Baking Powder Figures THAT DON'T LIE!

The Royal Baking Powder Co. try to give the inference that their powder contains more Cream Tartar and that its Leavening Power is greater than any other made, as stated in their advertisement on the "Comparative Worth of Baking Powders," exhibited by black lines. Our name was mentioned in connection with one of our cheaper brands, made of different materials as the trade might demand. Our Cream Tartar brand of Andrew's Pearl was omitted, evidently for a very good reason, judging from the relative merits of Andrew's Pearl and the Royal, as clearly demonstrated by the Government Chemist, Dr. Peter Collier of the Department of Agriculture, at Washington, from samples eceived by him from dealers who furnished the samples from their stocks on hand

U. S. DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE. WASHINGTON D. C., March 10, 1883. C. E. Andrews & Co.-Gentlemen: I received by express from Thos. Lydon and J. P. Harkins & Co., Grand Ave., Milwaukee, and Harper Bros., Chica-go, Ill, samples of Andrews' Pearl and Royal Baking Powders. The cans were in good condition when received and the seals unbroken. I find upon nalysis that Andrews' Pearl Baking Powder contains about four and a hali (4½) per cent. more cream tartar than the Royal Baking Powder, and a proportionately larger percentage of carbonic acld gas, and I find it to be free from alum, and any injurious sub-

ANDREWS' PEARL

ROYAL No wonder the Royal Co. omitted Andrews' Pearl from their "Comparative List," as Government Chemist Collier's analysis shows conclusively two things: 1st, That Andrews' Pearl contains more Cream Tartar than the Royal, as shown by the cuts above; 2d, That the Leavening Power of Andrews' Pearl is greater than the Royal, as shown by the two black lines above.

We will gave the Royal Co. or any one else $1,000 or $5,000 if they can prove by any fair mutual test that Andrews' Pearl Baking Powder does, or ever did, contain alam or any injurious substances, and this challenge is open forever. The Liquor Traffic and Legislation.

The Philadelphia Press has been to the trouble of propounding a series of questions to the Secretaries of the several States and Territories relative to the legislation of the liquor traffic, eliciting a good deal of information pertinent to the season, for now is the time of all times of the year for legislatures to convene.

It is customary to class the New England States together, and assume that prohibition is the established custom there, but the fact is that only half of those six states have prohibition, namely, Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont. Massa-chusetts gave it a fair trial, as compared with a stringent license law, and came to the conclusion that the latter tendered to sobriety rather than the former. A careful investigation in detail was made, and license was found to be in the interest of temperance. Connecticut tried prohibion and gave it up as a failure. Island is contented with local option as it obtains in Illinois. Those three old original puritan states are not so very puri-tanical after all. Maine has the most

I think the time has come when the practice of making appropriations by each legislature to meet deficiencles in current expenses for the regular work of the University should be abandoned. I think such expenses should be provided for in a manner more consonant with the dignity of the University, and that shall give confidence to its managers in laying out its work. This can be easily done by increasing the 1-20 mili tax to that of 1-10 or 1-12. It should be a matter of congratulation and not of regret that the growth of the University and its consequent needs cannot be provided for by a tax which a dozen years ago seemed to be ample for the purpose. By quoting the subjects upon which the author treats in different chapters we can probably give the best idea of the work. I. The Prosperity and Happiness of the Many should be the end sought in Society. II. The Returns Paid to Capital should never be Permitted to exceed Market rates of Interest. III. Increase of Wealth is no Gain to the World. VI. Over-production is not a Fallacy, but one of the Results of a False System of Distribution of Profits. VIII. It is Reprehensible for any Class to Spend Money on Extreme Luxuries as Long as Nects-saries are not within the Reach of All.

X. All Persons who Contribute to the Industry of the World should have a Proportional Share of the Profits. XII. Eight Hours should Constitute a Day's Labor. XIII. There should be no Individual Property in Land. XIV The Amount of Wealth susceptible of Inheritance should be I imited by Lea XIV. itance should be Limited by Law. XIX. The sick and Incapable should be Provided for, the Viscious Reformed by Government. The author may not be a crank in the common acceptance of that term, out he presents some theories that are su-premely ridiculous. For instance, he says: "That there can be no title in

THE AGE OF CHIVALRY, OR LEGENDS KING ARTHUR. "King arthur and his k ights." 'The Mahlmogeon," "The Crossades." Robinhood," by Thomas Buttimen. A new, enlarged and revised edition, edited by Rev. E. E. Haie. Boston: S. W Tilton & Co. In cloth, pric., $2.50. For sale in Ann Arbor, by Osius & Co.

This work is a companion to a former velume of Bulfinch's mythology entitled, "The Age of Fable, or Beauties of Mythology," and is a work deserving of much praise. The Age of Chivalry is treated in three parts: First, King Arthur and His Knights second The Medical Conference of the binogen; third, The Knights of English

In this work the author endeavors to impart the pleasure of classical learning to the English reader by presenting the stories of what is sometimes termed the "second age of fable; an age which witnessed the dawn of many, if not all, of the nations of Europe. The tales re-hearsed like those of Pagan mythology, are not to be relied upon for facts, but present accurate pictures of the manners of the times of which they treat. This literature of romance has been and is still a treasure house for material to be used by poets, and has been drawn upon argely by Dante, Spencer, Scott, Tennyson, and our own beloved Longfellow and Lowell. These legends are so 2,000 00 2,000 00 2,000 00 6,000 00 5,000 00 5,000 00 by the fires of imagination and invention, that they seem as well adapted to the In addition to these items there must be Greek and Roman mythology. The sudden death of Hon. Schuyler Colfax, who dropped dead in Mankato, Minn., yesterday morning, removes from among men, one of the most genial, scholarly, and popular characters which has mingled in our political and social life. As speaker of the House for many years and as vice-president with Grant, he an egregious error. But the nature of Colfax was too sensitive to wish longer to be such target for the shafts of political enemies victim to the great American idea of conand caluminators as his high position exposed him to. So he resolved to withdraw himself entirely from politics. Condraw himself entirely from politics. Consequently, his last years have been devoted to his books, his home, his friends and his lectures. In this latter occupa and his lectures. In this latter occupation he took great pleasure, and as he travelled about the country, everywhere meeting old friends, his rare fund of anecdote, wit and information gave pleasant evenings to all who heard him. THE last issue of the Prohibitionist, pays Gov. Alger the following complimentary notice:

Russell A. Alger is now Governor of Michigan. The Prohibitionist welcomes and honors him as such. And this not only because of the office to which the people elected him, but also because of his individual character and worth as a man. Governor Alger is a Detroit man, and few men who have lived his comparatively private life were more widely known provious to his nomination for the gubernatorial office. Also, his reputation as a man of business and personal integrity was the very best. The campaign was bitter in Michigan as elsewhere, but Governor Alger passed through it unscathed. He is a man who we believe will honor his high office, and whom the people at large have reason to be proud of. Few states are as fortunate in their selection of Governor as Michigan.

But during the campaign Gov. Alger had no more bitter, unfair, vindictive, or relentless opponent than this same paper that now pats him on his back.

The Newaygo Republican has had another attack of sickly sentimentality over the "horrid law" that has for the past few years prevented grave robbing, and stopped the flood of scandals against physicians, (and very often eminently respectable ones), of being engaged in or connected with grave-robbing schemes. We claim that the law is not only a good law, but a benificent and humane law. That it has accomplished as much if not more good for the people of this state than any good for the people of this state than any good for the people of this state than any good for the people of this state than any good for the people of this state than any good for the people of this state than any good for the people of this state than any good for the people of this state than any good for the people of this state than any good for the people of this state than any good for the people of this state than any good for the people of this state than any good for the people of this state than any good for the people of this state than any good for the people of the people of this state than any good for the people of the people o the "horrid law" that has for the past And that it has worked injury or grief to very few. There is one thing peculiar about this law. The only persons who cry out against it (after they fully understand its working) are a few flabby sentimentalists, or third class politicians who hope to manufacture for themselves cheap capital by posing as the very dear "friends of the poor and oppressed." Our Newaygo friend would probably see nothing wrong in cremation, but to take a body of a dead person to aid the cause of science—and thus aid the human family, is sacrilege—unless the same has been stolen from the grave by a ghoul, and then its all right—(if he isn't caught at it.)

The following gentlemen elected, after several ballots, as a building committee J. L. Gilbert, of Chelsea; Henry D. Bennett, of Ann Arbor; Morton F. Case, of Manchester. A good, sensible committee. MATHEWSON'S PLAN.

The plan submitted by Supervisor Mathewson, and which the committee present building, 30 by 60 feet, the ceiling being 11 feet in the clear, containing 24 cells below; the upper part being for men and boys. The walls floor and ceil-ing being of railroad iron 30 feet long, filled in with brick for the sides and the ceilings boarded or plastered as desired. of the Illinois legislature 100 republicans favor Gen. John A. Logan for United States Senator while two favor some one else, but those two hold the balance of power. A shame.

The tentward of the sides and the ceilings boarded or plastered as desired. This, it is thought, will be perfectly secure for prisoners. The present residence portion being considered good enough for a sheriff. The estimated cost is $12,000.

This, in reality is but building an addion to the old jail, a thing the committee in its report above says cannot be done.

As long as a new and complete structure can be put up for $13,000, why try and add to or cobble up the old one, which is in very bad condition? Would it not penny wise and pound foolish" to and the very best of material all through. There were 23 cells for prisoners, besides two infirmaries or hospital rooms. The gratings, doors, etc., were made of chrome steel, the peculiarity of which is that no edged tool or instrument has yet been found that can cut or work it. Thus making escape by cutting out impossible. The new jail at Port Huron is also practically a repetition of these plans.

A SUGGESTION.

If the county votes for this loan, would t not be wise for the city to buy the corner lots in the rear of the opera house and present them to the county, on which to build a new jail? This location would be admirable, good sewerage could be obtained, and everything made handy. Then the old building and property could be sold and the proceeds added to the $12.000, thus making for the county abuilding she need not be ashamed of.

Age should not govern him in his appointments, and if the young men should go over to the other party, because no office her hear hear. other party, because no office has been given them, (like the greenbackers) let them go. Have not the older men the same rights and far better reason to do the same? What would be the result? The older men (if productive laborers) added more to the taxable property of the state, from which our revenues are de rived. Some of our (young) officers were near 50 years old when the people honored them with an office (even a poor one). And those are men who helped to make the state for they saw Michigan almost a wilderness, and added to the taxable prop-erty, but such men are not entitled to erry, but such men are not entitled to office, (cause age), but they, the young element must be tried, and if not, the country goes to —. Our offices are filled, as far as I know with respectable men, young and old. Young men, don't sell principles for office, no matter what party or sect. Old men, don't accept nor seek on age, but principle and qualifica-tion. No doubt some politicians have changed party for a promise of a good appointment, but can the party (that will be in power) satisfy all claims? Perhaps Mr. Carl Schurz & Co., will find out after March 4th, 1885. Mr. Schurz lately said tion of their rights and duties as American citizens, and Messrs. Schurz, Siegel or any other self-styled great Germans can't govern their votes materially. And those great Germans seem to belong to the association of our young men.

Hit the Wrong Fellow.

A gentleman who formerly resided in this city, during a recent visit in the south, one day ran across a person whom he mistook for "Colored Bill," who was for a long time porter of the Leonard House here. As is well-known, "Bill" was a familiar sort of a fellow, and frequently acknowledged his acquaintance $1.60, heretofore $1.75 and $1.90. by a quick and startling slap on the back of "his friends." Now, it so happened, that the aforesaid gentleman had been the recipient of this expression of friendship, and the first thought that struck him was, "now was the time to get even with the colored individual." So, after following him a few blocks, in order to more fully ssure himself of the correctness of "his assure himself of the correctness of "his friend," and gaining confidence at every step, he suddenly sprang forward, and dealt him a stunning slap. The darkey turned on him like an enraged lion, and o his amazement and afright he saw his mistake; but too late for explanation for the darkey was pushing forward his "right duke," with lightning force. He dodged and ran—followed by his unexpected "Sullivan"—block after block disappeared behind him, but still he was pursued. At last feeling unable to run any further he dodged into a hotel, and, to his delight, found him "a free man once more." His pursuer for some cause having given up the chase. Moral—Always be sure of your man.

DIPHTHERIA

THE PROSTRATION which follows 1 Diphtheria, and the persistency with which it clings to the patient, are well known to all who have had any experience with this terrible disease. The following letter shows how the restoring and invigorating properties of overcome it, and Hood's overcome it, and how by vitaliz-Sarsaparilla ing and enriching the blood it neutralizes and eradicates the poisoned matter from it, bringing to the convalescent the color, life and vigor of robust health.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & Co.: Gentlemen—My little girl had the diphtheria last April. The disease left her very weak, blood poor, with no appetite, and she could not seem to rally from its effects. Hood's Sarsaparil.

LA was recommended by a neighbor. After she had been taking it a few days we noticed a change for the better—she began to eat with a relish. It seemed to take out the poison the disease had left in her blood, the change being very noticeable in her face. She took it two months and fully regained her health, much to our delight. We now recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla with a great deal of pleasure. Very truly yours,

J. R. SMITH,
