The sermon preached by Rev. Dr. Cocker at the funeral of Mrs. Harriet A. Alabaster was a grand funeral oration and a fitting tribute to the deceased.

Smith McComber, one of the pioneers of this county and a resident of Pittsfield, died last Sunday. He was a farmer and bore the name of being a good neighbor.

Last Monday all the doctors that were not out of town were sick. How the unfledged assistants chuckled in their sleeves as they dealt out the calomel was previous to behold.

The walk running from the western doors of the court house to Main street has been extended across the street, making a convenient crossing for all the business men in that block.

The regular term calendar of the circuit court for Oct. 1881, shows the following list of cases: Criminal, 17; Issues of Fall, 42; Issues of Law, 4; Imparliament, 1, and Chancery, 21.—Total 85.

Three colored students from the college at Harpers Ferry mutilated at Hillsdale college last week. They intend to graduate there, and then return to their former school at Harpers Ferry.

Every one should remember that the Art Loan Exhibition is still in full blast. Not feeling able to do it justice by a word description, we advise every one to go and see this great display of rare curiosities.

Travel on the Toledo and Ann Arbor Railroad is good. It is reported that an eastern party intends to extend the line from South Lyons to Port Austin. The engineers are already at work running out the line.

The steam fire engine was brought out on Wednesday evening, to test its strength as well as to learn the nature of the repairs needed. It seems that the engine has been injured through misuse, but now an engineer has been secured who is able to manage it.

The first meeting of the fall campaign in the new Opera House will be held Sunday afternoon, October 23rd, and will be addressed by Hon. Robert E. Frazer of Cheboygan, and several of our most prominent citizens. Let there be a large turn out!

At the annual meeting of the Ladies' Benevolent Society of the M. E. church, held Oct. 12th, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. John N. Bailey; Vice-president, Mrs. D. Cramer; Secretary, Mrs. A. W. Ames, and Treasurer, C. H. Worden.

Before another issue of THE COURIER the Kellogg Concert Company will appear in University Hall. Wednesday night, Oct. 26th, is the date fixed for the entertainment, and it will be one of the richest musical treats that this city ever favored with.

The city library of Lowell, Mass., is making a collection of local papers containing notices of the death and burial of the late President Garfield and general news in regard to the local memorial services. The object is to preserve them for future reference.

"The ambition of many of the young ladies attending school is to obtain a university diploma, but the height of fame which others aspire to is to procure a marriage certificate." This is what an exchange says about High School girls. It don't apply to college girls.

Mr. Albert Lohr and Miss Louisa Schulz were married on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the residence of the bride on Spring street. The present was numerous and beautiful. The bride and bridegroom left for the East on the 2 o'clock train yesterday morning.

At the Monday's meeting of the Board of Supervisors, the credentials of Peter Cooper, as supervisor pro tem, of York, in the place of J. W. Blakeslee, temporarily disabled, were presented and received. On Tuesday C. H. Richmond was added to the committee on public buildings.

Prof. T. P. Wilson of the University is arranging a course of temperance lectures by the best talent of the nation to be delivered in this city, and also in all the cities and larger towns in the State. This is a large stride in advance, in a thorough agitation of this great question.

The young people of the Congregational church are making preparations for holding a Dickens social. The time appointed for the entertainment is the evening of the first Saturday in November. The characters of some of the Dickens' novels will be represented by the young people in costume.

It will be remembered that the body of Captain Chaffee, who died in the Wayne county insane asylum, was consigned to the pickling vats in the University, and a few of his friends in this city raised enough money to give him a decent burial. It has now been ascertained that Mr. Chaffee had an insurance on his life to the amount of $2,000. The money raised by his friends will now be returned, but the remainder will, probably, go to his wife.

We acknowledge the receipt of an address delivered by the Rev. John Alabaster, D. D., before the Pastor's Institute of the Detroit Conference at Port Huron, Mich., and published by request of the conference. It is but one of Dr. Alabaster's very able discourses which the people of Ann Arbor delight in hearing.

A fine portrait of the late J. G. Holland has been received at the Courthouse office through the kindness of the Century Co., publishers of the magazine heretofore known as Scribner's Monthly Magazine, of which Dr. Holland was editor. Any token of remembrance of the great author is a treasure that will be preserved.

The lady classmates of Miss May Alabaster, as a token of their sympathy with her in her great affliction, sent her a beautiful harp of flowers. This was placed among the beautiful floral offerings at the altar. After the services were over a photograph of the altar and pulpit as draped and decorated was taken by Mr. Lewis.

John Laing died at his residence in this city, on Saturday morning last at 3 o'clock. The funeral occurred under the orders of the Turner band society of which he was a member. Mr. Laing has been very long with consumption for some time past. He was for a long time a member of the old German band. He leaves a wife and three children.

The University temperance meeting on Tuesday evening was of a business order and resulted in the election of a list of canvassers from each class in the departments. Another meeting will be held on Monday evening next at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. to organize the canvassing committee, and to take action determining the course of temperance activities for the season.

A large congregation assembled at the Episcopal church last Sunday morning to witness the ordination of Professor Moses Coit Tyler. The services were very impressive. Bishop Harris, of this diocese, officiating. The sermon was preached by Bishop Lyman, of North Carolina. In the evening Professor Tyler delivered a very eloquent discourse on "Pontius Pilate's Crimes."

The Supervisors have elected T. D. Horton, of York, janitor of the Court House, at a salary of $500 a year, by a vote of 17 in his favor to 8 for Jeff. Davis. Mr. Horton should keep the building in good order, and if his present salary is not enough, the Supervisors should make it more. This great and wealthy county is able to pay a decent salary, and it is a disgrace to the county to pawn the job off to the lowest bidder.

While the fire engine was in operation on the corner of Fourth and Washington streets, Wednesday evening, a horse belonging to Conrad Binder, of West Liberty street, that was hitched in front of the meat market on that corner, became frightened, broke loose, and ran for some distance down Washington street, toward Main. The harness giving away, the buggy was soon left behind, and the horse made its way home. Neither the harness, the buggy, nor the horse received much injury.

Upon the examination of the report of the superintendents of the poor of the county, we find the following facts: That loans amounting in round numbers to $15,000 have been paid. That the cost of maintaining the poor at the county house, and outside the county house is a little over $8,000, some $5,000 less than last year; that the cost per week for each inmate has been $1.11 against $1.40 last year, and that after paying the loans and supporting the poor at the county house, including temporary relief to transients, there is a balance in the treasury of $1,300. The county, so far as relates to the county poor, is now out of debt with a good balance in the treasury.

On Wednesday evening, October 26, Miss Clara Louise Kellogg will sing in University Hall. This announcement ought to fill every seat in the house. Miss Kellogg is undoubtedly the best soprano singer in America. She will be accompanied by five of the best musicians that could be found.—Sig. Brignoli, tenor; Miss Als Peace, contralto; Sig. Tagliapietra, baritone; Herr Liebling, pianist, and T. Adamowski, violinist. This makes a troupe that never has been excelled. Tickets will be sold for 75 cents, reserved seats at no extra cost. Seats can be secured to-morrow morning on or after 9 o'clock, at the usual places. No one should fail to attend.

Out of the 229 students examined for admission into the Literary Department, 192 have been admitted. Two of these enter the fourth year class, five the third and three the second.

The Detroit Evening News of the 17th says: "The telegraph brings intelligence of the sudden death at Yankton, Dakota, of Gen. G. D. Hill, formerly a well-known business man and politician of Michigan. He was among the early settlers at Ann Arbor, where he accumulated quite a large estate, and was an active politician about the time of the organization of the Republican party, and for some years after. His military title, we believe, dates back to the days of the old State militia, and was not won in battle. For some years he held the responsible post of surveyor-general of Dakota, and more recently figured as lobbyist at Washington. Unfortunately a passion for strong drink gradually undermined his strong constitution, and to those who saw him a few weeks ago in Detroit, on his way to Yankton, the news of his death will be a surprise."

We have tried our best to imagine that there is some truth in the acknowledged opinion that there is a means by which poor passengers on Catherine street can get across Detroit street. As Charon, the boatman, is still supposed to be employed at the other river Styx, and as the city furnishes no gondolas or other means of navigation in a semi-litigious medium, we fall to see how any community can expect a person to get from one side of the street to the other any where in that vicinity. We can stand broken legs caused by holes in poor sidewalks, but it is not coming to losing one's best three times a day and destroying seven pairs of pantaloons' legs a week, we fall to see just where the advantage is in having such a filthy hole within the city limits. It would be an agreeable surprise to us to go home some day and find a respectable crossing there—a surprise indeed for it has been in its present condition since time immemorial.

The entertainment given by the Little Concert Company last Friday evening was well attended. The audience did not fail to show which singers they preferred to hear. Miss Little came fully up to our expectations. Her voice was rich, and she seemed to have it under good control. Miss Mc Lane played a grand many. Her selections were made more in accordance with the tastes of the audience than those of any other member of the troupe, and she received hearty encores every time. Mr. Skelton and Mr. Graham seemed to be unfortunate in the selection of their music, to say nothing about their rendering of the same. Some of the selections were old to Ann Arbor audiences, and we have heard the same pieces better rendered. Mr. Skelton, at the corner, was encored every time as he deserved to be. Every one seemed to be well pleased with the new plan of reserving seats. As the night was very stormy, this alone secured the Lecture Association a good house.

Alfred P. Burbank will give a reading in University Hall to-night. As a humorous and dialect impersonator, Mr. Burbank has an enviable reputation. Unless he displayed real merit the New York Herald would not use such terms as the following. In speaking of a reading given at Chickering Hall, that journal of March 8, 1879, says: "The piece selected for the opening of the course was 'Rip Van Winkle,' as played by Joe Jefferson, the whole of which, with a few unimportant exceptions, being recited from memory by Mr. Burbank. The characters of Old Rip, Gretchen, Mina, Derrick Van Beekman, Minna's lover; Henry, and all the others, even to the little village children, and not excepting Rip's inevitable dog 'Schneider,' were brought as vividly before the mind's eye as if the piece with the usual cast and surroundings was being performed on the stage. Mr. Burbank's dialect rendition of Rip Van Winkle approached so near Jefferson's as to seem almost a part of it, or simply a translation of the action from the stage to the platform."

Gone to Her Reward.

From the Daily News of Oct. 17th.
Mrs. Harriet Ann Alabaster, wife of the Rev. Dr. Alabaster, pastor of the M. E. Church in this city, died at her late residence on Washington street this morning at one o'clock, of quick consumption, aged 48 years and three months. The deceased had been ailing for the last seven months, and the best medical skill that could be had was procured, but without apparent avail. From the earliest stage of her illness up to the hour of her death the deceased seemed to be conscious of her condition and that she could not recover. When the dread moment, therefore, for the final parting came, it found her entirely resigned to the change. With her loved ones about her and knowing that she was taking her last farewell of them all and of earth, her spirit passed away as softly and sweetly as if falling into a calm and blissful sleep. It is not too much to say that no event of the kind that has occurred in the city for a long period has caused more widespread and deeper sorrow than the death of Mrs. Alabaster, whom to know was but to love and esteem.

In domestic life she was a model wife and mother. In the social circle she was greatly beloved for her amiability and gentle ways; while as a christian she was above all possible reproach, and an earnest co-worker with her husband in the great cause of religious ministrations. The funeral services will be held to-morrow afternoon at the Methodist Episcopal church at 3 o'clock, the Rev. Dr. Cocker officiating. It should be born in mind that no services will be held at the house for obvious reasons.

Mrs. Alabaster was born at Rochester, N. Y., in 1833, and received her education at the Western academy at Lima, N. Y. She resided at Rochester up to the time of her marriage, which took place July 25, 1850. She had been an exemplary member of the Methodist Episcopal church for over 30 years, and leaves a family of five children as follows: May M., aged 19; Francis A., aged 15; J. Lewis, aged 12; Fanny D., aged 9; and Minnie O., aged 7. The body will be taken to Geneva, N. Y., for interment at that place with a daughter, immediately after the close of the funeral discourse at the church to-morrow.

The deceased family have the deepest sympathy of all law-abiding and true citizens in their hour of saddest affliction, and their earnest prayers that as their days so may their strength be. The ministerial labors of the Rev. Dr. Alabaster will continue the same as heretofore, and will not be affected in any way by the sad event that has deprived him of a dearly beloved wife and christian help-meet, and placed upon his hands entirely the additional charge of his now motherless and sadly bereaved children.

On Monday the 19th inst. was unveiled a monument commemorating the victory of Yorktown. The continental congress voted that such a monument should be erected nearly one hundred years ago. The subsequent financial difficulties made it impossible to carry out the project, and in after years it was forgotten, until the approaching celebration reminded congress of the long forgotten resolution and caused $140,000 to be appropriated for that purpose. This monument is to commemorate the victory of the American and French troops over the British under Lord Cornwallis, Oct. 19th, 1781.

the following evening, a frigate and three large transports were destroyed. On the 11th the second parallel was opened, and as the besiegers were annoyed by an enfilading fire from two redoubts, a successful attack was made upon them on the night of the 14th, and the captured works were included in the parallel. A large French fleet under Count de Grasse in the meanwhile prevented Cornwallis from receiving the reinforcements which were sent to him under Sir Henry Clinton from New York. On the 16th he made an ineffectual sortie, and on the next day offered to capitulate. The terms having been agreed upon, on the 19th he surrendered his whole force, consisting of 7,347 regular troops, 810 sailors, with 233 guns; the entire British loss in killed, wounded and missing was about 550; that of the Americans and French, about 300. This surrender virtually brought the war of the revolution to a close. Such in brief is the history of the siege at Yorktown one hundred years ago. All the officials in Washington, even the British ministry, were present at the celebration.

Gov. Jerome and staff were presented to the President on Monday and in company with the Michigan troops left for Yorktown in the afternoon. Take it as a whole the affair has turned out to be a success of the grandest kind.

Where the Presidents are Buried.

From Every Sunday.
The body of George Washington is resting in a brick vault at Mount Vernon in a marble coffin.
John Adams was buried in a vault beneath the Unitarian church at Quincy. The tomb is vaulted in with large blocks of rough-hewn granite.
John Quincy Adams lies in the same vault by the side of his father. In the chamber above, on polished marble, are the tablets of the couched marble, each surmounted by a bust and inscribed with the familiar epitaphs of the only father and son that ever held the highest office in the gift of the American people.
Thomas Jefferson lies in a small, unpretentious private cemetery of 100 feet square, near Monticello.
James Madison's remains rest in a beautiful spot on the old Madison estate, near Orange, Va.
James Monroe's body reposes in Hollywood cemetery, Va., on an eminence, commanding a beautiful view of Richmond and the James river. Above the body is a huge block of polished Virginia marble, supporting a coffin-shaped block of granite, on which are brass plates suitably inscribed. The whole is surrounded by a sort of Gothic temple—four pillars supporting a pedimented roof, to which something of the appearance of a bird cage is imparted by filling in the interstices with iron gratings.
Andrew Jackson was buried in the corner of the garden of the Hermitage, eleven miles from Nashville. The tomb is 18 feet in diameter surrounded by fluted columns and surmounted by an urn. The tomb is surrounded by magnolia trees.
Martin Van Buren was buried at Kinderhook. The monument is a plain granite shaft, fifteen feet high.
William Henry Harrison was buried at North Bend, fifteen miles from Cincinnati. John Tyler's body rests within ten yards of that of James Monroe in Hollywood cemetery, Richmond. It is marked by no monument, but it is surrounded by magnolia and flowers.
James K. Polk lies in the private garden of the family residence in Nashville, Tenn. It is marked by a limestone monument, with Doric columns.
Zachary Taylor was buried in Cave Hill cemetery, Louisville. The body was subsequently removed to Frankfort, where a suitable monument was to be erected, commemorative of his distinguished services.
Millard Fillmore's remains lie in the beautiful Forest Lawn cemetery of Batavia, and his grave is surrounded by a lofty shaft of Scotch granite.
Franklin Pierce was buried in the Concord, N. H., cemetery, and his grave is marked by a marble monument.
James Buchanan's remains lie in the Woodward Hill cemetery at Lancaster, Pa., in a vault of masonry. The monument is composed of a simple block of Italian marble.
Abraham Lincoln rests in Oak Ridge cemetery, Springfield, Ill., enclosed in a sarcophagus of white marble. The monument is a great pile of marble, granite and bronze.
Andrew Johnson's grave is on a cone-shaped eminence, half a mile from Greenview, Tenn. The monument is of marble, beautifully ornamented.
The body of James A. Garfield had been placed in a tomb at Cleveland.

The Hammock.

From Peck's Sun.
There is something about a hammock that is indescribable, and there is no rule that can be made that will insure safety while sitting in one of the queer things. There are people who believe in a hammock, and occasionally indulge in a joke. It is certain that an old person who has a hammock in a hammock half a day and it will never kick up. Servant girls and children can get into a hammock as thick as three in a bed, and there is no danger, and let a spunky young couple sit down in a hammock ever so carefully and it seems as though the confounded thing was alive, and had taken a contract to cause the organ to lie on the ground in all sorts of embarrassing shapes. What it is that causes the commotion will perhaps never be known, without an investigation by some millionaire, and, if it is ever solved, it will not be over, we would investigate the blasted thing, in the interest of our young readers who are in the full of hammock-mocking. There can be nothing much more annoying to a young couple than to be sitting side by side or facing each other, in a hammock, looking into each other's eyes, and allowing the thing they dare not touch to show itself in those orbs, and just as they are feeling as though they couldn't wait a minute unless they clasped their arms around each other's necks, or at least one heavy bosom and one balled shirt, and then have the hammock turn round side up and land them on the back of their necks, and the ground, with legs pointed toward the crab apples on the trees to which the hammock is hitched, arms flung wildly in the air, and the hammock legs and muslin and delaine, while blushing suffices faces that but a moment before were background for the picture of a young dream, and a crowd of spectators on the hotel veranda laughing and saying, "Set 'em up again," the hammock shakes itself and turns right side up for other victims, as though it knew what it had been doing, and enjoyed it. There are young men all over the land who have been through such experiences, and who will walk backward all the way to the house, owing to severe pains being discovered in the wearing apparel below the suspenders, while the number of bolts that have been mortified by having to go to the house with their back hair in one hand, their skirts in the other, while six places between the pole and the ears are being scratched like the toothache from contact with the gravel path, are legion, and we call upon the authorities to suppress the hammock as a nuisance. More matches have been broken up by hammock matches than by all the Sunday schools in the world, and no girl who is bow-legged, or has an ankle like a rutabaga, should ever trust herself in a hammock, though it is held by half a dozen friends, as the hammock will shy at a piece of paper as quick as a skittish horse, and in such a moment as you think not you are on all fours, your head dizzy, and if there is a hole in your stocking as small as an old miser's heart, it will look to outsiders as the gate to a fair ground. O, a hammock is worse than a bicycle.

If Your are Sick, Read

The Kidney-Wort advertisement in another column, and it will explain to you the rational method of getting well. Kidney-Wort will save you more doctor's bills than any other medicine known. Acting with specific energy on the kidneys and liver, it cures the worst diseases caused by these organs. Use it at once. In dry and liquid form. Either is equally efficient. The liquid is the easiest, but the dry is the most economical.

Some Poor Children.

We owe more to poor children than we think. Columbus was a poor general, needing more food than he could get. Luther sang ballads in the street to get funds for an education. Franklin used to buy a roll for a penny and eat it alone. Lincoln and Garfield were poorly clothed, and worked very hard. Dr. Livingstone learned Latin from a book on his loom while at work. Emily C. Judson used to rise at two in the morning and do the washing for the family. Gambetta was poor and slept in an attic. Little Larcum was a country girl. Dr. H. C. Wells, who was a school teacher, Capt. Eads was barefoot and penniless at eleven years old. None of these people have been idle or whiled away their time in street corners or in games of cards or billiards. They were too busy—YOUTH'S COMPANION.

Never Give Up.

If you are suffering with low and depressed spirits, loss of appetite, general debility, disordered blood, weak constitution, headache, or any disease of a bilious nature, by all means procure a bottle of Electric Bile. It is the best medicine to see the rapid improvement that will follow; you will be inspired with new life; strength and activity will return; pain and misery will be relieved. It is the best medicine in the praise of Electric Bile. Sold at fifty cents a bottle, by Eberbach & Son.

Mr. J. S. Fellows, Chemist, St. John, N. B.

Dr. J. S. Fellows—Having used your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites for some time in my practice, I have no hesitation in recommending it to my patients who are suffering from General Debility, or any disease of the lungs, knowing that, even in cases utterly hopeless, it affords relief. I am, sir, yours truly,

Waking up the Wrong Man.

Bill Nye, in the Denver (Col.) Tribune, says: "One night, about 12:30, Judge, I heard some one step along to the window of my house. Hearing it at that time of night, I reckoned that something crooked was going on, so I slid out of bed and got my good blood sweater and liver purifier, with the new style of center fire and cartridge ejector, and slid up to the window, calculating to shove a tonic into whoever might be there was picking about my claims. I looked out so as to get a good idea of where I wanted to sink on him, and then I thought before I mangled him, that I had better choose about which part of his vitals he wanted to preserve, so I sings out to him:
"Look out below there, pard, for I'm going to call the meeting to order in a minute. Just throw up your hands if you please, and make the grand halloo sign of distress or I'll have to mutilate you. Just wake me about, so I would like to give the fatal wound, and be sorry about it, because I've got my brief costume on, and the evening air is chill!"
He didn't understand me, apparently, for a gurgling laugh welled up from below, and the party sang back:
"Hullo, Fatty, is that you? Just looking to see if you're still up yet. You know I was to come round and flag you if second seven was out. Well, I've been down to the old man's to see what was on the board. There's two hours late and four is reported on time. There's two seven out, and two sections of nine. Skiny'll take out first seven, and Shorty'll pull her with 102. Is it you that's up there? You don't look like a while? Well, he's firing on 238, and he's under three flats and a coal-oil tank, with a beam across his couples, and his system is more or less colored. He's got the sweet subsequently too. Rest of the boys are more or less demoralized and side-tracked for repairs. Now you don't monkey around much, for you don't look like six-bits and go out on the track, the old man'll give you a time check and the Oriental grand bounce."
Then I slowly uncoiled the great blood purifier, and moving to the footlights where the silvery moonbeams could touch up my dazzling outfit, I said:
"Fredder, I am pleased and gratified to have met you. I don't know the first dang busted thing you have said to me, but my'st myfortune. I am a plain miner, and my home is in the digestive apparatus of the earth, but for professional melody of chin you certainly take the cake. You also like the cake-basket and what cold pie there is left on the dump. My name is Woodtick Williams. I discovered the Fev-erish Hornet up on Slippery Elum. I am proud to know you. Keep-right on getting more and more familiar with your profession, and by-and-by, when nobody can understand you, you will be promoted and respected, and you will at least be a sleeping-car conductor and never in the highest mental calm and white shoreless sea of intellectual stagnation that the world ever saw. You will."
Then I took the pillow-sham and wiped some of the pulverized crackers off the soles of my feet, and went to bed in a large bog of gloom.

Millions Given Away.

Millions of bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, have been given away as trial bottles. This enormous outlay would be disastrous to the proprietors, were it not for the rare merits possessed by this wonderful medicine. Call at Eberbach & Son's drug store and get a trial bottle free, and try for yourself. It never fails to cure.

What Ails You?

Is it a disordered liver giving you a yellow skin or costive bowels; which have resulted in distressing piles or do your kidneys refuse to perform their functions? If so, your system will soon be clogged with poisons. Take a few doses of Kidney-Wort and you'll feel like a new man—nature will throw off every impurity and your organs will be ready for duty. Druggists sell both the dry and liquid—Evanville Tribune.

Curious Discovery.

A great discovery has been made on the Mojave desert, which seems to be destined to revolutionize vine-cultivation in Southern California. It has been found that grape cuttings, inserted in the trunk of the cacti on the desert, grow and thrive as vigorously as those planted in the soil. This fact of great importance to the people. By the use of a chisel a man can plant a large vineyard in a day, and the vines so planted will climb the cactus and vines or at without cultivation or irrigation. The dry, hot sands of the deserts will afford a fine place for drying raisins. In addition to the grapes, the cactus will grow from the cactus stock.

Better Than Quinine.

Few constitutions can stand the continuous use of quinine. It is not only a very expensive remedy, but it is entirely useless in causing the patient to succumb to its powerful influence upon the nervous system, but if you want to get rid of malaria and other malarial diseases, use the Liver and Kidney-Wort Pad and Body and Foot Plasters. The whole treatment for one dollar. For sale by druggists.

Be sure you get HENRY'S CARBOLIC SALVE. It is a household necessity, and it is held by half a dozen friends, as the hammock will shy at a piece of paper as quick as a skittish horse, and in such a moment as you think not you are on all fours, your head dizzy, and if there is a hole in your stocking as small as an old miser's heart, it will look to outsiders as the gate to a fair ground. O, a hammock is worse than a bicycle.

Rescued From Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1870 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs, followed by a severe cough. I was so weak at one time as to be unable to leave my bed. In the summer of 1871 I was admitted to the city hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half dollar. I was so far gone at one time that a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. I got a bottle when to my surprise and relief, it commenced to feel better, and I today I feel in better spirits than I have in the past three years."

I write this hoping every one afflicted with diseased lungs will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS and be convinced that consumption can be cured." Sold by Druggists. 1826-78.
