Revelations of Gotham Police Corruption at an End.

SUPT. BYRNES THE FINAL WITNESS.

He Admits the Whole Indictment as Against the Force. Charges it to Local Politics, Declares His Own Innocence of Any Participation in the Wickedness and His Attempts to Stop It, and Closes by Announcing His Resignation.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.-What will go down in the history of this city as the Lexow committee, but which technically is the senate committee for the investigation of the police and other departments of New York, has at last closed its protracted and successful sessions. It is doubtful if any other like body appointed by the legislature of this state ever accomplished so much good work in the time that this committee has consumed, or for that matter in any length of time; for the results of this investigation have been more far reaching and conclusive of utter and appalling corruption than was ever before demonstrated here. The reports printed in these dispatches have given a good idea of the trend of the revelations.

Who Has Perjured Himself?

But to the moralist there is a feature of all this swearing that is the saddest of all, and it is one that should engage the attention of the publicist, and that is the amount of perjury that has been done, and the ease with which it has been done -without a blush or a stammer. For somebody is perjured. The direct contradictions under oath are not differences of opinion; they are issues of fact, and such also as a bad memory cannot excuse Some of the perjury has been acknowledged later, but most of it stands just as given. But the case is closed and the report of the committee is the next thing in order, and New York city, at least, will await this with impatience.

Byrnes Announces His Resignation. Superintendent Byrnes was the last witness examined. Just before he was through answering Goff's questions the superintendent handed a letter to Chairman Lexow and said that it was a copy of one that he had sent to Mayorelect Strong early this month. It was his resignation from the force, of which he has been a member for the last thirty-two years. The superintendent said that on two occasions since he was appointed in Superintendent Murray's place he was on the point of resigning, owing to the continual conflict between the commis-sioners and himself. The superintendent, he said, should have absolute charge of the discipline of the department, but that all his efforts in that direction were trustrated by the commissioners. The department was honey-combed with abuses, which had been growing for thirty years and they could only be remedied by radical Local Politicians to Blame for All. Local politicians, he claimed, were the curse of the department, and as long as politics was a factor in the force such a state of things would exist. Although he had done his utmost to procure substantial information as to corruption and bribery he was unable to get it, and the whole department was impregnated with the belief that promotion had to be bought Endeavor of the Presbyterian church and merit was of no avail. He claimed to have done a good deal towards helping to bring about the exposures. He paid a manufactured public sentiment, without which it would have been impossible for the committee to have acquired the information it did.

Jay Gould Was His Very Good Friend.

His wealth, which he estimated at $350, 000, was made by speculation, he said, in Wall street, through the instrumentality of Jay Gould and his son George. His purchases of real estate were also very profitable and be claimed not to have with Great Success.

The above gives briefly but substantially what Byrnes said as to the corruption in the force. His explanation of how he made his money was the most interesting of his testimony otherwise. Byrnes said of the property he held, and which he had accumulated by buying stocks. Said he: "The late Jay Gould was my friend, and he acted as my broker. He made for me $230,000, and since his death his son George has made $42,000."

He got his first money this way: friend of Senator Palmer named Bur-"Celluloid" collars and cuffs are ridge, a very old man who lived in Duch ess county, left me $7,000. I bought proptwelve months afterward I got $6,000 back, as he had invested it very successfully for me. This made me worth some $20,000 in

The witness then told a long story as to Gould. It was through catching a man Then Gould, he said, offored to buy stocks for him and did not want to accept any margin, but Byrnes insisted. He put up $10,000, with the result that the amount could not remember just where he got the $10,000, but he had it all right, he declared. He had made several attempts to supnever had a dollar in his life that was not obtained honestly. The interference of Commissioner Martin with the captains referred to, and Superintendent Byrnes described the meeting. He said that Martin insisted on addressing the force, and told to this, and instructed the men exactly

"And that you asked him to address the nen." "That is also false. When I remen." fused to let his instructions go to the captains they were so pleased that two of them came and kissed my hand." He denied that he had ever interfered with Dr.

He then read his letter of resignation, in of Mayor-elect Strong to assist him in any manner required, and as he stepped from terior department.

Roller skating to the music of the nn Arbor band, at the rink, Satur- LEXOW ISTHROUGH stand said: "The police force must be reorganized. The present system is all wrong." Goff announced that Commissioner Martin's bank books were all right, resolutions and speeches were made thanking all who had helped uncover the corruption, and asking the police commissioners to deal fairly with Captain Creedon, and the investigation was ended.

ROME AND SECRET SOCIETIES.

How the Papal Inhibition Will Be Put Into Practical Effect.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—The manner of executing the papal decree against membership of Roman Catholics in the Knights of Pythias, Odd Fellows and Sons of Temperance is a matter of considerable interest. Communion is not taken necessarily more than once a year in the Roman church, though it is customary with most Roman Catholics to take the communion, to which confession is an absolute essential, at Easter. Other means, however, are at hand for speedily carrying the papal order into practical effect. There are published lists of the members of the Knights of Pythias and other societies, so that Roman Catholic members of them are readily ascertainable. Should these members remain away from confession beyond a year they would thereby cut themselves off from the church.

If they attended confession they would voluntarily abandon their society connec-tions and receive absolution, or else be examined on the subject, and refusing abandon their connections absolution would be withheld. This would also operate to cut off the church member from communion and therefore from membership in the church. No formal excommunication would be required.

Status of the Papal Inhibition. ROME, Dec. 31.—It is not true that the status of the secret societies-the Sons of Temperance, Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias-has been settled for members of the Roman Catholic church in the United States. There is the best of authority for saying that a decree condemning these societies has been sent out and by order of the pope submitted to the bishops of America, from whom the pope wishes to hear before a final decision The bishops in the various states of America are now consulting together and writing to Rome their opinions.

JOHN BURNS AT WASHINGTON.

Approves of the Government Print Shop and Comments on Col. Rend's Attack.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 .- John Burns, the English labor leader, lost no time in getting to work after his arrival at Washington. He was taken in charge by James A. Power, organizer of the international Typographical union, and with his companion, J. Williams Benn, M. P., began an inspectian of the government printing office. Afterward he called upon Commissioner of Labor Carroll D. Wright, and before he had been in the city three hours had collected a box full of statistical works to be shipped to England, Concerning his observations Burns said: "I am enamored of the principle of the government doing its own work."

When the attack of Colonel Rend at Pittsburg was spoken of Burns said: "I came to America on the whole a sympathetic and, I think, an unprejudiced observer of its municipal and industrial life. No American, I think, will say that a continent so near the Old World that it can easily absorb its bad as well as its good influences will not show black spots. Fortunately I have on my side the best critics of your municipal conditions-all of the newspapers, and every municipal reformer.

"My only critic in Pittsburg was one man who came to curse John Burns and went away to bless him. He ended his participation in that meeting by objecting to sessions in the city, and all on ac-count of the deplorable influences in its precincts, a most striking confirmation of my criticism. One swallow does not a summer; one howling voice in the wilderness does not discourage me.'

At the Burns meeting at night, after the Britisher had spoken, Jerry Simpson, in a short speech, told how Burns had made the "capitalistic press squirm" when he touched the sore spots of our body politic, and expressed regret that the visitor could "go back to England and tell what a failure American government had been" in securing their rights to the

Wasburn, Wis., Bank of Wasburn, no statement,

Quite an Original Suicide.

OMAHA, Dec. 31.-A suicide occurred here which surpasses all records for originality. Paul Schutt, a South One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street saloonkeeper, suffering from the blues because of poverty, attached a tube from a gas stove how he became acquainted with Jay to the beer faucet of the ice ceest. He then turned on the gas and entering the ice chest slammed the door, which fastened with a spring lock. He was found dead on the floor of the chest next morning.

Condition of Illinois Banks.

SPRINGFIELD, Dec. 31.—The state auditor has comple ed the tabulation of the condition of the 128 banks outside of Chicago, showing their condition Dec. 14, as follows: Total resources, $123,110,268, an increase of $2,300,000 since Aug. 8. Individual deposits increased in the same amount. Loans increased $5,000,000; amount due from other banks, $3,000,000; total deposits, $95,000,000. The average cash reserve is 37 per cent.

'Frisco's Compliments to Chicago.

San Francisco football circles are "wild with joy," and the Leland Stanford boys are the heroes of the town.

A GOOD BEAR STORY

A TEAMSTER'S QUEER ADVENTURE IN INDIAN TERRITORY.

Knocked Mer by a Silver Tip Dam and Buried In the Snow-When She Came Back For a Feast, the Larder Was Empty, and the Situation Was Reversed.

Early in the fall of 1880 our regiment was ordered into the field against hostile Indians, and about the beginning of October we were encamped on Poplar creek, a tributary emptying into the Missouri from the north, about 60 miles distant from Fort Buford.

Our instructions required us to remain here until further orders should be received, and during these few days that we lay idle in camp the men amused themselves in various ways, but principally by organizing short hunting expe ditions into the surrounding country.

Our chief of teamsters was Henry Morgan, a good all round shot and one who had more than once brought down big game by his skill. He started off alone one morning just as a mild blizzard began to fly and openly declared that when he returned he would bring an antelope or a deer back with him, and perhaps both.

We saw him disappear in the direction of Mill creek with his rifle over his shoulder, but the narrative of his subsequent movements is best told by himself: "I had gone perhaps three miles up the creek, and had as yet seen no signs of any wild animal, when all at once from behind a cottonwood log near a thick bunch of underbrush a long eared cottontail rabbit leaped nimbly into sight, and the next moment my shot laid him low. "I hurried over to the spot and was leaning over to examine the animal when I felt a crash as if the whole canyon had exploded, and as I tumbled over in the snow my fast departing senses recognized a huge silver tip bear, whose powerful paw had been the author of my mischief.

"I lay there half stunned and badly bruised, with just enough consciousness left to observe what was going on around me.

"The old bear nosed and rolled me about, and finally succeeded in pushing and dragging me about 20 feet; then she pushed me down into a washout of the creek bottom and pawed away until she had me almost covered with snow, brush and other trash. I had now re covered my senses, but as I could easily breathe through the loose pile that cov ered me I thought it safest to lie still and await the outcome.

'Completing my funeral arrange ments, the bear walked about and sniffed a few times suspiciously at the spot; then by the sound of her satisfied snarls and growls growing fainter and less distinct I knew that she was moving

"When I considered she was far enough away, I scrambled out of the hole, shook myself clear of the trash and then looked around for my gun.

"It was lying safe and little damaged near the log where I killed the cottontail, but was somewhat scratched and choked with snow.

"I first cleaned the piece out, placed it in good order and then went back to my involuntary grave, where I found the tracks made by bruin to be quiet distinct and widely separated, showing that the beast had gone off down stream somewhat in a hurry. I suspected the old monster would be back sooner or later; so, rearranging the cavity and restoring the brush and trash as naturally as possible, I retired to a safe position behind the cottonwood log, which had been the scene of my first disaster, and sat down to wait "Perhaps three-quarters of an hour had passed when far down the open I saw the old mother with her cubs trotting merrily at her heels, making all haste up stream toward my place of concealment. I kept as still as death and scarcely breathed, but got my rifle into position and nervously waited until the trio should come within easy range.

"On she came, rolling from side to side, and then I saw that her object Rock. was the hole in which I had been so unceremoniously buried. "She hurried to the spot, growled something at the cubs; then all three, oubs and dam, began pawing and scratch ing the brush and trash aside and sendFinally the hole was scooped out clean, and then the old one, evidently comprehending that the promised dinner had escaped, lay back her head and howled her woes to heaven.

"This was my first opportunity, and I fired with careful aim, the lead striking her in the lower part of the neck and causing her to pitch heavily forward. By the time I had placed a bullet in the fore shoulder of the largest cub the dam, with a mighty howl, regained her feet and savagely began to lick the wound of her bleeding offspring. I was perfectly cool now, and realizing that it was a matter of life or death with me I took another can while the old one was poised on her hand legs mopping her own wound and sent a bullet through her heart. The younger cub got away in the brush before I was ready for it, but the large one, who had already been wounded, I finished with another shot."-Philadelphia Times.

Strazini is the name of a wonder in Leipsic. Strazini astonishes his audi ences by first eating a soup which consists of sawdust plentifully mixed with coal oil. The mess is set afire, and after the flames have been extinguished Strazini eats the peculiar mixture, this up with biting piece after piece from the lamp chimney, crushing the glass between his teeth and swallowing it. He washes it down with a little water. For dessert he munches pieces of hard coal, peat, washing soap, tallow candles and pieces of plaster. - Leipsic Correspondent.

MR. WINSLOW'S LOAN BUSINESS. When at Harvard, He Exacted a Latin Tuesis as Interest.

When W. Rodman Winslow was killed by falling from the seventh story window of the Sevillia apartment house some days ago, a never failing source of revenue to those hard pressed for ready money was taken away For years Mr Winslow had an office on the third floor of the Vanderbilt building, at 182 Nassau street, and there he transacted an "interest and discount" business on a The sign on the office door set forth that Mr Winslow was a counselor at law He was it is true, educated for the law, but he had given little attention to its practice for many years. It was in the loaning of money upon chattel mortgages that he made a reputation for himself and acquired the fortune which he had when he died His method of doing business was similar to that of chattel loan agents the city over In addition to the legal rate of interest Winslow charged 30 or 40 per cent additional for the accommodation. To secure the loan he took a chattel mor! gage upon almost anything of great r value than the amount loaned which the borrower possessed. The form of this mortgage he drew himself, and it was his boast that it had never been broken in a court of law

Mr. Winslow was a college man, and, according to the story of an old friend of his, it was while still a student at Harvard that he began the business which he afterward made his vocation. A fellow student was hard up one day, and he asked young Winslow to lend him some money. The latter had some ready money which he signified his willingness to loan provided the borrower, who was a fine classical student, would write a Latin thesis for him. It was a good hard two weeks' work, but the student had to have the money, so he agreed to the stipulation. After that young Winslow frequently loaned money to others, exacting premiums of various kinds for the accommodation.

On leaving college the young graduate made up his mind that there were great possibilities for pecuniary gain in doing a money business on a larger scale, and thus it happened that he made it his profession. It was said that he did the largest business of the kind in the city. - New York Letter.
