AN ANN ARBOR WILL CASE IS IN COURT.

Shot to Death at Milan.—A Superb Choral Union Course.—The Washtenaw Teachers' Meeting.—The Horticulturists—&c.

Ann Arbor to the Front.

The Ann Arbor Organ Co. are much gratified at an order from Messrs. Husch & Co., of London, England for three organs as samples. This firm writes that they wish to secure the agency for an American organ and having seen an Ann Arbor organ at Glasgow, Scotland, recently, desire samples for examination in view of securing the agency of Great Britain and mention incidentally that they sold 540 of one make of American organs in 1892.

A Will Case in Court.

An appeal has been taken from the probate court in the estate of the late Mrs. Sarah H. Goodrich. The probate court admitted to probate her will made April 22, '94, which bequeathed all her estate to her sister, Anna North. This will was contested by Mrs. Anna E. Lum, her niece, who produced a will made January 3, 1883, which bequeathed all the estate to her. The admission of the will made this year to probate is contested on the ground that Mrs. Goodrich was not competent to make a will at the time, of undue influence, and that she had not directed the drafting of it.

Shot While Mink Hunting.

A Milan dispatch to the Detroit Evening Journal last night says: About eleven o'clock yesterday Cyrus Wendhausen and Fred Reeves, aged 14 years, and Bert Van Wormer, a brother-in-law of young Wendhausen, were out hunting three miles south of this village. They had run a mink into a brush heap, and Wendhausen leaned his gun against a log and climbed the brush to scare it out. He then reached for his gun from the opposite side of the log, grasped it by the muzzle, and in drawing it to him the hammer caught on the log and the gun was discharged, shooting him through the heart. Justice Bentley impaneled a jury, which returned a verdict in accordance with the above facts.

Sunday Evenings at St. Andrews.

On the three remaining Sunday evenings of November, the Rev. E. M. Duff will speak in St. Andrews' Church on "The Gospel in Early Years: Its Leading Preachers as Men and her Workers." The subject will be presented in the following order: Nov. 12, "The Apostolic Companions,"—Barnabas, Timothy, Titus and Apollo; "Men of like passions with you," Acts. 14-15. Nov. 19, "The Apostolic Pupils,"—Clement, Ignatius, Polycarp, Papias,—"Remember ye the words which have been spoken before by the Apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ." St. Jude, verse 17. Nov. 26, "The Defender of the Faith,"—Justin Martyr, Aristides, Irenaeus,—"We did not follow cunningly devised fables." II St. Peter, 1:16.

On the Sunday evenings in December, the Rev. Henry Tatlock will speak upon a subject to be announced later.

"The Wicklow Postman."

"The Wicklow Postman," an Irish melodrama which the actor and author, Mark Price, has written for Mr. Eugene O'Rourke, is a slight, if not a radical departure from the conventional Irish play; it ignores English soldiers and Irish rags. The famous blackthorn does not hold at bay a posse of police, nor does it demolish an English regiment. That blot upon the Irish race, the ever ready informer is conspicuous by his absence, he has done yeoman service in the past, but he can be spared from the pages of an Irish story of to-day. Irish dramatists have ignored a very active element in Ireland, namely the Scotch-Irish. Mr. Price, realizing their importance and power, brings them forcibly to the front in direct contact with the native Irish. Industry and cunning at war with wit and reckless generosity; the closed fist against the open hand. With such a theme character sketching becomes a necessity and various types are presented for our consideration. Supported by a company who can act and sing, with a new scenic outfit, we have no hesitation in recording the fact that Mr. Eugene O'Rourke will be a welcome "Postman," when he visits our city on Tuesday evening, Nov. 14, and appears at the Grand Opera house.

Washtenaw County Teachers' Meeting.

The Washtenaw County Teachers Association will hold a meeting in the high school building in this city, Saturday, Nov. 18. An excellent programme for the occasion has been prepared as follows. 10 a. m., soprano solo by Miss Mabel Warner; address by President Whitney, of the Ypsilanti Schools; soprano solo by Miss Jennie Farnham; violin solo by Frank Smith; paper on Drawing for Ungraded Schools by Prof. C. T. McFarlane; solo by Frank Dansingberg.

At 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon, after music by Miss Lucy Cole, a paper on English Grammar by Supt. W. S. Perry. This will be followed by a duet and then Dr. R. G. Boone, principal of the State Normal school will deliver a lecture.

The programme is a strong one and every teacher in the county should be out, especially as the school commissioner announces that attendance at the association meetings will be taken into consideration in the granting of certificates.

Mulholland Beats His Wife Again.

Our readers will remember reading of the brutal manner in which William Mulholland kicked his wife at their home, in Superior township, last August, in which act he was encouraged by Tom Cowan, who, for his part in the affair, was tarred and feathered by his indignant neighbors. At that time Mrs. Mulholland declined to make complaint against her husband, thinking that the fact that her life was in danger for some days would operate to restrain him from renewing his brutal assault. She was mistaken in this, for he beat her again last Saturday and threw several pails of water over her, after she had gone to bed, each time striking her with the pail. He was arrested and has been bound over to the circuit court on a charge of assault, with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder.

Since making complaint against her husband, Mrs. Mulholland has begun suit for divorce from him. In her bill she sets up that they were married February 22, 1892, and have one child six months old, that he came home drunk April 17, 1892, with several boon companions and kicked and struck her, that on July 14, 1892, he struck her and knocked her down, that on the following day he shamefully kicked her, threw water over her, threw her out of the house and threw her trunk after her. She also recounts his beating her into insensibility on August 13 of this year, at which time her life was despaired of for many days. She estimates the value of his real estate at $4,000 and his personal property at $500. Judge Kinne has granted an injunction restraining him from mortgaging or selling it during the pending of the suit.

Choral Union Series.

The readers of the Argus need but brief mention of this series, for it is one of Ann Arbor's most cherished institutions. The series this year will be fully equal to any in the past. The attractions are as follows: Nov. 16, Lillian Mordica, Maud Powell, J. Erich Schmaal; Dec. 19, Messiah, Mrs. Geneva Johnston-Bishop and Mr. S. R. Mills along the soloists; Feb. 16, Max Heinrich, the inimitable singer, assisted by Mr. Hermann Zeitz, the brilliant violinist; May 25, The "Manzoni Requiem" Verdi. One date is left free for the engagement of some attraction greater than is now available. The Damnation of Faust and "Redemption" representative works of French genius, followed by a production of a masterpiece of the German school (Lohengrin) will now be proceeded by the Manzoni Requiem, which marks the highest flight of Italian genius in this line. It is needless to urge upon the readers of the Argus the claims of this series, and we are confident that the support given this year will gladden the hearts of the members of the Choral Union.

Regarding the artists who appear in the concert next Thursday evening we append some comments of the press.

"If Patti had been announced to sing, the attendance could not have been larger; and, if Patti herself had sang, more enthusiasm could not have been manifested. The house was literally sold out; and at the box office applicants for admission had to be turned away."—Chicago Herald, February 2, 1893.

Mme. Nordica, with her irresistibly fascinating voice, so mobile, so sympathetic, so pure in its timbre, so highly cultivated, and so perfect in her method, fairly made the audience wild with enthusiasm.—Chicago Post, February 2nd, 1893.

In the spring of 1885 Maud Powell returned home, considering that she had learned about all that teachers could tell her that was vital to her art. Joachim told her that she must thenceforth depend upon herself; she must hear all the good music she could and study night and day. She has followed this advice. At the first of the Philharmonic concerts of the season of 1885-86, Miss Powell, then seventeen years old, played the Bruch concerto. Her success was immediate, and she was complimented especially by the professional musicians who heard her play. It has often been said that Miss Powell plays like a man, and she has a certain strength and power chiefly noted in men players; nevertheless, she possesses tenderness and poetry in a marked degree; and it is this happy combination, together with no end of the hardest kind of work, that has placed her at the head of women violinists.

The tickets can be obtained at music stores, at Calkin's drug store, Moore and Westmores and at the office of the School of Music (Maynard St.). Price $2.

The Horticulturists.

"Lessons of the Year" were discussed by the horticulturists at their November meeting. Mr. Buell reported that peach trees set last spring had done well, not over five per cent on his place having died and these were all in low spots on black soil. The trees were mulched with manure and forked once during the season just outside the roots. The field was cultivated in corn. The low spots had been underdrained and there the corn grew very rank, but the trees which lived grew no better in such places than on the knolls where the corn was not over three feet high. The varieties planted were early Crawford, Red Cheek and Smock. He intends planting more of the same varieties next year, with the addition of Late Crawford. He spoke highly of the stump as hardy and prolific, its only fault being its white color.

Mr. Crozier was asked about his new plantation of berries. He replied that it had made a good growth and that he had just finished filling the vacancies, preferring to do this as early as possible in the fall than to wait until spring. The field contained fifteen acres, half of which was set to Snyder blackberries and half to Cuthbert raspberries, the blackberries being set on the higher and lighter soil. Blackberries would do well on either sand or clay if properly cared for, but were safer on sand, while red raspberries in this locality succeeded much the best on clay. The plants were all set seven by three and a half feet and cultivated both ways. He thought four feet in the row might be better for the blackberries. Wide spaces were left at suitable intervals for driveways. On a portion of the field strawberries were set between the rows, the rest of the field being planted to corn and potatoes. The plants which gave the best satisfaction were vigorous, one-year-old suckers of the blackberry and year suckers of the raspberry. Red raspberries start so early in the season that whether green or woody plants are used they should not be dug until one is ready to set them out.

W. F. Bird's grape report was rather gloomy. Hail in June damaged the vines and retarded the maturity of the fruit, drought diminished its size, and the early frost, coming before the fruit was fully ripe, injured its keeping qualities. In addition it has become necessary to meet sharp competition from Western New York, where the acreage in vineyards is large and still increasing.

Mr. Ganzbow spoke of the Keiffer pear as a profitable variety on account of the productiveness and fine appearance. Mr. Fuller thought it too poor in quality to be worth growing. Several members believed that its lateness had much to do with its lack of flavor and stated that it needed to be well ripened before being placed upon the market.

The "hard times" came in for a share of the discussion. Prices had not been affected so seriously as was feared, though buyers seemed to be more careful than usual and there was a noticeable increase in the demand for the cheaper grades of fruit. It was believed that the unusually large grape and peach crop this year was mainly responsible for the low prices received for those fruits.

The Great Through Car Line.

It is a well established fact that the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western R'y) in its equipment and train service, its general facilities for the accommodation of all classes of travel, and its methods of looking after the comfort and well-fare of its patrons, takes rank with the leading railways of the world.

Its through car lines extend from Chicago to St. Paul and Minneapolis, the "Twin Cities of the North-west," to Duluth, the Superiors, Ashland, Marquette and the wonderful iron and copper regions of northern Wisconsin and Michigan; to Winona, Pierre, and the rich agricultural sections of Minnesota and the Dakotas; to Des Moines, Sioux City, Council Bluffs, Omaha, Lincoln, the prosperous and growing cities of Iowa and Nebraska; to Deadwood, the Dakota Hot Springs, and the famous mining districts of the Black Hills; to Denver, Salt Lake, and the health resorts of Colorado and Utah; to San Francisco, Cal.; Portland, Oregon, and Pacific Coast and Puget Sound points.

The perfectly equipped vestibuled trains of the North-Western Line convey the traveler comfortably, safely and quickly to nearly every part of the west and north-west, and while one may travel surrounded by all of the luxuries afforded by an equipment of magnificent sleeping cars, buffet smoking and library cars, compartment sleeping cars, and superb dining cars, the comfort and convenience of passengers desiring to travel at small expense is prompted by the provision of accommodations for their use in Tourists Sleeping Cars, Free Reclining Chair Cars and commodious day coaches.

In a word, if you contemplate a trip to almost any portion of the west and north-west your tickets should read via the North-Western Line. Maps, time tables and general information can be obtained of ticket agents in the United States and Canada, or by addressing W. A. Thrall, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Chicago Chicago & North-Western R'y, Chicago, Ill.

The great World's Fair is over, people can now settle down to business and prepare for winter. It occurs to us that there is no better time to buy Carpets, Curtains, Rugs, Parlor, Bedroom and Dining furniture etc., than now, and have decided to do our part by giving special discounts and inducements. We trust you will appreciate the very low prices we will give you and do your part by making early selections. Look at the display of rugs in one show window and furniture coverings in the other, the latter suitable for parlor pieces. We make-over and reupholster any style of parlor pieces.

Newspaper Men to Organize.

Considerable interest has been maintained in the re-establishment of the University Press Club. Various plans for its improvement have been proposed and everything points to a strong club among the newspaper men of the College. A meeting will be held tomorrow evening at which the best interests of the association will be discussed and steps taken towards re-establishment.

Adrian Press Washtenawisms. Hiram Markham, of Whittaker, blocked a threshing machine with his leg and met with a fracture.

The married students of the university hold socials, and by swapping partners for the time, seem almost as cheerful as ever.

The Dexter Leader having made a study of the subject, declares that the human shape is traceable in the mammoth squash. It may be true. Now, for instance, take the United States senate.

The Acacia social club, is the name of an Ann Arbor organization. From its name it is inferred that it sweetens its breath with cinnamon, after mixing and taking the oath of allegiance to the constitution.

The M. E. church organ of Ann Arbor has been overhauled, the mouse nests swept out of it, a little stay-awake given the blower boy and the Te Deum Laudamus again pours forth with fullness and power.

The temperance feeling is gradually gaining in Washtenaw. The Democrat states that during the past year, only 190 persons have been jailed for being too drunk to "tarve" with the motion of the earth.

In spite of injunction suits and the drain on its resources, to furnish a record for that endless squash vine, the Ann Arbor Register, has been enlarged from a 56 to a 72 column newspaper. Nothing like success, for succeeding.

A lady from Australia who visited Ann Arbor last week, expressed surprise that the trees shed their leaves in this country, and said that in Australia the trees shed their bark instead of their leaves. The Argus believes her out of courtesy to a lady.

Prof. Lister, of the Saline schools who is engaged in an analysis of drinking water, from a village well, has already discovered a trilobite, nautilus, hairy crocodile hadrosaurus and a nest of humbugs. The microscope is a great revealer of the deadly life of the invisible world.

Eight men and two women, of Ypsilanti, have sued the Keely anti-jaggery company, to recover $55,000 worth of the stock which they claim looked all fine on the surface, but at last "biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder," and is no good.

Mat Blosser of the Manchester Enterprise drove a rusty nail in his foot the other day and took to crutches. The citizens of Manchester should take up a collection and buy a pair of shoes for him. It is not disgraceful to go barefooted, but it's dangerous.

Gazing out through the fly-specks on the sanctum window, upon the shipping in the harbor, the aged editor of the Ann Arbor Courier is reminded that "sixty years ago there were only three steamboats on the great lakes," and adds: "What a change my countrymen, in the lifetime of an individual!"

Prof. Angell left Friday of last week, for Chicago, to secure if possible, additions to the university museum. If he wanted something really rich and rare, he should have organized a party and gone gunning for the last legislature. That would have been worth skinning and stuffing.

J. V. N. Gregory, of Dexter, is we regret to announce, again on crutches. He was reduced to this condition by acting as running mate for a spirited horse he was leading—that is we mean he was being led by the horse and had an ankle sprained, and it is feared, lost some of his initials.

Great is football! Ypsilanti examines her bruised shins, through a pair of discolored eyes; then cocking her bonnet a little on one side yells through the Sentinel: "Who would have thought that the Normals could mop the earth with perhaps the best team in Ann Arbor, except the regular U. of M.'s? Yes that is what happened Saturday." Note:—The feminine gender is used in our introduction figuratively, otherwise it wouldn't have been proper.

Each day adds a new prop to the claim that the University City is the Athens of American culture. Silk-haired politeness could hardly go further than in the case of Mayor Thompson, who writes to the marshal that he "has the honor" to suspend him from office, and by and with the consent of the council is perfectly willing to kick him out for good. We expect the marshal to reply that he "has the honor" to tell the mayor to go to—that is, "go to."

While baling hay last week a Webster man baled one of his feet, bruising it badly. Twice has such a thing happened in that locality. Why is it that some men will monkey with a baling machine when they know there isn't room for machine and feet without letting down the town line fence?

A row has arisen among the fat men of the university, over the election of toastmaster, and there is likely to be considerable tallow shed over it before the fuss is settled. It is said that men whose stomachs touched, struck out for each others eyes, but the blows fell short. "So near, and yet so far!"

Milan's night watchman asked a gang who were rattling at the glass of a store, what they meant by such conduct. They manifested a delicacy about informing him and ran away. He ran after them and fired. Blood on the walk next morning showed that the night watch had had the nose bleed, perhaps.

Robert Jerrey, of Saline, has returned from England. "During his stay" says the Saline Observer, "he gained possession of several old coins, which he turned over to the editor of this paper." This journal wishes that a dozen or fifteen of its subscribers, whose accounts have value only as relics of antiquity, would take a trip to England.

Capt. Allen, of Ypsilanti, will deliver an address at the meeting of the Michigan State Sunday School Association in Hillsdale, November 15-16.—Ann Arbor Argus.

By this time, and this being a year in which there is no election in Michigan, it is probably safe to let the captain talk in Hillsdale county. At any earlier time he might, while addressing the lambs of the Sunday school flock, have drifted to the subject of 50 cent wool.

And still the fratricidal war between Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti goes on! Not long ago the Register said that Mr. Salyer had preserved in alcohol a monster tarantula. Forth with the Ypsilanti Commercial was on its feet, saying: "Mr. Salyer can come back to Ypsilanti any time that he feels dissatisfied with the breed of bugs that he finds in Ann Arbor." And the Register replies that "when Mr. Salyer finds a worse breed in Ann Arbor than Ypsilanti-ans are familiar with he probably will return; but he has not done so yet." Thus, with lofty carriage, each accuses the other of being a little "buggy." Note: This quotation is not original.

Who have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla what they think of it, and the replies will be positive in its favor. Simply what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story of its merit. One has been cured of indigestion or dyspepsia, another finds it indispensable for sick headache or biliousness, while others report remarkable cures of scrofula, catarrh, rheumatism, salt rheum, etc.

Clinton has a big lecture course. Poultry buyers are hustling around Dexter. E. N. Ball is enlarging his house in Hamburg. The muskrat is at work this year, building rather high.

The Stockbridge Sun has put in a power printing press. Burglars got $75 worth of goods in Pinckney the other night. The Dexter News says a Chelsea man can't get shaved in Dexter.

Robert Martin, of Superior, has a fine new milch cow for sale. Prof. Steere, of Pittsfield, raised twenty-seven acres of celery. Charles Kaercher, of Chelsea, lost the end of a thumb last week. Halloween was celebrated in Saline by the small boy with a vengeance.

Mrs. Henry Fullerton, of Whittaker, ran a wire nail in her foot the other day. Roy Thompson, of Chelsea, broke his wrist the other day by falling over a box. Five young ladies have been confirmed in the Episcopal church at Hamburg.

August W. Begole, formerly of Chelsea, died in Denver, Colorado, November 2. Charles Wheeler, of Nora, has married three of his girls in the past six months. Thomas R. Kyle has been appointed postmaster at Tecumseh, much to the satisfaction of the patrons of the Tecumseh office.

Several hundred thousand dollars have been taken out of the county by the World's Fair. Mrs. Sarah Kelley, of Ypsilanti town, died on Wednesday of last week, aged eighty-seven years.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church of Saline has elected Mrs. D. H. Briggs president. New barns have been built in Augusta this year by Aaron Fullerton, Peter Stoneter, Thomas Tallady and Krist Henning.

Charles F. Burkhardt and Miss Carrie J. Davenport, of Saline, were married Wednesday evening of last week by Rev. C. S. Bullock. Miss May White, of Stockbridge, who has been sleeping nearly all the time during the past three years, is recovering.

Stockbridge is very proud of its new town hall, which cost $5,000 and has a fine auditorium, stage and drop curtain. The Stockbridge Sun of last week gives its readers a fine illustration of it.

A large number of Chelsea folks are attending school in Ann Arbor this year. Misses Hopkins and Cranston, both of whom have held the position of preceptress in our school, are taking work in the literary department. Miss Cranston is also taking work in the school of music. Dorsey Hoppe, a graduate of the Chelsea school, is also taking work in the literary department.

Louis Stocking is taking advanced work in the Ann Arbor high school. Will Stapish is in the dental department, while Ransom Armstrong is a senior pharmacist. George Hathaway will graduate next June from the dental department. Wm. W. Wedemeyer is a senior in the literary department. Of former graduates, Frank J. Riggs is practicing law in the office of M. J. Lehman. Will Conlan graduated from the dental department last June, and has been engaged in the practice of his profession at Ann Arbor ever since. Herbert Dancer is a junior in the literary department. Walter Woods has just begun work in that department.—Chelsea Standard.

Hood's Cures Even When Called Incurable

They said I was incurable, the doctors did, but the result has proven that Hood's Sarsaparilla was able to cure. I had Sciatic Rheumatism and was confined to my bed 3 months. Three physicians did not help me and I was given up to die.

When I was in this terrible condition, unable to move hand or foot, I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. The first bottle had a little effect, and while taking the second, I gained so rapidly that I could sit up in my chair. My system had been so run down by other medicine, that it took me quite a while to recuperate. By the time I had taken four bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, I could walk around, and now, as I have taken six bottles, I am cured and can do a good day's work. I do not feel I can praise enough.
