How the Colored Men Attempted to Defraud Mrs. Sober.—A Comparison of Bank Deposits .- A Change in the Argus Firm.

A Children's Dinner

The teachers in the sewing school kindly ask their friends to assist them. Please send in sandwiches, cake or money to Miss Brown, No. 13 South State street, before eleven in the Courier block, second story, sometime during Saturday forenoon. We have over one hundred children, and hope to make it a feast of good things for them.

Voting By Machinery.

The Myers ballot machine has Doss. been on exhibition this week in the store recently occupied by Sheeley, on Ann street, and has attracted a number of people to see it. It is a device for a secret ballot, the voting being done by machinery. The merit of the device is that it provides an absolutely secret ballot. It is impossible for any one to vote more than one man for the same office. It is impossible to repeat, the counting is done automatically, and the vote can be announced immediately at the conclusion of the balloting. It is also fitted with appliances so that the time each voter is in the booth is automatically registered, and the whole number of votes cast can be told at any time Bailey. from outside the booth. The machine is well worth investigating, and we advise any one interested to attend the exhibition, which is free.

A Great Christmas Dinner.

One of the great treats of the rear was the Christmas dinner given at the Cook House by the genial host, E. F. McClure, at which a number of the newspaper fraternity of the city sat down and at which all the delicacies of the season were served. The meats for instance consisted of opossum, wild turkey, mallard duck, wild goose, quail on toast, black bear, domestic turkey, venison, lamb, sirloin roast, etc., and everything was enjoyed from the little neck clams down the

At the time of making their December reports last year the banks had deposits of $1,-590,757.67, and cash on hand $302,cash on hand. This shows that the banks now have more cash on hand in proportion to the deposits than they had last year. The falling off in deposits is not larger than the amount taken out of the banks by the visitors to the World's Fair from charge of horse stealing or of emthis vicinity. The falling off in deposits has been about 14 per cent, which is not as large as was to have been looked for considering the times and the closeness with which collections have been made from those who have money. Since May last the deposits in the banks shrunk $114,562, while the cash in the banks has increased $5,007.

A FACT FOR FUTURE REFER-

Either the hard times have no connection at all with federal government or the condition of the people is caused more or less by republican legislation.

Some political contentions admit doubts. This does not. Democratic legislation cannot in any degree share the effect on the business of the people, since there has been none for three decades. The currency and the tariff are republican. The administration of the treasury, deficit and all, has been republican. The panic began, grew and was doing its work long before the Fourth of March, or even before one presidential election.

Wheat went down, money got scarce, factories were closed, capital took to idleness, and receivers and assignees multiplied under republican legislation. And all this was fully started before anybody knew what party would control the government during the four years be-legislation. But, as Congressman Wilson says, bad currency and tariff laws undoubtedly hasten the coming of panics and fearfully aggravate the effects la grippe their effects. The Sherman bullion purchases and the McKinley tariff played that part of acceleration and aggravation.

The first step toward a sound and sufficient currency was the repeal of the republican Sherman act. The second will be the repeal of the republican trade restriction McKinley act. The third will be a business reorganization of the departments.

Whatever his opinion of Mr. Cleveland or democratic measures, every citizen's memory should bear through the discussions of the next campaign the indisputable fact that everything of evil which is chargeable to legislation is to be charged to republican legislation.—St. Louis Republic.

EDITOR STEAD SPEAKS BEFORE THE WOMAN'S CLUB.

The Editor Thinks That Women Who Have Great Opportunities and Neglect Woman on the Streets.

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—Editor W. T. created a sensation at the joint meeting of the Woman's club of the city at the Recital hall Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was called by the Chicago Woman's club to confer upon plans to aid the suffering poor women and children of the city. Dr. Sarah Hackett Stevenson presided and the hall was filled with representatives of all the leading women's clubs in the city. Mr. Stead, who had been invited to address the meeting, said that he chiefly welcomed the opportunity because sitting side by side with those active workers before him were some of the most disreputable people in Chicago.

Nothing was more obvious to anyone who paid any attention to the teaching who paid any attention to the teaching of the gospel than the fact that the conventional judgment about reputable and disreputable was quite foreign to the Christian ideal. Who were the most disreputable women in Chicago? They were those who had been downed. ered by society and provided with all the gifts and opportunities, and who lived entirely self-indulgent. These women, who had great opportunities only to neglect them, were more dis-reputable in the eyes of God and man than the most abandoned women of the

After the meeting many of the women declared that under no circumstances would they again attend a meeting at which the Englishman was present.

Take the Place of Beds.

Finding a lodging place for the night street car fare nickel—is no easy job. as a coal combine in arctic weather would do. It is a case of fiat money and but five lodgers, the sixth could not instantaneous extraction of the cube root. get an abatement, even though his flesh were dropping from his bones with frost. "No pay, no bed," is the motto, and they stick to it.

them report that to be the state of the feats. money market. Two nickles make a dime, it is true, and so do 10 pennies, for those who either can't, don't or won't work for it.

As a matter of fact there are many who cannot purchase a lodging for lack of means and who stay out so late that | cf 729. access to the station houses is denied because they are already overcrowded. These people will then sleep anywhere. All they want is cover from the night.

That can be had in Chicago for 5 cents. But the lowest tramp, if forshrink with horror from lodging in such a place. There are one or two places of the kind in Chicago, and they are hard to find. When found, they are the very apotheosis of degradation, dirt and dinginess. Beside the 5 cent places those where admittance is a dime are palaces. For 5 cents the lodger is allowed the privilege of a chair until morning - simply that and nothing

The keepers of such places form the lowest elements of society. They do not treat their patrons as humans, nor yet as beasts of the field. The 5 cent wretch becomes an object for blows and kicks. When his nickel enters the greasy pocket that gapes for it, he is then an atom of squalor, and he is treated accordingly.

Recently the Atlas hotel was visited. It is probably the worst lodging house in Chicago. The prices begin at 5 cents and run to 15 cents. It is located on Custom House place a few yards from Van Buren street. On one side of it is a stable. There the horses get clean straw every night for bedding. On the other side is a deserted church, which has been purchased and which will be shortly converted into another lodging house. Amid such surroundings the poor fellow who has but a nickel is allowed to stay over night. He can sit on to sleep with another man half covering him, for every night the filthy cellar is crowded. - Chicago Inter Ocean.

Chicago Streets.

"Great city," said the stranger reflectively. "Wonderful city! The buildings are magnificent, the boulevards are superb and the hotels are unsurpassed, but-but why don't you name your "Name our streets!" exclaimed the Chicagoan. "We do. You can't find a street in the city without a name."

"Well, then," went on the stranger, Why should there be any secrecy about it? Why not treat all streets alike? Why put the name of one street on the corner lamppost and not the name of the next? And why not have some uniformity about it?" he continued, warming up to his subject. "Why tack the name of one street onto a building, put the next on a lamppost, the third half way up an electric light post, the fourth clear at the top of it and have no sign at all for the fifth?"—Chicago Post.

Senators In the Barber's Chair.

A workman in the senate barber shop in Washington is credited with saying that the senators are "the most peaceful" men to shave he has ever met, though some of them are particular. One senator, he says, he has twice shaved three times in one day, not because his beard grows so fast, but because the senator "likes the sensation." Another senator "has a pair of little side whishe devotes any amount of attention.' He did not reveal all this to any senator, and to the helpless man to whom it was communicated he said with a despairing tone, "You know we are not allowed to talk to our senatorial customers unless they talk to us first." Who Tribune.

After the Wedding.

"How soon should calls upon a bride be made?" is a question that has been frequently asked. Calls upon a bride should be made very soon after her return from her wedding trip, if no day for such has been designated, and as immediate a visit must be paid to her mother or person at whose house the reception was held. The bride returns her calls soon and so far as possible in in the evening, and arrive at Des the order in which they are made. LIGHTNING CALCULATION.

Five Cent Lodging Houses Where Chairs How the Cube Root of Auy Number May Be Given Instantly.

One-third memory, one-third practice when one has but 5 cents—an ordinary and one-third trick—that is the secret of most of the rapid calculators who figure Lodging houses where the beds rent for before the public. There are very few 10 certs hold as grimly to tariff prices calculations of which there is not a short way to the solution, but perhaps none of them is so easy and at the same time so with those people. If they had 500 beds surprising to the ordinary mind as the

This is a feat which has gained great applause for its performers from the days of Hutchins, "the lightning calculator," till now. The extreme rapidity Nowadays dimes are being with- with which it is worked and the difficuldrawn from circulation. At least the ty of the solution by the ordinary methpeople who are forced into begging ods render it one of the most taking of

Before explaining the method of performing this extraction of the cube root but there seems to be a bear movement it may be well for the benefit of those in small coins, and this form of cur- readers who have forgotten some of their rency also is hard to get, especially so early school knowledge to explain what a cube root is. Multiply a number by itself and the product by the original number, and the result is a cube. Thus: hundred persons in Chicago every night | 9 x 9 = 81 (the square of 9); 81 x 9 = 729 (the cube of 9). Then 9 is the cube root

Now for the method. First you obtain from one of the audience an exact cube of not more than six places of figures, though with moderate practice the latter condition need not be insisted on.

Say the cube given is 140,608, of which tune favored him with a dime, would the root is 52. You know the cubes of

1	the units by heart, thus:
)	The cube of 1 is	1
,	The cube of 2 is	8
	The cube of 3 is	27
1	The cube of 4 is	64
	The cube of 5 is	125
3	The cube of 6 is
)	The cube of 7 is
	The cube of 8 is
	The cube of 9 is	729
	Now on the thousands in the an	ha given exceed 125 and are less than 216, the tens in the reply must be 5. For the second figure, or units, a curious trick comes in. The cubes of 1, 4, 5, 6 and 9 end in the same figures; the cube of 2 is 8; the cube of 3 ends in 7, and reversely the cube of 8 ends in 2 and the cube of 7 in 3.

So when the questioner says 140,000 (here you say to yourself 50) 608, you say out loud on the instant, 52.

Take another, 39,304. The thousands exceed 27; therefore the root is thirty something. The last figure is 4; therefore the root is 34.—London Tit-Bits.

The Letter "J" as a Mascot.

Is the letter "J," like the letter "E," so indispensable that it is as difficult to find a list of names without the former appearing in it as it is to find a complete sentence in which the latter does not occur? Is the above the cause of its frequent appearance in the names of America's great men, or is it really a mascot a three legged chair, or he can lie down letter? Beginning with our presidents, on the floor. In either event he is forced I find it as the first initial in the names of eight. The only president of the Confederacy also began his name with the "little mascot." In the list of the vice presidents I find it six times, divided equally between the Christian and the surnames. Among the names of the presidents pro tem. of the senate it occurs 22 times and among the speakers of the house 14 times. Thirteen of the secretaries of state commenced their first names with "J," and one used it as the initial of his surname. In the realm of justice the record is equally if not more startling, 21 out of a total of 55 chief justices and justices beginwhy not derive some benefit from it? ning either their first or last name with it.

Besides the above we find it in the names of nearly all the multimillionaires of the country-viz, John D. Rockefeller. Morgan, J. B. Haggin, J. W. Garrett John Wanamaker, J. G. Fair, John W Mackay, J. G. Flood, John Arbuckle, J B. Stetson, John Claffin, Joseph Palitzer and dozens of others. -St. Louis Republic.

A Four Hundred Debut.

New York society is all agog over the prospective "coming out" of Gertrude Vanderbilt, daughter of Cornelius Vanderbilt. The young woman was of course born with a silver spoon in her mouth, and her entrance into society is to be signalized by an entertainment upon so magnificent a scale that it will rival the birthday fetes of royal personages.-New York Letter.

AN INTERESTING SKETCH.

AN INTERESTING SKETCH.

Nothing appeals so strongly to a mother's affection as her daughter just budding into womanhood. Following is an instance: "Our daughter. Blanche, now 15 years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. She was in such a condition that we had to keep her from school and abandon her music lessons. In fact, we feared St. Vitus dance, and are positive but for an invaluable remedy she would have had that terrible affliction. We had employed phy sicians, but she received no benefit from them. The first of last August she weighed but 75 pounds, and although she has taken only three bottles of Nervine she now weighs 106 pounds; her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she attends school regularly, and studies with comfort and ease. She has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid, and no money could procure for our daughter the health Dr. Miles' Nervine has brought her.

When my brother recommended the remedy I had no faith in patent medicines, and would not listen to him, but as a last resort he sent us a bottle, we began giving it to Blanche, and the effect was almost immediate." —Mrs. R. R. Bullock, Brighton, N. Y. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. Here nearly every evening are shorthanders industriously driving their pens for love of perfection in their craft, while some one of experience reads or dictates. The classroom is provided with all the different styles of typewriting machines for the use of members when there is no dictation. The club also maintains an employment bureau. The club is open to either sex. In fact, it is the large membership of young ladies that gives zest to the social side of the club, which is one of its important features. In many of the public schools of the country stenography is a part of the training. An evidence of its recent remarkable growth is shown by a circular issued by the bureau of education at Washington.

Here it is shown that from July 1, 1889, to June 30, 1890, 57,375 persons received instruction in the art of shorthand in schools and colleges in the United States. Five thousand five hundred and fifty of these were in New York and Brooklyn. A similar circular was issued by the bureau in 1884, in which it was shown that during the year 1882 the number of pupils receiving such instruction was 12,470. It is therefore quite safe to say that the number for 1893 exceeded 75,000.

But this number does not take into consideration an army probably equally large who receive instruction from some other source or from professional stenographers.

writer is very difficult to find, and if he is a fast writer he is sure of a good salary.

Shorthand writing as a means of earning a livelihood is not as lucrative as many other callings, but it affords a young man, if he is quick witted, a fine chance to watch the internal workings of a business house, and thereby helps him toward a business education such as he could get in no other way.

The only field that is highly remunerative is law reporting, but to become competent for this work requires years of assiduous practice, and the field of employment is limited. The highest salary paid to a court stenographer in New York is in the surrogate's court.

Mr. Edward F. Underhill, probably the oldest practicing stenographer in America, holds this position and receives a salary of $3,000 per year. He has been in the service since 1849.

Miss Lillie Condon has returned WHY SHE WAS GLAD.

"I did not think you could be so fooiish, Agnes. What! jealous of a mere child like Kate!"

The speaker was a man between 35 and 40. Handsome he certainly was, kind hearted and generous all could testify who knew him.

The person addressed was in the full maturity of womanhood, with a thoughtful and earnest look in her face that showed that she had felt and suffered beyond the majority of her sex.

"Kate is not a child, but a woman, Arthur," she replied, "a very pretty woman, as no one knows better than you." Arthur Reeves looked sharply at his companion.

Agnes understood that look and said steadily: "I saw you beneath the elm last evening. I had heard many things before, but could not credit them. The evidence of my own senses I must believe." "Go on," he said, with forced coolness.

"I suppose I may as well take my lecture now as any time." "I am not going to lecture you, Arthur, nor even reproach you. The time for that has passed. I simply wish to convince you that you have been mistaken in the feelings that you have professed to cherish for me—that we have both been mistak-

"I love you, Agnes. You know that."
"And yet I am not sufficient for you.
Your eyes, if not your lips, have said the same to Kate Norton as well as others."
"This is the sheerest folly, Agnes! My feelings for Kate are as those I cherish for my little sister Ellen."

"If you think so you deceive yourself.
And whether it be so or not it is evident that the feelings aroused in her heart are of a far different nature.

'You do Kate great injustice, Agnes; she is as innocent hearted as a child." "You must have a strange idea of the innocence of childhood. Kate Norton had little reputation to lose before she met you. She has less now. A girl that can openly boast that there is not a married lady of her acquaintance but what is jealous of her has as little principle as deli-

I tell you again, Agnes, that I do not care for Kate. I have paid her some attention, it is true, but it is because I know she has few pleasures, and I wanted to make her stay as pleasant as possible."

"And yet, when, after months of close confinement in the schoolroom, I sought a brief respite from many cares, the change of scene and air I so sorely needed, you did not think it necessary to devote your self so assiduously to me, who, if half your assurances are to be believed, have a claim upon you more sacred than any other. You could even leave me alone for daysnot on account of business—but in pursuit of pleasures in which I had no share."

Arthur Reeves winced at these words. "You are jealous Agnes, and a jealous The two had been walking along a wooded path. They had now reached the brow of a hill, from which diverged two paths-one leading to Agnes' home, the other to the village, whose glittering spires could be seen in the distance.

'Our paths lie separate here, Arthur." "And our life paths as well? Is that what you wish to say, Agnes?"

"Our life paths as well."

No one knew all it cost her to utter those calmly spoken words—certainly not the man who, winning that loving heart, had held it so tightly.

Motionless, with arms folded tightly across his chest, he watched her retreating form. Perhaps there was a faint hope in his heart that she would pause or turn her head, but Agnes was not the woman to falter or look back in the path she had

She kept steadily on, not even turning when she reached the door, which, closing upon her, shut him out as completely from her heart and life as if he had never been. Then he felt as he never had before, if not all that she had been, all that she might have been to him.

It was Arthur Reeves' misfortune that he could not resist the voice of flattery, especially from the lips of a pretty woman. Did such smile upon him or hang upon his accents with delight, partly real, part-ly feigned, for the time being she swayed and seemed to fill his heart wholly.

He wooed Agnes Irwin eagerly and persistently—for she was not a woman to be unsought-never resting until he knew that her whole heart was his.

It was not that he did not know how rich was the treasure he had won; to be loved so entirely and exclusively would have been gratifying to any man, but he was one of those with whom a love once won has lost its claim. Arthur made no attempt to change a purpose that he well knew was unchangeable. He married a few months after, and no one prayed more fervently for his hap-piness than did he from whose life he had taken much of its bloom and brightness. Some years after, when what we have recorded was looked upon as a troubled dream, in taking up a paper her attention was arrested by the following paragraph:

"Arthur Reeves, a well known merchant —, has eloped with a gay young midow. The guilty pair left for Europe on the last steamer. The scoundrel leaves behind him a wife, whose conduct has been irreproachable, and three children. Mrs. Reeves returned yesterday to her father's house, which she left six years ago as a happy bride."

When the shock that this gave her had subsided, what grateful emotions swelled her heart that hers were not those worse than fatherless children; that she was not that more than widowed wife, returning -Boston Globe.

THE BODY OF MRS. PETER PACCO-LONI OF DAFTER.

the Husband Believed to Be the Perpetrator of the Monstrous Crime-There Is Great Excitement at Dafter and Other Parts of the County on Account of the Terrible Deed. SAULT STE. MARIE, Dec. 28.-The body of Mrs. Peter Paccoloni of Daffer, this county, who has been missing for nearly three weeks, was found Wednes-Gahey. The body had been buried in a henhouse. The men unearthed the remains sufficiently to recognize them. Peter Paccoloni, the husband, who is in jail here on suspicion of the murder of his wife, is believed to be the perpe-trator of the crime. There is great excitement at Dafter and other parts of the county over the affair. If Pacco-loni was not in jail, Judge Lynch would probably take summary action. Paccoloni's examination will take place to-morrow. In statements made soon after his arrest Paccoloni denied all knowledge of the whereabouts of his

Suspicion against Paccolonia was first aroused when blood was found on the bed in his house, on the bedroom door and in the cellar by neighbors and the two sons of the deceased woman, who searched the premises. Suspicion was further increased by Paccoloni's answer to the question as to what Mrs. Paccoto the question as to what Mrs. Paccoloni wore the day she was last seen. Paccoloni at that time stated that she must have gone away to some other neighbor's for a day or two, as she had done before without telling him where she was going. The garments he said she wore were found during the search. The Italian told his questioners that he had made a thorough search of the premises, but could not find her. He

he had made a thorough search of the premises, but could not find her. He especially emphasized the remark that she could not be in the henhouse, as he had looked there more carefully than elsewhere. On being told by his stepson that there was blood in the henhouse, he replied: "Oh, that is blood from chickens which have been killed there." killed there.

Altogether his actions were so suspicious as to warrant his arrest, which was made last week. The offer of a reward of $50 for the recovery of the body, dead or alive, spurred on the search, with the result that the body was found as stated.

DECISION BY JUDGE STEERE.

Gives His Reason for Refusing to Grant a

Mandamus. Lansing, Dec. 27.—Sectary Baker of the state board of health has received a copy of the opinion rendered by Judge Steere of Sault Ste. Marie in an action brought by the state board of health to test its rights to prescribe quarantine rules and regulations at the Canadian border. Action was brought by the board by an application for mandamus to compel Frank R. Warner, a justice of the peace to entertain a criminal complaint and proceed with the trial of a case brought against a station agent of the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic rail-road, who refused to detain the bag-gage of immigrants for inspection and disinfection. Judge Steere denied the mandamus for the reason that the statute under which the criminal proceedings were sought to be brought is invalid in the particular that it seeks to delegate to a nonelective subordinate board legislative powers to create a misdemeanor and is a violation of sections 1 and 38 of article 4 of the constitution of the state, which vests legislative powers only in the house and senate of the state legislature, and gives them powers to delegate such privileges only to townships, cities, villages and boards of supervisors. MURDER AT GRAND RAPIDS. John Wanderhem Shot and Iustantly

Anciene Egyptian records are vague in their allusions to the treatment of the sick, but it seems likely, from a legend which is given in the Papyrus Ebers, that a clinic existed in connection with the temple of Heliopolis. It is equally probable that, if the history of the temples of Æsculapius could be unveiled, we should find that in them also a hospital supplemented the shrine, and that the sick who offered sacrifices there found something more than "faith healing" within their walls. But from none of these are our hospitals derived; they were destroyed or forgotten in the barbarian conquests, and so utter the oblivion into which they fell that it now an article of the popular creed that is to Christianity we owe the first idea care for the sick and afflicted .- Quarterly

Candy

When it come to the Christmas Candy question, old Hard Times holds up his gaunt hand of protest in vain, and Santa Clau-, upon his merry annual round, pauses equally at the doorways of the rich and the poorwell laden with the healthful delicacies of the confectioner's art.

It is all very well for Hard Tlmes to forbid the usual lavish expenditure and to protest against the great mid winter response of the American Pocket Book to the contrary temptation of the infinite variety of expensive nothings displayed in the shop window; but Santa Claus draws the line of interference at candy.
