

ALL THE JUDSON-MORAN CASES WERE SETTLED

Neither Side Takes Back A Word But Both Promise To Be Good in the Future.

JUDGE KINNE AND J. C. KNOWLTON PEACEMAKERS

It Took All the Morning To Finish the Negotiations.—Both Sides Claims They Would Have Won But Neither Dared Try the Case—All Suits Dropped.

Peace is declared. As many people have all along stated the various Judson - Moran, Canfield - Allmendinger cases will never be tried. It looks as if one were afraid and the other daresn't, and so they fell into each others' arms, kissed and made up. Ambassador J. Cambon Knowlton conducted the peace negotiations on the ground that it was time for this cruel war to cease. It ceased. And this is how it all happened: The case of William Judson vs. Selby A. Moran was on call yesterday. Judson claimed that Moran had libeled him in his paper, charging him with several crimes. Moran had long maintained that he hadn't libeled him, as his charges were true. A special panel of 15 jurors had been drawn at an extra expense to the county of over $125 for this special case. The lawyers took their places at the tables. For Judson, there appeared Attorneys Brown, Kearney, Cavanaugh and Lehman, and for Moran, Attorneys Sawyer, Sawyer, jr., Jones and Gorman. There was a feeling of tense expectancy. The court was called to order. Then before the case was called, the attorneys disappeared in the judge's room. Court held on but no cases were called. Occasionally a lawyer would appear. Soon Judson's lawyers began coming into the court room, leaving their client in consultation with the enemy. Moran's negotiations seemed to be entirely in the hands of his attorneys, while Judson was acting for himself. Sometime elapsed when Attorney A. J. Sawyer appeared on his way to a telephone to call up Crane, of Saginaw. This meant that the Stockwell case was to be included in the settlement. Then everybody appeared, chatted and waited. The various county officers appeared, watched and speculated. Even Judge Newkirk finally showed up on the scene but disclaimed caring anything about the case. After a long wait, Sawyer re-appeared. So did Ambassador Knowlton, looking happy. Then all the parties disappeared in the judge's room and after a short period most of them came out and started home. Then appeared O. E. Butterfield and Mr. Knowlton, carrying a stipulation.

The actual court proceedings were as follows: At 11:43 o'clock, Mr. Butterfield said: "If your honor please, the cases of William Judson vs. Selby A. Moran, Lester Canfield vs. G. Frank Allmendinger, Selby A. Moran vs. William Judson and Lester Canfield, are discontinued without costs to either party. I have a written stipulation which can be filed in one case but which relates to all." Judge Kinne—"Cases No. 27, 28 and 44 are discontinued without costs to either party as against the other." At 11:44 all was over, and the Judson cases were out of court. The stipulation was as follows:

State of Michigan, The Circuit Court for the County of Washtenaw. William Judson, plaintiff, vs. Selby A. Moran, defendant, action for libel. Lester Canfield, plaintiff, vs. G. Frank Allmendinger, defendant, action for libel. Selby A. Moran, plaintiff, vs. William Judson and Lester Canfield, defendants, action for false imprisonment. The Circuit Court for the County of Livingston. Howard Stockwell, plaintiff, vs. William Judson, Lester Canfield, Joseph Doane and William Mosher, defendants, action for malicious prosecution and false imprisonment. The above entitled causes now ready for trial in said courts are understood by all parties to be the result of bitter feeling engendered in political combat and all parties confidently expect to prevail; but many friends of each party dread the contest and predict results disastrous to all concerned and uncomfortable to many not concerned. While therefore the several parties each insist upon the full justice of their cause they hereby agree for the sole purpose of political harmony and the gratification of their friends, to discontinue all suits now pending. And it is also agreed that no one of the parties to this agreement shall publish, or cause to be published, anything further relating to any question involved in any of said suits, it being the desire of all parties to end further controversy. LESTER CANFIELD, G. FRANK ALLMENDINGER, S. A. MORAN, WM. JUDSON. Now, therefore, it is hereby stipulated and agreed by and between the respective parties, by their respective attorneys, that said causes be and they are hereby discontinued, without costs to either party. ARTHUR BROWN, THOS. D. KEARNEY, RANDALL & JONES, A. J. SAWYER, R. L. CRANE, per A. J. Sawyer, J. W. BENNETT, LAWRENCE & BUTTERFIELD, LEHMAN BROS. & STIVERS. Dated Ann Arbor, Oct. 11, 1899. Judge Kinne then discharged the special talesmen impanelled for the special purpose of trying this case. Mr. Knowlton, who negotiated the settlement, was not an attorney in the case, and Judge Kinne had a day or two ago requested him to see what he could do towards settling the case. Both sides to the case were very positive in their assertions of expected victory, and even after the settlement each side claimed that if the case had gone on they would have proven that the other side had been using money to procure false testimony. Such is harmony.

BIG MANUFACTORY FOR ANN ARBOR

Through the efforts of James R. Bach, Ann Arbor is about to receive an increase to the manufacturing interests of the city, and it will be of a very substantial kind. Mr. Bach has been agent for a large portion of the Lawrence addition to the city of Ann Arbor, and which is located in the south portion of the city. It fronts on the Ann Arbor railroad tracks and is a most desirable location for a manufacturing concern. With his customary enterprise Mr. Bach did not wait for customers for the property but went after them, dragged them up here from Detroit, made them a proposition which was accepted and directly benefits every business man and property owner in the city. The company to which Mr. Bach has sold the property and the deeds for which were signed today, is comprised of Detroit capitalists and one Ann Arbor gentleman who wished his name withheld for the present. Its purpose will be to manufacture bath room closets. They are of an entirely new design, and the water tank is placed near the level of the floor instead of at a ceiling height. The name of the concern will be "The Ann Arbor Closet Co." It will have 200 feet of frontage on the Ann Arbor railroad, and on this property will be erected three large buildings. The main building will be 48x96 feet and two stories high. An engine room 20x30 feet will be adjacent. A dry kiln building 40x60 feet will also be constructed.

The output of the concern will be 100 closets per day, and it will be necessary to employ 40 experienced men. It will not be cheap labor, but of that class that will be a most material help to the city. The company will immediately let the contract for the buildings, and expect to be in working order by Jan. 1. It starts out with the most rosy prospects, as already enough orders have been placed with it to keep the factory going for three months. In other words, they have orders for 7,500 closets already. Ann Arbor will extend a hearty welcome to the concern and the thanks of the people are due in a great measure to Mr. Bach's hustling qualities for inducing the capitalists to invest their money here.

UNITY CLUB LECTURE COURSE

The Unity Lecture Course this year is an exceptionally good one. It has been arranged as follows: Oct. 30—Judge W. D. Harriman, "The Colleges of Oxford." Jan. 15—Dr. P. B. Bourland, "Velasquez." Prof. P. C. Freer, "Liquid Air." Feb. 26—Librarian B. A. Finney, "Gutenberg and the Development of the Art of Printing" illustrated with stereopticon views.

HUNTER IS CHAIRMAN

Of First Republican Board of Supervisors.

ELECTED UNANIMOUSLY

Supervisor Beach of Lima, was Made the Temporary Chairman.

The board of supervisors met Monday, the first Republican board in many years, and John L. Hunter will preside over their deliberations. His election as chairman of the board was unanimous. He was nominated in the Republican caucus, and the Democrats gracefully voted for him. There were 25 supervisors present when the board was called to order. On motion of Supervisor Childs, Supervisor Beach, of Lima, was made temporary chairman. The board adjourned until 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the Republican members going into caucus. The names of Supervisors Hunter, Bibbins and Case were heard in connection with the chairmanship of the board. A caucus of the Republicans was held, and John L. Hunter, the veteran supervisor of Ypsilanti township, was unanimously nominated. The Democrats, learning what the Republicans had done, decided to join in voting for Mr. Hunter. This afternoon the board met and elected Mr. Hunter chairman. The board of supervisors met Monday and the hours were set for the regular order of business. This will include a junket to the county house on Thursday.

Supervisor Biggs kicked on going in a body. He said it was an expense, and, while it was a nice thing for the supervisors to go and get a square meal, he thought it was the duty of the supervisors to be economical. He suggested that a committee should be appointed to do the work. The supervisor from the sixth ward of Ann Arbor was frowned upon by several members, and there were cries of "out of order."

Chairman Hunter ruled that the report of the committee on order of business had already been adopted. Supervisor Childs said that on Thursday every supervisor should go to the county house with the idea of seeing if the building could accommodate a portion of Washtenaw's insane for detention purposes, and they should try and devise some means of making this kind of an arrangement. Clerk Schuh read the appointments of Chairman Hunter, who explained that he had put a new member on the committee on equalization, "so as to educate him," and all the city supervisors looked at each other, as if they knew what that meant.

- The following are the committees: Equalization—Case, Whittaker, Allmendinger, McCullough, Collins.
- Criminal Claims, No. 1—Bibbins, Beach, Biggs.
- Criminal Claims, No. 2—Damon, Brown, Shadford.
- Civil Claims—Kenny, McIntyre, Kingsley.
- To Settle with County Officers—Fowler, Walters, Bacon.
- Apportionment of State and County Taxes—Bacon, Clark, Schneider.
- Public Buildings—Krapf, Whittaker, Case.
- Rejected Taxes—Biggs, Hall, Fischer.
- Examine Accounts of Superintendents of the Poor—Childs, Hall, Burtless.
- Finance—Kingsley, Voorheis, Prochnow.
- Fractional School Districts—Shadford, Seyler, Voorheis.
- Drains—Allmendinger, Walters, Damon.
- Printing—Childs, Dresselhouse, Fowler.
- Contagious Diseases—Burtless, Clark, Dresselhouse.
- Per Diem—Collins, McIntyre, Krapf.
- County Expenses—Fischer, Beach, Bibbins.
- Business was rather slow Tuesday at the supervisors' meeting, and a well known member was quietly encircling himself in large rings of cigar smoke, so that Supervisor Childs began making motions as though he were swimming. When he emerged he made a few preliminary remarks about how he could smoke as much as anyone else, no matter how many times the cigars were passed around; but he wound up by offering a resolution to prohibit smoking during sessions of the board. For a long time nothing was said, but finally Supervisor Kingsley was merciful and supported the resolution, and Mr. Biggs did what he could to put out the fire. A vote was taken and the pipe went out. Supervisors Childs, Kingsley and Biggs were appointed a committee to enforce the will of the board. At the meeting of the board of supervisors Tuesday, the Republican majority started in with "cleaning house." The election of school examiner was the special order for this afternoon and M. J. Cavanaugh, democrat, expired, the board electing Ira Savery, of Salem, in his stead by acclamation.

Judge H. Wirt Newkirk appeared before the board of supervisors Monday and made a plea that the county should provide some place where the mildly insane could be cared for while awaiting admission to the state asylums, which are overcrowded. The judge stated that there had been as many as seven patients at one time who had been adjudged insane, awaiting admission to these asylums. Only two out of seven are violent, but the families of the others are such that they cannot properly care for them. He instanced the case of a day laborer with a wife and three little children. The wife was insane and if he staid about the house to care for her, he could not earn bread for the children. Most of these insane people could be cared for the same as children. It was an outrage to put insane people, who had lucid intervals, in the county jail. The disgrace had a tendency to render them incurable. He had tried to arrange with the Dearborn retreat to care for these cases, at an expense of $5 a week. After he had sent a patient there, they informed him that they found they could get more from private patients and so they had been shut off there. Other counties in the state had made provision for their insane, and in no county was there a more crying need of it than in Washtenaw.

An informal discussion ensued indicating a leaning of the supervisors towards the idea that rooms could be fitted over at the county house. Finally Chairman Hunter suggested that the board were to visit the county house Thursday and if Judge Newkirk would go along he and the building committee could look over the county house and see what could be done. A. F. Freeman, member of the state tax commission, appeared before the board of supervisors Monday and made a plea for them to get all the property on the assessment rolls at its true cash value. He said that if all the counties would do this, then the question of equality of taxation would be solved. He said that in some of the counties of the state the supervisors were working on a one-third basis, some on a half and some on a quarter. The county that approaches the true cash value is consequently paying more than its share and the lowest county is escaping. Menominee and Delta admit that they are on a one-third and one-quarter basis. "I have reached the impression," said he, "that farm properties and small real estate holders in the southern counties of Michigan are paying more than their share. We are, very searching in our investigations and are loading up for next year. In order to get at the true cash value the supervisor will put everybody on oath next spring. They will also be furnished with a list of all live mortgages in their district and the supervisors must ascertain how much has been paid on the mortgages. Next, the commission is going to have a list of all transfers from the register of deeds office from July 1, 1898, to July 1, 1899. The exact consideration, as shown by the revenue stamps, will be given. The county treasurer will look up the tax rolls for three years back, and footing up the considerations and the assessed valuations, will determine just what ratio the real estate is assessed to its true cost value. The tax commission, if it finds a county is keeping the assessed values down, will go into the county and make up the rolls themselves."

The republican majority on the board of supervisors isn't doing a thing but going from one room to another in its house cleaning operations and installing new officers. Monday came the hour for the election of a drain commissioner and, notwithstanding the good work done by Dan. Barry, J. F. Towler, of Augusta, was elected in his place by a vote of 15 to 12.

The democrats present gave Mr. Barry a solid complimentary vote, while the republicans were equally solid for Mr. Towler. Mr. Barry was one of the best drain commissioners the county has ever had and he leaves the office with a record that is a credit to him. Mr. Towler, the new drain commissioner, has served seven years as highway commissioner of Augusta.

So Michigan has a salt trust. Now the dear people will be preserved.

The republican state convention of the old Bay State seemed to have had no knowledge of Old Granny Hoar and Edward Atkinson's anti-imperialistic pamphlets.

It is said that at last the press-censorship is to be abolished at Manila. Thus does the correspondents' round robin bear fruit after many days.

Hizzexcellency came back from his trip to Washington and New York a shouter for Admiral Dewey as a candidate for the presidency.

Those citizens who are making an effort to get President McKinley to put his oar in as a mediator between Great Britain and the Transvaal seem to have no appreciation of the eternal fitness of things.

The opinion of Attorney General Griggs in the Carter case is a document that he who runs may read. There is nothing of ambiguity about it and it sets the disgraced captain's guilt in even stronger light than anything which has reached the public before.

The military preparations Great Britain is making on so grand a scale indicate that she proposes to be prepared not only to do business with the Boers, but any other enemies who may appear.

have no more business to interfere in the Transvaal affair than Great Britain has in the Philippines. But there will be no interference.

Harper's Weekly, which has not been any too enthusiastic over the Philippine policy of the government, professes to see in the recent demonstrations of the people in honor of Admiral Dewey deeper significance than mere hero worship or admiration for the great qualities of the man.

But these unnumbered people from every part of the Union have not come together to welcome the Admiral home only because they admire his courage. There is a deeper meaning of the universal enthusiasm. It is one method of expressing the national consciousness of a new era and a wider outlook on the world.

BLEW OUT THE GAS AND WENT TO BED

NARROW ESCAPE AT THE AMERICAN HOTEL

George Humphrey, of Lodi, and H. Flannigan, of Michigan Center, nearly asphyxiated.

George Humphrey, of Lodi, and H. Flannigan, of Michigan Center, went to bed at the American house Saturday night.

They blew out the gas and came near blowing out their own lives.

About an hour after they had retired, Landlord Staebler went through the halls and his nose told him that something was wrong.

Another hour in fumes would have been fatal.

A DEXTER ASSAULT CASE

"He belted him one. Well, he hit him," said Evan Marsh in the circuit court Monday, who was in the witness chair in the case of Leander D. Alley vs. Daniel E. Hoey, a case brought for damages for an alleged assault and battery that took place at Dexter, February 6.

This case will probably take all day to try. Attorneys J. T. Honey and A. J. Sawyer appear for the plaintiff and Arthur Brown and M. J. Cavanaugh for the defendant.

A Bad Blaze at George Werner's House.

SAYS COLORED MAN DID IT

Kicked Him Off the Porch and Man Threatened to Get Even with Him.

The fire department was called out about 4 o'clock Sunday morning to put out a dangerous blaze at the house 525 Packard st. and occupied by George Werner. The firemen did good work, responding quickly and extinguishing the fire before it had gained too much headway to cause a total loss.

The origin of the fire, as told by Mr. Werner to an Argus reporter, is as follows: "Saturday night I was awakened three or four times by a colored man ringing my door bell. Each time I went to the door he would say that he wanted 'Jones.'

"Then I returned to bed, and about 4 o'clock woke up, hearing the cracking sound of fire. I sleep in the bedroom in the back part of the house, and it was all ablaze. I did not have time to save my clothes, but ran to the front door hollering 'fire.'

OUT SEVENTY-SIX HOURS

The Jury in the Tubbs Higgins Case Agree.

TWENTY FIVE DOLLARS

For the Defendant Was the Verdict and It Caused the Judge to Smile.

The jury in the case of Mary Tubbs vs. Hannah Higgins brought in a verdict of $25 for the defendant at 1:40 o'clock Monday. It was a record breaking jury. It had been charged at 9:10 o'clock Friday morning and had consequently been out seventy-six and a half hours, the longest it is believed any jury has ever been out in a civil case in this circuit.

Monday-moon the jury again came in and reported that they could not agree. They were sent back after a strong scolding from the judge, and with an intimation that he would keep them out until 2 o'clock.

The case arose over some bills assigned to Mrs. Tubbs by her husband, a drayman of Dexter. He claimed that it had been his habit for the past 18 years to go to the Dexter depot, pay the freight charges on goods coming to those Dexter merchants who were his patrons, deliver the goods and sometimes collect the freight and drayage charges; and sometimes he would take the freight bills home and file them in a drawer.
