Pickpocket Allen Tries All Sorts of Dodges to Get Sympathy.

Harry Allen the man arrested Tuesday of last week for picking John Kearney's pocket of $9 in Shields' saloon, has given the officers no end of trouble by his sham fits of illness. When first brought into the court room he fell down on the floor as though in a fainting fit and again as he was being taken down to the jail by the officer he Prisoner Ate Soap and Glass tumbled down in the road as though in a fit, but was willing enough to tussle with him as soon as he got on his feet. Allen is in the last stages of blood poisoning brought on by a loathsome disease and his trouble was further aggravated Sunday by his actions at the jail. He was taken violently sick and when questioned as to its cause by his fellow prisoners he said that he had swallowed a quantity of broken glass and soap with the intention of killing himself, and in support of his story a quantity of broken glass was found in his pocket. Allen has such a reputation for working the sympathy racket that it is difficult to believe all he says, but there was no question but that he was very sick.

Sheriff Judson tried to get him cared for at the hospital but was unsuccessful, and was equally unuccessful at the county house. The jail is crowded with prisoners and it was useless to think of keeping him there, so as a last resort the sheriff took his horse out of the barn, made a bed of fresh clean straw, and put him there. Monday morning Humane Agent Goodyear persuaded the officials of the Homeopathic hospital to take the man and he was removed to that institution.

The authorities at St. John, which is Allen's home, informed Sheriff Judson that he was a hard case and known to be crooked and also intimated that in all probability Allen was working this racket in order to be released. Later they telegraphed that his brother would be here to take him to St. John and he came Tuesday and took him

A GOOD STORY.

The Native Seemed Innocent, but He Was Very Knowing.

I was sitting on a keg of nails in a West Virginia mountain store watching infecting them. a native dickering with the merchant over a trade of a basket of eggs for a calico dress. After some time a bargain was closed, the native walked out with the dress in a bundle under his arm and I followed him.

"It isn't any business of mine," I said, "but I was watching that trade and was surprised to see you let the eggs go for the dress."

'What fer?" he asked in astonishment, as he mounted his horse.

"How many eggs did you have?"
"Basketful."

"How many dozen?" "Dunno; can't count."

"That's where you miss the advantages of education. With knowledge you might have got two dresses for those eggs.

"But I didn't want two dresses, mister," he argued. "Perhaps not, but that was no reason why you should have paid two prices for one. The merchant got the advantage of you because of his education. He knew what he was about."

He looked at me for a minute, as if he felt real sorry for me. Then he Miss Minnie Steinbach, from Ann grinned and pulled his horse over close Railway Trains Abandoned.

Within a radius of 1,000 miles every own and hamlet has emphatically re fused to have any intercourse with the city. Drummers who are on the road are tied up in small towns and no orders are coming in and the country people are at present paying no bills. Tuesday morning the Northeastern railway took off two of its trains. So much information has been telegraphed of the existence of the fever here that the rural towns no longer care to see trains from New Orleans running through their towns. The passenger eastern considered it best to reduce its quota of trains. The Southern Pacific took off two trains Tuesday. Many people are suffering as a result of the quarantine regulations. At Alexandria, wo residents of that place, who had been to New Orleans and who had run the quarantine and gotten home, were ordered to leave Alexandria in two hours. A councilman and a school teacher, who had managed to slip through the quarantine at the Rigolets have been arrested in New Orleans and shipped back to the detention point, where they will be isolated and detained for the full limit of time.

Port Eads Is Cautious. Among the places that have quarantine is Port Eads, near the Passes, and even the pilots, who live in New Orleans and bring steamships up the river, are meeting with some difficulty in traveling between Port Eads and New Orleans. Oil and coal men who go down the river to take orders from the ships have been notified that they will not be allowed to stop at Port Eads, which remembers her experience with the fever in 1878. Lafayette, La., has stopped the Southern Pacific from changing its train crews at that point for fear of the infection. The Southern' Pacific announced that it will sell no more tickets to Texas points. At the esidences of Edward McGinty and Dr. Lovell, up-town, the same system of quarantine has been put into effect as at other infected points. Police officers warn people not to stop in the neighborhood and sanitary officers have taken charge of the premises and sur rounding places and are thoroughly dis-

Gold Versus Life.

Men who are at present risking their lives for gold. There is a stampede of eager, willing martyrs to the inhospitable country of the Klondyke. Many will perish from cold and hunger Not one quarter of the people who go there will ever return. Not one-half of those who do return will return any richer than they went. They will not only endanger their health, but their lives, for the sake of gold. And yet everybody says that health is more service has therefore fallen off as stops can be made at few points south of Mason and Dixon's line, and the North-precious than gold. Don't Like Interchangeable Mileage. Some of the traveling men of the state are taking a lively interest in the possible extra session of the legislature and are bringing influences to bear on Gov. Pingree to call it. They are greatly dissatisfied with the new interchangeable mileage book and claim that it is surrounded with so many conditions that it is worse than nothing. The railroad magnates promised them the interchangeable book last winter in consideration of withdrawing a lobby from the legislature and they consider themselves victimized. They want Gov. Pingree to call a special session and want him to make a flat 2-cent a mile fare on all roads one of the things to be considered.

The Bladder was created for one purpose, namely, a receptacle for the urine, and as such it is not liable to any form of disease except by one of two ways. The first way is from imperfect action of the kidneys The second way is from careless local treatment of other diseases.

CHIEF CAUSE.

Unhealthy urine from unhealthy kidneys is the chief cause of bladder troubles. So the womb, like the bladder, was created for one purpose, and if not doctored too much is not liable to weakness or disease, except in rare cases. It is situated back of and very close to the bladder, therefore any pain, disease or inconvenience manifested in the kidneys, back. bladder or urinary passage is often, by mistake attributed to female weakness or womb trouble of some sort. The error is easily made and may be as easily avoided. To find out correctly, set your urine aside for twenty four hours; a sediment or settling indicates kidney or bladder trouble. The mild and the extraodinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, and bladder remedy is soon Dr. and Mrs. Kapp went to Detroit and if not doctored too much is not Monday to spent a few days, with liable to weakness or disease, except in rare cases. Chicago Men Break the Buffalo Elevator Pool.

HAS WITHSTOOD MANY ATTACKS.

Dissolution of the Pool Brought About by Competition, the Very Thing It Was Organized to Prevent-The End of the Shiping Season Will Witness the End of the Elevator Pool--Will Be a Great Boon to Ship Owners.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 14.-It is announced that the Western Elevator as- the Count Esterhazy of newsboys' alley. sociation, the big elevator pool, which has withstood all attacks for many years and was known as one of the most successful combinations in the country, would break up at the end of the present season. The dissolution of the pool was brought about by compettion, the very thing it was organized to guard against. So many outside elevators have started up in the city that the business of the pool was seriously inter-fered with. This led to hints of the withdrawal of some of the members and it was agreed that the wisest thing would be to discontinue the organiza-

Secretary Cook of the pool says the report is true, and that the end of the season would witness the end of the pool. He also added that there was a possibility of the breaking up coming before the close of navigation. Members of the trade are divided over this, however. Some think it would be foolish to break up the association now, when there is so much business for the elevators. But all are agreed that the encroachment of the Ryan, Raymond, and Export, especially the last, has been In addition the new Northern elevator, larger than all the rest of the opposition together, will be put in operation, and also the Electric. All these houses have refused to join the pool, and the Ryan and Raymond are at work at half rates. Almost any development is to be expected this fall.

End of a Big Trust.

The end of the Elevator association is the end of one of the most successful and at the same time hardest fought trusts in the country. It was formed to control all the elevating business in the port of Buffalo, which handles nearly all the grain carried on lake vessels. houses, big and little, excepting a few canal and floating elevators, were taken into the pool and those which it was found unprofitable to operate were closed. The charges for handling grain, which were borne by the vessels, were fixed at a high figure, and there was no redress and no competition. Elevators not in the combine were frozen out of the field. The earnings of the levators in operation were so large that the little ones, which were kept closed, were able to pay more dividends on the investment than they could be running.

Many Efforts to Break Trust.

Many determined efforts were made to break up the trust. The legislature of the state of New York had a hand at it, but was unsuccessful. Last spring the Lake Carriers' association forced a slight reduction in charges, but it amounted to little. The worst blow delivered the pool was the erection of the Export elevator by Bartlett, Frazier & Co., of Chicago, which is managed by Armour & Co. By shipping their own grain to their own elevator here, these firms were enabled to do a large amount of the grain business, and thus developed a strong opposition to the pool from the start. The new house made large earnings, and steadfastly refused to join the pool.

Another Strong Competitor.

The Northern steel elevator has been sides as he could pay for. in process of construction all summer and will be ready soon for the fall trade. This will be another strong competitor to the pool, and with so much business taken away from it the large houses were unable to continue the arrangement with the smaller ones. The charges for elevating grain at Buffalo are borne by the vessels, and the dissolution of the pool will be a great boon to the ship owners. With open competition a great reduction in rates will be the natural outcome, which will result in smaller expenses for the vessels.

The ceremony took place at noon. The bride wore a Worth dress of white satin and Brussels lace, and a tulle veil. She carried a hand-some shower bouquet. Miss Lemp was given away by her father. Miss Elsa Lemp was bridesmaid. There were a number of American guests at the wedding, and after dinner at the Royal Marine hotel the couple started for the continent. The bridegroom was previously married to Margaret Mather, the actress, from whom he was recently di-

THE NEWSBOY'S DREAM.

It Was His kies of What Would Be Absolutely Ideal Conditions.

The American newsboy can almost be said to have created a genus for himself. If he has any, he has certainly created it, for of all the inhabitants of this planet there is none who is so absolutely independent, so thoroughly confident of his own exertions. He has a self importance, derived from his ability to support or partially support himself, which places him high above the rank of the ordinary gamin, and he generally possesses what is far more important in any community-ready money. He is the capitalist of our junior civilization, He can play craps for money when other boys are constrained to pursue this delectable amusement with only the milder if more intellectual pleasure of studying the fluctuations of fortune, or, at most, hazarding eigarette pictures.

He may swear a little more than is necessary, but in general is not half bad. His train of thought is usually healthy and vigorous and has a robustness born of the outer air in which he spends so much of his time. Physically he is agile and almost tireless. While apparently reckless in most things, he is, on the whole, careful of his healthhe is scarcely ever known to smoke a whole cigarette at a time. His intellect is as keen as a razor. He keeps it continually honed on the strop of experience. Everything carries for him a lesson. From the sale of the largest Sunday paper to that of the most unpretentious weekly there is nothing he does not profit by.

He is a born statist, a self educated strategist. He has the nice art of going far enough and yet never overstepping himself. On the eve of such an occasion he will vociferate, "All about the election," but don't ever expect of whom until you buy the paper. Pleasure and other things occupy a fair proportion of his time, but with him the distribution of news is always uppermost. It even permeates his sleeping hours. One of them was heard to remark between sales to another a day or so ago, "Say, Jim, I had de finest dream I ever had las' night."

"Was it about angels?" inquired Jim. "Naw," was the contemptuous response. "I dreampt dat der was a awful smashup, six fires, four double murders an tree suicides, all in one day."-Chicago Times-Herald.

THE FAMOUS GIN LAW.

How It Was Received and Evaded by the English Public.

This famous "gin law," passed in 1736, is interesting as the earliest severe blow at liquor dealing among civilized nations. It levied a tax of 20s. a gallon on spirits, and a license of £50 for any one selling or dealing in them. And, being in advance of public opinion, it failed, much as other more stringent prohibition laws have failed in our own day. For the cry was at once raised that it taxed the poor man's gin and let the rich man's wine go free. Every wit, every caricaturist, had his fling at it. Ballads were hawked around telling of the approaching death of Mother Gin. The liquor shops were hung with black and celebrated uproariously Mme. Geneva's lying in state, her funeral, her wake and so on. The night before the law went into effect, so the contemporary journals say, there was a universal revel all over the country. Every one drank his fill and carried home as much gin be-

To evade the law apothecaries sold it in vials and small packages, sometimes colored and disguised, generally under false labels, such as "Colic Water," "Make Shift," "Ladies' Delight." There were printed directions on some of these packages—e. g., "Take two or three spoonfuls three or four times a day, or as often as the fit takes vou." Informers were very prominent and exceedingly offensive, inventing snares to catch lawbreakers for the sake of the heavy rewards, and spying and sneaking around in a way particularly distasteful to the English mind. In consequence they suffered in their turn. The mere cry, "Liquor spy!" was enough to raise a mob in the London streets, and the informer was lucky if he escaped with a sound thrashing and a ducking in the Thames or the nearest horse pond. Indeed, such an outcry was made about the matter that the ministry became very unpopular, and the law was not enforced after two or three years, and was largely modified in 1743, after seven years' trial. - Popular Science Monthly.

A Curious and Rare Book.

The most curious as well as one of the rarest books known to collectors is the edition of the Vulgate issued by Pope Sixtus V, some time between 1585 and 1590. The book, as Disraeli describes it, "fairly swarmed with errata." So numerous were they that a number of printed paper slips containing the proper words were pasted over the blunders, and this device proving ineffectual on account of the immense number of mistakes, as many of the copies as could be found were called in and destroyed. Only a few remain, and the book with its paper patches commands an extremely high price.

MONEY TO BURN.

They Burned It and Later Wished They Had Kept the Fuel.

"When Burnside made his mud march on to Fredericksburg, we men in the advance had some gay times," remarked a veteran of the civil war. "It was a long while before the Johnnies would let us cross the river, but when we did get across we made the fellows who had been shooting at us for the past three hours get right up and dust for safer quarters. The infantry soon followed us and took up their position along the river toward Falmouth, while we skirmished through the town. When we came to the Planters' hotel, we just walked in and took possession. Everybody had deserted the place and we did just as we pleased. In going through one of the rooms I came across three bundles of Confederate notes. Each bundle was labeled to contain $5,000. and as I held them aloft I shouted to the rest of the men that we now had money to burn. They laughed, and I thrust the notes in my pocket. The Johnnies had taken or destroyed everything to eat, and, as for liquor, there wasn't any in the town.

"After satisfying ourselves that there was nothing further to be had in the Planters' hotel we sallied forth and walked up toward the home of the mother of our country—George Washington's mother. We had had no breakfast yet, and now it was close on to noon. One of my companions had some coffee in his haversack, so I thought we might have a little coffee if nothing else. Well, we got the coffee out and then discovered that we had no firewood. There was some tall swearing just at that time, for the Johnnies hadn't left so much as a match behind them.

"'I've got it!' I cried, and I hauled out the three bundles of notes I had found in the Planters' hotel. My expression was greeted with a shout by my companions and-we had money to burn. We soon had the fire going and the coffee cooked. Need I say to any soldier that we enjoyed our coffee at a price which seems rather high-$15,-000? We were soon through and marched back into the town only to see our men trying to buy some tobacco without money. How strange it seemed! They had not a cent, while we had money to burn and burned it.

"Four years after I regretted having had this money and burned it. While in Washington in the winter of 1865 I had the mortification of seeing an advertisement for this identical package of notes and offering 50 per cent on their face value for their return. They were Virginia state bank notes: hence their value. Whenever I hear that a 25 cents. For sale by H. J. The most popular children's book ever written was "Mother Goose's Melodies." Mrs. Goose, or "Mother Goose," as she was familiarly called. was the mother-in-law of Thomas Fleet. a Boston printer, early in the last century. When his first child was born, his mother-in-law devoted all her attention to the baby, and, it is said, greatly annoyed Fleet by her persistent and not particularly musical chanting of the old English ditties she had heard in her childhood. The idea occurred to Fleet of writing down these songs and publishing them in book form. The oldest extant copy bears the date of 1719. The price marked on the title page was "two coppers." This account of the origin of "Mother Goose" is discredited by some critics, who declare that in 1697 Perrault published "Contes de ma Mere l'Oye," or "Stories of Mother Goose." The name "Mother Goose" was familiar in French folklore, being used by writers of this literature over a century before the time of Perrault.

SIX ARE DEAD AT PORT ARTHUR.

Party of Rescuers Who Started for Sabine Pass Could Not Get Within Seven Miles of the Place-The Wind Started at 6:30 in the Evening and Blew at a Tremendous Rate for Four Hours-Property Damage.

Kansas City, Sept. 15.-Sabine City, Tex., is still shut out from the outer world as far as can be learned at this point, and rumors to the effect that a tidal wave had wrought great havoe there, as well as other near-by gulf towns, is unconfirmed. Absolutely nothing is known by the officials of the Kansas City, Pittsburg and Gulf railway in this city of the condition of affairs at Sabine City, although they have put forth every effort to get into that place. A party of rescuers ordered out from Beaumont, Tex., reported that they had been unable to approach Sabine Pass nearer than seven miles, but gave no inkling of the condition of affairs there. A telegram received over its wires from F. T. Robinson, resident engineer of the road, who was sent to Port Arthur late Monday and returned to Beau-Tex., Tuesday morning, after making an investigation of the situation at Port Arthur, reports six killed, three injured and about $25,000 property damage at that place. The wires to Port Port Arthur Victims.

Arthur are also still prostrated.

The dead at Port Arthur are: Frank Albright, Kansas City, employed by the electric light company; Fritz Michelen, carpenter; George Martin, bricklayer; Mr. Weeks, Mary Unsworth, infant son of W. H. Johnson. Injured: Roy Stafford, wife and daughter, will recover. According to the report of Engineer Robertson the storm came up at about 6 o'clock in the evening, and was at its height from 6:30 until 10:30, the wind at its highest blowing at a velocity seventy-five miles an hour. The Sabine hotel, a seventy-five room structure. was damaged about $700 by flying debris, the roof was blown off the natatorium, and the trusses tumbled down. one end was blown out of the railroad company's stable, the doors of the Pittsburg and Gulf roundhouse, in which the section boss and his family had taken refuge, were blown in and the structure finally collapsed. Those inside escaped uninjured, or only slightly so. The roof was torn off the grandstand, the 2,000foot pleasure pier was slightly damaged and the steamer Rolobb was washed up the bayou and sunk. Nobody was aboard the Rolobb. The passenger depot, recently constructed at a cost of $10,000, was uninjured. Many other structures were tumbled down, largely the fault

The following was received over the Pittsburg and Gulf wires Tuesday at 11:30 a. m. from Shreveport, La., from George M. Craig, general town site agent of the road, who had just returned from Sabine City: "At Sabine City about ten people, including Betts likes it. and Moore, tug and lighter owners, were drowned. Three tugs, one schooner and nearly all the small boats anchored at the town were either sunk or stranded. All of the substantial buildings in both old and new town escaped. The water in the new town rose to six feet and that in the old town to four. No names obtainable."

Devastation at Other Points.

To the east of Sabine the reports show the devastation almost entirely due to farm of ex-Governor Wheeler of Iowa is wrecked. The Creel hotel was blown from its foundations. The store of A. A. Thornton was demolished. The home of Mrs. Gregory was destroyed. The store and warehouse of Z. Y. Guess were torn to pieces and the merchandise ruined by water, and every residence was damaged more or less.

All along the route of the gulf and interstate road for twenty miles on either side of Winnie farm houses and barns were blown down, trees uprooted and wreckage strewn about. The newly established towns of Webb, Seabreeze, Cheek and Fannette are practically

The President and His Advisers Hold a Lengthy Session.

Washington, Sept. 14.—Great interest was attached to the cabinet meeting Tuesday on account of the various important questions which are impending and the fact that it was the first meeting in some weeks. Every member of the cabinet, except Secretary Long, who is out of the city, reached the White House promptly at 11 o'clock and each had with him an unusually large number of papers and documents relating to matters pending in his department. Owing to the volume of business to be considered it was decided at 1:30, after the session had lasted two and a half hours, to take a recess for lunch and continue the session at 2 o'clock. The morning session was devoted almost entirely to the consideration of the Union Pacific question, presumably the advisability of taking an appeal from the decree of the United States court at Omaha for the sale of the property under foreclosure proceedings. members of the cabinet were very reticent, an injunction having been placed on them not to talk of the matter at this time, but it was stated that an announcement relative to the course the government would pursue might be expected in the course of ten days. cabinet also discussed the San Pedro, Cal., harbor project and Attorney General McKenna rendered an opinion which will be formally promulgated which is to the effect that Secretary Alger should proceed under the law to carry out the project of building a breakwater and making other improvements at San Pedro. The civil service decision in the Wood case and its effect on the law was also informally talked over. Neither the decision on discriminating section 22 of the tariff act nor the Cuban or Hawaiian questions were mentioned at the meeting

A SONG.

Bring me the juice of the honey fruit, The large, translucent, amber hued, Rare grapes of southern isles, to suit The luxury that fills my mood.

And bring me only such as grew
Where fairest maidens tend the bowers,

And only fed by rain and dew Which first had bathed a bank of flowers. They must have hung on spicy trees

So that the virtues which belong
To flowers may therein tasted be,
And that which hath been thrilled with

Of noble throated nightingales

May give a thrill of song to me.

For I would wake that string for thee Which hath too long in silence hung, And sweeter than all else should be The song which in thy praise is sung.

THE SQUIRRELS IN THE OAK

How They Kept House and Got Their Provisions.

My favorite boarders in the oak were the gray squirrels. The boys knew their hole from the woodpeckers' at a glance, for it was in the living trunk of the tree, and the red brown margin always showed where their powerful teeth had been cutting away the bark that threatened to grow in and close them up. I have oftened wondered how the woodthe dead limb.

As for the grays, they were not afraid | from his laboratory to live in the heart of the oak, and what stores of nuts, harvested in the hickories on the hill, they did manage to "tote" up there. There must have been a peck at least when I ruthlessly chopped into the hollow with a sharp hatchet and captured a fine brood of young ones that were soon tamed into graceful and affectionate pets.

The old father and mother we did not want, even if we could have caught them, because they are fierce and un-tamable in captivity. The abduction of their pretty children did not seem to weigh much on their minds. They gave no sign of the poignant grief, not to be comforted, that I have seen, for instance, in bluebirds whose nest had been despoiled, but refitted their den as snugly as be-

When my squirrels went harvesting, one of them first held his head in the mouth of the hole for half a minute to see if the coast was clear. Presently out he whisked and stopped again to make sure, while his mate followed. Then Mr. Squirrel gave a rasping, long drawn bark of defiance, which must have filled his lady's heart with admiration for his boldness and with apprehension lest some unwary creature should come within reach of her lord's anger.

Then—if you didn't betray yourself and send both scampering in wildest fright back to the hole-after playing hide and seek for a few moments they ran in single file out to the topmost twigs of a great bough, gained a branch of the neighboring bare walnut and, crossing to its farther side, made a desperate flying leap into the top of a young hickory. Running half way down this, they used a succession of dogwoods and oak saplings until they had reached the grove of tall, straight hickories on the hill, an eighth of a mile from their hole in the oak. Come on them suddenly now if you would care to see fast time made over this queer course and some record breaking leaps that fairly take away one's breath. - Scribner's

Autograph Fiends.

The author of "Chats With Celebrities," Mr.-Guild, says of the demand upon Longfellow for his autograph:

I remember one very pleasant party at the poet's dinner table, at which Mr. Monti, Professor E. N. Horsford and myself were present, when Mr. Longfellow related a number of amusing anecdotes respecting applications that were made to him for autographs. He was very kind to autograph seekers and used to keep in a little box upon his writing table a number of slips upon which were written, "Yours very truly, Henry W. Longfellow." One of these would be sent to the applicant by a member of his family to whom he passed over their requests.

always satisfied with a mere signature, and he often sent a verse from one of his poems signed with his name. The most remarkable request, however, came from a lady in Boston, who, the poet said, sent him by express a package of 150 blank visiting cards, with a letter requesting that he would inscribe his name on each of them the next day, as she was to have a grand reception at which a number of literary people would be present, and she wished to present each one of her guests with the poet's autograph.

This was too much for even Longfellow's good nature and would seem to be hardly credible had I not heard it from the poet's own lips.

Finally Digested.

It is said that an American went into a London bookseller's and asked for Hare's "Walks In London." In the United States it is printed in one volume, in England in two.

"Oh," said the Yankee as he looked at them, "you part your Hare in the middle, do you?"

"I, sir?" said the clerk, with a bewildered look. "Oh, no, sir!"

"I saw he didn't see the joke," said the Yankee, "so I didn't explain, but bought the books and went away. A week later I entered the same shop. As soon as the clerk saw me he approached your hair in the middle? That's capital, sir—capital!"—Anecdotes.

Embalming Perfumes.

Myrrh, which was fabulously supposed to be the tears of Myrrha, who was turned into a shrub, was a plant of handsome appearance, with spreading, fernlike foliage and large umbels of white flowers. It was found principally in Arabia and Abyssinia. In early times the perfume distilled from it was greatly in requisition for embalming.

Herodotus gives a detailed account of the ancient mode of embalming, which is perhaps more instructive than pleasing. After the body had undergone much preparation, which, to spare your feelings, I will not describe, it was filled with powdered myrrh, cassia and other perfumes. It was then steeped in natron, a strong solution of soda, for 70 days. After this it was wrapped in bands of fine perfumed linen, smeared with aromatic gums. Not only people were thus embalmed, but the crocodiles of Lake Moeris, which, after their mummification, were decorated with ornaments and jewels and laid in one of the subterranean passages of the great labyrinth with much pomp and display. The sacred cat, ichneumon and other cherished animals devoutly worshiped by the Egyptians were embalmed with scrupulous and fanatical care. On days special to the memory of the dead the mummies were newly sprinkled with perfume, incense was offered before them and their heads anointed with fresh oil-in the same spirit as we lay new blooms upon the graves of our dead. - London Society.

A View of the Sultan.

Here is a first view of the sultan as Mrs. Max Muller sees him. She describes it in her "Letters From Constantinople:'

"The green enameled and richly gilded barouche comes in sight, drawn by two glorious black horses covered with golden harness, driven by a man in bright blue and gold livery, and on each side the grooms in blue and gold and every man in sight, naval, military, civil, master or servant, in the

His large hooked nose proclaims his Armenian mother. His piercing eyes are raised to our window as he passes, but his face is still and immovable, and he salutes no one, though his whole person has a swaying motion, so faint that it may only be caused by the swaying movement of the cariage. Opposite his imperial majesty sits Osman Ghazi, the hero of Plevna, almost his only intimate friend, whom he trusts implicitly."

BARNATO IN THE COMMUNE.

How the Diamond King Saved the Bank of France. A writer of stories about Barney Barnato says, in the Philadelphia Bulletin, that there is a circumstantially definite account of his presence in Paris Slocum, of New York City, demonstrating his discovery of a reliable cure for utter break up of all social fabric he found his capacities of a paying order. culosis), bronchial, lung and chest For there is little doubt that his was troubles, stubborn coughs, catarrhal the craft that enabled the shrewder the craft that enabled the shrewder communards to realize the money needed to supply the sinews of war.

One day, during the gloom and stress of the government siege, the president of the Bank of France was confronted His "New Scientiffe Treatment" has by an unkempt mob. The demand was the bank's vaults. The spokesman accentuated the demand by all sorts of ferocious threats. It was in the height of this melee that a man who had been counseling the financial deputy of the commune rode up, adorned by a red sash and other insignia of the terrorists. He throng and handed the governor of the bank a large envelope. While the official was reading it the besashed emissary turned to the clamoring nomads and, in a tongue unknown to the officials and probably to many of the mob, addressed them a few sentences. A singular event medicine will be promptly sent direct a few minutes every one of them withdrew. The besashed personage remained in consultation with the governor and when it was ended withdrew. An hour later six covered wagons came to the bank and were laden with bags such as the bank always makes use of in transporting specie.

When Barnato appeared as the diamond king in South Africa, a score of the communards, who had fled from France, were in exile in the region where Barnato had cornered the mines. One day in the plenitude of his affluence he was waylaid, riding in the Rand, by a company of miners. One of them, by a few words, succeeded in gaining his private ear. This man was known as the most ferocious of the bloodthirsty gang who had taken part in the killing of the hostages in La Roquette. He recognized Barnato as the emissary sent by the commune to the Bank of France, and the knowledge enabled him to get in on the ground floor of the diamond deal. The tale goes on to tell that Barnato, who figured as Felix Barnette, had fallen desperately in love with a figurante in the Folies Bergeres just as the war of 1870 broke out: that he had lingered in Paris, became a member of one of the "Red" societies, exploited the ardent patriotism of his coworkers and succeeded in getting several millions of the cash he had forced from the Bank of France. The tale, whether true or not, is by no means so improbable as the actual facts known in the man's mastery of the African diamond yields, for to do that he was forced to put himself against such schemers as Cecil Rhodes and to contend with the "dour" shiftiness of the Boers, and particularly with that astute old fox Uncle Kruger.

ARMY LIFE.

Its Social Informality Constitutes One of Its Great Charms.

'Army life is informal to a degree,' said Mrs. Custer, during a recent interview. "The custom of using cards when of such a thing. It is only at a few of the larger posts, near the cities, where there is anything like the formality of civic life. The people in a garrison are like one great family. Nothing that deeply concerns any member is a matter of indifference to the others, and the spirit of good fellowship is universal. In time of sickness the friendly helpfulness of the women for each other is shown strongly. Many a time I have known a number of women to detail themselves, in regular military fashion, to duty in the house of sickness at certain hours, relieving one another through the day and night with absolute precision, so that the sick person should never be left without an attend-

"With all this close intimacy there is surprisingly little friction or ill feeling. There are, of course, at every post a few people who are disagreeable or hard to get along with, but they cause no more trouble in general than they do in their own households. They belong, we feel, to our army family, and their shortcomings must be overlooked just as we should overlook the faults of a husband or brother or sister. No distinctions between rich and poor are ever observed. There is occasionally a question about calling upon new arrivals, but it is solely on account of reputation and honor. If there has been anything discreditable to the good name of an officer or his wife, the circumstances must be investigated before other families of the post will call." -Philadelphia Times.

Miraculous Benefit

RECEIVED FROM Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure.

LI P. BABCOCK, of Avoca, N. Y., a veteran of the 3rd N. Y. Artillery and for thirty years of the Babcock & Munsel Carriage Co., of Auburn, says: "I write to express my gratitude for the miraclous benefit received from Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. I suffered for years, as result of army life, from sciatica which affected my heart in the worst form, my limbs swelled from the ankles up. I bloated until I was unable to button my clothing; had sharp pains about the heart, smothering spells and shortness of breath. For three months I was unable to lie down, and all the sleep I got was in an arm chair. I was treated by the best doctors but gradually grew worse About a year ago I commenced taking Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and it saved my life as if by a miracle."
