"NOXIOUS WEEDS." Read by R. D. Palmer at the February

Meeting of the Norvell Farmers' Club.

The subject for consideration to-day is "Noxious Weeds." I have seen the definition of weed given as a plant out of place. Webster gives the definition of noxious as hurtful, harmful, baneful, per-nicious, injurious, destructive unwholesome, corrupting to morals, &c.
Noxious weeds I should define as those which are persistent in their growth and are utterly useless to man or beast, and such as all good husbandmen would like to extirminate. A man would not be wise who would purchase a farm upon which was a mortgage or tax title with constantly accruing interest that would finally take it from him without remedy; and so noxious weeds have a mortgagupon all our farms, and without constan vigilance on our part will eventually robus of the reward of our labor.

I was attracted by that definition of noxious given by Webster, corrupting to morals. I think it applies with full force to noxious weeds. Who would expect to find the young who are reared in a neighbor. borhood where noxious weeds were permitted to grow without let or hindrance either refined, intelligent or moral? What would be the feelings and sentiments of a man who would make his home in a neighborhood where mulleins, burdock and thistles were luxuriating along the roads and fences and occupying the fields and dooryards. To allow weeds to grow is not only setting a bad example but is working an absolute ill to our neighbor and neighborhood. There is evidence of much ignorance not only with regard to what are to be regarded as noxious weeds, but also of the roper methods to destroy such as are known. I saw a recommendation in an agricultural journal to kill mulleins by cutting them off and putting kerosene on them. I thought of the old quiz I heard when a lad, to catch birds by putting salt 1,000 on their tails. Again, on two of the largest farms in my section, I saw the mulleins 200 mown down after they had gone to seed, and they were left to scatter their seed 2,550 250 where they will continue to spring up for years to come. Years ago I asked a good old farmer in the state of New York why 450 he wished to sell out and go west when he had so nice a home. His answer was 1,000 he wanted to get away from Rhode Island plantain. Now I have seen on a most desirable farm here the ground so occupied with it that little else could grow.

To open the way for discussion name a few of the most common weeds here which I consider worthy of our attention as pests of the soil: Mullein, evragweed, vellow dock, Canada thistle, the ommon milkweed or silk weed, sorrel. white daisy, shepherd's purse, white daisy, shepherd's purse, purslane, knot-grass, eatnip, Mayweed, wild buckwheat or bindweed. There are undoubt edly many others, but I think this list includes nearly all that I have to contend Until a few years since I supposed that the Canada thistle was hardly known in this part of Michigan, now I hear of several small patches. If they progress and spread as they did in New York, where I lived, they will be worse than a mortgage at 10 per cent. About three years ago l was surprised to find a dozen or so growing in the line fence between me and my neighbor. I did not wait to see whether it was his duty or mine to destroy them. My first effort was to cut them off and treat them to a dose of sulphuric acid. I thought surely aquafortis would destroy them, and I afterward saw a recommendation to that effect in a paper, but they only increased the more, and before I got through with them there were a hundred. I then cut them with a hoe just below the surface every two weeks through the season, and I think there is not one left. I think they came there by a neighbor across the river letting a small patch go o seed and the wind or birds carrying the eed over. To do effective work in destroying noxious weeds it is needful that we know omething of their habits and history There are four plants that are of like habits that I have made a special purpo to destroy on my farm for the past ter years. They are the mullein, the common thistle, the burdock and the evening primrose. They are all biennial, that is, they grow from the seed one year, perfec their seed the next year and die. Now i is evident that all we have to do to de stroy them is to prevent their forming seed and they will die of themselves. One will say that it is easy, just to keep them from forming seed for two seasons and the task is accomplished. But here comes the difficulty. They have been growing seed for time out of mind and that seed has been plowed into the soil and I think the seeds never die, but wait the time when they are again brought to the surface under circumstances favorable to their germination, when they spring into life. That they will grow for 10 years I have good evidence, and I think they will grow just as well for 50 years. seed and afterward plows them into

have gone to seed. There are two seasons in which to destroy each plant. My plant s to cut them just below the surface of e ground with a hoe, and that destroys the plant, while if you mow it before blossoms it will grow up again and seed and your labor is lost. To show that it is not an endless job, the last season I went over 20 acres and cut every mullein, this-tle, burdock, narrow plantain, yellow lock and yarrow I could discover, in two hours tim lein or thistles until after blossoming The thistle especially, I believe will per fect its seed after the head is formed, although the blossom does not appear.-Enterprise.

A LEGISLATOR'S STORY.

The peculiar political changes which have occurred in Michigan within the past few years, causing it to be transferred from the list of surely Republican States to that of doubtful ones, give a seasonable in-terest to a story told by Mr. M. J. Ludington Jr., of Verona, that State, an ex-member of the Michigan Legislature. Mr. Ludington, who is one of Verona Mills' most progressive citizens, was elected to the Legislature by an appreciative constituency some six years. That Mr. Ludington has not figured largely in public life since he returned from the State capital is due to a peculiar concatenation of circumstances that aptly illustrate by what apparently trivial matters a political career may be made or unmade:

"The second day of August, 1879," in the honorable gentleman's words, "was a very hot day, and I ate a hot dinner and got very warm. I got into my buggy after dinner and started toward Verona Mills. I had driven about three miles when I met a Northwest wind and hail storm. I got a little wet and became chilled. I drove on home, sixteen miles distant, and when I reached there felt sick. I went to bed and my wife made me some ginger tea. but not enough to sweat me. The next morning a pain, sharp and piercing as a knife, caught me in the ankles and I could scarcely step. The next day I could not walk at all. We did everything we could think of, with wormwood and vinegar, smartweed and other remedies, but with no good effect. Neither my wife nor I could discover what the matter was.

"In three or four days I could not stir nor turn in bed. A doctor was called in who said that I had rheumatism of the worst kind. He relieved me a great deal and drove out the pain wherever it caused swellings. I got better in six months and was able to walk a little, but the disease settled in my ankles and continued to trouble me. Last October (1884) I began taking a prescription which the doctor said would drive the swelling out of my ankles. In November the rheumatism began to scatter, first to my toes, then to my hips and back and all over me. I then quit taking the medicine, as I was getting worse. I tried everything in my efforts to get better, but continued to grow worse. Finally I could not turn over in bed and it nearly took my life to draw a long breath. My wife had to put mustard plasters on my breast and side to ease me so that I could breathe.

"I read an advertisement of Athlophoros

"I read an advertisement of Athlophoros in a religious paper published at Detroit, and though I had not much faith in it I sent for a bottle. I thought I should die before it arrived, so great was my pain. In thirty-six hours after I had began taking the medicine I was cured of my rheutism, have been able to sleep ever since, nd have had no more pain. That was the 14th of last May. I sent for and got six more bottles from Detroit. After taking four of them the swelling has nearly all gone, except in one of my ankles where I was hurt last fall, and that is getting better every day. Thank God for Athlophoros; it has done everything for me." And all this long sickness came from a hot meal taken on a warm day, followed by a chill. If Mr. Ludington returns to public life it may be safe to say that he will go around with a bottle of Athlophoros as a cure for the physical evils from which not even legislators are exempt.

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. Notwithstanding he doctored all the time, he gradually grew worse, and he had no power to assist himself, so great was his prostration. Some said he had Neuralgia others said he had Jaundice and Dyspepsia, while some contended that he had Malaria. He saw a notice where some one had been cured of Neuralgia and Jaundice by taking Dr. J. B. He tated that when he commenced the use of Dr. Henion's Sure Cure for Malaria, he was full of pain and his body was all shrunk up; he felt satisfied that all of his suffering came from Malaria, and he be-lieved that Dr. Henion's Sure Cure would estore any one after they were given up to die.

It is possible that Charles Stewart Par-success in the coming campaign is by a thorough organization and a fight upon party principles, not upon the merits or demerits of individual candidates.

We hope no one will take exceptions if we add just a word of praise for the indomatable will and untiring energy of Wm. H. Brearley, to whom is due the pushing of this scheme to success. He certainly deserves great praise. May he live to enjoy the fruits of his self-imposed task.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Correction.

Mr. Moses Seabolt, the present chief of the fire department, and Stephen Moore claim to be the oldest members of the fire department of Ann Arbor. The undersigned joined old Eagle Co. in 1838, under Capt. Edw. Clark, and has since served in all official capacities (been chief several years), until 1873 or 1874, a year after the school house in the fifth ward took fire, when Bro. Moses was a young and good fireman, as he is to day. Success to him and Bro. Stephen. CONRAD KRAPF, an old fireman.

Booming the City.

Is it by organizing a Law and Order party, to tell outsiders that we are a lawless people? Will the best University. and many wooden and iron bridges, and a very nice passenger depot draw good people to a city where no law or order is respected (semi-barbarians)? Oh, no! Good people will stay where they are, 75c. and not run the risk of uniting their fortunes with a lawless people. You invite only such as care for profits, and they don't like law and order. We have some such among us and need no more. Ann Arbor is as good and law abiding a city as you can find; with 1400 stranger, young men and women in our limits, and as little police business as we have, where is its like? Will we be better governed when the Law and Order party succeeds; will we have more and better citizens more law and order?

WAIT A LITTLE. Approves of the Chronicle Boom.

ED. COURIER:-Now that the first move s made for booming, viz., an elegant new passenger depot on M. C. R. R., the suggestion of the University boys in their paper, about a book of the attractions of Ann Arbor, in your last, is to the point. This is what has been mentioned in your columns over and over again. Some one should start this. To do so the Business Men's Association should be formed at once. Who will lead off? All are ready for it. If we move vigorously 100 families can be induced to come here this year. Keep this before the people.

A Happy Termination.

SUPERIOR, March 16, '86. A large gathering took place last Wednesday evening, at the residence of Frank Bush, in Superior, to partake of a free oyster supper, and to listen to the closing exercises of the A. S. F. Society. It had been the intention of this society to give a public exhibition in the school house, but "circumstances alter cases," consequently their meetings closed with a few exercises and a supper, with which the most fastidious could have found no fault. and Scrims. The program was the same as usual, varying only with an address from our pres-ident, Mr. T. B. Geer. It was well delivered and showed that much care had been expended on its preparation. The reports of our secretary, Miss May Quack-enbush, have shown throughout that she, for one, has taken a decided interest in the meetings of the club, and we hope she will be called upon to fill that office at our next organization. Much disappointment was felt in regard to the absence of some of the members, who were prevented from coming by sickness and other causes, but what "couldn't be cured had to be endured," and after the inner man had been refreshed, the terminus of the society, which was organized with a view of self-improvement, was pronounc-

It was given with a few well chosen words and was received with much surprise but Taylor was equal to the emergency and made appropriate remarks due the occasion. A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Bush for their help during the arrangements, and also for the

UNKNOWN. Have You Formed an Opinion?

ED. COURIER:-Among the most serious drawbacks which impede the formation in criminal cases.

It is evident enough that any one who has ever even heard of the case, can if he chooses, conscientiously aver that he has formed an opinion, and that he can, if so it might be objected that a man who would not perform his duty cheerfully and willingly ought not to serve as a jur-or at all. Perhaps not. To serve on a jury is like voting at elections, a duty which every one owes to his country, if Inunity and enjoy his rights of person and roperty.

Unfortunately, the most conscientious citizens are apt to be uncommonly busy about the time they are summoned to serve as jurors. This is a remarkable fact. Did any one ever know a man to be summoned as a juror who was not incompared to the summoned as a juror who was not incompared to the summoned as a juror who was not incompared to the summoned as a juror who was not incompared to the summoned as a juror who was not incompared to the summoned as a juror who was not incompared to the summoned as a juror who was not incompared to the summoned as a juror who was not incompared to the summoned as a juror who was not incompared to the summoned as a juror who was not incompared to the summoned to be summoned as a juror who was not incompared to the summoned to be summoned t be summoned as a juror who was not just then knee deep in a trade, sale, or just going to Europe, or bought a fine yoke of oxen which he must prove, or perhaps married a wife? So the good conscientious man says that there are plenty of attions as good as he that he will set of citizens as good as he, that he will get off this time and do his duty the next. So he this time and do his duty the next. So he suddenly remembers to have formed an an opinion and expressed it, and gets off.

As a last resort, perhaps those are taken who cannot, do not, and will not read the newspapers. Here we are in a hobble again, for we hold the truth Mrs. George H. It amounts almost to criminal carelessness in some instances where a child is permitted to go directly from the sick room to the school room. It is wicked to expose others to this terrible disease. The Bishop has been at work 18 years at the monster polygamy, and his description of the methods and ways of had probably been set on fire by some the people he came in contact with was told in an entertaining way. The Bishop has established numerous schools in Utah, and is educating the young, and in that way killing off that deadly enemy to the home, polygamy. Next Monday evening the republicans of this city will meet in the various wards of the city to nominate aldermen and constables and elect delegates to the city convention. The good men of the party are especially urged to attend these meetings. The ground work of the entire political fabric is founded upon the primaries. The character of the men nominated depends very largely upon the character of the men attending these primaries. It seems as if there would be very little use for "citizen's tickets," did the citizens themselves make a practice of attending their party caucuses and thus help shape the policies of their parties. At the time Chas. J. The event had nearly passed out of his recollection until last Thursday, when he received a letter from Washington which he took to be a circular of some kind and he carelessly put it in his pocket and went to his classes at the university. Having a few moments leisure he bethought him of the "circujar," received in the morning's mail and concluded to look it over and see what it was about. You can imagine his surprise when upon opening the same he found contained therein a government appointment in the postoffice department at passed under the civil service rules. Mr. Whitlark will leave the university and accept the position we understand. As he is a good republican, we are pleased to have such sort of timber composing the forces in the departments at Washington.

A Creat Victory A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming 'smaller by degrees, and beautifully less.' I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A.
