Mr. Sawyer occupied the toastmaster's chair and introduced each speaker with a merry jest and a well turned phrase. He explained his reasons for extending his hospitality to the members of the union, cordially thanked the boys for the support they had given him, and assured them one and all that if at any time it lay in his power to do anything for them he should be pleased to do it. He then introduced the first speaker, George R. Cooper, president of A. A. T. U., No. 154, who briefly tendered the thanks of the organization to their entertainer.

Robert Stevenson was totally unable to do justice to the toast of "The Ladies" (it had been originally set down for place to Clyde C. Kerr, who replied to the sentiment "The Devil." He sured that gentleman that the boys had "left no outs in their proofs." J. B. Saunders spoke on "Sobriety among Printers" and confined himself to that topic in a capital manner, contrasting years ago. N. D. Corbin gave a well thought out talk on newspapers in general in response to his toast of "The Free Press' and suggested that a suitable candidate for congress two years from now would be the genial host of the evening. It was now 12:30 a. m. and the banquet broke up with a few closing remarks by Mr. Sawyer who wished all his guests "God-speed" and they responded with three cheers.

THE NEEDLE WORK GUILD.

Annual Meeting of Ann Arbor's Organization of That Name.

The Needle Work Guild of Ann Arbor held its annual meeting at the residence of its president, Mrs. W. S. Perry, on Thursday afternoon of last week. The number of garments which had been contributed at that time did not equal the number on exhibtion at last year's meeting, when over 1,100 pieces were shown. About 850 garments was the total on exhibition this year, and several people who were present learned for the first time something of the magnitude of the work that is done by this society. The garments consisted largely of underwear, mittes, cloaks, etc., of 170 pieces were men's and boys' garments, the balance women's and girls'.

Mrs. Cushman, as secretary of the guild, read her report of the last annual meeting and stated that the 1,100 garments gathered last year and reported to the parent guild at Philadelphia, gave the Ann Arbor branch the rank of a city branch She also reported the suggestion made at the Needle Bishop Hall, of Vermont, who is to Work Guild tea, held in September, of clergymen, who are more commonly report at the annual meeting of the a member of the order he was detailed guild reported a small amount of

HER HAPPY DAY.

A CHARMING STORY OF MEDICINE AND MARRIAGE.

Two Open Letters From a Chicago Girl

-How Happiness Came to Her. Among the tens of thousands of women who apply to Mrs. Pinkham for advice and are cured, are many who wish the facts in their cases made public, but do not give permission to publish their names for reasons as obvious as in the following, and no name is ever published without the writer's authority; this is a bond of faith which Irs. Pinkham has never broken. Chicago, Jan. My dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

A friend of mine, Mrs.
—, wants me to write you, because she says: "you did her so much good."
I am desperate. Am nine teen years of age, tall, and weighed 138 pounds a year ago. I am now a mere skeleton. From your little book I think my trouble is profuse menstruation. My symptoms are * * * * etc.

Our doctor (my uncle) tells father that I am in consumption, and wants to take me to Florida. Please help me: Tell me what to do, and tell me quickly I am engaged to be married in September Shall I live to see the day? * * * * LUCY E. W.

Chicago, June 16th, '95.

My dear Mrs. Pinkham:-This is a happy day. I am well and gaining weight daily, but shall continue the treatment and Vegetable Compound during the summer, as you suggest. Uncle knows nothing about what you have done for me, because it would what you have done for me, because I would make things very unpleasant in the family. I would like to give you a testimonial to publish, but father would not allow it. * * * * I shall be married in September, and as we go to Boston, will call upon you How can I prove my gratitude? * * * *

Just such cases as the above leak out in women's circles, and that is why the confidence of the women of America is bestowed upon Mrs Pinkham. Why are not physicians more candid with women when suffering from such ailments? Women want the truth, and if they cannot get it from their doctor, will seek it elsewhere.

Bryan on a Hunting Trip. Springfield, Mo., Nov. 17.—Hoh. William J. Bryan and his distinguished party of hunters from St. Louis arrived here Tuesday morning. The train was met by an enthusiastic crowd, including many railroad shopmen, and before the party could make its way up town, Mr. Bryan was compelled to make a short speech in response to the demands of the shopmen. The party were finally escorted to the hotel by the crowd, which cheered the Nebraskan's name at every step. From the hotel balcony Mr. Bryan made another short speech. The party left at 10 o'clock for Chadwick, where they will be conveyed to the game preserves in Taney county, to which the hunters are bound.

Three Men Drop 100 Feet.

Lawrence, Mass., Nov. 17.—Three men were injured by the fall of a staging on which they were at work painting the inside of the new water tower yesterday. The men dropped more than 100 feet. Six other men who were also on the staging caught the ropes and were saved by climbing over the top of the tower and coming down the ladders on the other side. The injured are: Richard McDonald, East Boston, seriously hurt internally; William Welch, Portland Me., hurt internally and badly bruised; Allen Spies, East Boston, seriously hurt internally.

There are a number of stories in circulation going to show why the executive mansion was called the White House, and by whom it was first called such, said a local historian, "but I think the best evidence tends to give that credit to James Madison, who was the fourth president, and who was driven out of the executive mansion when the British burned it in 1814. The executive mansion is built of freestone, which was quarried down on the Potomac river. The capitol proper was million feet of logs and 3,000 cords of constructed out of the same stone, though, of course the wings for the senate and house of representatives are built of marble, with granite founda-

Many head of stock are drowned and the farmers will suffer untold The Cowlitz, Chehalis, White Nooksack, Stillaguamish and Snohom-ish rivers are all from half a mile to two miles wider than usual. Hundreds of heads of cattle and horses are drowned. Millions of feet of logs have been lost through the breaking of jams at Kelso, on the Cowlitz river. Two shingle bolts are missing. The houses and buildings of August Julesburg at Stockport are gone, and thirteen head of cattle are drowned there. The floods have been caused by the four days' althe chinook winds, which have melted the heavy snowfalls in the foothills. Storm Center at Portland.

Portland was directly in the storm The walls of the mansion were but little damaged, other than being black-fell during the day to 34 degrees, an alo'clock was 2.66 inches. In Portland water which swept down from the hills lines were seriously interfered with in many places where water surged over the tracks, clogging the ties and rails with wreckage, but all lines managed to maintain a moderately regular service throughout the city. The telephone companies kept their linemen out all the streets became filled with water and required the constant services of men with pumps to keep them clear.

The principal occupation of politicians in Michigan cities since the election, seems to have been the circulation postmastership of their several burgs.

Governor Pingree could save the state much money if he would induce his new legislature to adjourn by April cept legislative nominations. Men who would deliberately prolong sessions for $3 per day are not of the calibre wanted in our state legislatures.

There are still many new fields for electricity to conquer. Edison states that within three years the blind will be enabled to see by means of the X rays, except where the optic nerve has been totally destroyed. A number of with this end in view. Already experiments have been made, by which persons totally blind have been enabled to distinguish objects through a two inch board, while not being able to so distinguish them without the intervention of the board. Edison himself has caused persons, totally blind, to distinguish the X ray light, and he is extremely sanguine of being ultimately able to accomplish the object of his search. We are living in an age of marvels. One new discovery follows another so rapidly that it would be hard to astonish the people of this generation with any new development of science. Electricity is still in its infancy, and it yet offers great opportunities for the original investigator and the inventor.

A Tribute to Ingersoll.

Rev. Minot J. Savage, the eminent Unatarian divine, who, from his pulpit in Boston, a few weeks ago, paid a glowing tribute to the honesty of purpose and ability of Robert G. Ingersoll, voiced the opinion of thousands of intelligent people. In the concluding portion of his sermon, Mr. Savage says:

'If the colonel is mistaken in his doubts as to a future life, I do not believe he will be sorry to confess his mistake. If I meet him over there I believe that his true heart will respond to everything true. As he now admires that which is admirable, he will easily flame out into worship; and he will be the readiest to confess the limitations of his thought here, and to go about fearlessly proclaiming the truth, earnestly trying to perform his duty, being faithful and true to friendship and love as he is here below.

This, from a minister, is to be commended as being free from the narrow prejudice which blinds so many worthy people to the integrity of Col. Ingersoll. Col. Ingersoll will be at the Grand opera house tomorrow evening, when he will deliver his most famous effort, 'Liberty of Man, Woman and Child.'

ADULTERATED FOODS.

Some Extracts from the Report of the State Analyst.

During the month of October 59 samples of food were submitted to W. L. Rossman, state analyst, for examination. Of this number 35 were found to be pure and 24 adulterated. The report of Mr. Rossman on some of the more commonly used food articles may prove interesting reading to some.

Two samples of coffee were analysed, one was pure, the other adulterated. Five samples of cream of tartar, showed two pure and three adulterated. The only sample of licorice was adulterated. Of 22 samples of molasses, 12 were pure and 10 adulterated. Mustard, six samples, two pure, four adulterated. Vanila extract, six samples, four pure, two adulterated. Vinegar, four samples, one pure, three adulterated.

Of the three impure samples of cream of tartar one contained 1934 per cent and the other two 29 per cent of gypsum in their make up. All the adulterated samples of molasses contained large quantities of commercial glucose. Of the four adulterated samples of mustard three contained wheat flour and gypsum and all were colored with turmeric. The two impure samples of vanila extract both contained extract of tonka bean. Of the four samples of vinegar, two were colored with caramel, one was below the legal acid Comrades W. H. Fisher and W. K. strength, and one was not pure cider

The Alps Will Be Washed Away.

The Alps, from a geological point of view, are very recent. Our Welsh hills, though comparatively speaking insignificant, are far more ancient. They had been mountains for ages and ages before the materials which now compose the Rigi or the Pilatus were deposited.

Indeed, we may say that it is because they are so old that they have been so much worn down. The Alps themselves are crumbling and being washed away, and if no fresh elevation takes place the time will come when they will be no loftier than Snowdon or Helvellyn.

(From the Grand Rapids Press.) The following incident would be hard to believe if it had not occurred right here in Grand Rapids, and investigation by our representative has placed it beyond the reach of doubt. These are the facts in detail: Mr. J. H. White of No. 25 Haitley Place, has been an instructor in penmauship in different business colleges for the past fourteen years. He says: "Last October I was suddenly taken ill. I consulted a physician, who said the pain was from 'gravel' stones; gradually grew worse; the pain was in my back and side. My back swelled up in a great ridge, and I finally grew so bad that I was taken to bed, as helpless as a child. I passed blood, and when the pain was at its worst I was like one crazy. The doctor injected morphine to give me relief, but further than that he said he was powerless, and pothing would do me any good lists. nothing would do me any good but a surliterally cooked in the attempts to relieve my agony, everything was used, mustard plasters, turpentine, hot cloths and all such things. ### RURAL DELIVERY.

It Will Be Tried in Illinois Beginning Next Week.

Washington, Nov. 17.-On Monday next the postoffice department will begin the experiment of rural free delivery in an Illinois town. Auburn, in Sangamon county, has been selected as the place to make the experiment. Three carriers will take up all the mail for farm houses and other residences in a circle of about four miles outside of Auburn. The details of the delivery will be left to the local authorities, but the carriers will probably be mounted or use a wagon, as in other cases where the same experiment has been tried. About a month ago the department began experimental stations to test the feasibility of rural free delivery as now in use in England. Towns were selected in West Virginia, New York, Virginia, North Carolina, Maryland and experimental stage in any of these places, but from preliminary reports received it is believed the service can be gradually extended with profit to the department. Letters were sent out Monday to postoffice inspectors and postmasters in the sections where the experiments are being tried asking them to give a detailed report as to the benefit of the service and the possibility of its general adoption. These reports will be collated by the postmaster general and submitted to congress with the postal appropriation bill. The officials of the department are not satisfied that mail can be delivered from house to house profitably except in sections which are comparatively thickly settled.

Washington, Nov. 17.-There are a number of important cases pending before the interstate commerce commission, some of which may be decided soon, while others are yet being investigated by the commssion. The Arkansas and Kansas grain rate cases, which grew out of a complaint of minor importance, have developed until many questions and various lines in the west gical operation. I believe my flesh was of railway commisssioners are among the complainants and the subject of rates from Missouri river points and export cases are still being investigated by the commission. Different roads are complained against, it being in 20 minutes. After about two hours I had a passage of urine, and passed blood and some 'gravel' stones which greatly relieved me. I rapidly improved. I took in all six boxes, and I feel to-day entirely well. asserted that they have issued from time to time tariffs on exports to Liverpoool and other points abroad in which the trans-Atlantic share of the rate was less than the rates to the seawell. Mine has been a wonderful case. I feel that I cannot say anything strong enough for Doan's Kidney Pills. My great wish is that they may become well

New York Has a Grievance.

One of the most important case before the commission is the complaint made by the New York Produce exchange against trunk lines to the seaboard, charging discrimination against New York city and in favor of Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Newport News. A similar question was decided a quarter of a century ago by a commission of arbitration consisting of Judge Cooley, Senator Thurman, and Elihu B. Washburne. In the southwest there are several complications, and one case which is considered important is that of the Texas common point rate from various points on the Missouri and Mississippi rivers. It involves rates on carload and less than carload lots to distributing points in Texas. Nearly all these distributing centers in Texas get the same rates from all points. Galveston and other seaboard points generally are not included. The complaint is made by the Business Men's league of St. Louis, which wants a rate on less than carload lots to local points outside of the distributing centers the same as on carload lots.

Able to Compete with St. Louis.

It is claimed by them that by reason of the carload lot rate being less than rates on broken carload lots, the distributing points are able to compete sale centers. The Dallas people, in the same cases, complain against this Texas common point rate, and want a low-Another case coming from Texas, which has behind it the entire cattleshipping interest, is the terminal charge on cars of live stock shipped into Chicago. Formerly the roads entering Chi cago charged a rate to that city which yards. In 1894 the roads established a terminal charge of $2 per car on live stock in addition to the rate to Chicago. It is of this additional charge that the cattlemen now complain. The importance of the case is increased by reason of the fact that in a decision about two years ago Judge Grosscup of Chicago held that charges in a case of this nature were illegal.

Reversed That Decision. Since then, however, the court of appeals has reversed that decision. But the complaint of the cattlemen is predicated upon grounds differing in some respects from those involved in the most instantly. There is no other case decided by Judge Grosscup. From the southern Atlantic seaboard com a case before the commission upon complaint of the Savannah Freight association, in which it is charged that the fertilizer rates from Charleston to points in Georgia, Alabama, and Florida discriminate against Savannah. It is asserted that the roads make same rate from Charleston as from Savannnah over a longer haul, and where the haul is made over several different lines, while the haul from Savannah is

A SINGULAR GUEST.

Mr. Henry Apps of Hoxton completed the fixing of the wires on the lawn of Hasleigh court. He looked up at the dim light in the dressing room and this week?" chuckled softly as he bent the last yard

"A trip in time," said Mr. Apps, 'sives nine."

He threw the rope ladder gently in the air, and at the first effort it caught the projecting nail.

"'Once on board the lugger,' quoted Mr. Apps facetiously as he mounted the rope ladder, 'and the gurl is mine.' "

He opened the window very gently and soon stood inside the dressing room. Near the table in the corner of the room was an iron safe.

Mr. Apps swung open the heavy door of the safe and listened to the music down stairs. Young Lady Staplehurst was giving, as Mr. Apps very well knew, a dance—a fancy dress dance—on her return from the continent after her term of widowhood.

"I'll jest see, first of all," he said, "that the coast is absolutely clear, and then-then for a bagful."

Mr. Henry Apps stepped out into the broad passage. He slouched, with his jimmy sticking out of his capacious side pocket, a few steps toward the stairs. Suddenly a girlish figure turned the "Bless my 'art!" cried Mr. Apps.

"Why, how do you do?" said the young lady, stepping forward. She gave "Say in an hour's time," said Mr. Apps. "I can go up stairs again alone, change my togs and do all I want to." "And can't you stay longer?"

She gave the card to the maid and ordered it to be dispatched at once.

"I've got a busy night before me," urged Mr. Apps excusingly. He thought of his dog waiting on the lawn and feared it might give an inopportune bark. had noticed with satisfaction Lady Staplehurst was wearing none. Besides, the safe was still open, and the

"I don't believe you will know anybody here, Captain Norman," she said as they walked down stairs, "but I couldn't help sending you a card, seeing how friendly we were on the Peshawur. Do you remember those evenings on deck in the Red sea?"

She was really a very fine young woman, and in her costume she looked extremely well.

"Do I not?" said Mr. Apps with much fervor. "Shall I ever forget 'em?" "And then the journey from Brindisi, you know, and that funny little German-you remember him?'

IRLEAND MAKES A STATEMENT.

What He Says About the Rumors of His Being Called to Rome.

St. Paul, Nov. 17.—Archbishop Ireland has heretofore adhered firmly to his first decision not to speak of the repeated rumors (purporting to come from Rome) stating in one way or another that he was to be called to account for some of his views or actions. An Associated Press representative, however, after many efforts finally succeeded Monday in getting from him the following statement:

"In all the reports recently published as to my relations with the Vatican there is not one syllable of truth. Not one word has come to me from Rome, indicating the smallest change in the kind feelings which the sovereign pontiff and his immediate advisors have been pleased to entertain toward me. It is false to say that I have been summoned to Rome. I have not been asked to give an explanation of any act, or any writing of mine. And, certainly, if the sovereign pontiff had desired to approve, or to blame me, he would have communicated his will to myself, instead of making it known to me through the gossips of newspaper reporters of Europe or of America. What may be the sources of the reports or the motives of the men who put those reports into circulationwhether the enemies be political or ecclesiastical—I do not know, nor do I care to inquire. The Roman paper quoted in this morning's dispatches is a bitter and malicious adversary of the Vatican and surely cannot be quoted as representing the views of the pope. Whether the report published in this Roman paper originated in Rome, or in America, is a matter that need not be discussed at present. The absurd-
