

THE BEGGARLY SALARIES.

A cry has been raised by some of the papers of this state that our supreme court is being kept upon "starvation" wages. If this be true, it seems strange that after a man has once been chosen an associate justice of our supreme court, that death or a higher office alone can drive him out of the position. The different members of the court seem to thrive pretty well. They own fine residences and live in a manner which would bring joy to the hearts of not only the "starving," but to a majority, and a large majority, of the people of our state.

OUT OF SEASON.

The following paragraph shows the sort of gibberish and balderdash Brock Pomeroy dishes up to his readers in his Denver paper, The Great West:

Are you, dear reader, not heartily sick of the frauds, jobbery and favoritism that is practiced by those you have placed in power? Do you not feel that you must have relief from the rich aristocrats and monopolists that are now grinding you into the dust and heaping taxes upon you that are almost unbearable? If you are, why do you not take steps to relieve yourself?

NOTES EDITORIAL.

"Doeds are fruit; words but leaves," says a wise one. True. But isn't it astonishing how little fruit some people bear? Out of ten important cities in Missouri holding their municipal elections this spring, the republicans have carried nine. There's a ray of light in Egypt.

WEEDING OUT THE BAD.

It has often been said, and truly, that the republican party is capable of purifying itself, and a fine illustration of this is now being made by Postmaster-General Ames. He has commenced by weeding out Gen. Brady, second assistant postmaster-general, under whose management for years the star route service has been.

THE KEROSENE OIL LAW.

This law has been spoken about several times in these columns. We have never thought it a good law, because we have always believed it to be in the interest of a monopoly. We have thought, and still think, that the people are robbed that one-half may prosper. Other states pay one way for their illuminating oils than our own, and no more danger from explosions or conflagrations therefrom than we do.

THE KEROSENE OIL LAW.

Not long since we adverted to the enormous tax levied upon the consumers of illuminating oils in this state, by what is known as the "Michigan test law," amounting in the aggregate, the past year, to $350,000 or $400,000—in fact, doubling the cost of this article to them. This tax levied, as we showed, did not come from increased cost in the manufacture, but was levied on the pockets first of the refiners engaged in manufacturing the "Michigan test" of 120 degrees; and second, the wholesale dealers at Detroit and other distributing points, which monopoly would be broken down were our dealers permitted to go into the Cleveland market and supply themselves with standard oil of 110 degrees test; the average quotations of which do not exceed thirty cents per gallon, while the "Michigan test" is quoted in Detroit at an average of eighteen to twenty cents. The legislature had the workings of this law brought to its notice; and it seemed to be some reason for the recent sudden decline beyond what appears on the surface. If the financial editor of the Post would turn over its files for the past year and examine its oil reports, it will find the standard white oil of 110 degrees quoted at Cleveland not to exceed eight cents per gallon; but he will find no report of "Michigan test" until it reaches Detroit, where he will find it quoted, on an average, at more than double that figure. And he will find the monopoly of the Cleveland market was compelled to be removed by the repeal of the "Michigan test" law, and her people relieved of a most onerous tax.

JAMES T. FIELDS.

Last Sunday evening, April 24th, James Thomas Fields, the publisher, lecturer, and author, died very suddenly of heart disease, at his home in Boston. He was sitting in his chair listening to a book which his wife was reading, when without a moment's warning his heart ceased its action and he expired, in a breath. He was a man dear to literary people. Born at Portsmouth, N. H., Dec. 31, 1817. Commenced life as a clerk. At an early age gave evidence of great literary taste; at 21 became a partner in the publishing firm of Ticknor, Reed & Fields, which became famous wherever book knowledge had gained a foothold. He was instrumental in the establishment of the Atlantic Monthly, about 1855. In 1876 Mr. Fields retired from the publishing house. He then took to the lecture field, and published a few books, the most notable being "Yesterday with Authors." He was a man beloved by all who knew him, and an honor to the country.
