A HORRIBLE MURDER.

The Work of a Human Fiend Just Before Midnight

YPSILANTI'S MURDER HORROR LAST SUNDAY

The Head of Jay Pulver, Night Watchman, was Found Arrested.—Clifford Hand Crushed on Suspicion.

A terrible murder was committed in Ypsilanti last Saturday night. Jay Pulver, night watchman at the Hay & Todd mill in Ypsilanti was most brutally murdered, while in the discharge of his duties as watchman. Pulver was a quiet, inoffensive, industrious, and steady man without a known enemy in the world. He was forty-five years old and leaves a wife and four children. He left his home Saturday evening, saying to his wife that he intended to finish his work of cleaning up at the mill by midnight. He was last seen alive, other than by the murderer, at half past six o'clock by Secretary Adams of the company, who went all over the mill to see that everything was all right and locked up. When Patrick Ridney, whose duty it was to relieve Pulver arrived at the mill at seven o'clock, Sunday morning, he was unable to obtain entrance. Finally he broke in the window, searched through the building and discovered the body of Pulver in the carpenter shop on the basement floor.

HIS HEAD WAS CRUSHED IN.

There was hardly a square inch of bone which had not been broken in his head. Terrific blows had been dealt him with a heavy pair of pipe tongs. He had fallen nearly face downward, with his right hand outstretched and his left hand under his body. Evidently the first blow had been struck from behind. This had been succeeded by two or three more blows after he had fallen, the blood stained and brain bespattered tongs having been dropped with the last blow and remaining in the terrible hole in his head made by the blow. Within a foot or so of his right hand was his lantern, which was not broken, but tipped over so that the oil had run out. There was no evidence that he had struggled with the murderous assailant.

ROBBERY NOT THE MOTIVE.

Robbery was evidently not the motive that actuated the murderer. Pulver's watch and money were upon his person, and there was nothing much that was stealable about the factory, and nothing had been disturbed. The theory that seems to find most favor is that the murder was committed by some one who had entered the mill for the purpose of injuring the property and had been discovered by Pulver.

Evidently Pulver had heard a noise in the basement and had gone down to investigate or had followed some one down from an upper floor. He had finished the floor above the basement and had carried part of his cleaning utensils to an upper floor and had the rest in the hallway to take up. As the first blow was struck from behind it is probable that he had gone in the carpenter shop searching for his assailant, who was concealed in the dark, and who struck him as soon as he had passed with the lantern in his hand.

After striking the last blow, the red-handed murderer had fled in the darkness, finding exit by lifting the bar of a door in the basement, little used, and which could only be opened from the inside.

Sheriff Brunner and Deputy Sheriffs Peter and Buck at once went to work on the case and Prosecuting Attorney Kearney went down to Ypsilanti to aid in the investigation.

It was found that the murderer had probably entered through a window, which had been opened and which had the marks of the nails of a heavy boot on the window sill. Suspicions pointed towards some one who had a grudge against the mill and in a short time the officers had a discharged employee of the mill, who had made many threats as to what he would do to damage the company.

Hand was a good mechanic thirty-four years old, of intemperate habits, long employed about the mill. He was familiar with all parts of the mill, and could, if so disposed, have done much damage.

A search was made of Hand's house and bloody pants and coat were found. Hand claims that the blood was beef's blood, he having been present at a butchering some time before. It is asserted that there are spots of brain matter on his clothing, and Dr. Gibbs is making an investigation to determine whether or not this is true. Public sentiment at Ypsilanti runs strongly against Hand.

Hand is in jail here awaiting examination. He has retained Hon. Charles R. Whitman to defend him.

Death of William W. Saunders.

William W. Saunders died at his residence in this city this morning, of Bright's disease. He was born December 31, 1834, and came to Ann Arbor when a boy. He first attended school in what is now the fifth ward. He first embarked in business as a photographer. Later he ran a grocery for twelve years in the fifth ward and for two years he traveled on the road. Three years ago he started a cigar factory in this city. He was twice married, the second time about ten years ago. He leaves three children by his first wife, two daughters and a son.

The University Glee and Banjo Clubs.

The University boys are keeping up their reputation, as may be judged from the following:

The University Glee and Banjo clubs, of Ann Arbor, gave a pleasing entertainment at the opera house last evening. The program consisted of fifteen numbers, but encores were given to every selection and were cheerfully responded to. The singing is of the highest order, the rich voices blending in harmony that cannot but delight the most critical ear. The selections by the banjo club were excellent, and while ordinarily these instruments are not capable of producing the most pleasing sounds, in the hands of the college boys they are made to almost talk. The audience was one of the largest that has assembled at the opera house this season, and all appeared to enjoy the entertainment.—Bay City Tribune, March 11, '93.

The University of Michigan Glee and Banjo clubs gave a concert at the Academy of Music last evening, and were greeted by a crowded house. The singing of the Glee club was very fine, the gentlemen showing much training and practice. There were some excellent voices and they blended harmoniously in the rickering college songs, medleys and other selections, and every number was enthusiastically encored. "Romeo and Juliette" was one of the best selections. "A Life Lesson," the medley "Chestnut Mill," and the closing selection, "Ann Arbor," were also excellently rendered.

The Banjo club shared with the Glee club the honors of the evening. They produced excellent music on the banjo, which is becoming more popular each day, and like the members of the Glee club, each selection was encored. The concert gave complete satisfaction.—Saginaw Courier-Herald, March 12, 1893.

Fine Club Rooms.

A correspondent writing in the Courier this week is evidently not very well acquainted with the city in which he lives. The portion of the article referred to reads as follows:

"Have your readers ever thought that the saloon is the only place in this town where a man can drop in to read the paper and spend a few moments in relaxation, outside of his place of business?"

The saloon is not the only place in Ann Arbor where a man can drop in to read his paper or spend an evening in conversation or amusement. There is a place located on one of the principal corners of this city that was fitted up about a year ago for the purpose of providing a place for our business men and clerks to spend their evenings. The rooms referred to are the parlors and club rooms of the Ann Arbor Light Infantry, in the second story of the block on the corner of Main and Washington streets. It is safe to say that no better club rooms exist in an interior city in the state. The rooms are decorated and furnished finer than any private residence in the city. In the reading room can be found the daily and weekly papers, as well as the leading magazines and monthlies. Besides these are three handsomely furnished rooms, used for amusements. The rooms are open every afternoon and evening, and during the past year many of our business men and clerks have there spent their evenings' instead of "at the saloons."

The present is an opportune time to bring these rooms to the notice of our readers, as a committee of the Light Infantry is at present engaged in canvassing the business men for membership in the honorary corps of the company, which corps has equal privileges with the active members in the use of these rooms. Nor is this the only benefit to be derived by our business men by joining the honorary corps of the Light Infantry. Under the provisions of the state law, all honorary members of military companies become exempt from jury duty. This exemption alone brings hundreds of business men into the honorary corps in the cities, where as high as $25 per year is charged for such membership. Here the fee is but $10 per year, including the use and advantages of the club rooms.

Teachers for Washtenaw.

The following teachers passed the recent teacher's examination in this city, and have received certificates:

First Grade—Josephine M. Costello, Dexter; C. M. Fuller, Milan.

Second Grade—Elizabeth DePew, Chelsea.

Third Grade—Jacob Schultz, Dexter; Mary A. Bell, Milan; Jessie Flagler, Chelsea; Ettie O. Sangvee, York; Lottie M. Forsythe, York; Nettie M. Brokaw, Emery; Emma Taylor, Ann Arbor; Callie Kelsey, Saline; Arthur G. St. John, Ann Arbor; Benjamin Hueb, Manchester; Frank Dettling, Manchester; Mabel E. Wallace, Ann Arbor; Will C. Hastings, Tecumseh; Estelle Forbes, Saline; Lucia Jackson, Macon; Katherine Diehl, Ann Arbor; Fannie Van Gieson, Ann Arbor; Helen M. Carpenter, Manchester; Leola Vreeland, Ann Arbor; Helen M. Ducon, Geer; Will J. Staphis, Chelsea; Maggie McGuinness, Dexter; Ada Tucker, Saline; Anna Hughes, Milo; Kattie Saur, Saline; Maggie Miller, Chelsea; Frances M. Seabolt, Ann Arbor; Maggie Phelps, Dexter; Anna Chalmers, Ann Arbor; Mamie A. Phelps, Dexter; Stella M. Loss, Ann Arbor; May O'Hearn, Ann Arbor; Mattie Sharpe, Dexter; Agnes Hawkins, Dexter; Rose Burke, Ann Arbor; Rena Wortley, Ypsilanti; Irene Mills, River Raisin; Mary Mayze, Webster.

Senior Oratorical Contest.

In accordance with annual custom the senior laws will hold their class oratorical contest this year in University Hall. The date decided upon is Thursday evening, March 30th.

About thirty orations were handed in this year, and submitted by Prof. Thompson to Attorneys Bogle and Whitman and Judge Cheever. Yesterday completed their work, yesterday, and Prof. Thompson examined their reports and figured out the result. The seven successful competitors in this preliminary contest are F. G. Campbell, O. O. Chandler, O. H. Carson, J. W. Good, C. M. Howell, H. W. Jarvis, and D. O. Rideout.

Base Ball Notes.

The baseball manager has received a good offer of a date with the St. Louis Browns, a league team, in St. Louis on the southern trip. The offer will be accepted, if satisfactory arrangements can be made.

The following new candidates have handed in their names: Pitchers, Seymour, Chickering; 2-base, Welsh; field, E. G. Matter, W. E. DeWitt, C. C. Anderson, J. L. Lewman, Michael.

The great Yale-Princeton debate came off Wednesday evening at Princeton, N. J. The question discussed was the annexation of Canada. Three Princeton men supported the resolution and three Yale men argued against it. No decision was made. Chancellor McGill, of New Jersey, presided. After the contest a banquet was tendered the Yale debaters at which Chauncey Depew and Judge Henry Howland responded for Yale. President Patton and Bayard Henry, a noted Princetonian, were heard for the triggers.

Prof. Knowlton on Jewish Institutions.

Prof. Knowlton delivered the introductory lecture on the "Civil Institutions of the Jews in the Time of Christ," last night in the law lecture room. A very good audience greeted him and all pronounced the lecture a very interesting and instructive one. He said, by way of introduction, that the talk should be considered more of a study than a lecture. Owing to the nature of the matter treated he preferred to speak from manuscript. The subject would not be treated as a theologian would handle it, but only from the standpoint of a lawyer.

He considered first the sources from which the subject matter contained in the lecture, had been derived. We accept the Bible as we find it. Its authenticity is conceded. The New Testament is the most reliable source of information from which we can draw. He then spoke at some length of the rabbinical traditions and writings. Most of these are recorded in the Talmud, which is the cornerstone of the Jewish law. Little is known of it as it is practically inaccessible. He dismissed this work with an interesting extract regarding the creation of woman. Of all general histories he regarded Schurer's "Jewish People in the Time of Christ" as of the most value to the student.

Taking up the Life of Moses, "the controlling force that shaped the history of the Jews," he then dwelt for some time on the history of this people after the captivity. Referring to the departed civilization of the Greeks and the influence of Christianity, he then concluded with a brief survey of Judea and its Horizon.

The next lecture will be a study of "The People and the State," and will be delivered next Thursday evening at 7:30.

Chelsea.

Chas. Smith moved on to his mother's farm north of town. Mrs. J. G. Webster, of Northville, is among friends here this week.

Frank VanOrden, of Hersey, has been among friends here the past week.

Rolla Heath, of Chicago, spent last week among relatives and friends in this place.

J. H. Aiken has closed his law office here, and will go this week to locate at Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The donation Wednesday night for Rev. L. N. Moon netted $130, and a pleasant occasion beside.

H. L. Wood and E. L. Negus attended the annual encampment of the G. A. R. at Benton Harbor last week.

There will be a grand entertainment at the town hall on Friday night. It is St. Patrick's day in the evening.

Miss Mattie Stimson is now attending college at Albion, and Miss Pearl Davis has succeeded her at the telephone office in this place.

The second quarterly meeting of the year will be observed at the M. E. church next Sunday. The presiding elder will be present in the evening.

Mrs. S. O. Hadley died at the family residence in Lyndon last Friday, of cancer. She was an excellent woman, about seventy years old, and leaves a husband and a large family of grown-up children to mourn her loss.

The market continues to decline. Wheat is high now at 64 cents; oats, 32 cents; rye, 52 cents; barley, $1.20; beans, $1.75; clover-seed, $7; dressed hogs, $7; potatoes, 70 cents; apples, 75 cents; eggs, 16 cents; butter, 20 cents.

The Epworth League, of this village, to the number of fifty, went to Grass Lake, last Friday night, to attend the revival meeting, a series of which are in progress there. J. E. Fleming, the revivalist is doing a good work there, as he did here one year ago.

A. J. Sawyer, of Ann Arbor, was here on business last Monday. It was not legal business, as he was in search of cows and sheep for his farm. Everybody may not know that A. J. has become an honest farmer, and occasionally one smiles incredulously at the idea, but it is true nevertheless.

The village election on Monday was a quiet affair, and yet a good vote was polled, and resulted in the election of the entire citizens ticket by majorities from 15 to 50, as follows: President, Wm. Bacon; clerk, A. E. Winans; treasurer, Fred Soedler; constable, Edward Moore; assessor, P. J. Lehman; trustees, J. Schumaker; A. A. Conkright, and J. L. Gilbert.

Comic Opera.

The Nelson Comic Opera Co. will be at the Grand opera house for one week and Saturday matinee commencing Monday, March 20, and on that evening will present Andran's great success, La Mascotte. The Nelson company contains 30 people, a strong cast, powerful and well drilled chorus, magnificent costumes, and pleasing ensembles, their repertoire will be produced in the following order: Tuesday, Erminie; Wednesday, Bohemian Girl; Thursday, Fra Diavolo; Friday, La Mascotte; Saturday, The Chimes of Normandy; Saturday matinee to be announced. A great many people ask how a good opera company like the Nelson's can afford to carry 30 first-class artists and produce a repertoire of comic opera's at popular prices. The answer is simple enough, by remaining a week in a city they save on transportation, baggage, hauling, printing, board, etc. If they were to stay only one night, you can understand they would be compelled to charge the regular operating prices. Remember the prices during the Nelson engagement are only 10, 20, and 30 cents.

For Sale.

We want to sell the frame building on Liberty Street, formerly occupied by Grossman & Schlenker, as we want to put up another in its place. We will also sell a frame building 30x56 on Ashley Street, good for a barn or shop, and also new building 16x26, same place. We want to sell these buildings so that they may be moved away. WALKER & CO., H. W. Liberty St.

Farms at Auction.

Charles Stollinger's farms, one of 180, and the other 80 acres, 3 miles west of Ann Arbor, will be sold Saturday, April 1, at 2 o'clock, p. m., at the south door of the court house in Ann Arbor, to the highest bidder, on very easy terms. J. SHAW, Executor.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Gave Back Her Sight, and Joy to Her Father's Heart.

"Waterbury, Vt., Nov. 19, 1892. 'C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: 'In April, 1889, my little girl Mamie, who was then 3 years old, commenced having ulcerated eyes, also had sores back of her ears. Her sight began to grow dim, and I feared she Might be Blind. 'I then lived in Jericho, Vt. In the early days of June I went with her to the Mary Fletcher hospital in Burlington, and there she was treated four different times—a surgical operation each time, one of which left the scars now visible on the eye balls. She recovered from this treatment each time, a slight improvement for a few days, was soon worse than ever. She could discern daylight from darkness, but could not see to walk across the room.

"I next went to a large hospital in Hartford, Conn. At this hospital no surgical operations were performed, but medicine was dropped into her eyes and given her to take. She was at this hospital about ten weeks, continually growing worse, and when I took her in November

Was Totally Blind. 'I arrived at my station in Jericho with the child, sad in spirit and impoverished in pocket completely discouraged. On our way to the house from the station, we stopped at the store of Capt. McKinnan, who was an old sea captain, to warm ourselves. The captain had known the child before we went away. While we were warming ourselves Mamie said: 'Papa, it's dark, where are you? I can't see you, come to me.' 'The captain's heart was touched, and with tears in his eyes he said: 'Charlie, you go and get a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and give it to her, and if it don't help her I will pay for it.'

"That very afternoon I got Hood's Sarsaparilla and commenced giving it to her according to directions. The first beneficial result was a brightening of the eyes, which continued steadily improving until, under the treatment of Hood's Sarsaparilla, on the ninth day she could see to pick up a pin on the floor without its being pointed out to her, and before the first bottle was all used

Her Sight was Entirely Restored. 'I keep Hood's Sarsaparilla in the house always, and when the child gets a little cold, if her eyes appear inflamed, a few doses settles it. I thank God first, Hood's Sarsaparilla second,

- First ward, 30 delegates. Second ward, 17 delegates. Third ward, 15 delegates. Fourth ward, 15 delegates. Fifth ward, 8 delegates. Sixth ward, 13 delegates. By order of committee, EDWARD DUFFY, Chairman.

Democratic Ward Caucuses.

The democratic ward caucuses will be held Thursday evening, March 23, 1893, at 7:30 o'clock, local time, for the purpose of nominating ward tickets and electing delegates to the city convention, at the following places:

- First ward, City Clerk's office. Second ward, Wagner & Bierman's store. Third ward, Basement of Court House. Fourth ward, Fremont's Hall. Fifth ward, Engine House. Sixth ward, Engine House. By order of Committee.

Pittsfield Caucus.

Pittsfield Democrats will meet at the town house, March 23rd, 1893, at 7:30 p. m., to nominate a township ticket, and to transact such other business as may be necessary. Let every Democrat attend! F. E. MILLS, Chairman Town Committee.

Lodi Caucus.

A democratic caucus will be held at the Lodi Town Hall on Monday, March 27, 1893, at 10 o'clock, p. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for township offices. Dated, March 13, 1893. By order of Committee.

Ann Arbor Town Caucus.

The Democrats of Ann Arbor town will hold their township caucus to nominate candidates for township offices on Saturday, March 25, at 3 o'clock in the county treasurers office in the court house. By order of the committee, J. J. PARSHALL, Chairman.

The democrats should redeem Michigan this spring. Let all put their shoulders to the wheel and the work is done.

Edward R. Gilday, our nominee for circuit judge, made a most excellent impression while in our city, this week. He is too good a man for democrats to cut from their ticket, and every day he is growing in strength.

Judge Durand is the cleanest cut man who has been run for Supreme Court judge in many a year. The Democrats never had a better ticket than this spring. It is the kind of a ticket, which should cause glorious old Democratic Washtenaw to roll up her biggest majority.

The Monroe Democrat has the following concerning our nominee for circuit judge:

By referring to the proceedings of the 22d judicial convention, it will be seen that Hon. E. R. Gilday, of this city, was named as the democratic candidate for circuit judge. In our opinion the convention voiced the sentiments of the democracy of this district, and the nomination will be ratified at the polls next month. Mr. Gilday is a man of honorable characteristics, and about whom there is no scant information. He was born in this county; he was raised in this county; he married in this county; he has always lived in this county. His life has been as an open book. He is a shrewd judge of men, and has always been engaged in a profession in which shrewd men are the participants. He is a man of rare endowments; thoroughly versed in the practice of the law, and withal a gentleman of liberal culture and of high moral and social worth. His experiences in public life since he graduated from the law department of the University of Michigan, have been in direct training for the bench. He has a masterful grasp of the theories and practices of common law, and a comprehensive knowledge of equities which leads to that mean of construction through which the causes of justice are served. As a lawyer he has made his mark as a close reasoner and keen analyzer. He is in the prime of manhood and has been prominent at the bar as a lawyer, and in the county and state as a political leader and adviser.

His ability is recognized thoroughly by his own party and by his opponents; and he is held in high esteem by the leaders of both, and recognized as the one who rallied the party for Mr. Gorman both times he ran for congress, and demonstrated the way to victory and large majorities. His manner is such as make men warm toward him, and he always reserves his cold shoulder for the despicable. His democracy is unquestioned; yet he has the reputation of being decidedly fair and conservative, and during his career as prosecuting attorney, mayor of our city, and member of the school board, politics cut no figure with him. If elected to the position for which he has been named by his party, the lawless will not be allowed to stretch their tiger claws in the streets and alleys of his jurisdiction.

How a Saber Cut Feels.

"I hardly know how it feels to be shot, but I well realize how it feels to be cut," said Mr. O. D. Reeves of Indianapolis at the Lindell. "I enlisted in a cavalry regiment when I was 16 and put in four years for Uncle Sam. Do you see the scar? That was done at Nashville" and he held up his left hand, which was almost encircled by a deep scar. "The boys were ordered to charge, and I had emptied my pistols and had just drawn my saber when I saw bearing down upon me one of the largest men I ever saw. "Our horses were both going at full speed, and he was headed directly for me. He launched his blow first, and I instinctively threw up my hand and lowered my head. The saber struck my hand, which fell helplessly by my side. The man flew past me, and I turned my horse to one side and rode far enough away to examine my wound. No blood escaped, neither did I feel any pain until the wound was dressed a half hour later. The reaction set in, and the strongest opiates were used for days to give me relief from pain."—St. Louis Republic.

The thumb. Thumbs have been appreciated ever since the world began. The ancients used to call the thumb the other hand. Barbarous kings used to swear and make compacts by their thumbs. In Rome it was a sign of favor to wring and kiss the thumb, and of disfavor or disgrace to lift them up or turn them outward. A man who was hurt in his thumbs was excused from serving in the Roman wars. Some of the scoundrelly citizens used to cut off their thumbs, so as to remain home and get rich. Teachers used to punish their pupils by biting their thumbs.

The thumb is a great and influential member. I can look at the thumb of a young woman and describe her figure. I can tell whether she is thin and bony, or plump and round; whether her joints are large and ill shaped, or small and perfectly proportioned. By examining a man's thumb I can tell what ought to be his vocation.—New York Tribune.

Its Song Is Like the Filing of a Saw.

Of the Acadian owl, one of the rarest of New England birds, Audubon says: "This little owl is known in Massachusetts by the name of the 'saw whet,' the sound of its love notes bearing a great resemblance to the noise produced by filing the teeth of a large saw. These notes, when coming, as they frequently do, from the interior of a deep forest, produce a very peculiar effect on the traveler, who, not being aware of their real nature, expects as he advances on his route to meet with shelter under a sawmill at no great distance. Until I shot the bird in the act I had myself been more than once deceived in this manner."

The Restless Man.

Of all tiresome things a restless man is the worst. A restless woman cannot begin to come up to a restless man. She gets physically tired out after awhile and must sit down. But a man—he can go on and on forever.

In cafes, railroad trains, theaters—in fact, wherever men do congregate—there also is the restless man, driving every one distracted with his ceaseless tramping. He goes up, and he goes down, but he is never weary.—New York Herald.

His Regard For Himself.

The comfortable, well clad citizen was going along Woodward avenue home the other evening when a big, burly tramp stopped him and asked for a dime. The citizen looked him over and asked: "Do you have no more regard for yourself than to beg on the streets?" "That's just it, boss," was the reply. "It's because I have regard for myself that I do. There's too many dogs in the back yards."—Detroit Free Press.

In Politics It Is "Pull."

From the Hopeful Young Man to the Pastor—As I stand in the broad avenue of life I find so many closed doors I know not which one to open. How can I tell which will lead me to success? From the Practical Pastor to the Young Man—There's only one, and you'll find it labeled "Push."—Exchange.

Saving and Spending.

"I saved up $3.08 last year," said Wallis proudly. "And I suppose you spent it on presents for your papa and mamma?" asked the visitor. "Yes," said Wallis. "That is, all but $3 of it."—Harper's Bazar.

The man who, after studying a hundred women, thought he knew the sex thoroughly, admitted, on intimate acquaintance with the one hundred and first, that he was densely ignorant of the nature of any one of them.

The living alumni of the University of Michigan are said to number twice as many as the living alumni of any other educational institution in this country. Harvard is reported to be next, with Yale a good third.

COL. SILLOWAYE SPEAKS.

What a Colonel of Gen. McClellan's Staff Says.

HE SAVED PRESIDENT LINCOLN FROM CAPTURE.

He Was the Preserver Also of John Jacob Astor.

Col. William A. H. Sillowaye is 60 years old. He resides at Bellows Falls, Vt., and is connected with the Bellows Falls Times. He has something of the most vital interest to say to his fellow soldier of the G. A. R. and to his fellow men the world over.

In "Rifles, Shot and Bullet Shell," there can be found a sketch of Col. Sillowaye, wherein it is shown that he indirectly saved the Union, when, in 1863 he prevented the capture of Lincoln by the Confederates. He also saved John Jacob Astor from a similar fate in 1862, in the Peninsula campaign. Col. Sillowaye served four years and eight months in the army and navy during the war, and from April, 1861, to February, 1863, he served his country without pay or reward of any kind.

He knew all the Union generals and Secretary Stanton and Mr. Welles. He was lieutenant-colonel on Gen. McClellan's staff in 1862. Col. Sillowaye is a practical painter, engineer and linguist. He has set up works in Greek, French, Spanish, Latin and Hebrew. He was employed during five years at Oxford, Eng., on Homan's Greek Bible, and there, in 1859, the degree of LL. D. was conferred upon him. His first wife was a daughter of Sir William Blackie and niece of Sir Richard Houghton. His present wife is a relative of Hon. William M. Everts, and a very gifted lady.

Col. Sillowaye is a very modest man, and only consented to talk to the writer after it was shown that it would be criminal for him to keep his knowledge to himself while others suffered.

So here is his story as it fell from his lips. He saw it written out and he indorsed every word of it.

"On the 19th of April, 1861, I enlisted in the army of the North. I weighed 162 pounds. After serving four years and eight months in the army and navy, and suffering from wounds and rheumatism I was discharged. I weighed the day I was discharged 109 pounds.

COL. SILLOWAYE

Every year I had attacks of nervous prostration; shortness of breath, and loss of appetite were not the least of my misfortunes. I tried numberless things. Nothing did me any good.

While employed in Boston, I was compelled to resign my position on account of ill health. I consulted several eminent physicians and took their medicines. No use—I grew worse day after day. They told me I could not live. I could not walk alone in the street without falling or clinging to railings. At times I would shake and twitch. Had spells of falling down in the office and on the street. In the house I had to lie down or drop down. Several times I believe I was at death's door.

I had been commander of three different G. A. R. Posts and my comrades advised me to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I bought a bottle and when I had taken two-thirds of it I began to improve. I kept on taking it, improving all the time. I now weigh 130 pounds and feel like my old self again.

You can put it in your paper that I attribute my good health to nothing but

Dr. Greene's nerve remedy. I am perfectly satisfied that it saved my life. I am 60 years of age, but, as you can see for yourself, I am active as a man of 40 and can do a good day's work as people here well know. My friends in Boston, New York and other places are surprised at my recovery. Indeed, I am surprised myself to be so well. I advise everybody afflicted to buy and try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy at once."

At this season of the year when everybody needs and is using a spring medicine we advise the use of this wonderful health restorer. It is by all odds the best spring medicine ever discovered, and immediately invigorates the blood, strengthens the nerves and restores a healthy action of all the organs.

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is as harmless as it is good, and it is purely vegetable. It sells at $1 per bottle. Physicians recommend it to their patients as it is not a patent medicine. It is the discovery of that eminent specialist, Dr. Greene, who can be consulted personally or by letter, at 35 W. 14th-st., New York, at all times.

Don't waste time, money and health trying every new medicine you may see advertised in the paper. If the cause of your trouble is in the blood, liver, stomach or kidneys, take Ayer's Sarsaparilla at once, and be sure of a cure. Take no other.

One learns to distrust many things—one's self among others.

It is Strange

That people suffering from Piles will endure them for years or submit to dangerous, painful, cruel, and expensive surgical operations, when all the time there is a painless, certain lasting cure, which gives instant relief and costs but a trifle. It is called the Pyramid Pile Cure and can be found at all drug stores. Any druggist will get it for you if you ask him.

The wisdom that contends with ignorance in the form of denial is half folly. If a man deny his own soul, why seek to convince him of its existence.

THE HERO OF TODAY.

ELEMENTS OF CHARACTER WHICH RAISE MAN TO THE FORE.

A Man is Often Judged by the Men He Admires, as is a Nation by the Kind of Men She Honors—Courage is Not the Only Quality Requisite in a Hero.

It is a truth which has not yet come to be fully realized that much of the character of an individual depends upon his ideas of heroism. What he admires and honors is a good test of what he is, or rather what he longs to be, and his heroes will always have a strong attractive force, which will draw him as far as possible into their sphere.

Equally so, the martyr who goes cheerfully to the stake; the man who braves obloquy and contempt for truth as he holds it; he who risks his life to save another, or devotes it unreservedly to the good of mankind; one who can bear and endure, and another who can dare and do; all are, in turn, heroes to those who appreciate them, and all are distinguished by the same element—courage.

The mistake, however, which has long been made, and which we are only beginning to correct, is that courage alone can make a hero. To some extent we have given up this notion. Our present heroes are no longer cannibals or robbers or duelists, however courageous such men may have been.

The prizefighter may be bold and intrepid in giving and receiving blows; but, except to a few like himself, he has ceased to be a hero, for his purposes are low and selfish.

Not, however, only in public life and under the gaze of the multitude do we find the true hero. In the home and in the schoolroom, in the office and the workshop, in the crowded street and open field, he may be discovered by those who can appreciate what heroism really is.

One quietly denies himself pleasure or comfort or ease for the aged parent or the sick child. Another gives up cherished plans because they would interfere with the claims of a dependent family.

Such men and women are always among us, but in the retirement of private life they are inevitably known but to a few. Those few, however, should esteem it their privilege and duty to honor such true heroism, and to extend its influence.

To often his only idea of it is found in the sensational romance, or in the examples around him of men who, for praise or glory or gain, will do daring deeds and manifest a physical bravery often at a fearful cost to their fellowmen.

The Captain's Sight.

It is sometimes a fault of young people to rely too fully upon their own opinions or impressions, and there are grown people who are quite too sure regarding matters to which they have given little attention.

The wind was fresh, and we were running at the rate of 12 knots an hour. Our mariners were deceived in their calculations, and as the lead did not indicate the proximity of the coast they were expected to approach they concluded that the currents had carried us into the channel.

"I see breakers through the mist." M. de l'Aiguille, an officer of superior merit, who nevertheless displayed sometimes too much of the confidence of youth, replied with a smile.

He accordingly gave that order, and during its execution, the fog having suddenly cleared away, we perceived at about 200 yards from us the rocks against which our fleet would inevitably have perished.

The young officer lost no time in thanking the captain for his wise reproof, and for his adherence to the duties of his position.—Youth's Companion.

Medicine Among the Chinese.

The lecture before the Inland League Monday evening by Dr. Carrow was well attended, and his subject, "Medicine Among the Chinese," was exceedingly interesting.

He began by saying that pure science is unknown among the Chinese. Disease is there attributed to the anger of the gods or the enmity of some departed spirit.

A beautiful illustration of the doctrine of "similia similibus curantur" was exemplified in their method of "setting the brain."

IN A SAD PLIGHT.

He Had Forgotten the Larger Matter in the Smaller.

Cold and chilling, the icy blast swept through Chicago's streets.

He was evidently an actor and of a nature far above such a petty trifler as a snow-storm.

"Av, I say, old man," said he of the affluent air, "this looks awfully tough, you know."

"Well, old boy," said the shivering tragedian, "I could, but I met with a little accident."

"Why, it was only $3," said the other. "I can lend you that, you know, if you're short."

"Well, no, it's not that, old chap," replied he of the cold chills.

"But what? Why don't you get your coat out?"

"Well, you remember down in Peoria when I sold me best coat and vest last week?"

"I do, of course, and you did well, old boy. What's that to do with the overcoat?"

"Well, the fact is, you see, that in the pocket of that vest was the ticket for the overcoat."

And he resumed his pose on the corner, trying to look as if he did not feel the cold and clinging mantle which slowly formed about him.

A Valuable Collection.

The collection mania has its victims among all classes of people, from the poorest to the richest, and very often queer traits of character are shown by the collections made.

After trying for a long while to find some one who would sell him a single share the collector came across three shares which were for sale in a lump.

Was There an Age of Copper?

M. Berthelot, the well known French technician, in a communication to the Academie des Sciences, states his belief in the some time existence of an age of copper in addition to the three recognized archaeological eras of stone, bronze (copper and tin) and iron.

Water and the atmosphere had made ravages into the specimen, which was practically a suboxide or a compound of protoxide and metallic copper.

Position of Wood and Its Durability.

The problem has troubled many why two pieces of wood, sawed from the same section of a tree, should possess very varied characteristics when used in different positions.

Microscopical examination proves that the pores invite the ascent of moisture, while they repel its descent.

Carrying the Colors in Battle.

At Gaines Mill, where Gregg's First South Carolina regiment bore the brunt of an assault upon a certain strong position while moving forward at a run, young James Taylor, a lad of 16, was carrying the flag and was killed after being shot down three times, twice rising and struggling onward with the colors.

The fifth, Gadsden Holmes, was pierced with no less than seven balls. The sixth man, Dominick Spellman, more fortunate, but not less brave, bore the flag throughout the rest of the battle.

The magician threw a teacup into the air, and it came down in fragments. Then he threw the fragments in the air, and the cup came down whole.

MAKING FORTUNES.

Paradise of the Brute and the Gold Mine of the Bruiser.

"The offer of an athletic club of a purse of $80,000 for a brace of prize-fights between popular bruisers is a sad commentary on modern civilization," said Professor Felix Howard to a reporter.

"Men make large fortunes in a single night by catering to a depraved public taste—by descending below the level of the brute—while those who devote their lives to the public service and scorn its doubtful perquisites die in poverty.

"America boasts that she is the most enlightened and progressive nation on the globe—that she is 'their of all the ages and foremost in the files of time'—yet nowhere is the professional slugger so well rewarded. It is the paradise of the brute.

"Patrons of the prize-fight delight to compare these exhibitions with those of ancient Greece and Rome, forgetting that the cestus was not in vogue in Greece before the rise of Hellenic civilization, the gladiator's sword in Rome when the empire was tottering to its fall.

A PECULIAR ANIMAL.

seems to Be a Cross Between a 'Coo and Something Else.

While out hunting recently James B. Peckham, a well-known resident of Preston, near Norwich, Conn., killed a peculiar animal, the exact pedigree of which he is very curious to learn.

The animal is about eighteen inches in length, and, with the exception of its tail, is covered with fine, soft hair of a dark gray color, tipped with brown.

Nothing of the kind was ever seen before in the vicinity, and Mr. Peckham is very anxious to learn just what the animal is. He has taken care to preserve the body, and the curiosity occupies a prominent place in his museum.

Chemical Manure for Vegetables.

The special crop most largely grown at the east end of Long Island is the early potato. In connection with a good soil, preferably a clover soil, the use of chemical fertilizers is said to give results quicker, surer and with less expense than other manures.

I work a small place of about twenty-five acres, and the use of fertilizers, instead of so much stable manure, enables me to dispense with the services of an extra man, and to grow more potatoes on the same land two years in succession.

LANDS FOR SALE.

By the Illinois Central R. R. Co., at low prices and on easy terms, in Southern Illinois.

The best farm country in the world for either large or small farms, gardens, fruits, orchards, dairying, raising stock or sheep.

A greater variety of crops, with a greater profit, can be grown on a less amount of land in this country than can be raised in any other portion of this State.

Special inducements and facilities offered by the Illinois Central Railroad Company to go and examine these lands.

For full description and map and any information, address or call upon E. P. SKEEN, Land Commissioner I. C. R. Co., 8 Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.
