DEDICATION OF THE SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Deaths of Col. Eldredge and Capt. Spencer.—A Little Girl Bitten by an Ugly Dog.

Bitten by a Dog.

A large Newfoundland dog in McGraws' livery stable, in Ypsilanti, after playing with the six year old daughter of James Eaton, Tuesday, suddenly made a lunge for the child and fastened its teeth in her cheek from the ear to the chin, cutting five gashes to the bone. The wounds are most dangerous ones and lock-jaw is feared. The dog was shot by Officer Eaton.

Death of Capt. Spencer.

Capt. Clinton Spencer, of Ypsilanti, for the past year chief clerk of the state department at Lansing, died Wednesday morning in Lansing of apoplexy. He lay in a comatose condition from Monday night when he was stricken down. Capt. Spencer was 53 years of age and was born in Ypsilanti. He served in the late war until 1863, when he lost a leg at the battle of Gettysburg. He was a captain in the First Michigan Infantry. He was elected register of deeds of this county in 1867 and was postmaster at Ypsilanti from 1871 to 1883. His wife is at present state librarian.

Death of Col. N. B. Eldredge.

Col. N. B. Eldredge, the democratic congressman from this congressional district in 1882 and 1884, died at his home in Adrian last Monday afternoon, aged eighty years and eight months. He came to Michigan while it was still a territory, after graduating from a medical college and began the practice of medicine in Oakland county. In 1843 he removed to Lapeer and continued the practice of medicine there until 1852. In the meantime he acted as justice of the peace, supervisor and chairman of the board of supervisors. In 1845 he was clerk of the state senate, and in 1848 was elected to the house. He was elected probate judge of Lapeer county. In 1853 he was appointed postmaster of Lapeer, serving until 1856, when he was admitted to the bar. He was the first man from Lapeer county to enlist in the war. He raised a company and before the regiment left the state he was promoted to major. Afterwards he was appointed lieutenant colonel of the Eleventh Infantry. In 1863 he resigned on account of failing health. In 1865 he removed to Adrian and began the practice of law there. In 1870 he was elected mayor of Adrian. In 1874 he was elected sheriff of Lenawee county. He was elected to congress in 1882, and re-elected in 1884. He was several times prominently mentioned in connection with the governorship. He was a great campaigner, driving through the district and greeting everyone with hearty handshakes and pleasant stories. He will be remembered by very many of our readers.

A Watchman Bound and Brewery Burglarized.

One of the smoothest jobs of safe cracking that ever occurred in Ypsilanti was executed early Tuesday morning at Foerster's Grove brewery. The cracksmen were by no means novices and they had gone to work with the most complete plans of just what to do, when to do it, and how to do it.

In the first place they selected Monday night as the time for their crime. On Mondays, Jacob Foerster is in the habit of visiting his customers and making collections, and is as regular in the weekly visits as the most accurate timepiece. The thieves evidently were aware of this. In the next place they were experts in binding a watchman so that resistance would be impossible. Again they discreetly left some old script money of the denomination of 10 25 and 50 cent pieces which have become so rare that their presence would excite suspicion. And lastly, they probably disguised one of their number in order to put officers on the wrong track.

But this is how it happened. About 2 o'clock Tuesday morning, Charles Haines, the driver for the brewery and who sleeps in the second story, was suddenly awakened by four men, all but one of whom wore masks or handkerchiefs over their faces. A pair of revolvers was pointed at him and he was quietly told that no harm would come to him if he made no noise. They then securely bound his hands and feet with clothesline and left the unmasked man to guard over him. He is described as a man of medium build, black hair, black, mustache and black chin whiskers, which is plainly a sharp bit of tactics to put the officers on the wrong scent. Without asking where the money was kept or the location of the safe, which by the way is in a part of the building that would never be suspected as the place of the business office, two of the men went directly to the safe. The fourth man was stationed down below to guard against any intrusion. That they had the necessary tools to do the job was demonstrated by the short time it required to bore into the outer plate and insert the powder. A fuse did the rest with the exception of carrying away the money which amounted to about $160.

After the thieves had gone away Mr. Haines succeeded in untying his feet but could not get his hands free. He then went without clothes to the house of Jacob Foerster and awakened him. Mr. Foerster released the bound man and his story was soon learned.

It was at least an hour after the robbery before an officer was found, which gave the cracksmen sufficient time to get away. However, Sheriff Brenner and M. C. Peterson went to Ypsilanti at once and investigated the matter. At noon they located three suspicious characters in a saloon in the neighborhood of the depot who were kept under surveillance. At that hour the arrest would have been made but the fourth man was wanted also.

Besides the money taken the safe, which is valued at $150, is so destroyed that it will take a new one to replace it. That the officers seem to be on the right track is shown by the fact that somebody was connected with the crime who was familiar with the location of everything in the brewery. The most that can be said is that the men "were onto that job."—Wash-tenaw Times.

Dedication of the School of Music.

Prof. F. W. Kelsey, Ph. D., president of the University School of Music, opened the dedication exercises last evening by saying that in the name of the society he bade everyone welcome. By his request Rev. Henry Tatlock delivered a short, earnest invocation, asking that the proper spirit should dwell in the building and that the school should prosper and be blessed in every way.

Pres. Kelsey said that in the city of Ann Arbor there were a number of public spirited men who were always on the alert to be helpful to the prosperity of the city and they had formed the association which had built the building. He would call upon one of these gentlemen, Mr. A. L. Noble, the president of the building association, who would tell how the building was secured.

Mr. Noble said that had he known that with the office of president was connected any special speech making he would have hesitated in accepting the office. They were there to celebrate a sort of marriage feast, a feast of congratulation, of pleasant words. Some time ago there was a well developed organization that was not exactly happy, being homeless. Then another organization was formed to give a home for the former, and this was the result of its labors and at last the homeless wanderer had found a haven of rest. Mr. Noble thought there were many who could appreciate the feeling. He asked if any of them had ever moved from rented rooms into a home which they could call their very own. Every brick, every timber, every piece of bric-a-brac, every piece of furniture took on an added value because it belonged to the home. They need not feel surprised then that the members of the school of music felt happy and proud. They had a right to be.

Figures were not always interesting, but he had prepared some that he thought would be interesting and they showed the expenditures made by the association.

The lot on which the building stood had cost $2,000, the building $7,578, stone walks $160, furnaces $425, gas and electric light fixtures $150, total $10,313, the organ $2,200, pianos $1,678, chairs $260, office furniture $160, incidentals $100, total for everything $14,711. This was in round numbers $15,000. He would leave it to them if the building committee had not used their money wisely. It was their money, not the directors' money. Not all the dues were paid as yet but when the subscriptions were paid in full they would be. Thanks were due to the subscribers. They were not a few wealthy ones, but the subscriptions were made by people who had to economize and make sacrifices to pay their subscriptions. Both boards of directors wish to express their thanks. He thought public thanks ought to be given to two gentlemen in particular, Col. Henry S. Dean and Moses Seabot, by whose special efforts the money was largely raised for the new organ. In face of the financial pressure they had gone out and gathered here a sheaf and there a straw and there a bundle.

Pres. Kelsey said that in looking back it was natural to refer to the men who had contributed towards the success of this enterprise. They had succeeded in getting the portraits of four which hung on the walls. Dr. Frieze, Dr. Winchell, Israel Hall and Prof. Morris, men whose earnest lives were so hopeful of the future. He said Pres. Angell was present and would speak more on the subject of these men with all of whom he was so well acquainted.

Pres. Angell said he felt that he was there that evening at a sort of family gathering, a thanksgiving festival. They felt happy that they had really caught up to and seized the rainbow which some men had charged them with chasing. He thought that evening marked a new era in the city. It was a landmark from which to look back to the past and forward to the future with hope for cultivation of art in the city.

It was far better that the building was the creation of many small gifts than the endowment of one rich man. It means more, it shows the love of music, and good music too, in Ann Arbor is so widely diffused. It is a matter of profound thanksgiving and congratulations. It was a happy thought to bring the portraits of those who had done so much for music in Ann Arbor and place them on the walls of the hall. The directors of the association had tolled far more than anyone knew. They had long evening sessions attended with great anxiety. They were all busy men who had to neglect their own business for that of the society. Three men in particular had helped to the success of the School of Music. There was a man there without whom it could not have been done and that was Prof. Stanley. He had the power of raising the enthusiasm and had also business sense which is not always found in musicians. When Prof. Cady, the former director, resigned, the board of regents had come to him to find a successor. It was not an easy matter to decide between the many parties recommended. For the benefit of the young men present he would say that he took the advice of a woman. He had an old friend in Rhode Island, she said to him "Take Prof. Stanley" and here he is. Prof. Cady, his predecessor, had also greatly helped to interest people in music. Prof. Cady's ideal had been almost too high for their limited circumstances, but his services had been very great in kindling enthusiasm. He had done very much to help Prof. Stanley. But back of all this was a man always glad to help the cause of music and he was glad when the board of directors of the University School of Music decided to call the hall Frieze Memorial Hall. Prof. Frieze had come to Ann Arbor over 40 years ago. He was the center of all enthusiastic lovers of music. Pres. Angell recollected when a boy (he hoped Mr. Tatlock would excuse him) going to church to hear Prof. Frieze play the organ, there being more devotion in his playing than in a poor sermon. When Prof. Frieze came to Ann Arbor he brought his enthusiasm with him. When he put his foot in Ann Arbor he became busy in trying to awaken the enthusiasm of the people. All will agree that his long life prepared the way for Profs. Cady and Stanley. Therefore it was a great delight to find his name associated with the hall. There were many in the hall who at the close of the concert which Prof. Stanley prepared for them said "If only Prof. Frieze could have heard this how he would have enjoyed it." It was a joy to all that the hall should be dedicated to him whose soul lived in music.

Pres. Kelsey then introduced Prof. Walter S. Perry, superintendent of the Ann Arbor schools. Prof. Perry said that he thought it was Luther who said he had no use for a schoolmaster who could not sing. Perhaps he had been too severe but he would say that a teacher who did not feel the effects of music in his soul should take another calling. The late Dr. Frieze had helped to organize the Ann Arbor high school and it had been originally designed that a school of music and the fine arts should be a part of the high school. It might sound strange to some to hear that pianos and painter's easels had at one time been among the equipments of the high school. Since the year 1872 the board of education had for the grades below the high school.

For the grades below the high school. After making a careful canvass of the schools of the country it was found that there was a popular feeling that music should be a part of general education. This condition was brought about by the belief that music appeals to the moral feelings of man. It goes without saying that music of a high grade stimulates and develops the strength and power of the mind and it is in that much akin to mathematics. They were just learning what music had done for the ancient Greeks. The theory that music was only for the few with a special aptitude for it did not seem to be correct. In public schools as many succeeded in music as in other branches. Music was not for the few but for the many. Their building was not for the creation of musical prodigies. Music will take a conspicuous and lofty place in civilization.

Prof. F. H. Pease of the Normal Conservatory of Music of Ypsilanti, was the next speaker called upon. He said he offered his congratulations on their noble work. It was a beautiful building and had been long needed. The citizens were to be congratulated on its completion. If they had gone to the legislature and asked for an appropriation they would not have received it, the credit was due to the citizens. He brought greetings from the neighboring Normal Conservatory. He thought they were more neighborly than the people of Ann Arbor. At the last concert 67 people from Ypsilanti were in attendance. Their concerts had to be given in a smaller hall, but they would be glad to see some of the Ann Arbor people with them on such occasions. He was glad and proud that the University School of Music had such a director, who only gave the best music, nothing trashy. The influence of the school would extend over the state. They made a little claim of having helped to build the building by reflex action.

Pres. Kelsey said the Choral Union stood co-ordinate with the University Musical Society. The president of the Choral Union, Prof. P. R. dePont was present and they wanted to hear from him.

Pres. dePont arose and after a few introductory remarks gave a short sketch of the organization of the Choral Union. The original society was organized one Sunday afternoon in the organ loft of the Congregational church. Prof. Frieze was in the habit of going there to practice. The wife of General Hunt with himself and four others were the first ones to organize the society. They had spoken of looking over some Catholic masses and one Sunday agreed to go to the church. They found Prof. Frieze so engrossed with his music that he never noticed them and they sat down. Finding the piece he was playing they commenced to sing. Mrs. Hunt suggested they were just enough to form a Messiah club and offered to open her house every Tuesday evening for the purposes of singing. Prof. Frieze replied that if they would keep their word and be there he would be with them. Later other friends joined the Messiah club. This movement brought Prof. Cady to Ann Arbor, the society then taking the name of the Choral Union. At the time when Prof. Stanley came to Ann Arbor it was doubtful if the society would live. He, Prof. dePont, argued that it should start again and he was right. Last year 300 members had been enrolled and this year 262. When he had seen the wonderful growth of the Choral Union he had hoped in a quiet way that the school of music, the hope of Dr. Frieze, would be realized. He stood on the platform that evening happy in the hope that in three or four years the University School of Music would take its place with the best in the land.

Prof. Stanley was called on and almost overcome with emotion said no one felt happier than he did at the realization of his ideal. In the last conversation he had with Dr. Frieze the latter said he hoped that some day there would be a school of music which would rank as high as the University of Michigan in its other branches.

The exercises of the evening closed with a splendid musical program by members of the faculty.—Daily Times.

COUNTY AND VICINITY.

B. Parker, of Chelsea, has built a new barn. Casper Jacob, of Sharon, is building a new barn. The Stockbridge hunters took to the woods yesterday. St. Mary's library, in Chelsea, contains 500 volumes. The Ypsilanti Episcopal church will have a vested choir. There are 36 foreign students attending the Chelsea school. The Saline Maccabees held a good time social last evening. Charles Farce, of Stockbridge, had knee cap sawed off last week by a buzz saw. There are 56 pupils in the Manchester high school and 58 in the Grammar school. The Webster Farmers' Club meets at George W. Merrill's, Saturday, December 2. Henry Stofer, of Lyndon, will set out five acres of grapes and ten acres to small fruits. The Y. P. S. C. E. of this county hold a convention in Saline this afternoon and evening. The Southern Washtenaw Farmers are holding a meeting at J. P. Tracy's, in Manchester, today. Emanuel G. Klein, of Sharon, died November 18, aged twenty-five years. He was the son of John Klein. Miss Mary Bauer, daughter of Joseph Bauer, Sharon, died November 19, of consumption, aged twenty-one years. Mrs. William Barton died November 19, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Beach in Chelsea, aged seventy-eight years. Town treasurer Ballard, of Augusta, will be at F. J. Hammond's store in Whittaker every Thursday in December, to collect taxes. Manfred Hoppe, of Sylvan, had a finger shot off while cleaning a gun, one of the boys pulling the trigger, while the gun was being cleaned. The Methodist church property in Manchester has been sold and will be used as a paint shop. The Methodists have purchased the Presbyterian property. The fifteenth anniversary of Manchester lodge, No. 53. A. O. U. W., was celebrated last evening. An address was delivered by Deputy Grand Master Hollings, of Detroit. The township treasurers commence collecting taxes today. Taxes are higher this year than last, due to the republican state administration and the big increase in state taxes. A fine program was given in St. Joseph's church, in Dexter, last evening, which included an address by Rev. Fr. Kelly, songs by Rev. Fr. Goldrick, Rev. Fr. Sullivan, Bruno St. James, and Miss Rinsey, declamations by Miss Bertie Kress, Miss Lizzie Fitchell and Miss Nellie Walsh and an instrumental duet by Miss Dora Wall and Grace Alley. Dr. Blackman, of Sharon, has become an enthusiast in celery raising and has prepared about 44 acres of marsh land for next year's setting. To do this he was under the necessity of digging 200 rods of open ditch, and has laid 2180 three inch tile. His expense so far is about $200 and he thinks the entire expense for lumber, for bleaching and a building to store it in, will not exceed $500. He says that Dr. Honeman, of Norvell, from about the same amount of ground, last year sold $320 worth of celery and expects to do better this year. We certainly wish the Doctor success in his new venture. —Grass Lake News.

W. H. Ostrander has let the contract to have the machinery put in his flour and feed mill. The mill is of 75-barrel capacity, full roller process, of the latest and most approved pattern, and under a guarantee to make flour equal to any in the state. He also has a roller feed mill of 900-bushel capacity in twelve hours, with fine corn meal attachments. Included in the contract are all the elevators, separators, etc., to load and receive grain from cars on his side track at the end of the mill. Mr. Ostrander has built a brick engine house, and is now excavating for the foundation for an addition to another building of a two-story brick grain warehouse. The brick used is furnished by Myers Bros., of Azalia, and are considered by the contracting masons equal, if not superior in quality, to any brick in this part of the state, being made from Macon clay, which is considered a superior article for brick and tile.—Willis Correspondence of Milan Leader.

Bicycle Laws in Zurich. A correspondent at Zurich, Switzerland, gives a translation from the daily paper of the city's laws concerning bicycling. Bicycling is only allowed upon written permission issued to competent riders. This permission must be carried by the rider. It contains his name, occupation, date of birth, place of nativity and address, and it costs 2 francs a year. Racing is forbidden, and in narrow streets the rider must dismount. Special stress is laid upon the speed of the machine.

On crowded streets, turning corners, the rider must go slow. He must not ride without using the handles of his machine to steer by. He must ring his bell in ample time, and if that is not heeded he must politely warn the pedestrian. Care must be taken not to worry or frighten the foot passenger. On a single seated bicycle not more than one person may sit. More than two bicycles are not permitted to ride abreast. On holidays, when the streets are crowded, bicycling is not permitted at all.

On the other hand, the bicycle shares with other vehicles the privileges of the road. Should the rider be the cause of an accident to a pedestrian he must dismount, render what assistance lies in his power and give his name and address to an officer, together with a written report of the matter.—Chicago Journal.

The children as well as the grown up people anticipate a good time next Saturday, for Prof. Bristol with the trained horses appear at Arbeiter hall. Early Monday morning, the house owned by Wm. Wagner, of Ann Arbor, and occupied by James Yerdon, burnt to the ground. The fire started in a chimney which was poorly built. Nothing except a few pieces of furniture was saved. The furniture was insured. The A. O. U. W. lodge, No. 53, will celebrate its fifteenth anniversary at Arbeiter hall Thanksgiving evening. The entertainment will consist of music, both vocal and instrumental, and an address by Deputy Grand Master Hollings, of Detroit. They will also have a supper and afterwards a hop.

Reason For Rejoicing. When Wesley and Nelson were traveling through Cornwall, from common to common, preaching to a people who heard willingly, but seldom or never proffered them the slightest acts of hospitality, they were frequently hungry. They were detained some time at St. Ives because of the illness of one of their companions, and their lodging was little better than their fare. "All that time," says Mr. Nelson, "Mr. Wesley and I lay on the floor. He had my greatcoat for his pillow, and I had Burkit's 'Notes on the New Testament' for mine. "After being here nearly three weeks, one morning about 3 o'clock, Mr. Wesley turned over, and finding me awake clapped me on the side saying: 'Brother Nelson, let us be of good cheer! We have much to rejoice in. I have one whole side yet, for the skin is only off one side.'"—Youth's Companion.

Hood's Cures

After all Others Fail Running Sore on the Face.

"I cannot tell in this letter all that Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for us, but can say this much: Our son Vinnie had a running sore on his face, beginning on one side and moving over to the other side. We tried every thing to cure it, but no help came, and for four long years it continued, unsightly and very troublesome. Several persons urged us to give him Hood's Sarsaparilla, and we found that he improved while taking the first bottle. We kept on giving it to him until he had taken four bottles. The sore has entirely healed up, nothing remaining but the scar, which he will carry all his life. He is sound, strong and healthy, and we give all the praise to Hood's Sarsaparilla." Mr. and Mrs. G. NEVER A FAILURE.

The Red River Valley of Minnesota and North Dakota has never had a failure of crops.

It produced 30,000,000 bushels of wheat besides other cereals in 1890.

Farms can be had on the crop plan, or long time cash payments.

It is not an uncommon thing to pay for a farm from the proceeds of one crop.

It has all of the advantages of an old country in the shape of school, church, market, postal & railway facilities and all the chances of a new country in the way of cheap lands, rich soil, and increase in values.

It is one of the most fertile and promising regions in America not yet fully occupied.

In the rush to the far west, however, this rich valley has been over-looked.

It has room for a million more people.

The first quarter you spend should be for a trial of Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Why? Because that feeling of dullness with debility or headache means that your liver isn't doing its part. One of these little Pellets does the right thing in the right way.

They cleanse and regulate the liver, stomach and bowels—thoroughly and effectively, but mildly and gently. They persuade rather than force. One tiny, sugar-coated Pellet's a gentle laxative; three to four act as a cathartic. They're the smallest, but the best. There's less to take, but there's more good in it, when it's taken. They're the original Little Liver Pills, and they've never been equalled. Sick and Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels, are prevented, relieved, and cured.

They're the cheapest pill you can buy, because they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.

The U. of M. football team last week played the De Pauw's, at Green Castle, Ind., and scored 30 to 0 against them. But what could the other club do, hampered with the name of De Pauw? Could a club with a gap in the middle of its surname, wide enough to kick the ball through, hope to succeed?

The Ann Arbor Courier last week ceased hurrahing for that disagreeable McKinley, long enough to note the signs of the coming winter, and finds that onions have thick skins, indicative of a mild winter, while corn husks are very heavy—an unmistakable monitor of a glacial epoch. It admits the contrariety of these symptoms, but insists that the onions being stronger will win. Then it whoops for McKinley again.

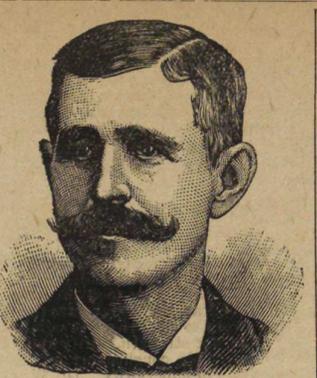

An old gray horse which faithfully worked for its brute master till broken with age and abuse, has been turned shelterless and unfed in the streets of Ypsilanti, and the mute appeal read in its looks is: "Feed me or shoot me." Won't somebody do one or the other and then run the owner in for 30 days. He can probably be found in some grocery "snigging" crackers, or squatting on a nail keg, swearing and spitting tobacco juice.

With no intent whatever to spring a perplexing question the Press recently printed an account of the declaration of peace between the Ann Arbor council and the "Athenian" hog, adding: "Behold how good a thing it is, and how pleasant for brethren to dwell together in unity!" And now comes the Democrat with the inquiry, "Who are the hogs?" There is more obscurity wrapped around this subject than we had supposed.

Forty years ago, fifty young married couples organized a visiting association in Northfield, Washtenaw county, at the residence of Wm. P. Groves. Of these 50 couples not more than 16 persons are living, 12 of whom surprised Mr. Groves last week with a birthday visit. What a change in 40 years. The log house has disappeared with the wolf and the infirmity of age sits upon the few survivors whose merry feet were wont to keep step to backwoods fiddle at the jolly pumpkin carnival and the husking bee.

A STRANGE CASE.

How an Enemy was Foiled.

The following graphic statement will be read with intense interest: "I cannot describe the numb, creepy sensation that existed in my arms, hands and legs. I had to rub and beat those parts until they were sore, to overcome in a measure the dead feeling that had taken possession of them. In addition, I had a strange weakness in my back and around my waist, together with an indescribable 'gone' feeling in my stomach. Physicians said it was creeping paralysis, from which, according to their universal conclusion, there is no relief. Once it fastens upon a person, they say, it continues its insidious progress until it reaches a vital point and the sufferer dies. Such was my prospect. I had been doctoring a year and a half steadily, but with no particular benefit, when I saw an advertisement of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, procured a bottle and began using it. Marvellous as it may seem, but a few days had passed before every bit of that creepy feeling had left me, and there has not been even the slightest indication of its return. I now feel as well as I ever did, and have gained ten pounds in weight, though I had run down from 170 to 137. Four others have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine on my recommendation, and it has been as satisfactory in their cases as in mine."—James Kane, La Rue, O.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1893.

The provisions of the new tariff bill to be submitted to congress, when it meets next Monday, have been made public. It largely reduces the tax upon all raw materials which enter into manufacturing and thus will give a great stimulus to manufacturing industries throughout the country.

We, as the editor of this journal, desire to express our opinions with regard to certain things. Now that Thanksgiving is a thing of the past and as New Year's Day is en route, our subscribers ought to begin thinking about what they are going to swear off. We do not wish them to infer that they ought to swear off subscribing for this paper, as such is not the case.

When an eastern travelling man strikes these parts he usually thinks that the forms and customs of the effete country, which he inhabits, will do here. This one I think found out that they are no go. He had no more than laid down his hand before he had three holes in him, through which the afternoon sun was merrily shining.

The New York clubs may have their own style of game, but we are not used to it. We have many things yet to learn. We do not put ourselves up as perfect, and we acknowledge we once hung a man for a horse thief who was in reality a Methodist minister, new in these parts.

We have never as yet allowed a fellow, who used four decks of cards, to get away until he has added to his weight by about three ounces. We hope we will not be compelled again to make a man from the rising sun pass in his checks and then move quietly and without ostentation into the vestibule and through the portals of the eternal hence.

GOES TO DR. PRICE.

World's Fair Jury Decides in His Favor. CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—On the analysis and recommendation of Dr. Wiley, Chief United States Government Chemist at Washington, and the greatest living authority on food products, the World's Fair jury today gave the highest award to Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder for strength, purity and excellence. This conclusively settles the question of superiority. Dr. Wiley rejected the alum powders, stating to the World's Fair jury that he considered them unwholesome.

Sensation in Dublin.

From the Deadwood Bugle. (A few notes from that organ.) Day before yesterday we donned our frock coats and yellow gloves and dropped in at the office of the Chronicle to play a game of classic poker with the genial editor of that journal. There were four of us. The Chronicle man, Hank Judson, an eastern drummer and myself. The game had progressed fairly well until we reached a stage where a jack pot would be necessary. No one hollered for quite a while until the drummer at last called. He held three aces and a pair of kings. The Chronicle man held four queens and a king while I held a pair of aces and three tens. By a coincidence, Hank Judson happened to be coroner and he held—an inquest over the drummer. We are sorry to be compelled to relate this little experience of ours but law and order demands it.

Wheat this week brings 57 a bushel for red or white, rye 46 cts, oats 27 cts, barley 30 cts to $1.05, clover seed $5.00, beans dull at $1.15, onions 40 cts, potatoes 50 cts, apples 75 cts, dressed pork $6.00, chickens 6 cts, turkeys 9 cts, eggs 18 cts, butter 22 cts. Receipts are now large and likely to be all next month. The M. E. church took fire from a defective flue last Sunday soon after the morning service, and it would have burned down if the choir had not been there and given prompt alarm. The fire company was soon there and extinguished it but not until four or five hundred dollars damage was done, mostly by smoke and water. It was a very narrow escape. The loss was covered by insurance. Adam Kalmbach, a pioneer of this township, died at his late residence in the west part of the town last week, and was buried from there last Sunday. A girl baby arrived Monday, and a little boy who preceded her fourteen months ago doesn't quite know what to make of the matter. The babe's weight is 8 1/2 pounds by Dr. Morton's hay scales.

The Odd Fellows of Otsenigo lodge expect to move into their new hall over Caspar Rinsey's store on the 15th of the present month. The hall will be splendidly fitted up, and besides the necessary ante-rooms will contain a banquet room and a drill room. The hall will be opened with appropriate ceremonies, and the public will probably be admitted to witness them.

Large quantities of oak timber are being shipped to Montreal, Canada, by way of Toledo, from the southern part of this county, to be sent abroad for use in the construction of ocean vessels. The purchasers pay the farmers from ten to twelve cents a cubic foot for the timber as it stands in the woods. One who knows all about the matter says this price is far too low, that kind of timber being nearly exhausted.

The Courier office was broken into through a window Sunday and some tools and a dollar or more of pennies taken. The pennies were the collection of the Sunday school which meet in the building. Fred Whitmore, a tramp printer, who had been doing some work in the building last week, was the guilty man and Sheriff Brenner discovered him by the lavish way in which he was spending pennies for drink in Ypsilanti. He is in jail.

Miss S. Storms and Mr. E. C. Sullivan, teachers in the third ward Sunday school, gladdened the hearts of their pupils by a delightful entertainment at No. 10 Lawrence street, on Tuesday evening. Neat invitations were mailed to every scholar by Mr. Sullivan. There never was a happier evening spent by children in this city. Refreshments, music and every accessory to a good time were provided, and the teachers took especial pains to see that every child reached home in safety after the entertainment.

SENATOR BATE'S CIGARS.

Why He Never Lights the Costly Woods He Always Uses.

William B. Bate, twice elected senator from Tennessee, never lights a cigar. He has always one in his fingers or between his lips, but no match is put to it. He is a familiar figure in the upper chamber—his abundant snow white hair, a carefully tended mustache of the same color, his stooped form and lined face, with massive underhung jaw, making him marked in an assembly of strong personalities. His advocacy of the "dry smoke," as it is called, and his habit of using 25 cent weeds as chewing tobacco, have continued more than a quarter of a century. A story is attached. He is the last man in the world whom one would suspect of superstition, but his avoidance of matches is due to that part of our natures and to nothing else.

He entered the war as a private when his state seceded from the union, and rose through the successive grades of lieutenant, captain, lieutenant colonel, colonel, brigadier and major general. He had a taste of military life in the Mexican war and embraced the first opportunity to re-enter it. One day toward the close of the long and bitter struggle, when the two stars of the major general were on his shoulder, his corps, which was a part of the army of the Tennessee, was engaged in a battle in the mountain.

At that time he was an inveterate smoker. Always cool in action, his cigar case was as much a part of his make-up as his horse and saddle. Along toward noon, when the fire from the Federals under assault was particularly heavy and vicious, he moved up to an exposed position in order to give countenance to his men. His brother went with him. Senator (then General) Bate reached for his breast pocket and took out a cigar. He bit off the end with customary nicety, scratched a match on the back of his saddle and settled down in his stirrups to enjoy himself.

There was a shock in the air, the nameless indefinable stir produced by the close passage of a shell or round shot, and the match within two inches of the end of the weed went out. Shrugging his shoulders and preparing to get another light, he glanced about him. His brother, who had been sitting on his horse a little to the left and in the rear was a corpse. The ball had struck him in the chest. The horse stood unmoved. The man who was alive looked at the unlighted match between his fingers. He twirled it slowly a moment and then rode to the rear for an ambulance. The cigar he held in his hand for an hour or two and slowly chewed into bits.

From that day to this he has never known what it is to smoke. Some sense of danger providentially averted has been with him. It is possible that he has come to look upon the lighting of a cigar as a desecration of his brother's memory. Anyhow he does not light it. Day after day in the senate chamber or in the corridors of the capitol he may be seen with a cigar in his hand that is frequently carried to his lips, but is unlit. When it is worn down to a mere end, he takes another.—Washington Post.

The Joke Didn't Work.

A group of loungers were seated in a store when a coffee colored coon with sloping shoulders and ears at right angles to his head shuffled through the doorway.

"Hello, Pomp," said one of the loungers. "You're looking just like that lion I saw this morning."

"Lion!" said Pomp, with his hair on end. "Where was he?"

"In Jake Smith's livery stable."

"Oh! What'd he look like?"

"Sho! He had legs and body and long ears."

"Dat wasn't no lion, yo' poor white trash," returned the darky, disgusted. "Dat was a jackass."

"Well, you look just like him," answered the lounge, with a grin.

Pomp saw the joke, though he didn't like it to be on him. Just then a farmer entered the store, and the negro saw a chance to repeat the jest at another's expense.

"Morning, Massa Johnson," said he, "yo' look jest like dat lion I saw y'es'day."

"Where did you see a lion, you fool?" was the courteous response.

"Down Massa Smith's lib'ry stable. Had legs an' body an' big long ears."

"Dat wasn't a lion," said the planter. "Den what was it?" asked Pomp eagerly.

"Why, a looking glass, you black coon," answered the planter contemptuously, amid a general roar of laughter.—New York Recorder.

A "Funny" Man's Joke.

A "funny" man went into the Lower Arcade the other morning and saw a notice posted up. "If you don't see what you want, ask for it."

He thought he would show how sly he was, so said to the proprietor, "I don't see what I want."

"Then ask for it," said the proprietor loudly, and the twinkle in his eye showed he knew what the festive traveler was up to, but that individual never supposed that a shopman would catch up with him, so he went on:

"Well, I've asked all over town for it, and I cannot find one."

"I have got everything a man can want," said the other encouragingly.

"Well, I have found so many smart men in London that I want to find a first class idiot."

"John," said the smiling merchant, turning to an assistant, "bring me a heavy piece of wrapping paper and wrap this parcel up," pointing to the funny man.

The Great Through Car Line.

It is a well established fact that the North-Western Line (Chicago & North-Western R'y) in its equipment and train service, its general facilities for the accommodation of all classes of travel, and its methods of looking after the comfort and well-fare of its patrons, takes rank with the leading railways of the world.

Its through car lines extend from Chicago to St. Paul and Minneapolis, the "Twin Cities of the North-west;" to Duluth, the Superiors, Ashland, Marquette and the wonderful iron and copper regions of northern Wisconsin and Michigan; to Winona, Pierre, and the rich agricultural sections of Minnesota and the Dakotas; to Des Moines, Sioux City, Council Bluffs, Omaha, Lincoln, the prosperous and growing cities of Iowa and Nebraska; to Deadwood, the Dakota Hot Springs, and the famous mining districts of the Black Hills; to Denver, Salt Lake, and the health resorts of Colorado and Utah; to San Francisco, Cal.; Portland, Oregon, and Pacific Coast and Puget Sound points.

The perfectly equipped vestibuled trains of the North-Western Line convey the traveler comfortably, safely and quickly to nearly every part of the west and north-west, and while one may travel surrounded by all of the luxuries afforded by an equipment of magnificent sleeping cars, buffet smoking and library cars, compartment sleeping cars, and superb dining cars, the comfort and convenience of passengers desiring to travel at small expense is prompted by the provision of accommodations for their use in Tourists Sleeping Cars, Free Reclining Chair Cars and commodious day coaches.

In a word, if you contemplate a trip to almost any portion of the west and north-west your tickets should read via the North-Western Line. Maps, time tables and general information can be obtained of ticket agents in the United States and Canada, or by addressing W. A. Thrall, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Chicago Chicago & North-Western R'y, Chicago, Ill.

Completely equipped berths can be procured by passengers holding either first or second-class tickets, at a cost of only $4.00 per berth from Chicago to San Francisco and other California points. The hour of departure from Chicago affords a prompt connection with trains from the East and South. The Forum's Reduction of Price.

The Forum, which its readers regard as the foremost of our periodicals, reduces its price, beginning with the December number, from $5 to $3 a year, from 50 cts. to 25 cts. a copy. This is the most noteworthy reduction in periodical literature that has taken place—perhaps than can take place. Magazines of fiction and adventure, the illustrated monthlies, were within everybody's reach even before the recent reduction in the price of some of them. But no periodical of the class of The Forum has ever been sold for 25 cts. It becomes the cheapest by half of all great Reviews in the world, and it remains the largest of all our periodicals of its kind, and its character is in no way changed.

This reduction of price puts The Forum easily within the reach of every reader who cares for it—of every man and woman who desires to keep abreast of the times. The extent to which this reduction will add to popular education on great subjects is incalculable. The ablest articles by the foremost writers are now offered at less than two cents each. The December number, for example, contains the following articles.—"Are Presidential Appointments for Sale?" William D. Foulke; "Necessity for Immediate Tariff Reduction," A. Augustus Healy; "A Plan for an Automatic, non-Political Tariff," Hon. W. J. Coombs; "Francis Parkman and his Work," Julius H. Ward; "Child-Study; the Basis of Exact Education," President G. Stanley Hall; "Israel Among the Nations," W. E. H. Lecky; "The Beginning of Man and the Age of the Race," Dr. D. G. Brinton; "Need not of 'More Money,' but Better Exchange," T. G. Shearman; "How to Deal with a Filibustering Minority," John B. McMaster; "Use of Rich Men in a Republic," Frederic Harrison; "Mr. Goldwin Smith's 'Views on our History,'" Woodrow Wilson; "A Plan to Free our Schools from Politics," Dr. J. M. Rice; "The Most Popular Novels in America," Hamilton W. Mabie; "Lasting Results of the World's Fair," Alice Freeman Palmer; "The Fair's Results to the City of Chicago," Franklin H. Head.—The Forum Publishing Co., New York.

FLYING WORDS.

Helen Johnson sat in her pleasant morning room sewing on some dainty fine linen, a grieved, troubled look in her blue eyes and a suggestive tremble about her lips. She had a handsome young husband, loving and attentive, but he possessed a disposition annoyingly hasty and positive, and as usual he had left her sore hearted and distressed.

HELEN—I, too, have some demands to make. When you find the notebook, I shall expect an apology from you. FRANK. Then tearing off what he had written he placed it in a conspicuous place and left the house. Arriving at his business house he removed his hat, and in so doing the missing notebook fell out upon the floor. He stared at it a moment in disgust, while he remembered placing it there during the time he hastily scanned the morning paper.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Miller, who have been visiting Samuel G. Miller, have returned to Coldwater, Kansas. David Edwards, supervisor of the first district, Ypsilanti, transacted business here for the county last Monday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Potter and daughter Ernestine, of Detroit, spent the first of the week with Miss Amelia McLaren. Guy W. Stevenson spent Thanksgiving with his sister in Perrinsville (sometimes euphoniously called "Pike's Peak"), near Detroit. Mingay, who has run the Mergenthaler typesetting machine for the Washtenaw Times the greater part of this year, has thrown up his job and left the city. The machine is now operated by B. F. Olinger, who handled it with skill before Mr. Mingay's advent.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

The popular opera, "Girofle-Girofla," was sung at the Grand by the California Opera company last night. The costumes and chorus work of the company is better than those usually found in popular priced repertoire companies. Among the principal members are Miss Josephine Stanton, Mr. Harry Davies and Mr. John Saunders. Tonight "The Chimes of Normandy" will be put on.—Kalamazoo Daily Telegraph, Nov. 24.

Last evening at half past six, Miss Carolina L. Gelston, was married to Prof. J. A. Woodburn, of the Indiana University, Bloomington, Indiana, at the residence of her father, Rev. M. B. Gelston. There were but few invited guests. Among those from out of town were Miss Woodburn, of Bloomington; Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Gelston, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Gelston, Bay City; Mr. and Mrs. Northrop, and Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Wilmarth, Grand Rapids. Dr. and Mrs. Woodburn left for Bloomington last evening.

It is with surprise and sorrow that we quote from the Washtenaw Times of Tuesday the statement that "the Ypsilantian was seen in the company of the three men" who cracked the safe in the Foerster brewery at an early hour on Tuesday morning. We have heretofore had an exalted opinion of the Ypsilantian as a paper of high moral worth and the most irreproachable walk and conversation, from its able editor even down to the "devil." The responsibility for this startling and grave charge lies heavily upon the Times and may yet call for gore.

Murder and Suicide at Clinton.

Dow Draper, son of Gideon Draper of Summit, was shot and instantly killed near Clinton, Lenawee county, Friday evening by Geo. S. Conger, a farmer living near that village. After shooting Draper, Conger went to a workshop near by and put a bullet into his own brain. The Congers gave a euchar party that evening. Conger had been drinking heavily but he appeared to be in his usual mood. After the party he went out to the workshop and came back to the side door of the kitchen and began to call for someone inside. Draper finally went to the door when Conger raised a shot gun and fired, the charge striking Draper in the heart. He then returned to the workshop and shot himself with a revolver. Mrs. Conger, who is only 25 years of age, says she is of the opinion that her husband intended the shot for her instead of Draper. The couple were married ten years ago and did not live happily together. She said:

"George had a good deal of property. This farm, which was left to him by his grandfather, was worth $15,000 at least. But my husband was extravagant. He would spend his money quick. He would drink hard, and then he would make trips around the country just for amusement. Oftentimes he would go and buy thrashing machines, machinery, books and lots of stuff that never did us any good. I saw that George's other property was rapidly disappearing, and a year or so ago I got him to deed the farm over to me. Now my husband has been sorry he did it. He has been crazy to get it back again."

Mrs. Conger says that Conger and Draper were good friends. In fact, that very day Draper had been transacting business for the former at Adrian. He was a sort of confidential adviser for both man and wife. At times Mr. Conger would show signs of jealousy, which became especially noticeable when Mrs. Conger refused to deed back the property, which action was strongly advised by Draper, yet Lewis Muggett, a common friend, is authority for the assertion that Draper was Conger's best friend.

Dow Draper was 35 years of age and formerly attended the schools of district No. 17 of this city. He was well liked by his companions. Some six or seven years ago he went to Clinton, where he engaged in the live stock business. His father received the news of his death yesterday morning and with his wife went to Clinton on the first train. Dow Draper leaves a widow and one child.—Jackson Patriot.

Winter.

Winter has come. There can be but little doubt as to that since we have already had a batch of beautiful snow. However, it might change its mind about arriving, so I have my summer suit ready in case it should.

I thought it was coming some time ago, when I carried the plants down cellar.

When the first frost pokes its head out of its hole and gazes around to see what damage it can do, the plants have to be taken down into their dark tomb. I have carried brindle geranium and spring squash vines, up and down stairs so many times, I can do it now with my eyes shut. Anybody that thinks a sprout can exist on top of a furnace with about as much sunlight as there is in the soul of an editor is greatly mistaken.

When gentle, tuneful, spring arrives and takes off his coat to get in his work with influenza and carpet bugs, I bring up the empty pots. The shoots have withered and died, but the pots are there looking as fresh and rosy as they did the previous fall, when I carried them down.

But I am wandering from my subject. Winter is the time for beautiful snow and heavy underwear and ear muffs.

Winter is that which makes the farmer, who could not get enough for his potatoes to put a furnace in the house, rise from his humble cot in the morning, bust the ice in his pitcher with an old shoe, and think of what life use to be when he attended the Agricultural college.

Farmers all over the country are hollering about rust in their wheat. They might have known that it is not good for young wheat to stay out in the damp night air, it is sure to get rusty before harvest. The hustling farmers of the great northwest have little buffalo overcoats made for each head of wheat. In a few more years the modern geoporucian will find out that wheat needs a little more covering from the chilly blasts, than that afforded by the cerulean dome. I use the word "cerulean" not because I know what it means, but because I think it will look well in print.

"Geoporucian," may seem a little vague at first, but by a careful study of Webster's great story called The Unabridged; or, How One Word Led on to Another, you will find that it touches slightly on the farmer.

I, myself, was never actually engaged in farming, but one summer, several years ago, my father planted some water melon seeds, a few summer squashes, and several lilac trees, out in the back yard. In the fall, on going out to view the vegetable orchard he had started, he came across the finest collection of melon worms and other entomological subjects, that it was ever the fortune of civilized man to look upon. Since then agriculture has held no charms for any of our family. But I am wandering again.

As I have said before, winter is here. It comes with its snow and thaws, its profanity and its church socials, where the people will play that fascinating game of oyster, oyster, who's got the oyster.

I cannot say much about winter, that is not generally known. Most of the readers have probably seen one or two in their lives. And as it is my policy to write nothing that will not teach the masses a new lesson, I will quit. K. E. H.

CALIFORNIA OPERA CO.

It Will Spend Next Week at the Grand Opera House.

The California Opera Co. will hold the boards at the Grand, commencing Monday, December 4. The opening bill, "Said Pasha," by Stahl, is a romantic sketch in two acts, noted for its music of exquisite sweetness, and refined dialogues, abounding in droll wit.

Tuesday, Lecocq's masterpiece, "Girofle-Girofla," will be sung. This opera, many years old, has lately been revived by the Queen of Opera, Lillian Russell, and bids fair to equal its former success. The music is ideal in many ways.

On Wednesday the ever popular "Chimes of Normandy" will be given. Who is it that has not gone into ecstasies over Planquette's greatest work?

Thursday, "Princess of Trebizonde," purely a comic opera; fun runs riot, topical songs, beautiful solos, charming trios and strong choruses prevail.

The operas for Friday and Saturday will be announced later.

The roster of the Company is as follows: Miss Josephine Stanton, prima donna; Miss Rita Harrington, mezzo soprano; Miss Addele Barker, contralto; Harry Davies, leading tenor; W. F. Hubbard, baritone; T. Springer, basso.

A duo of exceedingly clever comedians, Messrs. Saunders and Henderson, never fail to furnish fun by the wholesale.

The chorus is made up of good voices, the girls pretty and shapely.

The operas are well staged, the costumes new and gorgeous.

Several of last season's Nelson Opera Co. appear in the caste.

Prices during the engagement, 15, 25, 35 cents.

Mr. O'Brien, Rock Bluffs, Neb., says: The pkg. of Pyramid Pile Cure entirely removed every trace of itching piles, I cannot thank you enough for it.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is a new, certain, painless cure for every form of piles. It is safe, sure and cheap. Any druggist will get it for you in you ask him.
