Old Washtenaw County Joins the Republican Column.

NOT A DEMOCRAT ELECTED IN THIS COUNTY

Gen. Spalding Gets 6,000 Plurality in this Congressional District.—Gov. Rich has a 100,000 Plurality.—Only One Democrat in the Michigan Legislature.

The democrats of Washtenaw county weren't feeling just right Tuesday. The results proved it. Rock-ribbed democratic Washtenaw concluded to have a change. Everything else was going republican and Washtenaw thought she would go too. The complete returns are not yet in, the township of Lima, which was about 30 republican, not having sent in its returns, but with this exception the full returns are given in the table below. Leaving out Lima, Rich carries Washtenaw by 836; Spalding by 662; Watts by 691, while Kempf is elected representative by 516 and Wortley by 335.

On the county ticket, outside of Lima, the majorities were as follows: Clerk, Dansingburg, 591; Pros. Att'y, Randall, 680; Sheriff, Judson, 772; Register of Deeds, McKinstry, 812; Treasurer, Rehfsuss, 1083. The full figures by townships and wards will be found in the table at the foot of this page. It will be seen that many of the democratic strongholds went republican. The figures tell the tale.

Spalding's Big Majority.

In spite of the fact that Mr. Barkworth was on two tickets, he went down in the general landslide the worse beaten democratic candidate for congress who ever ran in this district. Spalding carries every county in the district by tremendous majorities. The populists polled about 1,400 votes, but Spalding's pluralities are as follows: Jackson, 1762; Lenawee, 2201; Monroe, 816; Wayne, 651; Washtenaw, 662, or a total of 6,092.

Death of George Perry.

The death of George Perry, of Maple St., occurred last night. The deceased was one of the oldest men in the county, having lived to the extreme old age of 96. He was born in Connecticut, but lived the greater part of his life in Amherstburg, Ohio. He moved to this city 28 years ago and lived the life of a retired merchant. His wife died some three years ago and no children were ever born to them.—Times Ypsilanti Cor.

For the Michigan State Sunday School association convention at Grand Rapids, tickets sold Nov. 12, 13 and 14, limited to return not later than Nov. 16, 1894.

R. S. GREENWOOD, Agt.

In Michigan.

Michigan went overwhelmingly republican. Rich's plurality will reach 104,000. Fisher carried only two counties in the state, Bay by 540 and Manitou by 100. Wayne county gives the largest republican plurality, 8,294, while Kent gives 5,733. There will not be a democrat in the Michigan Senate and only one democrat, John Donovan, of Bay, in the Michigan House. The democratic representative in the legislature will vote as a unit.

"Lost Paradise Last Night."

Wm. Morris and his thoroughly excellent company at the Grand Opera House last night secured the approbation of the audience and held it progressively to the last curtain drop. The young actor is worthy of high commendation as an interpreter of a difficult role, demanding emotional strength. Mr. Morris is fortunate in his support both in the serious parts and in the excellent comedy passages which supply the seasoning and afford delightful variations. The ladies of the company are exceptionally charming.

Repose at Last.

The many friends of William R. Price, who during his long period of ill health, had hoped for his restoration, were pained to learn of his death, Monday, at Ashville, N. C., where, accompanied by his sister, he went some months ago, hoping that the change would benefit him. His death was due to consumption. Mr. Price was a young man of excellent attainments, and popular with all. He was for some time the teller of the First National bank, from which position he was forced by failing health to retire, some three years ago.

A Partial Difference.

An Evening News article headed, "Students' Strike," sets forth rebellion among the post-graduate laws, and that Prof. Mechem has given the men more work than they can attend to, and adds:

"An indignation meeting was held and resolutions were passed that until the professor confined himself to the limits of reason his lessons would be bolted," and that "One of the prominent lecturers is back of the boys, and the chances are good for a lively row." It concludes by stating that M. S. Clawson has been appointed chairman "to advance the boys' grievances, and see that Mechem has no one present at his lectures until the demands are satisfied."

This brings the said M. S. Clawson out in a communication in the U. of M. Daily with a statement by which it appears that the News is correct except in slight particulars, as follows: That no such rebellion has been even thought of. No such indignation meeting has been held. No such resolutions have been passed. No prominent lecturer is "back of the boys." The chances are not good for a lively row, nor have I been appointed to "see that Mechem has no one present at his lectures until the demands are satisfied." It appears from this that the News is all right except as to one feature of its article, viz., that it is not so.

He Shot an Elk.

William Wacker, of Freedom, recently had shipped to him from Oregon, the horns of an elk which he killed in that state, near Albany, about a year ago. The horns arrived in Ann Arbor a few days ago, and are temporarily in the possession of Charles Binder, sr., of this city. They measure four feet in length and weigh 23 pounds. After bringing down his prize with a rifle ball, Mr. Wacker thought to preserve the head and neck of the animal, which he struck off and attempted to drag home, but found, after hauling it a considerable distance, that he was "winded." Thereupon he left the head in the woods, and returned the next day to find that a bear had eaten away the face of the elk and destroyed it for taxidermical purposes. So he knocked off the horns, which still attest the prowess of the owner and will become the pride of his posterity.

The Police Inspector.

(Grand Opera House).

"The Police Inspector," the newest of the stage stories to exploit phases of police life in New York, and for that matter, all over the country, for the police departments of all metropolitan cities are largely patterned after the Gotham institution, was given a hearing yesterday at the Fifteenth street theatre. Inspector Byrns, whose name is a terror to wrong-doers, and whose skirts remain absolutely clean even under the close scrutiny of a Lexow committee, stands as the type for the hero of the performance now being given at the Fifteenth street theatre.

The play deals with incidents of the seamy side of life in the metropolis, and the author, Mr. Will R. Wilson, an erstwhile police reporter on one of the New York dailies, has made a close study of the modern Vidocq, with entire credit to himself, even though he has allowed the sensational to run away with the dramatic situations sometimes. It is a play absolutely suited to the patrons of Mr. Burgess' theatre, and the two immense houses testified appreciation of the performances yesterday.—Omaha Daily Bee

The Election in This City.

In Ann Arbor, the republican pluralities range from 56 for Dansingburg to 390 for Kempf. Rich carried the city by 307, Milnes by 273, Maynard by 290, Spalding by 237, Watts by 203, Kempf by 390. The republican majorities on the county ticket were not so large, but were as follows: Judson, 193; Dansingburg, 56; McKinstry, 160; Rehfsuss, 169; Randall, 198. The democrats made a good fight in the first and sixth wards, but the other wards show heavy republican gains. The populist vote in the city was 17 and the prohibition 81. The vote on governor was as follows: Fisher, 929; Rich, 1,236; Todd, 81; Nichols, 17. On lieutenant governor the vote was Mayo, 940; Milnes, 1213; Wisner, 79. On attorney general, Fred A. Maynard, an old Washtenaw county boy, received 1,213 to 923 for O'Hara. On congressman the few populists were loyal to Barkworth, whose vote showed a slight gain in addition to the democratic and populist vote. The vote was Barkworth, 964; Spalding, 1,201; Grandon, 71. Capt. Manly had as many votes as Barkworth, although he received no populist votes, while Watts fell 34 votes behind Spalding, the vote standing: Manly 964, Watts 1,167, Steere 84, Thorpe 16. On representative, Dancer had 881 votes, Kempf 1,271, Doane 79, Walker 15.

On the county ticket the vote differed somewhat, Brenner had 987, Judson 1,180, Palmer 66, and Johnson 8. Capt. Schuh made a big run considering the year, and raised 1,044 votes to 1,100 for Dansingburg, 74 for Conrad and 14 for Reeves. For register of deeds, Hughes had 988, McKinstry 1,148, Bowdish 79, Burks 15. For treasurer, Sukey had 992, Rehfsuss 1,161, Backus 78, Woodman 14. For prosecuting attorney, Kearney had 974, Randall 1,172, Taylor 77, Freer 14. For circuit court commissioner, McKernan had 984, Towner 980, Webb 1,175, Butterfield 1,178. For coroner, Clark had 951, Batwell 944, Ball 1,183, Bartin 1,181. For surveyor, Woodward had 942, and Allen 1,183.

For justice of the peace, Gibson has 1,203 votes, Voorheis 968, a majority for Gibson of 235, while over 100 voters refused to vote at all. Gibson carried the first ward by 60, the fourth by 65, the fifth by 36, and the sixth by 130. Voorheis carried the second by 40 and the third by 16.

Bryant's Day.

The last event in the Unity club course was dedicated to the memory of the late poet, William Cullen Bryant. A large audience was present. The vice president, Miss Carlotta Bullis, presided in the absence of the president. Judge Hariman read a paper on "Bryant the Man," in which he gave a description of the famous poet, his personal habits, characteristics, grooves of intellectual research, his home, etc.

Regent Barbour, instead of delivering an address, brought out a poem, in which was embalmed with rich spices of poetry the memory of the great composer of poems.

Prof. Hinsdale, in a paper entitled "Bryant, the Scholar, Journalist and Orator," brought out the distinguishing characteristics of his subject in a felicitous manner. He related a story of Bryant, who in 1876, having completed the translation of Homer, attended a great celebration at Williams college, of which he was an alumnus. President Hopkins referred to the translation of Homer as "more than Homeric," adding that Homer did sometimes nod, but his translator never did. Inopportunistly for this intended happy remark, Bryant, who was then 82, and very tired and drowsy, with heat, gave a nod that nearly brought him out of his chair.

Prof. Demmon read a paper on "Bryant's Influence on American Literature." He compared Bryant with Wadsworth and instanced many characteristics common to both.

Rev. Mr. Sunderland discoursed of Bryant as a religious and ethical teacher and followed him from his early faith of Calvinism into the field of liberal Christianity. He eulogized the moral character of the poet, and fancied him for the depth of his religious convictions and his broad religious spirit.

Letters were read from Rev. Theodore C. Williams, pastor of All Souls Unitarian church, New York, to which Bryant belonged during the latter portion of his life; from Mr. Parke Goodwin, the son-in-law and editorial colleague of Bryant; from John Bryant, of Princeton, Ill., the poet's brother; also a poem written for the occasion, by Rev. John W. Chadwick, a distinguished poet of Brooklyn, for many years a close friend Bryant.

The occasion and its observance was one which for the able character of the papers read and the renown of the writers should be found worthy of preservation in a volume.

When our legislature changed the sparrow bounty law, so that only at certain seasons could the little gibberer's scalp be obtained, the people all said "it was a bolck headed piece of business." The small boy, however, as he pops over the fighting little rascals, remarks that the change to the theater season was much for his benefit, and he blesses "the wise legislature."

I. J. Cook brought to this office, Monday, a mangel-wurzel that measured 2 feet in length and weighed 13 pounds.—Pinckney Dispatch. There is a child worth raising.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronou ned it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional cure. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: J. F. Representatives Republican Safety and Growing More So—Unusual News from Missouri—Hatch and Eight Other Democrats Reported Beaten for Congress but the Legislature Democratic—Fuller Returns Confirm the First Reports of the Political Upheaval.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—The following table shows the standing of the next congress as nearly as can be computed from returns received up to a late hour last night. A number of districts in different states are still in doubt, and the results in these will not be known until today.

There is still doubt as to some of the North Carolina districts, but it is believed that the figures above are substantially correct. In the South Carolina delegation the six Alliance men will vote with the Democrats on organization. In Missouri the figures are very close in two or three districts, and the official count may cause a change. In Texas the results in seven districts are still uncertain. The Democrats have carried six districts. In five of the others the Populists are running close, and the Republicans claim two districts.

POPULISTS HOLD THE BALANCE.

Republicans and Democrats Have a Stand-off in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Reports received here indicate that the next senate will have forty-one Democrats, forty-one Republicans and six Populists. In this classification Stewart and Jones, of Nevada, who were elected by the Republicans but have announced their separation from that party, and Tillman, who will doubtless be elected by the so-called Independent Democrats of the South Carolina legislature, are placed in the Populist column. Tillman will probably vote with the Democrats on organization and Stewart, Jones and Peffer with the Republicans. This would throw the balance of power into the hands of the Populists.

House Very Safely Republican.

When Chairman Babcock, of the Republican congressional committee, left the Republican headquarters last night he said that the reports received during the day gave the Republicans 230 out of the 356 members of the house beyond peradventure, while there was a possibility of securing twenty-seven additional members. Babcock also stated that his information leads him to believe that there is a possibility of securing three more members from Alabama; two from Illinois; one from Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and South Carolina each; three more from Minnesota; two from Ohio; two from Pennsylvania; three from Missouri; one from Arkansas; three from Louisiana, and three from Texas.

In Case of an Improbability.

If these claims are realized it will give the Republicans 257 members, or a majority of ninety-nine members. According to the claims of the Republicans they will be able to secure the votes of at least thirty of the forty-four states in case the next presidential election is thrown into the house, as they will have either the solid delegations or a majority in each of the delegations from that number of states.

The Remarkable Groundswell.

The extent of the change in the political aspect of things is a surprise even to the Republicans. As matters stand now there are but two northern and western states that are not Republican and no eastern states. To the great plurality of 145,000 for Morton in New York, New Hampshire 12,000, the carrying of Connecticut, New Jersey and Delaware, is added a Republican legislature in West Virginia and a full Republican congressional delegation from the same state, defeating the author of the house tariff bill. Then there is the defeat of Enloe in Tennessee by his Republican opponent, and last the report that two-thirds of the Missouri delegation is Republican, Hatch being among the beaten, and that the legislature is also possibly the same way.

MISSOURI A REPUBLICAN STATE.

Congressional Delegations Captured by the G. O. P.—Hatch Defeated.

St. Louis, Nov. 8.—From the latest unofficial returns received from thirty-five counties in Missouri Republican gains of 15,000 are shown and the election of their entire state ticket by a plurality of at least 10,000 is assured. The lower house of the state legislature is Republican, but the Democrats, who have a majority in the senate, will be able to carry things on a joint ballot.

Returns from some of the congressional districts are rather conflicting, but on the whole show a decided Republican gain. At least six Democratic candidates for congress were defeated and possibly several more will be counted in the Republican column when complete official returns are in. The defeat of Hatch in the First district by C. N. Clarke by 400 plurality is claimed by the Republicans. Bland is probably defeated by J. L. D. Hubbard, Rep.

St. Louis, Nov. 8.—As nearly as can be ascertained at this hour the Democrats have lost the Fourth, Fifteenth, Thirteenth, First, Third, Sixth, Eighth and Eleventh congressional districts. The Tenth is always Republican. The defeated Democrats are: T. C. Ellison, C. H. Morgan, J. D. Fox, W. H. Hatch (anti-opium), A. M. Dockery, D. A. DeArmond, R. P. Bland (Silver Dick) and Frederick E. Epenhied, respectively. The successful Republicans are: George A. Crowther, C. E. Burton, John Rainey, O. M. Clark, H. G. Orton, P. E. Lewis, J. O. Hubbard and Charles T. Joy, respectively. R. N. Bartboldt (Rep) continues to hold the Tenth.

St. Joseph, Nov. 8.—Returns show that Crowther (Rep.) has been elected beyond a doubt in the Fourth congressional district. His plurality is about 1,000. This county sends two Republicans and one Democrat to the state legislature and the state senator is a Republican. The majority of the county officers will be Republican for the first time in twenty-five years.

CALIFORNIA SOMEWHAT MIXED.

Democrats Ahead on State Ticket and Republicans on Congressmen.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—About one-half the entire vote of California is counted, and the result indicates that James H. Budd (Dem.) candidate for governor, has a plurality in this city of about 10,000, and will probably be elected by a plurality of between 6,000 and 7,000. With the exception of supreme court justices and comptroller sufficient returns have not been received to indicate which party has been successful with the remainder of the state ticket. The Republicans have elected one supreme court justice, Henshaw, and the Democrats the other two, Temple and Bridgford, the latter being elected to an unexpired term.

Colgan, the Republican nominee for comptroller is also elected by perhaps 6,000 plurality. The returns now indicate that the Republicans have elected six out of the seven congressmen. McGuire (Dem.) in the Fourth district is re-elected, while there is little doubt that Caminetti, present representative from the Second district and Gray in the First and English in the Third have been defeated. There are still no returns to indicate the complexion of the legislature.

IN ILLINOIS AND CHICAGO.

The Plurality in the State May Reach 125,000—Legislative Situation.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Practically complete returns from the state indicate that the Republicans will have a majority of thirty-eight on joint ballot in the next Illinois legislature. In the senate there are seventeen Democrats and thirty-four Republicans; in the house eighty-seven Republicans, sixty-five Democrats, and one Populist. The vote in Cook county for state senators shows the election of ten Republicans and two Democrats; for state representatives twenty-four Republicans, twenty-one Democrats and one Populist are elected. Some precincts are still missing, but they will not affect the result.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—The result of the election in this state is one that the Republicans are feeling very joyful over. Chairman Tanner says he has received returns showing a plurality of 50,000 in the state and declares that they indicate 125,000 when all are in. This may be too high an estimate, but the plurality will be very large.

For congress in this city it looks like a full delegation of Republicans. All seven are claimed and they appear to be elected. There are three the Democrats do not give up, but the Republicans confidently assert that they have them all. The whole county ticket is elected by pluralities ranging from 15,000 to 20,000 according to Democratic figures and from 24,000 to 48,000 according to Republican estimates.

BROUGH'S BIG MAJORITY BEATEN.

Ohio Probably Gives Over 150,000 for the Republicans.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 8.—More complete returns indicate that the Republican plurality for secretary of state will exceed 150,000. The present Ohio delegation in congress consists of eleven Democrats and ten Republicans. The newly elected delegation consists of nineteen Republicans and two Democrats as follows: First district, Charles F. Taft, Rep.; Second, J. H. Brownell, Rep.; Third, H. J. Sorg, Dem.; Fourth, F. C. Layton, Dem.; Fifth, F. B. Dewitt, Rep.; Sixth, George W. Hulick, Rep.; Seventh, George W. Wilson, Rep.; Eighth, L. M. Strong, Rep.; Ninth, J. H. Southard, Rep.; Tenth, L. J. Fenton, Rep.; Eleventh, Charles H. Grosvenor, Rep.; Twelfth, D. K. Watson, Rep.; Thirteenth, S. R. Harris, Rep.; Fourteenth, W. S. Kerr, Rep.; Fifteenth, H. C. Van Voorhis, Rep.; Sixteenth, Lorenzo Sanford, Rep.; Seventeenth, A. S. McLaughlin, Rep.; Eighteenth, R. W. Taylor, Rep.; Nineteenth, Stephen A. Northway, Rep.; Twentieth, C. H. Beach, Rep.; Twenty-first, T. E. Burton, Rep.

North Carolina in Doubt.

RALEIGH, Nov. 8.—The state judicial ticket is so close that it will require the official vote to decide. The legislature is in doubt. The Democrats hope for it, but make no claims. The Populist and Republican leaders are very confident. Indications are that the fusion ticket has defeated the Democratic congressional candidates in the First, Fourth, Fifth, Seventh, Eighth and Ninth districts, making the congressional delegation stand three Democrats, two Republicans and four Populists. The Democrats, however, are still claiming the Seventh and Ninth districts.

Silver Men Carry Nevada.

CARSON CITY, Nov. 8.—Returns are coming in very slowly. At many points the count is still in progress. From the meagre returns received the indications are that Jones, nominee of the free silver party, has been elected, and defeated Cleveland, Republican, for governor by from 500 to 800. The congressional election is very close, but the indications are in favor of Newlands, silver party candidate.

CHAPTER XV.

"You see I was right," said Merrick when I met him at the station.

"You have been right in every instance," I answered. "The inspector here quite agrees with me that you should be a detective. Where are your prisoners?"

"No, no! Not prisoners," replied Merrick, shocked at the word. "They are my guests, traveling companions—what you will, but not prisoners."

"Still I see my detective attends on them both," said I as Strent and Rose Gernon came along the platform.

"It is well to take all precautions. How is Francis Briarfield?"

"Rather downcast. He is afraid of being arrested for the murder."

"No fear of that," answered Merrick, casting a glance at Strent. "This gentleman's evidence will exonerate him fully."

Strent, smooth and unctuous as ever, rubbed his hands and bowed, but Rose Gernon turned her back on him with a gesture of disgust. Evidently she had not forgiven his hurried departure from the inn.

"What are we waiting for?" she said sharply. "Let us go on to the inquest. I wish to get it over as soon as possible and return to town."

We took the hint and walked along to a room adjoining the morgue, where the inquest was being held. I introduced Merrick to the inspector, and after a short conversation they went into the morgue to examine the body. Not caring to see so ghastly a sight, I remained outside with Francis. In a quarter of an hour the doctor and the inspector returned, the former rubbing his hands with a well pleased expression, the latter looking somewhat astonished. What had passed in the morgue I know not, as Merrick refused to gratify my curiosity.

"Wait till you hear the evidence of Strent," he said significantly.

The jury was made up of well to do Marshminster tradesmen, who took a profound interest in the proceedings, as the dead man was the brother of Miss Bellin's future husband. The Bellins were the great people of the neighborhood, and the tradesmen hoped to serve the hall when Mr. and Mrs. Briarfield settled there. They were, therefore, excessively polite to Francis, but their frequent marks of attention only drew from him a bitter smile.

"Would they treat me in this way if they knew all?" he whispered to me.

"They will never know all," I answered in the same tone.

I had spoken to the inspector, and he in his turn had talked seriously with the coroner. The latter had been told the whole story, and though astonished at the folly of Francis yet found it in his heart to be sorry for the young man. He said he would not question Francis more than was necessary, and we hoped to carry through the inquest without exposing the underlying romance.

The first witness called was a local doctor, who deposed to having examined the body of Felix. He gave it as his opinion that the young man had died of poison and explained the state of the blood with a lot of medical technicalities which none of the jury understood. It was said the doctor, a case of blood poisoning, and the deceased had been wounded in the hand by some sharp instrument which was steeped in poison.

I came next and narrated how I had staid at the Fen inn on that night and had met there Francis Briarfield, who was waiting there for his brother. Then I told of the discovery of the corpse and the finding of the arrowhead in the fireplace. I said nothing about my tracking the trail to the pool, and if possible we wished that portion of the evidence to be passed over in silence. Fortunately the jury were a dull headed lot and submitted quietly to the guidance of the coroner. He only asked questions pertinent to the death without going too deeply into the subject. At this point I produced the arrowhead.

Francis explained that he had arrived from Chile on the 6th of June and had gone at once to the Fen inn at the request of his brother Felix. His brother had not arrived on that night, and he had gone to bed. He was unable to say how his brother had come to his tragic end. Then came the critical point which we wished passed over in silence.

"Did you see your brother at the Fen inn, Mr. Briarfield?" asked the coroner.

"I did not see my brother alive," was the evasive answer.

"Perhaps the body had been put in the pool by the murderer," said one of the jurymen, "in which case Mr. Briarfield would not see him."

"I did not go to the pool on that night," replied Francis, adroitly evading the remark. "It was later on that I learned my brother's body was there and at once gave instructions that the pool was to be dragged."

At this point Mr. Briarfield was asked to stand down, and the inspector's evidence was taken. He deposed to the fact that Mr. Briarfield had instructed him to drag the pool for the body, and that it was found there.

This piece of evidence quite put the jury off the scent, as, if Francis had placed the body in the pool, he would not have told the inspector where to find it. The critical point was thus glided gently over, and the coroner called Rose Gernon. Once the jury knew how the crime had been committed, and they would forget all about the hiding of the body in the pool, so that the folly of Francis would not be made public.

I must say that Rose Gernon gave her evidence very clearly. She said she was an intimate friend of Felix Briarfield, a statement which rather shocked the moral tradesmen of Marshminster. Felix asked her to go down to the inn, as he had prepared it for his brother and wished to see him there about a family matter.

"But the inn was a ruin," interrupted a jurymen. Miss Gernon said that was very true. Still it was habitable, and Mr. Felix Briarfield had sent on fuel and provisions. As the former proprietor had left all the furniture, the rooms were fairly comfortable. She could not say why Felix did all this unless it was that he wanted to see his brother privately.

Such talk was very weak, and the jurymen looked significantly at one another. They knew the Fen inn and could not conceive that any one could be so mad as to dwell in it even for a night. It was said to be haunted, and, though such a superstition might be scoffed at, yet not one of those present would have passed 12 hours of darkness in that ill omened place.

"Were you not afraid when you saw the lone inn," asked a jurymen.

Rose shrugged her shoulders and laughed contemptuously.

"I am afraid of nothing," she said coolly. "There are no such things as ghosts. Besides I had my brother with me."

"Your brother?"

"Yes, Edward Strent."

The inspector gave a low whistle, and catching my eye nodded significantly. He remembered what I had said on the previous night, and now agreed with my theory that the secret of the committal of the crime lay in the relationship existing between Rose and Strent. They were, it appeared, brother and sister. I saw all kinds of possibilities now that such a tie was made clear. Meanwhile Rose proceeded with her evidence.

"Mr. Felix Briarfield came to the inn," she said, "after his brother had gone to rest. I saw and spoke with him and afterward went to bed myself. I understood that he was going to stay all night and see his brother in the morning."

"Was he alone in the room when you left him?"

"No. He was with Strent. An hour or so after I retired Strent came to my door and asked me to go down stairs. I did so and found Felix lying dead on the floor. My brother had left the room, and on going out at the back of the house I found him mounting the horse of Mr. Francis Briarfield. I asked him what had happened, and he just said Felix was dead and advised me to fly lest I should be accused of the murder."

"That, I suppose, was also the reason of his flight?"

"So he told me when I saw him in London, but he then declared himself innocent of the crime. I was afraid I would be accused of the crime, so took the horse and gig in which we had come to the Fen inn and drove to Marshminster. From there I returned to London."

"Why did you not give the alarm?"

"I was afraid of being accused of the murder."

Here the inspector whispered something in the ear of the coroner. He nodded and again spoke to Rose Gernon.

"Why did you not tell Mr. Denham where to find Strent when he was apparently guilty?"

"Strent is my brother," said Rose quietly, "and as he told me he was innocent I did not wish him to be arrested for the crime. But that he visited me yesterday and was seen by the men set to watch me he would never have been caught."

Her examination lasted some considerable time, but the coroner did not succeed in eliciting anything new from her. She persistently held to the same story, so in despair the examiner desisted, and she was told to stand down. In her place Edward Strent was called, and then for me began the most interesting part of the case. I knew all that had been said hitherto, but I did not know how the crime had been committed and waited to hear what Strent had to say. I quite believed him to be guilty, yet hardly thought he would accuse himself of the crime.

He first corroborated the story of Rose as to going to the inn and narrated all that had occurred up to the time when he was left alone in the room with Felix.

"When I found myself alone with Briarfield," he proceeded, "I had a quarrel with him."

"About what?"

"About my sister. He had promised to marry her, yet, as I well knew, was paying attentions to Miss Bellin."

"But Miss Bellin was engaged to his brother," remarked a jurymen.

"I know that. It was about Miss Bellin he wished to see his brother. I insisted that he should marry my sister, and he refused. We had hot words. He was on one side of the table, I on the other. Between us lay the arrowhead which he had brought in his pocket."

"Why had he brought the arrowhead there?"

"I don't know," replied Strent, lying with the utmost promptitude. "He took the arrowhead out of his pocket, said it was poisoned and laid it down on the table.

"Do you think he intended to kill his brother because he stood in his way with Miss Bellin?" asked an inquisitive jurymen of a romantic turn of mind.
"I really don't know, sir," replied Strent, looking the jurymen straight in the face. "He said nothing to me. We were quarreling over the shabby way in which he had treated my sister, and the arrowhead was on the table between us."

"What was the position of the arrowhead?" asked the coroner prompted by Merrick.

"It was leaning against a book which was on the table, and the point was uppermost. I said to Mr. Briarfield, 'Will you marry my sister?' and he said: 'No, I'm — if I will.' While saying this he brought down the open palm of his hand on the arrowhead and gave a cry of pain. When he lifted his hand, it had a ragged wound across it from the thumb to the little finger. I wished to bind it up, but he pushed me away, crying out he was a dead man. In three minutes he was lying dead on the floor. I threw the arrowhead into the fireplace and tried to revive him, but it was of no use. He was dead."

"And you?"
"I was afraid I would be accused of the death, as Mr. Denham or Mr. Francis might have heard us quarreling together. I lost my head altogether and only thought of flight. I ran up to my sister's room and told her Felix was dead. Then I saddled the horse. When she came to the door, I was mounting. I told her to take the gig and fly to Marshminster, and that I would explain all in London."

"You fled like a coward."
"I suppose I did," said the man sullenly, "but I was beside myself with terror. I rode to Starby and gave the horse back to the livery stable keeper. Then I went to London and saw my sister. She agreed with me that it was best to keep quiet, so I did not come forward to give evidence. Had it not been for that detective who watched my sister, I should not be here now."

This evidence practically ended the inquest. Merrick was called to prove that the wound in the hand was such a one as might have been made by the downward stroke of the hand on a sharp point. This evidence was substantiated by the local practitioner, who had examined the body with Dr. Merrick. There was no doubt that the affair had happened as Strent said. Felix Briarfield had slapped his open hand on the table to emphasize his refusal to marry Rose Gernon. Unfortunately it came in contact with the poisoned arrowhead. The flint had an edge like a razor, and being steeped in virulent poison acted like a snake bite on the unfortunate young man. Felix had not been murdered, but died by misadventure.

That was the verdict brought in by the jury, and so the whole of this strange affair came to an end. Thanks to the astuteness of the inspector and the delicacy of the coroner, the jury were quite unaware of what had happened between the death of Felix and the inquest. The reporters of the Marshminster Gazette merely put in a short statement of the affair, and in a few days people ceased to take any interest in the Fen inn crime. It was a lucky escape for Francis, but I don't think the lesson was thrown away on him.

Rose Gernon and her brother went back to town the same evening. I never saw Strent again, but frequently had the pleasure of seeing his sister performing on the stage. She is now engaged to be married, but with the knowledge of her actions at the Fen inn I cannot say I envy the bridegroom.

After the burial of Felix I went abroad with Francis, whose health was quite broken down by the strain put on it during the last few weeks. He returned in six months and married Olivia. She was told all that had taken place in the lone inn, but kept the information to herself. Mrs. Bellin never knew that Felix had substituted himself for Francis. I was best man at the wedding by particular request and saw the happy pair start for their honeymoon.

Dr. Talmage at Home Again.
NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Rev. Dr. T. Dewitt Talmage has returned from his trip around the world. He came on the Paris. He said in an interview that he had seen things that would take him a year to describe and ten years to tell how much he had enjoyed it. He had been to the Hawaiian islands, to Samoa, to New Zealand, to all the cities of Australia, where his itinerary was a sort of pastoral visit. He was asked: "Shall you not preach for your tabernacle congregation?" "I shall preach always. Woe is me if I preach not the gospel. I have made no arrangements for the future."

I saw the happy pair start for their honeymoon.

moon. I hope they will be happy and am sure they deserve to be, seeing through what tribulations they have passed.

"What has become of the Fen inn?" asked Dr. Merrick one day when we were talking over the case.

"Oh, the Fen inn is pulled down, I believe" was my reply. "There will be no more tragedies there."

"A fit end for such a shambles," said Merrick, and I think he was about right.

"Why Is He So Irritable?"
This question is often heard and nearly as often unanswered.
It is not always remembered, as it should be, that the occasion of ill-temper and irritability is often to be found in the physical condition of the persons affected. What is the use of trying to "harmonize" a man whose liver has gone back on him? If a man is tortured with rheumatism, how can he be expected to be affable and agreeable? Can a confirmed dyspeptic be expected to be cheerful and always ready to tell a funny story? The only way to remove the difficulty is to get at the cause. Dyspepsia, rheumatism, impure blood and liver troubles yield to Hood's Sarsaparilla; this is why it is an effective tranquilizer, a peaceful messenger, and a preventive of domestic quarrels.

An Inference.
"How do you like that cigar?" asked the man who had just presented his friend with a weed.

"Excellent. One of the best I have smoked in a long time."
"It was presented to me by a friend."
"Yes. I thought it must have been."

Mr. Fred Miller, of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a severe kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back, and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so called kidney cures, but without any good result. About a year ago he began the use of Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to the cure of all kidney and liver troubles and often gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove our statement. Price only 50c. for large bottle. Dr. Talmage at Home Again.
NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Rev. Dr. T. Dewitt Talmage has returned from his trip around the world. He came on the Paris. He said in an interview that he had seen things that would take him a year to describe and ten years to tell how much he had enjoyed it. He had been to the Hawaiian islands, to Samoa, to New Zealand, to all the cities of Australia, where his itinerary was a sort of pastoral visit. He was asked: "Shall you not preach for your tabernacle congregation?" "I shall preach always. Woe is me if I preach not the gospel. I have made no arrangements for the future."

The Ann Arbor Argus

BEAKES & HAMMOND, PROPRIETORS. PUBLISHED EVERY TUESDAY AND FRIDAY for $1.00 per year strictly in advance.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1894.

Licked, b' gosh! Our Hill is a hollow. We've saved probate judge. Not this year. S'mother year. We move to make it unanimous. Bet 'em ten they can't do it again. Talk about the Johnstown disaster! As to congressman, what was our bark worth? Morton's bar must have run all election day. We seem to be in the ratio of about 16 to 1. 'The sad autumn winds—how they wail as they pass!' After all, gentlemen, the tariff is a tax and you pay it. Won't somebody throw us a life preserver? Do, please! The good Schuh wouldn't fit. Good Schuh, too. Lenawee and Monroe democrats, 'boast not of the Morrow.' We have Grover Cleveland yet,—what are you talking about? Capt. Schuh's sky rockets must have killed a few democrats. For sale: A choice job lot of democratic campaign fireworks. We don't appear to have made a single 'touch-down' in this county. Republicans win senator in this district. That's Watts the matter. The cause of the defeat of the democratic party was emotional insanity. Congressman Griffin's impaired hearing is greatly to his advantage, just now. In this case, gentlemen, we do not stand upon trifles; the tail goes with the hide. Mr Fisher had his foot in a 'frog' when Rich's special passed over the road. Those dem prohibitionists will find out after awhile that they can't lick the democrats. True, in two years we shall lick them, but that does not cut any pie for this Thanksgiving. To the republicans: Gentlemen, take everything else but spare us our shirt and drawers. The renegade democracy will repent this deed in sack-cloth—if they can get the sack-cloth. As a result of the election, McKinley stock will go up and Reed stock down, in the republican party. The senatorial contest in this district shows how dearly the republicans do love the one armed veteran. Bro. Populist Peters, will you please lead us in prayer? Touch as lightly on 'the winning combination,' as possible. Mr. Donovan, of Bay county, represents the democracy, in the Michigan house. The Argus rises to nominate him for speaker.

Senator Hill can now turn his attention to a hair restorative. Many democrats did not go the polls. We are thankful for that! The democracy should sue Gus Peters for breach of promise. Now watch the republicans climb into the trough with both fore feet. Most of our party is still below, searching for the body of McGinty. Sheriff Brenner should have had fewer democrats and more republicans in jail. To Doctor Gus Peters: The infant is dead; the mother is dead; and you haven't even saved the old man! The populist assurance that the combine could elect Barkworth was a piece of pure, 'unlimited coinage.' If it is true that 'whom the Lord loveth he chastiseth' the democracy has gone far into the grace of Omnipotence. It is understood that Donovan, of Bay county, has taken an oath not to drink with any other democrat in the next legislature. A few fly-endorsed crackers and a sausage with a green end, is good enough for us, for Thanksgiving, after what's happened. The policy of protection which denied to the American farmer a free market, caused the hard times. Don't forget it, democrats. We do not trot out our democratic rooster in this issue, as we had hoped to do. He has had a shock of laryngeal paralysis. Since election we are more than convinced that explorers for the frozen pole make a mistake in searching so far north. The attempt of the democracy of this district to send up a congressman at the tail of the populist kite was not a howling success. The laboring man will now get $3 a day, with no loss for rainy days. All farm products will go clear up, and the price of goods will be merely a trifle. Gentlemen, we don't mind being knocked down and rolled around in the mud; but but wot some half a dozen of you please get off of our stomach! There are fools and fools; but the most foolish fools are those democrats who voted with the republicans to reward them for the hard times they brought upon the country. But this we feel warranted in saying, that, tired of office-holding and its perplexities, the present county officials long to lay their burdens down and let the other fellows sweat a while. In their calmer senses the democrats will repent of the bloody assassination of their own candidates. Yet they claim to be 'all, all honorable men, whose daggers have stabbed Caesar.' Some call it a 'land-slide;' others 'a dam-break' but to those of us who are up a tree, surveying the watery waste, it looks like another geological subsidence of the American continent. To reach the nearest fixed star one must travel 20,500,000,000 miles, and, if the velocity were equal to that of a cannon ball, it would require 5,000,000 years to travel that distance. Fellow democrats, it's a great undertaking, but let us go! Arise, such of you as can get up. In this hour of darkness and gloom, when all democracy seems loosed from its moorings, and our candidates floating around on the wreckage, it is with inexpressible pride that we point to the democratic victory in Freedom, Washtenaw county. Glorious old Freedom, your flag is still there!

Brethren, together let us unite in singing: 'Solemn strikes the funeral chime.' Will the fellow who borrowed Mr. Fisher's white horse please return him. It does not look now as though the country were yearning for Hill as the next president. When we fell we had the presence of mind to pull the enemy down onto us with great violence. Some of them must have been severely jounced. It is with no small pride that we point to the complexion of the lower house of the legislature, to which we have elected one democrat. All is not lost, by a dinged sight. That infected miscreant, the old man Toldyouso, is screwing the old extra large hunk of tobacco in his cheek, squirting right and left and airing his post-election wisdom. May worms devour his flesh before another election! The venal Detroit Tribune says: 'The composition of the next state legislature will be: Republicans, 131; democrats, 1.' It is not the subject matter of which we complain; but what beastly grammar to say, 'democrats, 1!' By the defeat of Chairman Wm. L. Wilson, of the ways and means committee, the country suffers great loss. He made a great fight for principle, but the tidal wave, combined with a flood of republican money, swept him out of congress. Wheat will now be two dollars a bushel; corn a dollar and a half; times will be easy, money plenty, and cooked Thanksgiving geese will be flying around with gravy boats in their bills, asking as a favor to be eaten. There are going to be deuced good times! Eh? The next house of representatives is republican by an immense majority—probably about one hundred and twenty-five—leaving to the opposition but ninety-seven members. Latest returns on the senate seem to indicate that it will be composed of forty-three republicans, thirty-eight democrats and seven populists. The condition of a bird deprived of its plumage is synonymous with that of a great many Democratic leaders.—Times. Alas, yes! Said the newly arrived Irishman who shot at a woodcock but found only a frog: 'Faith, an yez must have been a foine lookin' burrud afore I shot the fithers off o' yez!' The defeat of the democratic party is due in greatest measure to that element which always blames the party in power, if it doesn't rain enough; if it rains too much; if, on account of abundance of crops, prices are low; if there is a cyclone, or whirlwind; if the apples have worms; if there is small pox, yellow fever, or cholera morbus; if any of the family has whooping cough or the itch; if the dog has fleas. Then up rise the fellows who hold the ruling party responsible for the blunders of its predecessor and the acts of God and propose to ditch the party. These are the men who turned the switch Tuesday and let the democratic express off the track. It is yet too early to predict whether the democratic party in the next legislature will have a candidate for United States senator, or fuse with the republicans. The Argus, however, desires to urge upon our representative that he make no unholy combination with the enemy, but vote straight for the democratic caucus nominee, and if the republicans elect their candidate, upon their heads be the responsibility. We trust that a word to Mr. Donovan is sufficient. WHY IT HAPPENED. Why was democracy so signally overthrown in the nation last Tuesday? Could the defeat and rout have been prevented? These are questions which naturally suggest themselves to many inquiring minds at this time. It was expected, of course, that the trend of the northern elections would be toward the republicans, but even they did not anticipate the utter rout of the democracy. One of the prime causes, no doubt, was the great panic and industrial depression of last year, resulting in so far as governmental policy was responsible, from pernicious republican legislation and extravagance, but which that party, relying upon the credulity of the masses and their disposition to charge all the ills from which they may be temporarily suffering to the party in power, placed upon the democracy. Unquestionably, the panic would have occurred just the same had Harrison been elected in 1892 instead of Cleveland, it was inevitable. However, this does not account wholly for the manifest desire for revenge exhibited by the people. The failure of the democracy to use the opportunities given it in accordance with its pledges to the people was responsible for this. Two years ago the party received the command from the people, specific and unmistakable, to reform the tariff. Whether this mandate was the result of the 'campaign of education,' or the emotion of fear, matters not, it was the will of the people and should have been promptly and boldly carried out. Had congress been called in extra session early in 1893, while the enthusiasm of victory was still on, and before the blight of the panic had taken possession of the people and the protective tariff robbers had poisoned their minds with falsehoods as to the cause of the depression, the commands of the people as expressed in the elections of '90 and '92 would have been far more influential with that body. As it was when congress got round to take up the tariff question a year and a half after the election, much of the spirit which brought about the victory had become dormant and members of congress were enabled to hide their treachery to the people's cause behind the plea of changed conditions. The long wrangle over the repeal of the purchase clause of the Sherman act disgusted many, and when to this was added the nauseating squabble over the tariff to the detriment of every business interest, and the final partial surrender to the protectionist log rollers in the senate, whereby the people were compelled to accept a compromise which was not what they demanded, the measure of their discontent was full, and they were ready to rebuke their unfaithful servants. Had the tariff bill been passed several months earlier, there is little doubt but that the business interests of the country would have revived, and the advantages of the new tariff would have become so apparent before election as to have produced a very different result. As it is the republicans have again been given control of congress, not because of any rejuvenated merit of their own, or because they constitute a majority of the people, but because the democrats failed, through party divisions and jealousies, to faithfully and fully carry out the mandate of the people. The republican principle of taxing the whole people for the up-building of the few is again in the ascendant, not because those who condemned it so emphatically in 1890 and 1892 have changed their minds as to its injustice, but because the party of reform has failed to do all that was expected of it. But great as is the republican victory, it will be largely barren of results, for the two years to come at least. In the meantime the measure of reform which the democrats did give the country will have so demonstrated its advantage to the whole people that the calamity howlers will have no leg to stand on and the people will have no desire to continue the party of monopolies and trusts in power. The democratic party should take hope, therefore, and learning wisdom from experience, drive out the traitors from its own ranks, and be prepared two years hence to take its proper place in the politics of the republic as the guardian of the rights of the whole people.

Mr. E. P. Mason has left with the Argus two peculiar samples, one of which is notable for its size, and weighs about five pounds. The other has five separate prongs and resembles the tooth of a mastodon.

Prof. H. L. Willett, of Chicago, will deliver a lecture before the Inland League next Saturday night. It should be borne in mind that the date of this lecture has been changed from next Monday to Saturday, Nov. 10. Prof. Willett's subject will be "The Golden Fleece." This will be the only time that Prof. Willett will make a public address in Ann Arbor this year. Admission 15 cents.

At the Y. W. C. A. entertainment at the Baptist church, last evening, Mrs. Roy McClure delighted an appreciative audience with a charming solo. Mrs. McClure possesses a clear soprano voice combining both sweetness and power, and a flute-like quality of tone in the upper notes that invariably pleases the listener. All the numbers of the excellent program were finely rendered.

In the foot-ball scrimmage, last week, between the Normals and Toledos, at Ypsilanti, one of the visiting club tumbled on his back during a tackle, and before he could gather himself, several men took a seat on his stomach, and so squeezed his rennet that he became insensible, and was lugged off the field in a comatose state. He recovered his breath in time to start home next day. Toledo's visiting teams seem to fare badly. At Adrian, last winter, one of the Toledo high school team was killed.

George Henion an old citizen died this morning.

H. G. Paul, of Peoria, Ill., has been chosen president of the '97 lit class. There was not that neat's-foot oil smoothness about the proceeding that sometimes attends the birth of great events.

"Being vs. Doing." Rev. W. H. Warren, of Lansing, will preach on the above subject, Sunday, Nov. 11, at the Congregational church, before the young men's Sunday evening club, at half past seven.

The Argus deeply regrets to announce the serious illness of Mr. Zach Roath, of the firm of Bach & Roath. His condition at this writing is highly precarious and it is understood that there appears very little hope of his recovery. Physicians give no encouragement. The sincere regret the Argus feels in making this unwelcome announcement will be shared by the public to whom Mr. Roath is so well known.

SOME REMARKS FROM WAITE.

The Governor Has Some Doubts of the Efficacy of the Ballot.
DENVER, Nov. 8.—Governor Waite concedes the defeat of his party. "To my mind," he said, "it proves conclusively that money has dominated the election from the beginning to the end, and the Democratic party is most responsible for the fact that they voted the Republican ticket instead of their own."

When asked if he thought the Populist party would regain power, the governor replied:

"I believe it will, but it may not be for some time. I do not know exactly how it will be done. I think we will have to do it right over their heads. I advocate this being done in a peaceful manner—if possible a peaceful revolution. Of course I believe the ballot is the proper method to be employed, but this has not proved efficacious in this state."

The governor said that the women's influence in the cities where it is greatest was exerted against him. "The women," he said "must be educated to think for themselves and not be controlled by the money power as the men are."

Value of the Storm Warnings.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The agricultural department has issued a statement showing that during the storm of Sept. 24 to 29, 1,089 vessels, valued at $17,100,000, and in the storm of Oct. 8 to 10, 1,216 vessels, valued at $19,138,000, remained in port on the Atlantic and gulf coasts, secure from danger throughout the periods for which warnings were issued by the weather bureau. This makes a total of 2,305 vessels, valued at $36,238,000, a large proportion of which probably would have gone out but for the warnings. Reports from the region traversed by the storm give the warnings credit for saving a number of lives, one station alone, Charleston, reporting over 100 lives probably saved by this means.

SHE MARRIED BOTH.

Mr. Wilberforce Trott, lawyer, of the firm of Lunkenstein & Trott, was the picture of prosperity and contentment, sitting in his office in the most luxuriantly appointed office building in town.

As there are no such things as fairy wands to change hungry lawyers into well fed barristers, the truth may as well be admitted—Mr. Trott had hit the races.

The reason that we do not find him at work with his books directly concerns our interest in this lucky youth, for Mr. Trott's thoughts were floating back over five long years of professional vicissitudes, as dreamily as the smoke that curled aloft over his blond head...

"What make of typewriter do you prefer, Mr. Trott?" asked Mr. Messerschmidt, innocently raising the cover and disclosing—not a typewriter, but the meager and unsightly remains of some corned beef and cabbage, on which Mr. Trott had been dining.

"Is this a lawyer's office?" "Yes, madam," returned Mr. Trott's partner affably. "What can we do for you?"

"I wish to get a divorce," said a voice, more timidly still and trembling on the verge of tears. "My husband is a wretch!"

"What, that harmless looking moon faced idiot?" "Was a horrid, despicable scoundrel!" retorted Mrs. Messerschmidt, with appropriate tact.

"That's so!" said Mr. Trott soberly. "The disability will have to be removed before a prior courtship can be reinstated—ahem! By the way, Alice, have you seen my new typewriter?"

able fact one evening, she potently admitted that the only obstacles that lay between her and the omnipotent Messerschmidt was his name and his business.

As his mind dwelt on that scene Mr. Trott's visage lost some of its tranquil contentment on this morning as he sat in the office, dreaming of what might have been, for he rather blamed Providence for having failed to place him on the supreme bench at 23.

Accidentally his eye rested on the polished oak cover of his typewriter in the corner, and he smiled bitterly at the associations conjured up by that implement of modern correspondence.

Mr. Trott shuddered with retrospective horror as he thought of the hideous catastrophe of that visit and pictured the scene before him. There was Alice, as blooming and richly handsome as a Jacqueminot rose, radiating a delicate perfume, like the flower itself, which fairly intoxicated the young lawyer.

"What make of typewriter do you prefer, Mr. Trott?" asked Mr. Messerschmidt, innocently raising the cover and disclosing—not a typewriter, but the meager and unsightly remains of some corned beef and cabbage, on which Mr. Trott had been dining.

"Is this a lawyer's office?" "Yes, madam," returned Mr. Trott's partner affably. "What can we do for you?"

"I wish to get a divorce," said a voice, more timidly still and trembling on the verge of tears. "My husband is a wretch!"

"What, that harmless looking moon faced idiot?" "Was a horrid, despicable scoundrel!" retorted Mrs. Messerschmidt, with appropriate tact.

"That's so!" said Mr. Trott soberly. "The disability will have to be removed before a prior courtship can be reinstated—ahem! By the way, Alice, have you seen my new typewriter?"

And Mr. Trott's partner in the outer office took his eye from the keyhole and observed contentedly: "Pissness is pouring!"—Julius Wedekind in Pittsburgh Dispatch.

A TRUTHFUL SAILOR. RELATES THE EXPERIENCE IN WHICH HE SWORE NEVER TO LIE.

Two Seamen, Father and Son, Swallowed by a Shark, but Both Were Rescued in a Marvelous Manner—A Day That Was Certainly Very Hot.

"Have I ever seen a shark? Ask my mate—him that's rowing that 'ere couple out yonder. We were shipmates together aboard the Rajapootah Indian."

"But no Bill could we see, and instead of him up came a tremendous shark, with his sides sticking out as if he had a cargo inside over and above his regular bill of lading."

"It was then as clear to us as the nose on our faces that poor Bill had dived clear down his throat."

"The poor old man had a fit right away, and we carried him below and put him in his hammock and then ran up on deck again in the hope that we should be able to catch the fellow."

"But it was nowhere to be seen, so after watching some time to no purpose we went down below to see how the old man was getting on, and to our astonishment and sorrow we found his body nearly cold and as stiff as the flying jibboom."

"We sewed him up in his hammock, putting the grindstone that he used to grind his tools with inside to make it sink and laid the body on a hatch, with the union jack spread over it for a pall."

"The boatswain at once ran for the shark hook and baited it with a bunk of pork and slung it over the stern, and it was not many minutes after we had him hooked and hauled on deck."

"Well, the first thing we did was to cut his tail off, for he was flapping it about so that it shook the ship from stem to stern, that we were afraid it would shake her to pieces."

"After we had done that we thought we heard a very strange noise inside of him—a sort of grating sound, like a boat being dragged over a shingly beach."

ROUNDAABOUTS.

Mrs. Maria Haynes, of Pinckney, celebrated her 90th birthday, last week.

Follow up at Lapeer is named Cornfoot. The person who steps on that foot—!

John Kuss, a tramp, is in the Adrian bastle. The impecunious Kuss will have a trial today.

The Morning Press, a daily, has struck Lansing to fill a long-felt want. Independent. C. A. White, editor.

Marshall Bennett, of Sturgis, on the morning after Hallow'en, found an old horse in the lockup. The "pelter" was released on "hay bale."

Stockbridge has a butcher shop of her own, and outside butchers who have been blowing horns on her streets and selling four year old spring lamb, have quit.

J. R. Dunning, of Pinckney, is suffering from the effects of a toboggan slide down his barn stairs. A large bundle of cornstalks bore him company downward.

A dirty tramp being refused a meal in Stockbridge the other day, retaliated by cutting a slit and wire fence in pieces with a pair of nippers which he had probably stolen.

V. Delucca, Italian fruit dealer, of Adrian, is under $1,000 bonds, charged with contracting a fraudulent debt of $600. He is not "de lucky" man his name indicates.

"Crack-the-whip" was played by school children of Hudson, one day last week, 'till the lad who acted as the cracker, flew off, and striking a woodpile his skull was nearly cracked.

Burglars broke into a Hudson harness shop last week, and with "unbridled rein," "tugged" off three sets of harness. No "trace" of the thieves. A "check" should be put on this business.

John Bayan, of Inkster, "wined, dined, and tobaccoed" his friend Brock, with so much liberality that Brock thought Jack wouldn't mind the loss of a suit of clothes; but he did and Brock was broken-hearted over his arrest.

A Fairfield farmer asked to be trusted by an Adrian hardware merchant, on the ground that he was a Baptist deacon in good standing at home, but the cast-iron heart of the dealer compelled "spot cash." Is baptism a failure?

These are the days when the old rheumatic, of Pinckney, crawls from his coop beside the coal stove to the sunny side of the street, and wants to bet half a dollar that he "kin beat any man in the crowd pitchin' quaits."

The venerable mother of the late T. S. Applegate, of the Adrian Times, was found on the floor of her bedroom dead, Monday morning. Death is supposed to have been caused by heart disease. She was 80 years old and a native of England.

Mary E. Parker has found the Baptist plan of salvation so unsafe that she has sued the church of Williamston for $10,000 damages. Trusting that the gospel highway to the church was secure, she thrust a leg through a hole where there should have been a plank and received the injuries for which she asks recompense.

A young man was standing in front of Boyd's market the other day, smoking a cigarette, and was accosted by an old lady, who asked him if he understood arithmetic. The young man said he did, and the old lady asked him to figure out how long it would take to smoke up a farm. The cigarette man smiled and passed on.—Adrian Telegram.

Soon after the furnace in the new house of Wm. Warner, at Milan, was fired up, the other day, it was thought best to send out and have the fire department call around. It was not needed, however. The appearance of danger was only the smoke which, coming into the rooms through unplugged stovepipe holes, was looking for chances to get out.

The prisoners in Coldwater jail had a very fair little Hallow'en toot. They shoved their table against the door and piled their furniture on it. The sheriff was compelled to smash the table legs to open the door. Then he locked the men in their cells and was going to give their stomachs a chance to recover from the rich jail feed by giving them no breakfast; but the sheriff's wife, more cruel, gave the men their morning meal.

Hallow'eners at Adrian fairly upset the town. Their pranks caused several accidents. Among others whose dignity was unhorsed by horse blocks and other obstructions on the sidewalk, was Squire Vandegrift. His gravity was upset while on his way home in the evening, and justice and judgment received severe bruises. If any of the law-breaking rascals come before him, they will find the heart of the court as cold as the dead legs of Falstaff.

Sculptor Morse Tomorrow Night.

The Arena and Clio literary societies of the high school have engaged Mr. Sidney H. Morse, the eminent sculptor and literateur, to deliver a lecture on "The Sculptor's Art; or What Mud is Good For," in high school hall, Saturday evening, Nov. 10. The subject is one in which everybody will be interested, and especially the pupils of the high school. Mr. Morse will give a full exhibition of modeling, showing how works of sculpture are carried forward in clay, plaster, and marble. He will also make a number of sketches in charcoal, which will be given away at the close of the lecture. Boys and girls from the audience are expected to assist in making some of these sketches. Mr. Morse will take their drawing and carry it forward, showing how few touches are needed to perfect it. In this part of the lecture he will give a first lesson in the proportions and expression of the human face.

The Arena and Clio societies feel that everybody will be interested in Mr. Morse's entertainment, both on account of the nature of it, and for the further reason that the proceeds are to be devoted to securing for the Ann Arbor high school, copies of his famous life-size busts of Emerson the poet, and Darwin the scientist, two representative men of the 19th century. The admission fee will be fifteen cents. Tickets may be had in advance, of the committee, Messrs. Wagner, Forans, and Van Cleve, or of the high school teachers.

Doors will be open at 7:00; lecture begins at 8:00. Good music will be furnished. Come!

Editor Brown Has a Good Thing.

Fred C. Brown, of the Washtenaw Times, has just completed a deal by which he will go into the publishing business in Chicago. Mr. Brown will have the backing of a concern with $750,000 paid up capital. He will put in a plant of 16 Mergenthaler linotype machines as soon as they can be obtained, and hopes to secure at least eight at once. It is possible, however, that he will have to wait for the factory to turn them out, which will be in about six months. He has work for eight machines working 10 hours a day from the start, and can secure work for the other eight as soon as they can be put in. His plant will be in the Western Newspaper Union building in Chicago. The product of the 16 machines, working double time, will be equal to that of 150 men. It will take about 40 men to run the plant. Mr. Brown is thoroughly conversant with the machines, having worked in the Mergenthaler factory and had a machine in use in the Times office for two years, which has done perfect work. He will have the first machine plant in Chicago, and knowing just what the machine can do, is sure of making a good thing. Mr. Brown will still conduct the Times, spending about one-third of his time in Ann Arbor and sending in his editorial by mail every night.

Jay Backus, of Gregory, last week stuffed his wallet with the value of 1,500 bushels of potatoes, at 40 cents a bushel, and Clare Backus, about the same time, stuffed his mouth with a hot base ball. It was necessary for the ball to rip his lip half an inch to get in.

A DOCTOR'S PHILANTHROPY.

Thousands Afflicted by Chronic Catarrh Under Free Treatment.

The first day of November, 1893, Dr. Hartman gave his consent to take charge of the treatment of 10,000 cases of chronic catarrh free of charge. The announcement was at once published in all the leading papers, when the applications came pouring in from every state in the Union. With a large number of clerks and stenographers to assist him, the doctor actually directs the treatment of thousands of cases by correspondence, which costs the patients nothing except the necessary medicines, which are obtained at the nearest drugstore. To become a patient it is only necessary to send name and address, describe symptoms, and minute directions as to diet, sanitary regulations, and other advice will be sent promptly.

Wherever Dr. Hartman is known the name of Pe-ru-na has become a household word. It is safe to say that no medicine in existence is used by so many families as Pe-ru-na. This is especially true of this time of the year, when the people are liable to catarrhal affections, coughs, colds, la grippe, etc. Pe-ru-na has cured more cases of chronic catarrh than all other medicines combined. The great majority of those who use it buy the remedy themselves, use it according to directions, not even reporting their case to Dr. Hartman until after they are entirely cured. But now that a limited number of cases can secure the personal attention of Dr. Hartman free of charge, it is not to be wondered at that many prefer to do so. Pe-ru-na never fails to cure catarrh when properly used.

The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing company of Columbus, Ohio, are sending free to any address a book on chronic catarrh which gives the latest treatment for catarrh, coughs, colds, la grippe, bronchitis, and all other affections of head, throat and lungs.

INDIANA DELEGATION LIST.

Every District Carried by the Republicans—State and Legislature.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 8.—Indiana elects a solid Republican delegation to congress as follows: First district, J. A. Hemingway; Second, A. M. Hardy; Third, Robert Tracowell; Fourth, James E. Watson; Fifth, Jesse Overstreet; Sixth, Henry U. Johnson; seventh, Charles L. Henry; Eighth, George W. Faris; Ninth, J. Frank Hanley; Tenth, J. A. Hatch; Eleventh, George W. Steele; Twelfth, J. D. Leighty; Thirteenth, L. W. Royle.

Many counties have not reported in full, but the Republican plurality in the state will run between 40,000 and 50,000. In the legislature the Republicans will have a majority on joint ballot of 33.

In the Keystone State.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—Returns received by the Associated Press indicate that the Republicans have elected twenty-eight out of thirty congressmen in the state. Erdman (Dem.) is elected in the Ninth district by less than 2,000 majority. The result in the Eighth district is yet in doubt. Although on the face of the unofficial returns Hart (Dem.) has defeated Kirkpatrick (Rep.) by very small majority. Complete returns from all but half a dozen of the sixty-seven counties give Hastings a plurality of 233,378.

Oklahoma.

GUTHRIE, Nov. 8.—Returns from the major portion of the territory make it positive that Flynn (Rep.) delegate to congress, will have fully 5,000 majority. The territorial legislature will be very close, with the balance of power in both houses in the hands of the Populists. Canadian county, which has heretofore been Democratic, gives Republican pluralities on every office up for election. All other counties also show Republican gains.

Michigan Nearly Unanimous.

DETROIT, Nov. 8.—The latest returns received by The Free Press (Dem.) show that of the thirty-two state senators elected every one is a Republican. Of the 100 members of the house all are Republicans save one, John Donovan, of the Bay county district. Many districts which had not returned Republican legislators for a quarter of a century have elected Republicans.

Result in Wyoming.

CHEYENNE, Nov. 8.—Returns from eleven Wyoming counties show 3,000 plurality for Frank W. Mondell (Rep.) for congress over Henry A. Coffeen (Dem.) and S. E. Sealy (Pop.) William A. Richards (Rep.) is elected governor by 2,500 plurality, defeating Lewis C. Sealy (Pop.) and Holliday (Dem.) Republicans will have a majority in the legislature.

How Lowell Views the Case.

WICHITA, Kan., Nov. 8.—Governor Lowell said: "I do not concede the defeat of the Populist ticket. Only the cities and the towns and precincts have been heard from, and the county districts can easily overturn the showing there. Woman suffrage hurt the Populist ticket."

From the Old Bay State.

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—Returns from all but two cities in the state give Greenhalge (Rep.) 196,242; Russell (Dem.) 198,436, a gain of 32,109, and plurality of 67,806. The legislature will be made up as follows: House—120 Republicans, 28 Democrats. Senate—28 Republicans, 4 Democrats.

All Democratic in Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, Nov. 8.—The Democrats have elected their congressmen from this state by majorities ranging from 1,000 to 6,000. First district, P. D. McCulloch; Second, J. S. Little; Third, Thomas C. McKee; Fourth, W. E. Terry; Fifth, H. A. Dinsmore; Sixth, Robert Neil.

Rich's Plurality Over 90,000.

DETROIT, Nov. 8.—From the latest compilations of reports from the state it is apparent that Governor Rich's plurality will exceed 90,000. The pluralities on the twelve congressmen-elect range from 2,800 to 11,200, the latter being about the amount of Congressman Burrows' plurality.

Republicans Carry Utah.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 8.—About 90 per cent. of the returns from the territory are received and give Cannon (Rep.) for delegate to congress a majority of 2,135. The delegates to the constitutional convention will stand about 66 Republicans to 41 Democrats.

Nelson Wins in Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 8.—The fullest reports obtainable with counties conservatively estimated give Nelson (Rep.) for governor 123,028; Becker (Dem.) 46,214; Owens (Pop.) 70,479. Nelson's plurality, 32,539; Nelson's majority over both Becker and Owens, 6,335.

The Buckeye Landslide.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 8.—Chairman Dick, of the state Republican committee, estimates the plurality of Taylor (Rep.) for secretary of state at 128,910, and concedes the election of Democratic congressmen in the Third and Fourth districts.

Elected 'Em All in Wisconsin.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 8.—The Republicans elected every one of their congressional candidates in Wisconsin.

MORTON'S GREAT PLURALITY.

He Gets Over 153,000 in the State Empire—For "Greater New York."

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The total corrected vote for governor in New York state, outside of Sullivan county, is 1,206,259, of which Morton receives 667,585; Hill, 514,163; Wheeler, 24,511. Morton's plurality, 153,422; Morton's majority, 128,911.

Returns from all except a very few missing election districts show an apparent plurality in New York city for consolidation, or the greater New York, of over 36,000 in the city, while the rapid transit measure shows an apparent plurality of 82,400.

ALBANY, Nov. 8.—From what returns have so far been received from the counties on constitutional convention amendments it is almost certain that they have been passed.

Republican Majority in Kansas.

TOPEKA, Nov. 8.—The Republicans have carried Kansas by a plurality of possibly 30,000 and will have a slight majority over all. Republican Chairman Leland claims also the election of congressmen in seven districts by pluralities or majorities as follows: First district, Case Broderick, 4,000; Second, L. Miller, 8,000; Third, S. S. Kirkpatrick, 1,500; Fourth, Charles Curtis, 5,000; Fifth, W. A. Calderhead, 2,777; Sixth, A. Hollis, 2,000; Seventh, Chester L. Long, 1,300.

The Woman's Era.

Within Her Sphere She Reigns Supreme.

Woman claims her own. Her field widens constantly. Every day brightens her prospects. Her progress foreshadows the greater triumph at hand. Emancipation and equality will be hers in the years to come.

Prophetic of final victory were her achievements at the World's Fair. At her shrine there erected the nations bowed. The lesson taught at the "Woman's Building" will last "till time shall be no more." Their enlightening influence will be felt around the globe throughout the dawning century.

Only less memorable were the honors gained at the Fair by

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder

The highest award conferred on this peerless preparation, is a fitting accompaniment of the laurels won by the women of America.

Close Call in Tennessee.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 8.—The Commercial Appeal claims the election of Peter Turney, (Dem.) for governor by 3,000 plurality. Chairman W. H. Carroll, of the Democratic state committee, denies most emphatically that he has conceded the election of H. C. Evans (Rep.) Official and unofficial returns show that seventy-six Democrats have been elected to the legislature, with several counties to hear from. This gives the Democrats control in both houses and insures the election of a United States senator.

Ninety-Six Thousand in Iowa.

DES MOINES, Nov. 8.—Later election returns from Iowa have more than kept up the Republican record. The Republican plurality on the state ticket promises to be 90,000. For the first thirty counties the plurality averages 972 per county. For fifty-five counties it was 977. These fifty-five counties include several strongly Democratic counties. If the ratio is kept up as there is every reason to believe the Republican plurality will be 96,723. The combined Prohibition and Populist vote will not exceed 40,000, which will leave from 40,000 to 50,000 majority for the Republicans. All the Republican congressmen are elected.

Holcomb the Winner in Nebraska.

OMAHA, Nov. 8.—Forty-two counties give—governor, Major (Rep.), 69,233; Holcomb, fusion, 68,282. The are forty-six counties to hear from. The fusion candidate will, in all probability, have a plurality of from 2,000 to 7,000. On the balance of the state Republican ticket the whole goes Republican. The returns on the legislature are quite incomplete, but there is little doubt that the Republicans will control it, the vote on joint ballot standing Republicans 69, fusion 61.

Owens Appears to Have Got There.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 8.—Latest returns in the Ashland district give Owens 118 majority. Colonel Stone (Rep.) has over 3,000 plurality in the Eleventh district.

Only 2,907 for Hill at Gotham.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The revised vote for governor in New York city gives Hill a plurality of 2,907.

Is a Populist Community.

SPRING VALLEY, Ill., Nov. 8.—Over 700 Populist ballots were cast in this city at the election out of a total of 1,100. All of the foreigners voted that ticket straight. Two years ago this city went Democratic by 800. This time only thirty-four straight Democratic votes were cast, while the Republican vote was equally as light.

Idaho is in the Column.

BOISE CITY, Nov. 8.—The entire Republican ticket is elected by 2,000 plurality or more. Legislative returns indicate that the legislature will be Republican. The Mormon vote seems to have gone strongly Republican.

Same Way in Montana.

HELENA, Nov. 8.—Chairman Lant states that Hartman, Rep., for congress, and Hunt, Rep., for associate justice, are undoubtedly elected. He claims that the legislature will be Republican by fifteen on joint ballot.

Enloe's Defeat Conceded.

JACKSON, Tenn., Nov. 8.—Congressman B. A. Enloe is defeated on the face of the returns in the Eighth district. The Democratic executive committee has conceded McCall's election.

New Mexico Still in Doubt.

SANTA FE, Nov. 8.—Partial returns indicate the election of T. B. Catron (Rep.) for delegate. The legislature is still in doubt, with chances favorable for a Republican majority.

Owens Appears to Have Got There.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 8.—Latest returns in the Ashland district give Owens 118 majority. Colonel Stone (Rep.) has over 3,000 plurality in the Eleventh district.

Only 2,907 for Hill at Gotham.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The revised vote for governor in New York city gives Hill a plurality of 2,907.
