For the Failure of School Work in All Branches-The Children Should Get Thoughts as Well as Words in Early Reading - Points Developed on Various Topics.

Despite the bad condition of the coads about 135 of Washtenaw's teachers assembled at Saline last Saturday to attend the midwinter meeting of the County Association. As President Essery was late in arriving the meeting was called to order by Commissioner Wedemeyer, and after a song by the Saline High School choir Supt. R. O. Austin, of Saline, presented a paper on the "Future of English Syntax." The subject was handled in a very able man-All text books of grammar and rhetoric are emphatic in the enunciation of the principle that usage is the law of grammar, and that the office of the grammarian is not to lay down sets of arbitrary rules but only to explain existing forms. But in practice these authors are far from consistent. They eling with slavish subordination to traditional rules and forms of expression that have long been obsolete. The English language is in almost as much in the twelfth century and text-books should keep abreast of the times. The speaker proceeded to criticize many of wise there is little use in regarding person as a property of the noun. There be held at Chelsea. was once a subjective mode, but it is now practically obsolete; while as far the imperative mode there is little excuse for saying that it ever existed. The property of commanding belongs to the sentence and not to the verb alone. Syntax and analysis are the all important parts of formal grammar. The speaker pointed out many cases in which there is a conflict between reputable usage and the rules laid down by text-books. The nice distinctions in the use of "shall" and "will" are no longer regarded. By actual count, nine out of ten of the speakers who appear on the University platform use the objective form after the verb "be" as: 'It is me'' not "It is I."

The discussion of the paper was opened by Supt. M. A. Whitney, of Ypsilanti. "Usage is the basis of grammar but whose usage? Not that of the majority of the people but that of the best writers and thinkers. Even the men who appear upon the University platform could not be taken as the President Essery presided at the afternoon session. A song by a quartet was well received and an encore brought out "Gently Glides our Boat." Mrs. F. Caldwell Heller then presented a paper on "Teaching Reading in the District Schools." Reading is a very important subject as the ability of the pupil to learn other lessons depends upon his being a careful, thoughtful reader. Children are great mimics and teachers should bear this in mind, and when reading anything in their presence read it with proper inflection and emphasis. The greatest impediment to success in the district schools i lack of time. Blackboard may be of great assistance. Place new words on the board, properly syllabicated and marked diacritically, and have them read by the class. Teach the pupils to talk the lesson instead of proceeding in the old sing-song, buzz-saw fashion.

After a short discussion Supt. M. A. Whitney gave an address on the subect "What Should a Course of Study Include?" Reading is the most important. One requisite for teaching reading well is interesting subject matter and in this respect there has been a great improvement in the last few ears. Memorize good literature early. Word-calling is not reading. Thoughtgetting is the important thing. Children should be taught to read in four or five years time instead of taking eight years as now.

Children are greatly interested in the history of Greece, Rome, England, etc., as well as in that of the United States. Connect history with geography. In addition to the above all pupils should be taught to sing, and drawing should be taught in connection with other studies. More attention should be given to penmanship.

Nettie M. Gillett presented a paper on "School Ethics." Education should develop the moral as well as the mental Strive to develop conscience. Much profit may be derived from good books. Instill into the minds of pupils that "no man liveth to himself." Make the schoolroom as attractive as possible. One is sure to meet with many discouragments. Even nineteenth century pedagogues cannot be expected to perform miracles. Remember that "Duty done is victory won." Discussion opened by Commissioner Wedemeyer. To teach arithmetic, geography, etc. is not the teacher's whole duty. We must strive to make men and women who will be of use to the world. Teach patriotism and the spirit of charity and kindness. Henry Watterson.

Henry Watterson, of "star eyed goddess "fame and editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, had a large audience at University hall Wednesday evening to hear his masterful discourse upon "Abraham Lincoln." The speaker expressed the view that Lincoln was the best friend the south had at court, and that but for the assassin's pistol shot there would have been no long years of re-construction. Lincoln had taken the view that the south had never been out of the union and all it needed to do was to elect its congressmen and sena-tors and "come back home." The speaker read Maj. McClure's description of his visit to Lincoln at Springfield, after his election. He found him died a little later at the Pontiac awkward, ungainly and tall, but before he had talked with him long he forgot the appearance of the man in the magnetism of his genius. Mr. Watterson took the view that Lincoln was a man inspired of God, that he came up suddenly from the common people with Braun's place in Ann Arbor township a mission, as the Babe born in the manger, that he was one of those meteoric figures which break forth upon the horizon out of obscurity, bringing order out of chaos with hands of steel and, performing their missions, are returned to their Maker. HE TELLS OF CLAY AND WEBSTER.

He Also Well Recollects Longfellow and Hawthorne Who Were at Bowdoin College Where He Was-The Venerable Citizen Interviewed for a Chlcago Paper.

Last Sunday's Chicago Times-Herald contained an interesting article upon ex-Gov. Alpheus Felch, of this city which brought out a few of the interesting features of his life. The article begins by denying the statement frequently made that George Washington Jones, of Iowa, is the oldest living exmember of the U.S. senate and states that both Gov. Felch and ex-senator James W. Bradbury, of Augusta, Me., were members of the senate at an earlier date.

"In my day the senate was one of the most dignified legislative bodies in the world," says the ex-governor to the Times-Herald. "The great men of that day were true statesmen, whose object was the maintenance of their principles and the advancement of the interests of the country. And there was no such thing as the hurrah of the senate of today. Take it at the time of the Cleveland Venezuela message. The message was all right, but—the hurrah with which it was received! Such a thing would not have been poss ble when I was in the senate."

Gov. Felch took his seat March 4, 1847, when 41 years of age. Of the three men, Webster, Clay and Calhoun, Clay was the most fascinating speaker. 'The galleries were always filled in those days. "In the dissecting room of the State upon a wooden slab, reclines a gnastly figure. To a person unaccustomed to gruesome sights the spectacle revealed upon opening the Stout st. door of the institution will cause a shudder to run over the body. The mortal remains of Mrs. Annie E. Marsh, late a physician and wife of Dr. Marsh, of Greeley, lie stretched out full length upon a sawed in two horizontally, the upper five inches of the skull shaped exactly like a half gourd, reposing by the inanimate form.

"According to the terms of a will, Mrs. Marsh bequeathed her remains to the medical students of Denver to be utilized for scientific purposes. The State University has just come into possession of the cadaver and the students will immediately begin the work of dissection. After a thorough examination of the different parts of the body the skeleton will be cleaned under the direction of Dr. Burnham and the portions thereof articulated.

"The late Mrs. Marsh was a native of Michigan. Her father occupied a prominent Presbyterian pulpit and she days Mrs. Marsh, whose name at that time was Eastman, was educated as a teacher in the public schools of Michigan, and taught in the different institutions for several terms.

"Later she took up the study of medicine at the Ann Arbor, Michigan, University, and soon after graduated with high honors in the homeopathic department. In the year 1879 Miss Eastman came to Denver and at once began the practice of medicine. A year later she met and married Dr. Marsh, the well known practitioner of Greely. Soon after the wedding ceremony the pair took up their abode at Greely and practiced together at that place up to within the last two weeks. About one year ago Mrs. Marsh executed a will by the terms of which her property, which she had accumulated while in Colorado was bequeathed to the Ann Arbor University, with the exception of her residence at Greeley. Her possessions included lands in Colorado, Phoenix, Ariz., and in the East, besides considerable personal property and notes of great value. The Michigan University, however, was the sole devisee, outside of her husband, of her entire estate. A very singular clause was inserted in the will. It provided expressly stated that her strange action in thus disposing of her mortal

WATER AND ALCOHOL.

Effects of the Two Fluids on the Animal and Vegetable Kingdoms.

If instead of watering our flowers we used alcohol as the fluid, our flowers would be injured or killed. If the clouds poured forth their fatness in the form of alcohol, our vegetation would universally perish. If we tried to feed our families of men and lower animals on alcohol, our animal nature would be a was brought up according to the Pres- home of disease, ending in a speedy and byterian form of belief. If we even diluted our a dishonest family will move away in natural fluid with alcohol, our home throughout the vegetable and animal world, were it minute or mighty, would deteriorate and perish; while, as we know well, if we depend on water alone, it flourishes and lives.

The necessity of water for the purpose of life is the fact of facts, traceable in every moving animal or vegetable form, and in man himself of all forms, though so many do not grasp the fact owing to the perverted custom that prevails. Life, indeed, is enshriped in far larger numbers of water drinking human animals than in those which admix the true fluid with fluids that are false.

For strength, activity, intelligence, generation, longevity, the human family, of all living animals, is the single exception as to the use of any other All the rest depend on one fluid as the holder of life-the grand intermediate between the solid substance and the living essence with which it is blended—the water of life.

As the great ocean of water blends isles and continents which teem with life, so the ocean of the body blends our solids in movable form with the universe of life itself, by which we are made living organizations, good or bad. -Longman's Magazine.

THE TRACER.

How He Follows Up Dishenest Purchasers on the Installment Plan.

One of the most important men in the employ of a firm that makes a specialty signifies, is to find out the whereabouts of delinquent customers, who think to get out of the trouble of future payments by quietly moving away and neglecting to leave their new address.

Nothing could be more foolish than such a course, for this is a feature of the business that the installment houses have reduced to a science. It is obvious that in this city the great majority of those who purchase goods on weekly payments live in flats. This makes it a comparatively easy matter for the dealers to keep them under surveillance, for one of the first things the collector does is to see the janitor and inform him which families in the house have bought goods on the installment plan. It pays to fee the janitor for this service, for he is in a position to know when any moving is about to take place, and the information he gives the collector has been the means of nipping in the bud many a well laid scheme to get out of paying a furniture bill.

Sometimes, of course, it happens that such a hurry that the janitor is unable to inform the firm in time. In such an event the "tracer" is put on the case. He sets about his work with the method of the trained detective. He is familiar with the name and address of every furniture mover in the city, and his acquaintance among the helpers is so extensive that it is more than likely he has a personal friend among the men who moved the family he is seeking. With such advantages his task is not nearly so hard as the uninitiated would imagine, and there would be fewer attempts made to "beat" the installment dealers if it were better known how little chance a person has to succeed.-New York World.

Ministering to a Quiet Kentucky Flock. town not long ago a new minister arrived. Fervent in his mission against the world, the flesh and the evil one and not duly considering the points of his compass, he delivered from his pulpit the first Sunday a tirade against card playing. On Monday the wealthiest member of his flock called on him and

"Oh, dear Brother Parker, your sermon was very unwise. You will offend half your people if you talk against cards. We are just a little quiet community all by ourselves here, and we play cards whenever we want to. Don't say anything more about card playing.'

So the next Sunday the new preacher launched out on dancing. Again the evil of horse racing was his subject the following Sunday, and this brought the rich member to him in great distress of "Great goodness, Brother Parker, this is one of the finest horse sections in the state! You are beside yourself when you try to put down horse racing."

"Well," said the despondent preach-

"All right," remarked the wealthy member, "but don't overlook the fact that I'm the only Jew in your congregation."-Louisville Courier-Journal.

When Solid Iron Floats.

Experiments lately made in England show that if a ball of solid iron is lowered into a mass of liquid iron by means of a metal fork the ball at first sinks to the bottom with the fork. But in a few seconds it leaves the prongs and rises to the surface, where it continues plained by the expansion of the ball, due to heating, whereby it becomes, bulk for bulk, less dense than the molten metal.

FRIDAY, MARCH 6, 1896

As civil service reform is extending itself throughout the various branches of the government, the politicians who hope for office find fewer and fewer offices to be divided among the faithful party workers. If , for instance the republicans should elect their president the offices, the curses of the disappointed ones will be loud and long, in fact worse than anything ever before heard on occasions of this kind, for while the applicants will be more than usually numerous owing to the hard times, the places to fill will be less usual than before. There are a good many republicans in federal office to day, possibly as many republicans as democrats. The republicans cannot very well turn these republicans out, neither can they turn out a good many democrats who hold places under the civil service act. Nearly all that is left for party distribution are the postmasterships and the heads of departments, custom houses, etc. It will be seen that there is not nearly enough left to go around and very little indeed for those whose ambitions would be content with smaller places. Hence the republicans will find, if they succeed this year, that they will have to do some tall work to win again two years from now.

Just now the McKipley star is in the ascendency in republican circles. If we are to have this tariff war all over again it is well to have the apostle of the highest kind of protection at the head of the republicans. It will help to secure for them the purse strings of the monopolists and will admit the democratic arguments to reach the masses unobscured by any subterfuges concerning reciprocity which is not in the Me Kinley doctrine, but was interpolated aware that America exists, "the land by the wisdom of James G. Blaine, who of the free and the home of the brave."

trine, as the McKnleyites will all know if McKinley's nominated.

There is no doubt of the great sympathy felt by the citizens of this country with the Cubans, who have revolted from Spanish oppression far greater than that which caused our forefathers to shake off the rule of England. It is hard to conceive of a government more oppressive than that of Spain over its colonies, and one by one they are dropping away from the Spanish rule. An extraordinary effort is being made to retain Cuba, which has been a veritable time comes, and it must come to them gold mine to the Spanish treasury, pouring into it the millions rung from the hard taxed Cubans. Every lover of liberty hopes for the hastening of the day when Cuba may be free.

The republican politicians are still this fall, when they come to distribute exercising their brains over plans to down Mayor Pingree in the gubernatorial race. And although the mayor is a great fighter and the majority of the republicans of the state want to nominate him, the chances for his nomination are small, for the politicians don't want him and his friends are liable to handle little of the federal patronage for which the republican mouths watering.

> The Spanish are exceedingly wroth against the Americans because they are in sympathy with the Cubans, and have gone so far as to stone our consulates, an act which, however, the Spanish government tried to prevent and for which they have apologized. But the Spanish government little understands our system of government when they request the president to apologize for the utterances of the United States senate.

> The Italians have suffered an overwhelming defeat in Abyssinia with the loss of over 5,000 soldiers. It is not as easy to obtain or retain colonies as it was in the old days, as the European nations are fast discovering.

> If we believed the reports sent out by the Spanish in Cuba, the rebels were getting badly routed every day, and yet only this week, the Cubans were within four miles of Havana.

We are having a vig rous foreign policy, and European diplomats are made Pensioning Teachers.

The school board sometime ago apconsidering the advisability of pensioning local teachers, who have been in Just as an attorney with very grave the public schools of the city for a long length of time. There are two teachers in the grammer school who have held their positions for over 30 years, and there are others who have been here twenty. It seems as if after they had spent the best years of their lives in moulding the minds of the young. in preparing them for the warfare of life, they should receive recognition from he city, when, old in service and broken in health, they are forced to lay down their means of livelihood. When that sooner or later, their service to the public has been a long and laborious one and they are unfitted to earn a livelihood in other fields. They are as worthy of pensions as the old soldiers, to whom for fortitude and faithfulness to duty they may well be compared.

The matter may enlist state attention and Michigan, like Illinois, some day look after the teachers who have become superannuated by age and sickness from longer keeping up in their class work. In Illinois the money is raised by taxing the teachers a small percentage on their incomes. Why could not Michigan adopt the same method? The only hardship that would be worked would be in the primary departments, where teachers' compensations are not adequate to take even the smallest sum worthy a cause. But it would indeed be a close fisted teacher in the higher branches, where the pay is reasonable, who would not be willing to pay his or her small share in assisting those whose lives have been devoted to one of the most noble missions on earth, and who, many of them alone and without the close ties of home, have to finally give up their life long vocations.

In Memoriam.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. McDonald, who pointed a committee for the purpose of And into a court room he wended his passed to her eternal rest last week. was a woman whose life and service in Ann Arbor are worthy of more than a mere notice. She came to Ann Arbor in November, 1869, and had lived here continuously since that time. The University then was comparatively small and the city unimportant. She and her husband educated their family here, three of the four children having been graduated in the classical course in the University. She has always kept in touch with the University and its life, and for so long a time that she had an unfailing series of reminisences of University as well as city life, which made her acquaintence a charm to the younger genera-

She believed that the way to keep young in heart was to keep young people about her, and this she did to the last; only the week before her death she had at dinner with her some of the college students.

She was brought up from her early infancy in what was then the back woods of Macomb county in this state, and her knowledge of pioneer life in Michigan, and of the early settlers was supplemented by unusual powers of observation and brightened by the keenest sense of humor.

The lack of opportunities for more than a common school education in early pioneer life, instead of making her despise the present institutions, made her feel the more strongly the greatness and importance of them. Her untiring efforts that all with whom she came in contact, should be urged and driven into availing themselves of them, was well illustrated in the career of her own children. She early joined | Toiletine and Bloom of the Methodist church and remained an exemplary member of it until her death, not only by her professions but also through the daily life. Her sweet and even disposition gave charm to her presence, which can never be forgotten by anyone who knew her even a litte. Her devotion to her family, neighbors and friends always without ostentation, was of that unselfish kind that asks no return. The broad charity of her mind made her the common friend of all classes, and she died, it is believed, without an enemy in the world.

Warner Catarrh Cure Co.,

Gentlemen:—After suffering for a number of years from catarrh and trying almost every cure I could hear of, I was persuaded to try your catarrh without getting permanent relief. Warner's Catarrh Remedy and I am glad to say that was persuaded to try your catarrh remedy, and I am glad to say that after taking two bottles I was entirely of chronic catarrh with your medicine. The first bottle I took stopped the dropping in my throat, and I must admit that three bottles positively cured me of catarrh of the head and stomach. In conclusion I will say that I most cheerfully recommend Warner's Catarrh Remedy to all who may be troubled with catarrh in any form.

The Washtenaw Evening Times Says of Mr. Warner and His Remedy:

"C. C. Warner is having splendid success with his new catarrh remedy, and though he has done practically no advertising at all reports that the sale is increasing so rapidly that he expects to soon be obliged to rent a building for the sole purpose of manufacturing the remedy. The Times congratulates Mr. Warner on his success, which is well deserved. The remedy is certainly a good one for there are numbers of well-known and prominent people right here in Ann Arbor who have been cured of long standing cases of catarrh. They are so well pleased with their cure that they give Mr. Warner considerable very valuable advertising by telling of the efficacy of Mr. Warner's remedy in their cases. Among those who have been cured of catarrh here may be mentioned, F. T. McOmber and C. W. Mellor. Mr. Mellor's case was an especially bad one, it compelling him to give up his singing last year. The Times hopes to see Mr. Warner succeed in building up a fine business, for the good character of his remedy certainly deserves to bring him success." Present Laboratory at No. 45 East Ann street.

Now the Important Question is, Have You the Catarrh? The time to Cure it is RIGHT NOW and, if You will Believe Your Neighbors, whom You Know are Honest, You will use WARNER'S CATARRH REMEDY because it cures. For Sale by all Druggists. Manufactured by

The Organ Concert Tonight.

The means of attachment to the Cohall tonight by the Farrand & Votey Co., of Detroit (who by the way con- at structed the large organ) is as follows:

The roll of paper is placed in a box, a door with glass panel closed, the closing of which operates to open a small valve admitting compressed air conductedby a flexible tube from the bellows, to the chamber in which the roll is placed. A small pneumatic motor is then started, which causes the paper to be drawn along over a channel board containing as many channels as there are keys to the organ. As the perforations been theirs by right of heirship, the in the paper communicate with the corresponding channel, or channels, in the board, compressed air is admitted, which, through the medium of a very small pneumatic, makes an electrical William E. His Health Became Feeble and Something Over Two Years Ago He Was Relieved of His Church Duties by Bishop John J. Kane of Wheeling-The Dead Prelate Came to This Country from Ireland in 1833-Edited The Catholic Herald.

Kenrick, who for nearly half a century months. When the little son of the Chiprior to three years ago was Catholic archbishop of this diocese, died at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday in the 90th year of his age.

ARCHBISHOP KENRICK.

The old gentleman had been in very feeble health for several years and about two and a half years ago Bishop John J. Kane was elected to an archbishopric and sent here to relieve him.

Sketch of His Life.

Peter Richard Kenrick was born in the sixth year of the present century on Aug. 17, in the city of Dublin. He studied in Maynooth, and was ordained on March 6, 1832. At that time his brother, whose incumbency of the Baltimore archdiocese has been noted, was bishop of Philadel phia. In 1833 the future archbishop of St. Louis came to America, took charge of the Theological seminary in the City of Brotherly Love, assumed management of the cathedral parish and at the same time edited The Catholic Herald--one of the two or three papers of his faith existing in those days, where over a hundred prosper today. Naturally his energy and ability attracted attention and Dr. Rasati, then bishop of St. Louis, induced the pope to make him coadjutor in that see. He was consecrated on Nov. 31, 1841, and two years later, on the death of Bishop Rasati, he succeeded to the administration of the see, which in 1845 was raised to metropolitan rank.

Death of William J. Cam bell.

CHICAGO, March 5.-William J. Campbell, prominent attorney and Illinois member of the Republican national committee, died at his home in Riverside at 1:53 Wednesday. He had been sick but a week and until Tuesday his condition occasioned no alarm. Mr. Campbell was in the prime of life and leaves a widow and five children to mourn his death.

Other Notable Deaths.

TERRIBLE SHOOTING AFFRAY.

Father Mortally Wounded and Son Dan gerously Hurt.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 5.-John R. Jones, president of the Memphis National bank, was mortally wounded and his son, Nat, dangerously hurt in a shooting affray here Tuesday. The elder Jones died at 8 o'clock Tuesday night. The father and son left the bank to go to dinner about noon. On the street they met W. M. Pardue, an attorney, and a man named Scarborough. There had been a feud of long standing between Pardue and Jones, and not ten words passed before the shooting began. D. D. Dodd, a son-in-law of Jones, says that Pardue and his companion were the aggressors. John R. Jones received a pistol ball in the right temple that ranged down and came out at the mouth and shattered the jaw. Another bullet went through his shoulders and another struck him in the thigh. Nat Jones was wounded in the hip. Pardue was placed under arrest.

Opposed to the Anti-Option Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 5.- The hearings in opposition to the anti-option bill were begun by the house agricultural commit-Wednesday. Those who appeared included Mr. Labouisse of the New Orleans Cotton exchange and Mr. Henry Penze and others of the New York Cotton exchange. Their argument was to the effect that dealing in option and futures was not harmful to the cotton producers; that on the contrary it tended to advance the prices of their staple and to keep the market steady. If the bill were enacted into law it would, the gentlemen asserted, practically kill their business and result in consequent harm to the producers.

Ten Thousand Workmen Affected.

MANCHESTER, N. H., March 5 .- It is officially announced that the mills of the Moskeag corporation will all be closed for two months, except the Jefferson mill, which will only be stopped for one month. Terribie Slaughter of the Italians in Abyssinia.

EXCITEMENT MANIFEST IN ITALY.

Rome a City of Mourning and Sullen Anger, Ready to Break Out in Open Resentment-At Milan Troops Were Compelled to Fire into a Mob and One Person Was Killed and Several Wounded-All Fetes Indefinitely Postponed.

ROME, March 5. - The kingdom of Italy is in a condition of excitement, grief and anger almost beyond description. Words for every dispatch received from Massowah adds to the gravity of the disaster to the Italian army at Adowa, Abyssinia. When the first news of General Baratieri's defeat reached this city report had it that only 500 men were killed; Tuesday afternoon the numbers ran up to 3,000 killed, with sixty pieces of artillery captured, and Wednesday's dispatches place the number of Italians killed at the battle of Adowa and in the long, harassing retreat which followed at 5,000, and it is believed that not even these figures tell of the full extent of the disaster. In these reports no mention is made of the wounded, and there is good reason, based on stories of recent Italian defeats by the Abyssinians, to believe those who fell wounded during the retreat of over fifty miles met a more horrible fate than those who were killed on the spot.

Rome a City of Mourning.

All fetes have been indefinitely postponed, masses for the repose of the souls of the dead have been celebrated in every Catholic church in this city and crowds of weeping women and sorrowing men were in attendance. The receptions, etc., in celebration of coronation anniversary of the pope have been dispensed with. Rome, in a word, is a city of mourning and of sullen anger ready to break out into fierce, open resentment.

It was stated that in a number of places the police have been unable to cope with the populace and that the troops have been called upon to restore order. The soldiers, however, appear to have been as helpless as the police and in several places crowds have been fired upon. At Milan the troops, after vainly trying to disperse a mob which was making a demonstration against the government, were obliged to fire. One man was killed and several citement and report has it that the troops were stoned and had to clear the public square at the point of the boyonet.

Take a run over to London and there try to do business before 10 and 11 in the morning, and learn how impossible it will be, because the Englishman is thoroughly imbued with the idea that business is an jucident of and not the sole aim and end of life. There is no nation of the world wherein work is regarded as it is with us; no other nation lives that it may work," as we do. They "work that they may live;" they thoroughly live while they live. We toil and slave that we may leave money to those who, because of our very work, will not inherit the vital strength to properly utilize and enjoy it.

Individual exceptions might seem to negative our assertion, but we are not dealing with individuals, but our nation cannot adequately portray the situation, as a whole, and as a whole we fear not contradiction of the assertion that the great American nervous system is in a deplorable condition of prostration, and that this lamentable condition of affairs has been the direct outcome of our methods of work, particularly during the past 30 years. - New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Circumventing Them.

Before Bismarck reconstructed the map of Europe, and made a united Germany, a dozen little principalities used to annoy travelers by retaining them at their frontiers until they had satisfied the custom house demands.

A Yankee once had his carriage stopped at the frontier of a petty prince's country. The herr ober-controleur at the custom honse came forward, and, much to his indignation, was received in a nonchalant way. The Yankee was ungentlemanly enough not to get out of the carriage, nor even take off his hat. The herr ober sharply demanded the keys of the tourist's trunks, which his subordinate began handling roughly.

"Here, hands off!" shouted the Yankee. "I didn't come from the United States of America to be controlled by you. Put those trunks back. I'll not go through you at all. I'll turn back. I'm in no hurry, and don't mind losing a few hours. You're no country, you're only a spot. I'll go round you." And he did.—Strand Magazine.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and the tis by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflammed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing' and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflammed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

The English are the only folk who insist upon the "Saint." The city was founded by Peter the Great, and is named after him. It is quite true that Peter was one of the most extraordinary men that ever filled a throne, but no one would have been more astounded than himself at being dubbed a saint. For a Healthy Existence.—That's Dr. Castillo Appointed to the Cu- iff Stratton of Allegan, Sheriff Gray of Why the Kidneys so often Fail.

Nature has provided a certain amount of work for every organ of the human body; overtax them and disease eventu-ally follows. There is not one portion of our organism that is so overworked as the kidneys; on them is placed the im-portant function of filtering the blood of the impurities which naturally form in the regular action of life and digestion. The kidneys are consequently termed the sew-erage of the system; clog up this sewer, and the blood becomes tainted with poisonous uric acid, which brings on disease in many forms. The back is the first to show this stoppage. From there comes the warning note; it should be heeded, and the kidneys receive prompt attention.
Doan's Kidney Pills will right the action of the kidneys quickly, relieve the back of Illustrating a Sermon.

A north country clergyman once made clear even to the dullest of his flock the difficulty of treading the straight and on the spacious highway leading in the other direction. Before he was well started in his discourse he ran down the pulpit stairs and proceeded to suit the action to the word.

"My brethren," he cried, "the road to heaven is like this." And lying flat on the banister he began to pull himself up, hand over hand, as laboriously as a boy climbs as greased pole.

At last he reached the top, and got on his feet again, happy in his Christian victory. Then, having taken breath, he exhorted his hearers to look at the road to the other place, doubled one leg under him and slid down the rail in a half sitting posture with a rapidity and grace that betrayed a juvenile familiarity with the route. - Pearson's Weekly.

Rafael Portuondo, secretary of state of the republic of Cuba, has received cipher dispatches which announced the safe arrival in Cuba of four expeditions which sailed from different American ports during February. The urgent necessity of ammunition in the insurgent armies, particularly those of Generals Gomez and Antonio Maceo, induced Secretary Portuondo to make arrangements for the departure of several small expeditions, to sail from southern ports of the United narrow path, as contrasted with descent States. The first left this country Feb. 4, carrying 250 rifles and 170,000 rounds of ammunition.

Accompanying this expedition were fifteen men. The second expedition left Feb. 7 with 150 rifles, 153,000 cartridges and twelve men. The third expedition left Feb. 12, with 250 rifles and twenty men. The fourth expedition sailed from the United States Feb. 16 and carried 100 rifles and 80,000 rounds of ammunition and ten men. These expeditions, it is said, landed on different parts of the Cu-ban coast, three on the south coast and the fourth on the north coast.

RECRUITS FOR CUBA.

From Thirty to Fifty Men a Week Being Sent from St. Louis.

St. Louis, March 5.-Agents of the Cuban revolutionists working from St. Louis as a common center are sending from this city and the surrounding country from thirty to fifty men each week to join the forces of Gomez on the island. Active work was begun shortly after the middle of February, when a creole from New Orleans appeared in the city armed with plenty of funds and made himself known to a small circle of Cuban sympathizers. No time was lost in getting to work and between Feb. 20 and 23 forty or fifty recruits left this city for Cuba. Since the date last mentioned, at least 100 more have gone.

The men are enlisted with the understanding that they are to take chances on the success of the revolution. They are promised nothing unless the cause of Cuba wins. If it does, they are given a guarantee that they will be well taken BREAD, CRACKERS, CAKES, &c.

Bread, Crackers, & guaranteed to them that food and cloth ng will be provided for them during their stay at the seat of hostilities. Every man enlisted in St. Louis is equipped at once with side arms bought from a large nardware store in St. Louis.

Spain Asks Help.

MADRID, March 5.—It is asserted upon good authority that Spain is now in communication with the several European ministers with a view of securing their agreement to a joint protest in the event of President Cleveland declaring the belligerency of Cuba. Demonstrations and meetings of protest against the action of the American senate and house of representatives continue in provinces. They are almost wholly participated in by students. Tuesday demonstrations took place in Saragossa, Barcelona, Santiago, Malaga, Alcala, Bilboa and Cadiz. None of them was of any particular importance, and they were all easily dispersed by the police.

Ammunition Schooner Seized.

WASHINGTON, March 5 .- Captain Shoemaker, chief of the revenue cutter service, has received a telegram from Captain Herring, commanding the cutter Merrill at Port Tampa, Fla., stating that he had seized the school of the S. B. Mallory, forty miles south of that point, loaded with arms and ammunition and that he had delivered her to the proper authorities at Port Tampa.

Murder Over Cuban Question.

RHINELANDER, Wis., March 5.-A fight occurred in the sample room of the Tremont house Tuesday between a Spaniard and a man named Fred Roberson, in which the latter was fatally stabbed. The Spaniard is in jail. Cuba was the subject under discussion.

Pacific Railway Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, March 5.-The Pacific railroads committee of the house Wednesday listened to a statement by James the receivers of the Union Pacific. Remark by Senator Palmer.

WASHINGTON, March 5.- The venerable Senator Palmer of Illinois made a mighty wise remark Tuesday when he said: "The congress of the United States finds it an easy matter to attend to the affairs of oth er nations, but has shown itself utterly incompetent to deal with our domestic affairs. The grave questions of a deficiency in the public revenues and a crippled cur rency are pressing on us for solution, and we acknowledge our inability to master them. But we can reach out and settle the affairs of other governments with ease and dispatch.'

Dared His Wife to Shoot Him.

CALUMET, Mich., March 5. - Frank Hahn went home intoxicated and began to flourish his revolver. His wife asked him why he did not shoot somebody, saying that she would shoot him if she had a gun. Hahn turned the gun over to his wife and dared her to shoot. She would not "take a dare" and blazed away at him, not stopping until she had emptied the revolver. The first shot struck Hahn just above the left eye, crushed in his skull and the other five did not strike a vital spot. It is not probale that he can

Arm Torn from the Socket,

DETROIT, March 5.-A swiftly moving belt in the Michigan Car works Tuesday caught Joseph Fleischmann's hand while he was at work and drew him toward the pulleys. He wound one foot and his other arm around a brace and held on while he shrieked for help. Before assistance could reach him his arm had been torn from the socket at the shoulder. He was taken to Grace hospital and the doctors say that notwithstanding the shock and loss of blood, he will probably recover.

He Tried It a Second Time.

A new story of the late John P. Spaulding, illustrating his unlimited generosity and original methods of distributing it, was told the Saunterer the other day.

The "sugar king" of Broad street was a confirmed bachelor, as everybody well knew. His brother, the late Mahlon D. Spaulding, used to live in Beacon street. and was the father of a happy family. At the birth of the first child word was sent to the rich uncle that the boy had later another heir was born, this time a girl, and Uncle John was again notified that the little daughter had been named after him. This was a stickler for the uncle, and he wrote for particulars. A day or two afterward he received a reply, something in these words: "There is really no mistake. We named our little daughter 'Spaulding'-after you." Uncle John sent another $10,000 check. -Boston Budget.

A Polite Child.

Professor Sully, in an article in The Popular Science Monthly, commenting on the jealous regard for ceremony and the proprieties of behavior as seen in the enforcement of rules of politeness by children, cites a delightful instance that fell under his own observation as he was walking on Hampstead heath. 'It was a spring day, and the fat buds of the chestnut were bursting into magnificent green plumes. Two well dressed 'misses,' aged, I should say, about 9 and 11, were taking their correct morning walk. The elder called the attention of the younger to one of the trees, pointing to it. The younger exclaimed in a highly shocked tone, 'Oh, Maud, you know you shouldn't point!' The notion of perpetrating a rudeness on the chestnut tree was funny enough. But the incident is instructive as illustrating the childish tendency to stretch and generalize rules to the utmost."

Open Car Windows.

A correspondent writing of open car windows and the disagreeable draft from the same suggests that screens similar to those used in sleeping cars be provided for coach windows, and that only trainmen be allowed to place or remove them. A lady writing to the same paper suggests original tactics by the person annoyed:

"Simply raise your umbrella or parasol in front of you, so that the wind, cinders, dust and smoke blow from your umbrella on the back of the neck of the person who sits by the window in front of you. A very few minutes suffice to convince this person that the wind is blowing harder than he thought and is very disagreeable and uncomfortable.

Wilson, the active Orleans county had been intrusted the duty of seeing politician, when in a reminiscent mood that the range was clear. the other day.
"It was like this: About the first

But when we started for the bombproof, instead of following us, as was his custom, Bombshell remained on the parapet, looking out to sea and sniffing the air. In a moment he dashed off through the bushes which covered the narrow beach between the parapet and Though thinking his actions peculiar, I was sure that he would not remain in front of the gun because he had done so once when quite young and inexperienced, and the burning grains of powder, which are always thrown out by the blast of a gun, had buried themselves in his skin, burning him badly. He had never forgotten this.

Certain that he would take care of himself, I paid no further attention to him, but went with the others into the bombproof and took my place by the electric key ready to fire at the command of the captain.

Just as the command "Fire!" was about to be given Bombshell reappeared on the parapet and began to bark fularge grain of salt and enjoyed drawing riously into the very muzzle of the gun.

I called to him, but he would not come. Annoyed at the delay of the test, I tried to catch him, but could not do so. As I approached he retreated, still barking and apparently urging me to follow him.

Finally, convinced from the dog's actions that something was wrong, the electric wire was disconnected from the gun, and I followed Bombshell. Wagging his tail with joy at having accomplished his object, he led me through the underbrush to the beach.

There, concealed behind a clump of bushes, were two little children quietly digging in the sand and entirely unconscious of the danger in which they had been.-Lieutenant John C. W. Brooks in St. Nicholas.

Quixote when he had the mix up with the windmill, for that little Irishman was dancing around me and delivering undercuts, overcuts, chin choppers, sidewinders, earmuffs, straight drives and long arm body blows faster than I could feel them, while I pawed the air in an attempt at defense.

"I think the boys said it was 42 seconds before I was lying in the corner, limp and entirely out, but it was three days before I was out—at work again. I was sorry to find that the agile little Irishman had disappeared immediately after I dropped asleep. He evidently feared trouble, but I never would have made any. In fact, I'd have liked to take a few lessons from him, but I've the late of Charles Lock.
