DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

A BICYCLE THIEF NEATLY CAUGHT.

Deputy Peterson Does a Clever Piece of Detective Work—Those Census Enumerators.

Census Enumerators.

It looks as though the council would have to reconsider its action of last Monday evening in the matter of the appointment of census enumerators or allow the appointment to be made by the governor. The law plainly declares that one enumerator in chief shall be appointed for each assessment district. As many assistant enumerators may be appointed, however, as are deemed necessary in order to complete the work in the prescribed time. As the matter now stands, unless the action of the council is reconsidered before next Monday, the appointment of these officials will devolve on the governor.

The New Recitation Building.

Five or six weeks will see the contract work on the new recitation building practically completed. The interesting question now is as to who will be assigned to the new quarters. The building committee has decided upon the following arrangement, subject of course to change. On lower floor, room 1, s. w. cor., Prof. Beman; R. 2, south, Prof. Dewey; R. 3, s. e. cor., Prof. D'Ooge; R. 4, n. e. cor., Prof. Hinsdale; R. 5, n., not taken, probably Prof. Russell; R. 6, n. w. cor., Prof. Pettee. On upper floor, the space on the south side which below is divided into three rooms is here thrown into one large lecture room to be used as room 24 is at present. It will be used most by Prof. Hudson and Prof. Adams. Room 7 on the front over the main entrance, will be used by Prof. Hudson; R. 10, n. e. cor., Prof. Demmon; R. 11, n., Prof. Walter; and R. 12, n. w. cor., Prof. Adams. During the summer the furniture and other necessities will be put in and the building will be ready for use next fall.

High School Burned.

For the second time in 20 years Ypsilanti has lost her high school building by fire. An alarm was turned in at 1:50 yesterday afternoon and by 4 o'clock the building was practically in ruins.

The pupils had just got fairly seated for the afternoon's work when the first intimation of the fire came in the shape of a terrific crash in the chapel which frightened everyone. An investigation by those in charge of the school soon discovered the fact that the entire ceiling of the chapel was on fire. With the utmost calmness the teachers were notified quietly of the condition of affairs and told to exercise the greatest caution in getting the children out of the building. They were told that there was plenty of time and there was no danger. Some of the pupils were rendered frantic, however, having previously been startled by the crash of the falling ceiling and some jumped from the windows. It is to the great credit of the teachers in charge, however, that as good order was maintained and that more of a panic did not prevail and more were not injured.

As soon as the children learned the cause of the trouble the most frantic scene imaginable ensued. Most of the small children as they got out of danger and commenced to realize what might have been ran hither and thither crying at the top of their voices. While the larger ones were so excited as to render them incapable of rendering any assistance. The good people of the neighborhood turned out with a will and taking the children into their houses quieted them down as well as possible.

Both fire departments made good runs to the scene No. 2 reaching the fire first. The Ypsilanti Dress Stay Co. hose cart under charge of Ike Davis, was the first hose on the scene, however, and performed splendid work. Ike going right up into the building. The roof meantime had begun to blaze fiercely and when the hose was coupled it was found that the pressure was inadequate and the streams hardly reached the fire. To complicate matters the hose burst three times.

Soon the tower caught fire and this was quickly followed by the burning of the entire second story.

By this time the mothers had learned the location of the fire and were hurrying to and fro in search for their loved ones. It was an exciting scene and became very affecting as mothers found their children were safe.

The fire progressed slowly destroying the building foot by foot the three streams seem powerless to check the fire.

At 2:45 the Ann Arbor Hose Co., with Chief Sibley, Moses Seabolt and Driver Max Wittinger arrived. They had made the run from Ann Arbor in just 38 minutes and had a stream playing on the fire in just 40 minutes from the time they had left the hose house. The team showed the effects of its hard run being covered with foam. It was the greys that made the run.

With the assistance of the Ann Arbor Co. the fire was got under control by 4 o'clock and the walls are left standing perfectly sound. It is thought that they can be used again. The building was insured for $26,000 and was valued at $45,000.

The following were injured: Olive Collins, jumped from second story, broken leg. It is reported that Stella McClenahan jumped from the second story, but we are unable to learn. Robert Ward jumped from second story and is unhurt. It is reported that a lady teacher jumped from first story and sprained her ankle.

Supt. Whitney says that he does not know what provisions will be made for continuing the school. The Fourth and Fifth ward children will meet tomorrow at their respective schools. He said, "I do not think, as many claim, that the fire caught from combustion in the laboratory. I think it caught from a spark in the ceiling of the chapel. There was a small fire in the building this morning."

Stole a Bicycle.

Deputy-sheriff Peterson is gaining a reputation as a sleuth which is making his name a terror to evildoers in this section. During the past year he has ferreted out a number of mysterious crimes and he has been ably supported by the other officers of the county who have assisted him, noticeably Sheriff Brenner and Deputy-sheriff McCabe.

Ex-sheriff Dwyer and Sheriff Brenner have both made reputations as detectors of horse thieves, but Deputy Peterson is making a specialty of bicycles. The Argus readers well remember how last year Peterson traced stolen bicycles and finally found the articles he was looking for taken to pieces and hidden all over a hundred acre farm near Mooreville, but when he had finished his work not a piece was missing and the thieves were safely behind the bars of the Washtenaw county jail. Yesterday, Peterson and McCabe added to their laurels, recovered a bicycle which had been stolen the night before, and have the thief now in jail with a certainty of Jackson prison before him. The circumstances of the theft and the arrest of the thief are as follows:

On Wednesday, D. F. Lyons, a literary student who rooms on Thayer street, received by express a fine new Warwick wheel which he had purchased. It was a beauty and in the evening he mounted the wheel and rode down to call on a young lady friend, leaving the bicycle in front of No. 23 Thompson street.

When the call was finished, Lyons found that his bicycle had been stolen, and no trace of it could be found. The officers were notified, and at once set to work on the case. Watching at the depots, it was found that the stolen wheel had been checked together with a trunk and valise for Mt. Pleasant, by a young man, and as the morning train on the T. & A. A. was pulling out, the officers and Agent Greenwood took the bicycle off the train. Word was telegraphed to Howell to arrest the man who had checked the wheel, but as he had undoubtedly seen the officers take the wheel off, he changed his plans. The man had purchased a ticket for Mt. Pleasant, but to escape identification when the conductor called for his ticket he did not use it, but paid his fare to Howell. Between this city and Howell the man left the train, and catching the south-bound train returned to Ann Arbor at noon. He was at once identified by the officers, who followed him to Glasser's restaurant and there took him in custody.

At the jail the prisoner gave his name as Irving W. Hicks. He is a member of the junior class of the pharmacy department, and his home is at Sherman, a small station near the northern terminus of the T. & A. A. In his pockets were found the cash fare check, the unused ticket to Mt. Pleasant and a mileage book, showing that the paying of his fare was a blind. Hicks is a well-dressed, quiet appearing fellow, and took his arrest to heart. He acknowledges checking the wheel, but says he met a former acquaintance who asked him to take the wheel north for him. He says that he was not very well acquainted with the man, but that his name is Muir. The officers put but little faith in his story and have many clues which point to Hicks as the guilty party. They think that other parties are implicated, and it is probable that one or more other arrest will follow.

The Faculty Concert.

The faculty concert given last evening in Frieze Memorial Hall of the University School of Music was well attended in spite of the heavy rain. One of the most pleasing programs ever rendered was given. While the music was of an exceedingly high order it was of the kind that ordinary mortals could enjoy and understand and think of with great pleasure. The members of the faculty are all artists and it is difficult in a short paragraph to do justice to the concert. Mr. J. E. Schmaal played the Minuet by Paderewski with wonderful expression. The ballad and polonaise by Mr. Herman Zeitz was extremely difficult and played in so masterly a manner that it seemed to be a simple effort. Miss Loudon's singing and the singing of Miss Bailey and Mr. S. R. Mills is always excellent and last night was no exception.

Cooley on Free Institutions.

At this time when the Coxe movement is engaging so much attention from the public and press, an address from a constitutional authority like Judge Cooley is refreshing.

Yesterday afternoon, the venerable Judge addressed a large audience of students and citizens on the subject of "Free Institutions" applying his remarks more particularly to the constitutional questions involved in Coxe's march on Washington. In the course of his remarks the Judge said:

"Our government is representative, not a pure democracy because it is (1) on too large a scale to be a pure democracy; and (2) from the very foundation of our government it has been representative.

From the earliest day the chief duty of the citizen has been to vote for some representative and when this was done he ceased almost entirely to be a unit in political power.

If a large class of the people become dissatisfied with the manner of conducting the government, what then? Suppose ten thousand in every state should arise to appeal to congress and March on Washington for that purpose to demand a uniform rate of wages, an eight-hour working day, and that the government shall employ the unemployed in improving the common roads of the country.

They start out voicing their demands in the name of the people, whereas they represent but a small fraction of the whole people. The authority of the citizen is to elect representatives and when this is done, that is all he can do. The army, so-called, has no power to coerce one single representative at the seat of the government, and so far as the constitutional power is concerned, the representative alone may determine how he shall act.

The petitioner cannot go to congress in person with his petition. The petition must be presented by the representatives themselves. Among the enumerated powers there is not one that covers the subject. When they ask the federal government to make roads they ask something beyond the pale of federal authority. It is the state that makes the roads. The controversy over the Cumberland road many years ago settled this principle. In every case where federal authority has been called in for like purposes, some argument was put forward claiming that what was proposed was to carry out some federal authority. Suppose what was demanded was purely national, like the coining of money, even then this demand from without would have no binding force. When there is an attempt to compel the exercise of government power otherwise than as provided in the constitution, it is a direct attack on liberty itself. The people could not make the laws even if the legislative authorities would attempt to turn over the legislative machinery to them. To attempt to subvert the recognized authorities and their power, is a step toward the overthrow of our government, and one step toward revolution. What is taking place now may be a farce, but it seems to me that it may end in civil war."

They Drank Water.

The members of the common council, together with the city physician, board of health and representatives of the press, visited the pumping station, wells and reservoir of the Ann Arbor Water company, on Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of inspecting the same and viewing the improvements that have been made during the past several months, under the direction of Receiver Hale and Superintendent Hutzel. The party was accompanied by these two officials and Messrs. C. E. Greene and C. E. Hiscock, of the company, and six carriages were provided by the company to carry the inspecting party to the point of interest.

Arriving at the pumping station a great change was at once discovered. Several of the party had occasion last summer to visit the works officially, almost daily, and at that time reported that no more abused or ill treated expensive machinery could be found in all Michigan. Now, everything about the station is in perfect order, the vast engines running almost noiselessly, and no more smoke or odor about the place than can be found in ones parlor. Under the careful supervision of the chief engineer, Mr. Reginald Spokes, every piece of machinery has been placed in perfect repair, thus preventing a shortage of water on account of inability to pump it, which was the main difficulty last year. In the boiler-room the old oil burners have been replaced by modern ones, which result in a saving of several carloads of oil each month. Realizing that our citizens do not enjoy the mixture of oil and water, such as has been several times given them, a large iron storage tank has replaced the old leaking wooden affairs that were formerly used.

The great question of the party was relative to the supply of pure spring water and what the company had done to increase the supply. A visit to the gallery showed a dozen or more wells spouting full streams from pipes varying from two to six inches and extending seventy feet into the earth. Last season but four of these wells were running, it being supposed that the others were dead, but by boring out the pipes and taking out barrels of sand from each, they are now flowing better than ever, more than doubling the supply from this source. More than double the amount of water is also being secured from the Allen springs on the opposite side of the river, several extensions having been made into the hills and numerous springs tapped. The water from both sources is cold and clear and without contamination of any kind. The supply appears to be ample and unless our citizens are criminally wasteful in the use of water this summer there will be little of the trouble experienced last summer.

At the reservoir was noticed one of the greatest improvements. Instead of finding a foot of muddy slime, as was there last season, the visitors found the reservoir filled to the top of the stone with clear, crystal water. The engines are now kept running but about twelve hours a day and have no trouble in keeping the reservoir filled. The visitors were treated to a foot race between Captain Hiscock and Alderman Ferguson, in which the militia came in second best, after which the officials took the carriages and returned to the city, fully satisfied that the company has made every effort to prevent further trouble with the water supply and that they have been successful.

Permanent Good Long and Discouraging Illness With Symptoms of Consumption All Medicines Fail Except Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: 'Gentlemen:—Ten years ago, my wife's health began to fail. I consulted a physician, and for one year she remained under his care and took all the medicine prescribed, but still grew worse. We then consulted other physicians, and she doctored off and on for four years without any improvement. As her mother died of consumption, and I expected my wife would go the same way. However, feeble as my wife was and though

Given Up as Incurable by the physician, I could not give up hope, and she still clung to life. Then we began to try different medicines. We found that of all the preparations taken, a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla had seemed to do her the most good, so she determined to take that medicine again. I bought six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and while taking this lot she seemed to get better. This was so encouraging, after so Long and Discouraging Illness, that she continued with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Her health has improved and she has ceased to complain. She is still taking the medicine, and feels so much better and stronger that we believe her to be in perfect health. Altogether, Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures we have spent $28 for Hood's, a very small amount compared to the big bills in those four years, and considering the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has done her permanent good." JOHN L. NICHOLS, No. 228 Springfield Ave., Canton, O.

A BIG RUN. Minneapolis Mills Put Out 206,380 Barrels of Flour Last Week.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 3.—The Northwestern Miller says: The Minneapolis mills made another big run last week, grinding 206,380 barrels of flour against 182,805 the previous week and 184,615 for the corresponding time in 1893.

Four less mills, representing 12,000 barrels daily, are running this week, partly owing to the railroad strike. Low freights have been an inducement of accumulating stocks at Buffalo and other distributing points. No improvement in flour trade. Orders booked last week approximate 120,000 barrels. Export trade is largely confined to bakers. The United Kingdom appears to be quite free buyers and the very low freight rates facilitate transactions. Direct export shipments, 48,900 barrels against 38,700 barrels the previous week.

The Salt That's All Salt

Is the salt every one should use. The impurities in the other kinds are useless, of course, but dangerous also. The time, especially, is the cause of much kidney disease.

Diamond Crystal Salt

Is much the purest, and therefore the best salt known. Made from the best brine, by the best process, with the best grain, and sold in the best package—an air-tight and non-absorbent box.

The fact that salt is cheap is no reason why you should not have pure salt. Ask for Diamond Crystal, give it a fair trial. Write us for further particulars.

Our Dairy Salt is the standard of excellence, and no butter maker should be without it. Address: DIAMOND CRYSTAL SALT CO., St. Clair, Mich.

REMEMBER there are hundreds of brands of White Lead (so called) on the market that are not White Lead, composed largely of Barytes and other cheap materials. But the number of brands of genuine Strictly Pure White Lead is limited. The following brands are standard "Old Dutch" process, and just as good as they were when you or your father were boys:

"Anchor," "Morley," "Eckstein," "Shipman," "Armstrong & McKelvy," "Southern," "Beymer-Bauman," "Red Seal," "Davis-Chambers," "Collier," "Fahnestock."

FOR COLORS—National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors, a one-pound can to a 25-pound keg of Lead and mix your own paints. Saves time and annoyance in matching shades, and insures the best paint that it is possible to put on wood.

Send us a postal card and get our book on paints and color-card, free; it will probably save you a good many dollars.

IMPORTANT TO SUFFERERS.

How You May Obtain a Lasting Cure From Piles.—No Surgical Operation, No Pain, Trifling Expense—A Simple Harmless Remedy but It Does the Work.

There are some people who have piles as regularly and frequently as other people have colds. Any little bowel trouble will bring them on, any extra exertion, as in lifting, will produce them, and in fact will often appear without any apparent provocation. Piles, however, is much more serious than a cold, as the tendency is always to grow worse until the trouble becomes deep seated and chronic, or develops into some fatal rectal disease.

While there are many pile remedies which give relief, yet there is but one which not only gives instant relief but at the same time makes a permanent cure, and that is the well known Pyramid Pile Cure.

This remedy is composed of simple, harmless, vegetable ingredients, but combine so effectively and act so promptly and thoroughly that it cures every form of piles whether itching, blind, bleeding or protruding. In long standing cases the Pyramid Pile Cure has proven to be the only certain cure except a surgical operation, and its advantages over an operation are many, as it is painless, causes no delay or interference with daily occupation and, last but not least, is cheaper than any surgical operation could possibly be, costing but a dollar a package at any drug store. The cases that the Pyramid Pile Cure will not reach are so few that physicians are doing away with operations for piles and depending on this cheap but effective remedy to accomplish a complete cure, and it never disappoints except in cases beyond the reach of medical skill.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is prepared by the Pyramid Drug Co., of Albion, Mich., and sold by druggists everywhere at one dollar per package. Each package contains a treatise on cause and cure of piles, together with testimonials from every section of this country.

STATE ITEMS.

A company of Coxey's army has been organized at Standish with 15 members.

The hardware stores of Adrian have formed a closing compact, and from May 1 will lock doors and shut off gas at 8 o'clock.

To counteract the influence of saloons, the Broadway Baptist church at Bay City has opened reading rooms, which will be kept open every evening.

County Agent J. R. Bennett of Lenawee county took Albert Haltz of Adrian to the Lansing reform school on Wednesday. He is a lad of 14, who persisted in jumping upon cars and is not willing to submit to parental control.

A bed of bituminous coal of considerable thickness has been discovered on some land just north of Jackson. It is hard, of a fine quality, comparatively free from slate, and is one of the largest deposits unearthed in Jackson's coal fields.

Some of the citizens of Bancroft have taken active steps relative to Sunday saloon business and window screens. A committee has been appointed to back city officers in enforcing the law. One saloon has already gone out of business.

The annual meeting of the State Firemen's association will be held at Hastings May 16 and 17. Everything is being done by the citizens of that place to make the occasion one long to be remembered by everyone that participates in the festivities.

The two boys, Boone and McKee, who escaped from the reform school last Sunday night by tying sheets together and then letting themselves down from the window, were captured at Portland and taken back to the school.

THEIR PLANS FRUSTRATED.

A Scheme to Use Dynamite in a Coke Plant Discovered.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Pa., May 8.—The first attempt to introduce dynamite in behalf of the coke strikers was frustrated here, thanks to the vigilance of General Superintendent William Ramsay of Southwest Connellsville Coke company and the prompt action of Sheriff McCann. A week ago Mr. Ramsay got reliable information that the strikers intended blowing up his company's "A" plant at Morewood. Mr. Ramsay at once consulted with the sheriff and as a result suspected parties were put under the closest surveillance, which ended in locating them while putting the finishing touches on the bomb in the woods on Sand Hill, a half mile north of town, and less than a mile from the shaft which the infernal machine was intended to destroy.

The sheriff took six of his most trusted deputies on duty at Morewood shortly before 3 o'clock and drove to the woods. The little party quickly surrounded the suspected point, closed in, and the astounded quartet of plotters were handcuffed prisoners the next moment. The bomb, a metal ball wire, covered and filled with dynamite, was found hidden in a pile of rails and was taken along with the prisoners to the Greensburg jail. Its weight is given at 20 odd pounds. The prisoners are Edward Davis, a younger brother of the imprisoned United Mine Workers' president, William McCracken, both of this place, the latter not yet of age, and two foreigners. Davis and McCracken claim they had no hand in making the bomb, and were present by accident.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

FRIDAY, MAY 4, 1894.

The Coxe craze came through its first encounter with the law last Tuesday, considerably disfigured. With its leaders hustled off the capitol grounds and placed under arrest, the commonwealth cut a sorry figure. The result was the only one possible and might have been foreseen.

No great reform was ever carried to a successful issue without encountering strenuous opposition and willful misrepresentation. No democrat, therefore, should be discouraged by the apparent reverses of the present. Tariff reform is sure to come. An issue of such vital importance will never be settled until it is settled right.

The senate is invariably more profligate in the expenditure of the public money than the house of representatives. The senate is composed largely of millionaires, who, under our system of placing the whole public burden on consumption, largely escape taxation. An income tax would cause the persons to take an interest in the economical administration of the government.

One of the arguments most frequently urged against the income tax by its opponents is that it will promote perjury. But what an argument that is against a tax that is recognized, on its merits, as the most equitable and just of taxes. For fear the rich men of the country will commit perjury, if called upon to bear their portion of the government expenses, they must be excused from paying! Such tenderness is most touching.

The third Ohio congressional district held a special election Tuesday to fill the vacancy in the house caused by the death of Hon. Geo. W. Houk. It was carried by the democrats with the usual majority, Paul J. Sorg being elected over his republican competitor, E. G. Rathbone, by 3,000 majority. In only one of the special elections, held since 1892, have the democrats lost a seat to which a democrat was then elected. The loss occurred in one of the New York city districts.

Last Monday occurred the death of Senator Stockbridge, and already the candidates for his shoes are too numerous to mention. If Governor Rich does not take to the woods at once, he will undoubtedly be overwhelmed with petitions in favor of the various gentlemen who are "in the hands of their friends." Inasmuch as our farmer governor believes that the farmers are not duly represented in the halls of congress, would not the occasion be a proper one for issuing a commission to the farmer of Gilead?

The whole Coxe movement from the first has been handled, so far as municipal and state authorities are concerned, in a most cowardly and makeshift fashion. These "industrial armies" have been fed by one municipality and then handed on to the next, and practically the same course has been pursued by the state authorities. They have not been fed and assisted because of sympathy or commiseration for their condition, but simply to shirk an unpleasant responsibility. This method of dealing with public responsibilities is altogether too prominent with officials of all grades at present.

The special election in the third Ohio congressional district is significant. The district was carried by McKinley last year by 500. The campaign was waged solely upon the tariff issue by the choice of both republicans and democrats. The strongest kind of an appeal was made to the voters to define clearly their position at the present time on the question of tariff reform. The result was a magnificent victory for the sane policy, which swept the district in 1892. It indicates that the vote of that time was enlightened and deliberate and that the voters are still of the same faith. That the people should be found steadfast in their convictions in spite of the most desperate attempts of the discredited g. o. p. to break down the results of the victory of two years ago, aided by the effects of one of the greatest financial and industrial crises in our history, is unusually encouraging. It indicates that the odious McKinley system of taxation must give place to a more equitable and just distribution of the public burdens. If the senate was capable of learning wisdom from this result, it would respond with the prompt passage of the measure for the enactment of which the present majority was commissioned.

CAUSE AND EFFECT.

If one were to believe the republican papers and some of the speeches being made in the United States Senate, one would be led to the conclusion that the hard times through which we have been passing were a dispensation of Providence visited upon American workmen for their indorsement of Cleveland and the Chicago platform instead of Harrison and the Minneapolis platform. Even David B. Hill, the New York apostate, conveys this idea and voluntarily puts himself upon the republican side. Depressing times have their logical causes the same as those of unusual prosperity. Neither are brought about by a freak of fate any more than they are by a dispensation of the Almighty. Cause and effect are prominent and easily understood in the remarkable depression which affected the entire country last fall and winter. Remarkable because they illustrate as never before the power of the manufacturing and mining oligarchy, as represented by the McKinley bill and the Sherman silver purchasing act—two evils whose aim was the robbery of the producing classes. As soon as there was a prospect of both of these nefarious acts being repealed, they combined to force an industrial and financial panic. This rare and unfortunate convergence of influence brought about an unexpected and phenomenal order of things which grew in stature and potency, and succeeded so well in their efforts that hundreds of thousands of workmen were driven from work to idleness, poverty and destitution before the machinery of the government could be regulated to overcome the conspiracy. The fact that several interests can combine and lay hands with such force upon the well being of every laboring man in the country is something never before realized. Such a knowledge of fact may at least afford a premonition of impending evils and enable the American workman to form an approximate estimate of the possibilities and probabilities of the future if these several conditions should remain unchanged. The Sherman bill has been repealed, but the greater of these two evils, the McKinley bill, has found a lodgement in the senate, notwithstanding it is said to be democratic, and the administration is being taunted as being unable to dislodge or remedy it. The monopolistic interests do not seem to realize that their prosperity depends entirely upon the prosperity of the farmer, and in view of the fact that the farmer must enter into open competition with the world for the sale of his products, his own prosperity demands an open market for the purchase of his necessities.

The relation of the manufacturing interests to the laboring classes has been a drain upon their resources and a drain upon their energies. How long before full recovery from this paralysis, even after the passage of the Wilson bill, should it pass, is a question which depends entirely upon the recuperative powers of the laboring and producing classes. If, however, the republican plan should carry, and the Wilson bill be defeated, the convalescence will be laborious and painful, and attended by much suffering and embarrassment.—Monroe democrat.

Washington Correspondence. Special Capitol News Co. Correspondence. WASHINGTON, D. C., May 2, 1894.

The treasury department has just given its approval to a bill now pending in the house, that Congressman Richardson believes should be amended in at least one item, if it is to pass. There are in the country thirty-nine customs districts in which the annual expenses to the government are far in excess of the receipts for customs, and the bill proposes to abolish all those districts and consolidate them with those nearest by. Among the districts thus proposed to be wiped out is Grand Haven, and to prevent this wiping out, so far as that city is concerned, is the task Mr. Richardson has undertaken, and which he feels quite confident he can accomplish.

The figures at the treasury department show that during the fiscal year of 1893 the total receipts of the thirty-nine offices was only $5,097, while the expenses of running them footed up to the snug sum of $60,601. The expenses at Grand Haven were about $5,000 and the receipts only about $200, so the cost of collecting each dollar was something over $25.

The recent establishment of an extensive plate glass works and several other large factories and industries, has so far increased the imports at that port that during the nine months of the present fiscal year, the receipts have been one-half as great as the expenditures. Mr. Richardson feels confident from this showing that the district will soon be self-sustaining and should not be abolished. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Hamlin assures Mr. Richardson that when he recommended the passage of the bill he did not know all the facts, and that he will go over the papers as now presented to him, and if he finds he was wrong as to Grand Haven, will see to it that the bill is amended so as to leave that district as it now stands.

Congressman Griffin has studied out a scheme by which he believes the civil service law can be made much more practical than it is at present. He thinks the departments should be filled with clerks as the cadets are appointed to the military and naval academies. He would have a certain number of places in the departments assigned to each district, and whenever the quota fell short he would have the congressman notified of that fact. Then the member could select someone to take the vacancy. This plan, he thinks would do away with much cumbersome machinery, would afford congressmen an opportunity of knowing just how much patronage they might expect to control, would save a great deal of annoyance now consequent upon the search for office, and would in every way be a desirable reform. Whether or not Mr. Griffin is really serious enough to make the attempt to amend the law according to his ideas, time alone will tell. He is hardly likely to succeed, however, if he tries.

Mr. Burrows had a narrow escape from serious injury, if not instant death, a few days ago. He jumped from a cable car while in motion, and his foot caught in the car step, throwing him headlong to the pavement. He marvelously escaped with only a slight bruise to his right arm and shoulder.

Congressman Linton has accepted an invitation from a G. A. R. post at Richmond, Va., to speak in that city on decoration day.

Dr. Thomas has also promised to make a speech on the same day at Hastings, one of the live little cities up in his district.

Three more performances will be given, this evening and tomorrow evening and tomorrow afternoon.

A Mother's Answer.

EDITOR ARGUS:—A communication in Argus signed "Woman" should be answered. It seems that the lady has not kept herself informed. Women first moved for teaching cooking and sewing in the public schools of Boston, and persisted till it was introduced and Mrs. Mary A. Livesmore says: "Industrial training (including cooking and sewing) has captured the heart of the American people and it will be made part of every system of popular education, will include girls as well as boys, young women as well as young men." It is not the object of the public school to teach girls cooking lessons to make expert hotel cooks, or sewing to make dressmakers, and no garments are made to sell in the public school. The object is education, and what parent will not take pride that their daughters can, on graduating in our high school, design, cut and make their graduating dresses and prepare and serve a dinner for the school board that would be a credit to Hangstefer or any professional caterer? And what young man in search of a wife would not highly regard a young lady thus cultured? Let mothers do their best at home, but how many mothers in Ann Arbor, for instance, can teach their daughters how to design a dress or prepare a soup to be served as a first course at a dinner? In how many homes in Ann Arbor are the latter, so delicious, so appetizing, that they are always served first at every first class hotel dinner, now regularly enjoyed? Sixty years ago there were no colleges for women, then came Oberlin, Vaesar, Wellesley, Smith, Mt. Holyoke and Bryn Maur, all but the first exclusively for women, besides thirty-six colleges and great universities are educating women. Then it was thought by men that the home would suffer because of this college or brain education for women. Now a woman in Ann Arbor under the shadow of our great university, where over 500 girls are acquiring themselves so honorably that the foundation of society are unshaken, trembles for the home because the hand is to be educated as well as the brain! But the world moves and homes are purer and brighter and more elevated as women become better educated.

His simplicity of style and his admirable command of English reminds me of Phillips, while his speech at times scintillates with the wit or glow with the pathos of Gough; at the same time Woolley's speeches are marked by a breadth of statesmanship which neither of those great orators equalled. Mr. Woolley is the most brilliant and helpful temperance advocate on the American platform today."

Reports have been current of a serious typhoid fever epidemic in this city but a careful investigation fails to show any great number of cases.
