TALKS TO A LARGE CROWD OF ADMIRERS

And Gives the Corporations and Railroads His Usual Roasting-Pingree Club Organized-Remarks by Hon.

A. J. Sawyer.

Mayor Pingree made his onslaught upon Ann Arbor Tuesday night. He was not heralded until Monday when Sheriff Judson, who apparently has charge of the Pingree campaign in Washtenaw, went around among republicans and democrats and invited them to take places upon the platform the following evening. The result was a crowded opera house of course, many students being in the audience. Numbers of the students present were not voters in Michigan but were called out by curiosity to see and hear a man whose reputation has spread over the country. There were about 1,200 in the audience, mostly students and is was a carnival of fun for them. They hadn't had an opportunity to howl for several months and they had willing hearts and ready throats for just such a time as they had.

Col. John Atkinson was announced to appear with the redoubtable man of destiny but the colonel had a lawsuit in Windsor. He had to touch off eloquence to a justice court instead of assisting the mayor with his pyrotechnic display in Ann Arbor. This was hard on the mayor as it made him talk extemporaneously in order to fill in time and the mayor never shines as an extemporaneous speaker.

Prof. E. F. Johnson, of the law department, introduced Mr. Pingree, probably because Speriff Judson is no speak-The mayor began by saying he was glad to be here to greet so many people. His speech verified his statment. The audience howled for more and Robert Campbell made a speech, then there was no more to give the audience as the eloquent Pingreeites had spoken. After the speeches a Pingree man as president and W. W. Wedemeyer as secretary. The mayor presided at the informal reception held on the Rev. L. T. Cole Ordained.

Sunday morning services were notable in the church annals of St Andrew. Long before the hour of 10:30 the church was filled with people and it was long after that hour when the last arrival had found a seat in the crowded place of worship The occasion was the ordination to the priesthood of Rev. city, where he was born and reared. diocese, and Rev. W. O. Waters, rector of St. Audrew's church, Detroit, Rev. Henry Tatlock and Rev. R. M. Beach, of St. Andrew's, Ann Arbor, Rev. L. P. Jocelyn and Rev. Jas. E. Craig, deacons.

Rev. W O. Waters preached the ordination sermon. In it he dwelt upon the fact that the Episcopal church had been in existence for twenty centuries, being in direct succession to the apostles. He showed that church law was established by the disciples and that God's law was a law of order. Therefore it was right that churches should be ruled within prescribed limits. Christ came into the world and established His church, taught a definite doctrine, trained certain chosen men in that doctrine, and then handed this kingdom on earth over at the proper time to those trained men commissioned as its officers. These officers act as the king's representatives, as prophets or teachers of the doctrine, as priests who minister in His name as kings, who rule the kingdom in His stead. First, as priests they are given the pastoral commission "Feed my lambs" to absolve sins in His name, and to offer the great memoral sacrifice of the death of Christ. Secondly, as kings to preside over, to rule, to train chosen men, to transfer power and hand over the kingdom to others. Lastly as prophets or teachers to go out to all the world and preach the gospel to every creature. He narrated the commencement of the church, the going abroad of the apostles and appointment of the deacons to aid the apostles. Later there was the order of priests and at the death of the apostles the name of bishop was transferred and given solely to the successors of the apostles, so that there are now three orders in the church, bishops, priests and deacons. In that portion of his sermon reserved for the candidate the preacher dwelt upon the awful sacredness of the trust about to be committed Clifford R. Shaw Successfully Sues the Township of Saline.

HE WAS THROWN FROM HIS BUGGY

By Reason of a High Embankment at a Bridge and Was Badly Hurt-"Bill Nye, Jr." in Town-Holden-Cramer Nuptials-The News.

Two cases of interest were tried in the circuit court this week. The first was the damage case of Clifford R. Shaw, of Saline, vs. the township of Saline. Shaw was hurt in 1894 as result of being thrown from his buggy at a bridge in the township. The claim was made at the trial that a bank of earth had been left near the bridge down the embankment. He was thrown

The jury believed that the township had been negligent and Tuesday evening found damages for the plaintiff in the sum of $3,000. He sued for $5,000. Edward Rooke, of Chelsea, was sued Wednesday in circuit court for $2.75. the value of a book sold him by James Edwards, who disposed of a number of volumes in and about Chelsea which subscribers did not desire to pay for on delivery. A similar suit was tried at the December term when verdict was returned for plaintiff. Rooke refused payment notwithstanding. The jury found for the plaintiff. The disposal of the case will probably end the difficulty and the books will have to be paid for at subscription price. Summons was returned yesterday in the case of Julia Dulach vs. Addison Collins. The claim is made by plantiff's attorneys that Mrs. Dulach exchanged a house and lot in Detroit for a farm in Lyndon township belonging to Collins. He represented the farm to be worth a large sum and secured a trade for the Detroit property and a $5,000 mortgage back on the farm. The Detroit property, it is claimed, was worth as much as the farm and Collins is accused of fraud in the transaction. Damages are placed at $10,000.

The Suekey case came up Monday and was put over a week on the claim that Suekey is ill. The claim is still made by those who profess to know that the case will be settled and will never come to trial.

Holden-Cramer. From the Washtenaw Times.

The marriage of Mr. George S. Holden, of Palmer, Mass., and Miss Katharine Cramer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Densmore Cramer, of this city, took place at the home of the bride's parents last evening, Rev. Camden M. Cobern officiating. Only the nearest relatives and most intimate friends of the bride were present. The affair was a very quiet ane, but it was most beautifully arranged, it being characterized by the colors white and yellow. The interior of the home was tastefully decorated with palms, smilax, daffodils and white roses. Promptly at the appointed hour the bride descended the stairs preceded by her niece, Miss Marjorie Waite, of Detroit, Mich., who acted as the attending maid. The bride was attired in a handsome gown of ivory silk with pearl trimmings, while the only jewelry worn was a beautiful brooch of pearls and diamonds, the wedding gift of the groom. She carried a shower boquet of Marguerites. The groom awaited her arrival in the front parlor where the ceremony was performed, the bride being given away by her father. After being pronounced "husband and wife" and receiving the hearty congratulations of those present the guests repaired to the diningroom where a delicate wedding lunch was served.

The wedding gifts were very valuable and included most generous checks from both the groom's and bride's par-

Dr. Carrow's Bay City Bill.

The following dispatch appeared in ing from Bay City: Last week Dr. Carrow, of the university, was an expert witness for the city in a suit for $10,000 brought by Miss Nottingham, who had an eye injured by the bursting of a street electric light globe. The city won the case. Tonight when the bill of Dr. Carrow for $150 came up in the common council, Ald. Selleck, democrat, objected to it. He said Dr. Carrow was working for the state and was not entitled to the amount. He began getting personal when he was called to order by Mayor Wright. He refused to come to order. The mayor then left the chair and called upon the president of the council, McEwan, to take his place. Mr. McEwan made the erratic alderman come to order and then the bill

The Devil to Pay. My son, you must pay for your sinning, And if your account has begun, It is well you should know at beginning, Just when you must pay for your fun.

Though you are an expert and scholar, No system that you can invent, Can swindle him out of a dollar--He collects to the uttermost cent.

For he knoweth the world you are made in, And appoints his own settlement day, When out of the stock that you trade in, There will be the devil to pay.

Don't fool yourself ever by thinking, You can catch him aught else but awake, Tho's eeming asleep, he is winking, At any false entry you make.

No matter how sly your proceeding, He gets it all down in his book, And grins with delight at the reading, As he knows you are safe on his hook.

In measure, or weight, if you lack it, Don't think you can cover the dearth, For he always is onto your racket, And charges you all it is worth.

He cares not for written debentures, But holds by a pitiless law. So, if you indulge in rash ventures, You will find yourself under his paw.

Oh! he is the clerk of all ages, Expert from the earliest day, And after you balance your pages, There'll still be the devil to pay.

You may think of endowing a college With substance yourselfdoes not need. Well, do so, my son, with the knowledge That Satin won't credit the deed.

No, charities won't make you level, No matter how large the amount. You can't balance your deal with the devil, That goes to another account.

Though the lowest has been your profession, And loudest the prayers you've made. Remember that every transgression, Is a debt that has got to be paid.

And resolve, as you may, on relenting Your foilies and vices when gay. Though an ocean you weep in repenting, There'll still be the devil to pay

Then at last, when you are a debtor, On his book for each gratified whim, Each whim but a link in the fetter, That binds you still closer to him.

For all of the preaching since Moses,
Not a jot of his claim will he stay,
Even after the Clearing House closes,
There'll still be the devil to pay.

Interesting Washing.

An amusing little story is told in connection with a French journalist, who in his early days as a reporter had a deeply rooted aversion to the regulation notebook of his order, and hit upon a method of taking notes which afforded him great satisfaction.

He wore large white linen cuffs, and upon them, by the aid of a tiny pencil, he took down his notes and impressions in all sorts of places, unobserved by those around him.

At first his laundress was greatly puzzled by these peculiar ornamentations, but as time went on she learned to decipher many of them, and gathered the news of the week from her patron's cuffs, much to her delight.

One night, when she took home the washing, the journalist chanced to be coming out of his room as she entered.

"Ah, monsieur," she said, dropping a courtesy, "your last washing was very interesting, but we had less political news than the week before. Is it not so?" -London Tit-Bits.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

SWEETHEARTS ALWAYS.

If sweethearts were sweethearts always,
Whether as maid or wife,
No drop would be half as pleasant In the mingled draft of life.

But the sweetheart has smiles and blushes When the wife has frowns and sighs, And the wife's have a wrathful glitter For the glow of the sweetheart's eyes.

The same to sweetheart and wife, Who would change for a future of Eden The joys of this checkered life?

But husbands grow grave and silent, With the words of the marriage vow.

Happy is he whose sweetheart Is wife and sweetheart still, Whose voice, as of old, can charm him; Whose kiss, as of old, can thrill;

Who has plucked the rose to find ever
Its beauty and fragrance increase,
As the flush of passion is mellowed
In love's unmeasured peace; Who sees in the step a lightness;

Who finds in the form a grace; Who reads a unaltered brightness In the witchery of the face. Undimmed and unchanged. Ah, happy Is he, crowned with such a life, Who drinks the wife pledging the sweet

And toasts in the sweetheart the wife!

Daniel O'Connell in Domestic Monthly.

A SICK SAVAGE.

Robert Louis Stevenson Tells of the Delusions of One of His Servants. Poor Misi Folo-you remember the thin boy, do you not?—had a desperate attack of influenza, and he was in a great taking. You would not like to be very sick in some savage place in the islands and have only the savages to doctor you? Well, that was just the way he felt. "It is all very well," he thought, "to let these childish white people doctor a sore foot or a toothache, but this is serious-I might die of this! For goodness' sake, let me get away in to a drafty native house where I can lie in cold gravel, eat green bananas and bave a real grown up, tattooed man to raise spirits and say charms over me.'

A day or two we kept him quiet and got him much better. Then he said he must go. He had had his back broken in his own island, he said. It had come broken again, and he must go away to a native house and have it mended. "Confound your back, "said we. "Lie down in your bed." At last one day his fever was quite gone, and he could give his mind to the broken back entirely. He lay in the hall. I was in the room alone. All morning and noon I heard him roaring like a bull calf, so that the floor shook with it. It was plainly humbug. It had the humbugging sound of a bad child crying, and about 2 of the afternoon we were worn out and told him he might go. Off he set. He was in some kind of a white wrapping, with a great white turban on his head, as pale as clay, and walked leaning on a stick. line of But, oh, he was a glad boy to get away from these foolish, savage, childish white people and get his broken back put right by somebody with some sense. He nearly died that night, and little wonder, but he has now got better again, and long may it last!

All the others were quite good, trusted us wholly, and staid to be cured where they were. But then he was quite right if you look at it from his point of view, for, though we may be very clever, we do not set up to cure broken backs. If a man has his back broken, we white people can do nothing at all but bury him. And was he not wise, since that was his complaint, to go to folks who could do more?-Robert Louis Stevenson's "Letters to a Boy" in St. Nicholas.

of the new board of public works regarding the appointment of a street commissioner. These rumors have been crystallized into the statement by the reporter of the Detroit Evening News, who is also secretary of the republican county committee, that Daniel J. Ross, a member of the board is to be the next street comimssioner and that Mayor Walker has been working to that end. The Argus hardly places credence in these reports, which the News reporter may well wish to become fact for obvious party reasons. In saying this, the Argus has in mini the uniform good judgment the members of the new board have displayed in their past public career. The Argus will not listen to a word derogatory street commissioner and it has no degoratory remarks to make concerning rapidly growing in numbers. him personally. If Mr. Ross were not a member of the board of public works, his appointment would surely not meet with this approval of the Argus, of which he has always been a friend, and whose esteem he has always held. But Mr. Ross is a member of the board and as such should be ineligible to appointment by the board. His resignation before appointment should make no difference with his inelibil ty. An alderman, under the charter, is made inelligible during the term for which he is elected to any office, the emoluments of which are to be paid out of the city with the same force to a member of the convention, under the instructions of board's acceptance of a place from the the state convention held Wednesday.

to accept the portfolio of secretary of state. He was in his day the first citizen of Maryland, and in all the colonies the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic and is the state convention held Wednesday.

board is prohibited from being interested in any contract with the city. The street commissionership is a species of contract, under which the incumbent contracts to do certain work for the city for a certain compensation. Now it publican" as David B. Hill is famous does not alter the justice of the case to say that the charter does not expressly prohibit the appointment in question. The spirit of the charter is clearly against it and common sense would clearly point out the impropriety of such appointments. If the appointment should be made as rumor and the Evening News has it, it would mean that hereafter the position of member of the board of public works would be sought by prospective candidates for street commissioner and would lose it the honor which should belong to it and make it a prey for intriguers.

The Argus is inclined to think also that the mayor has been misjudged, for he surely must know that one of the main factors in securing him so large a majority last spring when the city went republican on the balance of the ticket, was the disgust and displeasure which the people entertained towards the board of public works, growing out of Mr Clark's attempt to use his position on the board to secure his own appointment as street commissioner. Both the mayor and the board would surely hesitate before bringing down upon themselves the same public A. And Mr. Ross himself has shown in his The Democratic Ward Caucus will be held on Monday evening, March 30, 1896, at 7:30 o'clock, at the following places:

McKinley is still ahead in the race for the republican presidential nomi-Various rumors have been floating nation and unless his boom gets a big about concerning the proposed action set back soon it will prove strong enough to give him the nomination. McKinley is the idol of the republicans today as Blaine was in 1884. And yet there are many other republicans who would poll more votes for president just as there were many other republicans who would have polled more votes in 1884. The reason for this is that McKinley represents extreme protection and straddles the money question, which if the democrats put up certain votes of many conservative republi- view. cans, who care nothing for booms, have decided views on the monetary question, dislike a straddle, and will not commit themselves to an extreme protection policy. MATRIMONY IN EGYPT.

The Curious Wedding Processions That Are to Be Seen In Cairo.

As you look out of your hotel window in Cairo, you will see a native musician sauntering by, twanging the lute of the country; then a sound like the tinkling of baby cymbals informs you that the sherbetly is going his round, with his huge glass jar slung at his side, from which he dispenses (to the unwary) sweet, sticky drinks of licorice juice or orange sirup in the brass saucers which he perpetually clinks in his hand. Late at night the sounds of eastern life invade your pillow. The distant throbbing of the naggarah tells you that a wedding procession is making its tour, and if you have the curiosity to get up and sally out you will be rewarded by one of the characteristic sights of Cairo, in which old and new are odd j blended. Probably a circumcision is combined with the wedding to save expense, and the procession will be headed by the barber's sign, a wooden frame raised aloft, followed by two or three gorgeously caparisoned camels—regular stage properties hired out for such occasions-carrying drummers, and leading the way for a series of carriages crammed with little boys, each holding a neat white handkerchief to his mouth to keep out the devil and the evil eye. big cashmere shawl, held down firmly call a woman pet names. past life in this community too good at the sides by brothers and other relations of the imprisoned bride; then more carriages and a general crowd of sympathizers. More rarely the bride is borne being $226,825,082. in a cashmere covered litter swung between two camels, fore and aft; the hind camel must tuck his head under the litter, and is probably quite as uncomfortable as the bride, who runs a fair chance of seasickness in her rolling palanquin.

In the old days the bride walked through the streets under a canopy carried by her friends, but this is now quite out of fashion, and European carriages are rapidly ousting even the camel litters. But the cashmere shawl and the veil will not soon be abandoned. The Egyptian woman is, at least in public, generally modest. She detects a stranger's glance with magical rapidity, even when to all appearance looking the other way, and forthwith the veil is pulled closer over her mouth and nose. When she meets you face to face, she does not drop her big eyes in the absurd fashion of western modesty. She calmly of a lot of plush and gilding and ornaturns them away from you. GOVERNOR TOM JOHNSON.

A Stubborn Patriot to Whom This Country Owes a Great Debt.

In a storied burial ground in Fredderick, "in his narrow bed," sleeps one whose name never fails to stir the heart of the old Marylander with lively emotions of admiration and affection-Governor Tom Johnson, that audacious and said that he was one of four citizens of Maryland and Virginia "without whom there would have been no Revolution," although, in affected scorn of him, a British officer, writing to his people at home, had assured them, "There is no need to be alarmed by all this noise in the colonies, which is mainly made by a boy named Tom Johnson.'

"That pestilent rebel" of the British war office was the trusty, loving friend of Washington, whom he nominated to be commander in chief of all the armies first congress and of the convention which adopted the constitution of the United States; first governor of Maryland, and an associate justice of the supreme court, and he was twice urged

No English Better Than English. A new argument against college athletics has been invented—the deplorable effect which they have on "good English" by grafting upon it "the coarse language of sports." The plea, says the New York Times, is truly amusing. What on earth is "good English" anyhow? So far as we know, there is no English better than English, and no writer thereof has ever hesitated to use new words from any source, provided they expressed an idea more clearly, or even more picturesquely, than did those which formed the vocabulary of his grandfather. Shakespeare is full of the 'language of sports,'' ranging from falconry to pugilism, and if he lived today it is absolutely certain that he would glean words from the football fieldsand that college professors would de-nounce him for it. Really great men are like the common people, in that they never make a fetich of the parts of speech, never imagine that dictionaries or grammars settle anything, and never make the mistake of confounding a live tongue with dead ones.

FUN IN ECONOMY.

One Woman Thinks It Is a Fascinating Sport, but Not Successful.

"Ch, but economy is a fascinating theory," exclaimed the woman in a tailor frock. "It's almost as exciting as a lottery ticket or playing the races. You put in a little and get out a lot of something. I always read those articles in the housekeeping papers that tell how you can make a walnut sideboard out of a pine piano box and cozy corners out of last year's chicken coops and catchalls that fill all beholders with envy out of your old overshoes.'

'Yes," agreed said she in the picture hat, "I think those descriptions are perfectly fascinating, and I mean to try some of them when I get a little money ahead. Think of being able to take a lot of old packing cases and by means mental tacks being able to transform them into chairs and bookcases that nobody but your best enemy could tell from empire furniture."

"Don't you believe it," said the old maid. "I've tried it. I saved up my broom handles once to make a gypsy table that was described as making an ideal tea table. I put 47 different coats of stain on those broomsticks in an effort to persuade them to become cherry. Then I hired a carpenter, who worked two days trying to fit the broomsticks into a cheesebox top so the thing would stubborn patriot of whom John Adams stand up. I bought wadding to pad the top, and felt to cover it, and fringe to go around it, and ornamental nails to hold it on. When it was done, I had spent three times what a good table would have cost at a shop, but I had a righteous glow of having economized that was worth any money. The woman in the tailor frock laugh-

The way in which the children spoke was credit to themselves and showed the careful training they received from their teacher, Miss Sophia East. The music, which was furnished by Messrs Clough and Berkley, was very fine. The people were very much pleased to see the school commissioner, W. W. Wedemeyer, there, and he gave them a very interesting speech on the value of such entertainments.

A Big Change Coming.

There will soon be a big change in the store now occupied by the Ann Arbor Organ company. Martin Haller, the well-known furniture dealer, baying purchased the store in order to settle the estate of his father-in-law, the late Henry Binder, will shortly move his furniture store to it and will soon build a large three story addition in the rear. This will then make him an elegant store, as it already is a very large block. This business change necessitates another. The Ann Arbor Organ company has received notice to find another location, their lease of at university hall Saturday evening, the present store shortly expiring. Just April 4. The Stage.

I believe that if a pastor of a fashionable church were to denounce any particular play as positively immoral it would very soon disappear from the stage. A very large percentage of the ordinary playgoers are communicants of the churches, and a well considered condemnation of a play would certainly injure its popularity. "Christian people" would not think it "respectable" to sit through a play which had been condemned by their spiritual pastors. All that is needed is a little more ministerial courage with regard to the stage, and it will very soon be seen that the pulpit really possesses more power in this direction than it ever had in the history of the modern drama. One thing is certain-if the stage is left to its own devices, it will become a fruitful source An amusing little political comedy of injury to the moral well being of the Forum.

THE DAY'S DOINGS IN CONGRESS.

Amendment to the Constitution Proposed by Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire -A Dash of Excitement Enlivens the Day in the House of Representatives-Boutelle and Bartlett Rise to a Question of Personal Privilege.

WASHINGTON, March 26.-Both the floor of the senate and the galleries were well nigh deserted when the session opened Wednesday as there was promise that the exciting Cuban debate would give way to the routine of appropriation bill. Following this Sherman presented a favorable report on the resolution authorizing ex-President Benjamin Harr son to accept decorations conferred on him by Brazil and Spain while he was president. Sherman asked immediate Amendment to Constitution.

Gallinger proposed an amendment to the constitution to be known as article 16, providing that neither congress nor any state shall pass any law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or use the credit of the United States, or any state, or any money raised by taxation for the purpose of founding, maintaining or aiding any church, religious denomination, or religious society, or any institution, society, or undertaking which is wholly or in part under sectarian control. The bill was passed authorizing the Kansas City, Watkins and Gulf Railway company to build a bridge across the Black river, thought it about time to consider the question of adjournment, and without further comment he offered the following: written resolution:

"Resolved, By the senate and the house of representatives that the president of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives be authorized to close the present session by adjourning their respective houses on the 2d day of May at 2 o'clock p. m."

Without any further comment the resolution was referred to the committee on appropriations, and the senate turned to the consideration of the legislative ap-

IN THE LOWER HOUSE.

Bartlett and Boutelle Rise to a Question of Personal Privilege.

WASHINGTON, March 26.-There was a dash of excitement in the opening proceedings of the house Wednesday. Bartlett, Dem. of New York, rose to a question of personal priviledge to deny a statement that he had furnished the campaign circular used by Sulzer, Dem. of New York, a few days ago in an attack upon Gibson, Rep. of Tennessee. He denounced the charge as a libel and a lie. Boutelle was on his feet as soon as Bartlett sat down. He, too, had a question of privilege to present, he said, in connection with a colloquy between General Wheeler of Alabama and himself during the debate on the Confederate disability bill Tuesday. His opening sentence

"During one of those gusts of fervid enthusiasm which occasionally sweep over "and almost drive us day afternoon, the house," he said, into war with England and Spain, the house on Tuesday undertook negotiations with the southern confederacy for peace. I made a few remarks and several gentlemen were anxious to give me instructions." He then read from The Congressional Record to show that Wheeler had altered The Record so as to say that "Many Democrats voted for the bill to retire General Grant." instead of "All the Democrats," as the official notes reported him. As a matter of fact, Boutelle said, the vote on the Grant bill was 198 ayes to 79 nays.

Owens. Dem. of Kentucky, attempted to prevent Boutelle from rehearing the history of the bill and the speaker thought that branch of the matter was not competent, but Boutelle made his point by stating that fifty-eight of the seventynine votes against the bill were cast by ex-Confederates. He moved that the record be corrected, and without objection it was so ordered.

Brigadier General Casey Drops Dead. WASHINGTON, March 26.-Brigadier

General Thomas Lincoln Casey, retired, for many years chief of engineers of the United States army, dropped dead in the congressional library about 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. He had been specially designated by congress to take charge of the construction of the new congressional library opposite to the Capitol and since his retirement from the office of chief of engineers owing to his having reached the age limit at which army officers are retired, he had devoted most of his time to the construction of the new library building.

Hawaiian Cable Question.

WASHINGTON, March 26 .- The senate committee on foreign relations Wednesday briefly considered the Hawaiian cable question, but deferred action until next Wednesday, when the committee will make an effort to dispose of the question. A bill has been drafted by the committee embodying what are believed to be the best features of the Somer and Spaulding bills, but omitting all names, which the committee will make the basis of its discussion.

LAUNDRY CHARACTERS.

Too Difficult For the Captain to Get the Right End of His Name.

Captain Thomas S Smith of East One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street, who is somewhat of a philologist, had an amusing experience in trying to analyze certain Chinese characters. It appears that when Chang Lee located his laundry in Harlem, the captain was his first customer. As the acquaintance grew Chang Lee strained the red tape laundry laws and did not issue the usual ticket to the captain, but called at his apartment every Monday for his laundry and returned it on Thursday in a package marked with hieroglyphics.

"Is that my name?" asked the captain of Chang as he pointed at the Chinese characters shortly after the laundry delivery plan was inaugurated.

"Yes. He you name. See?" The captain didn't see, but set at work to do so, and for several weeks studied the writing that Chang Lee brought to him on each returning Thursday. He searched the libraries for such Chinese literature and lexicons as they held, examined laundry tickets and read the signs in Mott street in the hope of being able to learn how Chang Lee's characters conveyed the idea of the name of Smith, but he made an utter failure. Finally he decided to appeal to Chang Lee.

"Is that my name?" he asked the laundryman on the occasion of his next

"Can you tell me how you get Smith out of such a looking scrawl?"

"No, not Smith. He say 'Captain.' Call you captain. That your name. See?" answered the Chinaman as he pointed at the characters, with an expression that showed surprise at the captain's ignorance. - New York Herald.

This is a qualification that not many girls possess. few know how to make a good cup of tea. Here are some pointers: Tea should never touch metal. It should be kept in paper, wood, glass or porcelain. To make it, put a small quantity in a porcelain cup, fill the latter with boiling water, cover it with a porcelain saucer and let it stand three minutes. Then, if you desire to be an epicure, drink only the upper layer of the golden liquid, throw the rest away, rinse the cup and begin again. Never use sugar. Do not use milk. It ruins the flavor of the tea, and the combination injures the stomach, so the Chinese say, and they ought to know their own beverage. Above all things, do not boil the tea.

The Trials and Tribulations of a Battle Creek Citizen-How He Comes to Tell This Story. (From the Battle Creek Moon.)

Among the moulders at the works of the Michigan foundry company can be found Mr. Amos Maynard; he has lived in Battle Creek for over ten years, is honored and respected by all who know him; such is the man who makes this statement, he says: "I have had kidney trouble for years, and it has made my life miserable. The heavy lifting, necessary in my business, made me worse. I have been compelled to lie in bed in a helpless condition for as long as nine days at a time; the greatest pain was from my back, which sometimes felt as though a bayonet was being run through me in the region of my kidneys; many citizens of Battle Creek knew how bad I was. I could not move without the greatest caution, for as soon as I attempted to stoop over, bend to one side, or even turn in bed, the pain was simply unbearable. I wore porous plasters constantly for the little temporary relief they brought me. Whenever I caught the slightest cold it went straight to my kidneys and made me worse. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and got some. I have taken in all four boxes of them, and I now feel as active as ever. A few months ago I would have ridiculed the idea of being cured so quickly, and being able to work as I can now. All the long-standing pains are gone, and the former traces of kidney disorders found in my urine have disappeared. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to many friends who were troubled as I was, and in every case I have learned they proved as beneficial as with me. Doan's Kidney Pills would be cheap to me at almost any price.'

ONE MAN'S SUFFERING. MORE HOPE FOR CUBA

the Patriots.

SECRETARY OLNEY GETS A NOTE.

England Would Not Object to Any Action the United States Might Take in Regard to Cuba and Would Even Welcome Any Reasonable Interference to Stop the Butchery on the Island-Two Nations to Stand as Informal Allies.

WASHINGTON, March 25 -Aid for Cuba has come from an uexpected source. John Bull will pat Uncle Sam on the shoulder In any proposition to intervene to stop the butchery on the island. An informal intimation to this effect has been received at the state department and the status of the Cuban question has changed at once owing to this sudden development. While Spain has been preparing for an appeal to European nations against the United States, Great Britain has quietly taken the other tack, and decided to join with the United States in helping the Cuban patriots. Naturally, such a communication was not conveyed in an official letter, but Secretary Olney was given to understand by Sir Julian Pauncefote that Great Britain would not only not object to any action the United States might take in regard to Cuba, but would even welcome any reasonable interference which would tend to stop the butchery now going on in the island. That such an intimation was given semi-officially was learned positively Tuesday night, and the effect of the information when it becomes generally known will be to ren der almost certain speedy action by this country.

Spain Is Checkmated.

Dispatches from Spain witein the last few days are authority for the statement that a definite policy has been agreed upon there. Spain proposed to pose as the champion of European nations holding possessions in America 'against the arrogance of the Yankees. The European nations were to be sounded in order to secure concert of action, and then Spain was to tell President Cleveland to go ahead f he dared in the face of a formidable alliance which would prevent active intervention by force if necessary. This plan has been blocked completely by the action of Great Britain, and President Cleveland's hands have been strengthened immeasureably by Lord Salisbury's government. Great Britain deplored the inhuman Spanish warfare on the island, and English commercial interests could not look on unmoved while the price of sugar was moving upward as the result of the destruction of Cuban canefields. Therefore came the informal intimation that Great Britain would gladly stand aside and see the United States take the initiative in Cuba. England to Accord Belligerent Rights.

No promises were made that could bind Great Britain in any way, and the queen's government was not put on record in any way, but Secretary Olney has been given to understand that if the president decides to recognize the patriots as belligerents Great Britain will not be far behind in doing the same thing. British capitalists are large holders of the Spanish bonds based on Cuban customs revenues, and they might not relish the independence of the island unless these bonds were provided for. With the United States as an intervening power, it might be possible to secure an arrangement by which the Cubans themselves would assume the bonds, with this country as a guarantor. Intervention by this country in any way, even if it did not result in the immediate independence of the island, would unquestionably force Spain to grant local self-government, promote the commerce of Cuba, and therefore increase the value of the bonds, whose only security are the receipts of the Cuban custom houses

All Fear at an End.

Such a suggestion might be expected to come later, but for the present Great Britain is contented with informing the United States that all fear of European interference with our Cuban policy is at

This will be a body blow to the coterie of senators who have opposed action on the Cuban resolutions on the ground that they would result in war with Spain. With John Bull as a silent partner of Uncle Sam, Spain would be com-pelled to stand by and swallow any dose the two great nations may prepare for her. Hitherto President Cleve land has hesitated to interfere in Cuba because it seemed possible that Great Britain might seize the opportunity to side with Spain and thus embarrass this country while the Venezuelan matter was still in the air. Now the situation is entirely changed. Lord Salisbury has intimated his desire for a cessation of the warfare in Cuba, and if this country interferes, with the moral support of Great Britain it will make the two countries allies and hasten rather than retard a favorable and friendly conclusion of the Venezuelan boundary dispute. Cuba the Gainer.

In any event Cuba will be the gainer, for the island is now assured of either independence or genuine colonial government, such as Great Britain gives to Canada and Australia. This country is now in a position to dictate terms to Spain without fear of armed opposition. Great Britain and the United States are the two powers having the greatest holdings in the western conti-nent, and they are also the two countries whose commercial and litical interests are most closely inter-woven with Cuba. With the United States openly intervening and Great Britain standing ready to prevent outside combinations Spain would be helpless, and this fact will be recognized as soon as the news travels across the Atlantic to Madrid that an informal alliance in behalf of Cuba has been reached between the two greatest powers of the world. Big Storage House Destroyed.

CHESTER, Pa., March 26.—The big storage house of Ebenezer Birchwell, located at 610 Crosby street, this city, was destroyed by fire Tuesday. The building was mainly occupied by Woodward & Stillman of New York, who had 10,000 bales of cotton in storage at the time the fire broke out. Their loss is about $50,000; partially insured. The loss on the

at Chicago. CHICAGO, March 25 - Christopher Great Britain May Recognize Schrage, 76 years old, was bound and gagged in his home, 711 South Jefferson street, Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock and robbed of the following valuable papers and money: County and city bonds, $45,050; registered government bonds, $900; currency, $560; gold, $100; gold watch, $125; silver watch, $20; breastpin,

Two men committed the crime, which is one of the most daring ever prepetrated in the city. No arrests were made and the police are at a loss which way to turn in the matter. Schrage was alone when the men entered his home and assaulted and robbed him, and it was half an hour before the police found him. Lieutenant Ream was the first to enter the house The old man was sitting in the rear of the first flat, having freed his hands and removed the gag, although the cords still hung about him

W. C. T. U. Not to Meet at 'Frisco,

CHICAGO, March 26.-At a meeting of the general officers of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union it was decided not to hold the next national convention in San Francisco, although that city had been previously chosen. Among the reasons for the change were the request of the National Suffrage association, in view of its own active operations on the Pacific coast this year; the belief that holding the next convention in or near the state of Kansas would better conserve temperance interests, and the refusal of the railroads to make such concessions as were hoped for. It is probable that the next national convention will be held in St. Louis.

Bishop Satterlee Consecrated.

NEW YORK, March 26.-The Rev. Dr. Henry Yates Satterlee was Wednesday consecrated as the first bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Washington, D. C. The ceremony was performed in Calvary church, of which Dr. Satterlee has been the rector since 1882. Bishop Arthur Cleveland Coke presided, assisted by Bishops Potter and Paret. Bishop Huntington of central New York preached the sermon. Nearly 500 persons took part in the procession, which was led by students from the upper classes of the General Theological seminary. Admission to the church was by card only.

Excitement at Holland Abated.

HOLLAND, Mich., March 26 .- The excitement in regard to the horsewhipping of young Frank Slooter last Saturday night has abated. A mob of about 500 or 600 men gathered Tuesday night, but they were orderly and no demonstration was made and most of them had gone home by 9 o'clock. Sentiment is divided, but the majority deplores the act of Saturday night.

Blown to Pieces by Dynamite.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., March 26.-A dynamite cartridge that was being thawed over a fire by an Italian on the George road, near Lewiston, exploded Wednesday. The Italian was blown to pieces, and Seymour Eddy, a son of D. R. Eddy of Lewiston, had both eyes blown out, one leg broken in three places and otherwise injured.

FIRE AND AIR.

Thieves Get Over $46,000 from an Old Man Their Intimate Relation Was Early Recognized-Lord Baron's Belief.

The intimate relation between fire and air was early recognized, seeing that experience soon taught that air was necessary for fire. The experiment of burning a candle in a closed vessel, now so familiar to every schoolboy, is a very old one, and the influence of a blast of air on a furnace had been probably noticed from a very remote period. By some it was affirmed to be the food of fire, while by others the same belief was embodied in the phrase, "Air nourishes fire."

Again, it was long ago observed that niter, a substance well known to the chemical philosophers of the past, could produce intense ignition. It was hence inferred that, since niter possessed this property, it necessarily followed that the two substances resembled each other in composition. According to Robert Boyle, the air contained "volatile niter," while Lord Bacon held that air contained a "volatile, crude and windy spirit," and thunder and lightning were supposed to be due to the presence of minute particles of this niter diffused through air.

The important bearing of such observations is due to the fact that oxygen gas, which is one of the chief constituents of air and the one to which it owes its power of supporting combustion, also forms the largest elementary constituent of niter and is likewise the source of the power possessed by that body of supporting combustion.

The action of heat on metals in causing them to lose their metallic luster had also not escaped notice, and Cardan, a philosopher who lived during the sixteenth century, in noticing the increase in weight that lead undergoes when heated in air, attributed it to the gas in the air, which feeds flame and which rekindles a body presenting an ignited point. - Scottish Review.

A Remarkable Cure.

Mrs. H. B. Adams, 1609 Wabash ave. Chicago, says: "I had a scrofulous taint of the blood from childhood, which however, remained dormant. An ulcer came on the side of the nose, having all the appearance of a most maligant cancer. The agony of mind I suffered cannot be described as I contemplated the progress of such a malignant disease. Finally I was induced to

One morning, after a night of great suffering, as he left the house to consult the doctor, Mrs. Thomson begged him not to allow the physician to prescribe a narcotic, as it affected his brain for several hours after taking it. On his way the bishop met the postman, who handed him a large official envelope. He opened it in the street and read his appointment to the see of York. Instead of visiting the doctor he hastened back to communicate the surprising news to his wife.

ANN ARBOR ORGAN COMPANY

51 South Main Street, Ann Arbor, Michigan.

The store we now occupy has been sold in order to close an estate. We have received notice to vacate it as early as possible. We have secured no store, and know of none in a desirable location suitable for our business. We have a tremendous stock, and 57 rented pianos will be returned June 20. Last year we rented the rink to make room for this extra stock. This year we cannot secure it. There is but one way-

We must close out our entire stock of Pianos, Organs, Bicycles, Small Merchandise and Sheet Music before removing, and have determined to slaughter Prices to do so.

Pianos must be handled with care, and can only be stored in suitable rooms. We are therefore left no alternative. We must close out our entire stock regardless of cost. This will be a surprise to many, as it was a surprise to us, when we learned we must vacate our present store, but it will be of benefit to every person desiring anything in the music line. We have determined to slaughter prices in order to move the goods quickly, and when the Ann Arbor Organ Company makes a statement of this kind, every body knows it means just what it says.

TAKE TO WASHING.

WHY THE CHINESE LIKE THAT BUSI-NESS IN THIS COUNTRY.

It Is So Much Easier Here Than at Home In China-Washing In Ice Covered Ponds and Beating Out the Dirt With Stones For Very Small Pay.

in this city few, besides the store and casts and presented to the university restaurant keepers on Race street, follow any other calling than that of laundryman. Consequently many Americans of Europe and America have a part in believe that the majority of China's millions are laundrymen, who, when not squirting water through their teeth upon shirts and linen, spend their time eating rats and puppies or indulging in the questionable enjoyments of the "flower boats." The truth is that the Celestial Kingdom's 450,000,000 of tea drinkers do a smaller percentage of washing than any other large country. What little washable clothing they wear is cleansed in the paddy fields near the wearer's home, and only the Europeans and richer class of natives require the assistance of a washman.

That important item of expense, the wash bill, is reduced to a minimum in feet incased in a covering of old cloth-China, where the European's clothing is eagerly sought by young and old male natives, who are glad to do up in first class order white shirts, white waistcoats or anything at all for 75 cents per hundred. This will partly explain why our Chinese residents prefer to do our laundry work to waiting on our tables or sweating on a farm, as the money received for ironing and finishing a single white shirt will support him two days in his native country. Another reason is that when at work behind his ironing board, breathing the close air of his little shop, he appreciates the one hundred and one conveniences that he could not afford in China. Tubs. hot water, self acting soaps and washboards have not yet been introduced in his native home and have never been thought of by the poor beggars doing up shirts at threequarters of a cent apiece. There they stand on the low shores of a paddy field, ankle deep in the mud and ooze, and after soaking the clothes slap them against the smooth stones put there for charity of his friends he never asked this purpose until the dirt becomes for money outright. In the crown of his loosened and can be rubbed out with the hat he pasted this request, "Please lend for any purpose, the most refreshing concluded that she is a temporizer. drink to them in the hot spells being boiling hot tea without milk or sugar. Since the advent of the foreigner the Chinaman has found that it pays to preserve the scanty ice of Shanghai during the short winters. The icehouses surrounding the ponds are low structures formed of wood, mud and thick layers of salt hay, with the floors raised slightly above the level of the water.

Adhering to his general rule of doing everything directly opposite to us "bar-barians," John Chinaman does not believe in allowing the ice to form three or more inches, but as soon as a thin There are in the city 71 distinct routes, skin has formed he breaks it up and Among the thousands of Chinamen | pushes it all through the narrow openings of the storehouses. The breaking of this thin ice makes it necessary for the poor natives to wade up to the hips in the water of the ponds and with rakes and hooks manage the ice so that it can reach the storehouses.

But to return to the workmen, who must work and live in winter as well as in summer. Not having hot water boilers and other luxuries, he must resort to the dirty ponds no matter how cold the weather. The ice, broken in the center of the pond, is allowed to get quite thick along the edges, making it necessary very often for the washman to cut through it before he can immerse his washing. The stiffened linen is then slammed up against the smooth stone. which soon turns into a small mound of ice as layer after layer of water is thrown upon it. The native keeps his ing, rags and hay, while around his body are wrapped one or more blankets. As he goes through his cheerless as well as soapless operation he is gradually covered by the ice, which forms as soon as the water reaches his clothing. Taking into consideration all the trouble, hardship and inconvenience the laundryman in the Flowery Kingdom is compelled to endure while rendering white the foreign devil's linen, he does it much better than his more fortunate brother in this country, who returns our laundry in such a careless and independent fashion, and who receives, after deducting rent and all expenses, eight times more pay in return. -Philadelphia

LONDON OMNIBUSES.

Interesting Statistics of Transportation In the English Capital. Some interesting details have appeared in a report on the omnibus and tram car service of London. The tramways, which correspond to our car lines, are all of 4 feet 81/2 inches gauge except two lines, which are only 3 feet 6 inches. of which 58 are in use. The mileage of the worked lines is given as 849. The average speed of a London tram is 5.48 miles per hour; that of a London omnibus is 5.5 miles per hour. The average tram fare is 67-100ths of a penny (2 cents) per mile. The average omnibus fare is 92-100ths of a penny per mile.

There are 879 cars on the lines, which among them run 17,150 single journeys during their day's work, which lasts on the average 16 hours and 44 minutes. The omnibuses are more than twice as many. There are 2,130 of them, and these are run 35,000 single journeys in the course of a day that averages 15 hours and 32 minutes. There are 12 London tram companies. In the course of a year their cars run 22,787,000 miles and carry 225, 263,000 passengers. The London omnibuses run 49,783,000 miles a year and carry 326,000,000 passengers.

To work its tram cars London requires 10,092 horses; to work its omnibuses it has 25,573. A summary of 19 E. Washington Street these figures shows that there are 3,229 vehicles employed, worked by 35,665 horses, traveling 72,500,000 miles and carrying 551,345,000 passengers in a year. It is calculated that each of the 800 omnibuses which pass the Mansion House in an hour will travel 64 miles a day, carrying 420 passengers as its day's work and earning 3s. 6d. during each of its 15 journeys.—St. Louis Globe-Dem-

Likeness of English and Americans.

As respects character, the British and The Yale, the Opera, the Needle, American publics are strikingly at one. The tone of popular sentiment is much the same. The attitude toward questions of general human interest is often identical. Political ideals are, at bottom, not so unlike as superficial observers fancy. Party spirit manifests itself in very similar fashion. Both are sensitive, though in slightly varying degrees, to the same appeals. The same national spirit animates both, showing itself in quite characteristic fashion when the jealousy of one is aroused against the other. Indeed it is in their mutual rivalries and jealousies that their spiritual kinship is often most manifest. Their diversity is superficial and provincial; their unity fundamental and racial. The American who can divest himself of provincialism in England and the Englishman who can lay aside his insularity in America each finds himself at home. - Edward M. Chapman in Century.
