STATE PRESS ASSOCIATION.

Extracts from Articles Published by the Various State Papers on the Meeting of the Michigan State Press Association, Recently Held in Ann Arbor.

Hubbardston Advertiser, Feb. 4.

The State Press Association met at Ann Arbor last week Tuesday, and was attended by over seventy editors, many of them accompanied by their wives or daughters. The local press of Ann Arbor and the citizens of the place vied with each other in extending hospitality to their visitors.

The first session was held in the handsome new court house in Washington county, which decidedly eclipses the court house at Ionia; it is a handsome building, and has been completed but a year or so.

About half past two the Association proceeded to give a banquet to the guests, and a party was given at the University of Michigan, an institution that should be the pride of the State, but which is certainly most miserably provided for in many respects.

We then visited the law department building, in which are kept the general and law libraries, and the law lecture-room. The former is stocked with nearly 40,000 volumes, and is totally insufficient in its capacity for the work which is put in both on capital and extent of room.

Among the treasures stored here is a book some 350 years old, neatly preserved in black leather, and containing the laws of the State of Michigan. The law library lacks still more woefully in both the size of the room and the number of its volumes; think of 400 law students doing all their library work in a room of this size!

In the lecture-room Judge Cooley was delivering a lecture on marriage to over 400 students, many of them being ladies, and all provided with seats.

At three o'clock the parties went to the University grounds, in irregular but cheerful procession; and led by President Angell (himself an editor for eight years, formerly in Rhode Island), they proceeded first and foremost, as it was time permitted, in actual spectators.

THE UNIVERSITY'S WORKING MACHINERY:

1. General library, extremely crowded with students, scanty in books, and rather dark for reading.
2. Law lecture room, with Judge Cooley talking to a class of 400, on the law of marriage.
3. The dental school, with sufferers from aches or decayed teeth undergoing operations.
4. Hospital for "regular" treatment, with patients in different stages of illness.
5. Homeopathic lecture-room, where Prof. Wilson made some points, yet appropriate remarks to the "press gang."
6. Museum, where many wished to tarry longer, but which will soon be even more attractive in its new and elegant building, with the Beal-Steele collection of geological specimens.
7. University hall, where 2,800 students can be seated, all within seventy feet of the platform, and all in sight of a speaker.
8. Chemical laboratory, complete with modern apparatus, and with experiments made under way, and flames and fumes not of a fragrant nature.
9. Medical and physiological museums, containing strange specimens curiously prepared.
10. Medical lecture-room, with a demonstration in the anatomy of the heart, with the knife in hand and a corpse before him, by Prof. Ford, who has for twenty-six years taught this science here.
11. Chemical lecture-room, with an illuminated lecture on the electric light, and dazzling illustrations of the different uses of electricity.
12. Chemical lecture-room, who so fully enlightened the State Legislature on kerosene oil last winter.

THE SUPPER AND SENTIMENTS.

It was now after six o'clock, and physical hunger began to be felt. An interval of rest was observed. The party was invited to the lecture-room for the literary classes, where tables were spread for about 100 guests. Grace was asked by Rev. Prof. Wilson. The feast consisted of oysters, raw and scalloped, cold ham, crackers, biscuit and butter, cake of three kinds, pickles, tea and coffee, ice cream; the victuals were served out abundantly on so public an occasion.

After the feasting, and at convenient intervals during the speaking which followed, the ladies, a singing club of six students gave characteristic and comic songs, with hearty applause.

Mr. Bailey of the Ann Arbor Argus moved that the next annual meeting of the association be held in June; but this motion was not supported, and under the invitation of the association, the annual meeting should be held in January, February or March.

Geo. F. Lewis moved the appointment of a committee on the part of the association, to confer and act with the executive committee of the association. The committee is W. S. George, J. E. Scripps, L. A. Duncan, G. P. Lewis, L. B. Kenyon.

Resolutions of regret and rebuke were adopted in regard to the withholding of about $50 of funds belonging to the association, and the resignation of J. A. Beal, treasurer of the old association. Letters had been written him by the association, but without any reasonable reply or explanation.

The secretary was instructed to publish in pamphlet form the proceedings and papers of the association at this meeting.

Resolutions of hearty thanks to the citizens of Ann Arbor, the University and its faculty, and especially to R. A. Beal, of THE ANN ARBOR COURIER, were adopted.

GO TO WINANS & BERRY—FOR—MERCHANDISE DEALING

The new building going up for museum purposes will be quite an addition to the institution. We expect it will be mainly devoted to the Beal and Steere collection.

Ann Arbor is a very pleasant city, situated on the Huron river, a small stream, yet one of the finest in the State, and one of its proudest, and one which will yet be to our State what the New York Central is to New York. We were the guests of Prof. Steere, who took particular pains to give us a full view of the city, and its many fine buildings, and we feel under lasting obligations to himself and wife for the many courtesies to us and our other half.

It is to be hoped the next Legislature will take measures to relieve the University of its pressing wants. An institution with over 1,400 students, deserves more liberality than has been given it of late years.

At 2:15 the convention met again, most of the members having been escorted by the hospitable citizens of Ann Arbor. Only about half a dozen ladies appeared among the "press gang."

Lansing Republican, Jan. 29.

It is to be hoped that an official call, about seven of the editors and publishers of Michigan newspapers met at the court house in Ann Arbor at 11 A. M. on Tuesday. It was the largest assemblage of the kind ever held in the State, and marked throughout by hearty interest and good humor.

visit hereafter, as the occasion was one of great interest to all present and to ourselves particularly, for the generally and personally formed will not soon be forgotten. Among those we are pleased to mention the names of Mr. W. H. Redd, Rev. Dr. Cooley, Rice A. Beal, Rev. Dr. Steere, and Justice, and Theodore Taylor and family, all of whom will please accept our acknowledgments for courtesies extended us.

Adrian Times, Jan. 30th.

There was a large gathering of the printing fraternity of the State, at Ann Arbor, Tuesday, the largest gathering of the kind that has ever taken place in the State. Fully a hundred ladies and gentlemen were present, and the sessions of the association were very interesting.

This was exceedingly interesting. The tour of the several departments was made under the leadership of President Angell, who spared no pains to make pleasant the day for the guests, and to make the tour, thence to the dental college, and thence to the hospital, and the homopathist college. Here the visitors were favored with a different and very interesting museum, the University of Michigan, and the tour was exceedingly interesting.

paid Ann Arbor a visit last Tuesday. There were present about seventy representatives, some of whom were accompanied by their wives and daughters.

The local press of the city, together with many of its citizens, displayed a degree of hospitality not before attained through the association at other localities.

Representatives were met at the depot and provided with checks for a free ride to the beautiful and new Court House, where at 11:30 the association was called to order by President Sanford, of Lansing, for a brief session. The Press of the State was warmly welcomed by an address from R. A. Beal, of THE ANN ARBOR COURIER, and characterizedly responded to by Geo. F. Lewis, of Saginaw. A formal invitation was then extended by President Angell, to visit the University in the afternoon and Friday, and was accepted by the members of the association.

Now a few words to R. A. Beal, President Angell and the citizens of Ann Arbor: By your courtesies and kind hospitality, there has been no one who has not been fully and pleasantly accommodated and conducted this. From the time that the members arrived at the depot, to their return, they were treated with the most kind and thoughtful attention, and we are indebted to you for the many courtesies which you have bestowed upon us.

The Michigan State Press Association held its annual reunion and business meeting at Ann Arbor, Tuesday last. The good people of Ann Arbor showed their hearts and homes and literally took the editors and the pencil drawers were willing to do anything to make a comfortable and enjoyable stay for the delegates.

The meeting of the Michigan State Press Association at Ann Arbor, Tuesday last, was called to order at 11 o'clock, A. M., in the court house. Over 700 delegates and 1,400 citizens were present, and the delegates having their wives with them. The honorary roll was added by a unanimous vote to admit all ex-editors and proprietors of the Press and Journal, and the Hon. R. A. Beal, of THE ANN ARBOR COURIER, President of the Association, delivered an address of welcome, in which he reviewed the progress of the Press and Journal, and the Hon. R. A. We had the pleasure, last Tuesday, of attending the annual meeting of the Michigan State Press Association, held at Ann Arbor. The different delegations were met at the depot, and the most cordial and generous invitation to the new court house, the use of which was kindly tendered to the association, by the authorities, for their morning session. After organization, R. A. Beal, of THE ANN ARBOR COURIER, delivered an address of welcome, which was responded to by George F. Lewis, of the Saginawian. In the afternoon the association proceeded in a body to the University, by invitation of President Angell, and duly inspected that institution in all its departments. The following were elected officers of the association:

President—Rice A. Beal, Ann Arbor; Vice-Presidents—L. A. Duncan, Niles; Geo. F. Lewis, Saginaw; M. D. Hamilton, Monroe; Treasurer—E. S. Hoskin, Battle Creek.

Ypsalanti Commercial.

As yet recorded, the largest gathering of representatives of the Michigan press assembled at Ann Arbor on Tuesday last. It was a gathering of many that had not before been met, and the delegates were most cordially received by Messrs. Beal and Waterman, of THE COURIER; Dean and Myrick, of the Register; and the Hon. R. A. Beal, of THE ANN ARBOR COURIER, who all were to the last degree hospitable, and the faculty showed their kindness by throwing open the University to the inspection of the delegates, and by granting the use of one of the lecture rooms for the evening session of the association. A passing glance at the University showed that it was doing a great work, and that the Michigan press, as a body, was in a most flourishing condition.

The annual gathering of the Michigan State Press Association was held at Ann Arbor, Tuesday, the 27th ult., and was the largest assemblage of the kind ever held in the State. Between 70 and 80 editors and publishers, some of them accompanied by their wives and daughters, were present. The people of Ann Arbor and the local press showed their cordial and hospitable feelings toward the delegates, and the Michigan State Press Association was most cordially received.

MICHIGAN AND THE PRESIDENCY. Just at the present time the political world of this country is stirred from Maine to California on the Presidential question.

A terrible murder (or murders) was committed near Lucan, Ont., last week. The family of James Donnelly had been engaged in numerous quarrels, and one night a masked gang of their neighbors went to his house and killed Donnelly and wife.

TO MY FRIENDS AND PATRONS.

I would say: Do not be alarmed about high prices, and the great advance in Goods that is so much talked of to happen in the near future. It is mostly talk, for any reasonable and thinking person will see at once that there is no excuse for it.

READY-MADE CLOTHING. SPRING AND SUMMER WEAR. Were purchased by manufacturers last Fall, when there was scarcely any advance, and with the great competition in the United States, one can easily see that there is no reasonable reason for an advance this Spring.

Clothing, Hat, Cap, and Furnishing Goods Trade. In Ann Arbor, I will have something to say about prices of merchandise in my line. I might add here, that I have not made as absolute a change in my business as I first desired and thought I would; but, owing to present circumstances, I am glad things have shaped themselves as they have.
