NEW POSTOFFICE BUILDING FOR ANN ARBOR

The State Press Association Pleased—Big Run for Fire Department.—Death of E. W. Morgan.—An Interview on the Steere Circular, Etc.

A New Postoffice Building for Ann Arbor.

A Washington despatch to the Detroit Free Press of yesterday says:

Representative Gorman introduced a bill this afternoon appropriating $75.000 for a public building at Ann Arbor. He will make this bill his most important local measure, and is very hopeful of its passage. He says that Ann Arbor is more amply entitled to a new public building than any city in Michigan not now having one. Ann Arbor has a transient population of 3,500 people who are not accommodated by the free delivery system and has a steady population larger than many cities already supplied with buildings.

Hard but Effectual Run.

If there is a more efficient fire department in lhe state than that which Ann Arbor possesses, we would like to know where it is located. Early Wednesday morning fire broke out at the residence of ex-Mayor Manly, which is located on top of the lower town hill and at the extreme limits of the city. The fire department nevertheless reached the scene after a hard run over a slippery road and up a very steep grade and succeeded in putting out the blaze with no more damage than what $150 will cover. The cause of the fire was a defective heat conductor from which the floor in the rear portion of the house caught. No alarm was sounded at the engine house as it was feared that the bell might break on account of the intense cold.

Death of E. W. Morgan.

Another of Ann Arbor's oldest pioneers, Elijah W. Morgan, died yesterday at his home in this city after several years of illness, during which he has been confined to his house. His death was the result of old age and general breaking down of health.

Mr. Morgan was one of the donators of the University campus to the state, he giving one-fifth of the forty acres. He was born in Watertown, N. Y., May 15, 1805, his father being Rev. Elisha Morgan, of Welsh descent. He lived in that locality, working as farmer and teacher until 1827, when he took charge of a law business at Auburn for a couple of years. In the spring of 1829, Mr. Morgan came to Detroit and traveled in several parts of the state, finally locating at Ann Arbor, accepting a position in the office of the Prosecuting Attorney.

He soon became one of the leading men of this vicinity. He was also one of the wealthiest and owned property in nearly every part of the state, but, by a turn of fortune, his own property was swept away from him, leaving little except his wife's estate, which he handled so judiciously that when his wife died, nearly five years ago, she was considered the wealthiest resident of Ann Arbor. He was a director and cashier of the old Bank of Washtenaw, and was president of the Toledo & Ann Arbor Railroad upon its first organization. In muncipal affairs he was honored with many offices of trust and held many positions. He did but little practice in the courts in latter years, but was the oldest member of the Washtenaw County bar.

The funeral will be held Saturday.

Enterprising Citizens.

The School of Music is now an assured success; at least the required hundred names have been obtained to back the project financially. So rapidly have they been coming in of late that the committee is now trying to secure fifty additional subscribers. However, in any case the conservatory will be opened Oct. 1st, 1892, with a full corps of teachers and everything necessary for the reception of students. Just where the headquarters will be has not yet been determined, but ample provision will be made no matter what number may come in, The enterprise will doubtless attract numerous students who can thus secure an unsurpassed literary and professional education, and at the same time take advantage of a fine musical training. Following is the list of citizens who prevented the project from falling through:

James L. Babcock, Zachary Roath, Sedgwick Dean, Henry S. Dean, Koch & Henne, Mann Bros., E. V. Hangsterfer, Evart H. Scott, A. Felch, James Clements, Hutzel & Co., Michael Staebler, Wadhams, Kennedy & Reule, Martin Haller, Wm. Arnold, W. G. Dieterle, J. T. Jacobs, Martin Seabolt, Adam D. Seyler, Wm. H. Salyer, J. F. Their Expressions Upon Leaving.

The members of the Michigan State Press Association were greatly pleased with their entertainment during their stay in this city. The following resolutions were presented by the committee on resolutions and appeared to be in accord with the general feeling of the members:

WHEREAS, The Michigan State Press Association has during the past three days been the guest of the citizens of Ann Arbor, and has been most generously and enjoyably entertained, it is the wish of all its members to give some expression to the gratitude and appreciation which is abundantly deserved. We are under especial obligations to our generons entertainers because of the fact that the time of our meeting in Ann Arbor was fixed for a date that would not have been selected had our hosts been consulted, because of the fact that it was at a time when the almost unrivaled beauty of Ann Arbor is in partial eclipse by reason of the snowy cloak of winter and its accompanying winds and frosts. Notwithstanding the fact, however, that we have been denied the pleasure of enjoying its summer beauty, so cordial and kind ar d warm has been the hospitality which greeted us, and which has continued with us during every hour of the enjoyable days of our sojourn here, that we have been permitted to realize no absent pleasure, not to feel a lack in any way which would have added to the pleasure of our twenty-fourth annual meeting; therefore be it

RESOLVED. That to the citizens and business men of Ann Arbor, and to the members of the university faculty, we are indebted for many agreeable and pleasant hours spent during our sessions in Ann Arbor.

RESOLVED, That the closer introduction to the inside workings of the great institution, which is at once the pride and glory not only of Michigan but of the whole country, made under the lead of its beloved and revered president. Dr. Angell, and other members of the University faculty, which has contributed so much to the interest and enjoyment of the occasion, be here recognized, and that we can do nothing less than urge upon the youth of the state, through our respective publications, the superior advantages to be gained at this great institution of learning, and that we also use our efforts to educate our readers to a fuller realization of the financial needs, which so seriously hamper the great and growing possibilities of Michigan University.

RESOLVED, That to the Press Club of Ann Arbor we have been placed under the deepest obligations for the most perfect arrangement of every detail for our entertainment and pleasure during the three days of our stay in their pleasant and hospitable city, and that especially are we indebted to Miss Emma Bower and Messrs. J. E. Beal, S. W. Beakes, S. A. Moran and P. G. Sukey, the chairmen of the several committees, for the courtesies and kindnesses referred to.

RESOLVED, That the cordial and hearty thanks of the association be hereby expressed to Mr. and Mrs. Junius E. Beal for the splendid hospitality and royal welcome extended the association in the delightful and elegant reception given at their beautiful home.

Intemperance at a Minimum.

At Grand Rapids, Wednesday, Prof. M. E. Cooley was interviewed by the Grand Rapids Democrat reporter relative to the circular recently distributed reflecting on the city and on the students, and without doubt he expressed the almost unanimous sentiment of the University Senate, relative to the much discussed pamphlet of Prof. Steere. The Democrat says,

"Prof. Mortimer Cooley, of the chair of mechanical engineering of the University of Michigan, was seen by a reporter for The Democrat in the Morton yesterday. "Prof." is well known among the students and esteemed alike for his scholarly attainments and genial good-fellowship. Speaking of the order maintained by the university students he said: "University of Michigan men as a class are a self-respecting, dignified and studious body of men. They are diligent, earnest and well disposed. Formerly much adverse criticism was heaped upon them for their having been unintentionally involved in some unpleasant affairs, but that old-time prejudice has died out very largely and the students receive more considerate treatment at the hands of the citizens. They yield, in return, a higher regard for the wishes of others. The chief ambition of the average student to-day is to be a gentleman and a scholar. Good manners and good scholarship is the chief aim of each.

"It is gratifying to one who has known the history of the college classes for a long term of years to mark how the feeling between the citizens and the students becomes more and more one of mutual regard. At the recent press convention in Ann Arbor some one distributed circulars advocating the adoption of the 'Five Mile Act,' an act by which it was proposed to prevent the sale of liquors within a radius of five miles of the university. It was thought the visiting editors would take hold of the matter and indorse the bill. I am gratified to testify that the shame of intemperance is at a minimum among University men, and that its practice stigmatizes its victim so odiously that no student can afford to indulge in it. I am also gratified to remark the indignation which Ann Arbor citizens at once expressed at the unnecessary affront to the sensibilities of students which the proposed measure implies. The citizens were first to denounce the circulars and to affirm the general abstemious character of the students among them.

"There are 2,500 students in the University this year, and I am confident that a more courteous and industrious body of like chrracter can not be found in any institution of learning in the world."

Prof. J. E. Reighardt has been called out of town by the death of his mother-in-law. The Journal Club is postponed for a week on account of his absence.

The Motor Line Enjoined.

Yesterday Judge Kinne granted a decree making the decree of the supreme court in the case of Nichols vs. the Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti road the decree of the circuit court. The concluding words of the decree are as follows:

"It is ordered, adjudged and decreed that the said defendant, its agents, servants, employes and assigns be and they are hereby perpetually enjoined from operating said railway over and along complainants said land over said railroad where now constructed and in the manner now constructed and from running theron cars along and over said railroad in front of complainant's premises, described as aforesaid, and it is further, ordered, adjudged and decreed that an injunction issue in this cause in accordance with said decree of said supreme court and that the complainants be and are hereby authorized to take such further action in this cause in this court as may be necescary and appropriate in order to enforce said decree."

The decree of the supreme court mentioned as the basis of the circuit court decree is that made at Lansing on July 27 last, and the reasons for granting the decpee are thus stated by the court.

"It appearing to this court that the line of said defendant's said railroad is along the side of the highway across the lands of the said complainants and within two or three feet of the fence upon complainant's side of the highway and is built and constructed as an ordinary commercial road with ties and "T" rails, and that the place along said highway were so built and the manner of it such that complainants are not permitted that free use of the highway or ingress and egress to their lands to which they are entitled; and that the place where built and mode of construction across complainant's land is an injury to their property rights in said highway."

An injunction was issued this morning and will be served to-day. There is considerable dispute as to the exact meaning of the decree. The counsel for the Nichols state that the motor line will not run twenty minutes past the Nichol's land after the injunction is served, or if it does, contempt proceedings will at once be commenced and vigorously pushed. The counsel for the motor line makes light of the decree and claims everything will go on as before. To a man up the tree, however, it looks as if the Packard street electric line would be extended to the present city limits. But in the meantime some legal fighting may be anticipated.

How to Succeed.

This is the great problem of life which few satisfactorily solve. Some fail because of poor health, others want of luck, but the majority from deficient grit—want of nerve. They are nervous, irresolute, changeable, easily get the blues and "take the spirits down to keep the spirits up," thus wasting money, time, opportunity and nerve force. There is nothing like the Restorative Nervine, discovered by the great specialist, Dr. Miles, to cure all nervous diseases,, as headache, the blues, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, fits, and hysteria. Trial bottles and fine book of testimonials free at Eberbach & Son's drug store.

Mrs. Jones—Oh no. Evidently newly married.

Jones—How can you tell?

Mrs. Jones—Drawing room smells of tobacco smoke.

Commodore Naylor—Probably he meant his wife.

A Fatal Mistake.

Physicians make no more fatal mistake than when they inform patients that nervous heart troubles come from the stomach and are of little consequence. Dr. Franklin Miles, the noted Indiana specialist, has proven the contrary in his new book on "Heart Disease," which may be had free at Eberbach & Son's drug store, who guarantee and recommend Dr. Miles' unequaled New Heart Cure, which has the largest sale of any heart remedy in the world. It cures nervous and organic heart disease, short breath, fluttering, pain or tenderness in the side, arm or shoulder, irregular pulse, fainting, smothering, dropsy, etc. His Restorative Nervine cures headache, fits, etc.

Your scribe and family had a jolly sleigh ride Saturday evening; called at Mr. Woaks', went through the new house, found everything in the latest style, the work done by Mr. Sacket, of Dexter. It will be opened to company Monday evening, when a large party will gather to celebrate the 24th anniversary of the birth of their only son. From there we went to the pleasant home of Mr. Jas. Cook, and were entertained in a way that made the hours go all too soon, nearly causing us to break the Sabbath on our return home.

Mme. Gracious—Oh, that was the dearest Christmas gift you sent me. How sweet of you. I never expected you would remember me with such a lovely, beautiful present.

Miss Bridget (with commendable modesty) — Oh, Mme. Gracious, you mustn't think so much of it. It was really the poorest present I sent out.

The Problem Solved.—An Unrivaled Blood Purifier.

Gentlemen: It affords me pleasure to state that my wife has received greater benefit from Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup than from any medicine she has ever taken. We have used six bottles, and find it to be the best family remedy and the greatest blood purifier that we have ever used. It is truly all it is claimed to be by its founder. You cannot recommend it too highly. Yours truly,

It is absolutely harmless, and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. It has been given in thousands of cases and in every instance a perfect cure has followed. It never Fails. The system once impregnated with the Specific, it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. Cures guaranteed. 48 page book of particulars free. Address, Golden Specific Co. 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

There's many a man who would run away if he did not have to take himself along.

The person possessed of an idle curiosity has a curiosity that is never idle.

REMOVE THE CAUSE.—It is no doubt the correct thing to treat the symptoms of a disease, but this is not effective unless the cause of the complaint is removed. For instance, a fever may be treated with quinine, etc., but unless the cause is removed the fever will surely return. Again, the sores and eruptions of Scrofula may be healed by mercury and potash treatment, but unless the cause of these symptoms is cleansed from the system, they will return or attack some of the delicate internal organs. Swift's Specific strikes at the cause of the trouble, and forces out the germs of disease, and the poison through the pores of the skin, and builds up the general health of the sufferer. Swift's Specific is a purely vegetable remedy, and is harmless to the most delicate, yet it never fails to eliminate the poison from the human body. We will mail a valuable book to all who will send for it.

H. D. Platt's loss of the state oil inspectorship, through democratic ascendancy, is partially compensated for by the new dignity recently conferred upon him—that of G. D., ergo, "granddad."

* * * * *

Half a million dollars was spent in Ann Arbor in '91 for improvements, of which the University received $125,000. The Argus with brisk enterprise, gives a list of the several improvements and the cost of each.

Congressman Gorman is still ill, and unable to return to Washington. After a partial recovery from the grip, with which he was attacked at Washington, a severe backset again prostrated him. He is now thought to be again fairly on the road to health.

* * * * *

"Alpha" rises up in the Register and declares that Ann Arbor does not need sewers. "Alpha's" omega should properly be, death from diphtheria. He is probably one of that sort of citizens who always appear before the board of review, anxious to swear down their assessments.

* * * * *

The supreme court has perpetually enjoined the Ypsi-Ann railroad from operations over the lands of Nichols and Granger which are now by an extension of the city limits, within the corporation. It is proposed therefore to move the track to the middle of the street and keep on sawing wood as usual.

More brides than groomsmen captured in Washtenaw during the past year. The logic of this showing is: Either the Washtenaw fair are "passing fair," or the men ugly-featured rhinocerri. The Argus demands an export duty to protect Washtenaw bachelors from foreign competition. How would that increase the home demand for a lot of crooked-pated old sheep without market value?

* * * * *

What we desire to know is whether there is an old bach. of 40 living in Ann Arbor? We are led to make this query by reason of the following editorial utterance in the Ann Arbor Democrat, whose editor is a young lady of more than usual ability:

"A man who has arrived at the age of 40, and has done nothing for the benefit of the world, should either die (or be put to death by legal decree. Nothing but radical measures will develop some people."

This would apply to a man of 40 who lives a bachelor.

We extend our right fin of fellowship to P. W. Carpenter, who has just been appointed postmaster at Ypsilanti. Pete has many warm friends here who will congratulate him. Of course we would rather the old soldier had remained, but he has served his time, and a change was inevitable. Mr. Carpenter has been an earnest, loyal worker for the party, is honest and courteous, and since a republican must be installed, we are glad to see him get it. We shall not cry either if Frank Bogardus succeeds him on the next round.

The "Two Sams," of Ann Arbor, have some monkeys in their show window. Fearing they would catch cold on a recent cold night, an oil stove was placed in their cage, the heat of which cracked the plate glass, the wind blew in and one of the monkeys came down with the grip. He was taken to a drug store, filled with whiskey and quinine and laid by the stove to thaw out. When he thawed, he got up and, like a good drunkard, went on a tear, smashing bottles and offering to whip the crowd. The "come-alongs" were placed on him and he was caged. Human nature is about the same, evoluted or in the raw material.

Strengh and Health.

If you are not strong and healthy try Electric Bitters. If "La Grippe" has left you weak and weary, use Electric Bitters. This remedy acts directly on Liver, Stomach and Kidneys, gently aiding those organs to perform their functions. If you are afflicted with Sick Headache you will find speedy and permanent relief by taking Electric Bitters. One trial will convince you that this is the remedy you need. Large bottles only 50 cts. at the drugstores of Eberbach & Son, Ann Arbor; and Geo. Haussler, Manchester.

Mrs. Hilliare—You seem to get along nicely on your alimony.

Mrs. Grasse—Yes, indeed. I used to so hate asking my husband for pin money. Now, when I see anything I like, I can buy it without feeling I'm extravagant.

The gymnasium was discussed at some length. Architect Arnold was present with his plans, and bids will be advertised for next week, both with and without the women's wing. If the bids for the entire gym. are at all commensurate with the funds on hand or reasonably certain to be collected, the women's wing will be erected at the same time with the main gymnasium, as the regents wish might be done. But if not it will have to be added at a later date.

The resignation of Professor Harrington, of astronomy, was presented and accepted. Professor Kelsey was made curator of archæology, and Professor D'Ooge was appointed to relieve the president of all detail work, for which services he will receive an increase in salary of three hundred dollars per annum.

THE TRUE WAY } To rid the human body of the poison of disease, is to eliminate it through the pores of skin. S. S. S. for you will be disappointed. There is only one Swift's Specific, and there is nothing like it.

Mrs. E. J. Rowell, No. 11 Quincy street, Medford, Mass., says that her mother has been cured of Scrofula by the use of four bottles of S. S. S., after having had much other treatment and being reduced to quite a low condition of health, as it was thought she could not live.

The Ann Arbor Argus.

S. W. BEAKES, EDITOR AND PROP.

TERMS.—$1.00 PER YEAR IN ADVANCE.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 22, 1892.

The United States ought to have very great provocation before she goes to war with little Chili. Of course it would be easy enough to conquer Chili just as it would be easy for a strong man to whip a small child, but it would cost a snug sum of money which might easily be saved by judicious diplomacy.

The attention of the Courier, which has recently been lamenting Congressman Gorman's committee positions, is called to the dispatch to the Free Press reprinted on our first page, which indicates that the Congressman is looking out for his district. Probably the Courier would prefer that the Congressman would do as his predecessor did, see the public buildings go around without securing one for Ann Arbor, but Congressman Gorman is not made that way.

Prof. Steere in the pamphlet which was distributed among the editors of the state last week in speaking of the students says: "They are at an age most susceptible to temptation. They are thrown together in large numbers, in classes, societies and clubs, where individual judgment is in danger of being overcome by the enthusiasm of numbers directed by designing and evil-minded leaders."

On the evening of the same day the editors were presented with the misstatements which, if true, would picture Ann Arbor as the very concentration of wickedness and the students the promoters of everything that was bad, Dr. Angell, in the presence of the best citizens of our University city, gave it out that it was the policy of the University authorities to treat every student when he came here as a man who was well qualified to choose for himself his manner of conduct and that they had never had occasion to regret the liberty extended to the students. We think the editors went away far more impressed with President Angell's words than Prof. Steere's wild imaginations.

Prof. Steere, of the University, in his speech, which has been given such wide publicity grossly libeled the city of Ann Arbor. His statements of fact are so exaggerated as to carry their own refutation to those who are acquainted with the city. The misstatements are so glaring as to constitute downright falsehoods. They are the statements of an intemperate fanatic. A man may be intemperate in other things than in drink. Prof. Steere is evidently intemperate in words. If believed the first effect of his statements would be to injure the University from which Prof. Steere draws his $2,200 a year.

The professor says.

"The gambling places of Ann Arbor are usually found in close connection with saloons and located behind or above them, in the same building, so that the legal business of the saloon screens and protects them. The houses of ill fame are also frequently in close connection with saloons."

It it will be noticed that in this as in all other statements, the professor deals only in glittering generalities. If the professor knows of any house of ill-fame running in connection with a saloon in this city, he is not a true reformer unless he points it out. Why does he not locate the saloon? The truth is the statement is untrue, and so convinced is the Argus of this fact that it will give $50 to any object the professor may designate, if he will name a single saloon in this city run in connection with a house of ill fame and produce suitable proof of his statement, and the Argus will think the $50 well spent, because it will cause the driving out of the house.

The Argus challenges the professor to name the places where gambling dens are located. He is not a true reformer unless he aids in driving them out.

We regret exceedingly that Mr. Steere should go out of his way to attack any class of good citizens, and still more that he should declare every ward in the city excepting the sixth incapable of self-government. Grant his premises and there is considerable force in his argument that such men as the sage of Pittsfield should be appointed guardians of the city. We know of no city in the land more capable of self-government than Ann Arbor. We know of none where better order is preserved. We know of none where there is less crime. We know of none freer from the dread curses of houses of ill fame and gambling dens. At various times we have had these curses as what city has not, but while the professor was concocting his tirade against the city of Ann Arbor, the city authorities modestly attending to their duty, have removed, as we believe, the last house of ill fame in the city. If there is a house remaining, any good citizen is derelict in his duty in not reporting it. Never before since the editor of the Argus has resided in the city has better order been preserved.

Those who believe that prohibition will prohibit have full leave to work for their pet hobby, but in doing so, we protest that they must not libel their own city, they must not paint her in colors worse than facts warrant, they have no right to hold her up as a modern Sodom and Gomorrah, and they have no right to use the Students' Christian Association, aided greatly by citizens of Ann Arbor, in endeavoring to tear down the city.

Words that we Appreciate.

The Ann Arbor Argus, last week entered upon its 58th year as a weekly newspaper, and celebrated its birthday with a double edition, and evidences more vim, vigor and real journalistic vitality and energy than at any former birthday. The Argus was born in territorial days, and Mr. Gardner was its first editor. It has seen the forests fade away, the Indian and his squaw sneak off to Petoskey, the town of Freedom settled with Irish, (born in Germany), the University grow from nothing to a 2,500 people power, and Ann Arbor flourish and thrive on the strength of the boarding houses, and the ability of some of its residents who have won the highest honors the the state could give and at least one of whom still lives, to be held in loving esteem and respect by every resident of Michigan and especially by every democrat. It has seen days of prosperity and also much "hard sledding." It has been in new clover and it has had to take up with potatoes and salt, but it always lived. In 1854 E. B. Pond became its proprietor and he "let her go Gallagher." It was just after the war when the Argus felt the effect of competition. The first thing he knew another democratic paper was born, and, though he put more strength iuto his editorials and was recognized as possessing marked ability in expounding democratic doctrine, he finally put the editorial quill into other fingers, and surrendered the sanctum splint-bottom chair to a new proprietor. The sea of journalism was very rough all this time, and the Argus was sometimes with stern down, and at others with the bow looking toward China, but it never lost its rudder though its main mast was badly demoralized, and it made its weekly voyages with regularity.

Finally, Bro. Beakes applied for the command and took the helm, with a determination to steer clear of shallow water and submerged rocks and to use proper ballast. He painted 'er red, and put on new rigging, and the old Argus has been sailing along steadily almost ever since, and has borne the democratic standard into almost every harbor of the county. The Argus seems to have escaped the journalistic grip, and is now in good battle trim, and our friend Beakes thinks he can guide the craft into action for many years to come, and here's hoping that he may ever be on deck and meet with succes.—Adrian Press.

* * * * *

The Ypsilantian says: "Were the former days better than these days? The Argus gave last week, the basis for an answer to that question by going back to those days and giving much interesting matter concerning the on-goings of the public burden bearers of those days."

* * * * *

Our youngest but very sprighty contemporary, the Dexter News, says: The venerable and very welcome Ann Arbor Argus comes to our table this week, a 16-page paper in honor of the 58th anniversary of its inception. May your prosperity long continue, Bro. Beakes.

* * * * *

And our next youngest contemporary, the Fowlerville Observer, observes thus: "The Ann Arbor Argus was fifty-seven years old last Friday. Editor Beakes issued a sixteen-page paper in honor of the occasion. Although the Argus is nearing the allotted time of man, yet it appears as 'young as it used to be.'"

* * * * *

The Clinton Local pithily remarks: "The Ann Arbor Argus is 57 years old and is one of our best exchanges."

* * * * *

The Tecumseh Herald also notes large edition: "The Ann Arbor Argus is 57 years old. It made its 57th annual bow last week, and celebrated the event with an extra number of pages, containing bright reading matter."

The Ann Arbor Register read the paper with interest and remarks: "The Argus celebrated its fifty-eighth birthday last week by printing a sixteen-page paper. The issue contained many interesting reminiscences."

* * * * *

The Tecumseh News comments as follows: "The Ann Arbor Argus is no infant. It was 57 years old last week and celebrated the event by the issue of several additional pages of good reading matter."

* * * * *

The Plymouth Mail pays the Argus the following: "The Ann Arbor Argus is 57 years old, a most excellent paper and still improving with age."

* * * * *

That excellent Chelsea paper, the Standard, says: "The Ann Arbor Argus, one of our best exchanges, started on its fifty-eighth year by issuing a sixteen-page paper last week. May the next half century of the Argus be more prosperous than the past."

* * * * *

The South Lyon Picket says: "On Friday last the Ann Arbor Argus issued the first number of its 58th volume. Starting in 1834, before even many of us older ones were born it has been a staunch old democratic sheet during all these years, and even now threatens to continue in the same line of work, but, laying aside all its weakness in this direction, the Argus is a most excellent newspaper. We first knew it during E. B. Pond's management. Although it doesn't always agree with us, it is honest and fair in the discussion of the questions and men of the day. We wish Bro. Beakes unbounded success and hope he may live to celebrate the Argus Centennial."

* * * * *

The Livingston Democrat, itself 35 years of age, says: "The Ann Arbor Argus can look back over its record of fifty-seven years with very little regret. It has always been a good newspaper, and always on the right side of all moral and political questions."

* * * * *

The Grass Lake News: "The Ann Arbor Argus has entered on its fifty-eighth year. It is one of Michigan's very best newspapers. When Bro. Beakes started the Argus he was just 43 years old. and the intervening 57 years brings his age exactly up to 100. Still, he does not use spectacles, can write a leader with one leg tied behind him, and swings his toddy up to the hatchway with a precision that far younger men might envy. May the Lord bless you, Beakes, for another hundred years! Here's our ☞."

Will Not Try It Again.

One of our prominent business men had a lively experience a few days ago. He saw the train vanishing as he stepped into the depot at Detroit and as it was the last train at night, the p. b. m. made up his mind to have that train or die in the attempt, future developments showing that he didn't come very far from the latter. Generally the p. b. m. wouldn't be considered much of a sprinter but if he could have gained a record on the pace that he tore through the gate and after that train, it would have been a fast one. He chased the train nearly a mile, at least so it seemed to him, before he cought up with it. When he thought that everything was right, he made a jump for the step of the last car. He found the step all right, but when he attempted to grasp the hand-rails, he made a dismal failure of it, as he had both hands filled with packages, etc. He lost his balance, fell and the next he knew he was sitting in the middle of the track wondering what had struck him and watching the disappearing train. Luck favored him at this point, however. A gust of wind blew the cap from the head of the laughing brakeman who stood on the rear platform enjoying our p. b. m's. exhibition. While the brakeman wouldn't think of stopping the car for the p. b. m., the loss of his hat was more than he could stand and he pulled the signal for the train to stop. The p. b. m. had so far recovered his shock, in the meantime, to be able to notice that the train had stopped. He scrambled up, shook the snow off of himself, and gathering up the wreckage of a $10 umbrella and his other packages, at last reached the train in safety. Thinking the matter over since, the p. b. m. has concluded that he would settle himself for a year rather than go through the same experience to catch a train again.

Inexpensive Insurance.

The annual meeting of the German Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company was held in the court house, recently, with a good representation of those interested present. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Jacob Reichert, of Scio; vice-pres., Jacob Knapp, of Freedom; sec'y, Charles Braun, of Ann Arbor town; treas., George J. Mann, of Lodi; director for three years, Jacob Jedele, of Dexter. The financial report showed the receipts to be $4,273.46, and the disbursements, $3,452.09.. The assessment for the year had only been seven cents on $100. The number of insurers had been increased during the period by 99, making the total amount of insurance $3,479,675, an increase of $104,925 over the year 1890. A heated discussion arose over the proposition to include live stock in the payable losses but the proposed amendment was voted down.

Nine candidates received the 35th degree in Masonry at Ann Arbor a few days since. The 33d degree is about all that the outside world knows anything about, but in Ann Arbor they have no limit. A man can go up as high as he desires, and there are still left Ann Arbor Masons who can take them a degree higher. They have more degrees over there than Fahrenheit thermometer, and the higher they go the hotter it gets. The countersign of the 35th degree is not secret. It is "High Ram." The secret consists in the method of giving the countersign.—Adrian Press.

When our readers think that the ARGUS items are unworthy of a place in its olumns, we commend them to the following, taken from one of our exchanges as a specimen of what is necessary to use as a filler when news is scarce:

"Oh, say! did you hear how the boys for a horn did go, all safe and sound they marched to the house but when some came out, and said get back in the road, for we wouldn't care if it wasn't for pa. But pa was frightened and was glad to get back, as the cannon did roar."

Three Years' Prices Farm Produce.

The Michigan crop report of January 1, 1892, issued from the office of the secretary of state affords some interesting comparison of prices of farm products. The average price in the southern four ties of counties on January 1, 1890, 1891 and 1892 was as follows:

	1890.	1891.	1892
Wheat	73	89	87
Shelled corn	37	55	47
Oats	23	43	32
Hay	8.06	7.29	9.71
Fat cattle per cwt	2.58	2.89	2.97
Fat hogs per cwt	3.17	3.10	3.29
Dressed Pork	4 15	4 13	4.35
Horses, under one year old	37.42	34.30	31.27
Horses, over three years	115.16	106.67	97.45
Milch cows	25.34	25.09	26 04
Sheep under one year	2.20	2.49	2.34
Sheep over one year	2 82	3.22	3.00

The decline in the value of horses is quite noticeable. The average price of wheat and corn in the four tiers of counties, Jan. 1, 1891, is given at 2 cents lower than in Washtenaw, while hay is reported worth only $8.65 a ton here, fat cattle are quoted at $3.17, hogs at $3.33 and dressed pork at $4.26. Horses under one year in Washtenaw average $30, between one and two years old $45.72; between two and three, $64.72; over three, $93.42. Milch cows are quoted at $29.88, and sheep at $2.89.

Dedicatory Ceremony.

The dedicatory ceremony of the formal opening of the new hospital in University Hall last evening was opened by President Angell who said "that at last a hospital had been erected, though not as large as wished, yet superbly planned and executed, perfectly warmed and ventilated and attended by a very efficient corps of surgeons, physicians and assistants." He then spoke of the first clinics, when there was no hospital, the patients being operated on in the lecture room and then carried back to their rooms. Later a building near the old dental college was used for a hospital. The clinics were held in the Medical lecture room and the the patients were carried back and forth. Then the old hospital was built on the plan to tear down when in an infected condition. He then spoke of the appropriation for the new building and of the generosity of the people of Ann Arbor, and characterized the building as not only a temple of learning, but a home of mercy. Then followed Mayor Doty, who spoke on the relation of the city of Ann Arbor to the University, and told how, when the legislature in 1837 located the University in Ann Arbor, the Ann Arbor Land Co. gave the tract of 40 acres. In 1852 the city gave $1,500.00. In 1859 $1,700.00 towards the art collection, five years later she levied a tax and gave $10,000 towards erecting the medical building.

In 1872 $3,000 was given towards the observatory. In 1875 $4,000 towards the old hospital. In 1890 as a grand climax she bonded herself to pay $25,000 towards the new hospital building now being dedicated, which makes a total of $39,000. In conclusion he said that the same feeling of generosity and sentiment still prevails. The Rt. Rev. Bishop Gillespie, speaking for the State Board of clinics, gave a few reminiscences, when four Professors' houses composed the University, and told how he had carried old linen to the hospital to be used for bandages in those days of small things. He spoke of the hospital as a welcome member of the circle of charitable institutions of the State; characterized it as being as important as the church, for surely there is enshrined over the hospital, "For the Glory of God."

Dr. Gihon, Medical Director of U. S. Navy, then delivered the address of the evening, on "The Hospital as an Element and Exponent of Medical Education," saying that the hospitals are ever open to the hapless and within their walls the most difficult problems of physical live are solved and the worst sufferings alleviated. The prevention of disease as the physician's first motive first took root in the west. Michigan being fifth to have a State Board of Health. He then spoke of the methods of relieving the profession of false pretenders by Boards of Medical Examiners, of the lamentable lack of culture and education in the profession, of the numerous unqualified medical schools whose aims are quantity and not quality. He said the minister of the body has as grave an office as the minister of the soul and compared the required knowledges and the methods of the two benefactors. He spoke of the former manner of grinding out doctors, when all there was in the professional was the financial problem. The Medical Department of this University was the first to require an examination for admission and also to require four years of study. The hospital is not only necessary but is an exponent of the higher medical education, is a home for the friendless and a refuge for the suffering, a place of true learning, where the greatest achievments of skill are witnessed. Besides the speakers there were on the platform the medical faculty, representatives of the various faculties, people from the city, of physicians and surgeons from Detroit, and members of the State Board of Charities. After the exercises they repaired to Newberry Hall, where a reception and banquet was given by the medical faculty.—U. of M. Daily.

The thing for which the sinner is lost is for rejecting Christ once too often.

Untrustworthy.

Fame has its own peculiar bitterness. "Isn't it pleasant to go back with laurels to your old home?" asked some one of a celebrated artist, who replied, quizzically: "It would be, except that many of my townsmen think me a house painter. That is a worthy trade, but still it is not my trade." Yet such a sting is not the sharpest to be imagined.

A century ago there lived a famous almanac maker, named Partridge. One day, while traveling in the country, he stopped for dinner at an inn, and afterward called for his horse, in order to continue his journey.

"If you will take my advice, sir," said the hostler, "you will stay where you are, unless you want to be overtaken by a heavy rain."

"Nonsense," was the reply. "It doesn't look in the least like rain."

He proceeded on his way, and was thoroughly drenched by the shower in which he had refused to believe. Turning back, he was met by the hostler with a broad grin.

"Well, sir," said the man, "you see I was right, after all."

"Yes, you were right, and now you must tell me how you came to know about the rain."

"Well, sir," replied the man, "you see we have a book at our house called 'Partridge's Almanac,' and whenever that fellow promises us a fair day we know it will rain. Now this day is put down in the almanac as 'settled fine weather.' I looked at the prediction before I brought your horse out, and that was how I could put you on your guard."—Youth's Companion.

Handsome Versus Homely.

Who is that fine looking lady that we just passed, Clara? Why, that is Mrs. Snow. Well, there, what a change; when I saw her last, her skin was so sallow and muddy looking, it's no wonder I didn't know her. What has produced that lovely complexion? I heard that she took Sulphur Bitters, the great Blood Purifier, and now would not be without them.

The devil never needs a man any meaner than the one who is a tyrant to his wife.

Springfield Republican

FOR 1892.

AN INDEPENDENT, COMPLETE AND ABLE NEWSPAPER.

THE REPRESENTATIVE JOURNAL OF NEW ENGLAND.

Established in 1824 by Samuel Bowles.

Published DAILY, SUNDAY and WEEKLY.

THE SPRINGFIELD REPUBLICAN is emphatically a *news*paper for the people. It publishes all the news that is news in the broadest and highest sense, unaffected by partisan or personal prejudice. It is enterprising, alert and intelligent in the performance of its duties to the public. It has its own decided opinions on public questions, and these opinions are expressed with vigor and ability, but they are not allowed to color its news columns. THE REPUBLICAN is a thoroughly fair journal. Members of all parties who desire to keep informed of the important political events and discussions of the presidential campaign of 1892, should subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN.

THE DAILY REPUBLICAN

Was started in 1844, and is the oldest daily paper in the state outside of Boston. It has always kept abreast of the times, and has been quick to avail itself of the best modern appliances for the enlargement and improvemen of its news service. It is now regularly an eight-page sheet with seven wide columns to the page, and supplemental pages are frequently added as the demands of news or advertising require. It covers the news of the world with discriminating care and thoroughness. New England happenings and interests receive special attention and liberal space, and a large force of special reporters and correspondents are constantly employed in gathering the local news of Western Massachusetts and the neighboring counties of Connecticut, Vermont and New Hampshire for its readers. Its edstorial page is broad in range, independent, elevating, and interesting in quality. Its literary department is of a remarkably high order. Its political correspondence is furnished by independent, well-informed and capable writers. It publishes, moreover, a great variety of interesting and valuable general correspondence and selections.

THE SUNDAY REPUBLICAN

Was first published in 1878 in response to a real public demand in Western Massachusetts for a first-class, high-toned Sunday newspaper. Since that time it has been constantly improved and it has been twice enlarged. Fully four-fifths of its 56 columns of space is devoted to reading matter of a high order, embracing news, special correspondence, a full page of editorial matter, a department of books, authors and art, a first-rate weekly story and a weekly sermon, sporting and theatrical news and notes, special articles, original and selected poetry, etc. THE SUNDAY REPUBLICAN is a thoroughly wholesome, excellent and interesting jonrnal, well adapted to the tastes and wants of the intelligent New England public.

THE WEEKLY REPUBLICAN

Is now more than 67 years old, but age only improves its quality. It continues to be what it has long been, a remarkably faithful and comprehensive record of American life. Its weekly review of the news is very carefully compiled, and its 12 broad pages contain in addition to the news, a wonderfully rich collection of valuable and entertaining reading matter. All the best features of THE DAILY and SUNDAY REPUBLICAN are reproduced in THE WEEKLY in full or but slightly abridged, and arranged with admirable skill and intelligence for the convenience and pleasure of the reader. The result is a weekly news and family journal which far exceeds in interest and worth any similar publication in the United States. It is a paper that New Englanders at home and abroad will find of special value, and which Americans everywhere can appreciate and enjoy.

The Saturday Edition —OF— The Chicago Herald

Is a handsome sixteen-page weekly newspaper, filled with the most entertaining reading that brilliant minds, well trained in every department of literature, can produce. It has the advantage of the fast-mail service and is delivered at the majority of post-offices on day of publication.

THE CHICAGO HERALD is the foremost journalistic champion of Western interests, and, believing that these are assailed by the protective tariff, it is an uncompromising opponent of a system that takes from the many to enrich the few. THE HERALD is broadly and progressively democratic in politics, but it is bound to no party, save as that party stands for principle and justice. Believing that the safety of the republic now demands a return to constitutional methods, to economy in administration, to the obliteration of war passions and to the summary defeat of the powerful interests that have allied themselves with the leaders of the republican party for the purpose of promoting selfish interests at the expense of the whole people, THE HERALD favors return of the democracy to power and will labor intelligently to that end.

A special feature of THE SATURDAY EDITION OF THE HERALD, and one to which much space is devoted, is the weekly record of the progress of the World's Fair, with fine illustrations. This alone makes it indispensable to those who intend to visit the fair, and to those who do not a comprehensive description will be the next best thing.

In addition to this THE SATURDAY EDITION OF THE HERALD contains a synopsis of the news of the week, full Market Reports, a Household Department, Completed Stories by popular authors, Book Reviews, "Gossip of the Stage," Base Ball, Turf and Athletic Sports, and last, but by no means least, the news of the world attractively presented and truthfully told. No better investment than a year's subscription can be made.

The Coming Oratorical Contest.

A lively interest is being awakened among the students of the several classes that are to participate in the coming "battle of the orators." It will be remembered that this contest is to select an orator and alternate to represent the University of Michigan in the contest of the Northern Oratorical League to be held this year at Northwestern University. The home contest is between the Literary and Law departments. The senior class of each department is entitled to two representatives, the junior one, and the sophomore class of the literary department, one.

When more candidates than the required number from each class present themselves, the representatives are to be selected by competent judges at preliminary rehearsals.

The executive committee held a meeting last Saturday morning and decided that all who enter shall send in their names and the subjects of their orations not later than Monday, Feb. 1. The orations must be handed in by Monday, Feb. 15, in order that the judges may have ample time to pass upon the thought and composition before the preliminaries of Feb. 26.

The final public contest of the class representatives occurs March 18 in University Hall, for first and second honors and the testimonials of $75 and $50 respectively. Contestants should send in their names and subsequently their orations, typewritten, to the vice-president of the Oratorical Association, Mr. A. J. Ladd, No. 6 South Ingalls street.—U. of M. Daily.

The New Directory.

The new directory of the cities of Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti and the county of Washtenaw is out. Some noticeable improvements are made over former directories. A map of each city and also a county map add much to the value of the book. The street guide is much more complete than in the old directories.

In the Ann Arbor directory there are 4,862 names, exclusive of students. Using the usual multiple of three and a half this would indicate a population of 17,017. As Mr. Mills, however, says, "By using the multiple of two and a half, which is far more conservative, but lower than ever taken in works of this kind, gives the city 12,155."

The name which appears the greatest number of times in the alphabetical directory of Ann Arbor is Smith, of whom there are forty-five, with not a single John Smith in the lot. Besides those who spell the name Smith there are twelve who spell it Schmid, six Schmidt and one Schmitt. Of nearly equal rank are the Millers, of whom there are 45. There are 35 who spell their name Brown and 12 who spell it Braun. Taylor appears 30 times Schneider, 29; and Snyder, 1; Clark, 29; Lntz, 29 and Jones 22.

The Thrift of Our Citizens.

Probably no better test of the standing and thrift of a community can be made than by inspecting the reports of the banks and saving associations. If such be the case, Ann Arbor can compare favorably with any city in the state, as the bank reports show large deposits and the reports of the condition of the two local building and loan associations are most favorable. The two associations, the Huron Valley and the Ann Arbor, have announced their reports for the past nine months, as follows:

Modjeska Coming.

One of the great events of the season will occur on Feb. 1st at the Grand opera house in the appearance of this great actress.

Mme. Modjeska has been spending the past year in Europe, where she has been playing remarkably successful engagements. During the months of March and April she was at the Imperial Theatre, Warsaw, where for the entire period of her stay her audiences were limited only by the size of the house; and notwithstanding the fact that her prices of admission were doubled the seats were nearly all bought up by speculators who re-sold them at a large profit. Occasionally she played at some of the smaller towns of Russian Poland, such as Lodi and Lublau, where the mere announcement of her coming was sufficient to crowd the houses. Indeed so great was the demand for seats that in the scramble for choice places a little game of fisticuffs was by no means an unusual occurrence.

A Great Combination.

"Last night Nye and Burbank gave one of their inmitable entertainments at the Haven opera house. They are two of a kind that are hard to beat. The program consisted of humorous prose and poetic selections that were recited in a manner that greatly amused and pleased the audience. It was kept with a broad grin on its face to prevent a total collapse. Sober men sat at times with tears running down their cheeks or almost falling over with hilarity. It was a superb entertainment. The house was crowded as it will be again should this combination ever come this way."—Ex.

Last night those two celebrated humorists, Messrs. Wm. Nye and A.P. Burbank, were at the Grand. Mr. Nye resembles the pictures of himself with which he illustrates his funny letters, and the scrambling gait which he takes when he comes on the stage always causes laughter.

There is only one Bill Nye, and he can certainly entertain an audience. He was very well received last night, and seemed pleased with the plaudits with which each of his talks were received. His manner of talking is just like his writings, sort of soothing, yet the bright points which mark his talks are brought out in his own inimitable way, convulsing the audience with laughter and tickling the fancy of their gray matter.

Mr. Burbank is well known throughout the country for his recitations especially, and last night he was greatly appreciated. His voice is very agreeable and flexible, his pathos and humor are well expressed by the inflection of his voice, while his face is wonderfully expressive.

Autobiography of Bill Nye.

Edgar Wilson Nye was born in Maine in 1850, August 25th, but at two years of age took his parents by the hand and telling them that Piscataquis county was no place for them, he boldly struck out for St. Croix county, Wisconsin, where the hardy young pioneer soon made a home for his parents. The first year he drove the Indians out of the St. Croix valley and suggested to the Northwestern railroad that it would be a good idea to build to St. Paul as soon as the company could get a grant that would pay them two or three times the cost of construction. The following year he adopted trousers and made $175 from the sale of wolf scalps. He also cleared 27 acres of land and raised some watermelons. In 1854 he established and endowed a district school in Pleasant Valley. It was at this time that he began to turn his attention to the abolition of slavery in the South, and to write articles for the press signed "Veritas," in which he advocated the war of 1860, or as soon as the government could get around to it. In 1854 he graduated from the farm and began the study of law. He did not advance very rapidly in this profession, failing several times in his examination and giving bonds for his appearance at the next term of court. He was, however, a close student of political economy, and studied personal economy at the same time, till he found that he could easily live on ten cents a day and his relatives. Mr. Nye now began to look about him for a new country to build up and foster, and as Wisconsin had grown to be so thickly settled in the northwestern part of the State that neighbors were frequently found as near as five miles apart, he broke loose from all restraint and took emigrant rates for Cheyenne, Wyoming. Here he engaged board at the Inter-Ocean Hotel and began to look about him for a position in a bank. Not succeeding in this, he tried the law and journalism. He did not succeed in getting a job for some time, but finally hired as associate editor and janitor of the Laramie Sentinel. The salary was small but his latitude great, and he was permitted to write anything that he thought would please people, whether it was news or not. By and by he had won every heart by his gentle, patient poverty and his delightful parsimony with regard to facts. With a hectic imagination, and an order on a restaurant, which advertised in the paper, he scarcely cared through the livelong day whether school kept or not. Thus he rose to Justice of the Peace and finally to an income which is reported very large to everybody but the assessor. He is the father of several very beautiful children by his first wife, who is still living. She is a Chicago girl, and loves her husband far more than he deserves. He is pleasant to the outside world, but a perfect brute in his home. He early learned that in order to win the love of his wife he should be erratic and kick the stove over on the children when he came home. He therefore asserts himself in this way, and the family love and respect him, being awed by his greatness and gentle barbarism. He eats plain food with both hands, conversing all the time pleasantly with anyone who may be visiting at the house. If his children do not behave, he kicks them from beneath the table till they roar with pain, as he chats on with the guests with a bright and ever-flowing stream of bon mots which please and delight those who visit him to that degree that they almost forget that they have had hardly anything to eat. In conclusion, Mr. Nye is in every respect a lovely character. He feared that injustice might be done him, however, in this biographical sketch, so he has written it himself.

A Great Actor.

It has been but a few short years since Alexander Salvini, then scarcely more than a boy, and just beginning to speak the English language, was first seen in this country playing the leading roles in support of Margaret Mather. But he is now acknowledged to be worthy of the highest praise by the most conservative of metropolitan critics.

He will appear at the Grand opera house, Ann Arbor, on the 28th of this present month.

THE SONG OF THE "No. 9."

My dress is of fine polished oak,
As rich as the finest fur cloak,
And for handsome design
You just should see mine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I'm beloved by the poor and the rich,
For both I impartially stitch;
In the cabin I shine,
In the mansion I'm fine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I never get surly nor tired,
With zeal I always am fired;
To hard work I incline,
For rest I ne'er pine—
No. 9, No. 9.

I am easily purchased by all,
With instalments that monthly do fall;
And when I am thine,
Then life is benign—
No. 9, No. 9.

To the Paris Exposition I went,
Upon getting the Grand Prize intent;
I left all behind,
The Grand Prize was mine—
No. 9, No. 9.

At the Universal Exposition of 1889 at Paris, France, the best sewing machines of the world, including those of America, were in competition. They were passed upon by a jury composed of the best foreign mechanical experts, two of whom were the leading sewing machine manufacturers of France. This jury, after exhaustive examination and tests, adjudged that the Wheeler & Wilson machines were the best of all, and awarded that company the highest prize offered—the GRAND PRIZE—giving other companies only gold, silver and bronze medals.

The French government, as a further recognition of superiority, decorated Mr. Nathaniel Wheeler, president of the company, with the Cross of the Legion of Honor—the most prized honor of France.

The No. 9, for family use, and the No. 12, for manufacturing uses, are the best in the world to-day.

And now, when you want a sewing machine, if you do not get the best it will be your own fault.

Ask your sewing machine dealer for the No. 9 Wheeler & Wilson machine. If he doesn't keep them, write to us for descriptive catalogue and terms. Agents wanted in all unoccupied territory. WHEELER & WILSON MFG. CO.
