A CONGRESSMAN'S ONLY ELECTION BET

And Where the Money Went.—Three Michigan Congressmen Still at Home.

—Congressman Whiting on the Sick List.

Special Capital News Co. Correspondence. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 27, 1894.

Congressman Weadock recently told the writer hereof how he came to make his first and only election bet. "I never made but one bet on the result of an election," said he, "and I couldn't decently help doing that. It was during my campaign for re-election last year, up at Grayling, in Crawford county. My campaign committee had announced a big political meeting for a certain date, with myself for speaker, and to head us off the republicans engaged the village band for that day, and came out with flaming bills announcing a grand rally at the same time and place. Not to be frightened by that sort of tactics, my friends sent to outside towns and engaged two or three bands equally as good, and prepared to go ahead with the show. The day came, and of course, the two political aggregations served to fill the little town to overflowing. While at the hotel, previous to the meetings an enthusiastic republican said in a loud and confident voice to a large crowd of democrats: 'That's all right. You may have more bands here today than we have, but I'll just bet you $25 against $10 that we'll beat you in this county.' A dead silence seemed to rest like a pall over the crowd present, and not a democrat seemed to have courage enough to take the bet or even to make any reply. Then the 'had-to' on my part came in. I waited until I saw that no one else intended speaking, and feeling that silence at that particular time would be construed by my friends as a confession of fear on my part that the fellow might be speaking prophetically, I said, 'My friend, I'll take that bet, and here's your money.' A stakeholder was found, and then a democrat standing near me, apparently grown more bold, offered to take another bet of the same kind. To this the republican assented, and then another democrat begged the opportunity to take the third bet. The republican had only $20 left, however, which he placed with the democratic $10, and then we separated and waited for election day to come and decide our bets.

"I thought no more of the affair until a few days after election, and I had carried the county by a big majority. I received a letter from the Grayling Republican notifying me that he had lost his $70, and that my $25 awaited my order. I notified the Democratic committee to get the money and use it toward paying the bands they employed for the big rally.

Congressman Gorman is back from his recent visit to his home, looking and feeling much improved physically, the recent injury to his amputated arm having grown better very fast during the past two weeks. Whether he feels any better mentally, because of his personal talks with the numerous candidates for postmaster at Ann Arbor and other points in the district, he does not say. He hoped to be able to reconcile the various candidates to the fact that in making his final decision he would do what seemed for the greatest good to the greatest number. While he isn't yet giving out any names to the public, he will very soon do so. He laughed when spoken to about the report that one of the Ann Arbor candidates, who received a package of government seeds from him, construed the gift as a hint that he was not to be nominated for postmaster, and might as well go to farming. That man was evidently over-sensitive. Every congressman has about 18,000 papers of garden, field and flower seeds to dispose of, and the senators a quantity proportionally large, yet they never think of using them to convey a hint of anything but the kindest personal friendship.

Congressman Whiting has not only had sickness and death in his family during the past winter, but he has himself been sick quite a little of the time, at least he has not been at all well. During the past week he has been confined to his house most of the time, although not dangerously sick. His friends hope that with the coming of better weather he will be able again to attend to his congressional duties.

Messrs. Aitkin, Moon and Weadock are still in Michigan, while Mr. Linton expects to go there in a day or two to help, if possible, in electing a republican as his successor as mayor of the combined Saginaws. He was mayor when elected to congress, and like that distinguished democrat of New York, David B. Hill, has held on to two offices for a year. He would have resigned the lesser when he took the greater, only his republican friends didn't want to take any chances of getting a democrat into his place, and so urged him not to resign.

Congressman Burrows has recently spent a week in rusticating in Florida, where he made a speech or two and had a good time generally. Mrs. Burrows is now at Fort Monroe, for a week, accompanied by Judge J. W. Stone and family, of Marquette. Being an old member of congress from Grand Rapids, Judge Stone spent a day or two in the House, on his way south making new acquaintances and renewing old ones.

Reduced Cost of Lighting the City.

A big saving has been effected in the cost of lighting by the council which was recently abused in the pulpits of the city. The Electric Light company have just notified the city that they have accepted the offer of $73 a light for lighting the city. The contract is dated back to March 1. The price paid the past year was $81 a light. This affects a saving of ten per cent. in the cost of lighting.

Newly Elected Officers.

The annual election of the Students' Christian association occurred Wednesday evening and was conducted as if everything had been previously arranged. More than half of the nominees were elected by ballot of the secretary in default of any opposing candidate. The general harmony that prevailed was due to a lack of any strife for the presidency and the fact that all the officers, except the president, vice-presidents and treasurer, were recommended by a nominating committee.

The election resulted as follows: President, N. A. Gilchrist, lit '96; general vice-presidents, L. H. Beals, lit '95, Mary P. Blount, lit '95; literary vice-presidents, W. M. Mertz, '96, Lenore Conover, '95; medical vice-president, E. A. Nevin, '96; law vice-presidents, W. W. Mills, '95, T. E. Leland; dental vice-president, H. B. Henman, '95; homoeopathic vice-president, Jennie Griffin, '96; pharmaceutical vice-president, (election deferred); treasurer, L. A. Pratt, lit '96; assistant treasurer, Nellie Kennan, lit '96; missionary treasurer, C. E. White, medic '96; assistant, Eula Waters, special; recording secretary, Wilson Klingler; membership secretary, H. B. Merrick, lit '97; corresponding secretary, W. A. Heartt, lit '95; librarian, Cassie Montague, lit '95; chorister, P. W. Dykema, lit '96; organist, (election deferred); Bulletin editors, F. P. Sadler, Anna Richards, lit '95, Frank Hamsher, lit '95, D. C. Thompson, J. H. Prentiss, lit '96, Eureka Hoyles. Professors Carhart and Demmon were re-elected on the board of directors. The Bulletin staff will meet soon and organize. The above officers will assume their duties on the second Wednesday in May. J. H. Van Tassel is a candidate for general secretary which officer is elected by the other officers.

Junior Hop Tonight.

No happier inauguration of social life at the University, after the lenten season could lend more inspiration to all, than will the Junior hop which will occur tonight. Splendid arrangements have been made for the social event of the mid-college year.

One thousand invitations have been issued and it is expected that from 225 to 250 couples of merry dancers will attend.

The decorations in the big "gym" this year will be selected with unusual taste, the desire being to obtain a harmonious blending of colors. O'Rourke, of Detroit, will have charge of the work. The running track will be decorated with a back ground of dark red, with other colors which blend well. An artificial canopy ceiling, confined to streamers of a few colors will produce a beautiful effect overhead.

The booths will be decorated unusually fine this year. There will be ten of them including one for each of the fraternities represented and one for the chaperones, which will be placed at the east end of the gymnasium. The ladies' dressing room will be fitted with permanent fixtures in the director's room.

The running track will be used for spectators and an admission price of $1.50 will be charged to spectators.

The music will be furnished by Schermiser's society orchestra, of Detroit, consisting of twenty-four pieces. This will be divided into two orchestras, one for regular dances and the other for intermissions.

Hangsterfer will be the caterer for the occasion. Refreshments will be served between the 12th and 13th dances. A novel feature will be introduced as follows: A small table will be placed in each booth and a separate set of waiters will be in attendance. This will avoid confusion and prevent things from getting on the waxed floor.

The program of dances is a work of art and consists of kid covers with U. of M. monograms embossed thereon. The ladies' programs are in yellow kid, with blue monogram, while the gentlemen's program are blue with gold monograms.

The programs are made out in the form of checks which read as follows: I promise to pay Miss — one dance, member —. Signed, —. This will be a very appropriate and neat souvenir of the occasion.

The grand march will begin promptly at 9:30 p. m. Great praise is due to the arrangements committee for their good taste and judgement used in arranging for the hop which will be the social event of the mid-college year.

For the next two weeks (will begin building if not sold then) Dr. MacLachlin will offer his lot on Madison street, opposite Judge Cheever's, for sale cheap. Apply to him in person or James R. Bach, agent.

Scrofula Tumors

Salt Rheum, Nervousness,
Other Troubles

Complication of Diseases Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Mrs. Ben. Shetterly
Buchanan, Mich.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:
"Dear Sirs: From childhood I had been a great sufferer from scrofula, having a tumor on my left breast and another in my stomach. I was also afflicted with salt rheum. We spent much money for medical attendance and remedies, but all to no avail. Three years ago I commenced to run down. The trouble with my stomach would not allow me to eat and even milk distressed me very much. My right hand and arm became almost paralyzed, and my stomach difficulty was fast developing into Serious Female Troubles.

I became very nervous and was subject to fainting spells. Dark spots appeared before my eyes. The doctors failed to help me. In the spring I read about the wonderful cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to give it a trial. After taking it a short time I commenced to feel better, my digestion improved, and the burning sensation in my stomach and bowels ceased. Shortly I was able to work about the house, standing on my feet considerably, something I had not done for months before. For two summers I have done

I shall continue taking Hood's Sarsaparilla as it is my cheapest hired servant. I am a farmer's wife, our place embracing 120 acres. We think Hood's Vegetable Pills cannot be beaten, and we have great faith in Hood's Sarsaparilla." Mrs. BENJ. SHETTERLY, Buchanan, Michigan.

loss. Mr. Hadley had bought the Joseph Hopkin's farm, and would have moved on to it before now, if he had not been prevented by his sickness.

Mr. H. M. Twanley had a sale this week which resulted very fairly for the times. Nearly everything was sold excepting the horses. Mr. T. will live in Chelsea it is expected now.

A procession nearly a mile in length followed the remains of Mr. Louis Hadley, at his funeral, Sabbath last. Rev. North officiated at the church and grave assisted by Rev. Williams.

Today, March 24, your scribe planted potatoes, just in time for a light fall of snow on them. In plowing the ground turned out potatoes that have been in the ground all winter without freezing.

Died on Wednesday last, at his residence in Lyndon township, Mr. John McConnell, an old pioneer of this place. He leaves a wife and several grown up children, only one of whom is now at home, with her husband. She will stay with the widowed mother for the present. Mr. McConnell was about 64 years of age.

Blood Disease and Dyspepsia Cured.

Major Simfield says: "I had Dyspepsia and Catarrh of the Stomach for many years. To make matters worse I contracted a Constitutional Blood Disease. My bones ached. Blotches on the skin looked horrible. I tried sixteen doctors in all. A friend recommended Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. I began their New Method Treatment and in a few weeks was a new man with renewed life and ambition. I cannot say too much for those scientific doctors who have been in Detroit for fourteen years. I conversed with hundreds of patients in their offices who were being cured for different diseases. I recommend them as honest and reliable Physicians."

ALWAYS IN THE LEAD.

The Pyramid Pile Cure Becoming Recognized as a Certain Lasting Cure for Every Form of Piles.

Since the introduction of the Pyramid Pile Cure, the barbarous surgical operation heretofore considered necessary is rapidly becoming a thing of the past.

The Pyramid Pile Cure has taken the place of an operation for many reasons:

First, it cures every form of piles without a particle of pain.

Second, it cures without any inconvenience or detention from daily work.

Third, its effects are lasting and not simply a temporary relief.

Fourth, the price is nominal, costing only a dollar a package.

Fifth, it is entirely harmless, containing no mineral poisons, and cannot harm the most delicate.

Druggists everywhere sell it and report almost universal satisfaction wherever it is used.

It has been thoroughly tested by physicians in every state in the union and is recognized by the best authorities as the safest, surest and cheapest pile cure known.

We take pleasure in presenting the following letters of remarkable cures performed by this remedy, and all of them being recent, lends an added interest, and simply emphasizes the fact that for all forms of piles the Pyramid Pile Cure is a specific.

From D. F. Collins, Garnett: I commenced using the Pyramid Pile Cure and my case was so bad I thought the remedy was going to fail in my case, but before I had used two-thirds of one package I began to feel much better and can honestly say I am entirely cured. It is the quickest and surest remedy I have ever tried or heard of.

From Josiah Roberts, Port Oram, N. J.: Just one quarter of a package of the Pyramid Pile Cure did wonders for me and I have lost no opportunity of recommending such a great remedy.

From Wm. McHale, Rockport, Mass.: One package of Pyramid Pile Cure has helped more than anything I have yet used.

When it is remembered that usually piles is a most difficult, obstinate disease to cure, these results obtained from using a single package, costing but one dollar, are certainly remarkable to say the least. People who have been annoyed with piles for years are astonished at the prompt results always secured.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is made by the Pyramid Co., of Albion, Mich., and is now also for sale at all drug stores, together with a treatise on cause and cure of rectal diseases.

Notice of City Election.

Notice is hereby given that the Annual Charter Election for the City of Ann Arbor will be held on Monday the Second Day of April, A. D., 1894, at which election the following City Officers viz:

A Mayor, President of the Common Council will be elected by the qualified electors of the whole city, and a Supervisor, an Alderman and a Constable will be elected in each ward thereof.

The said election will be held in each ward of the said city at the following places that is to say:

1st Ward, Corner of Washington street and Fifth Avenue, No. 37 E. Washington street.
2d Ward, West Liberty street, Walker's Carriage Rooms.
3d Ward, Pomological Room, basement of Court House.
4th Ward, Engine House.
5th Ward, Engine House.
6th Ward, Engine House.
By order of Common Council.
Dated March 6th, 1894.
W. J. MILLER, City Clerk.

Prof. Wines said the day of registration that all the professors and instructors in the University would vote for him.

Ross Granger is well acquainted with the city, in which he has spent his whole life. His opponent is on three tickets, yet Mr. Granger should gain largely on him.

During the past year the sugar trust paid a dividend of 12 per cent. on its watered capital. That congress should lay a duty on this universal necessary for the purpose of farther enriching this grasping monopoly is scandalous.

The New York World of last Sunday contained in its advertising columns 784 applications for workmen of various kinds. Many of these applications were from large establishments wanting from 20 to 100 hands. This would seem to be pretty conclusive evidence of business revival.

The assurance from Miss Pollard that she will write a book giving a detailed account of her checkered career is one of the severest blows Col. Breckinridge has yet received. This is a case to which "would that mine enemy would write a book" is not applicable.—Detroit Free Press.

Judging from a communication in the opinion of a Life Long Republican, Mr. Walker should be defeated because he is an old soldier. Life Long Republican even appeals to the soldiers to vote against Walker. This is a very queer sort of electioneering.

The development of cotton manufacturing in the south last year was remarkable, considering the general business depression. The south has now 405 cotton mills, over 62,000 looms and 2,775,000 spindles. The ratio of increase last year is likely to be exceeded this year.—Tucumseh Herald.

The republican press of this city have always used the term "Professor," when applied to persons in politics who are entitled to that handle before their names, as a term of reproach. We have no doubt, therefore, but that they use it in the same sense when speaking of the nominees on their city ticket.

The democratic nominations in the various townships of the county this spring are first class in every respect. No democrat who fails to vote his party ticket can do so on the ground of the unfitness of the candidates. The full democratic vote should, therefore, be polled and the county should give its usual democratic majority.

Walter Taylor occupied the position of honor, chairman of the finance committee in this year's council. He scanned every bill carefully and saved the city much money. He should be elected, as his experience and prominence in the council make him of much more value to the fifth ward than a new and inexperienced alderman could possibly be.

W. W. Watts has made one of the best presidents of the council the city has had. He dispatches business promptly, is thoroughly conversant with all parts of the city, votes intelligently and with good judgment and well deserves a triumphant re-election. He should receive every vote on his own ticket and many from those who vote the other ticket.

It will be remembered that there was a small but noisy coterie of United States senators who staked their reputation as prophets on the assertion that Grover Cleveland could not be elected to the presidency in 1892. These are the men who are now scheming to nullify the Wilson bill. They did not represent the sentiment of the people then, add they do not now.

A prominent business man who is not a politician but who is a staunch republican said the other evening that the democrats had put up one of the best tickets that could be put up. Mr. Walker, he said, was an intelligent business man, with time to attend to the duties of mayor and with the proper pride in the city. He was well informed as to the needs of the city. He was a practical man and would make a good mayor and the prominent republican business man said he should have his vote.

The democrats of the city have nominated excellent tickets this year. With Warren Edwin Walker for mayor, William W. Watts for president of the council, and such men as Ross Granger, David F. Allmendinger, Clinton J. Snyder, Henry J. Brown, Walter L. Taylor and F. A. Wilson for aldermen, the city cannot fail to be well governed. The party is to be congratulated on the good work done in the caucuses. The nominees for supervisor are also good. James Kearns, Eugene Oesterlin, Robert Shannon, Joseph Donnelly, Herman Hardinghaus and George Hempl would give us a good representation on the board of supervisors.

The president of the Municipal club made the statement in public last week that the Municipal club would name the next mayor of Ann Arbor. They attempted to name the candidates of both parties. The republican party submitted to their dictation. The democratic party did not. The club endorsed the entire republican ticket except in the second ward. The object of the Municipal club is to dictate the officers of the city of Ann Arbor. In its ranks are a number of republican politicians, who seek by its means to build up their party in this city and also to entirely control its actions. Republicans, not members of the Municipal club, are to be limited in their choice. Democrats are to be deluded into voting the republican ticket. A club, a coterie is to control the city. If this is not ring rule, what is? The people will speak on Monday next and then we will discover whether they are willing to delegate the power of governing this city to a club.

"A Life Long Republican" in a letter to the Courier this week, lays especially stress upon the fact that the municipal club candidate for mayor is "an honored professor in the University." Granted, but why does that better fit him for mayor. Dr. Darling is a good physician with a practice currently reported to be worth $5,000 a year. Certainly it takes all his time. Either he must curtail his income, neglect his patients, which Dr. Darling is to good a doctor to do, or must spend very little time with matters connected with the city. The city is a corporation with over six million dollars. It spent last year about $75,000. To run the affairs of such a corporation intelligently requires much time. Mr. Walker has the time to devote to the city, and is a good careful conscientious business man. Without any disparagement to Dr. Darling, would it not seem prudent to elect a man who can give his time to city matters.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Extensive frauds have been discovered by the Secretary of the Navy, Herbert, in the manufacture of armor plates for the government cruisers by the Carnegie company. The company have acknowledged the frauds and paid a penalty of $140,000. The crookedness was discovered through information furnished by certain workmen who volunteered to give the information for a consideration. The strange thing about the matter is that the secretary's report exonerates the government inspectors and likewise the directors of the steel company. According to the report of the investigation, the crooked work was all done by persons who had no interest in the crookedness at all. This smacks very strongly of an effort on the part of Secretary Herbert to shield somebody.

The republicans, the municipal club and the prohibitionists are developing an inordinate love for professors. Not content with having elected a professor last year, they strive to elect two professors this year to the only city offices to be voted for. The nominees on all these three tickets are Prof. C. G. Darling, whose title in the University calendar is Demonstrator of Surgery in the Department of Medicine and Surgery and Chemical Lecturer on Oral Pathology in the College of Dental Surgery and Prof. Levi D. Wines, professor of mathematics in the high school. Now we have nothing against the professors—in their places, but isn't it a little too much to ask the business men of the city continually to place the administration of the city in the hands of professors? Are they liable to be better acquainted than other people with the needs of the city? Are they better adapted to give the city a good business administration?

Before going to the polls to vote next Monday every citizen of Washtenaw county would do well to examine his tax receipts of last year and compare them with those of the year previous. Having noted the large increase in the state taxes of 1893 over 1892, let each remember that this increase is due to the wasteful extravagance of the last republican legislature. This comparison will convince any citizen, who will be convinced, that the democratic claim of economical management of State affairs during the two years of democratic ascendancy is well founded in fact. A vote this spring for the republican nominees in the various townships means an endorsement of high taxes and extravagance, while a vote for the democratic ticket means an endorsement of low taxes and economy in all public expenditures. The democratic nominees throughout the county are clean, honorable men and should receive the vote of every believer in democratic principles.

Charles Braun, supervisor of Ann Arbor town, has been renominated by the democrats. In this they have shown their wisdom, for during his two terms as supervisor he has come to be recognized as an able representative of his township and one of the most valuable men on the board of supervisors. He ought to be re-elected and should receive every democratic vote in his township. We understand that a strong effort is being made by the opposition to defeat him on the plea that he has been the means of increasing the taxes of the township the past year. No democrat should be deceived by this however. This increase of taxes was caused by the bridge tax of $1,500, voted by the township; the expenses of the lawsuit against the township, $400; and the $1,000 voted for the road districts and highway funds. This money was voted, however, by the township without scarcely a dissenting vote and Supervisor Braun is in no way responsible for the increase in taxes. If the increase of taxes had resulted from any unfaithfulness on his part, there would be just cause for complaint; but as it has not, he should receive the loyal support of every democrat in the township for re-election.

It is claimed that the tariff bill as modified by the senate will probably produce a surplus of about $50,000,000. The additions made in the way of a duty on sugar, coal, iron and other articles will produce this amount or a little more, and it is also thought that the income tax feature will yield about the same amount. There is thought to be a scheme in thus balancing these items of revenue, and that when the proper time comes the opponents of the income tax will move to strike it out on the plea that to retain it will be to produce a surplus, which must not be done. Of course the bill should not be framed with the view of producing a large surplus, but to place a duty on sugar that will produce thirty or forty millions of revenue, besides the millions which the senate rates will give the unspeakable sugar trust, for the purpose of freeing the rich from the necessity of paying a small income tax would be infamous. While a tax on sugar for revenue only would not be objectionable, if necessary for the needs of the government, it should not be thought of as a substitute for the more just and equitable income tax. Such a method of raising necessary revenue is in direct conflict with the democratic platform and principles and in violation of the generally accepted idea that taxation should bear lightly on the necessities of life. Any pruning that the bill will admit of, should be made, in the interest of the people.

When the republicans were in control of the federal government, they allowed the beneficiaries of the protective policy to dictate our tariff laws, whereby the people were robbed, in return for the enormous conception fund raised by them and expended in debauching the voters in the interest of the party of great moral ideas. In this way the party became so subservient to the protective subsidists that it could not withstand their ever growing demands for higher duties. The same forces are now at work doing every thing possible to throttle the industries of the country in order to insure the return of the republican party to power in the nation. If they really believe as they assert that the existing business depression is due to the continued suspense regarding tariff legislation, and they desire the prosperity of the country above mere party advancement, why have they done everything in their power to prolong this suspense knowing that the bill must ultimately become a law anyway? As is well known they have resisted stubbornly and by all means within their reach retarded the advancement of the measure and prevented a termination of the suspense. They filibustered against the consideration of the bill in the house and are now preparing, it is said, to talk for weeks and perhaps months on the bill when it comes before the senate, and all this, notwithstanding the fact the subject has been worn threadbare with talk. That their purpose is to farther embarrass business and thereby work upon the fears and doubts of the unwary with the hope of influencing them to return to the republican fold is apparent to all thinking people. Instead of being actuated by patriotic motives in all this their purpose is to regain the lost loaves and fishes. No democrat should be deceived by their dishonest clamor.

Dr. Victor C. Vaughan will speak at the People's Vespers on Sunday evening next at 6:45 in St. Andrew's chapel upon "Visitation and Cruelty to Animals."

At the Unity Club on next Monday evening the meeting takes the form of a social. An interesting program and an enjoyable time may be expected. All are invited. Next lecture comes Monday, April 9.

The intercollegiate debate committee has secured Hon. M. J. Krueger, mayor of Michigan City, Ind., as one of the judges. Mr. Krueger is a prominent lawyer and an ex-member of the Indiana legislature.

The funeral services of Michael, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustine Sage, of Lodi, will be held tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock in St. Thomas' church. He died on Wednesday of paralysis and was 15 years, 7 months and 19 days old.

The sugar social given by the Lady Maccabees at their hall last night was a great success. About two hundred partook of the concentrated sweetness. After supper an impromptu program was given consisting of recitations, declamation and music. It was an enjoyable affair.

Frank F. Whitmore, '96 lit, who was injured Saturday in a collision with a friend while attempting to catch a fly ball, has recovered sufficiently to be removed to his home at Buchanan, Mich. It was thought at first that a blood-vessel had been ruptured in his head, but only slight bruises were sustained.

The city is full of schoolmasters today, the occasion being the meeting of a club bearing that name. They are as clean, honorable and able a set of men as grace any profession and we welcome them to our city. The program of the club exercises was printed in full in our Tuesday's edition.

Mr. Alfred A. Farland, the banjo virtuoso, who gave a performance at the Grand opera house last evening, is a marvel. He is the greatest banjo artist we have ever had the pleasure of listening to, and his playing is the very apotheosis of the instrument. His delicacy of touch is marvelous, and the brilliancy of expression is beyond comparison.

Mr. Nathaniel Kellogg, of Orange, Mass., was united in marriage to Miss Annie Durheiner, of this city, last Tuesday evening at the residence of the bride's mother, No. 11 South Division street, Rev. Henry Tatlock officiated. The happy couple left on the 9:20 p. m. M. C. train for their future home in Mass. A large number of their friends riced them at the station.

The democrats of York township recently nominated the following ticket and it is a good one. Every man on it ought to be elected: Supervisor, A. Davenport; clerk, J. Clark; treasurer, M. Hitchcock; drain commissioner, C. McMullen; highway commissioner, H. Lee Baron; justice of peace, Wm. Kelsey; school inspector, W. Gooding; board of review, H. Kelsey; constables, H. Dotey, C. Mrs. Trueblood will give an entertainment in the high school hall this evening for the benefit of the sewing school. All interested in the work are cordially invited to attend. Admission ten cents.

The Banjo and Guitar club concert last evening was one of the most pronounced successes of the season. The finest audience that has assembled in the Grand Opera House for many moons listened to the enrapturing music and cheered every number to the echo. The performers were encored so warmly and returned so many times as to make the program very long, but it was thoroughly enjoyed. Mrs. Trueblood's pantomime performance was fine and highly appreciated by everybody present.

Owing to the fact that many Ann Arborites have been accustomed to spend their summer at the Oakland hotel, of St. Clair, better known as the St. Clair Springs, they will be interested to know that on Wednesday it, together with belongings and grounds, was attached by United States Deputy Marshall, E. S. Pettet, to satisfy a claim of $73,325.95, held by the American Fine Art association, of Milwaukee.

The March meeting of the Women's League comes this week Saturday, at 4 o'clock in McMillan hall. Eight young ladies will take part in the symposium, four taking the affirmative and four the negative view of the question. A general discussion will follow. It is hoped all members will be present. Admission for ladies not members, ten cents.

The Williams Glee, Banjo and Mandolin clubs which appear here next Tuesday, are among the finest of the eastern organizations. The clubs will be the first since Amherst, two years ago, and should receive a large audience. The Hoosack Falls Massachusetts, Times says: "The Glee club has evidently been carefully trained, and their songs were all bright and catchy. The Mandolin club, which was augmented by a flute and 'cello, was a favorite from their first number, and the only criticism that could be made is that they did not appear often enough. The Banjo club, composed of sixteen men, played well together, and the selection "Mardi Gras Patrol" was above the average of the music usually rendered by such organizations; and special mention should be made of the medley from "Wang," by the Glee club, and the duet and chorus from the "Fencing Master," by the Glee and Mandolin clubs. One does not usually expect any very high order of musical excellence from these college clubs, but last night's concert was an exception, and shows what can be accomplished by good leadership and hard work."

Ann Arbor High School.

The S. C. A. Meeting this afternoon will be led by Miss Benjamin. Subject: "Submission," 1 Sam., 3, 18. Everyone is invited to be present.

The time for seniors to be looking up their credits, and chances of graduating, is near at hand, and there are probably a large number who have conditions or minor studies to pass off.

The young lady members of the S. C. A. are talking of giving a "maple sugar" social, and to use the proceeds to purchase new hymn books for the society.

The long talked-of High School hop has been booked for April 13. Granger's hall has been secured and the arrangements are nearly completed. The committee have sold a large number of tickets and promise us a very successful party. All who desire to attend can secure their tickets for one dollar from Messrs. McCandless, Waterman, Danforth, Neal or Harris.

The elocution recital to be given by Mrs. Trueblood, this evening is one which has been arranged for especially to help Miss Brown's Sewing class. Mrs. Trueblood's recitals are always of the best and surely the cause is one which everyone should be interested in helping. All of our students should attend.

Lectures Upon Ibsen.

Professor Thomas purposes to deliver, on successive Monday evenings beginning April 2, a short course of free public lectures upon the plays of Henrik Ibsen.

It is not an exaggeration to say that Ibsen now has the ear of the world to a degree which is true of no other living man of letters. When his last play appeared, English, German and French translations were published almost simultaneously with the original, and Russian, Polish, Bohemian, Hungarian and Dutch translations very soon thereafter. "Since Victor Hugo's 'Les Miserables' was published simultaneously in nine languages," says H. H. Boyesen, "I doubt if any such tribute has been paid to a man of letters as is implied in this eagerness to read him on the part of the thinking minority of eleven nations."

Professor Thomas will take up the plays one by one in their chronological order, analyzing and discussing them and connecting them with the necessary biographical exposition. The first lecture will be given in room 24, Monday evening, April 2, and will begin promptly at 5 p. m. and occupy about fifty minutes.

METEMPSYCHOSIS.

If I were a poor little tippet mink, I think That of all kind fates it would seem the best To rest Round the slender white throat of sweet Marie. Ah, me!

I would bend caressingly to her will Until She'd lean her cheek tenderly down on me. Marie, You'd waste such joy on a poor little mink. I think. —M. D. Hatch in New York Sun.

Tyndall's Imagination.

This instructive imagination—for we are not concerned with mere reminiscent imagination—here resulting in the creations of the poet and there in the discoveries of the man of science, is the highest of human faculties. With this faculty Professor Tyndall was largely endowed. In common with successful investigators in general, he displayed it in forming true conceptions of physical processes previously misinterpreted or uninterpreted, and again in conceiving modes by which the actual relations of the phenomena could be demonstrated, and again in devising fit appliances to this end. But to a much greater extent than usual he displayed constructive imagination in other fields.

He was an excellent expositor, and good exposition implies much constructive imagination. A prerequisite is the forming of true ideas of the mental states of those who are to be taught, and a further prerequisite is the imagining of methods by which, beginning with conceptions they possess, there may be built up in their minds the conceptions they do not possess. Of constructive imagination as displayed in this sphere men at large appear to be almost devoid, as witness the absurd systems of teaching which in past times, and in large measure at present, have stupefied and still stupefy children by presenting abstract ideas before they have any concrete ideas from which they can be drawn. Whether as lecturer or writer, Professor Tyndall carefully avoided this vicious practice.—Herbert Spencer in McClure's Magazine.

THE SOLITARY FIFER.

He Was the Only Remnant of a Gorgeous Reception Committee.

"I guess ex-Senator Dick Oglesby of Illinois never forgot a reception tendered him at Lincoln, Ill.," said R. L. Matheny of Springfield. "Lincoln was comparatively a new town and growing very rapidly, the citizens believing that it was destined at an early time to be larger than Bloomington, Peoria or Springfield. Therefore when Hon. Richard Oglesby, candidate for governor, was billed to speak there elaborate preparations were made for his reception in order to surpass all other towns. First a band wagon, then the old soldiers on foot with flags, then carriages containing the city officials and the distinguished guest, then citizens in carriages and on foot were to march in procession. Every vehicle in the place had been engaged except an express wagon that operated as the town dray. Even the hack that usually conveyed passengers from the depot to the hotels was put into requisition, and the express wagon took its place as a bus. The only thing that was left undone was to obtain information of the fact that the train changed time on that day and came in two hours earlier than usual."

"It came in, and two passengers alighted—Hon. Richard Oglesby and a Methodist preacher. They were placed in the express wagon and started for the hotel. The master of ceremonies for the day heard of it in some way and immediately notified the leader of the band, who was a performer on the fife. That worthy lost all judgment, and not seeing any of the other musicians ran up the street until he espied the express wagon. Then making a profound bow to the governor and preacher he walked in front of them, and with a dignified step guided them, up the street to the tune of 'Behold, the Conquering Hero Comes.' The governor was too angry to ever tell it, and the citizens of Lincoln kept it a profound secret, but the Methodist preacher enjoyed it and never tired of relating how he and the governor of Illinois were escorted to the hotel by a solitary fifer."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

SURROUNDED BY MYSTERY!

A Great Mistake.

A recent discovery is that headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion of the mind, etc., are due to derangement of the nerve centers which supply the brain with nerve force; that indigestion, dyspepsia, neuralgia, wind in stomach, etc., arise from the derangement of the nerve centers supplying these organs with nerve fluid or force. This is likewise true of many diseases of the heart and lungs. The nerve system is like a telegraph system, as will be seen by the accompanying cut. The little white lines are the nerves which convey the nerve force from the nerve centers to every part of the body, just as the electric current is conveyed along the telegraph wires to every station, large or small. Ordinary physicians fail to regard this fact; instead of treating the nerve centers for the cause of the disorders arising therefrom, they treat the part affected.

Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., the highly celebrated specialist and student of nervous diseases, and author of many noted treatises on the latter subject, long since realized the truth of the first statement, and his Restorative Nervine is prepared on that principle. Its success in curing all diseases arising from derangement of the nervous system is wonderful, as the thousands of unsolicited testimonials in possession of the company manufacturing the remedy amply prove.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a reliable remedy for all nervous diseases, such as headache, nervous debility, prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus' dance, epilepsy, etc. It is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

Restorative Nervine positively contains no opiates or dangerous drugs.

THE EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Fourth Annual Convention Opened at Saginaw.

WILL BE IN SESSION THREE DAYS.

Report of the Secretary Shows a Very Large Growth in the Order—Attorney General Ellis Wants an Order Compelling Prosecuting Attorney Gardner to Return the Gogebic Returns.

SAGINAW, March 28.—The fourth annual state convention of the Epworth League of Michigan began its three days' session at the Jefferson Avenue Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday afternoon. It will be one of the most successful gatherings in the history of the league, nearly 1,000 delegates being in attendance. President Elvin Swarthout of Grand Rapids called the meeting to order and after devotional exercises, greetings in behalf of Saginaw, the Baptist Young Peoples' union, the Young Peoples' Society of Christian Endeavor and the leagues of Saginaw were made. The report of the secretary, D. W. Springer of Ann Arbor, shows the total number of chapters to be 306, an increase of 18 during the year; active members, 14,586; associate members, 4,730; total, 19,316; an increase of 2,995. The junior league chapter numbers 113, with a membership of 6,039. Addresses were made in the evening by Rev. E. P. Patterson of Lansing and Rev. R. T. Savin of Detroit.

Wants a Return Made.

LANSING, March 28.—In the circuit court Tuesday evening, S. L. Kilbourne, attorney for Attorney General Ellis, asked for an order directing the prosecuting attorney to return to the governor, secretary of state and treasurer the records and files of their respective offices relative to the canvass of 1891 and 1893. These returns, etc., were taken to Mason for use before the grand jury, and Gardner has refused to return them as requested by the indicted persons. Judge Person has not yet decided the motion.

Governor Rich, in speaking of the matter said, that while the returns were in his office, while not permitting Mr. Ellis to take them away, he gave him every facility for examining them in the presence of either himself or his secretary, and had a photograph of the Gogebic returns made for his use. The governor believes that the defendants should be accorded the privilege of availing themselves of whatever facts the returns and records may disclose.

The Prosecution Rests.

LANSING, March 28.—The prosecuting attorney Tuesday rested his side of the case against Byron M. Browne for the murder of Montgomery S. Hendershott, which is now on trial in the Ingham county circuit court, although he may offer some evidence in rebuttal later. As yet the people have not shown that the act was deliberate or, indeed, that it was not purely accidental. The defense will show that there had been a deliberate plan on the part of Hendershott and his companions to fleece Browne out of his earnings and then divide the spoils. In drawing his revolver, the defendant's attorney claims, Browne had a right to defend his property, which was being taken from him unlawfully.

The Bad Seed All Right.

GRAND RAPIDS, March 28.—The reports that the recent cold weather has seriously injured the fruit crops in western Michigan appears to have been greatly exaggerated. The Grand River Valley Horticultural society, composed of farmers of Kent, Allegan and Ottawa counties, met here and displayed samples of buds taken from the trees. Experts pronounced them uninjured and the farmers feel sure of a good crop.

His Throat Badly Gashed.

FLINT, March 28.—Christopher McCracken, a young widower of Grand Blanc, aged 26 years, was found in an outhouse with his throat badly gashed and nearly dead from loss of blood. He was taken to his home, a few rods distant, and medical aid summoned. He was too weak to give any account of himself, but it is alleged that in a fit of despondency he attempted suicide.

Bodies Not Yet Found.

HOLLAND, March 28.—No bodies have yet been found of the four drowned men, though about 30 boats have been dragging and exploding dynamite in the lake. This is the worst accident that ever happened here. It is likely now that the unfortunate young men's bodies will not be recovered until they come to the surface and float.

Crushed by a Log.

CARLETON, March 28.—While rolling a heavy log with a team, Ben Cole, a farmer living two miles east of here, broke both legs by their being caught between a log and a standing tree. Struck With a Billy.

DETROIT, March 28.—The Emergency hospital ambulance was called to the corner of Thirteenth and Howard streets Tuesday night to get a man giving his name as William Hughes and his residence as 181 Thirteenth street. Hughes was standing on the corner waiting for two friends, when a man walked up behind him and dealt him a blow on the head with a billy. Before he could follow up the blow Hughes' friends ran to his assistance, but his assailant made his escape. It was found that Hughes had a scalp wound about four inches long and he was taken to Emergency hospital, where his injuries were attended to.

Threw Himself Before a Train.

KALAMAZOO, March 28.—Joseph Cummings threw himself in front of the Erie express at Scott's Tuesday afternoon. His body was frightfully mangled. It is a clear case of suicide, but no cause is known.

THE EXCITEMENT INTENSE.

Fifteen Alleged White Cappers Arrested at Palestine, Ark.

FOREST CITY, Ark., March 28.—The arrest of 15 alleged White Cappers at Palestine, this county, on indictments rendered by the grand jury now in session has caused intense excitement. The trouble arose from the failure of some of the farmers to discharge their obligations to the merchants and the consequent foreclosure of mortgages held by the merchants.

This, it is said, led to the burning of a number of farmhouses owned by the merchants, and it is for this offense that the parties under arrest were indicted. It is feared that the intense feeling that has been engendered may result in bloodshed.

Congressman Wilson Gaining Strength.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 28.—Congressman W. L. Wilson has been removed to the ranch of ex-Congressman Ben Cable, eight miles south of this city. THE EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Proceedings of the Second Day's Session.

VERY INTERESTING PAPERS READ.

An Eloquent Address to the Evening by Bishop Nindé—Ira Burpee Tells the Story of His Sufferings—Says His Adopted Mother Poured Hot Water Into His Boots.

SAGINAW, March 29.—The second day's session of the State Epworth League convention began at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning and continued all day, closing in the evening with an address by Bishop Nindé on "What the Church Expects of the Epworth League," before an audience that filled the large church to overflowing.

The addresses of the day were on the literary, social, mercy and help and junior departments of the league work, and were all of the greatest interest. Rev. Edwin A. Schell of Chicago, general secretary, and Rev. Joseph F. Berry, editor of the Epworth League, were among the speakers. The others being prominent in church work throughout the state.

SCALDED AND STARVED.

Ira Burpee Tells the Story of His Sufferings to the Prosecuting Attorney.

Owosso, March 29.—Ira Burpee, the young boy of New Lothrop, who is alleged to have been cruelly treated by his stepmother, told the story of his sufferings to Prosecuting Attorney Watson and others. He says that whippings have been quite frequent and that he has been charged with crimes that he never committed. Recently he was charged with some offense that he did not do, and knowing that he would get a licking for it he ran away and hid under the strawstack, remaining there all night. In the morning he says that he went up to the house and asked for something to eat, and was given a few crackers.

Then he was told to sit down, whereupon he alleges that Mrs. Burpee poured hot water into his boots, then she took a penknife and cut some holes in his boots and made him sit in a chair with his feet in cold water for a whole day, with nothing to eat but a few crackers. After that he was kept hidden and told to tell the story about being imprisoned in a strawstack, the same as already published. There is hardly any doubt but that both feet will have to be amputated.

WANTS DAMAGES.

Charles Bristol of Fowlerville Sues His Employers for $5,000.

HOWELL, March 29.—A sensational damage suit was commenced Tuesday against A. W. Knapp and F. D. Parker, partners in a general store at Fowlerville. For some time they have been missing money from their store and thinking that their head clerk was living faster and in better style than his salary would admit, they confronted the clerk, Charles Bristol, with having taken it. It is alleged he admitted it and turned over about $1,000 in cash and a stock of goods at Williamson, they promising not to prosecute him. Bristol now sues them for $5,000 damages and claims he was bulldozed into paying the money by the two partners with their attorney, keeping him in the store after everybody else had closed up and scaring him until he could do nothing, that he expected to be married soon and rather than have them hang over him he owned up.

The Browne Murder Trial.

LANSING, March 29.—The Browne murder case, on trial in the Ingham circuit court, will go to the jury today. The defendant was on the witness stand in his own behalf Wednesday and related the story of the events leading up to the shooting of Montgomery Hendershott on the 2d of last September. He testified that during the scuffle with Hendershott the revolver which he had drawn must have been discharged by the latter's attempt to wrest it away, and that he did not know exactly when the weapon was discharged. During the struggle, he said, Hendershott all at once ceased struggling and went out of the door, where he fell down.

Asked what became of the revolver with which the shooting was done, Browne said he didn't know. He was under the impression that he threw it out of the window, but it was merely a vague and indistinct recollection. Prosecuting Attorney Gardner finished his argument to the jury at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and was followed by James Harris and R. A. Montgomery, for the defense. Russell C. Ostrander will close for the prosecution today.

Horsemen Have a Desperate Fight.

KALAMAZOO, March 29.—A desperate fight occurred shortly after midnight Wednesday morning between two horsemen, Harry Newman and Fred Sullivan. The latter is charged with assault on Newman with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder, and Newman is at the city hospital with a hole an inch deep in his neck that came within an eighth of an inch of his jugular vein. He bled frightfully before Dr. Van Zwaluwenburg was called and closed the wound. He is very weak from loss of blood and his temperature is very high.

Jail Breakers Frustrated.

SAGINAW, March 29.—Walter Fisher and Henry Crockett, the two colored men bound over to the circuit court for trial on a charge of burglary and larceny, attempted to escape from their cells by breaking the hinges off the door with a spike used to hold up the hanging bed. One of the men would sing and dance and play upon a mouth organ he had to drown the noise while the other jabbed at the woodwork around the hinges. The janitor, however, discovered what they had done and they were removed to other quarters.

CHAPTER IV.

IN LONDON—THE PREPARATION OF A PEDIGREE.

My first care on my return to London was to write and dispatch to my father a long letter. In the letter I gave him the names, place of residence and all the particulars I had gathered in regard to our distinguished ancestors. This I did in order that he might speak understandingly in breaking the great news to our family and the town. Also I sent a letter to Prudy, under cover to Captain Shrimp, in which I told her to be of good cheer, that all was going well for us. I told her that she would probably hear something of my success in my mission through my father, by way of Rev. Nantucket Sperrin or Captain Shrimp.

I remained in London over a fortnight after dispatching my report to my father, and I was hard at work every moment of my time. I had at my disposal unlimited means and was determined to brilliantly conclude what I had so successfully commenced. My first care was to look up the pedigree of Sir Archibald and Lady Eleanor Johnson of Thetford, Norfolk.

I went at once to the Herald's college or College of Arms, in Doctor's Commons, where all pedigrees have been entered since the founding of the college by Richard III in 1483, and there I spent half a day to good advantage. My time was not spent in "prospecting" the old musty records of the college, but in "prospecting" the old musty hangings on of the place—men who have grown old and bent and gray among the ancient manuscripts and ponderous tomes.

About the Herald's college are to be found a score or more of poor devils, somewhat like our "shyster" lawyers, who eke out a subsistence by examining and making transcripts from the old records. To this not a few of the number add the less legitimate, but far more remunerative, business of manufacturing genealogies. These men are really among the best legitimate genealogists in all England, for in the fabrication of false genealogies they are compelled not only to be thoroughly up in all the true genealogical records, but also to constantly delve in piles of old manuscripts and histories. In a chat with one of the officers of the college I learned the name of one of the oldest and most expert genealogical workers in both the legitimate and "shyster" lines of the business.

I found this man without difficulty and was so well pleased with him that I engaged him at once. He was a fine looking old gentleman and in dress affected the clerical. I soon discovered that he particularly prided himself upon his ingenuity in the fabrication of bogus genealogies. He had worked out hundreds that had "passed muster" in England, and as no man in all Great Britain was better posted in genuine genealogies, not one of his fictitious works could be gainsaid, however much its illegitimacy might be suspected.

My work was easy for him, as it was nearly all of a square and legitimate kind. Much to my surprise I found that this old genealogical chief had at his command a full corps of assistants—men glad to be called upon by him to lend a hand in a good job. As soon as he found that the cost of the work was a secondary consideration with me, Mr. Roberts—the name of this prince of genealogists was Richard Roberts—at once sent a man to the British museum, where are kept many records pertaining to genealogies; another to make transcripts of the parish registers in Norfolk and others to exploring the printed collections of genealogical information, such as the books of the peerages, baronages, baronetages and county histories, he himself working in London in the College of Arms.

The register books kept by the heralds and their assistants contain the pedigree, arms and all the leading facts and events in the history of a family; therefore, to begin with, there is found in the Herald's college a rich mine in which to delve in the very outset. Indeed the Herald's college, London, is a mine of wealth in which Americans in want of ancestors may profitably dig.

Mr. Roberts gave me the genealogy of Sir Archibald Johnson fairly and truthfully as far back as it was traceable in the records. To this he added as a labor of love a mythical genealogy running back to the year 870, when Thetford was sacked by the Danes. In the battle with the Danes he caused one Geoffroi Johnston to perform "prodigies of valor."

All this was written out upon a most formidable looking parchment, to which were attached all the seals obtainable legitimately or otherwise. Altogether, it was a most substantial and well to do looking document.

To the true genealogy of Sir Archibald Johnson was added the name of my great-grandfather, Walter Johnson, as only son of Sir Archibald and Lady Eleanor Johnson, who migrated to America a few years before the death of his father, and there the record ended, to be taken up by my family in the United States.

As Mr. Roberts and his assistants were experts at such work, I had them get up a magnificent genealogical tree, adding the Johnsons in the United States to date, and devoting a corner to the family arms, all in colors, and the whole work on the finest vellum. Thus I had the tree—a beautifully constructed genealogical table—and appended to that a long and very interesting family history. We managed to take into our genealogical table—at my suggestion—from history a certain Lady Arbella Johnson, daughter of Thomas, fourteenth earl of Lincoln, wife of Isaac Johnson. This lady, it appeared from the account extolled by Mr. Roberts, accompanied her husband to New England on board the Eagle, whose name was changed in her honor to the Arbella. She died in Salem, Mass., in 1630, about two months after her arrival in America.

While my genealogists were at work upon the pedigree of Sir Archibald and Lady Eleanor, I had their coffin plates polished up and retouched in spots. Also I caused to be made for my sisters and mother a few gold ornaments set with handsome gems and bearing the family crest, bracelets and all else being of ancient patterns. They were the best counterfeits of ancient family jewels that could be turned out in London by an expert at such work, an artist immensely patronized on the spot.

I next invented a very pleasing and romantic fiction of these jewels having been deposited by Sir Archibald with a certain barrister—his lawyer—as a secret trust, to be delivered to the heirs of his son Walter when personally applied for and under certain conditions, one of which was that the person applying must remove his remains to America, in accordance with his dying wish. This trust bound not only the counselor at law, but also his heirs, with much more that I put into the story to make it plausible.

CHAPTER V.

AGAIN IN AMERICA—GREAT WORK IN THE PASONAGESSIT CEMETERY—MY FATHER IN THE PRESENCE OF THE ASHES OF HIS ANCESTORS.

On my arrival in New York with my prizes I purchased magnificent caskets for both Sir Archibald and Lady Eleanor, telegraphing my father what I was about, and that the caskets were to be supposed to come from England.

As may well be imagined, there was a grand social upheaval in Pasonagessit when my father made known the contents of my London letter and announced that I was about to sail from England in charge of the remains of his great-grandfather and great-grandmother, Sir Archibald and Lady Eleanor Johnson. Nothing else was talked of in the village. At first a few venerable dames called to talk over the great family event with my mother. Then the Bradfords began to call, and soon there was a grand rush of both young and old. Pasonagessit precipitated itself upon the Johnson mansion.

All this time my father was busy. He had found what he had long needed—an occupation—and was in his element. He at once bought a large plot of ground in the Pasonagessit cemetery and announced that he intended to remove to it the remains of his father, mother, grandfather, grandmother and all his ancestors, whose tombs were scattered through New England in several distant and neglected graveyards. He became so interested and so thoroughly in earnest in this work that he almost convinced himself that the remains about to arrive from England were really those of his great-grandfather and great-grandmother.

He immediately gave orders for the disinterment and removal to Pasonagessit of the remains of his father, mother and other ancestors whose graves were in New England, a work he would never have thought of had it not been for his having first undertaken the great enterprise of bringing over from England his great-grandparents.

The event was naturally pleasing to the pride of my mother and sisters. Therefore when they saw my father wholly absorbed in the new undertaking and sparing neither pains nor expense in carrying out his plans their enthusiasm became almost boundless. Nearly every day they were out to where he was engaged in superintending the work of laying out his burial lot. The county surveyor was employed, and the sites of all the proposed tombs were traced and permanently marked. Rev. Nantucket Sperrin, Captain Shrimp and all the church officers were led out to the churchyard and solemnly consulted.

In explaining his plans my father was in his glory. Here would be the tombs of Sir Archibald and Lady Eleanor; adjoining would be those of my great-grandfather and great-grandmother, and so on down. Indeed, from quite an accidental beginning, my family were in the thick of what might be termed a grand sepulchral boom. Others, too, caught the infection, and there was a general overhauling of tombs and brightening up of the Pasonagessit graveyard. Soon it had been so beautified that all in the village were proud of it.

When my father was informed of my arrival in New York, he at once dropped all his work and joined me. Never before had I seen the old gentleman so thoroughly in earnest and so filled to saturation with any hobby or undertaking.

When I took him to the undertaker's and showed him the splendid and costly caskets in which reposed the remains of Sir Archibald and Lady Eleanor, he was much affected. I then pointed out the family arms on the coffin plates and exhibited to him a number of the silver gift buttons of my great-grand-grandfather.

To my astonishment, while I was glibly running on about these things, the old gentleman suddenly broke down, leaning his head upon my shoulder, he said, "I can't help it, my son!" and he sobbed aloud.

This exhibition of feeling on the part of my good father brought tears to my eyes, and we wept together.

The undertaker, who of course knew now very ancient the remains were, was quite surprised at such an outburst of grief. Addressing my father, he said: "My dear sir, your excellent relative departed for the better land a very long time ago. You could not have had the pleasure of a personal acquaintance with him."

"I cannot help but weep," said my father. "He was, you must know, sir, my great-grandfather—one to whom I am indebted for my very existence. Can I stand in the presence of his remains, sir, and not be moved? No, sir; I owe to his ashes the tribute of a few tears."

The undertaker gave my father up as being one of the inconsolables. As the man of coffins moved away my father turned his tearful eyes upon me and said: "Sam, who knows but by some strange chance you have hit upon my real great-grandfather and great-grandmother? Archibald and Eleanor, Sam—both old family names. I have often and often heard my father say that his father came from Norfolk, England, and Thetford—Thetford sounds familiar. I feel, Sam, that God guided you on your mission! I feel, my son, that I am standing in the presence of the bones and ashes of my ancestors!"

To hear my father talk in this manner was very affecting, and we both left the rooms of the undertaker with red and tear dimmed eyes.

MY LITTLE GIRL.

Of course the little girl was just as much of mine as hers. But somehow when our wedded life got full of pricks and burrs I told her that she'd better take the little one and go.

And stay a spell at Newton Creek along with Uncle Joe.

While I'd go off to some far land, and there I'd work and live.

Until I'd quite made up my mind which one I was to forgive.

I tell you pride's an awful thing when it gets into the heart; I guess it was a thousand times I thought I'd rise and start.

And go right after her and that little maid of mine.

I never heard a word from them. She never wrote a line.

Then I had a spell of sickness and counted through my tears.

And found I hadn't seen them both for more than fifteen years.

Oh, my pretty, laughing darling, she must be tall and fair!

Wow! I'd righter out in ribbons and feathers rich and rare!

I could almost feel my fingers upon her soft white brow.

That little side of her head would touch my shoulder—no more.

Yet the strangest thing—in all my dreams she was a little child.

With the yellow curls of babyhood and big eyes, round and mild.

As soon as I was better I started on my way.

And reached the town at noontime one hot and dusty day.

And near by, in the churchyard, I stopped to rest and wait.

There was a little baby's grave close to the mold'ring gate.

I pushed aside a straggling vine, kind o' curious—no more.

Great God, my little girl lay there, dead thirteen years before!

Is the Oleander Poisonous?

Whether locality has anything to do with it or not has not yet been definitely settled, but certain it is that in certain portions of the country the oleander, so much admired for its exquisite blossoms, has been the cause of serious illness, and in some cases death has been attributed to a too intimate association with it. Several persons were attacked with exceedingly painful throat disorders, with headache, giddiness and violent heart agitation. The dispensatories class it as a heart poison, and one of its victims died in the most distressing heart convulsions. Animals are affected by it as well as man. A valuable horse died a few moments after browsing on the stalks and leaves. Several cows died from drinking water into which some cuttings of the plant had been thrown, and other animals were very sick from inhaling the smoke from burning twigs and leaves of this plant. They were shut in a small yard, and a breeze carried the smoke directly toward them. In other localities there seem to be no serious consequences attending the cultivation of this plant. Whether immediate surroundings or climatic conditions have anything to do with the effects of this popular house plant would furnish an interesting subject for discussion.—New York Ledger.

THE WILD MUSTANG.

IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA HE WAS ONCE A TERRIBLE PEST.

Settlers Were Compelled to Take Active Measures For Self Protection—Exciting Drives and Desperate Battles—How the Corral Was Made.

The southern portion of the great San Joaquin valley was overrun in the early days by a species of wild horse known as the mustang, or Mexican wild horse. They were to be seen in droves, not infrequently numbering several hundred each. They were too small, "weedy" and generally worthless for the most part to be of any value to the settlers. On the contrary, they existed in such numbers as to constitute an annoyance and injury to the settlers engaged in agriculture. In a single night a band of wild horses would sweep down upon the cultivated fields and literally destroy the crops which it had taken months of hard labor to produce. The pioneers had ample cause to wage war upon these animals. They were undoubtedly a pest and source of danger much to be dreaded. Moreover, whenever a band of wild horses came down into the settlements, they would lure away with them the domestic horses, leaving the settlers helpless.

These depredations were so frequent that, as a matter of self protection, the pioneer farmers and stockmen of these valleys were compelled to take active measures. They would inaugurate large hunting parties, or "drives," in order the better and more effectually to exterminate these animals.

The early methods used in this country in hunting the wild horse were peculiar. When a hunt had been determined upon and a favorable locality selected, the hunters would erect two lines of fence, starting them about four feet apart and continuing parallel for some distance, then diverging until the terminals were several hundred yards apart. These fences were strong and high enough at the apex of the triangle to securely restrain the wild horses from breaking them down when crowded into the inclosure. The fence completed, the hunters, all well mounted, would start out to locate a band of the troublesome mustangs. When the objects of their search were sighted, the hunters grouped together, and the order of the "drive" was decided upon. One of the party started out on the trail of the band of wild horses, close enough to keep them constantly moving. This did not require as much exertion as might be supposed, as the wild animals would dash off at full speed, but would seldom continue any great distance in a straight line, usually turning and circling so that the "driver" could, by "cutting the angles," keep the band moving without having to travel half the distance covered by the wild horses.

In two hours or so the first "driver" would be relieved by a fresh man and horse, the whole party thus taking turns at keeping the wild horses on the move. The main object was to so fatigue the game as to wear out the animals, rendering their capture comparatively easy.

Thus hour after hour the wild horses would have a tireless pursuer hanging on their trail. Turn which way they would, be their pace swift or slow, the solitary horseman ever followed them as faithfully as their shadows. Night brought them no rest, as the "drives" were made during the full of the moon. On the second day the drivers would be kept on duty for short intervals, so that they might press the now jaded wild animals. All of the pursuers would now assemble, and one after another turn the flight of the wild animals until they would have them running in a circle, the pursuers taking stations at regular distances. Then began the final "roundup." One man would dash after the band and chase them to his nearest companion in that direction, when that man would drive them as rapidly as possible to the next, and so on around the circle, each driver having a shorter and still shorter distance to ride, until the band had completed the entire circle. Steadily the circles were lessened, and the horses were worked toward the open space between the outer lines of the corral.

If there were any choice animals in the band and any one desired to capture them, this would be his opportunity. It was the most interesting period of the drive. The striking, kicking, rearing, plunging, squealing and biting of the wild horse when first lassoed are described by those who have witnessed such scenes as most exciting. After one lasso had been successfully cast a second is thrown about the neck of the animal, and the lassos were then drawn in opposite directions, holding the struggling captive securely between its two captors. By this means it would be finally forced into submission.

This work completed, the band would be rapidly forced into the inclosure, the drivers closing up the rear and urging the wearied animals into the corral until they were crowded compactly together, with no hope of escape except through the narrow lane, where certain death awaited them. Men armed with strong spears stood on each side of this narrow opening, and as the animals were crowded through it received its coup de grace.

The conditions of the country have changed vastly. The antelope and the elk have gone, the wild cattle have been forced into the mountains, and only a few of them remain even there. This is also true of the wild horse. The wild horse, however, is not as yet wholly extinct in California. Those now found in this state are, so far as I have been able to learn, confined to the regions of Mount Whitney and Mount Williamson.—San Francisco Chronicle.

There are more than 3,000 articles of various descriptions, that were lost by visitors during the World's fair season, scattered away in a room of the old Service building at Jackson park awaiting claimants.

IN FAVOR OF AN INCOME TAX.

Taxation Should Be In Proportion to the Benefits Received.

The following are extracts from Uriel S. Hall's article in the March Forum: The wealthy classes of the eastern states, who are now opposing us in the enactment of this bill, are embarrassing the best friends of a peaceful government. The principle that the wealth of this country should help to bear the burden of national taxation is too well settled by logic, by authority and by experience to justify extended argument now. Too often already have members of this congress been warned that whenever the richer class should be asked to share the burdens of government they, prompted by avarice, would denounce the suggestion. It is their position, not mine, that needs defense.

In a recent speech in the house of representatives I said: "Were I called upon to frame a law that would keep down demagoguery, that would take the last grain of justice from the conglomerate mass of Populistic heresies, it would be an income tax law." I sincerely feel that every word I said was true. Under our tariff system its burdens are put upon consumption (the necessities of life that the poor must have or perish), and a poor man with a wife and five children is forced to pay out of his small income a larger sum for the support of the government than is the average man of great wealth with a small family.

All the greatest authorities on taxation say that the subjects of a nation should be taxed to support that nation according to their ability, not according to the section in which they live, recognizing that we should all be common bearers and common supporters of a common country, ignoring sectionalism.

Senator John Sherman, in a speech delivered in the United States senate March 15, 1882, used the following language:

"The public mind is not yet prepared to apply the key of a genuine revenue reform. A few years of further experience will convince the whole body of our people that a system of national taxes which rests the whole burden of taxation on consumption and not a cent on property and income is intrinsically unjust."

"While the expenses of the national government are largely caused by the protection of property, it is but right to call property to contribute to their payment. It will not do to say that each person consumes in proportion to his means. That is not true. Every one must see that the consumption of the rich does not bear the same relation to the consumption of the poor as the income of rich does to the wages of the poor. As wealth accumulates this injustice in the fundamental basis of our system will be felt and forced upon the attention of congress."

Thorold Rogers says, "Taxation in proportion to benefits received is sufficiently near the truth for the practical operations of government." Rousseau and the elder Mirabeau, J. B. Say and Garnier have approved of this system, while Sismondi, in laying down his canons of taxation, declares that "every tax should fall on revenue, not on capital," and that "taxation should never touch what is necessary for the existence of the contributor." John Stuart Mill declares that "equality of taxation as a maxim of politics means equality of sacrifice."

If this income tax bill is defeated, one will be passed in the near future that will be far wider reaching and involving far greater danger of injustice toward wealth.

McKinley Hard Times.

Following is the way in which Thomas G. Shearman brought home the fact to the workmen of Paterson, N. J., that our present hard times have occurred while McKinleyism is in full force:

What laws are in force?

Republican laws.

Who, when the panic began, held nine-tenths of the offices through which those laws were administered?

Republicans.

Who hold most of those offices today?

Republicans.

Who passed the tariff now in existence?

Republicans.

Who passed all the tariff laws which have been in existence for the last 30 years?

Republicans.

Is there more or less protection to American industries in force today than there was in the first year of Harrison's administration, when we are told that everything was so prosperous?

More by about one-third to one-half. The protection on woolen goods is about 50 per cent higher; on cotton goods, 40 per cent higher; on iron and steel, 60 per cent higher; on silk, 8 per cent higher; on flax, 16 per cent higher.

What have the Republicans been telling us for the last 30 years was the cause of American prosperity?

The Morrill tariff.

Is there more or less protection given by the tariff today than was given by the great and wonderful Morrill tariff? More by 100 per cent all around. More on woolen goods by 200 per cent, more on iron and steel by 80 per cent, more on silk by 60 per cent, more on flax manufactures by 100 per cent.

What Do the Economists Say?

The protectionist claim that a high wage country cannot successfully compete with low wage countries in manufacturing appears reasonable at first sight, but upon investigation is apparently not sustained by facts. The countries paying the highest average wages are the United States and England. We manufacture about double what England does, and England nearly doubles all other European countries combined, so that it appears, without regard to either "protection" or "free trade," that the high wage countries do the manufacturing of the world. Will some of your correspondents better posted than myself explain why this is so?—Cobden, Jr., in New York World.

Thirty years of high tariff has brought the laboring man of this comparatively new country to the charity of the public "soup-house."

HE KICKED.

He Took a Turkish Bath and Denounced It as a Fraud.

A solemn looking man came into an up town Turkish bath yesterday afternoon and said he wanted to take a bath. He registered, gave up his valuables and undressed. An attendant took him in hand, and he disappeared into the first hot room.

Two hours later he stalked into the reception room clad in a sheet. He asked the man at the desk for the proprietor. "I am the proprietor," said the man. "Well, how much is this thing going to cost me?"

"One dollar, if you don't want to give the rubber anything."

"One dollar?"

"Yes, sir."

The solemn looking man grew agitated. He danced around a bit. "Say!" he shouted, "you don't intend to charge me a dollar for that hot damned swindle, do you?"

"Certainly, and it's not a swindle either. That bath was worth a dollar of any man's money."

The solemn looking man danced around some more. "Not on your life," he said. "I was swindled."

"I don't see how. You went into the hot room, didn't you, and took a sweat?"

"Yes."

"And went into the steamroom and got a shower and a steam bath?"

"Yes."

"And had a rub and scrub?"

"Yes."

"And another shower?"

"Yes."

"And took the plunge and had a dry rub?"

"Yes."

"And had a place shown you where you could lie down?"

"Yes."

"Well, what in blazes more do you want?"

"Now, see here," and the solemn looking man spoke very earnestly. "This here is the first Turkish bath I ever took. All my life I bin readin' of Turkish baths and the luxury and delicious languor that followed them. I bin told that when a man gets through with them operations you've bin talkin' about he can lay down and have the pleasantest sort of thoughts. I done all there was to do. I had reasons for wantin' pleasant thoughts. Did I get 'em? Nix. I couldn't think of a blamed thing but a note I got to meet tomorrow without no money to meet it with. Pleasant thoughts—rats! I could have thought of that sittin' on any old horseblock in town. The hull thing is a fraud, and I won't pay but 50 cents."

And he didn't.—Buffalo Express.

No Need of More Gas.

"Isn't this delightfully sweet?" murmured Charley as he sank down before the fire. "I really must have natural gas, you know in my rooms, you know. It is so deliciously bright and so entrancingly comfortable so perfectly nice, you know. I must be come Detroitified, you know, and have natural gas."

"Really," she smiled deprecatingly, "there is no need for it, I assure you, if your case."—Detroit Tribune.

Overcareful.

"Dinnis," said Mr. Herlihy to his friend Mr. Murphy, who was packing a barrel to send off by express, "as I observe that break water's puttin' in that barr'l is av a precatious natur', lit me advise yez to tak precautions in markin' ut."

"An phwat may thim things be, I dunno?" said Mr. Murphy, with an expression of unusual vacuity on his countenance, which was dull at the best.

"Precautions," repeated Mr. Herlihy pompously, "is jist to be afther placin' this soide oop on the kiver so the ixpress company'll have a care, man."

"O'it'll do ut," responded Mr. Murphy, "but it's mesilf has small trust in thim ixpress fellers."

A few days later Mr. Herlihy accosted Mr. Murphy on the street.

"An have yez heard from the barr'l?" he inquired.

"O'it have that," replied Mr. Murphy suddenly, "an ivry blissed thing in ut was broke to smash when the folks opened ut. Thim pesky ixpress fellers managed ut well."

"An did yez take them precautions I ricommended?" inquired Mr. Herlihy.

"Yis," replied Mr. Murphy in a still more surly tone, "an fer fear thim shpaillens wouldn't be afther seel' 'em on the kiver O'it put thim same wurdus on the bottom av the barr'l besides, an it's mesilf that don't think over high av yer perocations, Mistor Herlihy, or whatever the name av 'em is. It's little good O'it've got out av 'em."—Youth's Companion.

When Apparently Freezing.

Do not take a person severely chilled or apparently frozen into a warm room to be treated. The first thing to do, if the condition requires it, is to attempt artificial respiration as in "drowning." Rub the limbs very gently with snow or cloths wrung out of cold water until good circulation is established. Give stimulants in small quantities at a time as soon as the patient can swallow. When fully restored, warm the room with warm blankets and give beef tea or hot milk. For the treatment of frozen hands, feet or any portion of the body the same principles apply. Rub slowly and very gently with snow or cloths wrung out of cold water while the numbness lasts. Then, if the case is severe enough to require further treatment, consult a physician.—New York World.

Rubber Buckets.

The application of india rubber to buckets to render them noiseless has been successfully tried in Great Britain. The bottom, the ears and the "bail" are all protected. The bottom of the pail has three round disks of rubber clamped on at the edges, and they can be readily removed and replaced. The ears are of india rubber, while the "bail" has a single disk encircling it, which answers the purpose.—Exchange.

Cocoa and chocolate are prepared from the nuts by freeing them from the pulp and making them undergo a process similar to malting. They are afterward roasted in a perforated cylinder and are then freed from their husks and made into cocoa or chocolate.
