PROHIBITION.

The COURIER's position in respect to this question is well known. It does not favor prohibition for two or three very good reasons. In the first place prohibition is impracticable. It has been tried and found to be impracticable wherever tried. The principle is right and so is the millennium, but neither can be secured at present, for the very good reason that the people are not prepared for either. The tastes and appetites of the people must be changed from what they are now before you can enforce a law that prohibits intoxicants. This can be done by education. The teaching in our public schools of the effect of alcoholic stimulants and narcotics upon the human system is a step in the right direction. Another step is the passage and enforcement of stringent tax or license laws, compelling dealers in spirituous liquors to pay a liberal tax and give bonds not to sell to minors, etc., and have excise officers appointed by the government—state or national—whose duty it shall be to see that the laws are lived up to.

Maine has been a prohibition state since 1840, and yet there are more arrests in Portland, Maine, for drunkenness, in proportion to her population than in any other city in the union—and it is a fact worthy of note that liquor can be obtained in any town or city in that state, by any one desiring it.

Another fact worthy of note is that Maine, with 36 years of prohibition, has to-day one-third more paupers to care for than Michigan with her tax law, and this in face of the fact that Maine has only 648,936 inhabitants, while Michigan has upwards of 1,900,000.

Religion is right, but it takes a long time to convert the world—it can't be done in a day or a century even—and the person who would propose a law compelling a man and his family to attend church twice every Sunday and prayer meeting every Thursday evening would be panned at a crack. But such a law would be no more absurd than the proposed prohibition law.

The only road to prohibition lies in education and taxation. Stop the demand for liquor and there will be no one who will want to sell it. Tax the sale of liquor and the dealers will be gradually reduced.

Shut up the saloons by prohibition enactments now, and you will simply transfer the sale from the saloons to the drug stores.

You may drive out breweries and distilleries, but you will simply drive them across the line into some other state or country, and the money they earn will go to increase the wealth of some other community and decrease our own.

A prohibitory law placed upon Michigan's statute book to-morrow would necessitate the raising of $27,000 city taxes in Ann Arbor next January, instead of 15,000. And according to the experience of Maine there would be no less liquor drank.

As far as the cause of temperance is concerned there is no more earnest advocate or believer in it than is the COURIER. We will admit of standing second to no one in an earnest desire to promote temperance in all things. But we do not advocate the impossible. We do not accept the theories of enthusiasts as guides to go by, but do believe in being guided by the lessons of the past.

In the past 40 years Washtenaw county has had one representative in Congress, B. F. Granger, who was an Ann Arbor man. Monroe, during this time has had three representatives, McClelland, six years, Noble two, and Willis six years. In Hillsdale county Henry C. Walden served ten years. In Lenawee, F. C. Heenan held the office for ten years, and N. B. Eldred for two years. To summarize, Monroe county had the congressman for fourteen years, Hillsdale ten years, Lenawee fourteen years, and Washtenaw two years.—Ann Arbor Democrat.

It would seem to us about time that Washtenaw had a chance to send a representative to Congress. Capt. Allen and C. R. Whitman, if nominated by the respective parties, would make a lively contest. And Franklin Hinckley on the Whig ticket, would make it interesting for both of the above gentlemen. Washtenaw county claims the three candidates this year, and they will get them or kick the traces.—Ypsilanti Commercial.

Regent Whitman is a pretty good wire puller, and seems to have fixed out your Ypsilanti contemporary with the third party racket in good shape.

In the appointment of Rev. F. O'Brien, of Kalamazoo, as member of the State Board of Corrections and Charities, there merit received a fair share. O'Brien is a young man, originally from Monroe, and is thoroughly familiar with the work he will be called upon to do in his new position.

THE CHINESE QUESTION.

A Calm and Dispassionate Review of the Situation—The Heavens Shown up in His True Light—He Must go.

(By permission of Benj. Brown, Esq., we are permitted to copy the following excellent letter upon the Chinese Question, written by his son in Seattle, W. T. 23-23.)

You wished me to write you something about the Chinese and the trouble they are causing on the Pacific coast and in Seattle in particular. I am not sure I shall interest you or give you any new ideas. You are well-versed in regard to all the intricacies of American slavery as it existed up to the close of the great rebellion. Chinese labor on this coast is slavery in another form. The Chinese six companies own all the Chinese laborers here, and if you wish to build a railroad, grade a street, clear a farm or a village lot, hire a load of wood sawed, or a servant that can cook, wash and act as chambermaid, you go to one of these Chinese bosses and get your man or men. You make the bargain with him, he turns the men over to you and he looks to you for the pay, and you have nothing to do with the laborers only to get all the work out of them you can. The boss furnishes a tent or hut for the men and gives them what rice they can eat, and that he imports from China. When you get your work done you return your men and they are held in readiness for the next man. You may say, why not employ white men to do this work? Because Chinamen will do it for half what a white man can, do it for, and make double what the white man can. You say, how can that be? A laboring white man with his wife and three children needs a house with at least three rooms, the rent of that house will place at ten dollars per month; and that same house will accommodate twenty Chinamen. The Chinamen pays fifty cents rent per month and the white man ten dollars. The Chinaman has one mouth to feed, the white man five. Thus you see the white man has to compete with what seems to be worse than slave labor.

These Chinese serfs were in our coal mines, sawmills, logging camps, in our hotels and restaurants; and in San Francisco they were and are monopolizing many manufacturing industries. All the money paid to these serfs is sent to China and is received, consequently never circulates here again. It is estimated that one hundred and fifty thousand dollars is sent to China every month from this coast in payment of Chinese serf labor, a very small portion of which ever returns to this country.

The Chinamen are slow, faithful workers. They never drink anything but tea. They gamble only among themselves, consequently, they leave no money here through that vice. They smuggle all the opium to this country they can and keep what are known as opium dens, where they congregate to smoke the vile drug, and many times entice the fast, young American to contract the vile habit.

The Chinese quarters are small and so filthy, it is next to impossible for a white man to even pass through them. Notwithstanding all the stench and filth, our wealthy people will take their cooks from these dens and allow them to go back every night, and return to their work every morning. How they can relish their bread, pies and cake, after they have been slobbered over by these filthy creatures is more than I can see. These cooks have a way of moistening their pie crust and their bread by filling their mouths with water and spitting it over whatever they wish to moisten.

An effort was made at Ann Arbor, at the time of the printer's strike, to raise the subscription of the city papers to $1.50 per year, but failed, because the COURIER would not agree to the change. All of the other city papers are daily with the proposed price, and we think they are standing in their own light, when they refuse to make a fair price for their labor.—Saline Observer.

The price that the proprietors of the newspapers in this city should receive for their publications had nothing whatever to do with the so-called printer's strike in Ann Arbor, and they very sensibly declined to interfere in the matter. Did the Observer fully understand the situation here, it would undoubtedly look at things as we do. The COURIER, having kept its subscription price up to $1.50 per year against bitter competition (at 50 cents per year), was finally forced to drop the price to $1.00. This change in price was not of its seeking, and against its better judgment. All publishers who have had experience know how easy it is to get prices down, but how difficult to bring them up. The COURIER is not responsible for the subscription price Ann Arbor editor's receive, as the blame for that rests elsewhere, but being forced to stand upon that basis it doesn't propose to be forced to make another change, at present. As long as the weekly price of the great city dailies are furnished at $1 or less per year, it would be very difficult in these times, and under such circumstances to secure an advance of 50 per cent. in the price of our weeklies.

What has become of the "business boom?" Has it all died out, and not a blow struck?

"Among the Breakers," to be produced by the University Dramatic Club, will be well worth hearing.

The Easter services held by the Ann Arbor Commandery, K. T., at their assembly last Sabbath afternoon were well attended, and the sermon by Rev. T. W. Maclean, was a very fine effort, indeed. Music of an excellent order was furnished by a quartette consisting of Mrs. H. Woodward, Mrs. R. Kempf and Messrs. Fall and Mallory, with Prof. R. Kempf presiding at the organ.

Lewis Moore, who had been a respected resident of this city for the past 18 or 20 years, died on Tuesday at his residence in the Unity House, leaving a wife and two children. The deceased was one of the firemen and from violent exercise in running to the fire on Thayer street, last Thursday morning he caught a severe cold, and died from the effects thereof. He was a man 40 years of age, and a brother of Eli W. and Wendell Moore, of the 6th ward. He was one of the most faithful firemen the city ever had, and really lost his life in the interest of the public.

The Michigan Schoolmasters' Club, composed of teachers of High Schools and Colleges throughout the state meets in Room 34, on Saturday, May 1st. Its object is to bring the high schools of the state in harmonious action with themselves and the University. An extended program has been gotten out, on which are several papers by teachers of note in the state, and we are informed that the sessions are open to the public. Prof. W. H. Payne delivers a lecture Saturday evening, upon "The Teacher as a Philanthropist."

This morning, at about 11 o'clock, a fire broke out in the building owned by B. Green, corner of E. Ann and N. 4th streets, occupied upon one side by Hendricks & Wilson, grocers, and upon the south side by Fred. Schiede's book bindery. Fire caught in the cellar under the grocery, from some unknown cause. The fire department was soon on hand and had the flames drowned out. Hendricks & Wilson put their loss at $1,000 with a small insurance. Schiede's loss cannot be estimated at this time, but is considerable, as nearly all his stock is ruined by water. He has $1,800 insurance. Loss on building about $300, insured.

The children's service at St. Andrew's church last Sunday, in observance of Easter, was of unusual interest. The church was handsomely decorated with flowers. The lilies being by far the most abundant. The pastor's remarks were appropriate to the occasion. He called the attention of the children to the spotlessness of the lilies before them, told them how the least touch of the finger would soil their surface, and so he said it was with one's soul. Every wrong deed, every impure thought left its impress on the soul, and he begged of them to keep their soul, and body also, pure and clean.

The many friends of Ed. C. Hoyt in this county, will be sorry to learn that he has been ill for several months, but glad that he is now in a fair way to recover. In this connection the following card may be of interest:

SENeca FALLS, N. Y., April 18, '86. To Whom it May Concern: My brother, who has been my book-keeper and cashier for 6 years. Have always found him marvellously accurate, thorough and prompt in his work, a good collector, exceedingly systematic, a stenographer, and a man of unusual intelligence. As proof of his accuracy, I enclose herewith a statement of his work, which has been brought out by his trial balance. He is very quick, and has very good business ideas and can make time of great value to anyone in want of his services. He left on Monday the 12th inst. and has since had no communication from him. I have no doubt that he will be able to do his work as well as ever. To further attest our appreciation of his general abilities we may say, we have been paying him $1,000 per year, $2,000 per annum. Very respectfully, J. H. GORDON, MFG CO.

A 50 cent bottle of Dr. Bigelow's Positive Cure will promptly and thoroughly cure the worst case of recent cough, cold, or throat or lung trouble. Buy the dollar bottle for chronic cases. Pleasant to take.

"I have no appetite," complains many a sufferer. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives an appetite, and enables the stomach to perform its duty.

To err is human, but you make no mistake, if you use Dr. Jones' Red Clover Tonic for dyspepsia, constipation, bad breath, piles, pimples, acne and malaria, poor appetite, low spirits, or diseases of the kidneys, stomach and liver. 50 cents.

"There is nothing like Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil to quickly cure a cold or relieve headache." Written by Mrs. M. J. F. Edwards, Burr Oak, St. Joseph, Co., Mich.

Try A. F. Hangsterfer's Ice Cream Soda Water. It's delicious. No. 28 S. Main Street.

J. Ganzhorn wishes to announce to the people of this vicinity that it is now prepared to furnish fruit and ornamental trees, evergreens, shrubs, berry plants of every variety, grape vines, etc. He also has a fine stock of the best variety of peach trees in splendid condition for transplanting. Nursery at the head of Spring street, Ann Arbor.

Beautify Your Home. Finish the walls and ceilings with Alabastine. You can do it; inexpensive; try it. White, and twelve tints. Cheaper and better than paint, kalsomine or paper. Finest and permanent. Beware of cheap imitations. Written by Mrs. M. J. F. Edwards, Burr Oak, St. Joseph, Co., Mich.

Council Meeting.

A special meeting of the council was held last evening to approve the bonds of the drugists and saloon keepers, and the following were presented and approved: Joseph J. Goady, John Moore, Robert Krieger, G. A. Robbin, Christian Gauss, John Zesch, Wm. L. Frank, Ludwig Wala, Chas. Binder, Albert Gwinn, Wm. H. McIntyre, Henry Binder, Emanuel Wagner, Herman Hardinghaus, W. Fred Schlanderer, Fred Bestner, Christopher P. Cary, Anton Abrahm, Millman & Collins and Adolph Lentz.

The last two were approved on an aye and nay vote. The bonds of Frederick Braun and G. F. Schoettle were returned for better sureties.

A petition was presented by Ald. Allmendinger signed by H. Randall, D. McMillan, L. B. Bent and 24 others, asking permission to erect a temporary band stand in Hancock Square, to be used for open air concerts the coming season. Which was received and referred to the committee on parks.

Ald. Kearns moved that the General Fund committee be instructed to advise for proposals for furnishing the city with the necessary gasoline or oil lamps. Which was carried. Adjourned.

Died.

Maria Field died in Alpena, Monday, April 26. She was born May 5, 1804, her father's name being James Briggs and her grandfather being the first settled minister in Cummington, Mass., 1794. She was twice married, first to Dr. Packard, then after his death, in 1830 she married Dr. Junius Field, moving to Unadilla, Livingston Co. With him she had four children. After his death in 1867 she moved to Dexter, and a few years ago she went to Alpena to be near her only remaining son, James E. Field. She was an aunt to Lewis W. Briggs, of Dexter, and grandmother to Junius E. Beal, of this city. The remains will be removed from Alpena and interred to-morrow morning by the side of her husband in Unadilla. She was a woman of strong character, an earnest, sincere Christian and her mind was well stored with knowledge of literature and science. She thus lived to a good old age and not without doing much good to others.

Death of Robert S. Verner.

One of the saddest things we have been called upon to chronicle, almost in our entire career as a journalist, is the death of Robert S. Verner, which occurred at the residence of Mrs. Gregg in the 3d ward, last Thursday afternoon. Only three weeks previous he buried his bride of seven months. The cause of death in the medical sense was rheumatism, which went to the heart, but in all probability the real truth was that poor Rob's grief was so great that he died of a broken heart. A singular fatality seemed to attend this wedding. Miss Adams, who acted as bridesmaid upon the occasion, died within a few weeks, then within a few months the bride herself was claimed by the cold hand of death, and now, in less than a year, the groom has gone to join the others in that bourne from whence no traveler ever returns.

Mr. Verner would have been 25 years of age had he lived one more day. He had been a clerk for Andrews & Withery for some time, and had many warm, personal friends among the younger class of people. He was a member of the masonic fraternity.

A few days previous to death Rob expressed a wish to be buried beside his wife should he die, but this request was not granted, a brother from Bay City coming on and taking the remains to Montreal, his former home. This action has been the cause of much harsh criticism on the part of the very many friends of the deceased and his wife in this city.

CARD OF THANKS. To the many friends who so kindly assisted us during the illness and subsequent death of Robert S. Verner, we desire to return our heartfelt thanks. It is during these times of trial and affliction that one learns to appreciate the true worth of friendship.

MRS. A. E. GREGG. A New Class Register.

Before us is a copy of Prof. Wines' new Class Register. Its dress is certainly beautiful, and the perfection of the ruling makes one almost wish himself a teacher so that he might have the pleasure of using it. The preface enumerates ten points of excellence claimed as advantages over other registers, and a careful examination concedes to Prof. Wines every point he claims. We believe that hereafter no teacher need publish a new one, but that he will find in this volume, which was adapted to terms of more than 16 weeks, to the one before us is published in two forms, to accommodate schools having two terms to the year, varying in the length from sixteen weeks or less to twenty weeks.

One of the most important advantages attached, is the readiness with which the teacher can, by the merest glance, determine the order of his recitation, whereby each pupil can be called on as frequently as any other, for recitation. Everybody who has ever taught, or even been to school, knows how important a thing this is for the scholar, and how troublesome to the teacher. Space will not allow us to speak at length, but the impossibility of confining the marks of one pupil with those of another, and the ease with which monthly and final averages are determined and recorded, combine to make Prof. Wines' "Mode Class Register" a name well selected and justly deserved.

We understand also that Prof. Wines has designed a Class register for Sunday Schools, five hundred pages in length, and is now in use. Prof. Wines has associated with him Prof. Nichols in the publication of these books, which they hope to bring to the attention of every teacher in the country as soon as possible. Copies of the books can be seen at any of the book-stores in the city.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings as they were complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever.

Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming smaller by degrees, and beautifully less. I do not know what it may do for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unaltered, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it. CHARLES A. ROBERTS, Clark, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the case a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for his book giving statements of many cures.

LOCAL.

The street committee is doing good work in cleaning up the city.

The G. A. R. post is making preliminary arrangement for Decoration Day services.

The sidewalk committee ought to do lots of work this year—it is sadly and badly needed.

The Washburn Mutual losses about $1,200 by the burning of Sylvester Sobor's house in Salem, recently.

The annual report of Moses Taggart, Attorney General, is upon our table, and being reviewed by our statistical editor.

All bills to be allowed by the council must be handed in before Friday evening, at which time the finance committee meets.

H. Cornwell, H. W. Hayes, Mrs. Nichols, Wm. C. Stevens and Mrs. Bower, on the east side of N. Ingalls street, will put down new stone sidewalks soon.

A wag suggests that the popular superstition against Friday comes from the fact that there is only one Good Friday during the year; and as a consequence all the others must be bad Fridays.

It has been fully decided that Ann Arbor is not to have a street railway. This is to be regretted, for a street railway ought to pay here if it does in Lansing, and sundry other cities of the state.

John Lindenschmidt, whose pleasant face always greets you at A. L. Noble's store, has bought a couple of lots on W. Liberty street, and proposes to build a house thereon for himself.

Services next Sunday in St. Andrew's church as follows: Morning service at 10:30. Litany service and Sunday School at 3 p. m. Evening service at 7:30. The music for Easter Sunday will be repeated.

Some of our citizens are advocating the running of walks through the court house lawn, and the providing of rustic seats for those who may be weary. Also the erection of a fountain or two for the thirsty. Not a bad idea, either.

It is proposed to change the name of W. Catharine street from N. Main street, to Miller avenue. Such a change will be beneficial to residents, and it was the original intention to have Miller avenue commence at N. Main street.

A barn belonging to A. J. Mumery, on N. Thayer street was burned at about 2 o'clock last Thursday morning. The building was isolated so that nothing else was injured. Loss slight with no insurance. It was set on fire by some one.

S. W. Beakes has sold the Daily Record of Adrian, to a couple of practical men who propose to boom it. Mr. B. has made an excellent paper out of it. Mr. Beakes has accepted a position as managing editor of the Jackson Morning Telegram.

A dozen members of the bicycle club took a run Friday afternoon to Ypsilanti and had supper at the Follett house. They did not get back before dark and on the road when they would strike a rut they celebrated it by standing on their hands, but they had a heap of fun.

County Clerk—no, no, Mayor—Robison is making a handsome looking residence out of the old jail, and will receive enough out of the old iron to pay for all the changes and improvements. He expects soon to put a couple of tenement houses on the south end of the lot.

Last Thursday Louis Fritz, who had lived in Ann Arbor since it was a small town, died at his home in the 2d ward, of inflammation of the lungs, at the advanced age of 73 years. Mr. Fritz was a quiet, unassuming, German citizen, and commanded the respect of the community. He was the father of Michael Fritz, of the Ann Arbor Savings Bank.

The Palladium will be out Wednesday of next week. It will contain a great amount of matter that will be of interest to the citizens of Ann Arbor, as well as the students. It will be on sale at the Post-office News depot. The frontispiece is a fine portrait of Randolph Rogers, which is accompanied by an excellent article from the pen of Dr. Frieze. The friends of Michael Condon—who has dispensed chemicals for so many years in the laboratory—will be pleased to see an excellent portrait of himself therein. The publication is certainly an excellent one, the hits all good-natured and sharp, the illustrations fine, and everything about it a No. 1.

On Saturday night last Justice Frueauff was called upon to perform the solemn ceremony that binds two souls together with a band of steel. At about 11 o'clock p. m. two of our young merchants were requested to come to his office and witness a document, and upon complying the document was found to be the marriage of a couple who sought thus late to be made one. The young man gave his name as George McArthur, of South Lyon, and claimed to be a student in the pharmacy department; the young lady in the case, "Miss Mary Bennett, of Detroit." They paid $2 for two marriage certificates and passed out into the dark night "two souls with but a single thought, two hearts that beat as one."

Burning brush heaps east of the city called out the fire department last Friday night.

Last Friday Winsans & Stafford commenced putting in 13 acres of onions, on their swamp farm.

The next address before the Cocker League will be by Bishop Nide, on the evening of May 23d.

Mrs. Wells is putting a fine new iron fence around her premises, corner of N. Division and E. Ann streets.

Mr. Coddington has not moved into the house with E. B. Hall, but his family are guests there for a short time.

Arthur Hoag has taken a position in Goodyear's drug store, where he would be pleased to meet his friends.

A "hoss law suit" before Judge Frueauff last week between an Ypsi party and a Superior party, excited considerable comment.

The question is very appropriately raised, where does the authority come from to tack bill boards to the trees in the public square?

The subject of Dr. W. W. Ramsay's discourse next Sunday evening at the M. E. Church will be: "Recent Discoveries Confirmatory of Bible Truth."

On Wednesday night of last week the police made several arrests and broke up a place of doubtful resort, and that, too, without the aid of any outsiders.

Arthur M. Whitlark, whose appointment to a position at Washington we noticed a few weeks ago, has already been promoted to a $1,200 clerkship in the post-office department.

The M. C. R. R. will issue round trip tickets to Detroit on the afternoon train of Friday, for $1.20. Special train leaves Detroit at 11:30 p. m. The occasion being Emma Abbott's engagement.

The Saline Observer remarks: "Geo. H. Pond, republican, city editor of the Ann Arbor Courier, was elected city recorder by a majority of 192. Pretty good evidence of his popularity in a democratic town."

One of the best jokes of the season may be seen on a couple of boxes of "Joint Documents" just received by County Clerk Robinson from Lansing, marked "Glass—handle with care." Precious freight, those things.

A local contemporary wants to know what hinders the city fathers from putting in those drinking fountains spoken of in the contract with the water works company? Nothing, probably, but the cost and yearly water rate of $75 each.

All members of the old 1st regiment, either three years or three months men, desiring to attend the reunion at Jackson May 5th, can procure reduced rates by applying to Capt. C. H. Mauley and securing certificate. Cois, O. B. Wilcox, J. C. Robinson and Abbott will be present.

The annual election of wardens and vestrymen at St. Andrew's church took place Monday morning with the following result:

Senior Warden—C. H. Richmond.
Junior Warden—John M. Wheeler.
Vestrymen—Geo. S. Morris, A. B. Palmer, S. H. Douglas, C. S. Denison, Wm. Cousins, E. Treadwell, H. J. Brown and C. H. Miller.

The Register man couldn't stand it. The Argus and Courier must not have a pie and he nothing to say about it, so like the famous Jack Horner, of Mother Goose fame, he stuck in his thumb; but he's welcome to all the plums he pulls out.

The carriage horse on a little to John F. Lawrence went off on a little strike of his own last Sunday a. m. Being tired of staying down on the farm it struck out for home, and arriving in the city it struck one of Jay Gould's telegraph poles which brought it to a stop. He will boycott suit money poles the next time he runs—probably.

One of the brilliant events of the season was the Knight's Templar party at Masonic temple on last Monday night. During the evening there was a surprise given. Past Eminent Commander W. G. Doty, in the shape of a silver tea-set and tilting water pitcher, eight pieces altogether. This was a slight testimonial for his services as Eminent Commander. The presentation was made by Rev. Sir T. W. Maclean, of Ypsilanti, prelate of the Commandery, whose words were appropriate and pleasing. Mr. Doty responded very neatly, accepting the gift as an expression of the good will of the fraternity.

Thursday evening of last week the Knights of Labor order of this city had a jolly good time. A few days before the members of the Ann Arbor lodge "got wind" of the fact that a number of their Dexter brothers proposed to visit them at their next meeting, and not to be outdone they got together, appointed a committee, and had a handsome supper gotten up. While the boys were engaged in the secret mysteries of their session in the lodge room, in the banquet room adjoining a fine spread was being arranged, and when after a recess was announced the door connecting the rooms was thrown open, and the Dexter brothers were ushered into the banquet room, their surprise can be better imagined than described. During the evening Mr. Alexander of Webster, displayed a number of sketches, showing successively, Jack, the house he built, the malt that lay in the house, the rat that ate the malt, and so on to the end. He also recited a poem explaining in full the artistic productions. Both pictures and poem were of real merit. After refreshments Mr. Harkins favored the company with a few songs and then a discussion of labor was brought up, lasting until midnight. No better feeling crowd of people ever assembled in Ann Arbor than were the K. of L. boys that evening.

The Easter service at St. Andrew's church was notable in more ways than one. The auditorium was filled to overflowing, many turning away unable to gain admission. In and about the chancel and pulpit were seen for the first time many new things, among them being a dossal, a beautiful drape in rich wine plush, directly in the rear of the altar. In front of this, resting upon a new retable was a large polished brass cross, a memorial tablet for the late lamented Prof. Geo. P. Williams, and upon either side were handsome memorials in brass, the one to the left being in memory of Henry W. Rogers, and to the right of Helen Welles Douglas. In and about the chancel, altar and pulpit were arranged beautiful pieces of flowers, many of them being memorial pieces, the traditional easter lily occupying a prominent place. After the exercises a five minutes' discourse was given by Rev. Mr. Earp, the rector, and when the easter offerings were called for there was found to be upon the plate a total of over $1,000 given that day. About $600 of this offering will be used to cancel a floating debt of the society, we are informed. The practical worth of Rev. Mr. Earp to this society is being rapidly developed. He is one of the indefatigable workers.

PERSONALS.

L. W. Briggs of Dexter, was in the city Monday.

Dr. P. B. Rose was home over Sunday, visiting family and friends.

J. Z. Batten of Philadelphia spent Easter Sunday with Chas. S. Miller.

Burt D. Keith of Jackson, has been visiting friends in the city during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Moore spent Sunday in Detroit with their daughter, Mrs. Ludlow.

Mrs. Duncan nee Miss Francis Devaney, of La Salle, Ill., is visiting her mother, on E. Ann st.

Andrew J. Sutherland and wife, of Battle Creek, spent Sunday in the city greeting old friends.

Geo. Osirus returned from his European journey this morning. He reports a pleasant return trip.

Mrs. Lane, of Adrian, spent the Sabbath with Mrs. E. J. Knowlton, returning home Monday by carriage.

Mrs. Addie L. Davis, of St. Thomas, Ont., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hayley, on E. Liberty st.

B. Frank Bower, of the Evening Journal staff, has been in the city this week, visiting his mother on N. Ingalls st.

C. B. Howell, of Detroit, author and publisher, has been visiting Rev. W. W. Ramsay and family during the week.

Prof. H. G. Sherrard instructor in Greek and Latin in the Detroit High School spent last week with friends in the city.

Chas. S. Ashley has been home during the week past, and Monday evening read an interesting paper before the Unity Club.

Christian Schmidt, left Ann Arbor last Saturday to visit his son John, who is living at Council Bluffs, Iowa. He will be absent about three weeks.

Prof. H. R. Pattengill, of Lansing, editor of the School Moderator, with his wife, is in the city this week visiting his mother, Mrs. A. M. Pattengill, and other relatives.

Thos. A. McCann, one of the best printers Ann Arbor ever had, leaves the city this week for Detroit. He will be a valuable acquisition to any place he may locate in.

Col. H. S. Dean, Capt. C. H. Manly and Robert Campbell, attended the G. A. R. encampment at Jackson last week as delegates from the post of this city. Capt. Palmer, of this city was in attendance.

The champion game of the season. A. J. Sawyer went to Chelsea last Friday, snipe hunting. He killed one snipe brought it home and feasted the whole family on one snipe. That snipe was no snipe.

D. E. Osborne and wife left China a short time since, and will arrive in San Francisco some time in May. They returned because of the ill health of Mrs. Osborne. Mr. O. was very successful in his practice while stationed at Tientsin North China. They will remain in California sometime.

Miss Mary Breakey has been obliged to give up her school because of poor health, induced by an overtaxing of her strength, and as she was to graduate this year from the high school, it is a very great disappointment. She expects to leave for Marshall to-day, and will probably be accompanied by her grandmother, Mrs. Wm. N. Stevens.

UNIVERSITY ITEMS.

There will be a Freshman social at Judge Cheever's Friday evening. At last the curiosity viewer may see the Chinese exhibit at the museum.

The first regular meeting of the school master's club will be held in this city Saturday.

The freshmen and junior Betas got away with the upper classmen last Saturday in a dramatic game.

The baseball club are considering a proposition to present "A Scrap of Paper," in Detroit the last of May.

A STRING OF PEARLS.

The new calendar doesn't appear to give universal satisfaction. In fact some of the criticisms are very severe. Here, for instance is what the Chronicle has to offer upon the mechanical appearance of the publication:

The Calendar for 1886 has made its appearance. To say that the publication is a disappointment would be faintly expressing the verdict. In point of mechanical execution it is inferior to previous issues for many years back. The type, if new, had an indifferent pressman to work it up, and the ink used upon it must have been of poor quality. Even the paper upon which it is printed has a dingy appearance. There are frequent typographical errors, for instance an extra letter 's' in a prominent head line. The letter press may be considered superior in towns where the art of printing has not attained the excellence it has in Ann Arbor, but in no way can be compared with such publications as the Graduate and Oracle, or in fact any of the regular University publications. It is doubtful if the University authorities will heretofore care to subject themselves to the annoyance of going so far away from home to be so illly served.

The Argonaut doesn't seem to have a very exalted opinion of the pamphlet, either:

The new calendar was received and offered for distribution this week, and has already been studied by all the students. The typographical appearance of the work is inferior to that of former years, being broken by numerous and other minor defects appearing. The details relating to admission, requirements for graduation, and courses of study, are substantially the same as in former years, the scheme of detailing higher degrees receiving more attention than usual. The libraries are stated to contain in the aggregate 57,169 volumes, 11,014 pamphlets and 211 charts, besides those of the Christian Association.

The unfortunate mistake was made of printing the hours for recitation in accordance with the old system of time, which may perhaps lead to some temporary confusion to new students.

Then again the Ann Arbor Register thinks there might be an improvement in the looks of the work:

The new calendar issued this year by the Flint Globe printing house has at last arrived after numerous delays. The fact that the University has a new type and new work at least equal to that of former calendars printed in this city, lays the work open to criticism. The volume before us will not bear scrutiny on typographical points. The pages abound in extraneous press work, broken and wrong font letters, errors, mistakes in make-up, etc. On one of the first pages a casual examination reveals eight errors. These faces together with the annoying delays occasioned by out of town work, show that no better or prompter or more economical work can be obtained from the University than obtain in Ann Arbor printing establishments. It is not only right that the University should patronize Ann Arbor houses, but it is far better in a strict business way.

It would seem as if further comment was superfluous.

HIGH SCHOOL ITEMS.

Prof. Pattengill's classes did not recite Monday, as he was sick.

Examinations in arithmetic and physiology Thursday afternoon.

The first base ball nine was "scopped" by the Normals last Saturday.

The second base ball nine play Sam Kinne's club on the campus to-day.

The senior class pictures taken by Randall & Burnham last Thursday are accepted.

The term essays are due as follows: first year, May 10th; second year, the 17th; third, the 24th; fourth, the 31st.

Messrs. Cone, Coollidge, Rane, Ramsey, and Crane were appointed a committee to make arrangements for class day.

The name of Edwin P. Gay, Ann Arbor, was omitted from the list of applicants for commencement, last week.

Miss Anna H. Adams was chosen poetess of the senior class; Miss Mary Breakey having resigned on account of sickness.

The classes of '86 and '87 had an unusually exciting rush last Friday evening. It is reported that considerable damage was done to lawns, flower beds, and other property. According to the rules of the school such actions are punishable by suspension.

EVENTS.

FUTURE TENSE.
City Band concert May 6th, at Bathoven Hall.

Rufael Joseffy, at University Hall, Thursday evening, April 29th.

The annual Flower Festival given by the ladies of the Baptist church occurs on Friday evening, April 30th.

The university dramatic club, Friday night, May 7th, will produce "Among the Breakers," at the opera house. Board open Tuesday a. m. at Moore's and Osirus & Co's.

Ex-Gov. Colquitt, of Georgia, is to deliver a prohibition address under the auspices of the Young Men's Prohibition Club, of the University, on Saturday evening, May 8th. General admission will be free, but reserved seats may be obtained by the payment of ten cents at either Moore's or Osirus & Co's.

The last entertainment in the course given by the Students' Lecture Association occurs on the evening of May 6th, at University hall, when Miss Jessie Coutouli, of Paris, an eloquent and rare merit, will appear before an Ann Arbor audience for the first time. This lady comes highly endorsed by Prof. Truchlood and others well known to our people. Season tickets will admit.

The New York Graphic has this to say of Miss Moore who appears before an Ann Arbor audience next Tuesday evening at the opera house:

"As You Like It" is so dainty a comedy that it is difficult to find actors of sufficient ability to do justice to the lines and business of the play. Its presentation by Miss Adelaide Moore and Company at the Star Theater last night was an effective and there were individual calls of excellence. Miss Moore was seen to better advantage in Rosalind than in any other impersonations in which she has appeared during her engagements in this city. She has a graceful figure and a pretty face and dresses her character in excellent style. She has an abundance of animal spirits and her stage business is good.

Be kind enough to remember the Piano Recital to be given by Rafael Joseffy, at University Hall, to-morrow evening. It is the last concert of the season, and will be a rare treat to all lovers of good music.

Miss Adelaide Moore, the charming young English actress, who has been striving so hard to achieve success on the American stage, and whose efforts have not been in vain, will appear at the Grand Opera house on Tuesday evening, May 4th, taking the part of Rosalind in "As You Like It." The New York journals are profuse in their praise of Miss Moore. The following is taken from the New York World:

"Miss Adelaide Moore is last night presented at the Star Theater by Miss Adelaide Moore, she playing the part of Rosalind. The performance was a smooth and acceptable one throughout, and the lady proved herself a most effective actress. Her intelligence and personal charm. Her make up and her pleasing manner won her at once the good-will of her audience, which was a large one, she preserved throughout the most perfect control of her voice, and her skill as an actress demand. The concert was very successful. Miss Moore in difficulty in establishing for herself a name and reputation in the profession."

MAT FESTIVAL.

The ladies of the Methodist church, will open a bazaar in the basement of the M. E. church on the afternoon of May 7th, and continue through the evening. Many useful and ornamental articles will be for sale, just the things for gifts at this season when souvenirs are in order. Supper served at six o'clock, and ice cream and strawberries during the entire sale.

The Young People's Missionary Society, of the Congregational church, are rehearsing for a novel entertainment to be given Wednesday evening, May 5th, followed by the pantomime of "Those Little Kites" performed by themselves.

Saturday afternoon, from 3 to 5 o'clock the ladies of the mission circle of the M. E. church are to give a lawn party with refreshments, at the residence of Mrs. Bishop, cor. of Washtenaw and E. University avenues.

Prof. Dewey is to read a paper before the Political Science Association, in Room 24, on Wednesday evening of next week, on "The Rise of Great Industries and its Effect upon the Laboring Classes."

The G. A. R. military hop, at the Grand Opera House, Dexter, is to take place Friday evening, April 30th. The boys would be pleased to see all lovers of the Teropichore whether from Ann Arbor or elsewhere, present.

MARRIED.

POMPHREY-LYONS—On Saturday, April 24th, Mr. Joshua E. Pomphrey and Miss Mattie Lyons, both of this city, were married at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Banks.

Plumbing is our profession. MR. T. J. HUTZEL, being a Practical Mechanic himself, all work is done under his supervision, in a permanent and workman like manner, at Low Figures.

Other shops in this city rely on hired help, which may be of good quality in one week and most anything they can get hold off the following week.

Your great advantage is to have a mechanic who is permanently established to your piping. In case of any change, it is often of great importance to refer to the mechanic who has done your work. We keep for the Water Company a draft of all our work. In a moment's time we can refer to any fitting on your line of Piping which is underground.
