FRIDAY, MAY 11, 1894.

If the compromise tariff bill is to become law, it should be with the distinct understanding that nothing better is possible at this time. No other defense of the measure would be possible.

The political status of the senior senator from New York is still in doubt. He is reported as spending much time consulting with republican senators. They will undoubtedly use him if they can for their own partisan ends, but they will hold him in hearty contempt at the same time.

On Wednesday, "Gen." Coxey appeared before the house committee on labor and stated his case After listening to him the committee decided to recommend an investigation of the commonweal movement by a committee of both houses. Coxey was much pleased.

The democrats of the third Ohio congressional district had the courage of their convictions and made their fight squarely on the issue of tariff reform. They denounced Senator Brice for his treachery. They won a magnificent victory. There should be a lesson in this for democrats the country over. This indicates that the principle of tariff reform is still potent with the people, and that the republicans will have no walk-over this fall as they have The prostration has continued to this been boasting.

The San Francisco Examiner sent out requests to the chairmen of the committees asking their opinion of the course of David B. Hill to the cause of tariff reform. Twentyeight of them responded. One only defended his course, three would GOOD PROSPECTS FOR SILVER. not commit themselves, and twentyfour condemned his course unreservedly. The frank avowal by these wary politicians of their views is pretty strong evidence that they regard Hill as being out of the range of democratic possibilities for 1896.

Once more Illinois is moving in the direction of nominating a candidate for the United States senatorship by the people as representated in the state convention. Her past experience with senators whose candidacy was thus brought before the legislature has been most satisfactory. Two of the brainiest men who have ever represented that state in the senate were put in nomination by the people. By this method the undue influence of money and great corporations on the legislature is in large degree eliminated. It would be quite imof senatorial candidates for mere wealth to reach the senate through corrupt cabals in the legislature. upon the people for their position, would be compelled in some degree at least to give heed to the mandates of public opinion. The senate in executing the popular demands.

There seems to be a considerable agitation in Germany in favor of the rehabilitation of silver. The advocates of bimetalism in that country have submitted to the imperial currency commission a number of propositions looking toward a satisfactory solution of the silver problem. They claim that had it not been for the non-commital attitude of the German delegates to the late international conferences at Paris and ment would have been reached which would have avoided the present unsatisfactory condition of the silver market. They desire that PUBLISHED EVERY TUESDAY AND FRIDAY for $1.00 per year strictly in advance.

While these efforts will not be crowned with immediate success they contain much of hope as pointing to the present drift of European sentiment and the ultimate right solution of the silver

"followed a collapse, with consequences faintly indicated by the fact that imports from the United States alone fell in a single year from $8,700,000 to $2,600,000. The whole cheap money structure crumbled, bankruptcy was all but universal, and industry as well as trade was brought to a standstill. day, and the two or three violent revolutions which have already resulted directly from the inflation folly bid fair to be followed by still another."

The fiatists in our own country various democratic state central might learn a valuable lesson from this experience of our neighbor, if they would study it in the spirit of teachableness.

Last week an international bimetallic conference was held in London, under the auspices of the Bimetallic League. Among the delegates were such financiers of world-wide reputation as the Right Hon. W. Lidderdale, exgovernor of the Bank of England; A. J. Balfour, conservative leader of the house of commons; Dr. Arendt, member of the Prussian diet; Henri Cernuschi, of Paris; and Mr. Vanderberg, president of the Bank of the Netherlands. There were four hundred delegates present. That such a conference, numbering among its delegates some of the ablest statesmen and financiers of Europe, all earnest advocates of bimetallism should meet at this time to consider the question of the rehabitation of silver, is most significant. The speeches and letters read were not less so. The address possible under popular endorsement of Mr. Balfour was most surprising, coming from so able and prominent a representative of England, the country whose influence has been These senators who are dependent most powerful heretofore in preventing any international agreement in the work of rehabilitating silver. He said that Great Britain "ought to enter into an agreement with the would thus be brought into more countries of the world for a bimetresponsive relations to the people allic joint standard. Great is the and there would be less dilatoriness responsibility of those who keep England in stupid, selfish isolation on this great question."

Dr. Arendt said that bimetallism was making progress in Germany, and declared that should another international conference be held now the result would be very different from the result of the Brussel's meeting. A letter was also read from M. Magnin, governor of the Bank of France, in the course of which he said:

"The silver question imposes itself more every day upon financiers. The whole world requires its solution in its Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

> STANDING IN THEIR OWN LIGHT.

Through all the juggling to which the Wilson bill has been subjected at the hands of the senate, the income tax feature has remained practically intact. The howl with which the wealthy men of the country greeted the proposition when it was first proposed to make it a part of the new revenue bill was intended to frighten it out of existence, but it would not down, and it has continued to become more and more popular with each succeeding day. Now it may be considered as settled that it will be a feature of any revenue bill that is passed, for it is certain that none can be passed without it. The latest reports from Washington indicate that, while it John Lawson upon which he will build may be modified in some of its provisions relating to its enforcement and limited as to the time of its continuance, the principle will not be surrendered.

The undoubted fact that public sentiment is rapidly crystalizing around an income tax, as a feature of a much needed reform in our national system of taxation, would indicate that men of wealth are standing in their own light in offering such obstinate and uncompromising opposition to so moderate a measure of tardy justice as that contained in the Wilson bill. By assuming such an attitude toward so moderate a measure, they invite a popular rush to a far more offensive and radical one in the immediate future. The people are thoroughly aroused over the flagrant and long continued injustice of raising the entire revenue for the support of the national government from taxes on consumption. They realize as never before the wrong done in compelling men to pay not in proportion to their ability, but according to their wants and necessities. They have come to understand that under the indirect system of taxaation, those who have little pay a large percentage, and those who of their gains for the support of and closing Tuesday government. SURROUNDED BY MYSTERY!

A Great Mistake.

A recent discovery is that headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion of the mind, etc., are due to derangement of the nerve centers which supply the brain with nerve force; that indigestion, dyspepsia, neuralgia, wind in stomach, etc., arise from the derangement of the nerve centers supplying these or-ment of the nerve centers supplying these organs with nerve fluid or force. This is likewise true of many diseases of the heart and lungs. The nerve system is like a telegraph system, as will be seen by the accompanying cut. The little white lines are the nerves which convey the nerve force from the nerve centers to every part of the body, just as the electric current is conveyed along the telegraph wires to ever y station, large or small. Ordinary physicians fail to regard this fact; instead of treating the nerve centers for the cause of the disorders arising therefrom they tre at the part affected.

Franklin Miles,

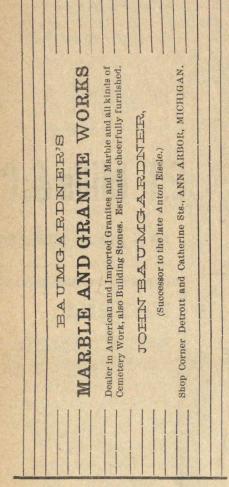

Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., the specialist and specialist and student of nervous diseases, and author of many noted treatises on the latter subject, long since realized the truth of the first statement, and his Restorative Nervine is prepared on that principle. Its success in curing all diseases arising from derangement of the nervous system is wonderful, as the thousands of unsolicited testimonials in possession of the company manufacturing the remedy amply prove.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a reliable remedy for all nervous diseases, such as headache, nervous debility, prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, it per bottle, six bottles for Sc, express prepaid.

If it should be found that I am mistaken as to any of the essential and controlling facts stated herein, I shall be glad to further advise you when corrected.

I am advised that Detroit street or a highway at the same place, having another name, was laid out, traveled and well and fully established at a time prior to the construction of the railway over and through the same.

It was the law at the time when this railroad was constructed, and it is the law now, that whenever any railroad is constructed through and over any street or highway, the railroad company is burdened with the duty to build and construct a suitable road crossing thereat, including all approaches thereto, and to maintain the same in reasonably good repair for all time or so long as the railway shall be operated over and through the same.

It was lawful when this railroad was constructed, and it is lawful now, for any railroad company to construct crossings over and through the streets and highways at grade, or to separate the grades and build its railway ander the street or to build the street over its road bed and right of way, and it is plain to me that whichever the railway company chooses to do and whatever it shall or may do, it is nevertheless but the construction by the railway company of a street, highway or road crossing only.

The foregoing is but a short and imperfect statement of the Common Law Hability of a railway company, in its relation to the public when in the construction of its railway over or through a street or highway, which liability has many times been amplified and particularized by statutes and possibly somewhat endarged but never to my knowledge diminished. It may be said that the city built this bridge solely as a street passage or crossing, and it may also be said that the city built this bridge for its own convenience and for the safety and convenience of the public, or that the railway company's duty is fully defined in relation to this bridge by its contractial relations with the city. Upon each of these que the railway company in bringing its construction about:

Early in the year of 1886, the Michigan Central Railroad Company formulated a project to erect a new and elaborate passenger depot at Ann Arbor and to construct various other improvements thereat, such plan embraced among other things the construction of this overhead crossing in question; that on the 28th day of March, 1886, the railway company concluded an agreement with the city, whereby in consideration of the closing of certain streets and the payment of the sum of $5.000 by way of a donation or bonus to be payable when the outer walls of the station house and the foundation and piers of said bridge were respectively constructed. The railway company undertook to construct the new proposed passenger depot, make other improvements, and erect and complete the bridge in question and grade and construct the approaches thereto.

It is true that the city some weeks afterwards, as a method of obtaining the money to pay such promised bonus, caused an election by the then tax paying electors to be held and the sum of $5,000 to be raised by the vote of the tax payers for the asserted purpose of constructing this overhead crossing, but it is too plain for controversy that such election was held as a way and means adopted to bring about a result then in view, other than the building of the bridge in question, to-wit—as a way and means to obtain the money to pay the promised donation or bonus, for the city in fact never did build the bridge, and at the very time the election was held, had the written agreement of the railroad company to construct the same at its own cost and expense. It was the law then and it is the law now that the city cannot lawfully expend any such large sum of money for any public purpose, except the work be done by contract let to the lowest responsible bidder, and furthermore, after the money was thus obtained by this method of "whipping the devil around the post," every dollar of it was paid directly to the railroad company, and the railroad company on the 12th day of May, 1887, presented its certified bill to the Common Council whereby it made claim for the sum of $5,000 as a bonus on account of the construction of the new passenger depot, bridge and other improvements and thereafter receipted for the same expressly as bonus.

From all which I believe I am justified in inferring that as a matter of fact the railroad company built and constructed the bridge on its own account, with its own money and for its own account, with its own money and for its own account, with its own money and for its own account, with its own money and for its own account, with its own money and for its own account, with its own money and for its own account in a greater or less degree these contentions:

I advise the committee as follows, that you do inspect the bridge and crossing and if you find the same is now in need of repair you do report to the Council and recommend that the Council by resolution call the attention of the Michigan Central railroad company to the unsafe condition of its overhead crossing, and if the company decline or neglect to make suitable repair thereto, then that the Council do call the attention of the Railroad Commissioner to the Company's neglect and default and ask the Railroad Commissioner to make an order requiring the Railroad Company to perform and discharge its duty to the public in the premises.

An Attempt Made by Convicts at Jackson.

THEIR PLANS NIPPED IN THE BUD.

One of the Prisoners Had Four Sticks of Dynamite Which He Tried to Explode, but Was Prevented by Officers—Believed a Large Number of Convicts Are In the JACKSON, May 9 .- A determined attempt was made Monday night to blow up the prison with dynamite, and but for the prompt and heroic action of Deputy Northrup and Guards Horning and Murphy they would have succeeded. Some 150 convicts from the west cell block had been out attending a literary society. On their return and just before entering their cells Guard Horning was attacked by one of the convicts, and for a few moments a lively struggle ensued, which was participated in by three convicts, two guards and a deputy warden. While two of the convicts were struggling with the guards a third sprang into a window and attempted to light the fuse attached to four sticks of dynamite. was prevented from doing so and the prisoners were locked in their cells.

The three principals in the affair are Edward Huntley, sent from Detroit on a sentence of 20 years for burglary, and who was shot through the lower portion of the abdomen while attempting to escape a year and a half ago; John De Mann, sent from Grand Rapids on a 15-year sentence for murder in the second degree, and Arthur Lawrence, colored, sent from Eaton county on a 10-year sentence for burg-lary. They are all considered by the prison officials as desperate characters, and it is evident they will not stop at any-thing in their efforts to escape. Warden Chamberlain thinks a large number were implicated in the affair. He also stated that rumors have been rife for over a year that don mite was secreted in the prison, but the most diligent search had failed to reveal it.

Officials believe there are a large number of convicts implicated and that the plot so happily nipped in the bud was intended to be put into execution while an entertainment was in progress This belief is strengthened by the finding of a slip of yellow paper in the diningroom which read: "Lawrence d—d fool. If he'd waited until today we'd all be free or in h—ll."

THE PARSONS CASE.

Some New Evidence Given Against the Young Man.

Saginaw, May 9.—The examination of Newell B. Parsons, on a charge of looting the Wells, Stone & Company's vault and abstracting books, vouchers and jewelry, was commenced in the police court Tuesday morning. The witnesses sworn were James Montross, stenographer, E. P. Stone, Sam Borland, head of the land department, and Larry O'Connor, the barn man.

The first three witnesses simply told the old story of the condition of the vault doors, safe and office books when found. O'Connor stopped at the office at 7:45 p. m. the night the vault was looted to leave a message and found Parsons in the vault, but he noticed no unusual excitement in Parson's actions. Parsons was alone in the office and had adim light.

The case was then adjourned until

NILES, May 9. - Henry A. The carriage was twisted in every shape. Mrs. Chapin's right arm was crushed, but Mr. Chapin and Mrs. Stowell received less injuries, while driver McOmber struck on his head, cutting a severe gash, and had his hand Attempted to Escape at Ionia.

IONIA, May 9 .- Eagan and Livingston, two convicts occupying cells on the upper floor at the extreme north end of the state house of correction, made an ineffectual attempt to escape Sunday night. They had planned to dig out of their cells, "do up" the guard and cut a hole through the roof, but they were foiled by the prison officials, who were onto the scheme before they had succeeded in getting out of their cells. Eagan is a bad man and figured conspicuously in the outbreak last July. He was sent up for 15 years for man-slaughter from Kent county. Livingston is a short term man.

the Disease Brought From Chicago by a Passenger on the Racine-Had Escaped From the Authorities While Being Removed to a Pesthouse-Strict Quarantine Will Be Enforced.

Muskegon, May 10.—Muskegon is panicstricken. A fully developed case of smallpox arrived from Chicago on board the Racine and before it was discovered 200 people were exposed, as well as all the passengers on the steamer, and they have scattered all over the state. James Houtkamp was taken with the disease in Chicago 10 days ago. It had developed into the second in advance of last year. All spring ago. It had developed into the second sown grain has had exceptionally fine stage, and while being removed by the weather for germination and growth, authorities to a pesthouse he escaped while excessive blossoming of fruit and by the assistance of a friend took and by the assistance of a friend took passage on the Racine. The officers knew nothing of the case and Hout-kamp was allowed the freedom of the

On arrival at his parents' home, 82 Allen street, Dr. J. F. Denslow was summoned and at once pronounced it smallpox. A score of neighbors had already been in to see him and the greatest excitement prevails in the neighborhood. Those exposed are quarantined and officers are stationed round to prevent communication. It is thought by prompt action it can be prevented from spreading. The sanitary condition of Muskegon is good and the city physician thinks there is no danger of an epidemic.

The change of officers in the city government at this time is unfortunate, as either through negligence or lack of experience officers in outside cities where passengers of the Racine were destined for have not been notified. Seven went to Grand Rapids, two to Detroit, one to Pentwater and several stopped in Grand Haven. Mayor Mc-Graft has instructed the authorities to use whatever means are necessary to enforce the strictest quarantine regulations. One of the most frightened men in the city is E. J. Magor, who occupied the same stateroom with Houtkamp, not knowing the condition of his fellow-roommate.
