Looks Like a Bankrupt Stock.

Deputy Sheriff Peterson Wednesday arrested Lida Francisco and lodged her in jail on material evidences which indicate shoplifting. Armed with a search warrant, Officer Peterson searched Lida's house for goods which mysteriously vacated the premises of Mrs. Francisco's neighbor, Sam Smith. Little that belonged to Neighbor Sam was found, but the search revealed an assortment of silverware, dress goods, silks, dresses, towels, spreads, Gen. #### Rhea as Bonaparte.

A double bill was presented by Mlle. Rhea at the Detroit Opera House last night. The first play was a comedietta entitled "Bonaparte at School," an adaption by Rhea herself of an older French play. In its present form it is a dainty trifle - instructive perhaps (fascinating certainly) as a picture of the boyhood of the Man of Destiny. The scene is the military school at Brienne, and Bonaparte is represented as a cadette, who is proficient in mathematics, and dullard in geography and history, and the imperious leader not only of his fellow cadettes, but to everybody connected with the school. His budding genius for the art of war is indicated by once applied to Judge Kinne for an his ready answers to his teacher's injunction restraining Mr. Helber questions relative to the conduct of the battle of Rossbach, and by his generalship in a battle of grades, with snowballs for ammunition. The subsidary characters, exclusive the recovery of damages in an ac- war, impersonated with appropriate formality of demeanor and due official gravity by Mr. W. S. Hart, the professors in the school, the janitor's son and pretty Josephine Morel.

In Fitting Spectacle Bows to the Ears Both Must Be Considered.

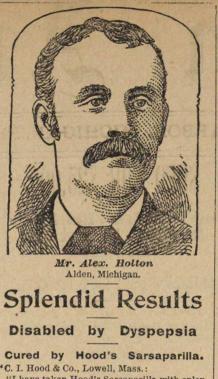

Having selected a pair of frames with a nose piece of the right height and spread to bring the glasses into the fitted with glasses made in accordance with the oculist's prescription, the optician now proceeds to fit the completed spectacles to your head. You might put them right on and wear them off just as they are.

But, no; he reaches over and places the bows over your ears himself. Then he tries the spectacles gently, as they rest upon your nose, taking hold at the outer ends of the frame, v here the bows hinge. Not just right. He takes them off again and smooths the bows out between the tips of his fingers and changes their shape a little and tries them again. Better, but not just right yet. He takes them again and smooths out and bends in a little more. You observe as he hands them to you, as he does this time, that the bows have not only been changed somewhat in shape, but that now they vary in sweep and curve. You put them on and find that they fit perfectly and very comfortably. He touches them and finds them right and says so.

"But the bows are not alike," you say. "No," says the optician, "but they are now made to fit. Your ears are not just alike. One of them is a little bigger than the other, and they are not placed exactly alike on the head."

"What?" you say, and he says: "Yes. There are very few of us that are perfect was to be held next morning, and all arrangements had Leen made. When the inspector had supplied us with this information, we sat down and told him the whole story as has been here set forth. He listened with much astonishment and expressed himself to that end. "I never read a novel to touch this," he said, staring at Francis. "Truth is stranger than fiction, after all. You greatly resemble your unhappy brother, Mr. Briarfield.

"Is the body much decomposed?" asked I, seeing that Francis remained silent.

"It's recognizable only," replied the inspector. "You acted very foolishly in this matter, both of you. Why did you not come and tell me about it all at once?"

"I was afraid of being accused of killing my brother," said Francis faintly

"You've made it ten times worse now," said the inspector dryly. "Had. you wished to damn yourself, you could not have gone to work in a more pigheaded fashion."

'Are you going to arrest me?''

"No. There is not sufficient evidence against you. Besides I quite believe your story. Still, " added he, with some hesitation, "you have to face the coroner tomorrow. He may not believe you so easily as I."

"What do you think is best to be done?" I asked dismally.

"Well, judging from what you have told me, I should think the best thing would be to find Strent," said the in-"He is the only man to solve spector. the mystery. Failing him, you'd better get Rose Gernon down. Her evidence may go to prove that Mr. Briarfield was in bed at the time Felix was in the house

"I'll wire for her to come down at once," I said, jumping up. "It will be as well. I'll send a man over to Starby and find out if Strent delivered the horse to the livery stable keeper. I wish to heaven, Denham, said the inspector, raging at me, "that you had told me all about this at first.'

"I acted for the best." "I've no doubt you did," he replied ill temperedly, "but I hate your amateur detectives. They simply muddle things. I'd have straightened out this coil long ago had I taken it in hand."

"I have my doubts of that," said I dryly and went off to the telegraph of-There I sent a telegram to Rose fice. I knew quite well she would not dare to refuse, and, moreover, that my detective would send a man to watch her, while he waited round her house for the possible appearance of Strent.

When I got back to the inspector's room, I found that his ill temper had vanished, and he was doing his best to console Francis.

"I've seen a man in a worse plight than is yours, Mr. Briarfield," he was saying when I entered, "and yet he came out all right in the end. The cause of his predicament was similar." 'What's that?'' said Francis, looking 'Lack of moral courage. Had you

"She's safe enough and will be here tomorrow.' "I wish we could say the same about Strent," said the inspector.

"Do not for one instant forget," said a prominent artist, addressing his pupils, "that so called failures are only milestones on the road to success. With each one passed there is just so much of the weary, inevitable journey behind you, and you are just so much nearer the goal." A comfortable theory which it would be well if we were philosophical enough to apply to all our undertakings. If young people, too, could only be taught to count their honest failures as so many premiums raid to experience, how much discouragement would be saved and how many ultimate triumphs won! Parents and teachers do not half appreciate the value of a failure, which with tact and kindness is turned to good account, and which in the end may be far more beneficial than a success. Children should early be trained to consider them not in the light of discouragements, but as the best incentives possible.-New York Tribune.

"Why Is He So Irritable?"

This question is often heard and learly as often unanswered. It is not always remembered, as it should be, that the occasion of illtemper and irritability is often to be found in the physical condition of the persons affected. What is the use of trying to "harmonize" a man whose liver has gone back on him? If a man is tortured with rheumatism, how can ne be expected to be affable and agreeable? Can a confirmed dyspeptic be expected to be cheerful and always ready to tell a funny story? The only way to remove the difficulty is to get at the cause. Dyspepsia, rheumatism. impure blood and liver troubles yield o Hood's Sarsaparilla; this is why it 🔿 s an effective tranquilizer, a peaceful messenger, and a preventive of domestic quarrels.

shown in the Hof museum at Vienna. One is dated 1396. It consists of a large sheet of ribbed white paper folded in three. A band of paper was passed round the outside and through a slit in one edge, being then fastened with soft wax. A small piece of thin paper was laid on the wax and the seal pressed on the paper, not directly on the wax. A somewhat similar arrangement is found in a letter of the year 1446, which was written by the town counselor of Munich to the burgomaster of Rastenburg in the Tyrol, in order to obtain information concerning a man accused of bigamy. In the sixteenth century people in the Tyrol and Bavaria used bands of vellum or cords, fastened with wax. Later came separate round and oblong wafers. The use of the encircling band continued in Austria generally to 1750, or thereabout, and probably reached this century among conservative people. The first envelope of the modern type in this collection belongs to the year 1715.

Keep your blood pure and healthy and you will not have rheumatism. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives the blood itality and richness.

"No. Had I come by train to Marshminster I would have gone to Bellin Hall, where my brother was staying, and seen him before Olivia."

'It's a pity you did not go there," said Merrick thoughtfully. "All this trouble might have then been avoided. Well, how did you get to the Fen inn?"

'I took the train from London to Starby, hired a horse there and rode to the Fen inn.'

"How far is it from Starby to the Fen inn?"

"About 12 miles."

"And from the Fen inn to Marshminster?"

"Ten miles."

"Much about a muchness," said Merrick. "Did you tell Strent you had ridden from Starby?"

"Yes. I had no reason to conceal my movements."

'Quite so. Well, according to Rose Gernon, it was your horse Strent took to escape?'

"It was. I wonder he did not take the horse of Felix."

"For a very simple reason. He knew when the alarm was given that you and Denham would go to Marshminster. Therefore, to hide his trail the better, he went back with your horse to Starby.

"Do you think so?"

"I am sure of it. Go to the livery stable at Starby where you hired your horse, and I am certain you will find it there, restored by Strent."

"Well," said I, in nowise satisfied, "suppose we trace him to Starby. That will be of no use. No doubt he took the train there for London.

"Very probably," said Merrick cool-ly, "and waited there for Rose Gernon."

"But she has not seen him since he fled from the inn."

"So she says, but it is not true, for all that. When he killed Felix, and the evidence seems to point to him as the murderer, he told Rose to take the gig and go to Marshminster. Then he rode off to Starby and rejoined her in London."

"But why should she conceal his movements?"'

"Because he knows too much about the crime," said Merrick decisively. "Either she did it herself and is afraid of his speaking, or he did it, and she wishes to screen him."

"Why should she wish to screen a man who killed her lover?"

"I can't answer all questions," said Merrick irritably, finding himself at a loss. "All this is pure theory, but I

"Faith, you didn't think so at Paris, Briarfield. I've no doubt that there you cursed me by all your gods for a meddlesome fool.

At this he laughed and began to pick who was watching Rose Gernon and gave him the picture drawn by Francis, with a full description of the man he wanted. Especially did we lay stress on the lameness, and in the end our detective promised that he would nail any man answering to our description. I gave him my address at Marsh-minster and told him to wire when he found out the whereabouts of Strent. I also told him to wire to Merrick, as the doctor was anxious to know if his theory would prove correct.

Next day we went down to Marshminster. By permission Francis staid with me at Aurt Jane's house, and learning that he was in trouble the two old ladies made much of him. We saw the inspector of police, who was a friend of mine, and learned that the body of Felix Briarfield was at the morgue of Marshminster. The inquest

"Do you think he is guilty?" asked Francis.

"Upon my word, sir, after all my experience of the law, I am afraid to say who is guilty and who isn't. That theory of Dr. Merrick's regarding Rose Gernon is feasible enough. She certainly seems to have had more motive for killing your brother than had Strent." "It's my opinion," said I, "that there is a relationship between Strent and

Rose. In such relationship lies the secret of the crime and her silence." "Humph! There's something in that, "said the inspector. "They might be man and wife."

"Or brother and sister," suggested Francis.

"Or even lovers," I said, nodding my head. "Jealousy on the part of up his spirits. We saw the detective Strent might have spurred him on to killing Felix."

These, however, were all theories, and we parted for the night without coming to any decision as to who was the guilty party. In the morning I received a telegram from Merrick and went off vy th it at once to the inspector. It ran thus:

"Have secured Strent. Am bringing him down with Rose. Arrive at noon. Hold over inquest if possible."

"By Jove, sir," said the insp "that man is lost as a doctor. He ought to be a detective.

Danger at Sea.

A skipper had taken on a green farmer lad just before sailing. The rural youth had seen no shipping, nor yet had his eyes beheld ships, save only the one upon which he found himself embarked. He was, however, familiar with the vil lage life near his own home, and of all the shops that which most delighted him was the one in the window of which were shown jars of colored liquid, and the interior of which contained a mausoleumlike soda fountain. The first night out the lad, being off duty, was gazing over the bow out into the darkness when he saw near at hand two gleaming, luminous globes of color, one green, the other red. ## SECOND WEEK.

MONDAY, October 15, 1894. The Board met pursuant to adjourn ment; called to order by Chairman pro tem Edwards. Roll called, and quorum present. The journal of yesterday was read and approved.

Mr. Davenport, Chairman of the Committee of the Whole to visit the County House, made the following report:

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Washtenaw County:

Your Committee of the Whole to visit the County House beg leave to report that they have performed their duty, and have made a careful examination o the County House and other buildings also the management. The House is exceedingly clean, the inmates appear to be proyerly cared for, and everything is done for them that can be reasonably expected. We recommend that a vote be passed by the Board commending the excellent management of Mr. and Mrs. Shanklan. All of which is respectfully submitted.

A. DAVENPORT, Chairman of the Committee of the Whole. Report adopted.

Thereupon the Board took a recess until 1:30 p.m.

We have a bailance of $61399 in the hands to the Treasurer. This will leave as thirty-four hundred doilars to be provided for. We would respectfully ask you to allow us twenty-five bundred doilars for the ensuing year-and with no prevailing disease we will try to keep our expenses within that limit. We have the Supervisors to thank for some very much needed repairs and improvements, one of which is the supervisors to thank for some very much needed they would do at the time they were been able to do since the steam heating bas been in operation and which it was promised they would do at the time they were put in; also the much needed Improvement of a new hog-house while all of you that have been very much in need of for these many years, and we think the most of you can testify to its utility and convenience.         All of which is respectfully submitted by the undersigned Superintendents of the Foor of Washtenaw County.       Mr. Robert Martin presented a petition in reference to his assessment in the Township of Superior, the consideration of which was postponed until 1:30 p. m., to-morrow. The Board met pursuant to adjournment. Called to order by Chairman Young. Roll called and quorum present. Mr. Hunter offered the following:

Resolved, That the Supervisor of the Township of Lyndon is hereby instruct ed to assess the several amounts reported to the several Supervisors of this County last year, in the matter of Clark Lake drain.

Carried.

The special hour having arrived for receiving the report of the County Drain Commission, Mr. Barry, being present, made the following report, which report was received and referred to the Committee on Drains, and ordered printed with the proceedings.

The following is the report:

To the Board of Supervisors of Washtenaw County:

GENTLEMEN :- In accordance with the provisions of the Statute in such case made and provided, I have the honor to submit my annual report as the County Drain Commissioner of the County of Washtenaw, covering the period from the first day of January, A. D. 1894, to the tenth day of October, A. D. 1894. The following named drains were found unfinished when I entered upon the duties of my office, to-wit:

The Saline River Drain of the Township of Saline. The Saline and Bridgewater Drain of the Townships of Saline and Bridgewater. The Lambardt Drain of the Township of Freedom.

The above named drains are all completed.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 1.- A special to The Wisconsin from Merrill, Wis., says: Wholesale murder and express robbery was the motive that inspired the recent train wrecking on the "Soo" road. Two men charged with the murder of the man the Hutzel and other makers of brick who lost his life by their work have been to be used in the construction of man- given a preliminary hearing here and held to trial. One of the prisoners has confessed, and his story details the methods pursued to derail the through Minneapolis-Boston limited near Heafford Junction on the night of Oct. 7. In allowed to use his bricks in the con- the crash Fireman Charles Cottrill was struction of man-hole until the Board instantly killed and Engineer James Dutch seriously injured. The plan was to cause a wreck that would kill every person on the train and then rob the safe in the express car, as it was supposed the safe contained a large sum of money. Two of Their Foul Crimes.

The man who confessed is Levitt Hazelton, about 20 years old. He claims to be a resident of Brainard, Minn. His companion is Frank Williams, a short, thickset man who claims to have relatives and friends at Appleton, Wis. Williams stoutly maintains that he knows nothing of the wrecking. The officers traced these men from Minneapolis to this city. On Sept. 30 they sawed a bridge near that place, but owing to the short time in which they had to do the work it was not complete and the train passed over safely. The following week's time was safely. pent between Prentice and Rhinelander. On Oct. 7 they sawed the piles and stringers of the high bridge near Heafford Junction, and the westbound passenger train went crashing down a twenty-foot embankment. The train was running slow, so the wreck was not as complete as the wreckers expected. The baggage, smoking and day coaches and two sleepers were not wrecked and none of the passengers all the stringers across the bridge and two sets of them at the ends, and then sawed the piles or posts upon which they rested. We also cut a brace Made a Sure Thing Next Time.

were hurt. Cared Nothing for Human Life. Oct. 11 the two were captured and found to be armed. They were sent to jail for thirty days for carrying concealed weapons, and the detectives notified. The result was a charge of murder for the death of Cottrill. They pleaded not guilty, and it was not until Friday last that Hazelton expressed a willingness to confess. His words were taken down by a notary and acknowledged under oath. He said in part: "About dark we set to work with the purpose of wrecking a passenger train, so that we could rob the express We expected the wreck would be ear. much worse than it was. We expected that the cars would be all thrown from the track, smashed up, and the passengers and train crew all killed, so that we would have no one to prevent us from ac-complishing our purpose. We thought mostly of the money we would get and not of the loss of life. We began work west of the centre of the bridge. We cut

"After a train passed over we sawed the outside post and the other brace, took the bolts out of the fish plates, pulled the spikes next to the fish plates and removed the bolts from the fish plates at each end of the rail. We waited at the east end of the bridge until the west bound passenger train came and broke through the bridge.

Sacramento Crime.

WOODLAND, Cal., Nov. 1.-The trial for murder of S. G. Worden, of the five A. R. U. men under arrest for having caused the railroad accident which resulted in the death of Engineer Clark and four United States soldiers during the recent strike, developed a sensation. C. J. Stillwell, a private detective, testified to an alleged confession, which was produced, in Worden's handwriting, in which the prisoner on trial confessed complicity in the crime and implicated the other men arrested. Worden in this statement alleges that the train wreckers were given the dynamite which they used to shatter the bridge by Compton, a member of the mediation committee. Worden also makes the somewhat remarkable statement that he hired reached here of the lynching of Eddy Mar. tin in Crittenden county by a mob variously estimated at from fifty to 100 men. The scene of the lynching is a remote part of the county, and the details of the crime are hard to get. The best obtainable in-formation is that Martin was called upon at his home after midnight and asked to get up and help put out a fire that was raging in the neighborhood. Opening the door he was seized by a dozen or more men, who asked for information of Bill Goode, the lawless pauper commissioner of Crittenden county.

He was also asked about the latter's crimes, and especially that of horse steal-The mob told him they had come to ing. hang him, but if he would turn state's evidence upon Bill Goode he would be spared. "If these are the only terms, gen-Lemen," said he, "let the hanging pro-ceed. Bill Goode has been my friend and I will shield him." The mob quickly did its work and left the body swaying from a limb upon a lone country road. Goode has been visited three times by a mob, but escaped each time. Berry Rich was hung about two weeks ago and the mob made a aid again last week, but failed to find their men.

INCIDENT OF THE POLITICAL FIGHT.

Chicago's Mayor, Feeling Outraged by a Statement in a Circular, Swears Out a Warrant_Facts About the Difficulty_ The Campaign Takes a New Start and the Voices of Prominent Orators Again Stir Up the Masses.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.-John R. Tanner, chairman of the Republican state central committee, was arrested yesterday afternoon at 3:10 o'clock. The warrant for his arrest was issued by Justice Prindiville and was served by Constable McInerney, who found Tanner at Republican headquarters, room 134, Grand Pacific hotel. Tanner at the time the warrant was served was talking to a few of his leading political associates, and was not in the least disturbed by the proceedings. The information on which the warrant was issued was sworn out by Mayor John P. Hopkins, and charges Tanner with criminal libel. Tanner at once started with the officer to the justice's office to give bail.

History of the Difficulty.

This was the sequel of an interview Hopkins had with Tanner twenty-four hours previous in which he asked Tanner if he sanctioned and was responsible for a plause in a circular issued from Republican headquarters at this city and signed by a fac simile of Tanner's signature. The clause that raised the trouble declared that the Republicans would win the coming eloction in spite of a number of things. among which was "the blackmail levied by Hopkins upon the vices of the city of Chicago." This charge had been made by the Republican press over and over again, but Hopkins said he had waited until it was made by somebody who was responsible.

Had Nothing to Take Back.

When Hopkins, in the presence of witnesses, called Tanner's attention to the clause Tanner said he sanctioned it and was responsible for its distribution. Thereupon Hopkins told him he would prosecute him for criminal libel and that the prosecution would not be for political purposes, but for personal satisfaction and would be pushed. Tanner made a remark which may be interpreted that to sue and push the suit was Hopkins' right and "let her push." It was expected that the warrant would be sworn out and Tanner arrested yesterday morning, but Hopkins concluded that he would first try the grand jury. Graud Jury Not Quick Enough.

But for some reason the grand jury took no action, although Hopkins went before it. Assistant States Attorney Knight is quoted as saying that he advised both Hopkins and the jury that it was not an opportune time to take up such a matter. When seen by a reporter Hopkins is re-ported thus: "The question is purely a legal one. Mr. Tanner admits the authorship of the circular, and if I am unable to reach him through the grand jury I will do so through the court of record. There is nothing more to be said, but you can safely say that I will nail Mr. Tanner if there is any law under which it is possible so to do.'

So, the grand jury having failed to act, the warrant was sworn out and served. Of course Tanner had no trouble in giving bail. He does not talk much, and says he is too busy with preparations for the battle of ballots next Tuesday to give any time to the mayor's charge

Brief Remarks by the Principals. Mayor Hopkins said last night: "The libel has been industriously circulated throughout the state. I am accused of a vile crime, and the intention is to injure democracy, that recognizes the good the Democratic ticket. The people have a right to know whether I am guilty or not. If I am I should be impeached. I shall respectfully insist that the case be out of the warrant by Hopkins is merely a bit of play for the grand stand. When the grand jury refused to take action he was compelled to swear out the warrant to keep up his bluff."

speech was devoted to apportionment, fed-eral election laws, and the tariff. He said that the friends of the administration were giving him a cordial support everywhere, burying past dissensions, for which he thanked them. He was given an enthusiastic reception. The Hill party left on the 4:30 train for Newburgh, where Hill spoke last night. He also made ten-minute speeches at Middletown and Goshen en route.

GEN. HARF. SON AT NEW YORK. He and Levi P. Morton Enthusiastically

Greeted by Republicans. NEW YORK, Nov. 1.-Ex-President Harrison spoke at Carnegie Music Hall last evening. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Republican state committee to ratify the nomination of Morton and Sexton. When the doors were opened at 7 o'clock the street was crowded. When 6,000 persons were packed into the hall there were still many thousands outside seeking admittance. As the band concluded a familiar air two gentlemen in clerical attire were ushered across the platform. Some of those in the hall recognized one of them as Archbishop Ireland, of St. Paul. His companion was Bishop McGolrick, of Duluth.

It was 8:30 and neither Harrison nor Morton had put in an appearance. The audience was getting impatient, when there was a commotion at the door and Harrison and Morton appeared. Their arrival was signalized by a great outburst of enthusiasm. The people stood up, waved flags, hats and handkerchiefs and cheered until they grew hoarse. Morton presided and Harrison made a speech that was cheered from start to finish.

Previous to introducing General Harrison Morton spoke for about fifteen min-utes, it being his first speech of the campaign.

Eckels Talks at Psinceton.

PRINCETON, Ills., Nov. 1.-Comptroller of the Currency James H. Eckels addressed a fair sized audience in this city, his former home. He said the panic of last year was not attributable to any political party, but was the result of a series of events in which one of the important features was heavy and unwar-ranted private speculations, and another the operation of the silver purchase clause of the Sherman law.

McKinley Makes Fifteen Speeches. COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 1.-Governor Mc-Kinley had a triumphant tour through the Fifteenth congressional district, notwithstanding the disagreeable weather, mak ing fifteen speeches, and addressed all but three of them from the rear of special trains on the Cleveland and Marietta and Zanesville and Ohio River roads. Last night the governor addressed 5,000 people in Memorial Hall at Zanesville.
