> occupied on Sunday by a congregation of about 2,000 people, who had assembled to witness the laying of the corner stone of that edifice by the Grand Lodge officers F. & A. M. of Michigan. The ceremonies were to have commenced at 3:30 o'clock, but owing to the unavoidable delay caused by the Detroit, it was an hour later than that before the ceremonies commenced.

About 4:20 the Masons filed out of sion was formed there were 200 of the line. Every lodge in the county had its representatives there-both lodges in Ann Arbor, both lodges in Ypsilanti, the Chelsea, Manchester and Milan lodges, in addition to the Saline lodge.

The grand lodge officers for the occasion were Deputy Grand Master Frank T. Lodge, of Detroit, acting grand master: H. Wirt Newkirk, of Ann Arbor, deputy grand master; Charles Lambert, of Ypsilanti, grand senior warden; Warren W. Wadhams, Ann Arbor, grand junior warden; George B. Rhead, of Ann Arbor, grand secretary M. M. Read, of Ypsilanti, grand treasurer; O. A. Kelly, of Milan, grand senior deacon; J. H. Kingsley, of Manchester, grand junior deacon; James F. McGregor, of Detroit, grand marshal; Rev. W. L. Tedrow, of Ann Arbor, grand chaplain; Emmett Schaffer, of Saline, grand architect; Wm. J.

Jackson, Saline, grand tyler. The ceremonies opened with an anthem by the church choir, after which Rev. F. E. Dodge offered prayer. Addresses followed by Rev. R. K. Wharton, and Hon. E. P. Allen, of Ypsilanti. During the latter address a collection for the benefit of the building fund was taken up which amounted to $63. The geremonies were then turned over to the Masonic body. The opening ode was sung by the Masonic quartet of Ann Arbor, L. D. Wines, E. C. Matschel, George F. Key and Eugene Koch. Grand Master Lodge then addressed the congregation and stated that the Grand Lodge F. & A. M. had been requested to lay the corner stone of the church inaccordance with the ancient usages of the order and the grand marshal duly made proclamation of the same, commanding silence and decorum while the ceremonies were in progress. Rev. W. L. Tedrow, grand chaplain, then offered prayer and the quartet sang "Thy Will Be Done."

R. Crittenden, chairman of the building committee, next presented a copper box containing various records, a copy of the Saline Observer, and United States silver coins of 1898, which were placed in a cavity in the stone with the grand honors. The stone was then placed in position and laid by Grand Master Lodge, after which it was squared, leveled and plumbed by the deputy grand master and senior and junior wardens. The elements of consecration, corn, wine and oil, were then scattered by the same three officers. The quartet sang an ode and the grand master declared the corner stone to have been well and truly laid and caused the grand marafter which the benediction was pronounced by the grand master. The singing of the doxology by the congregation and the benediction by Rev. W. Wetmore closed the ceremonies which were fraught with so much that Rev. T. B. Leith and his congregation.

After the geremonies the Masons macrhed back to the lodge room and from there went to the opera house to an honorable discharge. where ample and toothsome refreshments were served to the visiting brothers and their ladies by the Saline lodge.

FATAL RUNAWAY ACCIDENT

In Which Aged Mrs. Abraham Steffe Was Killed.

Mrs. Sally Steffe, aged 70 years, wife of Abraham Steffe, of the Northside, came to her death in a runaway accident Friday noon at the corner of Beakes st. and N. Fifth ave., and her husband and granddaughter who were in the buggy with her at the time were also bruised and injured. The accident was a peculiar one. Jacob Zeeb, of Northfield, was driving a lumber wagon and team of horses down Beakes st. when the tongue of the wagon in someway dropped to the ground. The frightened horses began to run and jerked Mr. Zeeb to the ground. He was dragged along for a considerable distance but finally let go his hold on the reins. At the corner of N. Fifth ave, the horses, which still had the neckyoke and whiffletrees attached to them, overway as the runaway horses and occumix-up, the horses landing on top of horses falling on top of Mrs. Steffe, killing her instantly. Mr. Steffe was badly cut about the face and injured about his body and the little girl was also badly bruised about the head.

A jury was impaneled by Coroner Ball and an inquest was held Tuesday which exonerated Mr. Zeeb, who deeply felt the sad occurrence, from all through the streets and wended its way what became of the family. The night blame.

The custom on navy vessels going into battle, is for the engineer officers to wear side arms and whenever a man flunks, shoot him.

"On the Yosemite the side arms were left above. There was no need for them. The only trouble with those Michigan boys was, to prevent them from forcing the pressure ou the boilers and machinery too high. They worked like tigers while the only signs of battle they could observe were the heave of the ship when a broadside was discharged, and the rattle of soot through the pines from the forced draught.'

Prof. Cooley is seriously debating whether to remain in the navy, as he can, if he likes. He now holds the highest rank, and it's good pay with a nice salary for life after retirement.

CLAIMED HIS WIFE WAS INSANE

But the Medical Testimony Did Not Bear Out the Assertion.

On Monday last Dr. Albert J. Rice, of Ypsilanti, filed a petition in the probate court to have his wife Luella N. Rice adjudged insane and sent to the eastern insane asylum at Pontiac. Judge Newkirk appointed Dr. C. G. Darling and Dr. James F. Breakey a commission to examine into the lady's sanity and set the hearing of the petition for Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

At that hour Dr. Rice was present with another medical man and Mrs. Rice was represented by her attorney Herbert W. Childs, of Ypsilanti. Dr. Rice was to have been accompanied by D. C. Griffen as his attorney but the gentleman was not present. The doctor however was evidently loaded down with evidence. He had a big valise and a voluminous scrap book which was said to contain a full history of his wife and her family compiled from letters that had passed between them. But the contents of the valise and the letters in the scrapbook were not used.

As soon as Judge Newkirk had opened court be stated that the report of the medical commission was to the effect that Mrs. Rice was not insane, that she showed no evidence of insanity and had talked and conversed with them for about an hour in a most rational and ladylike manner. She admitted being ill about two years ago at which time she had suffered delusions and hallucinations, but these the doctors said were due to her state of health. Under this report the judge said he would have to deny the petition.

As Attorney Griffen was not present the medical man who accompanied Dr. Rice asked that a stay of the proceedings be had and the judge granted a one hour's delay. The medical man then left the office but Dr. Rice remained. He was evidently very ill at ease and in a few minutes, after having asked Judge Newkirk a question or two, he said "Your honor I desire to withdraw my petition." As the judge had already dismissed it this request was unnecessary. The doctor then walked up to the judge's desk paid up the $18 expenses that had been incurred and nervously grasping the valise and scrapbook he hurriedly left the room.

In the meantime between the getting out of the petition and the hearing of it Mrs. Rice had sworn out a warrant against her husband for desertion and non-support and he was arrested, the trial being set for next Monday.

The whole of the doctor's proceedings against his wife seem to be actuated by malice and a desire to be rid of her.

The troubles in the family are of long

His pole was of the jib boom variety, and when a fish bit he would derrick it over his head into the bushes where the cookee was stationed.

The Boston men from their canoes watched operations with all the disgust of the true sportsmen.

"Got enough for supper yet?" shouted the fisherman over his shoulder as he set another great trout flamping into the bushes.

'No; better catch six or eight more,' shrilled back the cookee.

"Say, how many fish do you two fellows usually eat for supper?" shouted a Boston man who didn't understand the situation.

Keeps Folks Well.

It is better to keep well than to get well, although when one is sick it is desirable to get well. When we consider that eight-tenths of the ailments that afflict the American people are caused by constipation, we shall realize why it is that Baxter's Mandrake Bitters "keeps folks well," or if sick, enables them to get well. Baxter's Mandrake Bitters cures constipation. H. J. Brown, Eberbach & Son, A. E. Mummery, Palmer's Pharmacy.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

A DEHORNING CAGE.

How to Make a Kind of Cage That Has Been Well Tested-Directions For Use.

A cage to be used in dehorning cattle and which can be easily transported by wagon and set down at any convenient place at the opening of a shed or end of lane is illustrated and described in The National Stockman and Farmer:

Dimensions.—Six feet long, 6 feet high, 31/2 feet wide at top in front and 41/2 feet wide at top at back end; bottom or footboard 1 foot wide, with 7 cleats 11/2 inches thick, 1 foot long, nailed across it to keep cattle from slipping; footboard 2 inches thick and rests on three 2 by 4 inch crosspieces 4 feet long. To these are bolted upright pieces feet long and 2 by 4 inches for nailers for sides of cage. Across the top of cage are used two strips 1 by 4 inches for each set of uprights, bolted one on each side of upright. The inside of this frame is boarded up with inch plank of convenient widths. The lower 21/2 feet should be close enough to prevent animals putting their feet through the cracks bore two inch holes four inches from sides of board. Through these put a piece of rope and tie on outside. This loop is put over the animal's nose and drawn tight by the use of a handspike. An upright lever is used to catch back of the head and draw it to the left side of cage. This upright should be a strong 2 by 4 inch, 9 feet long, bolted to bottom cross piece near the right side, the upper end slipping back and forth between the crosspieces that hold the tops of the two front uprights in place. This lever is thrown to the right when open for the animal to enter. As soon as the head passes it is pushed to the left side and fastened as tight as required by a small iron pin slipped through the crosspieces at top back of it.

On left side, 31/2 feet from bottom, should be used a board a foot wide and a foot longer than the cage. In this

As soon as the head is fastened a handspike is slipped through the cage back of the animal and another over the neck to hold the head down. These remain in place usually without holding, the operator standing in front while taking off the horns. The smallest animals having horns up to a bull weighing 1,830 pounds have been dehorned in this sized cage. Animals weighing up to 1,200 pounds pass right through the cage when the holding lever is thrown back against the right side. Cows heavy in calf and larger animals Hardly was this enigmatic utterance out when there came a tug at his line that the target annual back out of cage. Effect of Irrigation on Fruit.

In commenting upon the enormous yields of fruit in favored localities of Colorado The Irrigation Era says: Irrigation is the cause of full crops every year in that it replaces the mineral elements in the soil that have been taken up by the growing crops. Sunshine, almost perpetual from the time the apple begins to form until it is gathered, gives the fruit such a flavor and color that it readily sells alongside any other apple for double the price. Then, too, they are exceptionally free from insects of any character. The trees bear more fruit, having an abundance of the mineral elements in the soil that are neces sary to produce fruit. It is only a matter of how much you leave on the trees, or how much they will bear by putting props under the limbs.

Corn flour has no resemblance whatever to cornmeal. It looks like the finest wheat flour. It is made from the best white corn after the corn has the germ and hull removed, been thoroughly cleaned, kiln dried and then made into what is known in the trade as ordinary while hominy. From hominy to flour the treatment is about the same as in grinding wheat, but it takes several times as much power to grind corn as it does wheat. In its granular nature the flour resembles the spring wheat flour. Corn flour keeps longer than any other ground cereal. It has not been known to mold. Corn flour can be used alone in pancakes, but in all other ways it must be mixed with wheat flour. - Decatur Review.

Painting Hives.

R. C. Aikin says he has tried paint of all colors, and a hive painted straight black was the worst he ever had for swarming; has had many dark red and thinks they get too hot and cause swarming; prefers light shades. Doolittle thinks hives should stand in shade from 8:30 to 4:30 o'clock, in which case color will make no difference. But he thinks bees do much the best in hives not painted at all, if the hives have single walls. If there's any good reason for paint other than looks, he has never seen it advanced. He wouldn't let any one paint his single walled hives for $1 each. It would lose him $2 in honey, because it would hinder early breeding. -Progress ve Beekeeping.

LISTING VERSUS PLOWING.

The Lister Recommended For Light, Sandy Land and the Plow For Heavy Clay. Experience and observation in northeastern Nebraska lead a correspondent of Farm, Field and Fireside to the following statements:

Where we have a light sandy and a heavy clay soil right in the same neighborhood and often upon the same farm I believe that it pays best to list the light land, while for the heavy land I would say plow the ground good and plant with a check row planter, and as soon as planted harrow good to kill any weeds that may have started since plowing, and then harrow once or twice more before the corn is large enough to cultivate. This harrowing serves a double purpose, that of retaining the moisture near the surface, which insures a more perfect germination of the seed, and that of preventing the land from baking, which so often occurs upon clay land. I also keep the weeds in check until the corn is large enough to allow a good job of cultivating being done the first time over the field.

Being able to cultivate the field both ways, it is not a very difficult matter to keep a field of corn reasonably clear of weeds, and upon such land the increased yield over listing will be enough to well repay one for all the extra labor it requires. It also leaves the land in a much better condition for the next vear's crop.

For light land listing seems to have the advantage. It saves a considerable amount of labor, thereby enabling one to handle a much larger area of corn than when the land has to be plowed before it is planted. And the disadvantages of listing are not as objectionable upon sandy land as upon clay. As sandy land will not wash as easily as clay, it is not as liable to be damaged by heavy rains, and there are no clods to roll in upon the corn to damage it. Some persons advocate listing stubble land in the fall and then splitting the ridges with the lister when ready to plant. This gives a more thorough stirring of the soil and gives better results, especially where heavy land is listed.

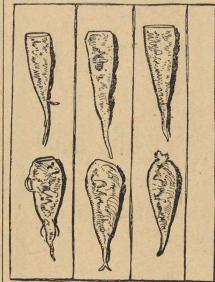

I do not believe that continual listing year after year upon heavy land will prove as profitable as plowing. I believe that such land needs a good, deep and thorough plowing at least once every two years, and as I believe in rotation of crops I think it is best to sow the land to some small grain crop each year that it is not plowed; hence I have not much use for the lister upon clay land.

Disking For Corn.

A few years ago planting corn on ground which had been prepared in any other way than by plowing with the stirring plow and then smoothed and reduced to good tilth with the roller and harrow would have been regarded as an agricultural heresy, but now, as the Iowa Homestead tells, it is not uncommon to see farmers who are growing corn after corn in a six or even a four crop rotation prepare the ground with the disk instead of the plow. The journal mentioned affirms that if the land has been in clover and only one corn crop taken from it since the clover was turned under, it will be in fine condition to prepare with the disk, and many claim that better corn can be grown with this kind of preparation than when it is done in the usual way with the plow. Some farmers do not think this kind of preparation effects much saving of labor, while others do. Many do not keep a large enough force Manchester. of teams to work a disk as it should be worked, while others do not follow rotation that keeps the ground clean enough for this kind of preparation. They hitch two horses to a plow and work day after day until at length they are ready to plant. In disking one can disk twice or double disk as may be preferred, there being no difference except that with double disking there are no ridges or "dead furrows." The stalks must be broken before the frost is all out of the ground or harrowed on a dry day and raked and burned, otherwise the corn will not work so well nor will the cultivator, when the time comes to use it. The field is prepared a day or two before planting time and is then harrowed two or three times before

Trimming Sugar Beets.

It is important that farmers should understand how to properly trim sugar aspen, 200 to the birch, 170 to the ash, beets, for if too much of the crown is left on, carrying with it its large percentage of impurities, the value of the beet for the manufacturer is much re-

PROPERLY AND IMPROPERLY TRIMMED. duced. The farmer gains nothing by sending to the factory improperly trimmed beets or those loaded with dirt, as the state weigher samples each load, washes and if necessary trims the sample and determines the percentage of dockage. The farmer not only gets nothing for the crown at the factory, but loses its value on the farm as stock food and fertilizer, says a bulletin of the Cornell university station, from which the illustration of trimmed beets is reproduced. The beets in the upper row are properly trimmed, those in the lower row improperly.

Othello a Real Person. Some time ago there was a report that an ancient manuscript had been found in Venice containing the true history of Othello. This report has lately been confirmed. The lucky discoverer is the historian Caesar Augustus Levi. He accidentally discovered the manuscript, not in a convent, as was at first reported, but in the archives of a patrician family in Venice. Levi will make use of his find in a work on Othello, which he intends to publish shortly. That Othello and Desdemona, whose real name was Palma, really existed, is clearly proved. Even the mad jealousy of Othello is historical. It is true that he did not murder his wife, but he often beat her cruelly. Levi also found the certificate of baptism of the son which Palma (Desdemona) bere to the Moor, and he supposes that Shakespeare got the material for his play from the Venetian embassy in London. Till now almost all Shakespearean students have inclined to the belief that the poet borrowed his plot from a novel of the Italian, Giraldi Cinthio, who lived from 1504 till 1573.

Appearances Were Deceitful.

A servant lass at an inn once made a funny mistake. Opening the door of one of the rooms, she saw, as she thought, the handle of a warming-pan sticking out near the foot of the bed. 'Bless me," she said, "that stupid Martha has left the warming-pan in the bed; she might have set the place on fire." Taking hold of the handle, she gave it a violent ferk, when up jumped an awakened traveler, shouting lustily: 'Halloa, there! leave my wooden leg alone, will you?"

The Age of Trees.

A well-known scientist furnishes information in regard to the ages of trees. He assigns to the pine tree 500 to 700 years as the maximum, 425 years to the silver fir, 275 years to the larch, 245 years to the red beech, 210 to the 145 to the elder, and 130 to the elm.

MOTHERHOOD.

Mrs. Pinkham Declares No Woman Need Despair.

There are many curable causes for sterility in women. One of the most common is general debility, accompanied by a peculiar condition of the blood.

Write freely and fully to Mrs. Pinkham. Her address is Lynn, Mass. She will tell you, free of charge, the cause of your trouble and what course to take. Believe me, under right conditions, you have a fair chance to become the joyful mother of children. Mrs. LUCY LYTLE, 255 Henderson St., Jersey City, N. J., certainly thinks so. She says:

"I am more than proud of Lydia E.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and cannot find words to express the good it has done me. I was troubled very badly with the leucorrhœa and severe womb pains. From the time I was married, in 1882, until last year, I was under the doctor's care. We had no children. I have had nearly every doctor in Jersey City, and have been to Belvin Hospital, but all to no avail. I saw Mrs. Pinkham's advertisement in the paper, and have used five bottles of her medicine. It has done more for me than all the doctors I ever had It has stopped my pains, and has brought me a fine little girl. I have been well ever since my baby was born. I heartily recommend Mrs. Pinkham's medicine to all women suffering from sterility."

Dr. Miles' Nervine Restores Health.

NCLE EZEKIEL OBEAR, assessor and tax collector, Beverly, Mass., who has passed the 80th life mile stone, says: "Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine has done a great deal of good. I suffered for years from sleeplessness and nervous heart trouble Would feel weary and used up in the morning, had no ambition and my work seemed a burden. A friend recommended Dr. Miles' Nervine, and I purchased a bottle under protest as I had tried so many remedies unsuccessfully, I thought it no use. But it gave me restful sleep, a good appetite and restored me to energetic health. It is a grand good medicine, and I will gladly write anyone inquiring, full particulars of my satisfactory experience."

Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee, first bottle benefits or money refunded. Book on diseases of the heart and nerves free. Address, nerves free. Address,

His Distinction.

The following is said to have occurred to a distinguished but modest divine who had undertaken the duty of a brother clergyman at a cathedral church. "I am come," said he, addressing the silk gowned verger, "to take Canon Blank's place this morning."

"Pray, sir," replied the official pompously, "are you the 'man' who is to read the prayers or the 'gentleman' who is to deliver the sermon?"-Household

The Brooklyn Bridge.

The greatest suspension bridge in the world is the Brooklyn bridge, which also leads the world in the number of its daily passengers. Its length, including approaches, is 5,989 feet, the distance between the towers 930 feet, the weight of the structure is 6,470 tons, its cost was over $15,000,000. New England at Manila.

New England had eighteen naval officers aboard the Yankee battleships which broke the calm and silence of the Sabbath in the harbor of Manila with roar of guns and bursting shells. Despite the Puritanical training in youth, they fought just as if it wasn't Sunday. The bells did not call them to church. The summons of the morning was of a different character and to a higher duty. Cinder and Smoke Preventer.

Every man who has ridden in a train drawn by a steam locomotive has had experience of the effects of the smoke and cinders which were blown in has wondered why there was no means of suppressing the nuisance. A Maryland inventor has tried his hand in the attachment of a cylindrical gooseneck, bifurcated at its lower portion, to the smokestack of the locomotive. The ends of the divided portion terminate in a receiver for cinders located at the side of the engine. To the gooseneck is attached a pipe which runs the whole length of the train. With this device it is impossible for smoke or cinders to come in contact with passengers, even although windows and doors be left open, for as the refuse of the furnace passes up the smokestack the smoke enters the pipe and is driven back toward the end of the cars by the air that is con-

REPORTS OF CITY OFFICERS.

To the Common Council of the City of Gentlemen:

I have been requested to state in writing my opinion relative to the power of the Common Council to proride for sprinkling the streets in the city by local assessment upon adjacent | property.

The only section of the charter under which such a power could be claimed, is Section 130. This gives the Compay the ezpense of making, grading, paving, opening, widening and repairing streets, or for constructing drains, sewers and other local improvements, upon the premises benefitted by such local improvement.

In my opinion thie section would not authorize the levy of a local assessment to pay for sprinkling streets.

If Section 130 should be so amended by the legislature as to include after the word improvement, the words"and for sprinkling streets," and also after he is a democrat and will not listen to ed it for several years until it gained a of the hospital corps were the last to democrat and will not listen to ed it for several years until it gained a of the hospital corps were the last to democrat and will not listen to ed it for several years until it gained a of the hospital corps were the last to circulation of about 7,000 copies. through the winter? If so, we are sure it quieted your cough, healed the rawness in your throat, increased your weight, gave you more color, and made you feel better in every way. But perhaps your cough has come back again, or you are getting a little thin and pale.

Then, why not continue the same helpful remedy right through the summer? It will do you as much good as when the weather is cold.

Its persistent use will certainly give you a better appetite and a stronger digestion.

It will cure your weak throat and heal your inflamed lungs. It will cure every case of consumption, when a cure is possible.

Don't be persuaded to take something they say is just as good.

Why They Wore Armor.

To such a pitch of exasperation did the practice of using buttons in the shirt drive the men of the middle ages that they adopted the plan of wearing brass or steel armor, fastened together with metallic bolts. The popular idea that men wore armor in order to fight be any important business under the in it is manifestly absurd, since no man could possibly have fought when incased in half a hundredweight of metal. States supreme court shall frame rules Armor was worn solely in order to avoid the worry of shirts with missing buttons.

There were distinct advantages connected with the chain steel shirts. When one of these garments came home on Saturday night from the washerwoman, the owner could feel reasonably certain that the metallic clasps at the neck and in the bosom were all in. for involuntary bankruptcy until the their proper places, for no washerwoman could have succeeded in detaching them without the use of a cold chisel. If it did so happen that the washerwoman's husband had been run over by a steam roller while wearing a steel shirt belonging to one of his wife's customers, and one of the metallic fastenings had thereby been injured, the customer in question could not accuse his wife of negligence and demand to know why she failed to keep his shirts in proper repair. - London Answers

Russia's Magnificent Churches.

"The churches in St. Petersburg are so magnificent that they go to your head," writes Lilian Bell in The Ladies' Home Journal. "We did nothing but go to mass on Christmas eve and Christmas day, for although we spent our Christmas in Berlin we arrived in St. Petersburg in time for the Russian Christmas, which comes 12 days later than ours. St. Isaac's, the Kazan and Sts. Peter and Paul dazed me. The icons or images of the Virgin are set with diamonds and emeralds worth a king's ransom. They are only under glass, which is kept murky from the kisses which the people press upon the hands and feet. The interiors of the cathedrals, with their hundreds of silver couronnes and battleflags and trophies of conquests, look like great bazaars. Every column is covered clear to the dome. The tombs of the czar are always surrounded by people, and candles burn the year round. Upon the tomb of Alexander II, under glass, is the exquisite laurel wreath placed there by President Faure. It is of gold and was made by the most famous carver of gold in Europe."

War and Soldiers.

Old Thomas Fuller spoke thus of war in his "Holy State:" "A soldier is one of a lawful, necessary, commendable and honorable profession; yea, God himself may seem to be one free of the company of soldiers, in that he styleth himself 'a man of war.' Now, though many hate soldiers as twigs of the rod war, wherewith God scoureth wanton countries into repentance, yet is their calling so needful that were not some soldiers we must be all soldiers, daily employed to defend our own, the world would grow so licentious."

California is beautiful in color-red, purple, yellow. No other state and few countries can compare with it in this. When Californians come east, however, they are delighted with the scenery and they explain that it is the greenness of everything. Their colors are more gorgeous, but they are high and hot and dry, the damp, dark tones of the east are an æsthetic bath.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

It is always with a vague regret that we read the sagas, and are thrilled by the viking's exploits. It seems as if the deeds of daring had gone by forever, and as if the heroes of the deep were a myth of the past. Absorbed in the Norse romance, we forget that the vikings were only pirates, and that they dared for slaughter and for booty. If the Gloucester of today had only existed then, what heroic saga would it not have inspired! For to risk life for glory or riches or rescue or love is in the heart of every man to do, but to risk life for a bare existence, for other people's profit and for an anonymous end partakes of that commonplace sublimity which does not form the favorite plot of poets, although once in awhile it is the subject of a daily paragraph. For the vikings are not dead. From Portland to New Orleans, our harbors are full of them. They lounge upon our wharfs, and we do not recognize them. They loiter on our streets, and we know them not. But if there is a more modest, unconscious, or braver fellow than Jack the Fisherman, our eyes have yet to rest upon his face. He is the hardiest and most daring, the best sailor in the world today. Any continental kingdom would give its wealth to possess him for its defense. He is the envy of every maritime nation. Has he no value for us, beyond the halibut and the cod, the haddock and the cusk?—Herbert D. Ward in Century.

The Debut of the Bowie Knife.

There were progressive duels, too, from which the popular mind no more revolted than it does in this era from progressive whist or euchre. It was one of them which gave Bowie and his knife to fame. In some way there had earms of three and five years come to be bad blood, black and bitter, between him and a certain Colonel Norris Wright. After long bickering, it was agreed to meet upon the levee opposite Natchez, Miss., each with half Meats, Sausages, Oysters and a dozen friends, duly armed, and there shoot the matter out. There were a dozen on each side when it came to fighting. The battle was arranged to begin with threes, the rest standing by, and coming in only when those of the first fight were dead or disabled. But they had miscalculated their own self control. After the first fire there was a general melee-the reserves to a man gripped pistols hard, drew knife belts to a handy clutch and went into the combat to do or die. - Martha McCulloch-Williams in Harper's Magazine.

The Climate of the Philippines.

In regard to the climate which a foreigner encounters it is easy to exaggerate its discomforts. Although it is tropical, still even in summer the climate may be called healthy. From December to March there are warm days, with cool nights and little rain. During March, April and May the days are hot, dry and dusty, while the thermometer rises to 96 degrees at noon, but the nights are not uncomfortable. In the latter part of May and of June there are thunderstorms every afternoon with a tremendous downpour of rain. The greatest heat occurs in these months, the thermometer rising frequently to 105 degrees in the shade. July, August and September are the months of the great typhoons, and while Manila escapes the greatest fury of these still enough of their force remains to demolish many houses. During October and November storms lessen in frequency and severity, and the weather gradually settles into the fine days of December.—Isaac M. Elliott in Scribner's.

In Servia.

A traveler through Servia will often notice dolls hung up inside the cottage windows. His first idea is one of surprise that the children should so choose this particular spot to store their toys. But presently he learns that the dolls are put up as a sign to announce to wayfarers that a marriageable daughter dwells in the house. The idea is to remind acquaintances from other villages who may have forgotten her existence. This custom is naturally confined to peasants, but nearly every house has a wreath of corn ears hung up on the outer wall. This wreath is brought back from the harvest festival, and there is a superstition that if it be stolen, a daughter of the house will shortly be married. Where this is particularly desired, care is taken to suspend the wreath well within Lucid Explanation.

An Irishman walking over a plank sidewalk, in counting some money accidentally dropped a nickel, which rolled down a crack between two of the boards. The Irishman was much put out by his loss, trifling though it was, and continued on his way, swearing audibly.

Early the next day a friend, while walking by the spot, discovered the Irishman deliberately dropping a dollar down the same crack through which he had lost his nickel. The friend was of course much astonished at what he saw, and desiring to learn why Pat should deliberately, to all appearances, throw away money inquired his reasons and was fairly taken off his feet by the following explanation:

"It was this way," said Pat. "It's yesterday I was passin this way when I lost a nickel down that hole. Now, I reasoned that it wasn't worth me while to pull up that sidewalk for a nickel, but last night a scheme struck me, and I am dropping down the dollar to make it worth me while."-Chicago News.

A remarkable decision has been given recently by a Kentucky court. A man sued his wife for divorce on the ground that she beat him. The principle that a woman may discipline her husband by a resort to physical force consequently has the weight of judicial authority. We need hardly add that this puts the husband in a deplorable position.-Providence Journal.

French Minister Appears at the White House with Full Instructions.

HAS A TALK WITH THE PRESIDENT.

And Secures a Modification of Some of the Terms Proposed.

McKinley and Cambon Have a Long Argument on the Matter Before an Agreement Is Reached, and Both Speak Fully and Frankly.

Madrid, Aug. 2.-The cabinet council sat yesterday morning and again for four hours yesterday afternoon discussing the peace terms. A dispatch was then sent to Washington for further explanation of some difficult points. Senor Sagasta, the premier, confirms the original terms have been obtained."

Washington, Aug. 1.—Peace with Spain now seems assured, and the termination of hostilities may be but a matter of a few days. Progress in the negotiations has been much more rapid than wasanticipated by the administration, for the reason that when Ambassador Cambon appeared at the White House Saturday afternoon he presented credentials entitling him to act as the direct diplomatic representative of Spain, with all the powers usually bestowed upon a minister plenipotentiary and envoy extraordinary, and with complete instructions covering every possible phase of the peace negotiations.

Points of the Cabinet Agreement. The terms finally agreed to by the cabinet Saturday were these: Cuba to be freed; Porto Rico to be ceded to the United States; one of the Ladrone islands (probably Guam) to be ceded to the United States as a coaling station, and as an immediate step all Spanish military forces in the West Indies to be withdrawn with the formal relinquishment by Spain of her sovereignty over any possessions among those islands. As to the Philippines the cabinet agreed upon the following points: That Manila ay, with the city and surrounding territory, should be retained in the possession of the United States at least for such a length of time as is necessary to devise and put in operation some plan for the future government of the entire group, and that this government should be decided upon by a joint com mission of the two nations-the United States and Spain.

Cambon Sends the Terms to Madrid. With his credentials authorizing him to speak as plenipotentiary for the government of Spain, and with full instructions on every point at issue, Ambassador Cambon, in behalf of Spain not only received the peace conditions, but thereupon entered upon their full discussion with a view to reaching a final omplete agreement. After strong argument the president and Secretary Day consented to a modification of the American terms in one particular. What that modification relates to is not disclosed. The modification brought about practical unanimity between the president and Ambassador Cambon, as plenipotentiary for Spain, and the latter has now transmitted the results of the conference to Madrid for approval. After the terms had been read to M. Cambon the discussion began point by point. The president and the ambasaddressed each other directly with the greatest freedom and frankness, each stoutly maintaining the justice of his position on the several points involved. The ambassador addressed himself to the president not so much as the advocate of Spain, but personally, having with the president, man for man, a like interest in humanity. The president spoke with equal frankness, and in the lengthy discussion there was scarcely a point in the whole range of the war which was not met and freely considered.

Spain May Reply Tomorrow.

The persons best informed as to the probabilities declare that the answer of the Spanish government to the terms of peace outlined by the government of the United States is not expected before tomorrow. This opinion is based upon a knowledge of the time when the United States communication was received in Madrid, which was not until an early hour yesterday morning; the time required to decipher it, the necessity for an extended consideration of the matter by the Spanish cabinet, and also the necessity for carefully framing the re-

The Iron Chancellor Passes from Earth Into Eternity's Shades.

Berlin, Aug. 1.-Prince Bismarck died shortly before 11 o'clock Saturday night. The death of the ex-chancellor comes as a surprise to all Europe. Despite the family's denials there was an underthe report that some "modifications of current of apprehension when the sinking of the prince was first announced, inspired more by what the family left unsaid than by any information given. But when the daily bulletin chronicled improvements in the prince's condition, detailed his extensive bills of fare, and told of his devotion to his pipe, the public accepted Dr. Schweninger's assertion when he said there was no reason why Bismarck should not reach the age of 90 years.

The reports were deemed to be a repetition of the alarm that Prince Bismarck was in extremis which had been oft repeated in the past. All the Sat-urday papers in Europe dismissed Bismarck with a paragraph, noting the improvement, while his condition was completely overshadowed in the English papers by the condition of the Prince of Wales' knee. It appears that the ex-chancellor's death was not precipitated by sudden complications, but was rather the culmination of chronic disease-neuralgia of the face and inflammation of the veins-which kept him in constant pain that was borne the iron fortitude which might have been expected. The beginning of the end dates from July 20, when the prince was confined to his bed. He had been several days prostrated before an inkling of his decline reached the world On Friday Dr. Schweninger said: 'For the past nine days I have hardly changed my clothes, having been traveliny nearly all the time between Berlin and Friedrichsruhe, as you may notice by my shabby velvet jacket." He then declared that his patient's lungs, stomach and kdineys were sound, in fact that his whole gigantic frame was sound. "As yet," said Dr. Schweninger,

Dr. Schweninger added this verdict: 'With his extraordinary robust nature he may, excluding complications, reach During Dr. Schweninger's brief absence from Friedrichsruhe Dr. Chrysander was in constant attendance upon the patient. Although Prince Bismarck was extremely low on Wednesday he so rallied on Thursday that he was wheeled to the dinner table to celebrate with his assembled family the fifty-first an-niversary of his wedding.

ROSARY BEADS.

They Were In Use Among the Hindoos

Before the Era of Buddha. The prevailing idea in regard to a osaly is that it belongs solely to followers of the Catholic religion. But take away the cross that is hanging to the peads and we find that one must turn to the dim, mysterious east for the origin of the rosary, for it is among the temples of India, China and Japan that the first sign of the practice is to be found. Ancient pictures of the Hindoo gods depict them with chaplets of beads in heir hands, and it is believed that this method of keeping count of their many orayers was in use among the Hindoos efore the era of Buddha, or at least B.

The use of the rosary seems especially suited to an eastern clime and to the repose of an oriental mind. The Buddhists are fond of using very smooth beads of glass, polished jade or coral, and it has been thought that the smooth, cool beads gliding through their fingers as they murmur the holy name for thousands of times help them to arrive at that state of holy abstraction from earthly things which is so much prized among the followers of Buddha.

The favorite Japanese rosaries are made of polished wood, crystal, onyx and chased silver, and the Japanese Buddhists repeat in endless devotion 'Namu Amida Butzu'' ("Save us, Buddha"), while their Chinese brothers have the blessed name "U-Mi-to-fu" forever on their lips. A rosary of very great size was recently brought from a temple in Kicto, Japan. The largest bead is about six inches in diameter, and the rosary entire is about 24 feet long. The huge beads are of dark brown polished wood. They are hollow and have each a figure of a god inside the little shrine, which can be seen through a lattice of brass work.—Cincinnati En-

FALSIFIED HER AGE.

A Court Trial That Disclosed a Queer Phase of Russian Society.

Even in Russia, it seems, despotism does not go the length of forcing a woman to tell her age or of punishing her for stating it inaccurately. A certain Princess Eugalytcheff was recently tried at Moscow and sentenced to lifelong internment in the province of Olonetz for embezzling 140,000 rubles. After the proceeding in court had come to an end and after the noble lady had retired to the country for her somewhat prolonged rest from urban gaveties and temptations a too careful official discovered that among the papers in the case was the princess' certificate of baptism, and that she had changed the date of it direction, the Wheatstone bridge refrom 1847 to 1867. Instantly this grave mains in equilibrium, but when they crime was brought to the notice of the are converged upon a single object, the authorities, and the convicted embezzler equilibrium is destroyed, and the needle prising amount of light was thrown on Russian society.

cited as a witness by the prosecutor, aimed. said that whether his bride was 20 years older or younger than her certified age was a matter of absolute indifference to him. All he could say was that he received the sum of 3,000 rubles for giving the lady his name, that immediately after the marriage ceremony he procured for her a separate passport, and that since then he has known nothing more of his wife or her private affairs. The jury gallantly declined to convict the accused princess on the "trivial charge about a woman's age," and she was sent back to her provincial exile.

Princes evidently come cheap in Russia, and this is perhaps the most interesting bit of news in the whole story. -New York Times.

A Disastrous Ending.

Two Detroit merchants were sitting on adjacent stools and taking a 15 cent lunch, when one asked the other if he consulted his wife in his business affairs.

"Can't do it," was the response. 'I've tried it a dozen times a month for years, but it always winds up just about as it did yesterday. I asked her if she thought she could discuss a little matter of business calmly and dispassionately. She said she could, but had never known me to be able to do so. I complimented her sarcastically on her 'angelic' temper, and she at once accused me of being angry. I told her that I was regarded among men as having a very equable disposition and that my employees called me Old Suavity. She called attention to the fact that her pet dog, that weighs about a pound, was called Danger. Then I told her straight from the shoulder that I declined to be made angry by her taunts and odious comparisons, but served pointed notice that I was going to have the respect due the head of the house. She laughed cheerily and declared that I was entirely too touchy."

"But what about the business conference?'

"Oh, I slammed the door and left." -Detroit Free Press.

Ice Broke the Spell.

There is a curious little tale about Captain Bagot, M. P. for South Westmoreland, which cannot fail to interest those superstitiously inclined. It is said that, some generations ago, a witch cursed Levens Hall, the seat of Captain Bagot, and said that there would be no direct male heir to the estate as long as the Kent-the river which runs through the grounds—flowed. Such has indeed been the case, until in 1895, when, owing to the severe frost, the Kent was, for a time, entirely frozen up, and a few months afterward Mrs. Bagot presented her husband with a little boy. -London Graphic.

alone those who toil and spin that suffer from catarrhal troubles; the diseases of women come to rich and poor and catarrh is their cause. The influence of catarrh on the home lives of our women can hardly be appreciated until the real nature of catarrh is understood. Dr. Hartman explains this to women in his book called "Health and Beauty," which the Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, O., will mail to any woman on application. Mrs. Arthur L. I have taken one and a half bottles and am to-day well and hearty. shall always praise Pe-ru-na, for I feel it saved my life."

Miss Belle Gunsalis, No. 208 Seventeenth Ave., Cedar Rapids, Iowa, writes to or. Hartman: "Your medicine cured me of chronic catarrh affecting the Dr. Hartman: head, nose and throat, which I was afflicted with for five or six years, growing worse all the time, until I began taking your Pe-ru-na. Independent of curing my catarrh, Pe-ru-na has wonderfully improved my general health."

Range Finders for Warships.

The surprising certainty with which shots from modern rifled cannon reach targets several miles distant depends upon an accurate knowledge of the range. In a combat with hostile ships the range must be continually changing and one of the means for quick ascertainment is the range-finder invented by Lieut. Fiske, of our navy. Two telescopes are fixed on the deck of a ship at a known distance apart. An observer at each telescope keeps it directed upon the enemy's ship. The telescopes are electrically connected, and a Wheatstone bridge and galvanometers are included in the circuit. As long as the telescopes are perfectly parallel in was summoned to meet the charge of of the galvanometer swings over a disfalsifying an official document. Then a tance corresponding to the angular discurious fact was disclosed, and a sur- placement of the telescopes. A properly graduated disk behind the needle shows at a glance the distance of the The Prince Eugalytcheff, who was object at which the telescopes are

A Slight Difference.

A London journal tells of a certain lady who has in her room a piece of statuary which bears the inscription, "Kismet." The housemaid was dusting the room one day, when the mistress appeared. "Sure, ma'am," aid the girl, "would you mind tellia" me the m'anin' of this writin' on the bottom of this figger?" "'Kismet' means 'fate.' " answered the lady. "Sure, an' is that it?" said the girl. A few days afterward the housemaid came limping into her mistress's room. "Why, what is the matter with you, Bridget? asked the lady. "O ma'am, sure an' I have the most turrible corns on me kismet!" said the girl.

Russell Harrison Was a Soldier. Ex-President Harrison's son, Russell, in a letter to a St. Louis paper, denies the statement that he is without military experience, citing a membership of more than ten years in the Pennsylvania, Indiana and Montana National Guards, during which time he saw active service. In reference to his recent military appointment he says: "I do not think I have received at the hands of the president consideration beyond my experience." Furthermore, he says that his father, who went into the civil war as a colonel, had had absolutely no previous military experience and he points with suggestive pride to the record which the ex-president made.-Ex.

Sample of Spanish Progressiveness. It is noted that the Philippines were discovered in 1521, and formally annexed to Spain in 1569, nearly 330 years In those 330 years of Spanish rule but sixteen miles of railway has been built in the entire archipelago. That is chracteristic of Spain's way of ruling her provinces.

Outward Effects the Same.

Two reporters, slightly acquainted with each other, met one day at a lunch counter. "You're not eating anything, Larkins," remarked one of the two, after they had exchanged a few commonplaces. "No," replied Larkins. 'I am so worked up over the scoop I got this morning on the Daily Cyclone fellow, about the bankruptcy of that big firm on Silver street, that I haven't any appetite. But you are not eating anything, either, Hawkins." "No," gloomily replied Hawkins. "I'm the the fellow you scooped."
