SAM WOOSTER GONE.

An Old-Time Educated Vagrant has Passed Away.

A NEW EXPRESS COMPANY FOR THIS CITY.

The Circuit Court Jury for May.—The Republican Candidates for Congress in this District.

A Rival Express Company.

The America Express company is no longer to have a monopoly of the express business of Ann Arbor, as the United States Express company has finally decided to open an office in this city. Express will reach here by way of Ypsilanti over the motor line, a special express car being put on to carry the packages. This will prove a great accommodation to the business men and public generally. Now if the street cars will only start up soon, Ann Arbor will be happy.

An Arazonian Talks.

Mr. John Hartie, of Prescott, Arizona, passed through our city yesterday on his way home from Philadelphia. He stopped off to visit friends. In conversation with him at the Germania, he says, Prescott is a thriving little city of 3,500 inhabitants, situated on a high bluff at an altitude of 6,000 feet above sea level. This sequestered burg has a monopoly on the surrounding country for sixty-five miles.

The question was asked him if he thought that the patronage of that territory would be equal to ten miles here? He says that in his opinion we have as many people within five miles as they have there in 65. He says that when he went west and settled there, 35 years ago, there was not an average of one man to the 100,000 square miles.

The Children's Home Society.

A representative of the "Children's Home society" (state headquarters, St. Joseph, Mich.) in the person of Howard J. Rogers has located in this city and will call upon citizens in the interest of homeless and dependent children. The work this society is engaged in is considered to be one of the most aggressive humane movements in child-saving and child-reform, taking as it does homeless children when found, and placing them in good approved christian homes, with oversight until legal age. Mr. Rogers has just finished a very successful work in Bay City, Saginaw and Flint where he received the support of the best citizens. Those here wishing to adopt children or who know of homeless children will confer a favor by communicating the same to Mr. Rogers, at 86 Main street.

The Sons of Veterans.

Last evening was the regular meeting of the Sons of Veterans. After the usual routine of business, Comrade Col. H. S. Dean and Commander W. K. Childs made some patriotic remarks. The question of the Sons of Veterans becoming members of the Grand army was talked of and the Colonel said that it was out of the question for them to become members of the G. A. R. The only thing left for the Sons of Veterans to do was to perpetuate the memories and sacrifices of their fathers. Com. Childs said that the Sons of Veterans should not be members because they had a higher calling to fulfill. Com. Chas. J. Duffin said that he was no speaker but that he believed that actions spoke louder than words and we would hear from him later. After the meeting closed, all were ordered to keep their seats, an order which, though not looked for, was obeyed. Here came in the action spoken of by Com. Duffin, plates, napkins, coffee, spoons, sugar, cream, ham sandwiches, lettuce sandwiches, a dozen different kinds of cake, lemonade and ice cream. These are actions which, if we are any judge, certainly speak louder than words. Arthur Crawford, caterer.

Republican Candidates for Congress.

The Politician in the Detroit Tribune.

I met professor W. J. Cocker of Adrian at the Russell House last evening and it occurred to me that his name also is occasionally heard in connection with congressional speculation in the second district. The professor is rich and scholarly, a delightful conversationalist with whom I always love to chat when he drops into the city, as he frequently does, and I know that he much prefers his position as a University regent to a seat in Congress. He is a cultured gentleman, an author of some note and naturally enjoys the intimate relations his present position gives him with the management of our great University. Prof. Cocker informs me that he will soon go abroad for a few months.

This reminds me that there are several more Richmonds in the field over in the second district—three from Washtenaw county alone, whom I have not before heard of as congressional aspirants. One is A. J. Sawyer, the eminent criminal lawyer, another is John Lawrence, while Junius E. Beal, editor of the Ann Arbor Courier and president of the State League of Republican clubs, is a third. I am told that Beal, who is young, rich and popular is really ambitious for the honor. I know that he has put aside many less glittering crowns and am not surprised to learn that the flame has been finally kindled in his breast.

The Tribune and other papers have previously mentioned as republican candidates for congress, Joseph T. Jacobs, Reuben Kempf, Capt. E. P. Allen and William M. Osband. And there are said to be a number of others in the woods.

Death of Sam Wooster.

At every farmers' picnic held in this county, Sam Wooster has been seen, one of the oldest characters that ever tread the earth. He will appear no more—as he has passed away from earthly cares, aged over eighty years. Last night's Evening News says of him:

News reached Ann Arbor this morning of the death of Sam Wooster, the most picturesque vagabond that ever decorated a community. Sam died in the Livingston county poor house.

"He was an old man when I was a boy," said Justice Pond, himself an old man, who jokingly estimated Sam's years at 150.

Fully six feet in height, he showed himself to be a magnificent specimen of physical manhood. Under the shapeless rags in which his proportions were always hidden, unkempt and unshorn, dirty beyond description, he wandered from farm to farm, doing odd jobs, sleeping in barns or under stacks, always welcome for his unflinching fund of humor and of amusing reminiscences. He was never drunk, never quarrelsome, and never in the hands of the law, although possessed of remarkable powers of absorption of liquor. His favorite tippie was hard cider well dosed with red pepper.

About twenty years ago he swam across Whitmore lake, a two-mile stretch, for a gallon of whisky, and carried the whisky with him in a jug, stopping in the middle of the lake to brace himself with a good swig.

Old Sam was a Mexican war pensioner, and a life-long democrat. His memory was remarkable. He knew in order every president and his whole cabinet. He was educated enough to surprise people with his information on a great variety of topics. He dearly loved to hold spelling contests among the children where he stopped, his favorite word being victuals, Tecumseh, and rhubarb for sticking the unwary.

Sam had been a printer in his day, and he frequently astonished people by fluently reading newspapers wrong side up, a printer's trick full of mystery to the uninitiated. Sam's picturesque qualities caught the eye of a photographer, who made him into an art photograph of Auld Lang Syne, probably the only picture of him in existence.

Everybody in southern Michigan knew Sam. He had a way of turning up suddenly at farmers' institutes and fairs, where he astonished and pleased people with his well expostulated theories of political economy and politics.

CATARRH OR PELVIC ORGANS.
A Class of Diseases Not Generally Understood.
It is a popular impression that catarrh is a disease confined to the mucous membranes lining the nose, throat and bronchial tubes and other of the respiratory organs. The real fact is, that all mucous membranes, wherever located, are subject to catarrh, and unless recognized and properly treated chronic ailments are sure to follow. No organ of the whole body is more frequently affected than the bladder. The symptoms of catarrh of the bladder are: frequent voiding, which is generally scant in quantity and highly colored, with a thick, white or slightly pinkish sediment. Catarrh of the bladder is also liable to extend downwards to the pelvic organs. This will soon cause smarting, and sometimes difficulty and pain. In females the extension of the catarrhal disease is certain to involve the female pelvic organs, and produce leucorrhoea, painful periods, and bearing-down pains.
In taking Pe-ru-na for catarrhal affections of these organs a tablespoonful four times each day is sufficient for cases of ordinary severity, but there are acute cases for which it is necessary to take six doses each day to get the full benefit of the treatment. Old persons who are annoyed by frequent cails and burning pains, day or night, never fail to find complete cure by a month's faithful use of Pe-ru-na.
Send for free copy of Family Physician No. 2, in which these subject are fully explained. Address The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio.
Dandruff forms when the glands of the skin are weakened, and, if neglected, baldness is sure to follow. Hall's Hair Renewer is the best preventive.

RACE WAR IMMINENT.
Mine Operators Will Attempt to Replace Strikers With Negroes.
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 16.—The mine situation threatens to become serious as the result of the strike of the 8,000 men Saturday. It is said that the operators will attempt to put negro labor in the Blue Creek mines and race trouble may result.
At the request of the operators Sheriff Morrow sent a strong posse of well armed deputies to Blue Creek to quell any disturbance that may occur when the negroes go to work. It is learned that the militia have been given orders to provide themselves with 40,000 rounds of ammunition and be ready in case of call.
The situation is threatening, to say the least, and the authorities are on the alert. At meetings held at the several mines the strikers resolved to stand firm.

Eruptions Healed and Health Restored by Hood's Sarsaparilla.
"We have used Hood's Sarsaparilla with great success in the case of our boy. When he was two years old, something resembling tetter or salt rheum came out on his face. It was painful, and owing to the intense itching, the little one could not refrain from scratching the flesh. His face became An Awful Sight.
I applied different salves but they did not do any good. I had previously lost faith in doctors, so I decided he needed something for the blood, and having noticed Hood's Sarsaparilla highly recommended, I procured a supply. Its effects were quickly noticeable, the broken flesh healed over and he became more healthy. He is now seven years old and I have never noticed any signs of a return of the trouble. He is now strong and healthy as any boy of his age." Mrs. CHRISSE C. H. KING, Sandwich, Illinois.

1000 Meals for Five Cents

Each person eats on the average over 1000 meals per year. To properly flavor these would require 17 cents worth of Diamond Crystal Salt. This is a trifle greater outlay than if the other kinds were used, but 5 cents would more than cover the difference, and pay for the luxury of having instead of the other kinds. But the important thing about it is the finer flavor your food will have and the greater protection your health will receive when you use the salt that all salt. Ask your grocer for DIAMOND CRYSTAL. If he has not got it, write to us. If you make butter, investigate our Dairy Salt; there's money in it. Address: Diamond Crystal Salt Co., ST. CLAIR, ILL.

IT PLEASES EVERYBODY.

A Certain Cure for Piles.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is a success because it has the merit which brings success. It cures every form of piles and cures them to stay cured. It is now the most popular and best known pile remedy before the public, and one reason for its great popularity is because it has taken the place of surgical operations, once considered the only sure cure.

People often wonder that so simple a remedy will so promptly cure such an obstinate trouble as piles are well known to be. Yet the greatest remedies and greatest inventions we have are the simplest, and the fact that it does cure is all the sufferer from piles wants to know.

The Pyramid Pile Cure cures piles in any stage of the disease as shown by the following testimonial letters which are published every week and new cases reported each time.

From Geo. C. Gieck, Owens Mills, Mo.: Some time ago I bought a package of Pyramid Pile Cure for my wife who had suffered very much. The first trial did her more good than anything she had ever tried. It is just as represented.

From Richard Loan, Whipple, Ohio: I have used the Pyramid and am entirely pleased and satisfied with results. It does the work and no mistake.

Mr. R. W. Hines, of Magnolia, Ark., says: Although I have used the Pyramid Pile Cure only a very short time yet it has been very beneficial to me.

From Mrs. Peter Lane, Mohawk, N. Y., I received the Pyramid Pile Cure, but put off using it until last week, when I became so bad I decided to try it. I have suffered twenty-nine years with bleeding piles and have used a great deal of medicine, but never had anything that did so much for me as your remedy.

The proprietors of this remedy could publish columns of similar letters to the above if necessary, but these are enough to show what it will do in different cases.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is prepared by the Pyramid Drug Co., of Albion, Mich., and for sale by druggists everywhere at $1 per package. One package is sufficient to cure any ordinary case. Your druggist will tell you more about it.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

FRIDAY, APRIL 20, 1894.

E-Secretary John W. Jochim swore that he did not know what the duties of his deputy, executive clerk and other officials of his department were. It is an outrage for any party to thrust such an ignoramus into high position ostensibly to serve the people, but really to serve the exigencies of the party machine.

A new rule has been adopted in the house of representatives providing for the counting of a quorum. It is much the same as the Reed rule excepting it avoids the possibility of counting persons through mistake who are not present. The presence of persons who are reported as present but not voting is determined through tellers appointed for that purpose.

The English ministry has decided to meet a deficit in the budget by increasing the income tax a penny in the pound, and by increasing the duty on spirits 6 pence per gallon and on beer 6 pence per barrel. In this country such a deficiency would probably be met by laying an increased tax on the necessities of life in order not to offend the possessors of great incomes by asking them to do their part in bearing the burden.

According to the sworn statement of ex-Secretary of State Jochim, he knew practically nothing about the duties of the important office to which the people elected him, and all he did was to sign papers placed before him by his clerks. There ought to be a lesson in this for the people of Michigan. They should see to it in the future that no persons are elected to important positions of trust solely because they represent a certain nationality and can, therefore, control the vote of that nationality.

Gov. Waite, of Colorado, has been sustained by the supreme court of that state in the right claimed by him to remove the members of the Denver board of police commissioners for the causes assigned. After all, it seems that the only point involved in the controversy was the determination of the republicans, Martin and Orr, to hold on to their pap at all hazards. This is quite characteristic. Republican officials have held office so long in Colorado, as well as some other places, that they have come to think the positions as their very own in fee simple.

JOCHIM CASE.

The first of the triumvirate of state officers, recently kicked out of office by Governor Rich for gross neglect of duty, and indicted by a grand jury for making a fraudulent record in the matter of the canvass of the vote on the salaries amendments, has had his trial and it has resulted in a miscarriage of justice.

The jury after long hours of deliberation was unable to reach a verdict, being evenly divided upon the question of his guilt or innocence. This leaves the case in an unfortunate condition, for neither side is satisfied. Those believing with the six who voted for conviction will have a feeling that notwithstanding the fact that there is no shadow of doubt as to the willful and deliberate falsification of the people's will, as expressed through the ballot, yet responsibility for the crime is not to be fixed. They will be grievously disappointed in that so palpable a case of studied criminal intent should go unpunished. It will add to the already quite prevalent belief that crimes against the ballot are not regarded as serious offenses.

Then, on the other hand, those who believe in his innocence will be disappointed that it has not been established and that it cannot be to the satisfaction of Mr. Jochim, himself, and his friends. It may be that after the other cases are brought to trial, this one may be tried again.

This will probably be the case should the others result in conviction. The prosecution seem to have failed to connect the ex-secretary with the actual falsification of the record although one-half of the jury hold him responsible for inspiring it. The trouble in the case seems to be that those who would be suspected of possessing the most damaging evidence are either under indictment themselves and can not therefore be compelled to testify, or have fled.

It is to be hoped, however, that the prosecution will not relax its efforts to bring the guilty to justice or because in any way discouraged by the miscarriage of the present case. The crimes with which the indicted officials stand charged are so flagrant and far-reaching, and there are so many in the secret that it ought not to be impossible or even difficult to bring the guilty to account. It is necessary, at least, that every possible effort be made to do this that those who may be tempted in the future to commit crimes against the ballot may understand what is in store for them.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY RESPONSIBLE.

Under the caption, "A Lesson for the Hour," the Detroit Tribune, the republican organ of the state, in its editorial leader in Monday's issue, admits some truths in connection with the present state republican administration which have been and are persistently denied, or covered up by many of the republican papers throughout the state.

The Tribune admits that the recently exposed rottenness at the capitol forms "a chapter of shame unparalleled in the history of Michigan." In this same editorial, written on Sunday, which may account for the fact that it contains several truths, the Tribune also admits that the republican party alone is responsible for the corruption at Lansing. "It is in vain to say," admits the Tribune, "that the party is not responsible for the acts of individuals," because the republican party is responsible for placing Jochim, Hambitzer, et al, in positions "where they could defraud and dishonor the state." In this confession the Tribune also admits another truth when it says "it will not do to say that they (the republican members of Gov. Rich's administration) were drawn into it by an attorney-general of another political family; or that they were seduced by the underlings in the office."

By the above admissions the Tribune does not tell the people of Michigan anything new. The people were already aware of the fact that the chapter made by Governor Rich's administration is "a chapter of shame unparalleled in the history of Michigan." The people were already acquainted with the fact that the republican party is responsible for the rank corruption at the capitol and that the responsibility therefore cannot be transferred or ignored.

"The 'Lesson of the Hour' drawn by the Tribune is 'Put none but men of high character on guard.' Every loyal citizen of Michigan will endorse that sentiment. But the rub will come for the g. o. p. in making the application. What assurance can the republicans of Michigan offer the people that the men, whom they will nominate at their state convention, are men of higher character than were Jochim, Hambitzer, et al? What can be said in favor of any candidate whom the republicans may nominate, that was not said in favor of Jochim and Hambitzer during the last campaign.

Of what significance would it be if every republican organ and organette in the state should, as they surely will, vouch for the "high character" of each candidate on the next republican state ticket? Was not the "high character" of each candidate, Jochim, Hambitzer, et al

Newell B. Parsons on Trial at Saginaw.

CHARGED WITH STEALING BONDS.

Strong Evidence Brought In Against the Prisoner—Fred W. Knight Testifies to Receiving Bonds at Grand Rapids—The Prosecution Rested Its Side and the Defense Begins Today.

SAGINAW, April 17.—Newell B. Parsons was arraigned Monday on the charge of stealing $463,000 worth of Cincinnati, Saginaw and Mackinaw railroad bonds. The courtroom was crowded with the throng of spectators, among whom were Parsons's two brothers, and a number of prominent people, showing the marked interest being taken in the case.

Prosecuting Attorney Snow called the case for the larceny of bonds promptly at 2 o'clock. E. P. Stone was first put on the stand, testifying in substance that the bonds were kept in the vault in a tin box and that he supposed he had the only key which would open it. The last time he had seen them was either the latter part of December, 1893, or January, 1894. He first discovered them to be missing April 6. He found the box locked as usual and it contained about the same weight, but on opening it he found only two old ledgers.

Parsons at that time had charge of the vault, but he (E. P. Stone) knew the combination and Nat Wright had at one time known it, but whether he remembered it or not he could not say. Sam Borden also knew the combination. Parsons and Stone clipped the matured coupons from the bonds last December and he was present when the bonds were placed back in the box.

Floyd W. Packard, who is in the employ of the American Express company, testified that the defendant came in the office shortly before 7 o'clock Wednesday morning, April 3, with a square package which he wanted sent on the early train to Grand Rapids. He understood the name to be F. W. Wright, and so it appeared on the company's copybook. He seemed very anxious that the package should leave on the early train. It left Saginaw on the 7:20 a. m. train.

Herbert Aldrich remembered seeing Parsons in a car one morning about the middle of the week in which the robbery occurred. He had a square package wrapped in gray express paper. Didn't know where Parsons got off the car.

Fred W. Knight was next called to the stand. He had known Parsons all his life. Had been here in February when Parsons said to him: "If I send you a package before long will you put it in a safe place?" He said he would. Nothing was said about the contents. Wednesday afternoon, April 4, he did not work. He went in the store and was told that there was a package for him. He told the boy to open it and stepped in the office. Was told there was a letter on his desk for him. The letter was written in pencil and not signed, but he recognized Parsons' handwriting. He told the boy he need not open the package.

The letter had been destroyed, but his recollection of the contents were: "I send by express today a package. Place in two safety vaults where it cannot be found. Inclosed you will find $50. Open the package. When you are alone destroy this letter." He took the package to the room of a friend and found inside of the paper a pasteboard box, to which was pinned two twenties and a ten.

Inside the box were two packages, each bound with a yellow strap. He went to the Michigan Trust company's office and placed them in a safety vault. He started for Saginaw the same afternoon and was met at the train by Parsons and asked if he received his package.

It was next spoken of Saturday in private conversation. Parsons said there was $469,000 in that package. Knight was driving with a friend Saturday and met Parsons in front of the city hall. They shook hands and Parsons said:

"Don't say a word, boys, but just hang on to the end of the rope. If anybody asks you anything about me just tell them I have made $10,000 since yesterday noon."

At this point Parsons shifted about uneasily in his chair and the prosecution rested.

The case will be resumed today at 2 o'clock.

Found Dead on the Track.

CHARLOTTE, April 16.—As a west-bound freight train on the Chicago and Grand Trunk was passing through Potterville early in the morning the mangled remains of Frank Jackson, a lad 19 years old, were found lying inside the track. It is not known what killed him nor when, but presumably he was struck by one of the many fast trains which pass over this road.

Struck by a Switch Engine.

WEST BAY CITY, April 16.—Kenneth McRae, supervisor of the Second ward, was struck by a switch engine while crossing the Michigan Central tracks and instantly killed. McRae was master workman of the West Bay City A. O. U. lodge and a member of a number of other fraternal orders. He leaves a widow and two children.

Dropped Dead.

TRAVERSE CITY, April 16.—Philo Schofield, a farmer living near Williamsburg, dropped dead of heart disease while doing chores. He was apparently in perfect health and the blow was a great shock to his family. Mr. Schofield is a true pioneer, having lived at Williamsburg since a small child.

The results of their visit will be given to the board at its next meeting.

A VETERAN'S VERDICT.

The War is Over. A Well-known Soldier, Correspondent and Journalist Makes a Disclosure.

Indiana contributed her thousands of brave soldiers to the war, and no state bears a better record in that respect than it does. In literature it is rapidly acquiring an enviable place. In war and literature Solomon Yewell, well known as a writer as "Sol," has won an honorable position. During the late war he was a member of Co. M, 2d N. Y. Cavalry and of the 13th Indiana Infantry Volunteers. Regarding an important circumstance he writes as follows: "Several of us old veterans here are using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills, all of them giving splendid satisfaction. In fact, we have never used remedies that compare with them. Of the Pills we must say they are the best combination of the qualities required in a preparation of their nature we have ever known. We have none but words of praise for them. They are the outgrowth of a new principle in medicine, and tone up the system wonderfully. Fully. We say to all, try these remedies."—Solomon Yewell, Marion, Ind., Dec. 5, 1892. These remedies are sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. They positively contain neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

Sold by Druggists Everywhere.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION.

An Interesting Communication to the Board of Education.

Board of Education, Ann Arbor, Mich. Gentlemen:—The writer, for months, sat at a hotel table by the side of a German Jew drummer twenty-four years of age, who was educated in the gymnasia of Germany and who was intelligent in the whole range of natural and physical sciences and could speak English, German, French, Hebrew and Spanish, and read all these, and Latin Greek and Italian, and his employer, a wholesale liquor and tobacco dealer and manufacturer, was, also a polyglot, carrying on a business correspondence in six different languages. In New Orleans during the war, your petitioner boarded in a house kept by a family from Northampton, Mass., whose head had been true for freedom when it cost him his business and almost his life to remain so, and in this home were Bishop J. P. Newman, D. D. and wife, of the Methodist church, a brother of Bishop Ames and a local furniture merchant, also from the north, the latter having a sweet little girl about three years of age, who could only speak a few words of English. Frequently to play with the merchant's daughter, a colored woman waiter brought into the house her little tot of the same age, black as night, who could jabber in both English and French as freely as any natives born to either, and this fact was the subject of much comment by Dr. Newman and others. Dr. Paquin, editor of the "Bacteriological World," and famous for his researches with the microscope, has a pretty little daughter only two and one-half years old, who speaks both English and French fluently, the mother speaking English and the grandmother French.

The reports of the superintendents of schools in St. Louis and Cincinnati, men of national reputation, and the testimony of parents, teachers and superintendents in this state, concur in the statement that the average American boy and girl where German is not spoken at home, will learn to speak the German in the public schools if it is introduced in all the grades and properly taught, and carry along all the other grade work just as well as without the German language, and the writer as an officer in the army who, under the special direction of the great and wise Lincoln supplemented by the labors of his humanitarian captain, General N. P. Banks, superintended the organization of the first public colored schools ever opened in the city of New Orleans where the French language is spoken by a majority of the inhabitants in the lower half of the city, observed the same law among the colored children generally as in the special cases cited, children of parents whose intellect for unknown ages, perhaps, from the cradle of the race, hundreds of thousands of years, had been clouded by the deepest ignorance, the law of mental development of both the white and black races, that two languages, if not more, are acquired as easily as one.

These facts drawn from a wide field, after more than thirty years of observation, induce the writer, who was of a contrary opinion in the interests of true progress, to ask that our board of education take measures to introduce the German in all the grades below the high school. There are many Germans living among us and our children can as readily acquire the German language as not, and what intelligent parent is there who would not prefer to have his children have this acquisition? If the French occupied the same relative position as the Germans, we should need the French language instead. American people think that their schools excel all others, but President Eliot of Harvard, recently said: "We are all wrong in supposing that we have the best school system in the world. There is not a country in the north of Europe that has not a better system. The immigrants who come to our shores from abroad, will be found to have received a far better school training in what are denominated the common branches than the average of the rural population of this country."

In democratic schools we close the gate to the scholar in all the interesting studies after the age of thirteen. Not a chance for sciences or literature unless one can go to the high school. This is true of the common and graded schools generally, and the scientific and linguistic attainments of the commercial traveler referred to, would shame that of nineteen-twentieths of our college graduates. In Europe where so many languages are spoken, it is common to learn two or more, and we can do it as well, and should, where facilities are easily accessible.

Physical culture or training is next in importance to moral training. Mens sana in sano corpore (a sound mind in a sound body) is an old and wise maxim. It should take no argument to convince any intelligent person of its value and this instruction should be begun, made compulsory and continued five days in a week through all the grades from the primary through the high school, and should be planned with reference first, to systematic exercise with dumb bells, etc., accompanied by music under a leader from each class or division, a teacher directing, in which it is found that children, young and old, always delight to join. Secondly, with reference to specified daily exercise taken necessarily outside the school room, at the homes of the pupils, with special attention to each pupil's needs. For a boy who is hollow chested, one set of exercises would be prescribed; for a girl with weak lungs and a delicate organization another set; the object being to secure the best possible development of the body to make each healthy, but all should be under the direction of a competent lady teacher, who is either the graduate of some medical school, or who has had special training with practice and understands well the physiology and hygiene of the human system, and can, also, instruct in physiology and hygiene. To make this training the most effective, a chart of measurement should be furnished as is done in the best schools in the country and each pupil measured carefully at the beginning of each year or term, and then a comparison made from time to time, with the ideal model of the human figure of the same age, and the pupil taught how to correct his or her personal defects. The effect of this training is so apparent in all schools where it is properly taught, that strangers at once notice the good carriage of the pupils, as all visitors invariably do the erect and manly bearing of the cadets at the U. S. military academy at West Point.

As to its bearing upon health its importance is too great to be estimated. In one young ladies' boarding school, it was the constant boast of the principal after its introduction, that his bills for the doctor were reduced to nothing, practically, and Prof. Edward Hitchcock, A. M., M. D., of Amherst College, Massachusetts, where thorough compulsory physical culture has been the rule four or five days per week during the whole college course, after thirty-five years of experience, reports that the benefits are incalculable, that the health of the seniors averages 50 per cent. better than that of the freshmen. This testimony is positive and conclusive. We need no gymnasium, and there will be no expense for apparatus save for Indian clubs, dumb bells, etc., and these the parents of the children will most gladly procure.

The teacher the board must provide, and no time should be lost in securing one, but great care should be exercised that she has the right qualification. This is not an experimental matter. It was made compulsory in Prussia in 1842, and in 1859 at Amherst College; in 1889 Boston adopted it and employed a director to train teachers and the demand for them has been so great that it has been difficult to supply them, and the state law of Massachusetts requires that all children be taught how to take care of their bodies.

There should, also, be special training in declamation in all the grades above the third or fourth, if not in the lower, and this should be continuous and obligatory, not optional, each year, from the third year through the high school. There is nothing which so completely equips the average man and woman to perform well their duties to themselves and the communities in which they reside, as the ability, as President Garfield expressed it, "To think on one's feet," and to express those thoughts in public, and this comes from practicing the youth in declamation first, and then in debating, the latter to be commenced and continued in addition to the former in all the grades above the seventh. Public exercises in declamation and essays should be given in all these grades, to which the parents should be particularly invited, and parental visitation to all the daily work should be especially encouraged. During a residence of over thirteen years in this city, neither superintendent or teacher ever invited either the writer or his wife to visit any regular school exercise, a fact very significant, since in Massachusetts, a state considered the leader in all educational matters, the opposite course is pursued and each superintendent and teacher exerts himself to secure the greatest possible showing on the school register of parental visitation, and experience proves that nothing so stimulates both pupil and teacher, as frequent parental presence in the school room. The state superintendent of public education in this state, informed the writer only last week that he constantly recommended this to teachers in his lectures, and always strove to induce parents to visit the schools frequently.

Is it not time that this course was pursued in Ann Arbor? It is a duty we owe to our children, and if the teachers do not invite this a rule of the school board, that the record of their books, the school register, showing the number of parental visits, (each parent signing the register and giving the date of visit) will be regarded as an index of the value of their services, will, if enforced, at once correct this indifference.

We can, also, and should have more of science teaching, bring our children into closer contact with nature, and have our boys and girls as familiar with the names of the grains, fruits and all the products of the field, garden and orchard, and the noxious insects infesting them, the woods of the forests, the trees, grasses, flowers, bugs, creeping things, rock and earths of each school yard, the birds which make melody over their heads, as with the townships of their native country, the rivers of China or the capes of Africa.

Manual Training should also follow for the boys, and Manual Training and cooking and sewing for the girls. In the Springfield, Massachusetts Republican, of January 27, '93, we find the following: "The school board were entertained at the cooking school Wednesday afternoon in a delightful manner. They were invited to come in time to take in the exercises of the afternoon class from the public schools, which on this particular afternoon happened to be from the eighth grade of the Worthington street grammar school. Those of the committee who arrived in time, seemed much interested with the lesson, and certainly the pupils presented a most attractive appearance in their spotless aprons, natty white caps, and towels and holders tied to the side in such a housewifely way. After the lesson was over, the pupils served to the guests a delicious repast of their own compounding. The menu was corn soup with croutons, scalloped chicken, creamed potato and crisped crackers, cheese souffle and bread sandwiches, Dutch apple cake with lemon sauce, and coffee. Each course was daintily served by the pupils, the guests being seated at small tables disposed about the room. Every dish even the bread for the sandwiches, was made by the pupils, and they and their teachers are to be highly complimented on the success attained, for a professional caterer need not have hesitated to claim credit for such toothsome viands."

Cooking lessons were introduced in the New York city schools seventeen years ago, and the science of Domestic Economy is now in the courses of many of the agricultural colleges and in the schools of more than twenty cities in the United States and this experience in Springfield, Mass., can and should be repeated in Ann Arbor in sixty days.

President Eliot, of Harvard, in a magazine article not long since, under the title "Whether Popular Education Has Failed," sharply criticised present methods, showed how we fail and briefly summarized in his masterly way, the object of an education to be "1.—Observing accurately;" "2.—Recording correctly;" and "3.—Comparing, grouping and inferring justly;" "4.—Expressing cogently the result of these operations." Dr. C. M. Rice has also added the weight of his expert testimony to that of President Eliot (to particularize) on the general inefficiency of the methods of the Cincinnati, Baltimore, Buffalo and St. Louis schools, and has as warmly commended the examples of the opposite course in the Indianapolis schools.

The collecting of specimens by each pupil as suggested, will give ample opportunity for applying the first three points made by President Eliot: "Observing accurately, recording correctly, and grouping and inferring justly" and the practice in declamation, essays, and debating, will round up in "Expressing cogently," etc. All the work in languages and in science teaching by observation (the children in all the grades making their collection of woods, grasses, plants, flowers, bugs and butterflies, etc.) all work in declamation and debating and in physical training is done in some schools now, and the universal testimony is that this method equips the children for doing their grade work better, and they do it better in consequence.

Experience proves that to begin teaching German we need have little, if any, extra expense incurred for teaching force, since teachers who can teach German in all the grades are already employed, and as to science teaching, declamation, etc., if this is at once required, and made the rule by the board, all the teachers can acquire the necessary information to lead in observation, etc., and will join heartily in the work if the way is pointed out.

All this can and should be done this year with the possible exception of introducing German in all the grades and Manual Training, but they should be decided upon now, and announcements made in the catalogue, and no extra expense now will be required except for the cooking school and two teachers, but as a taxpayer, the writer is willing to bear his proportion of the burden necessary to put our schools in line with the most advanced thought.

If there is any doubt as to the wisdom of introducing German now, the matter can be discussed, and the admirable papers of Hon. W. T. Harris, LL. D., U. S. Commissioner of Education, formerly superintendent of the schools in St. Louis, Mo., and Hon. John P. Peaslee, Ph. D., LL. D., ex-superintendent of schools in Cincinnati, carefully read meanwhile, and possibly to insure its success it may be necessary to make such changes in the teaching force as to place the movement in the hands of those who are heartily in favor of it, or those who will not use their influence to throw obstacles in the way.

Your petitioner is positive about the advantages of a complete Manual Training school in which the boys are taught carpentering, free-hand and mechanical drawing, lettering, joining, jig sawing; proper care and use of tools, designs for wood carving, wood turning, pattern making, moulding and carving, architectural drawing, forging, welding, tempering, brazing and soldering, machine and architectural details, free-hand drawing, decorative designs, and as machine shop work, chipping, filing turning, drilling, planing, study of machinery, care of steam engines and boilers, study of electrical machinery and testing apparatus.

Dr. C. M. Woodward, director of the St. Louis Manual Training School, says: "If we abridge, in some cases, the hours given to books and the time wasted in idleness and introduce exercises of a widely different character, the result is a positive intellectual gain. There is plenty of time if you will but use it aright. The students of a well conducted manual training school are intellectually as active and vigorous as in any high school. Nay, more I claim, and I have had a good opportunity to observe the facts, that even on the intellectual side, the manual training boy has the advantage. I have been in charge of both kinds of schools and know whereof I speak. The education of the hand is a means of more completely and efficaciously educating the brain. The great end is education, the development of the mind and the body, the simultaneous culture of the intellectual, physical and moral faculties. We believe in the study of things first, their symbols second."

President Francis A. Walker, LL. D., of the Boston Institute of Technology, says: "If we ask a boy to take his place at a carpenter's bench, it is not that we wish to make a carpenter of him, but that we wish to make him more of a man. We know that there is not one chance in fifty that he will use the saw, the chisel, the plane, the hammer, as the tools by which he earns his bread, but if he has had the proper training in their use, he will carry his work in life, whatever it may be, not only a better hand and a better eye, but also a better mind, a mind more perfectly fitted and rounded out on all sides."

Professor John Fiske, of Cambridge, says: "In a very deep sense all human science is but the increment of the power of the eye, and all human art is the increment of the power of the hand. Vision and manipulation, these, in their countless, indirect and transfigured forms, are the two cooperating factors in all intellectual progress."

Industrial training has been established in the schools of twenty-five states and over forty educational institutions, ranging from the most famous universities to the public schools of insignificant cities, include this training in their curriculum, and the fact that graduates of other schools can readily be obtained for this to us new dew departure, is another weighty reason why we should proceed at once to take measures to keep abreast of the times; yes, ahead, Ann Arbor should lead.

It has been demonstrated that both girls and boys perform their other school work better for this addition of manual training department, just as before we have seen that the study of another language, and science study by observation, or Professor Agassiz's method of the study of things before ideas, aids in the same line. It is a change, a positive relief. The object is not to produce mechanics, machinists, expert hotel cooks, dress-makers, etc., but to educate the hand, the most marvelous instrument in the world, as well as the brain, to teach our children the dignity of labor, in fact to equip them in the very best manner to become useful citizens in every walk of life.

ly the views of those who have not carefully studied it, can not in justice be entitled to serious consideration. The inauguration of a complete Manual Training and School of Domestic Economy will probably require the erection of a new building, its proper equipment and the employment of a few special teachers, but careful investigation will prove that teachers can to-day be employed who can teach both Latin and Greek, or the modern languages, sciences, and mechanical drawing and carpentry,—both Latin and Greek or the modern languages, sciences and wood turning, carving and forging,—both Latin and Greek, or the modern languages, sciences and machine work,—both cooking and sewing and hygiene and physiology or English literature, etc.—in fact college graduates having the degrees of A. B. and B. S., one or both, and A. M. and M. S., and Ph. D.—yes, doctors of philosophy, ladies and gentlemen, either, or both can be found to teach well all the studies in our courses in the high school and in the manual training, physical culture, cooking and sewing schools, so great have been the advancements made in the last decade,—so that the extra outlay for teaching force need not be large. Besides, our present teachers, many of them, can, if they choose, readily fit themselves to teach most of the manual training and physical culture under competent supervision. Professor Felix Adler says: "During an experience of twelve years manual training has had the effect to save those who are deficient in the literary quality, and in conjunction with the study of natural history, awakens their self-confidence and self-respect and stimulates them generally and that their regular work has been strengthened by its introduction."

This request to the board is not made in a captious spirit. Ann Arbor is the reputed "Athens of the West," and hence Ann Arbor schools should lead. Besides every citizen is aware that the city has grown because of the excellence of her schools and her great educational advantages, and can we afford to be in the rear of this car of progress? As property owners we are personally interested to have our schools as good as the best.

We want to make them so attractive that thousands of families as soon as they hear of them will at once move here, add to our population, increase our wealth and reduce our rate of taxation. Since the originator of this request is not a native of this community, and except for his nearly fifteen years residence in Ann Arbor, is a stranger to each member of the board, it is hoped that it will not be considered egotistical to add for information, lest it may be claimed that he has no right to indulge in this request from either knowledge or experience, that he educated himself for a teacher by his own labors, began in a Vermont district school at sixteen, "boarded round," but in a few years his work as a teacher was the only one specially noticed and commended in the annual report of the State Superintendent of Education, and, besides this, was his army experience above alluded to. He was, also, principal of a long established and still flourishing Vermont academy, and afterwards of a Massachusetts high school, where boys (no girls then thought of it) were fitted for any eastern college, and was, without solicitation on his part, as was the case in his appointment to organize and superintend the colored schools in New Orleans, above related, elected superintendent of all the schools in New Orleans and member the state board of education for Louisiana, and in a life now spanning more than half a century, his constant endeavor has been by business association and otherwise, having children of his own to educate, to keep in close contact with the most advanced educational ideas.

Arbor and her schools this year than anything else that can possibly be done. Every educational journal, and about every magazine in the country, will have articles upon it, all the newspapers will have paragraphs about it, and this advertising is what Ann Arbor needs today. The city has grown as a residence city; real estate has advanced steadily for years, and we can continue this growth; keep up the advance. Property has not reached its full limit of value in Ann Arbor. Real estate is much higher in Kalamazoo than here. In Madison, Wisconsin, lots no more advantageously situated than many on Washtenaw avenue, or on State street, south of the campus, or on Tappan street, sell for sixty dollars per front foot. Ann Arbor will continue to grow as a residence city if we keep our schools in the advance line. We are behind now. The University has manual training in its department of mining, civil, mechanical and electrical engineering, and these departments are popular, too, and everything is ripe for this advance in the city schools. We now have over seven hundred students in the high school. Let the fact be known that we are to introduce cooking lessons and physical culture this year, and then push forward the project and open a complete manual training school, well equipped in all its departments, at the earliest possible moment, and introduce the German, and the prediction is now hazarded that in less than two years we shall be compelled to provide necessary accommodations for at least one thousand high school pupils, and, of course, this increase in the high school will make a corresponding gain in the number in the University.

This request to the board is not made in a captious spirit. Ann Arbor is the reputed "Athens of the West," and hence Ann Arbor schools should lead. DETROIT, April 19.—A battle between 500 strikers and a posse of six officers under Sheriff Charles P. Collins, occurred at the eastern waterworks extension, just beyond Connor's creek, on the Grosse Pointe road, shortly before noon Wednesday. One of the strikers was shot dead, another was so badly wounded that he died a few hours after, and Sheriff Collins was so badly injured that his recovery is uncertain. MICHAEL KANORSKI, seriously wounded; taken home; residence unknown.

ANDREW BOERSIG, not seriously hurt; residence unknown.

FRED ALFRED, Superior street.

MICHAEL BARRA, 679 Hendrie street; missing; may be unknown dead man.

The news of the battle reached the city by telephone message about 12:30 p. m., and it was first reported that Sheriff Collins had been killed.

The news of the riot spread like wildfire over the city, and before 1 o'clock hundreds of men were on their way to the scene. The Jefferson avenue cars were loaded with excited men, anxious to reach the spot of conflict, and all sorts of conveyances were pressed into service to carry the throngs. In less than an hour after the battle, despite the fact that it is one and one-half miles beyond the end of Jefferson avenue car line, many hundreds had visited the spot.

To portray adequately the picture of the skirmish it is necessary to allude to the circumstances which led to the trouble.

The Poles asserted their displeasure over the new method of working by the piece on Tuesday, when they gathered in squads about the locality and not only refused to work themselves, but would not permit others to labor. The position of these men, who had been supported more or less by charity during the hard times, disdaining labor at a fair rate of compensation was not one to arouse sympathy in their cause, and while money is as close as it is, a strike was an affair to be regretted by honest, self-respecting workmen, who are quick to repudiate the conduct of the Poles.

Engineer Williams asked that the system be tried, assuring the men that they would find it would pay them as well as could be expected. But the Poles would not listen, and when a foreman made an attempt to assign work to a laborer who was willing to accept the conditions those who held back would interfere and prevail by numbers. The foreman strove to maintain order, but the will of the mob was law for the day.

At noon on Tuesday no less than 500 Poles were on the ground, apparently for the purpose of keeping their fellow-workmen out of the trenches, and all the time they kept repeating their demands of $1.50 a day, or 15 cents an hour. Then a few of the agitators started to cry that Engineer Williams was trying to line his own pockets at the expense of the poor workman, and this caused them to jabber in Polish at a great rate, holding little indignation meetings in groups.

But little is needed to fan the flame of a fancied wrong, and soon the Poles imagined that they were the victims of a conspiracy and much abused individuals generally. The engineer was then surrounded, and had it not been for the two foremen, who came to his assistance and spoke to the mob, a tragic struggle would undoubtedly have occurred then and there.

Engineer Williams drew his revolver and beat an orderly retreat and decided that it would be useless to attempt to gush the work that day. In the middle of the afternoon the mob, seeing there was no further chance for trouble, separated, but those who had observed the indications remarked that there would be trouble the next day, for the crowd had obviously reached a lawless condition. Nevertheless adequate provision for resisting the strikers was not made.

The crowd reassembled about day-break yesterday, and at 7 o'clock a formidable gathering of Poles, armed with their implements, were talking over their alleged wrongs and vowing to resist any attempt to put men at work at the new piece rate. The only officers called upon to keep the peace were four policemen, who were especially sworn in, and the casual spectator, gazing at the sullen mob, could not but wonder what would happen if a conflict should occur over the work. In spite of the threats of the strikers, 18 men were put to work upon a small creek beyond Connor's creek.

Engineer Williams reappeared, and, undeterred by the threatening attitude of the men, boldly stood his ground. The four patrolmen, acting as deputies, approached to his assistance, and the mob retreated. Meanwhile Foreman Cathey and his assistant called upon the eighteen laborers to begin work, but the mob pressed upon them, commanding the men not to use their shovels and picks.

Assistant Pramstaller, followed by one man, sprang into the ditch, while the others joined the mob, not desiring to work against the wishes of the lawless crowd. But no sooner was a shovel dug into the earth than there was a rush, a wild cry and in a few moments police and workmen were swept aside, fortunately uninjured. This was the real beginning of the serious trouble, and this conflict but whetted the desires of the mob, who were thereafter ready for any deed of violence when incited by a few agitators.

Late reports from the physicians attending Sheriff Collins say that he is resting easy and will recover.

Carl Powell's Remains Identified. PORTLAND, April 19.—The remains of Carl A. Powell, who suicided in Memphis last Saturday, arrived by Wednesday's express. They were shipped in an hermetically sealed iron casket. When the lid was removed it was found that the face was covered with cloths, and as the body could not be identified in that condition, these were removed by drilling a hole in the head of the casket and removing the covers with an iron hook.

The mother could not identify the remains then, though Memphis undertakers had been paid the usual fee for embalming them. It was only after the top of the casket had been pried open that the relatives were satisfied that the body was Carl's. A missing finger proved this beyond doubt.

Damages Awarded. MOUNT CLEMENS, April 19.—In the circuit court jury, in the case of Charles L. Welch vs. Addison Brainard, brought in a judgment for the plaintiff in the sum of $2,000. Brainard is a wealthy farmer in Armada township and Welch was his hired man. In December Welch was so injured by the fall of a silo in which he was working that soon after one leg was amputated. He alleged that there was faulty construction of the silo due to negligence of Brainard, and brought suit for damages, claiming $10,000. The case has been bitterly contested.

KNIGHT ON THE STAND

Tells Some of His Relations With Parsons.

DAMAGING TESTIMONY WAS GIVEN.

W. D. Knowlton, Manager of the A. W. Wright Lumber Company, Described the Bonds Taken From the Vault of Wells, Stone & Company—The Case Adjudged Until Saturday.

SAGINAW, April 18.—Promptly at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the trial of Newell B. Parsons was resumed. Fred Knight was placed upon the stand and his cross-examination commenced. Said that he had formerly resided in Saginaw and worked for D. Hardin & Company. Was now with Houseman, Donnelly & Jones of Grand Rapids.

He came here in February of his own accord to see Parsons, and requested that in case of his death he would look after his insurance and see that his mother received her rights. He came on Saturday and returned Monday, staying at Parsons' house. This visit was about Feb. 25. He knew, because he could tell on what date his handwriting ended on the cash book. Miss Marie Fallon was his assistant. Parsons said something about sending a package—did not know the contents when he received it, but did not suppose it to be a package of shirts.

Upon receiving the packages sent by Parsons he took them to the Michigan Trust company and placed them in a vault, paying $30 for the rent of a box. Did not know the contents of the packages until the following Tuesday, when he examined them in the presence of other parties.

When Parsons made the remark to him and a friend Saturday—"Never mind, boys, hang on to the end of the rope. If anybody asks you anything about me just tell them I made $10,000 since yesterday noon"—he supposed Parsons meant he intended to bring suit against the company for having detained him in police custody over night on Friday.

Up to this time he did not connect Parsons' arrest with the package, which had been sent him, but that night when he returned to Grand Rapids, he did, and when Sunday night a dispatch was shown him announcing the second arrest of Parsons he took the dispatch and showed it to Mr. Donnelly and John E. Moore, an attorney. On Monday he talked with Mr. Fitzgerald, an attorney. Lawyer Moore came to Saginaw and informed the Wells-Stone people about the express package in Monroe. Norman Doughty is his roommate and he had worked for Wells, Stone & Company, but he did not know how he came to leave them. He also knew about the package.

W. D. Knowlton, manager of the A. W. Wright Lumber company, knew that the bonds were kept in a tin box in the vault of Wells, Stone & Company. Their number ran from 1098 to 1502 and 1621 to 1680 inclusive. He had a memorandum of the number of each bond.

A. W. Wright, president of Wells, Stone & Company, said that they owned 403 Cincinnati, Saginaw & Mackinaw $1,000 bonds, but did not know the serial numbers. Each bond was signed by him. He had never authorized their removal from the office. He had no memorandum of the numbers of the bonds.

G. M. Stark, one of the attorneys for Wells, Stone & Company, testified that he went to Grand Rapids to look after the stolen bonds. Mr. Donnelly handed him a sealed envelope containing two keys to the safety deposit vault. He, in company with Mr. Donnelly, Mr. Doughty, Mr. Knight, Attorney Moore and President A. W. Wright, went to the Michigan Trust company's office, where the box was unlocked and the contents examined. It proved to contain 463 Chicago, Saginaw and Mackinaw bonds, to each of which were attached 50 coupons.

This closed the testimony for the state, and the case was adjourned until Saturday at 2 o'clock.

A BANK AT NASHVILLE ROBBED. The Burglars Secured Over $2,000 in Money and Stamps. NASHVILLE, April 18.—Burglars entered the building of the private banking firm of Barry & Downing Monday night and looted the vault of over $2,000 in gold and bills, and $430 worth of postage stamps belonging to the post-office.

The cashier, W. I. Marble, was out at the close of business and the vaults were closed by Mr. T. C. Downing, one of the proprietors, who by sheer forgetfulness left the two inner burglar proof doors of the vault unlocked, only fastening the outside door. The burglars entered through the back door of the building, knocked off the knob of the safe door, and drilled to the combination, which they threw out of place and entered.

The deed was not discovered until 8 o'clock in the morning, when the proprietors came to open up.

DE FRANCE HAS SQUEALED. The Noted Forger Confesses to the Chicago Robbery. JACKSON, April 18.—Jacob Newman of Chicago, whom De France swindled out of $28,000, has returned home after obtaining a confession from the noted forger. He was aided in the work by A. J. Mills of Kalamazoo and Powell De France of Cincinnati. The confession is said to implicate several Detroiters in a scheme to fleece a number of Michigan capitalists. Newman refused to divulge the names of the conspirators, and Powell De France and Mr. Mills were reticent. A prison official, who overheard a portion of the interviews refuses to talk. De France said that statements he had made to Newman would "free De France and put others in the pen," but who "others" are he would not say.

A Convict Escapes. JACKSON, April 18.—Henry Schutt, sent from Hillsdale March 20, 1894, on a 15 months' sentence for larceny, escaped from the prison Tuesday. He was employed outside of the walls, and ran away when the guard wasn't looking. He is still at large.
