TRIED TO BLOW UP A MINE.

Workmen in the Pit Have a Narrow Escape from Roasting.

BRAZIL, Ind., Nov. 29 .- A partly successful attempt was made last night to blow up the new No. 1 shaft of the Brazil Block Coal company, just north of the city. A number of men were at work down the shaft and several in the rear of the engine room when there was a deafening report and a sheet of flame shot from between the boiler walls. The occupants were thrown to the ground by the shock, but recovered in time to escape before the flames reached them.

The engine house and boiler rooms were consumed, but the fire proof paint pro-tected the shaft house until the fire department arrived. The flames in the engine room cut off the cage in the mine. The men down there escaped by the ladder, but had the flames gotten in the shaft house they would have been roasted. After the fire the basket in which the crude bomb had been placed was found between the boiler walls. The company offers a reward for the capture of the perpetrators. The loss is $2,500.

Trans-Mississippi Congress Endorses Bryan's Views.

WHITE METAL AT THE OLD RATIO

And Uncle Sam to Go It Alone, Regardless of Other Nations-The Majority Overwhelming for the Policy Approved by the Radicals-Other Matters Covered by Resolutions Adopted_Plan of Permanent Organization Presented and Approved.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 29.-For free silver-as free as Representative Bryan wants itis the position taken by the Trans-Mississippl congress, and by a overwhelming majority. After the adoption of resolutions favoring all the canal schemes, har bor schemes and other schemes that delegates have their hearts set upon, Bryan brought on the "what we are here for" by the presentation of the majority report of the resolutions committee on the money question. The report resolved "That in direct opposition to the plan known as the Baltimore plan, the sense of this convention is that all issues of paper money should be by the general government; that it is the sense of this convention that the pending proposition for the reformation of our paper currency is one that in our judgment would create additional and perhaps insurmountable difficulties to the return to bi-metallism, and that we are opposed to the same.

Free Silver Insisted On.

"That in any currency reform acted upon we demand that a constituent part thereof shall be the remonetization of silver, or that it shall be of such a character as to be no impediment to our return to bimetallism as it existed prior to 1873." The resolutions then go on make the well-known and after reiterated claims as to an appreciating currency being good for the rich and bad for the poor; declare that "the spoliation consequent upon the outlawry of silver in the interest of the creditor class, by constantly inest of the creatior class, by constantly in-creasing the value of gold is undermining all industrial society" and "demand the immediate restoration of the free and un-limited coinage of gold and silver at the present ratio of 16 to 1 without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation on earth. What the Minority Proposed.

The minority report on this question was presented by E. O. Stanuard. It resolved: "That we favor the use of silver in the coinage of this country to the fullest extent consistent with the maintenance of our present standard, and that we cordially approve the efforts of the government of the United States to secure the co-operation of other nations in a more extended use of silver in international commerce upon such ratio of value with gold as may be found expedient and effective and susceptible of being definitely maintained; but we deprecate the agita tion for the free coinage of silver by this country as a menace to the soundness of our currency and injurious to the public the debate Governor Stanard pleaded for the protection of the country from a depreciated currency as urged by the majority. He knew, he said, there was little chance of changing minds that had come here already made up and therefore he could only put himself and his associates on record as believing that it was bad policy to recommend to congress a policy that would bring into use a depreciated currency. Delegate Bryan, for the majority, yielded a portion of his time to Delegates Johnson, of Colorado, and Goodwin, of Utah, the latter editor of the Salt Lake Tribune, who briefly ceclared what they believed were the unanimous wishes of their constituents. Delegate Hancock, of Texas, spoke for the minority report, being followed by General Weaver, of Iowa, whose remarks were devoted to a review and comparison of the circulation of 1860-65 and the present time as indicating a need of a greater per capita circula-

Silver Men in Full Control.

Delegate Leighton pronounced the resolution of the majority but an indorse-ment of silver monometallism. Bryan then closed the debate with a plea for the independent action of the west "in favor of an honest money." A vote was then taken on the substitution of the minority for the majority report and it was lost-2131/2 to 771/2. The question then recurred on the adoption of the majority report. A division of the question was demanded and the currency portion was adopted by a viva voce vote. The silver coinage portion was voted on by state rollcall and was adopted by a vote of 2141/2

OTHER RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

Construction of the Nicaragua Canal and Other Works Urged.

The resolutions of a non-political character urge the national congress to act on behalf of the prompt construction of the Nicaragua canal under the control and supervision of the government of the United States; encouragement of more extended trade with the East Indies and the republics of South America; a proper administration of law and order throughout Indian territory, and the extension of mail facilities into the Yukon river district, to northwestern Alaska and Fish river districts; the speedy completion of the Hennepin canal; liberal appropriations for deep water on the Texas coast, and also appropriations to ascertain to what extent the rivers of Texas can be made navigable. Then there were a lot of resolutions in favor of harbor improvements and others favoring the cession of the non-mineral arid lands to the several states and terri-tories in which they are situated; providing for the appointment of a committee of five to attend a conference called by the National Grange, Patrons of Industry, for the purpose of considering the tariff and monetary questions; urging congress to pass enabling acts providing for the admission of Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona as states; favoring the construc-tion of a deep-water channel of not less than twenty-one feet in depth to connect the great lakes with the Atlantic ocean, by way of the St. Lawrence, also by way of the Hudson river, and the construction of canals connecting Lake Superior with the Mississippi river and Lake Eric with the Ohio river.

Much has been said recently through the newspapers relative to announced that the officials in charge of its execution are opposed to it and will not faithfully execute it; then it is asserted that the president will recommend its repeal and that it will be removed from the statute books; again that Senator Hill will renew his fight against it and will prevent its collection by causing the withholding of the necessary appropriation for executing it.

All of this vaporing no doubt has its inception with the few who would be delighted with its repeal. Unquestionably Senator Hill would gladly ally himself with the New York money kings in opposition to the great body of the people who are vitally interested in the preservation of this just law, if anything could be accomplished thereby, but the large majority in congress in support of it and the very general favor with which it has been received by the people, will prevent its being ridden down by the pluto-

Strange Concurrence of Thought.

The following dispatch appeared in the Chicago Herald:

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 21-H. H. Holmes, alias Mudgett, charged with swindling a life insurance company, is probably a man who graduated from the medical department of the University of Michigan in the class of 1884. He entered the University September 21, 1882, giving his residence as Maple Rapids, A. H. Hopper, of Alpena, is the Mich., and Dr. Nathan Wright as his preceptor. Some of the professors here recollect him as being a scamp. He had a breach of promise episode with a hairdresser, a widow, who came to Ann Arbor from St. Louis, Mich.

Two days later, exactly the same dispatch-except as to the date, which read "Nov. 23"-appeared in the Detroit Journal as having been sent from Ann Arbor. It was not the desire of the Argus to accuse their feet to Thanksgiving music at the Journal of stealing the dispatch from the Herald, changing the date Dr. Wm. ### WOMAN'S WORLD.

INVENTOR EDISON'S DAUGHTER HAS OPINIONS OF HER OWN.

The Russian Czarina-The Woman's Congress-An English Woman's Club-Boston's Working Girls' Club-Women Cannot Vote In New Jersey.

In the days of her babyhood Miss Marion Edison, daughter of the world renowned inventor, was known as Dot. The name has still clung to her, though she is now 22 years old, and it would be hard to imagine a woman less likely to be known by such a pet name. Miss Edison is built on massive lines, her type of beauty being purely classic, though essentially feminine. Altogether she is a splendid specimen of American womanhood. Her milk and rose leaf complexion is her chief charm, if one charm can be said to predominate over another. Her hair, of Norman gold, is a formidable rival to it. It curls in soft ringlets next her face and is piled high in a Psyche knot in the back. Miss Edison dresses in faultless taste, never sacrificing the artistic to fashion, for Miss Edison has strong artistic tendencies. Her paintings have won her high praise from competent judges. She is an accomplished musician and a pianist of unusual brilliancy. She is also a linguist, speaking French and German with as much fluency as English, and, what is more than all, she is a sweet, gentle girl, beloved by all who know

Miss Edison has never found time to pose as a society butterfly. Not that she is a recluse. Far from it. She is fond of the society in which brains count for more than a bank account. Like her father, she is a most brilliant and fascimine of information on topics of general interest. She can discuss the latest phase of German politics, the researches of Lombroso and others in spiritism, the music of Brahms, science, art, literature-with all she is thoroughly familiar. Her opinions on these are her own. not the rechauffe ideas of reviewers. At present Miss Edison is abroad, and if rumor is to be believed she will soon change her name for that of an officer in the German army.

The Russian Czarina.

"The history of the Russian czarina," says the Courrier des Etat-Unis, "begins like a fairy tale. There were once upon a time three little girls in jaconet dresses who received 15 francs a month for their wardrobes, made their skirts and corsages and filled with their youthful gavety the peaceful old city of fort-on-the-Main. They were all pretty. Their father was a duke so impoverished that he gave drawing lessons to increase his too modest revenues, but he bore a great historic name, and the future gave him large compensation. The day at length came when the Duke of Sleswick-Holstein received the crown of Denmark, so patiently waited for. The little girls in jaconet dresses left Frankfort. They became, by a happy stroke of fortune, royal highnesses. This was but a beginning. "Several years later the eldest, the Princess Alexandra, married the Prince of Wales. The youngest married the Duke of Cumberland. If Germany had not caused the principle that 'might makes right' to conquer, she would be queen of Hanover. The second daughter, the Princess Marie, was united in 1866 to Czar Alexander III. In Russia, where the higher classes are of an ironical, even cruel skepticism sometimes, no one has ever dared to make the least accusation against the Empress Marie Feodorovna Dagmar. Her goodness, universally acknowledged, has given her a radiant popularity. She has known how to remain Danish and to become Russian; to retain her western ideas and to become Muscovite; to continue progressive, although the worthy companion of a mediæval autocrat. She has, in fact, discovered how to wear a coiffure in the old Russian style with a Worth cos-

The Woman's Congress.

The twenty-second annual convention of the Association For the Advancement of Women, better known as the woman's congress, received a royal welcome in Knoxville, Tenn. The women's associations of the city gave them a brilliant reception, large audiences greeted the public meetings, and the Knoxville papers vied with one another in cordial and complimentary reports. On Sunday, by invitation, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe and other ladies of the A. A. W. occupied the pulpits of several prominent churches. There were encouraging reports from many states, and a request was received from Canada that a vice president of the A. A. W. be appointed for each Canadian province. One of the delegates writes:

The congress is over and has been very successful. It is delightful to see how interested everybody is. Last evening every one listened with respectful attention and interest, if not approbation, to a good rousing suffrage plea by a Tennessee woman. We visited the has about 200 young men and 36 young women students Mrs. Howe, Mrs. Cheney and Miss Channing spoke to them all in the chapel. We had a delightful excursion to Maryville, where there is a coeducational college. The corps of instructors seems exceptionally bright and able, and it is wonderful to think of such an institution in this quiet little corner, only 15 miles from the Great Smoky mountains. They all assembled in the chapel, with many of the townspeople, and spoke to us and sang to us both beautifully, and six of us talked to them.

An English Woman's Club.

English women, like Englishmen, possess a talent for enjoying the advan tages and comforts of a club that their American sisters know nothing about. An English woman's club is first of all a convenience, a soothing luxury, an oasis in domesticity, a quiet, independent nook, where the last book or magazine, a cup of good tea and a half hour's idle talk are all to be enjoyed. Secondarily and only occasionally does she use it for mental improvement. She is not overfond of having herself warned, threatened, coaxed or derided in her club's sacred precincts by a series of members who cherish opinions. Neither does she wish to go to school in her club, since she asks of it relaxation, not cultivation. Now and again she requests some person of recognized ability to come and talk to her in her clubrooms on some special topic of current interest. She likes a vigorous debate or a clever recitation at intervals, a little good music and an annual dinner.

There are a half dozen clubs of this sort for women in London, and another in Newcastle has been opened recently for a mission similar to that fulfilled by the London clubs. There is but one such organization in all New York, where women still have an idea that the word club is synonymous with self improvement and not small personal comforts. -New York Sun.

Boston's Working Girls' Club.

The success in Boston of the Longfellow Noonday Rest, established last January, is of a nature to encourage its duplication in other places. The Rest is in the busy part of the city and was opened for the exclusive use of women employed in its vicinity. There is a sunny, cheerful lounging room, with easy chairs and comfortable sofas, and workbaskets and magazines strewed on tables invite a member to the stitch in time or the peep into literature in the leisure moments of her noon hour. The payment of 10 cents a week entitles one to the privileges of the Rest, not the least of which is the opportunity to enjoy at moderate price the excellent food served from the well ordered kitchen, which is a chief feature of the Rest. Great care is taken to serve the food in tempting fashion. A specimen bill of fare, with prices, includes lamb broth, 8 cents; tomato soup, 6; pickled lamb's tongue and lettuce, 10; beef hash, 10; mashed potatoes, 5; scalloped tomatoes, 8; health bread, 3; white bread, 3; graham bread, 3; floating island, 8; orange cake, 5; apple pie, 5; baked apples, 8; cocoa, 5; milk, 3; coffee, 4; tea, 3. Variety is given to the bill of fare from day to day. Those who wish it may order a regular course dinner, for which they are charged 25 cents. -Boston Correspondent.

Women Cannot Vote In New Jersey.

that women cannot vote in New Jersey, even at elections to choose school trus-Judge Dixon read the opinion, holding that "school trustees are officers within article 2, paragraph 1, of the constitution; that if they are made elective by the people only males may vote for them." The decision was in the case that came up from Vineland. Last spring Chief Justice Beasley decided in a road overseers' election case that came down from Bergen county that women cannot vote for road officers. Afterward Attorney General Stockton instructed State School Superintendent Poland that the decision did not affect the law authorizing women to vote at school elections, and the attorney general's opinion was used in a Vineland school case, where women were refused the right to vote at an election in July. Superintendent Poland declared the election illegal and set it aside, and the county collector refused to recognize or pay moneys to the board of trustees appointed by the superintendent. A mandamus was asked for, and the supreme court has refused the writ and denied the right of women to vote. -Trenton

A Photograph Rack.

White wood foundation, covered and draped outside with ruby plush set off with gold gimp and fringe. The inside is faced and lined with pink satin; bows and streamers in shot moire. The two diagonal bands of either antique brocade or embroidery are outlined with chitis. fringe and secured down with a few stitches to hold some small photographs. The larger specimens with water colors are placed in the two compartments. which are also handy to hold any fash ionable odds and ends. This will make a nice Christmas present.

Homemade Bead Portieres.

A very pretty work a great many erergetic women are trying now is that of making their own bead portieres. The Japanese shops sell bamboo and strings of beads, so that one can make curtains

For instance, I saw a charming effect produced by a portiere of green beads used between a dining room and a small conservatory adjoining. You have no idea how exquisite the plants and flowers looked through this transparent screen of green. Gold beads give a sunshiny effect, and portieres of solid pink or blue beads are dainty in the extreme. A friend who has recently returned from Tapan tells me that the curtains strung in patterns are made by having the designs drawn on large pieces of paper and laid on the floor, and then the beads are strung on just as we would trace out the lines in making lace .-Philadelphia Call.

The Corset.

Attention is being called once more in France to the corset question by a petition to the chamber of deputies against the use of that garment as injurious to the health of the female part of the population. The chamber solemnly received the petition and passed it in committee. Meantime a Paris journalist has been gathering the opinions of notable women. A great many denounce the corset. "Gyp" declares it unhealthy and ungraceful and says it turns the figures into one commonplace mold, spoiling pretty ones and doing nothing to improve the ugly ones. Mlle. Bartet of the Comedie Française simply declares it a horror. Jane Hading says that since she has been in America she is for a war of independence.

Paul Dodged.

Chicago women waited on Paul du Chaillu and asked him to make a few remarks on equal suffrage. He said: Women have been the sunshine of my life. Even in darkened Africa, when I was sick and in trouble, a woman came, though a savage, and did all that she could to comfort me." This beautiful sentiment was wildly applauded, but after he had gone it dawned upon the ladies that, as far as he was concerned, the point at issue was where it was before. And this seems to be the trouble with many masculine speeches.-Kansas City Star.

Dr. Angevin's Protest.

Dr. Mary L. Angevin at the recent Halifax W. C. T. U. meeting said: "I protest against any collection of men, however anxious they may be to make all laws in the interests of the weaker sex, however anxious to advance the cause of morality, however anxious to care for the public weal, being my substitute. I prefer to be the exponent of my own conscience. Amenable to the laws of Nova Scotia, intimately connected with Nova Scotia, I demand recognition as a citizen of Nova Scotia."

A Brilliant Student.

Miss Llewela Davies, a Welsh lady, a native of Brecon, is the third lady who has gained the Charles Lucas medal for composition at the Royal Academy of Music. Her predecessors who were thus distinguished were Miss Dora Bright and Miss Ethel Boyce. Miss Llewela Davies' musical career as a student has been a brilliant and successful one, almost without a parallel. She has won five yearly musical prizes since 1887, not counting her success this year.

Some Chicago Voters.

Mrs. Charles Perrine, aged 81, was one woman who registered early in Chicago. She expressed her gratification at being able to vote at last, if only for The supreme court has just decided university trustees. She was accompanied to the place of registration by her daughter, Mrs. M. Kate Reed, associate editor of The Banner of Gold. Mrs. Reed's name also went on the books. Mrs. David Miller, aged 77, was accompanied by her husband and four sons, a family party of six voters.

Swedish Girls' Education. A number of higher girls' schools in Sweden have received grants from the government. These grants are both numerous and handsome and will be given for the three years-1894, 1895 and 1896—on the condition that a certain number of pupils shall be instructed at each school, either free of charge or for a nominal fee. This will no doubt be found a great boon, for the higher girls' schools in Sweden are comparatively ex-

A Considerate Employer.

A Chicago woman who is engaged in carrying on a successful and paying laundry makes a specialty of doing fine table linen in the best manner. She provides a place where the women and girls that she employs can get themselves a warm lunch, if they wish it, and sends them to their homes each day at 5:30 o'clock.

Dr. Mary V. Mitchell Green, late of the Woman's college, Baltimore, has been appointed director of the Somerville gymnasium at Swarthmore college. She will have as her assistant Marian Hunter of the Boston Training School for Swedish system.

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

Who Owns the Eyes?

A pleasant way for a party of young people to entertain themselves at an informal gathering is for them to try to distinguish each other by seeing the eyes alone. Pin a shawl across the doorway about five feet from the floor. Cut two holes in a large sheet of wrapping paper, or a newspaper will answer the same purpose, which will show the eyes distinctly, but will not expose any other part of the face.

If any one present possesses a talent for drawing, the paper which is to serve as a mask could be decorated with a mouth and nose, put on with a brush dipped in india ink. This would add to the grotesque appearance which the shawl, surmounted by the mask, will present. Eyebrows might also be paint-

When the paper is pinned above the shawl, the company should be divided into two parties, one to remain in the room as spectators and guessers, and the other to go "behind the scenes" (otherwise the shawl) as performers. If there are over half a dozen of the latter, a line should be formed. The one at the head stands behind the mask so that his eyes are distinctly seen by those in the room, and another of the performers

"Who owns the eyes?"

If a correct response is given, the performers clap their hands. Then the one who has taken his turn goes to the foot of the line, and No. 2 takes his or her place behind the screen. After a time the parties change places, and the fun is renewed. - London Tit-Bits.

The Emperor's Daughter.

Princess Victoria Louise, the chubby little daughter of the German emperor and empress, is not a very pretty child, but is a rosy, healthy and happy one. She is now 2 years old and is uncommonly bright and intelligent. As the only girl among so many little sons, she is a great pet, the emperor being particularly devoted to her. As for the baby's young brothers, they are her slaves and adorers, one of the chief desires of their hearts having been fulfilled when they acquired "a little sister." The princess resembles both father and mother.

How Queen Wilhelmina Is Trained. A pretty little story about her majesty Wilhelmina, the girl queen of Holland, has just found its way into the Dutch papers. The queen is at present only 14 years of age, and she is credited with even a larger measure of caprice and precocity than is usually granted to less exalted young ladies at that interesting period of life. Her mother, the queen regent, therefore, thinks it well at times to deal somewhat severely with Wilhelmina's little ways. Lately the young queen, desiring to speak to her mother, knocked-not perhaps in the most dignified fashion-at the door of the room in which the queen regent was engaged. "Who is there?" "It is the queen of Holland" (imperiously). 'Then she must not enter' (peremptorily). At this rebuff the little queen suddenly changed her tactics, and softening her tones said winningly, "Mamma, it is your own little daughter that loves you and would like to kiss you. "You may come in." And so Wilhelmina wins her way into the heart of the most phlegmatic of Dutchmen. -

The nut tree babies, young and small, Lay in green cradles satin lined; Rocked lightly by the summer wind; No bough did break, no cradle fall— The nut tree babies, one and all, Slept in their cradles peacefully While wood doves crooned a lullaby.

One autumn day the nuts awoke. The yellow leaves were strewn about, And mischievous Jack Frost was out And played those babies such a joke! Their cradles with a touch he broke And the brown nut tree babies fell One with another, all pellmell. But with the coming of the spring,

PRETTY MANICURE GIRLS.

They Fascinate Now More Than the Typewriter Once Did.

The manicure operator is fast taking the place once held solely by the pretty typewriter-that is to say, it is a part of her business to have a gift for flirting, for sly glances, for sighs and giggles at unfunny jokes and stories, hers not to question why, or to have anything to say, but simply to listen and to applaud with her smiles. Upon her genal good nature and her redepends the size of the tip which she receives, for these magnificent creatures do take tips, and the number of invitations to the theater and to dinner which she gets in a week is legion.

The fact is, she works for this kind of favor far more earnestly than for a legitimate success. The small salaries paid in this business are proverbial, but the opportunities are numberless, and the young women who take it up are generally good looking, well dressed and have a superficial kind of style picked up from the swell demimondaines who frequent the manicures religiously once a week. I have seen a number of innocent looking, pretty girls, new to the business, develop into gorgeously appareled creatures with blackened evebrows and chemical hair. Then they graduate from the profession, and novitiates take their places. They have learned the lesson.

"Do you have very much fun in this business?" I asked a happy looking girl as she "treated" my nails the other day.

"Fun? Well, I should say so," she replied enthusiastically. "I am going out to dinner tonight with Mr. president of the -- company. I tell you, he's the best friend we have. He takes one of us out every evening, and he's a perfect gentleman. Married? Oh, yes; his wife comes here, a lovely woman! He likes Miss A-- best, though She's such a popular girl! On Saturday afternoons she always has a line of gentlemen waiting their turn She really has more invitations than she can accept. She's so popular! Miss B -- is going on the stage this winter, you know. She's had a magnificent offer from Manager G-- of the 'Bar of Soap' company!

Taough the hours of the manicure girl are long and the salaries small, is it any wonder that there is always a waiting list of applicants for the vacancies which sometimes occur?-New York Letter in Boston Journal.

Badges For Railway Patrons.

In consequence of the issue of fortnightly season tickets in Belgium available over the entire system of railways, the number of season ticket holders has enormously increased. The Belgian government has now devised colored badges to be worn in the buttonholes of season ticket holders, the color indicating the character of the ticket and the class by which the holder is entitled to travel.

All but one fell to the ground and were crushed by the wheels of his carriage, but the last alighted on the lapel of the presidential coat. It was quickly handed to him by an observant lackey. M. NORTH DAKOTA'S NEW BUG.

Nobody Knows What Industry It Has Come to Destroy.

A strange insect has made its appearance in North Dakota in large numbers and has been the source of much speculation as to its character, habits and name. It has been seen for many weeks past in myriads in certain localities and is now met with, as it has made its presence felt for weeks past, in stores, offices, barber shops, hotels and on the trees and walks. Where it came from and where and when it will go are yet unanswered questions. Professor Waldron of the state experimental station at Fargo says it is closely allied to the chinch bug that has caused millions of dollars' worth of damage during certain years in Minnesota and other states. He is of the opinion that these bugs came from South America, where most of their allies live.

The insects were first noticed in this portion of the state about the middle of August at Spiritwood lake. The bugs were seen in all stages of growth-from the red coated young to the black winged adults-hanging in clusters from the limbs and in large numbers on the trunks of the trees. The next instance known of their presence was on Sept. 20, when thousands of the young were found in the timber at the junction of the Pipestone and James rivers in this Nearly a dozen patches of the young, varying four or five feet to 60 feet in diameter, were discovered. The wingless larvæ, crimson in color, were several deep and formed a writhing mass. A few fully developed bugs were noticed among the young. Thousands were seen on the brush, logs, trees and stones. The insects, while in the larval state, remained in this locality for about two weeks and suddenly disappeared.

The adult bug is a little less than half an inch in length, is dull black in color, with small red markings, and has four wings. The first pair are leathery at the base and membraneous at the tips. Its mouth consists of a single sucking tube, so that its living is obtained entirely by sucking. The young are similar to the adults, except that they are red and are wingless. With the growth of wings black markings appear. -Minneapolis Journal.

CZAR AND THE MANIFESTO

On Ris Deathbed Alexander III Declared His Love of the Peace Policy.

Pathetic stories, some true and some probably apocryphal, about the last hours of the late czar are appearing in the press of the continent. The most remarkable is one which purports to de scribe how the dying monarch himself revised the manifesto which announced his own death and his son's succession. This is intended as a refutation of the assertion that the manifesto was written by De Giers. As a matter of fact, there is every reason to believe that the proclamation was written, of course in accordance with instructions, by the procureur of the synod. According to the story, the late czar pressed his son to give him the manifesto. When he had perused it, he expressed his approbation, saying that he felt perfectly resigned, as his work would be continued He would, however, like to add some words which would reassure the Russians and Europe. He then wrote:

"We, in the presence of the Most High, record a solemn vow always to make our sole aim the peaceful development of the power and glory of our beloved Russia and the happiness of all our faithful subjects."

Reading the manifesto again, Alexander III paused at the passage, "but also far beyond the borders of Russia the memory of the czar, who was the incarnation of unswerving loyalty and of peace," and added the words, "a peace which, during his reign, was not once broken.

"It is my claim to glory," observed the emperor as he and desvn his pen. "I desired peace, the prentest blessing that God can grant es in this world. May mistortune befall those who break it, but you will know how to maintain it with those who are with us and to

A Marvelous Showing.

The U. S. Government, through the Agricultural Department, has been investigating the baking powders for the purpose of informing the public which was the purest, most economical and wholesome.

The published report shows the Royal Baking Powder to be a pure, healthful preparation, absolutely free from alum or any adulterant, and that it is greatly stronger in leavening power than any other baking powder.

Consumers should not let this valuable information, official and unprejudiced, go unheeded.
