

TRAGEDY AT STOCKBRIDGE

One Brother Shoots Another and Then Himself.

BOTH DIE INSTANTLY

The Tragedy Occurred Yesterday Afternoon in Their Jewelry Store Without Any Known Cause.

Stockbridge, Mich., Nov. 23.—(Special to Daily Argus.)—A terrible tragedy occurred in this village this afternoon. One brother shot his younger brother and then killed himself. Both men were dead when found in their place of business. Frank O. and George H. Bailey formed the firm of Bailey Bros., jewelers and bicycle repairers. The older brother was about 47 years of age. He had been married but his wife was dead. The younger brother was unmarried. They had never had any trouble and were doing well in business, making money. They were both fine young men and well thought of.

The gruesome act was committed this afternoon and both men were discovered dead shortly afterwards. The older brother left a letter stating that he did the deed. He had shot his brother in the back of the head, and then turned the revolver on himself. The people believe that the act was caused by insanity. A letter to his sister, previously written, stated that something awful was about to happen.

The letter the older brother left contained an account of the finances of the firm, and told where their money could be found deposited. Both brothers were Odd Fellows, and the older one was a Maccabee.

The tragedy cast a gloom over the village, the standing of the men being such and the awful nature of the deed in the quiet village, that an entertainment of the young people, which was to have been held this evening has been postponed on account of it.

A coroner's jury has been empaneled and is holding an inquest.

JUST ESCAPED FROM CRUSHING

Carl Reule, of Durand, brother of Andrew Reule, of this city, is at the University hospital as the result of an accident he suffered Wednesday.

It was a most remarkable escape from a fatality, and the most wonderful thing about it is that not even a bone was broken.

Mr. Reule is a brakeman on the Ann Arbor road. In making the couplings between two sections of a freight train last evening, he got caught between the cars, but turned around just in time to keep from getting crushed but not to save himself from a bad jam.

The hospital authorities state that he will survive.

BILLY JUDSON'S WARDENSHIP

Appointment to State Prison is About to Come.

With the death of O. M. Barnes, of Lansing, a vacancy is caused on the state prison board. Gov. Pingree will appoint his successor before Dec. 1. It has been well known that "Mysterious Billy" Judson had the promise of the wardenship of the state's prison at Jackson many moons ago, but the board was not composed of just the kind of timber that could be joined in such a structure. Mr. Barnes was opposed to any ousting of Warden Chamberlain, and Bills, of Allegan, had given a half promise when he was confirmed, that he would not put Judson in.

"Ping" owes Judson a debt of gratitude that can only be wiped out by the appointments of the wily colonel of Washtenaw's Rough Riders to the care and custody of the Jackson prison. Judson has worked up a political machine for the governor out of the office of state oil inspector that can't be beat. He has deputies all over the state who can "play ball" whenever called upon. It is a team of "ball players" that "Ping" wants.

Now, with a successor to Mr. Barnes, who is favorable to "Billy" Judson as warden, does anyone suppose for a minute that the "Mysterious" Pingree lieutenant will not get his reward about Jan. 1?

TRAUTWEIN IN PHILIPPINES

Jacob Trautwein, with Funeral Director Martin, received a letter yesterday from his son John, a private in Co. D, 16th U. S. Infantry. It was dated at Meycauayan, Philippine Islands. He writes he is perfectly well and enjoying himself. He again repeats he will write to his friends when he gets paper. They had better, therefore, enclose blank paper when they write him if they expect an answer. He says as to their work: "We are having a hot time here just at present. We were attacked the 13th of October, at 11:30 o'clock at night and killed 10 and wounded three negroes. They fired at our quarters, but did not hit anyone, but some of the boys found bullets in their beds in the morning. We belong to the first battalion. Our major's name is Ward. We expect an attack every night, but I guess they will leave us alone hereafter."

"Inclosed you will find a picture of the brigade over the Meycauayan river. I am the third man on the picture. Give my regards to all my friends. I will write and answer letters as soon as I can get some paper."

TRIED TO JUSTIFY HIS IMPLICATION

MANCHESTER'S BIG SLANDER SUIT TOOK TWO DAYS.

Defendant was Found Guilty and has Appealed to the Circuit Court.

There was quite an exciting slander suit in Manchester, the first chapter of which was finished yesterday.

F. P. Maginn, an operator for the Lake Shore Railroad, had Horace E. Bowen, a broom manufacturer, arrested for slander. Maginn alleged that Bowen wrote in to the company asking them if they were in the habit of employing men who ran around after women, applying the same to Maginn.

Bowen tried to justify the truth of the implication by witnesses. But the jury found him guilty, and now Bowen has appealed to the circuit court. The trial in the justice court occupied two days.

LIQUID AIR PLANT IS HERE

It Arrived from Germany Yesterday.

TWO WEEKS YET

Before the Parts Can Be Adjusted in Working Order.

The liquid air apparatus presented to the university by Charles Brush, of Cleveland, arrived from Germany yesterday afternoon. Prof. Freer has the plans for putting it up, and has started the work. He says it will take two weeks before the parts can be adjusted so that he can start up the machine. It will be watched with great interest.

NORTHSIDE SUNDAY SCHOOL

Since the Union Sunday school on the Northside has been graded and re-organized, the attendance has been steadily increasing. Last Sunday the attendance was 113 and the collection $2.22. Not only has the school been favored with an increased attendance, but it has, through its own efforts, supplied itself with many useful things in the Sunday school room, such as a new organ, new song books, a superintendent's desk, primary chairs, etc. But now the school is making an effort to secure a new library and a very successful plan has been adopted. Instead of asking one person to purchase many books, the school has asked many persons to purchase one book by paying to the librarian 25 cents, which pays for the book. At present enough has already been raised to purchase over 50 books, so the school will soon have a nice library. Those who wish to help the school secure the library can send their contribution to the librarian, Miss Grace Nichols, 1029 Pontiac st. Another feature of the school is the People's class for parents and visitors which is frequently taught by Sunday school workers from various schools in the city. Two weeks ago Prof. Coler taught this class and next Sunday E. F. Mills will have charge of it.

SEVEN BISHOPS AND 33 PRIESTS

Will be Here at Dedication of St. Thomas Church.

ALSO ONE ARCHBISHOP

This Gives Some Idea of the Importance of the Exercises.

The dedication of St. Thomas' church next Sunday will be the greatest event in the Catholic history of Washtenaw county. A complete description of the handsome structure which will be formally consecrated to the work of the church has already been given in the Argus. The great importance of the services is best demonstrated by the large number of Catholic dignitaries and priests to be here. Fr. Kelly has received thus far acceptances from the following who will be present:

Archbishop Ireland, St. Paul, Minn.
Bishop Foley, Detroit.
Bishop McGolrick, Duluth, Minn.
Bishop Eis, Marquette.
Bishop Richter, Grand Rapids.
Bishop Maes, Covington, Ky.
Bishop Byrne, Nashville, Tenn.

GETTING MORE AND MORE COMPLICATED

OBJECTIONS AND EXCEPTIONS ARE PILING UP.

In the Litigation Over the Ellis Estate in Probate Court.

The litigation in the Ellis estate is becoming complicated. Mrs. Ellis was a co-executor with Leonhard Gruner, and in her annual account as filed, she makes a statement that she has handled none of the funds of the estate.

The attorneys for Mr. Gruner have filed an objection to the statement.

The attorney for Hudson Ellis and the other heirs have also filed supplemental exceptions to the annual account of Leonhard Gruner, which paper is nearly of the length of the original objections.

BOARD OF EDUCATION PROGRESSIVENESS.

The proceedings of the Ann Arbor board of education Tuesday evening furnish abundant evidence of new and progressive ideas on the board. It is to be hoped the schools will profit thereby, and they undoubtedly will, if these ideas are sustained by board action, as was the case at the last meeting. It is altogether right that teachers should be compensated according to their merit. Ann Arbor believes in a just and liberal teachers' pay-roll. Those who do the hard work should be compensated accordingly. But there should be no salaries paid to any teachers who are rendering no service to the district. The Argus believes the board has no warrant for paying public funds to teachers who are on leave of absence and who are returning no value to the district for the salary paid them. There is not a single right thing about it. Nor is it equitable or just to ask other teachers to do the absent teacher's work without the compensation. The salary of those on leave of absence should be reduced to the vanishing point and divided among those who do the work. Last Tuesday's report of the committee on teachers was a move in the right direction.

The project of giving teachers a day off occasionally to visit other schools is another move in the right direction. More or less of this was done last year, and there is much advantage in it to the schools. The very best way to get new ideas of teaching and to learn of their value is to visit up-to-date teachers and schools and observe the new educational ideas in practical operation. New educational ideas and methods are thus seen as living entities, as it were, and become vastly more helpful than the theory as laid down in a book.

The plan of a more intimate relation between the pedagogical department of the university and the public schools whereby those who are about to graduate with a teacher's diploma can have the opportunity to do some practice work, appears to the Argus to be a good one and of mutual advantage. Not only may the plan be handled without cost to the city schools but at a saving. The young men and women from the university who would do the practice-teaching are thoroughly equipped for the work they would be assigned to, and there could, therefore, be no loss to the city school students from having them as teachers. Whatever work they did would relieve regular teachers to a certain extent and, with a thoroughly worked out plan, might lessen expense of teaching force. There would certainly be no added cost.

PEOPLE APPROVE EXTRA- GANT EXPENDITURES.

The Adrian Press prints a table showing how enormously state taxes have increased in Lenawee county from 1893 to now under this republican reform administration. It shows the dear people that the taxes for state purposes were $53,603.85 last year and this year $101,144.74, and then advises the taxpayer when he goes to liquidate for his part of Pingreeism to take his tax receipt of last year along with him for purposes of comparison. Now, the Press table of taxes is correct; the immense increase is there all right enough; but what's the use of advising the taxpayer to take his last year's tax receipt with him when he goes to pay up. He don't care a hurrah in hades what his taxes are when he comes to vote. He will remember the amount for a day or two after paying and will growl about it, but that will all be forgotten before he comes to vote, and he will hurrah for the same gay deceivers—Pingree et al.—again. The Press has lived long and learned much wisdom, and it is queer that it has not discovered the utter impossibility of raising a political issue on the subject of taxation. Outside of local taxation—that for which the board of supervisors is responsible—no one cares what the amount is. So far as state taxation is concerned, Pingree with his record, which smells to heaven, could be re-elected, hands down. Gov. Winans gave Michigan an administration than which the state never had a better or more economical one; but two years of such administration was all the people would have, and his own party turned him down. The people like extravagance in state and national affairs, and they are getting what they want. It is idle, therefore, to attempt to raise an issue on that question.

No doubt, the wish was father to the thought with the British in sending out reports of the death of Gen. Joubert.

Germany is making as much jubilation over England's bid for her good behavior during Britain's unpleasantness in South Africa, as though Samoa was of some account and profit. So far as Germany is concerned, she has got a gold brick.

Major John A. Logan, jr., the only son of the dashing civil war leader of the same name, was killed on Nov. 12th while leading his men in battle. Young Logan's career has not always been such as could be commended, but he has redeemed himself in the record he has made since the Spanish war came, and in his death he has proved himself worthy of his soldier father and his noble mother.

What would the United States do with sixteen-and-a-half knot cruisers relative to the building of which the navy department has recently been opening bids? The bids were found to be for similar vessels, but with a speed of eighteen and nineteen knots. Congress and the navy department would better shake off a little of their Rip Van Winkleism and remember that no snails are needed for the navy at the present time.

Apropos of the iterated and reiterated statement by the English press that England has the sympathy of the American people in her struggle with the Boers, the challenge has been issued by a Chicago Irishman to test the truth of the statement in any city of the country. No believer in the statement of the English press has shown any indications of acceptance. Their confidence, no doubt, will be best conceived by not accepting.

Gen. Miles needs no vindication relative to the charges he made about "embalmed beef," but if he did, it is at hand. It is stated that the English stocked up with American meats, and on the way to South Africa they were obliged to dump a lot of it into the sea. Those meat-packers appear to be giving American meats a bad reputation across the pond. Let them rise up and explain. This fact will do more to discredit American beef than all Gen. Miles said.

At last General Otis appears to be conducting real war operations in the Philippines. The rapidity with which the three army columns have approached the objective point of the campaign from as many different directions has astonished the natives. The crafty Aguinaldo has not yet been caged, but, in whatever direction he has gone, it would appear that he cannot have a very large force with him. The war will not be at an end, however, until he is captured.

If the Boers are making the best headway possible against Ladysmith and the other cities which they are beleaguering now, what will be their chances when Gen. Buller arrives with a much larger army than the combined British forces now in the field? Of course, the Boers are best at defensive warfare, but if they are unable to defeat the present enemy, it is difficult to see how they can do much more than to temporarily retard the advance of the British and make the campaign costly in lives.

The campaign in Luzon is being pushed vigorously. The new campaign goes forward with the usual American hangtuitiveness, no matter what the difficulties are. Our soldiers, even when having to advance through water waist-deep, continue to drive the Tagalas before them. Gens. MacArthur and Lawton are closing in on Tarloc. On Saturday General MacArthur captured Bamban, next to Tarlac, the strongest position held by the Filipinos. The present capitol of the Philippines is under the hat of Aguinaldo.

The action of the board of regents in creating the position of graduate manager of athletics is to be commended. Athletics have become so prominent a feature of college life, that they should be controlled and managed by some one responsible to the university rather than the student body. This move will secure to the university cleaner athletics. It will be a great advantage to all concerned. It will raise the dignity of the position of manager, and make it sufficiently independent of the foibles of the student body to lead to a steady policy, and this will certainly improve and elevate athletic sports.

The wreck of the United States cruiser Charleston is a serious loss and one greatly to be regretted, but it is scarcely to be expected that the remarkable freedom of the navy from losses should continue. According to reports, the ship was wrecked on an uncharted coral reef with thirty-five fathoms of water on either side. The Charleston was built by the Union Iron Works of San Francisco, and was placed in commission in 1889, and consequently has had about ten years of service. Apparently no one was to blame for the accident, as the ship was caught in a northeast monsoon. It is thought the cruiser will be a total loss.

Although the causes leading to the summoning of a grand jury by Judge Person of Ingham county are not definitely known, it is understood to be for the purpose of investigating certain happenings and doings about the last legislature. Whether anything will be accomplished or not, remains to be seen. That there are those who in the interest of the people and honest government should be brought to book, nobody questions; but whether the requisite evidence can be obtained against them, is another thing. That they are well known to the officers of the legislature and to newspaper reporters is true, but such evidence as will go in court is difficult to obtain. Both parties to such deals are deeply concerned in conducting them without witnesses. Exposure is, therefore, most difficult. However, if the grand jury can discover the evidence, it will deserve the gratitude of the people generally.

British soldiers have again been surprised in South Africa with a resulting considerable loss. An armored train left Estcourt and proceeded beyond Frere, where it encountered a Boer force and was forced to withdraw. But Boers were behind it as well as in front, and they derailed the train. Then they threw shells into it. The British soldiers aboard disembarked and made a heroic defense, but several were killed and more captured, among the captured being a son of Lord Randolph Churchill. The fact is, the British fell into a well laid Boer trap again. While not more than 100 men were lost, the incident has served to convince the English that the projected relief of Ladysmith is not going to be any holiday affair.

The Americans are pressing their attentions so closely upon the Filipino government that the records of that peripatetic organization have been passed into the hands of the Americans for safe-keeping, along with the wardrobe of Mrs. Aguinaldo. Now, the government can get along without those records all right, but how is Mrs. Aguinaldo to attend state functions without that wardrobe? She will have nothing to wear, don't yer know!

The statement comes from Washington that Secretary Long of the navy will resign. This may be true and it may not be true, but it would surprise no one, for the present administration is distinguished above others for the number of its cabinet changes. Secretary Long is an able man and one of the most scholarly in public life. His administration of the navy department has been admirable. About the only discredit to his administration is his continued efforts to cast aspersions upon Admiral Schley. There is nothing more certain than that the people are not with him in these efforts.

The German butchers are making an effort to exclude American meats which are raising Cain with the German raiser and purveyor. There is a meat inspection bill now pending before the reichstag, called a health measure, but really designed to shut out American meats, and American packers are kicking up a great bobby about it. The measure is designed to protect the German beef raiser and others concerned in the sale of meats from American competition. To do this is to follow American precedents, and just why any American believer in protection should kick is not clear. He ought to be willing to take his own prescription without howling, but he isn't and never is. Believers in protection never did believe the other fellow should be protected. However, if Germany should exclude American meats, it might be advantageous to the American consumer. Undoubtedly the present high price of beef in America is due to the effort of the packers here to force their product into European markets, and, in order to do this, beef is sold at a loss there, and enough more is charged the American consumer to make up this loss.

Output of the Klondike.

No one will ever know exactly how much gold was taken from the Klondike fields the past season. Since the English government imposed a royalty the miners have adopted all sorts of ruses to evade the law. It is more difficult to dodge a bad cold and the grip at this time of year. When the system is weakened by such attacks, and the blood becomes thin and impoverished, the best medicine to take is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This remedy builds up the system. Besides regulating digestion, it overcomes constipation. It is good for the kidneys and liver, too, stimulating these organs into the proper performance of their functions. Nothing is so good for malaria.

THE BIBLE OF THE BODY.

Next in importance to a Bible in the house is a thoroughly reliable and easily understood doctor book. With such a book for ready reference, parents can often cure the ordinary family ailments without the expense of consulting a local physician.

The most complete, the simplest and best illustrated book of the kind is the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, written by that famous and successful Buffalo, N. Y., physician, Dr. R. V. Pierce, who has been many years and is to-day treating and curing the afflicted in all parts of the earth. This book has been termed the "Bible of the Body," because it is to the body or physical man what the Bible is to the soul or spiritual man, shedding light and revealing truth. It tells people in every day language how diseases are developed, what the symptoms are and how they can be cured. Its pictures show the appearance of all organs, muscles, and nerves of men and women. It treats upon every phase and complication of disease. The information in this book has been gathered by Dr. Pierce in his world-wide practice, and is founded upon actual experience—not upon theory. More than 1,200,000 American homes contain copies of this book. Formerly it sold for $1.50 a copy. Now it is free. Send 21 one-cent stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., to pay the cost of mailing only, and he will send you a copy of this 1008-page doctor book, bound in paper-covers. If you prefer a cloth-bound copy, send 31 stamps.

Mrs. R. P. Monfort, of Lebanon, Warren Co., Ohio, writes: "I drop you a line to let you know I have received the Medical Adviser. I think it a great prize to get so fine a book for so small a sum. A crisp new five dollar bill could not tempt me to part with it, so you see I am wonderfully pleased over it. My husband said to me, 'That book is worth five dollars to you.'"

SECOND WILL WAS FORGED

Part of Allport Millions Will Come to Dexter.

SUIT JUST DECIDED

Forged Deeds, Forged Wills, Perjury Trial and Other Snsational Developments.

David Rinsey has received a telegram containing the information that the latest newly discovered will in the estate of John D. Allport, the Montana millionaire, who lived, when a boy, in Dexter, has been unanimously declared by a Montana jury to be a forgery. By this decision, Mrs. C. W. Miller, of Dexter, is confirmed in her title to one-fifth of the Allport estate, which includes a quarter interest in the Minnie Healey mine, one of the richest copper mines in Montana. Mr. and Mrs. Miller are at present in Montana, looking after their interests.

The Allport story has been told in these columns before, but now that another judicial decision has been reached a brief recapitulation may prove of interest.

Allport was an old bachelor who died in 1896. He was not in frequent communication with his family, and when he died, only one sister, Mrs. Caroline V. Kelley, of Denver, Col., heard of it. She went on and had herself appointed administratrix, setting up that she was sole heir of the property. While she was settling up the estate, Fagen Bush, known as "Monkey Charley," and several other Chicago swindlers, attempted to get possession of the interest in the Minnie Healey mine by means of forged deeds. While Mrs. Kelley successfully fought them in the courts, having their deeds declared forgeries, the newspaper notices of the suit reached the other heirs, two sisters, a brother and a niece who appeared at Butte, established their relationship and had the estate reopened. Then a will turned up, leaving everything to Mrs. Kelley. It was a paper said to have been sent back by a Klondike miner. This will was so clearly shown to be a forgery that the attorneys for Mrs. Kelley acknowledged the fact. The heirs then got together and were about to sell their interest in the Healey mines when last May another will turned up which was said to have just been accidentally discovered by one of the witnesses. It was drawn by the notary who drew the forged "Monkey Charley" deeds. This will left everything to Mrs. Kelley. This will has now also been declared a forged one.

Besides these suits to get the estate reopened, over forged deeds and two forged wills, Mrs. Kelley was tried for perjury in setting up that she was the only heir, and acquitted on the claim that she believed her brother and sisters to have been dead.

It is to be hoped that the trouble over the Allport millions will now cease.

DON'T EXPECT THE $30,000

The Detroit Journal of Saturday had the following:

"The late Mrs. Ruth Mowry left an estate valued at $30,000, and in her will bequeathed $300 to a servant, gave the income from the residue to her son Granville for life, but at his death a niece, Mrs. Rhodes, of Ann Arbor, was to inherit. All the other nieces and nephews have united in a request to the judge of probate to set the will aside. They state that it was the wish of Mr. Mowry, who died many years ago, that his son should inherit the property, and such was the wish of Mrs. Mowry, frequently expressed."

Mrs. Rhodes states that the article is not correct; that all the heirs are agreed that the son is to have the property, and that she does not expect any inheritance from the estate.

The Simpsonian Rite.

Simpson's restaurant in Bird-in-hand court, Cheapside, London, which recently announced that all French wines were off its list because of the Dreyfus case, was established in 1823 and is known as the Olde Fische Shoppe. It has a daily ritual as famous as the pudding at the Cheshire Cheese at the Table of the Fathers at Carr's. The Simpsonian rite is the guessing of the cheese. Daily a new Cheddar is put on the table, and to each diner is given paper, on which he writes his guess of its height, weight and girth. Then, with reverent ceremony, the president weighs and measures the cheese.

A MOST WONDERFUL CURE

Eminent Physicians Pronounced it Cures
Coldwater, Mich.

"Dear Sir:—I have received great benefit from your White Wine of Tar Syrup. I had a cough and the doctors gave up all hopes of my recovery and pronounced it consumption; I thought that it was death for me. I tried everything that we could hear of. Finally one of my friends prevailed upon me to use your White Wine of Tar Syrup. I took 1½ bottles and am cured entirely. Such medicine I can recommend to those who are afflicted as I was.

A SMOOTHH CONFIDENCE WOMAN

One of the "smoothes" games ever attempted was tried by a strange young woman to get possession of the pocketbook of Miss Matie Goodale, teacher in the Fifth ward school, last Friday.

During the time of day when Miss Goodale was busy at her school, this young woman presented herself at Miss Goodale's home, 425 N. Main st., and rang the doorbell. Mrs. Goodale went to the door.

"Miss Goodale sent me over to get her sketch book, her note book and her pocketbook," said the stranger.

Without suspecting anything wrong, Mrs. Goodale went to procure these articles.

The sketch book and note book were found, but the pocketbook was not to be seen. The two articles were given the stranger, who was told to tell Miss Goodale that she must send back word where her pocketbook was placed.

After the stranger had departed Miss Goodale's sister, who was visiting at the home, started over to the school, with the idea that something was very urgent that caused her to send for her pocketbook. When she arrived there it was found that the strange young woman had simply been playing a "confidence" game; that Miss Goodale had never sent for any of the articles.

It happened that the pocketbook contained $20, and it had very luckily been placed where nobody but Miss Goodale herself would ordinarily find it.

Sheriff Gillen is working on the case.

INDIAN MOUND OPENED

Went to Happy Hunting Grounds
from Above the Huron!

Dr. W. B. Hinsdale, dean of the Homeopathic department, is known to be not only devoted to his profession, but an enthusiastic antiquarian. On Saturday he opened a small Indian mound on a bluff overhanging the Huron river. He found four feet under the surface, under a bed of burned clay, a skeleton of an Indian, evidently buried in a sitting posture. In front of the skeleton, there were two earthen pots containing implement of various kinds. The skull and cross bones were in a good state of preservation. The teeth were particularly good, but much worn. Among the implements were a copper needle, a barbed fish spear, made out of a moose antler; perforated tablets, probably for neck ornaments; flint drills, arrow heads, large and small bone needles and ornaments. There were also a lot of American, common beaver teeth among the articles. Evidently the warrior had been well provided to make his travel to the happy hunting ground as comfortable as possible.

RECRUITING FOR BOERS.

Cincinnati Youth Said to Be Securing Men to Fight the English.

Active recruiting for a filibustering expedition of Americans to aid the Boers in South Africa is going on in Cincinnati. The Cincinnati recruiting agent is Harry Lowe of West Sixth street. He is 21 years old and is a draftsman. He was graduated from Hughes High school a year or two ago. He is a giant in stature and a noted local football player. On the list of recruits already secured by young Lowe are about 30 names of young Cincinnati and Kentuckians. Lowe is the regularly delegated agent of a Washington recruiting agency which is arranging to ship 2,000 men to South Africa early in December.

The official order as received by Lowe directs him to instruct his men to be ready for orders to mobilize on ten days' notice after Dec. 1, says the New York Sun. The mobilization point is kept a secret for fear the United States government would take steps to prevent the sailing of the expedition.

George A. Armes of 1405 F street is said to be the head of the movement in Washington. Lowe has received two letters from him as to the project. In the first letter Armes speaks of a plan to load arms and ammunition for the Boers in South Africa.

A Change in the Maps.

The maps of South Africa are to be changed a little. Germany is looking for more yellow, according to the New Orleans Picayune, and England thinks green would improve it.

FINE PIECE OF ARCHITECTURE

Description of the New St.
Thomas Church.

SOON TO BE DEDICATED

It will be One of the Finest Churches in the State
Ann Arbor's Pride.

The new Catholic church in Ann Arbor, undoubtedly the most beautiful and one of the most costly in Michigan, will become still more celebrated on Sunday, Nov. 26, when it will be dedicated to God by Most Rev. John Ireland, of St. Paul, Minn., Rt. Rev. Bishop Foley, of Detroit, Rt. Rev. C. P. Maes, of Covington, La., and Mgr. Conaty, D.D., president of the Catholic University of America. These prelates will be assisted by some seven or eight more bishops and about 50 priests, who have already accepted invitations to be present.

The building when frescoed will cost about $75,000, and is the most expensive and distinguished improvement ever added to the already classic Athens of the West. It is not possible within the bourn of this article to do full justice to the new church, which is a work of classic and medieval art in all its features. Its style of architecture is strictly Romanesque. The building stands in the middle of a block, all by itself, and is visible from every point of view. In fact, the rear view, which is obtained from the Huron valley and the Michigan Central railroad, is considered by many to be the finest view of the edifice. From these points, can be seen to advantage the stately tower, which is 125 feet high and topped with ribbed Bailey Blue stone and supporting a huge stone cross. There are three large towers and two smaller ones. In the larger or main tower there is an Italian Renaissance campanile spacious enough for the largest chime of bells and well provided with electric lights. There are two more campaniles in the rear towers. The main roofing is all old Spanish tile with old English crosses on the gables, except the N. State st. turret, which is covered with stone. The building is otherwise constructed of field stone and Bailey Blue sandstone. Full advantage of the possibilities of this same field or granite stone has been taken in the work and in consequence we have a charming variety which in no way detracts from the solidity. As far as the silhouette the stone work is all rock-faced or rustic; above the sill-course is random ashlar, while the first story of the main tower is coarse work. There are four main entrances through polished Quincy granite columns, which are surmounted by carved Roman capitals, and these in turn carry immense granite and sandstone arches. Three of these entrances are in front, and one on the east side. Altogether there are 14 granite columns and 14 sandstone columns. There are two large vestibules, the floors of which are laid in Italian Mosaic and the ceilings turned in faultless Roman groin. The main aisle is also laid in Italian Mosaic. What might be called a spacious foyer runs under the gallery and around by the windows in the main body of the church, and is set off from the auditorium proper by 11 large Favianza marble columns.

The ceilings of the foyer are treated in a similar manner to those in the vestibule. The interior, all in white, is most beautiful. The old Roman groin or vaulted ceiling is found everywhere, and lends a peculiar grandeur especially to the great span which carries the center dome. The marble columns have early English Gothic capitals and from these rise cluster columns which carry the heavy ceiling trusses. A heavy frieze studded with electric lights is found on both sides of the church. The electric fixtures are of old black iron and are so distributed that an equal light may be found in every part of this house.

The woodwork is all quartered sawed oak of dark antique finish. The pew, which affords a most comfortable sitting, is plain and massive, with an old Greek cross cut in the top part. In fact, simplicity seems to have been aimed at everywhere, and the effect is astonishing.

The stained-glass windows have not all been put in place, but there is a guarantee that they will be very fine. Raphael's St. Cecilia will be seen in the front rosette window, Murillo's Immaculate Conception in the east rosette window and an Ecce Homo in the west rosette. The five large chancel windows will contain representations of the Nativity, the Crucifixion, the Ascension, St. Edward and St. Joseph. The stained-glass windows, the altar rail and the marble altars have all been donated. The altar rail is a special design and gold lacquered.

The three marble altars are of fine white Vermont marble, which is far more expensive than the Italian. It is not so lively, but its chaste whiteness makes it more desirable for the purpose of an altar. The main altar will stand 16 feet high. The big pipe organ is likewise finished in white, and towers all the way to the ceiling. The building is heated by direct and indirect steam. It is 155 feet long, 90 feet in the transept, and will seat about 1,000 people. The grounds and walks surrounding the church are as beautiful as the church itself and give it a jewel setting in a green sea.

THIS "SUIT" WILL NOT BE "PATCHED" UP

There is trouble among two tailors of this city. William Fulde, by his attorney, Carl T. Storm, has commenced a $5,000 slander suit against Peter Klein. The declaration alleges that Klein told to persons that he was an unfit tailor, that his fashions were out of date, that his goods were old, etc. He claims that this "knock" has taken away trade enough that would ordinarily give him patronage for 500 suits of clothes. The blood between the two men seems to be bad and there is no chance of the "suit" being "patched up."

674 WOMEN IN U. OF M. LAST YEAR

INCREASE OF NUMBER SEEKING SIMPLY CULTURE.

The U. of M., the Pioneer of Co Education, Leading in This Work.

In regard to co-education, Dr. Angell spoke as follows in his annual report today: The number of women in attendance was as follows:

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| Department of Literature, Science and the Arts..... | 594 |
| Department of Medicine and Surgery.....             | 51  |
| Department of Law.....                              | 4   |
| Department of Pharmacy.....                         | 6   |
| Homeopathic Medical College.....                    | 9   |
| College of Dental Surgery.....                      | 10  |

Total.....674

The large number of women who come to the university are preparing themselves for teaching, though there is an increase in the number of those who are simply seeking culture without the intention of entering the ranks of the teachers. Few factors have been more instrumental in the improvement in our public schools, especially in the west, than the opening of the doors of the colleges and universities in which men are trainers, to women. For they have thus been enabled to obtain the same education as men, and both they and the public have come to have confidence in their fitness to give instruction in secondary schools. When we remember how largely the teaching in our high schools is given by women, the importance of this fact is apparent to us all.

CHELSEA PARTIES IN DIVORCE COURT

About a month ago John Faulkner, of Chelsea, filed a bill for divorce against his wife, Clara Faulkner. They were married in 1871 and have children aged 26, 24, 15, and 12 years. He alleged that his wife deserted him two years ago, and made a rather general charge against her of adultery.

Now Mrs. Faulkner puts in an answer in the nature of a cross-bill denying the desertion. She charges her husband with being an habitual drunkard, with calling her indecent names, while charging her with immoral practices; that after their house was burned the husband sold off everything and deserted her. She also charges him with adultery.

THE CHANGE AT NIAGARA

Whoever wishes to see famous Niagara falls in even its already somewhat diminished glory would do well to make his visit at his earliest convenience, for almost every day more and more of the river is finding its way to the gorge below through subterranean channels and incidental turbines. Sooner or later, unless all signs fail, the enterprising seekers for "power" will leave the precipice a dry wall. They are moving slowly and with a wise caution not to strain the patience of grandeur lovers to the breaking point, but they are moving steadily as well, and now and then they venture on an appropriation of really considerable size. For instance, the Canadian Niagara Power company is now preparing to remove from the upper river enough water to do the work of 100,000 horses. This is not much as compared with the total volume of the falls, and yet it is an appreciable addition to the amount already taken, and if the process of abstraction goes on long enough at this rate the silencing of the cataract's roar will be effected at a time well within the reach of computation. We have our doubts whether much will be effected by denunciation of these encroachments. It's all a question of relative values. The world needs energy as well as beauty, and Niagara has both. Utilization of the energy will destroy the beauty, preservation of the beauty wastes the energy. And there you are!—New York Times.

What the Others Look On.

It is intimated that the powers of Europe are eager to try The Hague peace resolutions on Great Britain's African war, says the Pittsburgh Times. It will be interesting to watch the man who approaches the lion to serve the notice.

CHURCH ATTENDANCE

A Number of Different Reasons
Given Why It is So Small.

Dr. W. B. Hinsdale, in his address before the Business Men's Class Sunday, extracts of which were given yesterday, collated the following additional opinions on why people do not go to church:

The following is an interview with a prominent citizen, an attendant at one of the leading churches:

"Answering your question, would give as a great factor, in my church at least, competition in dress. I have set in church and heard the audible comments of women upon the dress, cloak or headgear of another who probably had on the best she could afford. The discipline in protestant churches is less than formerly, and people neither live as circumspectly as formerly or require their children to be punctual or regular in religious observance. A church properly conducted in this city should have 1,000 attendants every Sunday. Laboring men and plainly dressed people can be gotten to the right kind of a church. People are sometimes too tired to attend church or to rig up their children for Sunday school. If there could be a half holiday in the middle of the week for working people, when they might have recreation, it would not, decrease Sabbath breaking and increase church attendance. The increase in church expenditures prevents people in pinched circumstances from going to church. I have no doubt. The crying need is for the old-fashioned church service, where wide boots, overalls, sunbonnets, calicoes, any clothing that is clean, would be tolerated. Several times I have subscribed money to lift a certain debt, and the debt is unpaid today, the money being spent for some new 'fangle.' That kind of business will keep down any organization. I have at various times looked about our church to see the class of people present, seldom finding a laboring man, a mechanic or a working woman. I will frankly say our church does not reach the masses. The audience is made up of university people, merchants, lawyers and women who have got the clothes."

The following is from a university man: "I have felt either a Biblical or a religious duty to attend church service and have felt that all of the churches were doing good work in the world, and therefore should be supported—unless they did violence to the golden rule—and especially those holding a liberal attitude in matters of doctrine and creed. I am also constrained to recognize the social wishes of near relatives and friends in this matter. The church as a social organization should be of much good in the world as its aim is high and its influence is without a moral uplift."

Another university man: "I think the fault lies with the ministers. Very few men are in the pulpit as professional men not because they are 'called.' No one should be endorsed as a minister, man or woman, who has not long tutelage, shown an adaptation to the ministry. The right kind of a clergyman can keep the laymen at work. The children should be trained to go to church. The church habit must be developed."

Another minister states churches are becoming less evangelistic and more club-like. The old line homilizing does not reach any more. We must break away and get with the affairs of the day. Get the magazines, daily papers, automobiles, bicycles, public parks, and lines and other numerous devices keep people from church. In the social settlement and the house work must be developed. Organization and co-operation must be had in order to induce a general religious awakening.

The following letter is from another clergyman:

"Formerly the pulpit was almost the exclusive source of religious instruction, and far more than it is today, was a source of general instruction. The press is undoubtedly a powerful rival of the pulpit in our times—the daily, the weekly, the magazines and reviews are speaking to millions, and many people take their church at home."

The vast opportunities afforded for fortune-building and successful business and professional enterprise have claimed the attention of the church and religious subjects. In the simpler, earlier days, people were more spiritually-minded, consequently more devoted to the church and its services. Along with an ever intensifying activity has developed a new view of life that means to keep the Sabbath. Nowadays men hold more liberal views and seek recreation from the work of the week in ways that tend to their tastes. Tens of thousands pour out of the cities every year for a short excursion, to see the sights, to spend the day, and are not likely to find their way back. In earlier times when

Sunday excursions were not known and would not have been tolerated, people stayed at home and went to church, many of them just to have some place to go, but now there are so many attractions that, with the more liberal readings of the law, they take the people away from our churches."

I have gathered the following from letters not given in full:

"If Paul should come to Ann Arbor he would have a large trunk full of clothing. He would have a 'swallow-tail' coat for dress receptions, a business suit for the Business Men's Club, overalls for visiting the laborers upon the street, or the hard-working, plain farmers. He would be, so far as consistent with good morals, 'all things to all men.' If we would be as mercurial as that with discretion to match, church members would multiply."

Another says: "We are less superstitious than our ancestors. Once men, who did not attend church, were called heathens; now they are called Christians without belonging to any church."

Another: "There is more good reading now than formerly. It is as much worship for me to lie in a hammock on a Sunday afternoon and read a good article as to go to church."

Another: "There can't be churches enough, especially in small places, to suit all religious tastes, so people stay away if they can't hear what they want."

Again: "Church costs so much that many persons cannot contribute what their pride would demand, so they stay away altogether."

SHALL WE DISPUPE

The Opinions of Scores of Our Fellow Citizens?

Residents of Ann Arbor, like other American citizens in making an investment, want to be sure of getting the worth of their money. They want to know all the whys and wherefores, and in a direct ratio to the value of the investment they burrow and ferret until satisfied with the collateral. Take an instance in the realm of proprietary articles. If we know of a friend who has been cured, we have some faith in the preparation; if we know of two or three, our faith increases. If the cures reach scores, all well-known citizens, any one who still maintains that there is nothing beyond ordinary merit in the said preparation can safely be left to the care of his fellow-taxpayers. If he wishes to pick a quarrel with them on the question of their judgment or veracity, he has ample opportunity in Ann Arbor to do so. Begin with this case:

Mr. Edwin Wooley, of 618 Fountain street, carpenter and contractor, says: "I was subject for years to attacks of backache or pains through my loins and kidneys, generally of a constant, heavy, aching nature. A cold or any exposure always affected me. I could not rest well nights and in the mornings felt as tired as when I went to bed. I tried different remedies, but they did not do me much good. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, and having heard them highly spoken of, I went to Eberbach & Son's drug store and got a box. My back was troubling me a good deal at the time, and I began using them. A few doses made me feel better, and in a short time I was thoroughly relieved."

Sold by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no substitute.

If the Baby Is Cutting Teeth

Be sure and use that old and well tried remedy, Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

FOR BENEFIT OF HOSPITAL CIRCLE

Miss Octavia W. Bates, of Detroit, who has just returned from a trip in England and France, will give a talk on some of the interesting features of the International Congress of Women which was held in London in July, and to which she was sent as one of the two delegates from the United States.

The International Congress of Women had among its delegates women of prominence in many lines of thought, and from every land and nationality. Questions of great importance were discussed and plans formulated for future work. In addition to these advantages, the delegates were received at Windsor by the queen, and entertained by a number of high dignitaries. Miss Bates, as a college woman and an American, will give us on Saturday evening, her own particular view of the worth of this great meeting of women and its promise for the future. The proceeds of the lecture will be given for the benefit of the Hospital Circle of the King's Daughters which is struggling to help patients in the University hospital. Date, Nov. 25, 8 p. m., in Harris hall. Admission 25 cents.

Builds up the system; puts pure, rich blood in the veins; makes men and women strong and healthy. Burdock Blood Bitters. At any drug store.

EGGS LAID BY NOAH'S HENS

Would Be Attar of Roses to the Campus Well.

MINERAL WATER STRUCK

There is a Big Supply of It and It Will be Chemically Analyzed.

The much talked of mineral water in the campus well is now a reality it having been struck at a depth of 960 feet in sandstone, or lime rock containing much flint. Before it was struck the hole was dry.

It is the genuine article and has that persevering, indescribable odor that reminds those that are not enthusiasts, of eggs that were stored in the ark and forgotten by the good patriarch Noah. The water raised three or four hundred feet in the pipe. A number of samples have been taken for analysis. This find proves that Ann Arbor can have all the mineral water for a sanitarium that it desires. All that is needed now is the enterprise of some citizen to put up a large sanitarium. With the large amount of advertising the city receives, the enterprise would have more prospects for success than Mt. Clemens or Ypsilanti when they started in business.

Working Night and Day.

The busiest and mightiest little thing that ever was made is Dr. King's New Life Pills. Every pill is a sugar-coated globe of health, that changes weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, brain fog into mental power. They're wonderful in building up the health. Only 25 cents per box. Sold by Eberbach & Son, Schumacher & Miller, Ann Arbor, and G. J. Haussler, Manchester.

Fred Hinz and August Redies got into an altercation Friday night in a saloon. Hinz smashed Redies over the head with a beer mug and knocked him senseless. He pleaded guilty to assault and battery this morning, and Justice Doty fined him $10 and costs.

Philip Maine was up before Justice Doty last week for being drunk and was sentenced to five days in jail. This morning he was brought up again on the same charge. Justice Doty remembered the Maine and stamped a return on him for 20 days more.

South Lyon is in line for the Detroit & North Western electric road that is nearing Northville now. This is a pretty straight "tip," and before another year South Lyon will likely have low rates and better service to Detroit. It is understood that the line will pass the Starkweather farm, three miles west of Northville, where the suburban race track will be located for the purpose of giving races on the Highland Park plan.—Jackson Press.

L. D. Watkins has been something of a hunter in his day, and besides tackling all kinds of wild game that roamed the woods of southern Michigan, he has hunted elk in the wilds of Nebraska. But he has not been very

"sporty" during the past 25 years, and we supposed he had lost all interest in the chase, until we learned that he and Dr. Carrow and Harrison Soule, of Ann Arbor, had taken out licenses to kill deer, and will operate in the forests of Presque Isle county.—Manchester Enterprise.

Fred Huntoon writes the Argus: For your information, will say I joined the 42d Infantry some time ago at Fort Niagara, N. Y., was at once assigned to Co. E, and appointed corporal with promise of sergeant at first vacancy. In our trip across the continent our train was ditched at Castle Rock, Col. Fortunately I escaped with a few bruises. Expect to take Transport Hancock in a few days for the Philippines. Am looking forward to a great trip, and hope to get to the front before the trouble is over. I am feeling fine, and wish to be remembered to all my old friends.

Fire broke out in the building occupied by the American Winger Co., just north of the motor line waiting room, last evening shortly after 8 o'clock. Before the fire department could reach the scene the blaze had gained such a headway that all the contents were destroyed or rendered worthless. It has not yet been learned whether the fire started from the stove in the rear room or from a lamp explosion. Ben Slade, the manager, says he does not know whether the company carried any insurance on the stock or not. He estimates the loss at about $500.

Detroit seems to feel very proud of its liquid air lecture, if one may judge by the way they are advertising it in Ann Arbor, and the price of admission. Ann Arbor citizens will be glad to know they will shortly have the privilege of hearing Prof. Freer lecture and seeing him experiment with liquid air without having to make a trip to Detroit, or paying a high price. Prof. Freer's lecture is in the Unity Club course and will be given as soon as possible after the arrival of the liquid air machine at the university. It was shipped from New York some time ago and is expected daily. With this machine Prof. Freer will be able to make any desired amount of liquid air, and he is planning many interesting and some very unusual experiments.

SOME SALINE NEWS NOTES

Geo. Schairer, J. Henry Fish, Jacob Sturm and Fred Jerry were in Howell on Tuesday as witnesses for the prosecution against Wm. Laing.

A lecture course is being arranged by Prof. Toozee and the pupils of the high school.

A station has been established at the electric railway crossing over the Ann Arbor railroad. A change will be made in the time table of the electric road so as to make close connections with the trains there. The change will be very convenient for the people of Saline and Ypsilanti.

CIGARETTE BOXES GAS JET AND A COT

COMBINATION THAT CALLED OUT FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Innocent Co-Ed Thought That the Shower of Meteors Had Arrived.

A combination of some empty cigarette boxes, a lighted gas jet and a cot bed brought out the fire department and numerous curious people last night to 511 Monroe st. The house is occupied by Mrs. W. M. Ferris and there are several students rooming there. Dangling from a gas fixture directly over the bed were several cigarette boxes. They caught on fire and dropped. The bed blazed up. The fire department, however, was at the scene in time to keep the damage down under $100.

Some sparks were dropping down in front of the window of an unsuspecting co-ed below. She afterwards remarked that she thought the shower of meteors had arrived.

PRaised THE VOLUNTEERS

For Their Bravery in the Philippines.

BRIG. GEN. KING TALKED

And Refuted Some Slanders that the Americans were the Aggressors.

Brigadier-General Charles King appeared at University hall last evening to address the Students' Lecture Association upon "With the Volunteers at Manila," and the tribute he paid to our citizen soldiery was of the highest character.

He said that with the exception of three regiments of infantry, one light battery and one corps of engineers the entire 20,000 of troops were made up of volunteers. They were the quaintest lot of soldiers when they arrived in San Francisco that was ever seen. The western states, many of them, had no national guard. They had to be taught the very rudiments of soldiery. But in six months time they turned out to be a finely developed, adhesive and admirably trained lot of soldiers. Early in the fall it was evident to Aguinaldo and his followers that they could not become masters of Manila. Gen. Merritt knew that only massacre would result if the insurgents were allowed with arms in the city. The disappointment was so great to them that they commenced throwing up earthworks for defense around Manila. The first brigade, of which he was in command, was confronted with lines of insurgents who could fire from the left, from the front, from the right and from the right rear. The brigade consisted of the 1st Washington, 1st Idaho and 1st California. When the storm broke on that line they were found to be the peers of any regulars. They were the heroes of the first day's fight around Manila, and they were volunteers to a man. The insults to our men had been galling but Gen. Otis had said we were not to be allowed to recognize the possibilities of hostilities. Gen. King remarked that he told Gen. Otis it was all he could do to restrain the men. They were being tempted beyond their strength.

In the fight around Manila they stood their ground like veterans of 40 battles. In his brigade, when he gave the word to charge, it was as magnificent a movement as he had ever seen, and the brigade of volunteers had, in 22 minutes, captured everything in sight. He came across a wounded Filipino officer on the battlefield and, dismounting, the insurgent remarked to him:

"I am not so badly hurt in body as in spirit. Whenever we fire at the Spaniards they lay down. When we fire at you, you jump up and run at us."

He testified, he said, as he would before his maker that the Filipinos fired the first shot in the war, and denied that the South Dakota regiment had made the initiation.

"They fell back, step by step," he said, "facing the enemy, and did not fire until after the engagement had been going on at a different part of the lines."

He stoutly maintained that when the Nebraska sentinel challenged the Filipino officer and three soldiers to halt and raised his gun to his shoulder, the insurgents immediately opened fire on that sentinel and it was, quick as a flash, echoed by 500 guns from hidden Filipinos in the bamboos. "Old regular as I am," said he in closing, "I count as the most valuable of my long and varied experience the months I spent as an officer with the volunteers in and around Manila."

WHY UNFILLED CHURCHES

Dr. Hinsdale Gives an Interesting Paper—More in Tomorrow's Daily Argus

Dr. Hinsdale delivered Sunday before the Business Men's Class, a paper
on "Why so Many People Remain
Away from Church, and the Remedy Thereof." He had taken great pains to collect the opinions of many citizens of this city as to the cause, and read the most striking interviews, of course omitting names. The Argus selected a number of the best:

The following is an interview with a bright student in the university: "I am not a church member. My mother is a Presbyterian, my father, if anything, a Church of England." We live in Canada. When Sunday comes I want to rest. After listening to lectures all the week, a sermon does not appeal to me. I was not in the habit of going to church when at home;
father did not go. His way of spending Sunday is to sleep till 11 a. m., take a bath, eat dinner, smoke during the afternoon and read in the evening.
He is a very hard worked office man.
We do not see him at home from the time he leaves Monday morning until 7 o'clock Saturday night. Our sympathies are with the church but not often, our presence. In Canada poor people do not go to church because they cannot stand the style. The Catholics are different. I know a good many workingmen; they want to stay at home Sunday to loaf and rest."

A letter from a Unitarian minister:
"Causes for non-attendance at church. 1. Spiritual lethargy due to excessive worldliness. 2. Distractions of modern society. 3. Deterioration of the pulpit. 4. Discord between dogmas assumed and our present intellectual life. 5. A mildly held feeling that the church is merely a social club. 6. The lack of frankness and sincerity. The causes imply, in a general way, the means of cure."

The following is an interview with
an enterprising Methodist layman:
"Church is a bore to most people.
The reason is that preachers talk too much of Mormonism in Utah and sinners in Mexico; they do not touch the burning needs of their communities.
The preachers that draw the crowds are preaching the every-day gospel of their neighborhoods. I would make the church service attractive. I would have Sousa's Band in the church and not at Manhattan Beach upon Sunday. I would have the U. of M. Band at Newberry hall every Sunday morning. I condemn the pew system.
When you see a congregation grab their hats and start straight for the center aisle after the sermon, you find a religious refrigerator; a church doing more injury than good by freezing people out. I like a religion that thaws a warm-hearted, I am not holier-than-thou religion. When I leave a church house, I like to be asked, not by a printed poster, but by word of mouth, to come again. I go to church regularly and am a so-called hard church worker."

A letter from a Unitarian layman:
"Dear Sir:—You ask my opinion
why people do not more generally attend church. Frankly stated, it is as follows: People do not attend church for the same reasons that they do not attend theaters, a political meeting or a circus. It may be because they are tired and want to rest, because they have no money to spend for that purpose or because they take no interest in what is going on there. It is not worth while to conceal from ourselves
the fact that the church is no longer looked upon by the intelligent Protestant as a specially Holy place and that the Bible is no longer looked upon as a fetish. If the truth is spoken, few people care much today what Paul said or did not say to the Gallatians 18 centuries ago. They can no longer believe that a good man is to be sent to everlasting punishment prepared for the devil and his angels because he cannot conscientiously believe in, or assent to, some metaphysical dogma, or that some hypothetical sinner will be 'justified' and 'saved'
in Heaven forever, by 'faith' in the dogma. In short, people do not attend church because they are no more interested in dull and absurd nonsense when uttered from a pulpit than when uttered from any other platform, and since the pulpit and the platform have reached a level so far as sacredness is concerned. People will not crowd around a pulpit or platform unless they are interested in what goes on there and have the time and money and clothes necessary to make it convenient or decent to do so."

I had the following dialogue with a prominent Episcopalian the other day:
Question—Is there anything the matter with the churches, especially your own?
Answer—Yes, they do not supply
the present want.

Q.—What is the want?
A.—Both intellectual and spiritual.

Q.—What does the church supply
then?
A.—Cold victuals of the last generation.

Q.—What would you call warm
victuals in your case?

A.—New ideas. I get neither new ideas or assistance. Very much that is said in the church is offensive.

Q.—How many non-fashionable people belong to your particular church?

A.—We have half a dozen colored people, a few laborers, and some servant girls. Our pews are free.

Q.—You are quite democratic then?
A.—Yes, thoroughly so.

Q.—Is it true that your church, as charged, seeks out the wealthy as "preferred" religious "risks"?

A.—Yes, as between two men, if one can contribute $100 and the other nothing, we proceed upon the theory that their souls are of equal value, and that $100 is more valuable than nothing, and take the $100 man. We are taught to be not slothful in business, you know.

Q.—Does your church reach the masses?

A.—No, they ought to be reached in this way. All churches should unite in a kind of "trust," have a large hall, an immense auditorium for religious mass meetings upon Sunday afternoon. There should be music, time for conversation, short speeches,
readings and all kinds of elevating entertainment. The church must be the great leader and put all the people upon a common level. Everybody in Ann Arbor would go. We could get acquainted, know our neighbors, brotherly love would be unconfined, and an immense amount of good done.

Q.—Does your scheme suggest a kind of beerless beer garden for Sunday afternoon?

A.—Yes, something of that kind.
There might be refreshments, but it would be a picnic of a high moral and even religious character. It would be better than any Sunday shooting gallery, bicycle riding, social visiting or excursion. Once organized, it would not lack funds to employ the best talent the country affords.

The following is from the pastor of one of the strongest and most flourishing congregations of this city:

"The question you propose is not easily answered. It is one to which I have given no little consideration, but a satisfactory conclusion is still to seek. (Results as far as I have obtained them might be stated somewhat as follows:)

"1. I cannot escape the conviction that the habitual non-attendance of church of so large a part of the population is largely due to insensibility and indifference to the things of the spiritual life. Many seem scarcely aware that they are possessed of souls; that they have any spiritual being to be ministered to. The result very largely, perhaps, of engrossment in things material. The interests and attractions of the world have greatly multiplied and the appeal to worldliness is correspondingly strong.

"2. Changed conceptions as to what constitutes the religious life and the change in the motives to which appeal is commonly made.

"3. Failure on the part of Christian people to manifest the Christian spirit and to live the Christian life as unmistakably as might have been, together with want of manifest sympathy with the distressed classes in the struggles.

"4. Without doubt, the abundance of excellent literature, religious and quasi-religious, is in a measure responsible for the neglect of church services. The one remedy at our command which, as it seems to me, possesses promise of real effectiveness is genuine Christian living, combined with a thoroughly missionary spirit
among the members of our churches.
If church members in the spirit of loving neighborliness would set themselves earnestly at work to make the acquaintance of those who do not attend church and then to induce them to frequent the churches, making them feel thoroughly welcome whenever present, the churches could be filled.
As has been recently said: 'A pastor
is not a porous plaster, to draw.'
Earnest preaching and a helpful service of worship in prayer and song are attractions, but that by themselves
they are inadequate is sufficiently evident. Other expedients which appeal to the love of novelty or to the desire to be entertained, are of little permanent value. The only influence through which I hope for any great and radical good is such a movement of the spirit of God as shall awaken men to their spiritual needs and shall constrain them to Him for their satisfaction. Such a movement, I do not doubt, is to come sooner or later. If I judge rightly, it will be by praying and laboring for such a refreshing by the spirit of God in addition to such effort as is referred to above, that those who would bring the unchurched multitudes to the preaching of the gospel and to the worship of God's house will render most effectual service."

MRS. LOUISE VOLZ
DIES OF APPOPLEXY

A telegram received by Frederick Schmid, of S. Fifth ave., Sunday afternoon, contained the sad news of the death of his sister, Mrs. Louise Volz, widow of the late Rev. Christian Volz, who died at her home in Buffalo, N. Y., from a stroke of apoplexy. Mr. Schmid and his daughter, Miss Emma, left on the night train for Buffalo. Mrs. Volz was the daughter of the late Rev. Frederick Schmid, of Ann Arbor, and sister of Frederick Schmid, Mrs. Christian Mack and Sophie Schmid, of Ann Arbor, and Mrs.
Lydia Kirchhofer and Nathaniel Schmid, of Manchester. She was 62 years of age.

MUST HAVE A BIGGER CAMPUS

To Provide for Future Need of the U. of M.

SECURE ADJACENT LOTS

And Thus Avoid Mistakes of Our Predecessors, as soon
as Means Permit.

Dr. Angell sees the necessity for more ground for university buildings.
In his annual report he says:

The occupancy of so large a part of the campus by our present buildings
and by those that are soon to be added, calls attention to the importance of securing lots adjacent to our present property. It is much to be regretted that purchases were not made years ago. But no one then foresaw the present development of the university.
We should avoid the mistakes of our predecessors, and as soon as our means will permit us, should procure desirable property near us. We should act with a wise regard to the future needs of the institution.

EXECUTION IN SHADFORD CASE

An execution was issued out of the circuit court this afternoon in an effort to collect the $7,000 judgment obtained by Supervisor John Shadford, of the fifth ward, against the old Ann Arbor street railway.

CHANCES FOR A LIVELY CONTEST

JANE LAMB, KILLED BY THE CARS, LEFT NO WILL.

Her Sister now Wants the Property Transferred Back to Her.

There is liable to be a very animated contest over the property of Jane Smith, the lady who was recently killed by the cars at the Michigan Central.

It seems that she and her sister, Mrs.
Rebecca Smith, were joint owners of 200 acres of land north of the city.
Some time ago the Smiths became involved in a legal fight, and Mrs. Smith transferred her share in the 20 acres to Miss Lamb. Miss Lamb left no will and now Mrs. Smith wants her share back. However, as there are other heirs, the chances for a contest seem to be very good.

Wilson, of the Department of Agriculture, will Come if He Can.

Secretary Mills has just received a letter from Prof. Smith, of the Agricultural College, in which he states that the round-up of Farmers' Institutes will be held in Ann Arbor, Feb.
27, 28, March 1 and 2, as was agreed upon here.

He also writes that he has just heard from Secretary Wilson of the Agricultural Department at Washington. Mr. Wilson says he will surely be here if he can, but will not promise so far in advance. But he adds that if he does not come personally, a representative of the department of agriculture will be here to take an active part in the exercises.

What Do You Pay For Coffee?

That's a practical question! Are you paying too much? If you're paying a high price, you're probably paying as much for a name as for the coffee.

Arbuckles' Coffee is a plain, substantial coffee with an excellent aroma and delicate flavor, sold in a substantial way at an honest price. You don't want better than good coffee, do you? You can't afford to pay twice the price that's necessary, can you? Then why not get Arbuckles'? Get right down to the coffee question and settle it now. By buying many millions of pounds we buy the best of many large plantations at a low price. We sell it to you at a low price because we would rather sell millions of pounds at a low profit than a thousand pounds at a big profit.

Arbuckles' Roasted Coffee

is the daily beverage on millions of tables. Why not on yours? There's an additional consideration in the many substantial and useful articles that go with the coffee. Ask your grocer for it. He'll tell you all about it. If he endeavors to substitute an imitation, insist on getting the genuine Arbuckles'—or go elsewhere.

Mortgage Sale.

WHEREAS, DEFAULT HAS BEEN MADE in payment of the money secured by a mortgage dated the 8th day of May, A. D. 1889, Executed by Grace T. Tolson, of Dansville, Ingham County, Michigan, to Sabina J. Hale, of Dansville, Ingham County, Michigan, which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of the County of Washtenaw,
in Liber 13 of mortgages, on page 207,
on the 8th day of May, A. D. 1889, at 8 o'clock A. M.

And whereas the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice is the sum of fourteen hundred and forty-five dollars and fifty cents, $1445.50, of principal and interest, and the further sum of twenty-five dollars ($25.00), as an attorney fee stipulated for in said mortgage and which is the whole amount claimed to be unpaid on said mortgage and no part or proceeding having been instituted at law, to recover the debt now remaining secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof where by the power of sale contained in said mortgage has become operative.

Now therefore notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the said power of sale, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises therein described, at public auction to the highest
