Has it a Double?

A Chicago Herald article, mentioning the palatial residence at Evansville, of H. J. Jones, president of the Plano Manufacturing Company, says: A feature of the interior will be that nearly the entire ground floor can be thrown into a music hall of large dimensions. Mr. Jones has purchased the famous Columbia organ which was used in Music Hall on the world's fair grounds, and will have it placed in this part of his residence.

Now, perhaps there are two of the famous Columbian organs, and perhaps the Chicago papers have been grossly misinformed At all events the musical world knows that the only original famous Columbian organ is now in Ann Arbor, the property of the Michigan University. Great papers are sometimes "hoodooed" on their news.

An Awful Malady.

An accute attack of an old complaint which comes on biennially at about this time of the year, is at present abroad in Washtenaw. The editor of the Courier is having a run of it and is in a lamentable condition. It is hoped that he may survive it, yet it is unlikely that he will experience any relief till the frosts of November. The disease works on him in this way: As soon as the word democrat is mentioned in his hearing he begins to swear, hop, jump, skip, rear, charge cavort, snort, rip, tumble, sneeze, cough, spit, whoop, stutter, squeal, howl, moan, groan, bellow, bewail, la-Last evening, at the residence of ment, despond, turn pale, froth at the mouth, look savage, roll his the bride's father, George Miller, the mouth, look savage, roll his No. 45 Division St., occurred the eyes, wheel around, fall down, get up, and then immediately do all that over again. Russia's Pet Thistle.

The following is from the Botanical department of the Michigan experimental station, under date of Aug. 25:

THE RUSSIAN THISTLE.

This pest, which is not a thistle, but a first cousin to our common Lambs' Quarters, or pig weed, has crossed Lake Michigan and landed at Charlevoix. Yesterday, Mr. H. D. Thompson, Botanist to the Fish Commission party now encamped at Charlevoix, sent the consulting botanist to the Experimental Station at the Agricultural College, three or W. J. Miller. John Kenny, C. This weed is an annual, growing from one to three feet high, branching profusely, and when full grown, forming a dense, bushy plant, from two to six feet in diameter, and about half as high. When young, it is very juicy and tender, covered Conrath. with small, narrow leaves. Late in the summer the stems grow rapidly, branching in all directions, and in place of leaves, bear spines, onefourth to one-half an inch long. At the base of each cluster of spines is Chris. Saley, Sol. Tate. a soft, papery flower about oneeighth of an inch in diameter, ripening a single, small seed. The home of this plant is in eastern Europe, or Western Asia, and it has a bad reputation in Russian wheat fields. It was introduced into South Dakota about seventeen years ago, and at present is spreading rapidly in half dozen neighboring states. This pest flourishes best on high land, but will make itself at home in all sort of soil, flourishing best in dry seasons, when growing crops cannot A very pleasant and exciting one crowd it out. Mr. Lehman, from the committee on permanent organization and order of business reported making the temporary organization permanent.

There was some debate over the committee's apportionment of delegates, but the report was accepted and adopted.

Prof. Thompson from the committee on resolutions offered the following which was adopted:

Resolved, That the Democracy of Washtenaw county, in convention assembled, reaffirm their adherance to the principles of the Democratic party as set forth in the last national platform.

common people of this country upon the fact that through the persistent efforts of President Cleveland and his supporters in Congress the burdens of unjust class legislation have been in

Resolved, That recognizing the impending conflict between labor and organized capital we demand to the end that labor and organized capital may stand upon an equality before the law and in the court: First, that the state legislature enact a law providing for the more efficient control and supervision of all corporations. Second, that the legislature enact a law providing for the legal incorporation of all labor organizations.

Resolved, That we desire to express to Hon. James S. Gorman our sincere appreciation of his labors in congress and that we endorse his course as a national legislator and tender to him the thanks of the Democracy of Washtenaw county.

Resolved. That in the administration of our county affairs our county officers have been honest and efficient in all things and have conducted the affairs of the county in the interest of the people of the county.

Chairman Moran made a clean cut ringing speech, complimenting the democracy on its harmony while in the republican ranks the bretheren were tapping each other under Ryan, Arthur Brown, John O'Mara, the fifth rib with a knife. He praised the wise policy of the democratic administration and to President Cleveland personally, and in scathing terms arraigned the republican party of the State. The soldiers of the Union were eulogized n warm terms. The nomination of county officers being in order, S. W. Miller, Ann Arbor, N. S. Schmid, of Manchester, and M. T. Woodruff, of Ypsilanti, were appointed tellers.

For sheriff, Arthur Brown praised the record made by Sheriff Michael Brenner, and moved that the secretary be instructed to cast the vote of the convention for him, which was done amid enthusiasm. For county clerk, a delegate from

Scio offered the name of Marcus S. Cook, of Dexter. Dr. Georg, of Ann Arbor, presented the name of Jacob F. Schuh, of Ann Arbor, M. T. Woodruff offered the name of Tracy L. Towner, of Ypsilanti. The name of Alfred Davenport was offered from York. Various delegates seconded the nominations, and a ballot was ordered with the following result:

Mr. Cook, 26; Mr. Towner, 53; Mr. Davenport, 22; Mr. Schuh, 118; Mr. Baumgartner, 9; Mr. Clark, 1. On motion, Mr. Schuh's nomination was made unanimous, and he responded with brief thanks. For Register of Deeds, the unity of acclamation having now set in, Mr. Norris proposed the name of A. T. Hughes, and that the secretary be instructed to cast the vote of the convention for him. The aye that went up started new seams in the roof of the court house, and Secretary Belser cast the vote as directed.

For Treasurer, Mr. Manly asked suspension of the rules and the nomination of Paul G. Suekey in the manner that had now become habitual. The convention agreed to it with a thunderous roar, and the secretary arose and with great physical strength cast the vote for Mr. Suekey.

The nomination of Prosecuting Attorney followed in the same manner, on a hint by Mr. Bogle, and the secretary announced the selecMrs. Coe is visiting friends in De-

Water Will Be Drawn Off So That if There Is Anything There It May Be Recovered -Doubt About the Matter-Opinion of One Man That the Total Fatalities Will Reach 500 - Nearly a Million Dollars in Money Lost in Three Towns-Cremation of the Towney Family. PINE CITY, Minn., Sept. 6.-The death

roll at Hinckley is growing, but slowly. The remains of three more bodies have been brought in from the eastern county road. One was a man. Of the other two there was but a hand and a leg. The hand was that of a child, but the leg that of a boy. Later the bodies of Mr. Lool and his family, four altogether, were recovered. They lived about two maes north of town. Searching parties are out in all directions, but their orders are to bury the dead where they lie. The seven bodies brought in, with the body of Axel Hanson, county commissioner, brings the total number in Hinckley up to 221, and in the vicinity of Hinckley to upwards of 230. As yet it has been impossible to approach the mill pond. The heap of sawdust and edgings which forms its bank is still sending up dense clouds of blinding smoke, rendering it impossible for a man to get near the water.

Will Draw Off the Water.

It has been decided to draw off the water. The gate will be cut out one board at a time, allowing the water to escape gradually, so that the logs may settle where they are, instead of being crowded down into the lower end of the pond and thereby rendering it impossible to recover any bodies that might be beneath them. It is now supposed, however, that their are many bodies in the pond. Mr. L. H. Clow, who was the foreman of the Brennan company in charge of the yard, says no one could have gone through the yard after he left, and he noticed no one going that way. Others, however, are quite positive that they saw persons making their way toward the pond. The work of relief is running smoothly.

Believes There Are 500 Dead. Senator Dedon, of Chicago county, was a prominent figure in the relief and rescue work. He is one of the best-known and most thorough timber cruisers in the state, and has taken the lead in searching the woods for bodies. His statement is therefore of considerable interest and

THE DEATH LIST AT HIGH BRIDGE. Eight Persons Go Into a Well That Proves Their Grave.

ASHLAND, Wis., Sept. 6.—The bodies of the eight persons who lost their lives at High Bridge, Wis., have been identified as follows: Maggie Bargreen, married, a ;ed 15; Isaac Towney; Mrs. Ida Towney; Elisha, 6 years old; Walter Graft, 18 months old; Willie Towney, 13 years old; Jessie Towney, 4 years old; Frank Bargreen, a son-in-law of Isaac Towney. Three or four months ago he married the 15-year-old daughter of Isaac Towney.

The details are as follows, given by John McLean, a neighbor: "The whole of them were at dinner," said McLean as he stood beside the corpses by the side of safety and found death. "They had no uneasiness whatever for the house or for their lives. After dinner Towney said to me: 'I wish you would go across the road there and keep the fire from that lot of 4,000 cedar posts. Bargreen will be over shortly and I will send him over to help you.' I worked awhile and found it useyou. less to try to save the property and started back for Towney.

"Then the fire came. It came, too, like a tornado. It leaped from tree to tree, driven on by the strong southwest wind The flames shot high above the tree tops, It was impossible to get to Towney's, and I ran. I was joined by another home-steader, E. D. Eily, and we tried to get to his home or mine. We got lost, and ran blindly until late at night, when we struck the railway tracks. We lay down to keep from smothering, and stayed there until morning.

"After dinner Bargreen and his wife must have left their home, forty rods or more distant, and gone to Towney's. The two unhitched their horses, turned them loose and then started to save themselves and their families. One of the horses and the wagon were found burned to a crisp not over 100 teet from the house The roaring sheet of flame struck Bargreen's house and it must have been consumed instantly. Within twenty feet of Towney's house is a fifty-foot well. contained a foot or two of water. A milk house had been partially built over it.

"Into this well when the fire was upon them, bed clothing, feather ticks and clothing of all kinds were thrown. A ladder was let down and into this death trap the families of Towney and Bargreen descended, Bargreen apparently being the last to descend. In an instant the house was in flames, then the milk house, and then the flames swooped down into the well. A merciful death in the form of suffocation may have preceded the cremation."

INTERESTING TO TOURISTS AND STUDENTS.

The late Alexander Winchell, Professor of Geology and Paleontology in the University of Michigan, shortly before his death took a trip to Montana, and was so delighted with what be experienced that he wrote F. st. Paul, Minn., a lengthy letter from Ann Arbor, in which he testified his pleasure, and from which we quote:

"I have just returned from the magnificent tour devised and conducted under your auspices, and I wish first to thank you for the courtesies extended to me personally, and then to transmit an acclamation of thanks from the entire party. Nothing more delightful, more impressive or more memorable, could be planned—this was the oft repeated exclamation which I heard on every day of the tour.

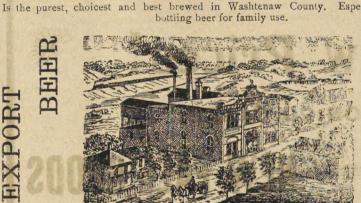

"I shall make much use of the observations and exceriences of the trip, both in my lectures and in print, and I shall be very happy to increase interest in the regions traversed by your lines. No new part of America offers so much to students, artists, health-seekers and tourists."

It was the intention of Prof. Winchell to have made another visit to Montana, having beheavals in the Belt Mountains and other outlying ranges in the vicinity of Great Facis, which ranges also reveal abundant remains of ancient animal life.

Following the visit of Prof. Winchell, Prof. Scott and a party from Princeton Colesie went out and found the bones, in many cases well preserved, of noless than forty different sorts of huse and grotesque animals that existed in the olden ages of life on the globe. Many varieties of fishes and other forms of early marine life were also found buried in the cliffs. It was a picnic for the scientific men who not only learned much more than they expected, but who enjoyed with keen relish the splendid mountain scenery and exhilerating air, and managed also to catch fine strings of fish, common now in the rivers and streams, and bag, too, not a little game.

COMMUNICATIONS.

FROM THE MAYOR. To the Honorable, the Common Council: Gentlemen,—The relations which the Ann Arbor Water Co. has sustained to the city and citizens of Ann Arbor from its inception to the present day, have been such as call for careful deliberation on the part of the common council in determining the future policy council in determining the future policy to be pursued in securing for all purposes a sufficient supply of wholesome water, the purity of which shall be above question and the quantity abundant for all our needs.

When the city of Ann Arbor in the year 1885, entered into contract with the Ann Arbor Water Co., they formed an obligation as favorable to the company as could well be made: exacting no re-as could well be made; exacting no restrictions in constructing or maintaining of the waterworks which were not only just but positively necessary for the protection of the citizens. On the other hand, they left little opportunity for redress in case of failure of the party of the second part to perform their portion of the contract.

It is not necessary to begin at the springs and pumping station, proceeding by way of the various points in the contract that were broken at the time. contract that were broken at the time of construction, the reservoir remaining unfinished to the present day.

The statement that "the inlet pipe to the reservoir shall be so arranged that the reservoir shall be so arranged that the water pumped into said reservoir shall pass in a pipe up through the same, above the level of the water and then fall over on a stone rockery so as to give the water more aeration" has been a little misleading. Any person who believes that all the water used in this city passes through the process of aeration described should spend a few hours at the reservoir to satisfy himself that such is not the case.

The quantity of water has always been a matter of great concern to the citizens who have been promised protection in concern force.

citizens who have been promised pro-tection in case of fire.

It is not necessary to go into the numerous violations of that portion of the contract which relates to fire prothe contract which relates to life protection, but call attention to the condition of affairs existing one year ago. The contract states: "That the works shall at all times be capable of throwing by reservoir pressure, six streams, 80 feet high at the court house at one time; and by direct pressure, the same number of streams at the same place 110 feet high." Aug 7, 1893, the chief of the fire department made the following statement: "I caused to be thrown from the fire hydrants at the court from the fire hydrants at the court house square six streams of water through 100 feet of hose for each stream, and I hereby certify that the maximum height of said stream was not to exceed 55 feet with a registered pressure of 60 pounds when hydrants were first opened and 40 pounds before same were closed." He further states that about three hours later, thrown through 50 feet of hose, the stream did not exceed 25 feet in height. If you will examine the chief's report you will find that in those days a registered pressure of 20 pounds was very common. The of 20 pounds was very common. The chief recently informed me that there are times at present when the pressure are times at present when the pressure is not sufficient for fire protection.

When the common council met on July 17, 1893, the water committee, consisting of Ald. Ferguson, Martin and Manly, presented a report citing the criminal negligence of the Water Co. and that report was unanimously adopted. It was about this time that the citizens, driven almost to despair concerning the scarcity and quality of the water, circulated a petition and besought the council to do something for their relief. More water had been sought the council to do something for their relief. More water had been promised in previous seasons but scarcely any attempt had been made to secure it. The mayor issued a proclapossible amount in order that enough possible amount in order that enough might be gained for fire protection. Days and weeks passed at this time, when the city would have been at the mercy of the flames had any considerable fire once started. The Water Co. evidently became aware that something must be done to quiet the people for at wust be done to quiet the people for at the next meeting of the council, Aug. 24, 1893, Dr. Hale appeared before that body and stated in a plausible speech, that in the future there would be plenty of water if the council would only trust them. I want to ask if the council was that only trust them. I want to ask if the gentlemen of the council supposed that plenty of water meant spring water, river water, or the indefinite mixture of these which has been forced upon us.

In the springtime the members of the council were invited to visit the waterworks, which they did. At that time one of your number warned Dr. Hale of the lack of water that would be certain in case of drouth, but the doubting member was assured that he need have no fear concerning the abundance and quality of the supply. Not being able to be present at this inspection of the works, Dr. Hale visited me a few days later and extended a personal invitation to visit the works with him. At this interview the question of using river water was discussed and he aswayed as that it would not be present. At this interview the question of using river water was discussed and he assured me that it would not be necessary to use it, and furthermore, he assured me that their machinery was not capable of pumping any considerable amount from the river. He neglected to state, however, that they would impediately not the machinery in such mediately put the machinery in such order that 50 per cent of the supply for our city could be taken from the river when, in the opinion of the company, t was necessary.

Gentlemen, we are at present engaged in constructing a sewer system which will, when completed, compel every householder to pay tribute to the Water will, when completed, compel every householder to pay tribute to the Water Co.. thus adding from five to ten thousand dollars yearly to their income. The rates for closets should be very low in order that the poor may not be oppressed by this necessity which all must bear alike, and that at a very high price according to the present water rate. This should be properly adjusted at once.

The contract expressly states that "the company shall furnish at all times, a sufficient supply of water suitable for domestic purposes." This portion of the contract has been frequently violated. We have abundant evidence to show that for some time the water has not been wholesome or fit for domestic use. At the second July meeting of the council the chairman of the water committee reported to you that 20 per cent of river water was being used in our city supply. The Huron flows through many small towns that either directly or indirectly drain into it; only a short distance above the pumping station a large paper mill discharges its refuse into the stream and dead animals are frequently found floating in the water or lodged along the banks. When the stream is low, as it is at the present time, contamination may easily result. Our citizens can and should protect themselves by boiling all drinking Our citizens can and should protect themselves by boiling all drinking water, and children in the public

We are told of the sweetness and abundance of waters gushing from the hillside, but like thirsty travelers in the desert we wonder if we will ever live to taste them. der if we will ever live to taste them. Meanwhile the Huron river makes up the deficiency as it has in years past. Let us thank God for the never failing

It is to be hoped that no one will underestimate the importance of the question, the quality of our water supply. It means much to us, so much that it should not be trusted to a private corporation except under the most binding obligations. The promises of the Water Co. remain unfulfilled. DISTRICT COMMITTEE.

Hon. John Strong, of Monroe, was yesterday made chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee. This means a steady, no-compromise campaign.

The motion to adjourn the democratic county convention yesterday while nearly every delegate was vociferously demanding a speech from Representative Gorman had his eloquent words relating to demerited the contempt it received.

The republicans who sat about the convention hall vesterday gleefully chafing their hands over the longed for democratic family jar, were seen to lengthen their visages and become less demonstrative as the convention drew to a close without a discordant note and amidst the greatest good feeling and enthu-

The speech of Condemocracy, and, through his long gressman Gorman at the close was and faithful work as chairman of most felicitous and happy, as well as the democratic county committee and all-round hustler, is known to every democrat in the county. His nomination is but a just recognition of party obligations. He will poll the full party vote and will be the next clerk of Washtenaw county.

The defection of Senator Jones, of Nevada, is giving the republicans of the silver states of the west great uneasiness. He is admitted to have a large following in California, Washington, Idaho and other states, and the republicans fear that his ran away with the driver, smashing desertion to the populist, will enable that party to carry several legislatures of the far western states and for. result in sending populists to the United States senate to hold down the seats now occupied by republi-

The Am Arhor Argus ries larger reductions than any bill the democrats have tried to pass in years, and the fact that it does not fully satisfy the tariff reform sentiment of the country goes to show how rapidly that sentiment is advancing.

> Next week the Argus will contain the free list of the present tariff law and the provisions of the income tax. They are two of the most important features of the new act, and should receive the careful attention of every citizen. The income tax s a decided step in the direction of a more just and equitable system of taxation. It is right that the great incomes of the wealthy should contribute for the support of the government. A tax on the individual's surplus is far more equitable than a tax upon his necessaries alone. And it should be borne in mind that every dollar raised from the incomes of the rich will relieve the necessaries of the poor that much. The inauguration of this tax in a time of peace marks the beginning of a new era in our system of national taxation. The income tax has come to stay.

THE COUNTY CONVENTION.

The democratic county convention to nominate county officers and delegates to the congressional and senatorial conventions, has come and gone, and it did not add to the republican longing for some evidence of democratic disentegration one single ray of hope. It was such an outpouring of old Washtenaw's rockribbed democracy as had not been witnessed by the oldest inhabitant, and such as presages victory this fall. Not only was every delegation having been committed and the culprit The Convention to nominate a candidate for Representative of the Second District of Washtenaw County will be held at Saline faithful from every section of the village on Thurday, county, journied to the county hub to add the strength of their presence and the confidence of their hopes to the spirit of the occasion. The delegations were made up of the most representative men of the party, men in whom every democratic voter has confidence, and the results of their deliberations, as shown in the work of the conven! tion, indicate that this confidence was not misplaced. It was one of the most enthusiastic, harmonious, best handled, best officered conventions ever held in the county. The speech of Chairman Moran was a model, and his allusions to the landmarks of democratic history, and not the strength of a support. It mocracy's incomparable leader, President Cleveland, were cheered to the echo. The nominating speeches were most happy, and with the exception of clerk and circuit court commissioners, all nominations were made by acclamation. The friendly rivalry among the candidates for clerk but added to the prevailing good feeling. The resolutions, which appear elsewhere, endorse the national administration and the faithful and efficient services of the second district representative, and Capt. Jacob F. Going to the Supreme Court if the Government Wins Before Judge Woods-Margers That Are Involved in the Tria and Contentions of the Lawyers for Each Side Briefly Stated-The Notable Case

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.-Of grave moment in he opinion of many will be the final outcome of the proceedings begun before Judge Woods, of the United States court, when President E. V. Debs and his fellow officials of the American Railway Union appeared to answer why they should not be punished for contempt in having violated an injunction issued out of the federal courts. Involved in the issue of the case are the scope and jurisdiction of federal judges in matters of importance in which the courts have recently established a new method of procedure. Its final adjudication will determine how far the federal courts may go in the use of the injunction and power to punish for

Will Go to the Supreme Court. To a degree the right of trial by jury in certain criminal cases will be settled by the decision of the court of last resort. As the leaders of organized labor believe, the liberty of the citizen and the federal guarantee that he shall not be deprived of his freedom without due process of law are inextricably involved in the apparently simple question of whether Debs and his associates are guilty of contempt of court. Should Judge Woods decide against the defendants in the case on hearing there is no doubt but it will be carried to the supreme court of the United States and every point in the controversy will be fought to the bitter end by able counsel. Debs, his associates and legal advisers contend that the judicial methods employed during the late labor troubles are illegal and unconstitutional.

Claim of the Defendants. It is held that for a judge to issue an injunction restraining persons from committing crimes for which the statutes provide penalties, and then, in the event that the offense be committed, to summon the offender before him and send him to jail for contempt of the injunction, is a subversion of the law. As well, they assert, might a court send out an injunction against burglary, and then, the burglary caught, the judge should send him to jail for contempt instead of trying him before a jury for the crime of burglary.

Purpose of the Inter-State Law. The adoption of this doctrine would, it is claimed, do away with the jury trials altogether and vest all power in the court. It is further contended that the use of the injunctional methods under the power supposed to be conferred on the courts by the interstate commerce law is a perversion of the statute. The interstate commerce act is not a riot gun act to quell disorderly mobs, but an effort by the government to bring railroad corporations doing interstate commerce within the jurisdiction of the law. To this the government replies that the language of the interstate law covers the case and that is all that is necessary.

SOME ASSERTIONS AND DENIALS.

Government Alleges and A. R. U. Leaders Deny a Conspiracy.

The bill of the government and the railroads asking for an injunction charged that Debs and his associates had formed a conspiracy to obstruct interstate com-merce and the United States mail trains, The labor leaders assert that this is untrue; that no such conspiracy existed; that the American Railway Union was an organization entirely within the law and eaceable in its aims and purposes, and that should the practice of injunctions and contempt inaugurated in the federal courts during the late strike be sustained by the supreme court labor organizations would be crushed out of existence by

To these arguments the lawyers for the government will oppose the contention that only by drastic restrictive measures could the mobs be controlled, and that American Railway Union officials having begun the conflict of which lawlessness became an incident should be held responsible. So that the momentous ques tions of the power of the courts, the rights of the citizen in certain contingencies, the possibility of the continued existence of labor unions, the construction of the in-terstate commerce law, and the relation of the judiciary to the people are involved in the case now on hearing before Judge Woods.

The court room was crowded when the case began, and there was quite an array of counsel on each side. Outside the railing sat many of the members of the American Railway Union. Among them were Vice President George W. Howard, Secretary Keliher and L. W. Rodgers, three of the four principal defendants. E. V. Debs was not in court until noon and was looking ill. The proceedings began with the of testimony of Manager E. A. Mulford, of the Western Union Telegraph company and the incroduction by him of telegrams sent or received by American

The defense moved for a trial by jury first thing, but the judge overruled motion for the present. He said: "I don't think this case differs from other contempt cases, and I will for the present overrule your motion. I will hear from you, if you wish, on this point later, but I think I'll hear some of the evidence first.' He thought the case easy to settle. "The gist of the question here is whether these respondents in violation of the order of the court, interfered with mail trains and interstate commerce."

A sensation was caused when it was shown that the last clause of the noted "bvy a gun" telegram was a message to personal friends, and that it had been left out of the message as filed with the court, and a mild attempt was made to show that the government was not acting in good faith, but Milchrist disclaimed any purpose of garbling the telegram, and Judge Woods said: "Now, I read that telegram in the newspapers and I don't think it amounted to much. The expression is an old one. I heard it years ago in the west. 'Save your money and buy a gun' was a common saying. 'Take care of yourself' is about the meaning of it." Mulford produced all the telegrams, but there was nothing to show who authorized them. They were all paid for by the American Railway Union on daily bills. All the more important telegrams have already been published. One signed by E. V. Debs was in pencil. It had been sent to W. F. Smith, Grand Junction, Colo., in reply to one from him stating that he knew that officers were ready to serve the injunction on him and asked for instructions. It was dated July 3, and said: "It will take more than injunctions to move trains. We are gaining ground everywhere."

CASE OF THE DEAD ANIMALS.

Debs' Note Asking the Panhandle Yardmen to Remove Them. Mulford was temporarily excused, and John Brennock, who has the contract with the city to remove dead animals from the streets, was called. Brennock ex plained his business, and related how the Panhandle railroad was unable to move several cars of dead animals on account of the strike, when witness called on the mayor, who sent a man with him to see Debs, who gave him a note to the Panhandle road to the effect that should the Panhandle people move the dead animal cars they would not be interfered with. The note sent by Debs was addressed to the Panhandle yardmen and said: will please execute the order of Mr. John Brennock with regard to the removal of dead animals. This is issued by order of the board of directors in the interest of public health E. V. DERS."

"The Panhandle people paid no attention to this," said the witness, "and after some days I went to the commissioner of public works, who went to the chief of police, and police were sent with me to insist on the cars being moved, and finally got them out. The tracks were all clear at that time." One of the railway officials told Brennock to get Debs to move them.

The railway officials told witness they had only new men who did not want to take out the cars. Brennock said he did not ask Debs for men to move the cars, but for an order for non-interference.

SWALLOWED UP A TOWN.

Cave-in of a Pennsylvania Mine-Fift Men Have a Narrow Escape.

LOFTY, Sept. 6. - The little mining town near t. place, was swallowed up last night in one of the most complete mine cave-ins ever known in this region. The scene of disaster was on the slope of Mount Lookout, the score of houses com prising the hamlet being at the mouth of the shaft of the Mount Lookout colliery. The wildest excitement prevails through-out the region, and details are fragmentary. It is known, however, that the dozen houses on either side of the princi pal street of the hamlet are completely swallowed up in the gaping hole and nothing can be seen of the other buildings of the town but the roofs, gables and chim-

It is impossible to state accurately the number of fatalities, or if there are any. Rescuing parties are now exerting every means to release the occupants of the engulfed dwellings. One of the buried houses has taken fire. The cave-in was caused by the giving way of timber sup-ports in the workings of the colliery. The inhabitants of the hamlet were statled by rumbling and reports like falling rock in the caverns of the mine many hundreds of feet below them. Report was followed by report, and accompanied by other tremore and the village sank out of sight in the gaping cavity.

Meanwhile some fifty miners were imprisoned in the colliery. They had been at work in another portion of the mine, and all means of exit had been completely wiped out by the cave-in. James Perrin, one of the oldest of the miners, got the men together, and started to lead them up through a tunnel, which had been used as an air shaft, but which leads to the surface through a series of steep slopes. The rescuing party on the surface had made and came to where the imprisoned miners were struggling upward. The men were Respectfully, were struggling upward. The men were carried to the surface, where a great crowd of excited, panic-stricken people were awaiting them. Up to 9 o'clock last night all the persons who could be found have been taken from the ruins, although the full roll of those to be accounted for cannot be prepared at this writing.

AN ARCTIC PARTY GETS BACK.

Cook's Explorers Lose a Vessel, but No Life Is Sacrificed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.-The Miranda, bear Dr. Cook's arctic party, left New York on the afternoon of Saturday, July 7. Her passengers numbered fifty in all. Most of them were scientists and sportsmen, but there were several who went for the benefit simply of the voyage and the pure northern air. The party was confined solely to men. The Miranda was chartered for two months and a half. The plans were, after stops at points in Nova Scotia and Cape Breton, to cruise around Newfoundland and cross Davis' strait to the west coast of Greenland, where some of the scientists of the party could disembark and make explorations.

The party has just reached North Sydney, Cape Breton Isle, minus the Miranda, which ran on a rock and later sank. No one was lost, but the Miranda not being available some of the party traveled 120 north of Sukkertoppen, Greenland, where there were some American vessels fishing. They obtained one of these, the Rigel, and on her safely made their way back to civilization and warm weather. The journey homeward was without incident other than adverse winds, the inconvenience of close quarters and insufficient provisions, only ten days supplies for forty men having been placed on the Rigel and the addition of the Miranda's crew making ninety-one persons on board this little craft of 107 tons.

"We cannot go tonight," she said,

CHAPTER IV.

There was no doubt that Felix intended to continue passing himself off as Francis. For how long I was uncertain; perhaps for the rest of his natural life or until he made Olivia his wife. In this latter event he could reveal the fraud with impunity and revert to his own identity. I could not help thinking that he had been informed beforehand of the death of his brother, else he would not have dared to keep up his imposture with a possible revelation so near at hand. Even assuming such ignorance, I had now told him of the death myself and so strengthened his position. I regretted that I had not been more cautious.

I was curious to see whom he would bring forward as a witness to his identity. Scarcely Olivia, as if she once had suspicion of the truth she would never rest until all was cleared up to her satisfaction. I hardly thought Felix would run such risk, the more so as his story of losing the pearl ring could not stand against my assertion that it was on the finger of the dead man. If he still persisted in declaring himself to be Francis, I determined that he should ride with me to the Fen inn and there see the corpse of the man whose name he had so shamelessly assumed. That would surely settle the matter.

Felix was bolder than I gave him credit for, as his witness proved to be none other than Olivia Bellin. 'She entered the room with assumed lightness, but her face was anxious, and she glanced every now and then at Felix as though to see is his aid and countenance. He, as was natural, wore a haggard expression. His nerves were tensioned up to the highest pitch, a matter of small wonderment, seeing that his life's happiness depended upon this interview.

'What is this strange story you bring, Mr. Denham?" asked Olivia, greeting me coldly. In our best days we were never overfriendly.

'Has not Mr. Briarfield told you?" "I have not had the time," interposed Felix quickly. "Beyond a few hints of the truth she knows nothing." Not even that you are Felix Briar-

'Felix?'' repeated Miss Bellin in surprise. "But you are making a mistake, Mr. Denham. This is Francis.'

"You see, Olivia," said Briarfield, addressing Miss Bellin, "Denham insists upon taking me for my brother Felix. "How absurd! I assure you, Mr. Denham, that Felix is in Paris. I received a letter from him only this morn-

"Impossible," said I, taken aback by the authority of her tone. "It is quite true," she continued hur-

"Excuse me for a moment, and I shall fetch the letter. You must believe the evidence of your own eyes." When she left the room, Felix turned toward me with a gleam of triumph in his eyes.

Are you convinced?" he asked mockingly

"No. 1 az puzzled." "In what way?"

"To think how you managed to gethat letter sent on from Paris withoul being there yourself."

"Against stupidity the gods them selves fight in vain," quoth Felix, shrug ging his shoulders. "I assure you that my brother Felix is in Paris. Miss Bel lin is about to produce a letter received from him only this morning, and yet you insist that I am not myself and that he whom I pretend to be is dead. You are mad.

"Here is the letter," said Miss Bellin, entering at this moment. "You see, it bears the date of yesterday. He is at present staying at the Hotel des Etran gers, Rue de St. Honore, but talks of going to Italy."

I examined the letter closely. It was genuine enough. Of that there was no doubt, as it bore the French and English postmarks. I quite believed that it was written by Felix, but also that it had been forwarded from Paris by an emissary of the young man in order to keep up the needful deception. Certainly Felix had a marked talent for intrigue.

"If Felix Briarfield is in Paris," said I, handing back the letter to Olivia, "who was it I met at the Fen inn last

"The Fen inn?" replied Olivia, with a puzzled look. "Why, no one lives there now, Mr. Denham. It is in ruins and has been empty for over two years.'

"Nevertheless it was tenanted last night, and I slept there; also I met Francis Briarfield at the same place."

"Francis was not out of the house last night," declared Olivia decisively. "Quite true," he replied. "I went to bed early with a bad headache."

'It was not you I met at the inn last

If the republicans expected to elect sheriff or any other man on the county ticket this fall, they would be shown how easy it was to be disappointed. Mr. Gorman commended the tariff act, which though not all that was hoped for; not all that was hoped for; not all the people wanted, was a pronounced gain for the people over the McKinley law. The republicans could not make a basis to stand on by running a campaign of accusation, and declaring no position of their own. They have been the especial friends of the sugar trust and had nothing to stand on their own. They have been the especial friends of the sugar trust and had nothing to stand on the rown. They have been the especial friends of the sugar trust and had nothing to stand on the rown of the sewer from Summits, the republican party should comint power, their first care would be to release the incomes of the rich from taxation.

As to a renomination Mr. Gorman said that for the past ten months he had had no desire to return to congress. The distribution of federal patronage had placed upon him unpleasant responsibilities and undoubtedly there were those who were disappointed. No man could satisfy all, still he had acted conscientiously and would not change any of the recommendations he had made, were it possibles He would continue to work for democratic interests and would be found ready to obey the wishes and answer the call of his party for serious from the sever given for the speaker, at the close of his remarks.

Stirring speeches by Messrs. Whitman and Manly followed and three rousing cheers were given for the speaker, at the close of his remarks.

sewer committee's report.

Quorum present. Absent - Ald. Wagner, Ferguson, countered, it being 11 inches deep at the 68th tile.

Entering this section at the manhole on Detroit street the inspector could only go into the sewer as far as the ninth tile on account of the depth of the mud and water which was 11 inches deep at this point also. There is little doubt but what this section is below grade nearly or quite 8 inches. The fron pipe which was examined from near the foot of Thirteenth street west to the point where the crack tiles begin were found to be open from 1 inch to 2 inches at the joints. The section from the manhole on Summit street diagonally across to the first manhole on Main street, contained 46 tiles all of which were in perfect condition, and the joints and everything pertaining to the section seemed to be in first-class condition. If the whole sewer had been as good as this section, Ana Arbor would have a first-class sewer.

In the section from the manhole on Main Ald. Brown moved to reconsider the of which are sound there being but two joints through which cement was protruding into the sewer. The water in this section was from I inch to 3 inches deep.

5.—We also find that in that portion of the sewer where gaskets were used, and also for about 100 feet west of Summitst. where no gaskets were used but where the tile was carefully laid, that there is little or no cement projecting from the joints of the sewer and it is practically clear, also that there is little or no cement projecting in the sewer from the mouth of sewer west to the iron pipes at about Thirteenth street.

6.—We find a sag or depression of the sewer pipe below grade for a distance of about two hundred feet beginning at west baggage room of the M.C. R. R. depot and running west to the gas house the deepest sag about 8 inches which sag was filled with mud and water which has been flushed out. We also find a sag from 2 to 3 inches below grade in the iron pipe.

7.—We find that most of the water and sand vote by which the report of the finance Committee was adopted relative to printing 1,000 copies of the special

7.—We find that most of the water and sand that enters the sewer runs into the joints of the sewer in that portion of the same from which just north of Miller avenue, up the sewer south to Main street and also that at the M. C. R. R. station there is 7½ inches of water running through the sewer.

8.—We find that quicksand enters the sewer at the joints of the pipe at Bodmer's lumber yard and above, and we think that the sewer pipe should be taken up and relaid from Jefferson street east as far as quicksand is found to enter the sewer.

9.—It appears from the statements made to us that in that portion of the sewer between the M. C. R. R. and Fifth avenue, where clay soil was found, no soft earth or sand was provided in which to lay the tile or to pack around and cover it, but that lumps of clay were placed around the tile and tamped down as much as possible. We are of the opinion that had sand or soft earth been proviced, and had this been well and thoroughly tamped around the tile that the ville the the service of the country the tile that the service of the country that the service of the country that the tile that the service of the country that the servi to the amendment that the testimony given by City Engineer Key, Pres-Keech and Capt. We, the committee appointed by the Common Council of the city of Ann Arbor to investigate the present condition that the cement would not have worked into the tile and formed obstructions at the joints on the inside of the sewer, and we would have a practically dry sewer.

That Mr. Sutherland reports that he has cleaned out all the cement and other so of the sewer from between Williams and Jefferson streets to the mouth of the sewer so that this portion of the sewer so that this portion of the sewer is now practically clear of cement and other so of the matter.

Three Leading Scientists

Proclaim the Superior Value of

Dr. Price's Baking Powder.

Scientists are devoting closer attention to food products. Recent examinations of baking powders by Prof. Long, Dr. Haines, and Prof. Prescott, were made to determine which powder was the purest, highest in leavening strength, most efficient in service, and most economical in cost. They decide that Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder excels in all the essentials of an ideal preparation for household use. They write:-

"Chicago, March 28th, 1894.

We have purchased in the open market cans of Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder and also of the other leading brands of baking powders, and have submitted them to chemical analysis. We find that Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is a pure cream of tartar powder, that is has a considerably greater leavening strength than any of the other baking powders we have ever tested.
