The prohibitionists stood up and were counted on congressman, and while the count was not large enough to afford very great satisfaction to Mr. Mosher, still enough votes were diverted from Capt. Allen to probably defeat him. When some of our prohibition friends consider XXV.II, which treat upon the History of the results of their efforts they will not be entirely satisfied with the leadership that has led to it. Capt. Allen has for many years been a temperance man. He has advocated temperance and prohibition in the legislature, in conventions, on the platform and elsewhere. He was nominated because he was a temperance man. Col. Eldredge, on the other hand, has never been a temperance advocate and while not himself an intemperate man, is evidently in hearty sympathy with the democratic platform plank de claring against sumptuary laws. Meanwhile some naughty republicans stole the bear, roasted and ate it, sending to his heart as a souvenir of his late pet. When the time came for opening the orgies and the sad tale of brnin's surreptitious appropriation was unfolded by one of the weeping and hungry bruinites, it was unanimously decided forthwith to immolate a shoat on the democratic alter as the best obtainable substitute for the bear. The speech of the evening abounded in sharp and ringing hits and had in its make-up the very soul of wit. It run like this:- "Schentlemen ve hof lost dot bear, but ye hof gain Cleveland! From the Chicago Inter Ocean. St. John In His Own State.

The temperance people in Kansas do not need any one to tell them about St John. They know him. They have had enough of his leadership. They understand his egotism, his vaulting ambition, his treachery. The Kansas State Temperance Union, which met in Topeka on Wednesday, very naturally repudiated the partisan schemes of the man who did his utmost to give over the country to Cleveland and Hendricks with all that these names imply. Mr. St. John was present at the meeting and heard some things which ought to do him good. This, for instance, from the President of the union, the Hon. A. B. Campbell:

WHOLE NUMBER, 1224.

union, the Hon. A. B. Campbell:

I can not forbear congratulating the prohibitionists upon the fact that when the issue between the republican and the democratic parties was sharply defined in Kansas—the former representing law and order and loyality to the constitution as the people made it, the latter representing law essness and crime and disloyalty to the constitution; the former representing the home, the latter the saloon—the prohibitionists almost universally stand by the party in and through which they had labored for success in the past, and in and through which they mad labored for success in the past, and in and through which they might reasonably hope for succes in the future. Out of more than one hundred thousand prohibition voters there were only found 4,431 willing to stab the party of progress and reform and assist the most corrupt political organization in this or any other land to the control of the nation. The man who desires the republican party of Kansas to engage in the republican party of Kansas to engage in the prohibitory movement does so to the great injury of prohibition in the state. He gives strength to the arm of the party that would strike a death-blow to the cause of prohibition without a twinge of conscience

That is just it. And it is that that has so exasperated all temperance republicans throughout the country against St. John, and especialty in his own state. It is the treachery of the latter, the conspiracy on the part of a few would-be leaders like St. John, Finch, and others to stab in the back the party of reform and progress. Their motive, constantly apparent in the campaign, and with most unseemly haste after the election avowed and boasted of by Mr. Finch and Mr. St. John, was to destroy the republican party. Guneau assassinated Fresident Garfield; those fine gentlemen attempted to assassinate the party which Garfield stood for.

Stammering or stuttering is one of the ost unpleasant things at times that a man can be afflicted with. A man may be aflicted with almost any other malady and be cured or helped, but a man who stut-ters, though he may at times be free from the habit, never has confidence in his talking utensils. They may run all right for a time, but just as he expects most from his vocal organs, and wants to do ais best, they go back on him, and he flounders around, and expresses his thoughts to save himself. A stutterer is usually the best natured man in the world. It seems as though nature picked out the jolliest fellow as a watch case to out poor vocal works into, so there won't living in Maryland who stutters just when he don't want to, but who can talk right along all right when there is nothing particular to be said. If he gets excited or interested and wants to orate, he gets stuck, and has time to walk around the block before he gets things to working again. He was out in Iowa recently, and at the hotel where he was stopping the traveling men were getting up a party one Sunday to go to a town a few miles distant where a camp meeting was in pro gress, and where there were to be

I have been so badiys afficted sometimes that there was not the smallest pot from the crown of my head to the soles of my lect that was bot diseased and as red as crimson. It would commence in small write spots, which had a silvery appearance, but were not deep, but if I attempted to heal them, or soon after their first appearance, they would burn and run together until there was a complete dry, red scale, which would become so inflamed as to crack and look fiery and angry, and the burning subsation would

I was at times so lame that I could scarcely get about, and could not dress myself without assistance. I have tried many remedies and have paid $100 in a single instance to a physician, but have ever obtained only temporary relief. Although neped for a time, I soon relapsed again to be as badly troubled as ever, and during the winter of 1881-21 suffered so much as to be entirely discouraged. Last June, however, I was advised by Eiger and M. S. L. C. THE ELECTRIC LIGHT.

That the electric light in some shape or other is to be the light of the future many firmly believe. Hence no small amount of interest was evinced in the arclight system by which our streets and several stores are illuminated. That light with its brilliant intensity is admirably adapted for large space lighting, but for smaller rooms its glare, sizzling and spluttering make it objectionable. Our streets down town have never been so finely lighted, and if the arc lamps should be removed they would be wonderfully

There has also been a demand for a smaller, quieter light for small rooms and for larger rooms with ordinary height of ceiling. To satisfy that the genius of Thos. A. Edison was equal, so he invented the incandescent lamp. This system is just being introduced in Ann Arbor and is already in operation in the postoffice block and THE COURIER building. In the engine room of this office is the democrats are urging for the position of years 20 lights to 12 o'clock each night, and it is run by Mr. Chas. B. Its rays so nearly approach those of the sun that colors can be accurately distinguished. Indeed, by it, painters, artists and lithographers can safely labor. In a dry goods store colors can be matched. No fires have ever occurred from the wires of the Edison electric light system, neither has any one claimed that it is as powerful as an arc-

This makes it as cheap as gas and in many cases a saying cheap as gas and in many cases a saying wanted to make a sensation.—Norwood to make a sensation.—Norwood construction of some Washington correspondent who is affected. Thus a much better light is obtained at no increase of expenditure.

It was a great stride from kerosene to gas, and the latter was generally adopted, although it was $3 per 1,000 feet as against 40 cents for an equivalent light by kerosene. Now comes a still better one, and at the same time as cheap a one. Hence it is likely to be the light of the future.

THE RESULT.

In one of his many able articles on the recent movement of "conscientious lunacy" as the third party is aptly called, Dr. R. M. Hatfield aptly says:

R. M. Hatfield aptly says:

No man living can certainly anticipate the future, but certain results have followed the course of this third party that seem to me obvious and self-evident. Let me refer to a few of these. It has—

1. Helped to make Grover Cleveland president of the United States, with all that is involved in having a man of his character in the White House. 2. It has rejoiced the hearts of the great mass of whisky men, saloon-keepers and unrepentant rebels of the whole country. 3. It has sown the seeds of discord in many of our churches—seed that is already producing an abundant and bitter crop. 4. It has caused divisions and strife among the friends of temperance, rendering their co-operation for years to come almost impossible. It has driven thousands of intelligent and influential men from the ranks of temperance, and disgusted them with the idea of prohibitory legislation. 6. It has tarnished the reputation, impaired the influence, and crippled the work of the woman's christian temperance union. If any one doubts the truth of this last deciaration, he has only to keep his eyes and ears open for a little while, and his doubts will be disone doubts the truth of this last declaration, he has only to keep his eyes and ears open for a little while, and his doubts will be dispelled. Finally, and worst of all, it has dispeartened the noble men and women who are laboring for the elevation of the colored people of the south, and heaped intolerable burdens upon this unhappy race, many of whom are now pressed out of measure, above strength, insomuch that they are ready to despair even of life. I do not impugn the motives of those who are the authors of these untold calamities, but no good intentions can sunder the connection between cause and effect. The men who sow to the wind must reap the whirlwind.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

In a literary way this distinguished journal is the national leader of the republican party. During the past year it not only has kept up with public sentiment but it has had much to do with shaping it. It has been the only metropolitan paper which has stood by the republican standard and its increased circulation thereby has shown its commendation from the people. We were glad to hear that during election week ending at Jerusalem, in Lima, a distance it sold 1,202,000 copies, and that it has of eight miles. Whoever had the management of Col. Eldredge's canvass in this county, made very poor work of it. The State Horticultural Society.

The 15th annual meeting of the above society, which has been in session at the court house during this week, will close its deliberations this evening. The court room, in which the meetings are being held, has been tastily trimmed for the occasion, and presents a very attractive appearance. The supervisors' room is used o display the exhibit of fruits, etc., which have been brought with the intention of shipping them to the New Orleans exposition.

Monday evening, at about 71/2 o'clock, the meeting was called to order. Prof. H. S. Frieze, upon whom devolved the duty of delivering the address of welcome, spoke in pleasing terms of the progress made in horticulture, and gladly welcomed the society to this county, about $65. Also that the engine would which was a representative one of this great industry. To prepare for meeting of American pomological society at Grand Rapids—Byron G. Stout, Pontiac; Henry G. Reynolds, Old Mission; A. J. Webber, Ionia; W. K. Gibson, Jackson; Wm. L. Webber, East Saginaw; J. D. Ramsdell, Traverse City.

On Fruits-W. C. Barry, New York; E. Buell, Kalamazoo; D. W. Beadle, Ontario. On Flowers, Plants and Ornamentation— Wm. Saunders, Ontario; W. W. Tracy, De-troit: Mrs. J. J. Atherly, South Haven; W. C. Barry, New York; E. Buell, Kalamazoo; D. W. Beadle, Ontario.

On Resolutions—A. C. Glidden, Paw Paw Weed, Chicago; H. W. Davis, Lapeer. Prof. J. B. Steere, of the university, followed with an exceedingly interesting paper upon "The Origin of Horticulture," at the close of which a discussion followed, engaged in by Messrs. Saunders and Beadle, of the Ontario association.

The question box being opened, the plucky little English sparrow popped out, the first day of January, is when the new and had his little anatomy and marauding tendencies discussed by L. D. Watkins, of Manchester, and Profs. Baur and

The first session then adjourned. President Lyon called to order and Rev. Mr. Lockwood offered prayer. An invitation to visit the University was received from President Angell, and same accepted for 10 o'clock Wednesday. The orchard was discussed. President Lyon advised against the practice of orchardists turning nurserymen. Mr. Buell, of Kalamazoo gave advice respecting grafting. J. Austin Scott, of this city, did not think much of root grafting. J. J. Parshall, of Ann Arbor, thought that Washtenaw county was not the same as other places, and that fruit that did well here failed at other places. W. C. Barry, the great Rochester nurseryman, thought that root grafting was a question not yet thoroughly solved. Other views were taken by Harper Green of Eaton Rapids, President Lyon, et al. Peach culture next came up. Mr. Sessions, of Oceana couldn't explain the peach curl, and knew of no one who could. Professor Baur, of Ann Arbor, thought it could be prevented by a rich, heavy coil. J. D. Raldwin thought the weather had something to do with it. Mr. curl leaves on some varieties. Sec'y Garcil had no power to act in the matter. field believed it to be a fungus growth, developed more or less by the atmosphere. Some "tricks of nature" were then shown, such as a chess kernel growing on a wheat head, russet spots on other apples, etc., etc. Some thought it the result of pollenization, others thought differently.

The methods of judging fruits at fairs was then criticised and discussed by Prof. Slatterly, of Lansing, and others. Prof. Tracy, of Detroit, gave a very entertaining talk respecting horticultural displays. In the afternoon the effect of bees upon fruit, the apple scab-to remedy which Mr. Beadle of Ontario, recommended trimming-the keeping of fruit in cellars, the best strawberry, and raspberry, the way to prevent plums from falling, etc., were treated upon.

"Useful insects" came in for a good discussion, and some insects that were harmful were brought in also, the session closing with a paper by Robert Hewett of the secretary of state's office respecting horticultural statistics in Michigan.

The evening session was very interesting. Mr. Alexander, of Birmingham, told about raising peaches from the pit, grapes and grape rot, the three best apples to raise-Baldwin, Nonesuch and Maiden Blush-How will sweet potatoes and egg plants succeed in muck land; the question of pears, etc., were each treated upon. Prof. V. M. Spalding read a very interesting paper upon "Rusts, Smuts, and Molds," comparing the same with drawings and magic lantern. "Topic studies in the woods," was responded to by a letter from O. C. Simmonds, of Chicago, read by Secretary Garfield.

WEDNESDAY FORENOON. Prayer was offered by Rev. R. B. Pope, after which Secretary Garfield made a report of the disbursements for the year, mounting to $1,774.89.

The following officers were then chosen for the ensuing year:

President-T T, Lyon South Haven. Secretary-Chas. W. Garfield, Grand Rap-Treasurer—S. M. Pearsall, Grand Rapids. Librarian—Thos. H. Foster, Lansing. Executive Committee—E. H. Scott, Ann Arbor; C. A. Sessions, of Oceana.

The committee reported that they had examined the floral decorations, and arrangement of exhibits, and spoke highly of both. After this a discussion was had upon the Ann Arbor seedling grape, opened by Prof. Baur. The meeting then adjourned to visit the university. Another session will be held this evening.

THE MUSIC was a pleasant feature of the occasion, and was furnished by Profs. Cady and Wilsey, with a mixed choir. THE EXHIBIT. The supervisors' room is a fine display of apples, pears and quinces, some canned fruits, steam evaporated fruits, honey made from different blossoms, a few garden vegetables, etc., etc. The fruit is all properly labeled and is certainly tempting to look upon. The Baldwins seem to have the preference in the apple line. DAVID DEPUE'S INDIAN RELICS. Among the curiosities exhibited at the State horticultural meeting now in session here, is the collection of Indian relics owned by David Depue, of Pittsfield. Mr. Depue has been gathering and keeping these relics for several years, and has a valuable collection, excelled by few in the country, probably. All the implements are made of stone, of course, and consist of axes of all sizes and kinds, grooyed and not grooved, both for battle and domestic purposes; hammers, moccasin lasts, the medicine man's mortar and pestle, pestles for pounding up corn, flattened stones on which to bake their bread, etc. Then there are a number of pipes, among them being one of exquisite workmanship when we consider the tools with which it was made, that was once the property of the Chief Tecumseh. There are Indian whistles, trinkets and emblems of authority and honor, all made of stone. A curious thing is the model of a small boat, which the Indians called "the spirit boat," on which the spirit of the departed was supposed to cross the river of death. There were eight cases of arrow and spear heads, a pair of earrings made of shells and buckskin, which once graced some fair Indian belie's ears (or nose), and other things which would need a column or two to properly write

A little out of the line of Indian relics. but relics just the same, are two bills of Continental money. One bore the assertion that the note was five dollars; a letter V on one corner, and a picture of a candle-stick bearing 13 candles, representing the 13 colonies, on the other end. It was evidently a fine piece of printing for its day. The other bill was not so ornamental, but bore much more authority for its existence; it read: "This bill shall pass current in all payments in this state for five Spanish milled dollars or the value thereof in gold or silver, according to the resolution of the convention of New York, on the 13th day of August, 1776. 'Tis death to counterfeit." Signed, R. King, L. Kiersted. It will well repay you to look through the collection.

Catarrh

Is undoubtedly caused by impure blood. Hence a medicine which purifies the blood removes the cause of the disease and opens the way for a thorough cure. This is exactly what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, and it makes the cure complete by giving the system health and strength, and enabling it to throw off the depressing effects of the disease.

Mr. A. Ball, Syracuse, N. Y., says: "Hood's Sarsaparilla has helped me more for catarrh and impure blood than anything I ever used." "I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for deal of good. The above depicts a very pleasant feature of bicycling as a sport. The club have ridden from their headquarters in the city, to a suburban village some twenty miles away, where they await the arrival of the racing members who were to start just thirty minutes later.

Five minutes more and the two foremost of the racing men—Fri, on his "Harvard," and Yonson on his "Yale," appear in sight. The puce is tremendous: the men are neck and neck, and Dodges, the captain of the club, whom you observe is leaning on his "Shadow "light roadster, in the foreground, declares the race a tie.

"Where are the other men?" he asks.

"Oh, behind, somewhere," is the reply.

"Are there any 'Harvard's' or 'Yale's' or 'Shadow's' among them?"

"Not one."

"Not one."
"Ah! that accounts for i," says the captain.
American bicyclers as a body will realize the force of the captain's last remark, but the thousands of new riders which the coming year will produce, should each of them realize that the only true economy in choosing a bicycle is to be content with nothing less than the very best that money will procure. Each should find out nil he can about bicycles before making his choice, and in order to assist enquirers in their search for information, we will, on receipt of a three-cent stamp, send to any address, a copy of our large illustrated catalogue by return mail.
