nothing to do with or no claim upon either. Yet it stationed an agent at every port in the United States who claimed and received five dollars a ton, less 10 per cent., on a class of exports to which it had not a shadow of title. It is interesting to note that the outrage which was allowed under the Arthur administration was stopped shortly after Mr. Cleveland became president. This was not only very bad morals, but it was very bad law, as Mr. Meares shows:

"The collector at each port is required to determine whether the regulations are properly complied with, and whether the claim is properly and substantially proven. In the cases here discussed the drawback was paid to the manufacturers, although their names did not appear on the export manifest at the custom house as the shippers, in the face of the requirement of the Revised Statutes, section 3,038, which reads, 'All debentures shall be issued and made payable to the original importer of the merchandise, entered for exportation, whenever the same shall be requested in writing, by the exporter, but not otherwise.' This is an express inhibition upon the government officials paying claims of this character, howver well established otherwise, to any other person than the exporter, unless so requested by him in writing, and it was totally disregarded by the collectors liquidating the refund here referred to. Investigation discloses the fact that the written authority required in all such cases was not produced by the claimants of the refund, as the law required, and either through gross careessness or connivance the claims were illegally and wrongfully paid."

The amount of money thus received by the enterprising manufacturer was: In 1883, $107,183.06; in 1884, $116,683.72; in 1885, $18,525.40. Total, $242,392.18.

Not Helping Wool Growers.

Protection does not always accomplish the object it has in view. McKinley raised the duties on wool last year for the benefit of the wool growers, but no benefit has resulted. On the contrary, Ohio wool of the best quality is lower than usual. In Texas, too, where medium and low grade clothing wools are produced, the outlook is reported to be discouraging.

A special correspondent of the Boston Wool Reporter, who has been traveling in Texas, was told by the sheep growers there that the wool product this year will probably be considerably less than usual, owing to the discouraging outlook for good prices. He found, also, that many sheep are being shipped out of the state for mutton. On one ranch of 45,000 to 50,000 sheep a good portion of them were being fattened for shipment to Chicago and Kansas City. While the wool clip of Texas last year was about 18,000,-000 pounds, this correspondent estimates that it will not be more than about 15,000,000 this year, and he does not believe that 3,000,000 sheep will be shorn this year, while about 3,650,000 were shorn last year.

The wool market reports have recently made mention of the fact that Texas and territory wools are in good demand, and the stock of them nearly exhausted, owing to the fact that Australian wools have been more largely imported this year than ever, and the wools from the southwest are needed to mix with them in manufacturing. If the wool duties were removed, would not our native wool be demanded in greater quantities than ever, more looms be employed and more people better clothed than ever?

Why a Boom Burst.

Laredo, Tex., has been on a great "boom" within a year past, but the improvement company of the town has been put into the hands of a receiver, and the outlook is described as "decidedly gloomy."

One of the causes for the flattening out of Laredo's boom is worthy of attention from those simple minded people who fancy that a tariff does not restrict trade and interfere with business. A correspondent of The American Wool Reporter writes from Laredo as follows:

"One of the severest blows Laredo has experienced, and which has added much to the depression in real estate there, is the result of the decision of the late Secretary Windom, shutting out of this country Mexican lead ores. At this point had just been erected the buildings of the Omaha and Kansas City Ore Sampling works and a large concentrator for the reduction of ores by the Yguana Mining company, of Philadelphia, at a cost of $300,000. These industries are now closed down, and the machinery has all been removed to Monterey, Mex-

The Windom decision has now given place to the McKinley law, and as this law imposes a duty of 11 cents per pound on lead ores, Laredo cannot smelt those ores with profit, although lying right on the Mexican border.

HINTS FROM A BURGLAR.

AN INTERVIEW WITH A MAN WHO DOES HOUSEBREAKING.

He Calmly Tells the Man Who Shot at Him Why He Did Not Fire in Return. "Don't Try to Catch a Burglar"-How They Work in Gangs in Robbing a House.

Some time ago the house of Henry Kahn, on Home avenue, was entered by burglars. Mr. Kahn, lying in bed, with a bullseye flashing in his face, fired two shots at the visitors, who left the premises without carrying anything with them. "I read in the papers of the capture of a gang of burglars," remarked Mr. Kahn, "and concluded to pay a visit to the jail and see if my burglars were there. Jailer Emmett received me graciously, and a boy behind the bars took me among the prisoners. In one of the cells a little game of cards was going on, in which the participants seemed deeply interested. A fine looking man was near by, watching it. The boy whispered me that he was Horton, the burglar, the man I was looking for. "Do you think you ever saw me before?" I asked him.

"I don't remember," was the answer. "I live on Home avenue," I suggested.
"Oh," said he, with some appearance of interest. "Your name is Kahn. Yes, I paid you a visit the other evening."

'You left rather suddenly.' "Oh, no; we left quite leisurely. There was no hurry. You see we were somewhat mistaken about your place. We had been told that we might pick up $5,000 or $6,000 in good stuff-jewelry, and perhaps some money. It was worth going after and taking some unusual chances to get.'

Mr. Kahn explained to the reporter that the commonplace, businesslike manner of the burglar was incomparable and altogether fascinating. He asked him how they went about the job.

HOW HE PROCEEDED. "In the first place," said Horton, "1 stationed a man at the door of your sleeping rooms, and that man never left the door from the time we entered the house until we went away. One man was stationed below and another across the street-four of us, you see. I first went into the room where a lady and a little girl were sleeping, but didn't arouse them. Then I took a look at the servant girl, but didn't wake her. When I came in the hall again the man at your door said he had heard a whispering inside and that there had been a signal from the outside that somebody in the house was up.

"When I was told this I went to your door and lay down and listened. I lay there fifteen minutes, but didn't hear anything. I finally decided to go into your room. I had looked over the house and thought the valuables must be in your room, as they were not elsewhere. I turned the knob, put in the light and then you fired."

Mr. Kahn asked why he didn't leave then, and not wait for a second shot.

"Oh," said the burglar coolly, "I had no occasion for leaving. We felt perfectly secure. I sat down in the hall thinking you might come out. I had two guns heavier than yours, and I hesitated for some time whether or not to give you a slug any way."

Mr. Kahn remarked to him that if he had come into the room he might not have had everything his own way. "I beg your pardon," said the burglar,

"neither myself nor any expert burglar with a dark lantern nee from pistol shots. The lantern properly flashed in one's face disturbs one so he doesn't know where he is shooting. I was in no danger, and you were. I only left because I thought it best to avoid serious trouble, and so when you fired your second shot we went away.' POINTS FROM A BURGLAR.

Mr. Kahn remarked that a man of his courage and appearance—a fine looking man, with good address, who could make a success at almost anything ought to be in some other business.

"Oh," said the burglar, "I have always been a successful business man. I was a lawyer for some time, with a good practice, but I became involved in a little affair that withdrew me from practice. Then I took up burglary. It is a fascinating profession, and in it I have had my full share of success." He said this with his face turned squarely toward the questioner. He has a high forehead. a sincere and honest expression of countenance, blue eyes, wavy, iron gray hair and fine physique. He is about forty-five years old. Horton then went on to give advice as to the way in which people should act when called upon by burglars. 'Make a noise," he said; "as much noise as possible when you can. Don't try to catch a burglar. A burglar who knows his business is never taken while at work-always after the job is done, and he is trying to conceal or dispose of his wag.

During the conversation he said that he alone had gone through the safe of E. Rauh, of South Pennsylvania street. He was told that he had overlooked "a sleeper," something of value he might easily have taken-in this case diamond earrings worth $700 that were in an envelope that he had thrown aside with other papers.

"I beg your pardon," said the burglar, "I was at the job three hours. I didn't overlook anything. I went through everything with great care, and there was no such 'sleeper' as you mention. I didn't want to destroy the papers that would have done me no good, and would have given Mr. Rauh unnecessary trouble. I take pride in my profession and do my work thoroughly. I am pretty sure I didn't overlook anything in that job."-Indianapolis Journal.

What an "Inch" of Rain Means.

Few people can form a definite idea of what is involved in the expression, "An inch of rain." It may aid such to follow this curious calculation: An acre is equal to 6,272,640 square inches; an inch deep of water on this area will be as many cubic inches of water, which, at 227 to the gallon, is 22,000 gallons. This immense quantity of water will weigh 220,-000 pounds, or 100 tons. One-hundredth of an inch (0.01) alone is equal to one ton of water to the acre.—St. Louis Republic.

To Be Set By Machinery.

Not long ago, the ARGUS discovered that the number of papers it printed every week was too large to be folded by hand. It accordingly doing excellent work, folding papers at the rate of nearly 2,000 an hour. The Argus has for a long time been setting much more type for its readers than any of the weekly papers of the county. Hence for some time, the proprietor has been watching the progress of the Rogers typograph and, the first of the week, made a visit to Detroit to investigate the workings of the typograph in that city. So that we may now announce that type for the Argus will hereafter be set by machinery. After our 'operator becomes acquainted with the working of the machine, we expect to give our subscribers much more reading matter than they have had. The work on the Argus will then be nearly all done by machinery from the setting of the type to the folding and mailing the paper.

A LITTLE BATT E INSOUTH AFRICA

In Which British Police Are Successful Over Big Odds-Lisbon Talking War Again-English Preparing to Welcome a Chief Who Is Tired of the Portuguese-A Man of His Word-Sad Death of Lord Romilly-Snubbed by a Prin-

LONDON, May 25,-Lord Randolph Churchill cables to The Graphic from Capetown that on May 12 an encounter took place at the rear of Massikesse, between the Portuguese and the British South Africa company's police. Portuguese numbered about 250 Europeans and 500 natives with four guns, The British numbered sixty with one The Portuguese were repulsed with seven killed and more wounded. It is believed that the Portuguese, having occupied Massikesse, which was found evacuated, marched on Umtassa, where the fight occurred.

War Feeling in Lisbon.

This news has caused much excitement both in London and Lisbon. A dispatch from the latter city states that the war feeling is again uppermost, and that the people are clamoring for revenge upon the British South Africa company. This for the moment has diverted attention from the financial crisis, which makes it impossible for Portugal to make any formidable warlike demonstration.

Doesn't Like the Portuguese. The English authorities are preparing to give a stunning reception to the two emissaries from the powerful African king, Gungunhama, whose territories lie chiefly within the bounds claimed by Portugal. Gungunhama asks for British protection, and declares that he wants nothing to do with the Portuguese. He is brother-in-law to Lebungu, king of Mat abeles, who sent a similar embassy to England some time ago, and was astonished at the report brought back of the glories of Windsor castle and London.

Had to Bake Somebody. He would not believe them and or-dered them to be baked alive, from which fate they were saved by an English missionary, who convinced the king that they told the truth. The missionary was horrified to learn later on that the king had caused two of his slaves to be subjected to the fate intended for his emissaries, on the ground that, having given his word, somebody must perish.

LORD ROMILLY SUFFOCATED.

Tragic End of the Scion of a Distinguish British Family.

LONDON, May 25.-A tragical fire occurred here on Saturday night. At midnight on that night Lord William Romilly was in his drawing room at his London town house, 2 Covington Gardens, S. Wa., when he accidentally upset a parafine lamp, causing a blaze which set fire to the apartment. Lord Romilly attempted in vain to extinguish the flames, which spread, causing a suffocating smoke. His lordship was overcome by the smoke and sank senseless to the

Two Servants Lose Their Lives. The butler, smelling the smoke, rushed to the drawing-room. There he found Lord Romilly helpless. He at once pulled his lordship out of the room, and aroused by his cries the other servants. An alarm of fire was given, and engines hurried to the scene, and soon extinguished the flames. The firemen entering the house, found two of the servants, Blanche Griffin, the house-maid, and Emma Lovell, the cook, both senseless. Lord Romilly was removed to St. George's hospital, but all attempts to bring him to life failed. Both the servants named were already dead when carried to the hospital.

A Fireman Badly Injured.

A fireman named George Byne was seriously injured while assisting in the res cue of the inmates. Lord William Romilly was descended from the great jurisconsult, Sir Samuel Romilly. His father also was an eminent lawyer. He was himself born in 1885. He leaves a widow, Lady Helen (Denison) Romilly, and a son by a former wife, John Gaspard Romilly, born in 1866.

THE BISHOP OF LONDON IN PERIL.

Warned by a Letter That an Assassin Is After Him.

LONDON, May 27 .- Right Rev. Frederick Temple, bishop of London, having received a letter warning him that an attempt would be made on Sunday last to assassinate him during the course of the services, a number of detectives were placed on duty in and around St. Paul's cathedral on that day. The services were concluded without anything unusual having occurred. Nevertheless, it is be-lieved that the threat was made in earnest, and that it failed in execution only by reason of the extraordinary vigilance of the police authorities. A strict watch is still maintained by the police, who believe that the unknown man only awaits a favorable opportunity to murder the Queen Vic's Granddaughter Does About the Right Thing at Moscow.

LONDON, May 25.—General Greeszer, prefect of police at Moscow, who has won an infamous notoriety by his severe execution of the order for the expulsion of Jews, was snubbed by the Princess Elizabeth, wife of the Grand Duke Sergius, on her arrival in Moscow last week. On the grand duke formally assuming command of the city the various officials were introduced to him and his wife. The grand duke treated Greeszer with the same gracious condescension that he extended to other officers, but the granddaughter of Queen Victories looked in another direction when he bowed profoundly before her. Englishmen are proud of and Jews are delighted with her action.

AN APPEAL TO BLAINE.

International Row Over Doing Honor to

Queen Vic's Birthday. DETROIT, Mich., May 26.—It has long been the custom of the Detroit, Belle Isle and Windsor Ferry company, which does business between Windsor, Canada, and Detroit, to observe the holidays of both countries by decorating the boats with flags. Queen Victoria's 72d birthday anniversary was Sunday, and the Canadian government ordered it celebrated yesterday. Yesterday morning not a flag waved from the poles of either ferry boat, the Hope or the Victoria, Fly the Flag or Be Tied Up. When Canadian Customs Officer Beers noticed this he ordered the captain of the Hope to get out his bunting. That officer complied willingly, but when he ordered the captain of the Victoria to do the same that officer absolutely refused until ordered by Superintendent Clinton. Beers sent for Clinton and roused the latter's from the main shaft, and a raise was ire by ordering the flags displayed at made from the drift to intersect an old inconce. Clinton flatly told Beers that he would no nothing of the sort, and hot would no nothing of the sort, and hot words passed between the men. Beers posed that when the break was made telling Clinton that he would have the through, the men were at once overcome in the breeze.

Clinton Finally Wilted. Clinton wilted at this, and the cross of sible, and he carried Miller and returned St. George floated all the rest of the day for Dierks, only to pay the forfeit of his on both boats. Beers claimed that he had a right to do as he did, as the boats do an international business and work under a Canadian charter. Collector George H. Hopkins, of the port of Detroit, and the United States district attorney deny this right. The full details of the affair were sent to Secretary Blaine by wire,

JESSE POMEROY'S WORK.

The "Boy Murderer" Tries His Hand at a Prison Delivery.

Boston, May 27 .- It was discovered Monday that Jesse Pomeroy had drilled and sawed off the lock from the door of his cell in the "arch," where the worst prisoners are confined at the state prison. He had sawed his iron bed in two and taken off an iron leg, with which he had pushed back the bolt. The drill and saw were found in his cell, and how Pomeroy got them is a mystery. Yesterday noon one of the convicts was missing from his cell, where a well-made-up dummy was found. It failed to deceive the officer. A search was made for the man, who was found stowed away in one of the lofts and proved to be Daniel Mullin, who is serving five years for robbery. Pomeroy and Mullin-were at once placed in solitary con-

Secretary Blaine Convalescent.

NEW YORK, May 27.—Secretary Blaine went out for another ride yesterday afternoon. He is now convalescent. He will leave for Bar Harbor next week. Count Arco Valley, the German minister at Washington City, called upon the secre-tary yesterday, and had a pleasant talk with him.

Rain Has Killed the Bugs.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., May 26.-From a number of Sangamon county farmers Secretary Garrard, of the state board of agriculture, learns that the recent rains have completely destroyed the black bug which has been injuring growing corn.

Short in His Accounts.

NEW YORK, May 25.-A special from Wilmington to The Press says John J. Dougherty, collector of taxes for the northern district, is short in his accounts $15,000. He has fled from the city and is supposed to be in New York city.

Nebraska's First Governor Dead.

Lincoln, Neb., May 26.—Ex-Governor David Butler died suddenly of heart failure at his home near Pawnee City yester. day in his 62d year. He was Nebraska's first governor after she became a state.

A Fair Proposition.

You, perhaps, never heard of Drs. Fruth, formerly of New York, now of the Fruth Medical and Surgical Institute of Chicago, Ill.; or, having heard of them, are probably prejudiced by a would be friend, or jealous physician, who never lose an opportunity to pre-judice the afflicted against, as they call them, traveling physicians; but who are in fact regular graduates of Medical Colleges of good standing and have had advantages that few possess. Their regular visits here for nearly Their regular visits here for nearly two years, mean something—it means, competency, fairness, a sense of honor and duty to their patient. If the crowds that throng their parlors at each succeeding visit can be taken as an index of the appreciation, in which they are held by their patients, we would say "no hesitancy exists—everylody seems pleased, with the progress made in the treatment of their case. made in the treatment of their case. If you are suffering from any chronic, or long standing disease, that has baffled the skill of the home physician, go and have your case examined, and if you are not satisfied with their expaid both ways; if on the other hand, you see fit to have your case treated, provided it is curable, they will guarantee a cure. Can a proposition be more fair? Could you ask more? Your case may now be curable, but if Your case may now be curable, but he you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when medical aid can render you no assistance, when the door of hope will be forever closed against you. Then, for the first time, you will realize what negligence means. You cannot afford to trifle away your life and happiness upon uncertainty and ruinous experi-

KILLED BY FOUL AIR.

Three Miners Suffocated, and in Attempting to Save a Comrade.

BRECKENRIDGE, Colo., May 27.-A terrible accident occurred yesterday at the Little Corporal mine, near this place, by which three men-William Barklie, John Dierks, and B. Benson-lost their lives. It appears that a drift has been driven Victoria tied up unless the flags waved with the rush of foul air and killed. Dierks and Elmer Miller were found by Benson in the top of the raise, both insenown life for his singular bravery.

ALLIANCE IDEAS OF RIGHT.

Some Lawless Capers Cut in the Grasshopper State.

TOPEKA, Kan., May 27 .- Joseph Bennett, a faamer in Jewell county, Kan., borrowed money from Ida Ashborn, a school teacher of Jewell City, giving a mortgage on his farm for security. He failed to pay the notes when due, and the farm was sold under forclosure, and the farm rented to Joseph Kindlesperger, Bennett is a member of the Farmers' Al-Bennett is a memory of the liance. Sunday night thirty or forty masked Alliance men, with Bennett at the head, drove up to the place, and requested the new tenant to leave. fused to do so, whereupon revolvers were drawn, and he was told that he could leave at once, or his dead body would be carried away. Bennett was then reinstated, and still holds the place.

SWEPT OVER THE FALLS.

Five Persons, Including Two Prominent Lumbermen, Lose Their Lives.

ST. PAUL, May 25.-A terrible accident occurred in the Kettle river near Sandstone, Minn., Friday evening. A boatload of men were crossing the river at dark and ventured too near the Kettle falls. The boat was caught in the rapids and whirled over the falls. Thomas Barney, of Chippewa Falls, and Charles A. McGraw, of Augusta, Me., both prominent lumbermen, and Swan Peterson were drowned. A boy named Whitesides and a man whose name could not be learned are missing and are probably drowned.

Fire at Missouri's Pen Itentiary.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 25.-Fire started in the J. S. Sullivan Saddletree company's shop at the state penitentiary Saturday evening and in an hour the state had lost nearly $100,000, the saddle-tree company $60,000, and the Strauss Harness company about $10,000. thought that the fire originated from an explosion of oil.

Five Soldiers Lose Their Lives.

COLUMBUS, Tex., May 23.—Yesterday a train on the Southern Pacific containing three companies of the Fifth infantry, en route to Alabama, was wrecked, Charles Carter, a private from Santa Fe, was killed outright and four others injured. The wreck occurred six miles from here. All the soldiers were badly shaken up.

Are there not scores of people who cannot see themselves as others see them? They have bad blood, pimples, blotches, eruptions, and other kindred disfigurements. All these annoying things could be entirely eradicated, and the skin restored to "lily whiteness," if that world-famed remedy, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, were given a fair trial.

It cures all humors, from the ordinary blotch, pimple or eruption to the worst scrofula, or the most inveterate blood-taints, no matter what their nature, or whether they be inherited or acquired. The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only blood-purifier quaranteed to do just what it is recommended to, or money refunded.

Vetoed by Governor Winans.

LANSING, Mich., May 26.-Governor Winans has vetoed a bill which had passed the legislature appropriating $30,of state funds for the entertainment of the visitors to the state during the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Detroit next August. The reto was based on constitutional grounds, the governor holding the appropriation to be the diversion of public funds to a private purpose, and it was not unex-pected, as the governor had already vetoed bills involving the same principle, An effort will be made to pass the bill over the veto. The failure to get the money from the state will cut no figure on Detroit's entertainment of the G.

OHIO GRANGERS.

Third Party Men Capture Their State Convention.

LEADERS ALL FAVOR THE SCHEME.

Almost Certain That a State Ticket Will Be Put Up, and Also County and District Tickets-Component Parts of the Convention at Columbus--Points from the Platform Which Will Probably Be Adopted-The 2 Per Cent. Loan Scheme Included.

COLUMBUS, O., May 27.-Present indications are that the third party men have captured the convention of the Ohio Farmers' Union which met here at 19 o'clock this morning. President Likins, of the state Alliance (open); President Ellis, of the state Grange, and other promiment leaders are strongly in favor of an independent movement. While the nominations for state offices may not be made at this meeting it is altogether probable that a convention will be arranged for that purpose, and that third party tickets in the counties and senatorial districts will be endorsed.

A Fair Representative Body. This Farmers Union is a fairly repre sentative organization, and is composed of delegates from the open and secret Alliance, the Grange, the Patrons of Husbandry, the Mutual Benefit Association and all farmers' societies having state or county organization. The present meeting is the outgrowth of a tate convention last fall at which time it as decided to hold another session be-fore the fall election. The third party movement will meet with some opposition, but conversation with delegates develops a strong sentiment in its favor, and does not leave much room to doubt that it will carry.

An Outline of the Platform.

A prominent member of the open Alliance, who is here as a delegate to the union, says that the platform to be adopted will not be an indorsement of that adopted at the recent Cincinnati convention. It will be more nearly an indorsement of the state Alliance platform adopted at Galion. He gives the substance of a platform which he has drawn up, and expects to have adopted. It demands unlimited coinage of silver; loans of unlimited amounts to farmers at 2 per cent. interest and secured by mortgage on land; abolishing the na-tional banking system; government control of railroads and telegraphs; further reduction of fees and salaries of county officials; prohibiting alien ownership of land; equal taxation on all private property; election of president, vice president and United States senators by direct vote of the people; reduction of railroad passenger fares to 2 cents a mile; the forfeiture of all unearned land grants; a graded income tax for corporations and individuals; a measure to prevent specu-lation in farm products; the passage of a law nullifying the effect of the original package decision. It is understood that the platform will contain no radical reference to the tariff question.

They're All "Agin" Sherman.
S. H. Ellis was asked if the farmers would return Senator Sherman if they controlled the next legislature. "No," said he, "I don't think there is any chance for Senator Sherman to be elected, no matter what the farmers do." All who express themselves in the matter speak decisively against Senator Sherman.

NEWS FROM THE ITATA.

When Seen the Charleston Was About 200 Miles Behind.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—The first news bout the Itata was received here Saturday. The Colima, which arrived from Panama and way ports, reported that she poke both the Itata and the Charleston. The Itata was met at 10:52 on the morning of the 15th, going south at full steam, sixty-five miles from Acapulco. At 5:20 p. m. the same day the Colima spoke the Charleston 130 miles from Acapulco. Capt. Remy, of the Charleston, asked the captain of the Colima if he had seen the Itata. He was answered in the affirmative, and then the United States cruiser went straight on her way.

Mortgage Sale-

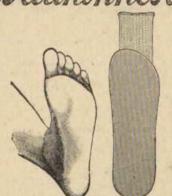

On the 31st day of March, A. D. 1883, John Lynn mortgaged to Abner P. Wilcox all that certain piece, or parcel of land situate in the township of Augusta in the country of Washtenaw and State of Michigan, described as follows to wit: "The south half of the east half of the north-east quarter of section thirty-six," to secure the purchase money of said described lands. Said mortgage was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for said country on the 29th day of May, 1885, in liber 65 of mortgages on page 497. Default has been made in the conditions of said mortgage by the non-payment of the moneys due thereon by which the power of said therein contained has become operative. There is now claimed to be due and unpaid on said mortgage the sum of eight hundred and eighty-six and 90-100 dollars and no proceedings at law or in chancery have been instituted to recover the same or any part thereof. Notice is therefore hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale in said mortgage contained and of the statute in such case made and provided, I shall sell the said premises above and in said mortgage described at public auction to the highest bidder on Saturday the 15th day of August, 1891, at one o'clock in the afterneon at the south front door of the Court House, in the city of Ann Arbor in said county, to make and satisfy the amount then due on said mortgage, the cost and charges of this foreclosure and sale and twenty-five dollars attorney fee as provided for in said mortgage.
