On motion of Regent Kiefer, it was resolved that with the next year the charge of $5 made to medical students for post mortem examinations be dropped.

The board then went into executive session for 40 minutes. Prof. J. C. Knowlton was with the board a part of this time. So far as can he ascertained the board adopted the law course proposed by the new dean Prof. Harry B. Hutchins, and voted to appoint an additional law

Settlement of a Big Estate.

The Owen Gallagher estate has at last been settled in the probate court. It has been hanging fire a long time and involved a large amount of property. Owen Gallagher was an old bachelor, who died in 1882 and left a will dividing his estate between the children of his brother, Patrick Gallagher, and the children of his deceased brother, Anthony Gallagher. By the will Patrick Gallagher was made executor. Owen and Patrick had always been doing business together, everything being owned in common, so that the settlement covered complicated transactions covering a long series of years. The heirs of An thony Gallagher were represented by Col. B. M. Thompson and by J T. Honey, Esq., of Dexter. It was finally decided to leave the matter to the arbitration of Judge Babbitt, and the matter was finally settled this week by Patrick Gallagher paying over to the heirs of Anthony Gallagher $58,000 in cash and deeding them $5,000 worth of real estate. Under this finding he owes his own children the same amount.

NOT ALLOWED TO GO ON A TOUR.

But Held on "Waiting Orders" Owing to His Recent Breach of Discipline_No Court Martial Probable for a Reason That Makes Similar Breaks Easy_Consul General Who Argues the Necessity of an International Monetary Standard.

WASHINGTON, May 16.-The secretary of the navy has issued an order revoking the leave of absence granted to Rear Admiral Meade several days ago. When Admiral Meade became dissatisfied with his command and asked to be detached from the command of the North Atlantic squadron he also asked for a leave of absence of a year, with permission to be abroad, saying at the same time that he would also in a day or two ask to be retirved. The request to be detached was immediately granted, as was the request for the year's leave of absence. Then came the request to be retired, but before any action could be taken the interview was published which has caused so much Ben Culy left Monday for West Caro, difficulty. No action has been taken upon the request for retirement, but the action revoking the leave of absence indicates that the request for retirement will not be complied with.

Admiral Is Tied-Up, as It Were.

The effect will be to place Admiral Meade on waiting orders, subject to any duty at any time, which the department may desire to assign him. It was understood that the leave of absence granted Admiral Meade contained permission to go abroad, and he intended to spend the summer in Europe. He could not go abroad while on waiting orders without violating the naval regulations. If he were not ready to respond to any order of the department when issued he would also be subject to discipline for not obey-

FACTS ABOUT THE CHINA TRADE.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Consul General Jerningan, at Shanghai, China, has sent to the state department a comprehensive report on trade relations with China. After prefacing the report with a statement about the civil government of Shanghai, the principal commercial city of the empire, Jerningan argues in favor of an international standard of value. He says China is America's largest market for domestic cotton goods, but that there was a falling off from 65,895,000 vards in 1892 to 27,706,000 yards in 1893. There has been a falling off in the case of Great Britian from 497,475,000 yards in 1892 to 365,405,000 in 1893. The loss as regards the United States is so great, he says, as to excite anxiety. In 1873 the mills of the Orient and Occident were competing on relatively equal terms and receiving equal returns.

ame amount of labor as it did in 1873, but the owner of the mill in the United States pays for the labor in gold at the old rates, while the owner of the mill in Japan pays for labor in silver, at the old rates also. Not only does this principle of the difference in the value of currency in which labor is paid in the eastern and western countries apply to wages, but it applies to whatever is essential to the success of agriculture and manufacturing enterprise. If the land acquired twentyfive years ago by foreigners in Shanghai was then worth $25,000,000 and was sold now for what it originally cost in silver and the proceeds converted into gold, the loss would be about $12,000,000.

Jerningan says: "By this rule it appears that the inequality in the value of silver and gold has reduced the gold value of the world's property one-half. I am not writing in favor of a gold or a silver standard, but in favor of an equalizing adjustment between the two. used by one-half of the world and gold by the other half, and while wages in onehalf is paid in a depreciated currency and in the other half by an appreciated currency a rivalry between the respective products of the labor of each is encouraged, with the advantage in the outset to the products of the laborer paid in depreciated currency, and especially when the latter can supply his daily wants with such a currency, and which he willingly receives and remains contented with."

Raises an International Question.

WASHINGTON, May 16 -It can be stated authoritatively that British ships will be sent to Behring sea to patrol against poachers and to use every effective means of carrying out the Paris award and the British law based thereon. The instructions to the British ships will not, however, direct the seizure of vessels found with arms, but will require other external evidence of sealing, such as the possession of skins, presence of blood on the ship, etc., as a basis of seizure. As the United States law holds possession of arms prima facie evidence of unlawful sealing the question arises whether United States yessels can execute the law against British shins.

Reed Goes to Visit Hitt.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Hon. Tom Reed, of Maine, arrived in the city from New York, and without taking quarters at any hotel proceeded straight to the residence of Representative Hitt, of Illinois. The two men are close friends, and the gentleman from Maine having become uneasy on account of Hitt's continued illness, came on to Washington to express his sympathy in person. His visit to the capital will be a brief one.

SIR WALTER A GAME HORSE.

But He Couldn't Win the Brooklyn Handicap in the Mud.

NEW YORK, May 16 -The great eastern race-the Brooklyn Handicap-was run and won in the mud, the track being very soft from the late rains. Twenty thousand people saw Hornpipe come in first in 2:1114, with Lazzarone, a 30-to-1 chance. a length behind, and Sir Walter, one of the favorites, half a length behind Lazgarone. The start was a pretty one, all even and on the run. It was a whipping and spurring race from post to wire. signee led to the half-mile, when he dropped back into the bunch and Hornpipe tried to take the piace, but Sir Walter was a great horse at this stage of the race, and he would not be denied, closely attended by Dr. Rice, Rey Santa Anita, Ramapo, and Hornpipe.

Game little Sir Walter made the pace until well down the home stretch. Then the heavy weights and equally heavy track began to tell a tale of distress for the favorites, and the light-weighted youngsters began to overpower They were all at the whip The thoroughly excited throng of men and women yelled frantically at their respective choices to come on and land the great race, but it was not to be a favorite's triumph. A furlong from the finish Hamilton was seen coming with Hornpipe like a whirlwind. On and on he came, speeding by the jaded brutes in front of him like a locomotive running

Hornpine's rush was something that literally clove the tongues of the shouters to their mouths. He won amid oppressive silence by a length from the thirty to-one chance Lazzarone, who had the invaluable aid of the veteran Isaac Murphy. Lapping Lazzarone to the saddle girth was Sir Walter, who gamely stood whip and spur for more than half a mile, and proved himself the gamest horse in the Mayor Pingree Defeated Again. LANSING, Mich., May 16 - Mayor Pingree, of Detroit, received another black eye from the Michigan legislature. Pingree was interested in a bill to give the new Detroit street railway company certain terminal facilities over the lines of the Citizens' Railway company. Both houses have killed this bill, the senate following the house. The house passed bills providing for a parole convict system and appropriating $8,000 for the inspection of factories. The senate killed the Jamieson bill providing for taxing as personal property the franchises of transportation and gas companies in cities.

Chicago "Also Ran."

CHICAGO, May 16 -- Those who have lost faith in the effective "huskiness" of the Chicago ball team have been predicting that the club was at the top of the slide and that some club would come along pretty soon with a toboggan for Anson. The toboggan seems to have arrived in the baggage of the New York hustlers. Following are League records: At Chicago-New York 9, Chicago 1; at Pittsburg-Philadelphia 1, Pittsburg 5; at Cleveland-Boston 3, Cleveland 2; (second game) Boston 4, Cleveland 8. I think that it will be conceded by all fair minded persons that this department has been successful in a large degree during the past year in accomplishing the objects for which it is maintained, that is for the enforcement of the city and state laws within the city so as to ensure peace and good order upon our streets, for the arrest of persons violating the law, and for the protection of property. Our city has been remarkably free from the depredations of the criminal classes, a result due both to the peaceful disposition of our citizens and to the vigilence of the police. We have had but few cases of robbery comdared with other cities of our class. While the financial unrest which has prevailed throughout the country for of the City of Ann Arbor, in support of To the Common Council of the City of some time has thrown many men out of employment, still crime has been much less here than in many cities much smaller than ours, and the larcenies committed here were of a petty character, and in almost every case the offenders were brought to justice.

In conclusion, the thanks of this department are due to your honorable body for the active encouragement and prompt attention that it has always received at your hands. The thanks of this department are also due to Mayor Darling for the kind and personal attention that he has always given to the matter of bringing it up to a high degree of efficiency. He has been ceaseless in his efforts to bring this important branch of the city government up to a superior degree of excellance. I am personally much indebted to every member of the police force for their strict attention to their fluties, and particularly to David Collins for many valued services.

Believing that the coming year will show a continued record of progress, I am very respectfully yours,

PARRIS S. BANFIELD, Chief of Police.

COIN'S FIRST FALSEHOOD.

Coin's first picture is that of Columbus discovering America in 1492. Immediately beneath it is a pretended quotation from a public document, which begins in this way:

"At the Christian era the metallic money of the Roman empire amounted to $1,800,000,000. By the end of the fifteenth century it had shrunk to $200,-000,000. (Dr. Adam Smith informs us that in 1455 the price of wheat in England was two pence per bushel.)"

The statement in parenthesis, which is introduced by "Coin," is false in four different ways, viz.: (1) It is false by conveying to the reader's mind the idea that a penny in 1455 was the same thing as a penny now; (2) it is false by conveying the idea that the price quoted was the average price at that period in the world's history; (3) it is false in giving Adam Smith as authority for the the idea that the quantity of money in the world was the cause of the low price of wheat in 1455.

The first thing in the quoted paragraph is a statement that at the Christian era there was a plentiful supply of money as compared with the later period. Now, we can show, on the best possible authority that the rate of wages for laboring men at this happy period 20: 1-16, which tells us that a certain thus: householder went out early in the morning to hire laborers for his vineyard, arts, wealth and freedom all disap and that when he had agreed with them peared. It is in the recollection of many persons now living in Illinois and Iowa that the corn crop of some years before 1860 would not pay the cost of hauling it to market, and consequently that it was consumed for fuel on the farms or sold for fuel in the adjoining towns. I have been warmed by such fires myself. And this occurred at a time which Coin's Financial Fool would call "bimetallic" that is prior to 1873. Now years, when corn was burned for fuel, did not exceed in the country towns estimate in those times that there was statement; (4) it is false in conveying as much fuel in a ton of corn as in a ton of coal. If this was true the value of corn must have been between six and eight cents per bushel, being less than the price of wheat in 1455 as quoted by Fleetwood. What could be said of any future historian who should take that for the true price of corn in Illinois in tories: Why not nominate a southern the middle of the 19th century?

We have not got through with this pretended quotation yet. Beginning nority the monopoly of honor and prowas one penny per day. See Matthew where we left off above, it continues

In 1455 the weight report of that year and finding nothing of the silver penny was twice as great of the kind here quoted pronounced it a as it was in the time of Adam Smith, a forgery. Several of our contemporaries, however, have asked us where there is to be found a southern man big enough, broad enough, strong enough to meet the expectations of the party and the requirements of the position.

We have been challenged to do this, and we accept the challenge by asking whether any fault is to be found with James B. Eustis, our present embassador to France. We should like some one to tell us in what respect James B. Eustis of Louisiana falls short of the most exacting requirement.

Mr. Eustis has been in public life for many years. He has served in the legislature of his own state and in the United States senate. He believes in party organization, in fair fighting in the field of politics, in rewards to the victor, in the people's right to govern themselves, in the people's wisdom and sincerity and justice. He understands the questions now agitating the public mind-There was a monetary commission in questions of domestic or international night, on the occasion of the American society banquet, shows that he shares the deepest convictions and the most vivid and intense aspirations of the American people as regards our relations with foreign countries and our proper attitude toward them.

In what particular does Eustis fail? Of what standard of Democratic availability and official equipment does he fall short? We have been asked to name a man, and we have done so. Now let some caviling critic say wherein our nominee is lacking!—Washington Post.

A FLOATING CHAPEL.

A Queer Church That Travels Up and Down the Western Rivers.

For nine months the Illinois river towns below Lacon have been treated to an innovation, and for the summer to come the towns farther north-Henry, Hennepin, Spring Valley, La Salle and Peru-are to have with them I. R. B. Arnold's "floating chapel."

This boat is an immense hulk, 50 by 150 feet, with a seating capacity in the auditorium of 500, a small classroom, living rooms for Mr. Arnold and family and manager, C. H. Nichols. Besides this a small printing office is operated on the boat to print tracts and a photograph gallery to take pictures of scenes along the rcute. The boat is towed from one point to another by local packets, but formerly a small steam launch did the work, the boat being towed to headwaters and floated down, the launch being used to keep the boat in the channel and effect landings.

The boat is self sustaining. Mr. Arnold expects to take south ten tons of religious literature. As soon as the warm weather is over the work will begin in the sunny south. Three university students from Chicago will go with him to help spread the gospel.

In the last four years Mr. Arnold has delivered 1,500 sermons and lectures, distributed five tons of literature, visit ed 150 cities and towns and addressed 150 mass meetings in the interest of temperance. More than 250,000 people have passed into his boat. The chapel cost $2,000; the tugboat, $400; running expenses for four years, $7,600; receipts from donations, $1,200; collections, $8,-600.—Chicago Record.

Won Through a Bumblebee.

Mrs. Anna Dengelkolb of Hope Church has settled her claim against Paul Scandora for $30. She says he promised to pay her $50 if she would secure evidence to enable him to win a breach of promise case a Hope Church woman had brought against him. She got the evidence, but he did not settle until after she sued him for $50 before Alderman D. J Mettarey Scandora was caught in the toils of love by a reputed widow, with one daughter A bumblebee intervened in a peculiar way, and he broke his promise of marriage. The widow's daughter was with Mrs. Dengelkolb's children gathering roses in their garden. They disturbed a bee which was gathering cry and called the busy little thing a 'hummel bee.

"You'd better not let my ma hear you say 'hummel,' '' remarked the widow's daughter.
"Why?" asked one of the Dengelkolb

"Because that is the name of her husband, who's in the old country. She doesn't like him or his name, and she left him," the widow's daughter explained.

Mrs. Dengelkolb's daughter told her mother, and her mother told Scandora. He wouldn't marry the widow, and she sued for damages. A jury awarded her $300, because there was no proof of the existence of the husband in the old the string Remedy Co., Chicago office 45 kandolph St.; New York, 10 Spruce St. country

Mrs. Dengelkolb agreed to get this for $50. With the aid of Max Schamberg she got official documents confirming the story of the widow's marriage to Hummell and of his existence. With these Scandora got a new trial, and the widow threw up her hands. The bumblebee had turned fortune against her.

Scandora did not want to pay Mrs. Dengelkolb's price, and rather than have trouble about it she knocked $20 off the bill.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A Tonsorial University.

Philadelphia has a new collegiate institution. It is known as "The Philadelphia Barber College." The faculty consists of two professors, the founder, L H. Bailey, and his wife, who occupy a small railed off space near the door. The students, of whom there are ten, occupy the center of the big room.

The subjects, as a rule, are queer looking "objects." They are gentlemen of the road. The barber college is a godsend to them, for it saves beer money. Every morning one of the students goes out with a handful of small cards upon which is printed: "Free hair cut and shave! From 8 to 5 o'clock every day. White men only. Come and bring your friends. No. 832 Cherry street. Absolutely free." These he distributes at the various cheap lodging and eating houses in the vicinity

The gentlemen who receive the cards are not slow to accept the invitation. Some of them are proud to do so, for, as one of them said while he was waiting for a shave: " 'Tain't everybody wat kin git his face scraped by a college student and besides have a purty woman a-look in on fer to see dat de job's done right.

Mrs. Bailey is the instructor. She is a bright little woman, with a mission. 'I think, from my personal observations," said she, "that the barber business in Philadelphia needs elevating, and my husband and I are doing our best toward that end.' The "course" lasts eight weeks.-

The Lion Preferred Tights.

That lions prefer tights to skirts is apparent from the tenor of an interesting interview with Carl Hagenbeck in the London Daily Graphic, for Mr. Hagenbeck declares that during a period of 43 years he has only had one accident in his business.

It was caused by one of his female performers entering the lion's den with a new dress on. The lion had always seen her with tights, and not understanding what the dress was bit it to satisfy his curiosity. Unfortunately he included in the mouthful a portion of the wearer, inflicting severe injuries upon his fair trainer.—New York Trib-

(From the Battle Creek Moon.) Our representative called at 26 Battle Creek Avenue, the residence of S. I. M., but no one knows better than I how she has suffered during past years plaint and an enlargement of the liver he was often confined to her bed for more than two weeks at a time suffering untold agony. She has doctored constantly, and I have paid out in doctors' bills for her lone as much as $900.00, and then her relief was only such that she would be able to be around for a spell. Some time ago she felt the symptoms of another attack coming on, such as a pain in through the kidneys and back. I hardly know what induced me to get a box of Doan's Kidney Ad Pills, instead of sending for the family physician; however, I got some and she commenced their use. It was a surprise to us both to see their action; the attack was warded off, and she continued taking them with marked improvement each day of their use. She is better now than she has been in years, the pain in the back and others in the kidneys have entirely gone. Hardly a day goes by that we do not mention the great good Doan's Kidney Pills have done her. A remarkable experience has befallen Lewis Capella, a merchant of St. Au-Resolved, That the Ordinance Com-

Three times he has been married, but mittee and City Attorney be authorized his wives have been stolen from him by his brothers.

Six years ago he made his first matrimonial venture. Six months after the wedding he awoke one morning to find that Mrs. Capella had fled with his brother William. Lewis procured a divorce and soon afterward married again.

Several months ago Lewis tired of wife No. 2, or rather fell in love with a Miss Rolleston, and obtained a divorce.

While the suit was pending he was making violent love to Miss Rolleston, and all arrangements were perfected for the wedding On the days that Lewis did not call on Miss Rolleston his brother Emanuel did and with the lady's consent laid a counterplot.

The consequence was that when Lewis was ready to wed Miss Rolleston he found she had eloped with Emanuel.

Mr. Capella bore his matrimonial misfortunes bravely, however, and became reconciled to wife No. 2, whom he had divorced, and two months ago he remarried her.

Apparently they were living happily until Mr. Capella's third brother, John put in an appearance.

Soon he noticed that Mrs. Capella and John seemed fond of each other, and the other morning he awoke to find that the couple had eloped, taking the baby, the only child, with them. Mr. Capella is disgusted with wives and brothers. He says he intends to apply to the legislature for permission to change his name. To crown Capella's misfortunes, his residence, worth $5,000, was destroyed by fire a few nights since. - New York Recorder.

The Famous General Interested In a Great Irrigation Scheme.

"General O. O. Howard and his brother, C. H. Howard, have become interested in one of the largest and most promising irrigation enterprises ever undertaken in this country," says James W. Wilson, one of the publishers of Farm, Field and Fireside.

"At the Victor narrows of the Mohave river, not far from San Bernardino, Cal., is a natural reservoir of 100,000 acres. The land is practically level and surrounded by a wall of granite hills. Government rights have been already secured and a survey made. A dam 150 feet high will be built at the foot of this reservoir, where the Mohave, the largest river in southern California, flows through a narrow pass between high granite bluffs.

"Nothing could be more propitious than the location of this reservoir, and the land to be irrigated consists of 400,had from the government by settlers for $1.25 an acre as soon as it is under irri-

SOMETHING NEW.

An Originally Trimmed Frock of Cheviot For a Growing Girl.

Frocks original in design and adapted for growing girls are hard to find even at this season of the year, when new gowns for children are so much in evidence. The frock shown in the illustration will interest all mothers who are planning their daughters' spring wardrobe.

It is a little gown of tan and brown mottled cheviot, with the light color predominating. The gored skirt is trimmed with bands of green velvet, arranged in rows and caught to the material by gilt buckles. The round waist is tight fitting, and buttons in the back. It is trimmed like the skirt, with velvet straps caught with gilt buckles.

The collar consists of a band of velvet fastened with a buckle, and another velvet strap joins the puff to the deep cuff of the sleeve. The gown is suitable for a girl from 10 to 16, and the bodice is a pretty change from the conventional blouse front and jacket design.—New York World.

The Queen Anne Comb.

The very broad Queen Anne comb has come back to favor. There is no more dignified ornament for the hair than a broad tortoise shell comb, either plain or handsomely carved. Middle aged women who have preserved their hair look most stately in combs of this kind, and they make an admirable support for the smart little arrangements of lace and ribbon termed "caps." Young girls look very quaint with their shining tresses dressed around the wide, demure Queen Anne comb that bears little resemblance to the lowering irregularly shaped comb of tortoise shell or its imitation which for so long it has been the fashion to thrust through the coils or braids of hair at any angle, however 000 acres of the best government land erratic. The polished oak board is the most convenient and the most artistic of any. Its surface should be rubbed until it dimly reflects the rubber's face. Not an inch of drapery should be allowed. As for ornaments, the prettiest are the white and ivorized plaster casts, which can be bought so reasonably and are fashionable. A panel from the Parthenon frieze or Donatello's cherubs hung two inches above the mantel is striking and a few small pieces standing upright between photographs that are handsomely framed in leather or metal are all the decorations needed for a mantel during the heated season. A housekeeper will find one of this variety a pleasure more than a worry.

THOSE SEMINARIES

Burning Question for the Presbyterian Assembly.

ECHO OF THE PROF. BRIGGS TRIAL.

How the Proposal Was Received to Give the Assembly Complete Control of Theological Schools_Four Small Colleges Consent, the Others Not Recalcitrant Mildly Refuse, Among Them Princeton

PITTSBURG, May 16.—The commissioners of the general assemby of the Presby terian church are arriving here rapidly and talking over the business that will be attended to by the assembly. The most important subject to come up is that of the control of the theological seminaries. which was brought to the front in the last assembly by the condemnation of Professor Briggs, who was charged with heresy in his teachings. The question discussed is the response of the theological seminaries to the requests of the last general assembly. These requests are regarded by the country at large as almost mandatory, and were in brief that the seminaries should be under the direct control of the general assembly.

Training Schools Too Independent. It was the indorsement by the schools in which they taught of Professor Briggs, of Union, and Professor Henry P. Smith, of Lane, after these men had been discredited as teachers by the general assembly, that aroused the last named body to a realization of the growing independence of these training schools for the ministry. While posing as Presbyterian schools, supposedly orthodox and receiving support and patronage as such, the semi-naries might, if the action of trustees and faculties was uncontrolled, depart radically from the doctrinal views of the general assembly, which are supposed to be representative of the entire country. That was the view taken by the assem-

What the Assembly Demanded.

Accordingly the last general assembly formulated requests in about the follow ing language: That the seminaries should amend their charters with a clause declaring that they held their property in trust for the general assembly of the Presbyterian church. That no election of trustees, directors, or other governing officers of seminaries should take effect until approved by the general assembly. That the election, appointment, or transfer of professors should be submitted to the approval of the general assembly. That the seminaries change their charters with a clause declaring that in the event of the misuse or diversion of the funds or the property the general assembly should have power to provide against such abuse by appealing to the civil courts.

Some Semmaries Inclined to Straddle. To each of the eleven seminaries of the church these propositions were sub-mitted, and a committee of ministers and aymen appointed to influence the schools in the right way. For some reason determination of the question was generally deferred until the last minute before this year's general assembly. Owing to the lateness of their consideration and the disposition shown by some of the seminaries to straddle, alming to give no offense to the general assembly while still retaining their autonomy, the fate of the assembly's requests is not very clear. It is evident, however, that they have failed of complete acceptance.

ACTION OF THE SEMINARIES.

Seven of the Iustitutions Agree to the Proposed Plan.

The committee having the matter in charge will report, it is said, that Omaha, Danville, Dubuque and Newark seminaries have accepted the plan, and that ing. Princeton, McCormick and Allegheny have practically adopted the principle. This leaves opposed to the plan Auburn, Lane and San Francisco. Union has already broken away from the limited control at present exercised by the assembly and is not expected to repent at present. Those reported as consenting to a surrender of their independence are the smallest of the seminaries. The "adoption of the principle" by Princeton, Mc-Cormick and Allegheny is apparently a euphemism of the committee for a mild refusal As it avoids all antagonism of the general assembly it may be accepted by the committee as a substitute for a more complete submission.

The position of McCormick seminary (Chicago), like that of others, has been variously regarded, in some quarters being looked upon as a defiance, in others as an acceptance of the assembly's pro-gramme. The position taken by the seminary is clearly stated by the Rev. Simon J. McPherson, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, and one of the trustees of McCormick seminary. He says the seminary is not at variance with the general assembly, but does not wish to sur-render control of the institution to any

There are other questions to come up, but the seminary issue is the overshadow ing one. The first question that will interest the delegates, nowever, is the election of moderator. A number of dark | miners. horses are coming to the front as candidates. Among the latest to appear are the Rev. J. G. Blackburn, D. D., of Covington, Ky. and Dr. Maxon, of California Those who attended the meeting of the assembly at Portland, Or., reflect on the fact that a pool was formed by various delegations which met on the way who were successful in the election of their candidate. He Defeats McNulta in the Illinois G. A. R. Encampment.

BLOOMINGTON, Ills., May 16.-Nearly all the Sons of Veterans (and many members of the Grand Army have left Blooming. ton. Rain fell all day and the weather was chilly and disagreeable. Owing to the desire of the delegates to get away the election of officers was brought up and General W. H. Powell, of Believille, elected commander. The vote was: Powell, 453; McNulta, 319, and it was made unanimous. C. T. Coleman, of Canton, was elected senior vice commander, and B. D. Hubbard, of Neoga, junior vice commander. The matter of selecting the location of the encampment next year comes up to-day. It will probably be left to the commander and a committee, and located wherever the best railway rates can be secured. Cairo still seems to be in the lead for the honor. It is conceded that Com-mander Powell will retain Fred W. Spink, of Chicago, as adjutant. This fact figured in the election. Schroeder's Opera House was crowded last night on the occasion of the camp fire by the Prisoners of War association. There was a reception at the Windsor hotel in honor of the president and staff of the Woman's Relief Corps.

FIVE MEN SERIOUSLY HURT.

Whole Inside of a Building Falls to Pieces,

Burying Five Men. ATLANTA, May 16.-An accident in which five men were seriously injured occurred at the new building erected by the Exposition Cotton Mills company. The men were working on the third floor and were raising a heavy piece of timber by means of a derrick when the rope gave way. The timber fell and struck other timbers. This started the others and the whole inside work of the immense building was soon in ruins with five men buried beneath the broken and twisted lumber.

The injured are: S. B. Pylant, white, foreman; Will McKenny, colored, car-penter; Henry Clay, Will Dunlap and John Dunlap—all colored laborers. It is thought three of the men will die. The damage to the mills was considerable.

The jury was out forty minutes. The extreme penalty on this charge is ten years in the penitentiary. Nutt was apparently unmoved by the verdict. He made no statement, but it is expected that the usual application for a new trial will be made. The defense was insanity, the same that set him free after he had killed Dukes at Uniontown, Pa., ten years ago. In that case he waylaid his victim and shot him

The railways as well as the postal authorities are interested in the frightful possibilities of the "10 cent chain" scheme of sending out begging letters, which has been worked to large proportions in numerous cases. An Atlanta Constitution man figures in regard to a local undertaking of that kind that, "allowing ten letters to the ounce, it would take 6,400,000 to load a car, and it would require 1,000 cars, carrying 20 tons each, 687, 049, 281 years and 307 days to deliver the mail if the system should run unbroken to the fiftieth series.
