Who never to himself hath said:—
'Give us better roads?'"] Breathes there a man with soul so dead, Who never to himself hath said, Our land should mend her ways? Smooth roads mark well a nation's rise, They yield dispatch, which men devise For business in our days.

The steamed-winged horse that we have hitched
To speed our trains would soon be ditched
But for its smooth steel roads.
The bicycle—the last success—
The silent graceful fast surgess The silent, graceful, fast express, With four self-weights its load.

Has gone where "Iron Steed" ne'er can, And asks what's due to horse and man In countries civilized. England can boast in amplitude Smooth roads for all her multitude— Roads well macadamized. The reverend clergy use it there,
Physicians, too, its blessings share,
And 'tis the postman's horse.
To tourists the most perfect means
For viewing England's landscape scenes
Not in the routine course.

n our own land this noble steed Is found now of the purest breed— Fleet in the longest race. Giver of health; through ev'ry vein It makes the life-blood course again,

From the Detroit Mercury The Festive Toboggan.

There is a regular costume that goes with tobogganing, and it is so becoming to young ladies that they are eager to don t, and all masculine admirers of the beter sex are forever eager to have them do o. The men look almost equally well n these suits, and where thousands of hem are worn, as in Montreal, the whole community is rendered picture-que. The sport has other advantages. It is bracing, breathless and athletic. Moreover tics over the stockings, two or three flant brings the sexes closer together than any other exercise enjoyed by both except lancing. If we had Canadian winters here we should have a new stock of sermous condemning the pastime, for it cereither. At all events, there is no recorded instance of a protest being made cost $2 in Canada and $2.50 here.

The toboggan chute is really by any pretty girl thus far in the history Just imagine it? Here is a pretty girl up like a soft, warm bun ile in a gay blanket suit, clinging tremblingly to the retic distrustfully upon the impatient and uncertain board. The young man falls upon one knee and steadies the sled. The girl drops upon it like a bag of feathers and also something like a tailor, for she crosses her feet as she drops. rails or the ropes attached to them. Then she goes!" the steerer leaps on behind on ike a rudder behind, and down they go, to do so. It takes a great deal of preparation and study and solid foundation to flying through the air like a bullet. Still, there is time for a girl to dematerialize her spinal column and fall limply in her companion's arms, and this is sometimes accomplished-when the companion is a nice fellow, and worthy of the trust.

Unfortunately it often happens that the young men in such cases has to serve as his own steerer, in which case all he can do is to hop behind the lady and rest his chin on her shoulder and his face against her fleecy hood. This requires elf-sacrifice and nerve.

Tobogganing was first made known to Americans on the occasion of the in-nuguration of the Marquis of Lorne as utenant-governor of Canada. amusement has long been enjoyed in Canada, where the winter is sufficiently ong to make it worth while for the masses to go into it. The toboggan sled a thin sheet of hard wood, has been used by the Indians from time immemorial for drawing wood, game, fish, and burdens generally over the snow. It was made flat so as to ride on the surface, and was curled up in front so as to overcome all small obstructions. The best ones re-main to-day of the original form and make, and thousands of them are yet turned out every year by their original inventors, the Indians. The white folks adapted them to coasting because of their lightness and carrying capacity, and because fast as they go, they are not so fast as polished runners. You can get a to-boggan for from $4 to $7. All sorts of patents are made with metal bottoms and different suggestions of names, but the old-fashioned, simple Indian toboggan, with a mattress or cushion, is the best after all. The toboggan dress for ladies is simply for the collar, pocket flaps and bottom of the coat. It covers a ladies dress completely, and is taken in a little at the waist and looks best when it is buttoned same material as the garment. Any pattern of blanket stuff looks well, and some patterns of jersey goods answer the The storekeepers want from $12 to $15 for one of these garments, but any woman who is handy with a needle can make one for much less. The dress for men consists of a blanket coat made

Knee-breeches are made to match, and below them are are made to match, and below them are worn bicycle stockings and heavy boots nothing to do except to pay it. cities wo On their heads both men and women zation:

Any housewife can knit a I [giving name] have read, or have pretty one for less than half a dollar of heard read, and do approve of the declacost; any storekeeper will sell you one for $1.50 to $2. But the toque, which is gressive Democratic party political organand exquisitely pretty she can be.

As to what other preparations the ladies make for this cold weather, outdoor sport, how is it the Canadian girls can stand half an hour at a time knee deep in a snow-bank and smile all the while, and why they think themselves superior in wisdom to the rest of the sex-these are matters difficult to do justice to. One thing matters difficult to do Justice to. One thing is certain, when a Montreal storekeeper undertook to display an outfit for a female tobboganist, it filled his huge show window as if he had dumped the proceeds of an auction sale there. If Lieut, Schwatka had only seen and bought the collection before he went to Alaska, he could have wided Lones give from mouth to had in waded Jones river from mouth to head in one of its thaws without getting either cold or wet. To fit up a girl in the Montreal style is possible only to the rich in this country, and even these, under a low tariff, it makes a fat pocket-book as limpand thin as a retired umbrella case. First there are the underclothes of Scotch flan-nel half an inca thick. Over these go ribnel petticoats, a cloth dress, a Cardigan jacket, the blanket suit, gloves and muffler. That's all-or, at least, it's all remembered just now. A fair inventress last year conceived the tainly is a fact that after a young man has put his girl, crosslegged in the front a pair of short trousers, and the idea caught ands just to keep her from falling off. and experiments were made, so that some girls had them of cloth, some of buckskin, flight down the icy slide he is quite likely and some wore loose ones of Turkish libto put a good deal of pressure in his grasp.

At all events, he seizes her arms, and just then, with an "All ready! away upon these ice-paved slanting roads until and just then, with an "All ready! away she goes!" the steerer leaps on behind on one knee, with the other foot project description. Snow must then be heaped between the slides, over the dividing beam and also precisely as if they had all fallen off the edge of a house roof. If the girl screams as to turn the slides into gutters. At the foot of the chute the snow must be leveled, wet and frozen for a litfaint, and it can't be done when one is the way, and a mound of snow should be built far out from the chute, between the slides, as an addition to the dividing ridge on the chute itself. As much as $2,500 has been spent on small chutes.

Women Can Afford to Remain Single.

The common talk is among young men that they cannot afford marriage because wives are such an expensive luxury, and altogether such an expediment that no one can afford to have one unless he is very rich, or is willing to remain very poor. This kind of twaddle is so much in vogue that it will probably seem heresy to take any other view of the case, by bearing in mind the innumerable stories of peating and mutilation, and even murder, inflicted upon women by drunken and ugly husbands, it seems about time to start a crusade to bring about a resolve on the part of women not to get married They run about twenty times as much risk in such an operation as the man does and if the latter cannot "afford" to take unto himself a wife, the majority of women can well afford on their part to remain single. Within twenty years we predict that clubs for women, and an inreased independence in earning a livelihood, and a generally better status for nomarried women will result in a serious diminution of the marriage rate. And, when women are not to be got for the asking, men will be more careful of them. A little "corner" in the marriage market would not be a bad thing .- Boston Record.

RECOLLECTIONS OF A CHIEF OF PO LICE:—George W. Walling, for 38 years connected with the police of New York, and who has filled every grade, from patrolman to chief, has written a book of 600 pages. As Chief Walling will give the inside workings of many of the great criminal cases of the last generation, and proposes to expose the corruption existing in the politico-judicial and police departments of New York City, it will create a sensation not only in this country but in Europe. The work will be pro-fusely illustrated from the Rogues Galery, and will be sold by subscription by the Caxton Book Concern, Limited. The Magazine of Art for January is a worthy follower of the beautiful December number of this magazine. The from tispiece, "Pandora's Box," is a striking study in sanguine. The place of honor is given to Mr. Charles de Kay's account "Movements in American Art," which deals particularly with the very interesting collection of Mr. Thomas B. Clarke. This gentleman, be it known, devotes his time money and taste, to the collection of American paintings exclusively, and the investment has proved as good a pecuniary one as he could have desired while at the same time it has started other collectors in the same direction. Excellent reproductions are given through the text of this article of painting by F. S. Church, Thomas Eakins, H. Siddons Mowbray, and Gilbert Paul. The first paper on "The Paris of the Revolution," giving a description with a pen and pen-pencil of this picturesque and exciting "Some Portraits of Mrs. Sid In the series of papers "The Romance of Art" we are given the story of Van Dyck at the Court of Charles I."

"The Popular Science Monthly" for January, 1887, is unusually rich, even for that magazine, in articles bearing upon social and educational topics. Prof. W. G. Sumner hold the leading place with a discussion of the question, "What makes the Rich richer, and the Poor?" Sir John Lubbock, who is as eminent for the personal attention which he gives to the discharge of his duties as an inspector o schools as he is in scientific research, con siders the subject of "Manual Instruction." Mr. Frank P. Crandon gives his at tention to the "Misgovernment of Great Cities." In a paper on "The Intermin gling of Races," Mr. John Reade shows that crossing is a general and almost uoi versal phenomenon in human history, and that most of the existing races of men are to a greater or less extent the results of it Mr. Daniel Greenleaf Thompson, in "Sc ence in Religious Education," pleads fo giving scientific branches a more important and essential place. The portrait and sketch are of Nicholas Prejevalski, the great Russian explorer, whose achieve ments are comparable with those of Can eron and Stanley. The editor at his table talks of "Political Skepticism." or symptoms of weakness in convictions of politi al principles, and answers a new but no very creditable argument which has been broached against spelling reform.

Renews Her Youth.

Mrs. Phœbe Chesley, Peterson, Clay Co., Iowa, tells the following remarkable story, the truth of which is vouched for by the residents of the town: "I am 73 years old, have been troubled with kidney complaint and lameness for many years; ould not dress myself without help. Now I am free from all pain and soreness, and am able to do my own housework. I owe my thanks to Electric Bitters for having renewed my youth, and removed completely all disease and pain. Simplicity of Character.

There is nothing more beautiful in the young than simplicity of character. It is honest, frank, and attractive. How different is affectation. The simpleminded are always natural; they are at corrupt political parties who, between the same time original. The affected are never natural. As for originality, if they ever had it, they have crushed it out, and buried it from sight utterly. Be your-self. To attempt to be anybody else is worse than folly. It is impossible to attain it. It is contemptible to try it. But suppose you could succeed in imitating the greatest man that ever figured in his tory, would that make you any better? by no means. You would always suffer in comparison with the imitated one, and be thought of only as a shadow of a sub-stance, the echo of a real sound, the counterfeit of a pure coin. A genuine cent is worth, more than a counterfeit dollar; and the smallest man who is real is worth more than the biggest fraud in existence. drove into this town Tuesday and were looking for an empty hitching post when one of them was heard to remark, "I wish that some of Dexter's hitching posts were here.'-Chelsea Herald. No sour grapes. Certainly. The question has been several times asked us "why do so many of the farmers' teams remain hitched upon our streets after the stores have closed for the night?"

Will somebody please arise and explain?

—Dexter Leader. It is most likely the owners of the teams are "warming up." Many passengers every day are transferred from one railroad to another at the junction. Both railroads being important lines makes Milan an important tation. Both roads take water here, and the Wabash coal also, and as thirty to forty trains pass through here daily, the junction presents quite a metropolitan air.—Milan Leader.

Walter Showerman, son of Delos Showerman, now of Chicago, a former resident of this city, was taken with hemorrhage of the lungs Sunday last and died in ten minutes. The deceased was thirty-three years of age, was married, but leaves no children. He born in Ypsilanti and spent much of his life here. The remains were brought here for burrial Tuesday.-Ypsilantian,

We are very much afraid we shall be called upon to write obituary notices for some of our youngsters if they still persist in the practice of "catchin" on bobs Some of them play very rough and we have noticed several narrow escapes from accidents. Be more careful, boys.

The city of Ann Arbor is pointed to with pride by many of the residents of this vicinity as being one of the most progressive and model cities of the state, and it is in every way deserving of that reputation. Just now the residents of that city are interested in the success of a movement which Dexter might emulate with material benefit, that of establishing a free reading room. The enterprise is meeting with great encouragement, and success is certain. We think it a very good project and an effort should be made in our own village to follow their example and do something to keep the boys off the streets nights; to furnish amusement and employment for the many who would be only too willing to enjoy the privileges of such a room if we had one. Who of all our wealthy citizens will start the ball a rolling .-Dexter Leader. The Ypsilanti Sentinel writes up the toboggan slide as follows: "In a scientific point of view the toboggan slide as at present built is a clumsy contrivance.

To get the best effect, the descent should be not by straight inclines, but should take the figure of a cycloid. It is the re earth and the other to follow the curve of the cycloid, the latter will first reach the earth, though passing a much greater distance in its descent. Another remarkable property is that two balls, placed one at the highest point of the cycloid and the other at any point intermediate between the lowest and highest, and started at the same instant, will reach the lowest point together. While, however, the cycloid is the ideal figure for a tobogga slide, the difficulty of erecting one in the exact shape of sufficient size, will deter any architect from attempting it. The plain descent will be sufficient for the short craze which artificial structures will run, and the hill-sides, many of which approach the scientific shape, will answer for the regular sport as usual."

But he has paid the aside his uniform and entered the politpenalty of life and in death finds the re- | ical field he showed the same superiority, pose and rest so longed-for by the active and was almost, if not quite, the only toilers of this world. Peace be to his general who fought his way to the front

He was a brave leader, the best volun- est and most devoted comrade teer general of the war, who, by his intrepidity always made his charges effective upon the enemy. Had he lived he would have been one of the leaders for a nomination to the Presidency next time, and had he been nominated his growing to the gentlemen to whom it appeals: popularity would have put him in the White House. For as the people came to know John A. Logan they forgot to think that he used to speak bad grammar. His sturdy earnestness made him eloquent, especially when in the Senate he plead the cause of a worthy class of pensioners. This trait of his of standing up for his old comrades in Washington, where it is quite the fashion to sneer at the old soldier and say "he has enough," made him so beloved by them that they always

His rugged virtues were like those of Cato of old who allowed no taint of corruption to come near him. In his position of influence he might have been admitted to the "ground floor" of many a paying enterprise for legislative services. But the scheming lobbyists never dared approach him, and after thirty years of service for his country he died a poor man. In fact he was $30,000 in debt, and his dying moments were agonized by the thoughts of leaving such a legacy to his beloved family. The nation should see to it that the dead hero's dear

"I think," said Mr. Blaine, "it was some time during the winter of 1863 that by mere accident I entered Mr. Lincoln's room just as Gen. Logan was leaving. The president introduced me to the general, and we had a very brief talk. I retired the president eulogized him very highly, adding that it was very fortunate gone far beyond expectation, and in the latter class he gave Logan eminent rank. But I am not the one to speak of Gen. Logan's military rank. That can be far more fittingly done by his brother officers and by the thousands of veterans who are at this moment in tears over the idea of the typical American girl, as ordideath of their beloved leader in war, their watchful and constant friend in peace. History has, I think, definitely assigned Gen. Logan his military rank, the highest of the volunteer officers in

The boy or girl who is a regular newspaper reader will grow up in intelligence, and will use good language, both in speaking and writing, even with a limited education. It is news, science, literature, grammar, history, geography and spelling combined. Sometimes it is a little difficult to get children interested in newspapers, but after they once get Washington St., assisted by Mrs. Rufus started their intellectual cravings are as sure as the desire for food, and it is as ecessary to feed the minds as the bodies. The local newspaper above all will interest them, and it has become a necessity in every well regulated family .- Ex.

Charles H. Ludlow, bookkeeper for John Keek & Co., in Detroit, smiled as he read the account in an evening paper of John Keck walking all the way from Detroit to Ann Arbor soon after his fallure, two weeks ago. "I think the paper is simply trying to run on Mr. Keck—to guy him," said Mr. Ludlow, "He might have walked from the Ann Arbor depot to his residence, but it is nonsense to believe he walked all the way from Detroit Mr. Keck left here two weeks ago to-morrow and I have not heard from him since."—De troit Tribune.

Now, had that "evening paper" given the COURIER credit for the item above there would have been no question as to its genuineness. As it is, Mr. Ludlow better come to Ann Arbor and post up. Mr. Keck did walk from Detroit to Aun Arbor. It is gospel truth.

The Michigan Farmer remarks: "A orrespondent of the Ann Arbor Courier claims the chapel in school-buildings, being a room used but once or twice during the year, should be located in the third story of school buildings, and the lower rooms devoted to recitation purposes. The truth is there are few towns in Michgan where land is so valuable as to necessitate a school building more than two stories in height; and when people understand that an imposing building, 'an or-nament to the town' as they think it, means ill health and disease to their chil dren, they will build so as to avoid much running up and down stairs."

No. 137, G. A. R., held for the purpose, on Monday evening last, Comrades R. Campbell, A. F. Martin, H. S. Dean and Wm. H. Fisher were appointed a committee to draw up and present suitable resolutions on the sudden and (to us) unlooked for death of our illustrious leader and comrade.

The following resolutions were the result of their labor, and were adopted (after some very pathetic eulogies by personal friends of the deceased) by a rising vote:

Whereas, It has pleased the Maker and Ruler of this world to remove by sudden death, our comrade, Gen. John A. Logan, a brave and gallant soldier during the war; an able, efficient and illustrious statesman; a true and honest patriot, and a trustworthy friend of the loyal soldier;

Resolved, That we, as comrades, extend our heartfeit sympathy to the bereaved wife and family of the deceased.

Resolved, That we, as a Post, cause our charter colors and badges to be deceased in charter colors and badges to be deceased in the color of the color of the deceased.

Use Your Brains and Make Money.

MEN, WOMEN, CHILDREN, EVERYBODY,

The Judge proposes to assist the Grant Monument Fund by organizing a grand competition on word-building (making the largest number of English words from a given sentence by transposing and using letters to suit the purpose), using for the theme the sentence "Who will be our next President?" and offering Cash prizes to successful competitors, each of who will have to pay Fifty (50) cents on presentation of his competitive paper. The money received will be applied as follows:

Twenty-five cents is at once credited to the Grant Fund.

The remaining twenty-five cents, after deducting the legitimate expenses of advertising names with their respective answers, etc., etc., will be placed in a common fund to be equally divided among the their six successful competitors, i.e., the six persons sending in the largest lists of English words (proper nouns included) made from the sentence, "Who will be our next President?"

The magnitude of the prize will depend on the amount of money received, or in other words on the number of competitors. Communications open until February 15, 1887, 12 o'clock.

This is not a new thing. In England large sums of money have been raised for Charity by this meethed and those who have participated and incidentally elped a worthy object have won a prize as high as $10,000 as a reward for mental activity.

The names of competitors will be published from week to week in Judge as they may come in. This will not only serve as an acknowledgement of the receipt of the money, etc., but will also will not only serve as an acknowledgement e receipt of the money, etc., but will also to show the weekly progress of the fund. rning rules in this week's Judge. THE VOICE,

JOHN A. LOGAN-DEAD. The years of 1885 and 1886 have been years of mourning for this nation. Its noted men who rose to prominence during the period of the great southern rebellion have been rapidly called away by death during the past two cycles. Grant, McClellan, Hendricks, Tilden, Arthur, have passed away, and now Gen. John A. Logan, the fearless soldier, the generous, noble statesman, the idol of the old army that cemented this union by their blood, has gone also. Struck down in

As we stand upon the threshold of another year's sad close.

How the tenderest memories cluster 'round its joys and woes!

All its mingled storms and sunshine—all its pleasure and its pain

Past forever, leaving traces burned upon the heart and brain!

Priceless hours and golden moments with life's richest pearls inwrought;

Yet those tender recollections prove they were not lived for naught.

O'er the silent earth is stealing such a holy calm to-night.

As if all the world were listening for the old year's solemn flight.

Lo, we watch the rising morning! When the shadows disappear.

Love and peace shall crown the dawning of another glad New Year.

We have no authenic report of the disease that carried the lamented Gen. John A. The campaign just closed found the country in the trough of the political waves, The Republican managers have made the best struggle they could against a state of general apathy. In a few States they have been aided by the inspiring presence of a great leader, whose spee hes have awasened almost the only enthusiasm anywhere shown. The result of the campaign ia gratifying; its gains are an inspiration; the Democratic losses are a plain guide to the popular dr ft. From this time forward the country will feel the lift of the advancing wave of 1888, which, if we all do our duty, will sweep out from Washington the masqueraders now in possession, the foes of protection, equality and patriotic government. It is now the duty of all earnest and experienced workers to bend their energies toward united and heartly work for 1888. The party is to be consolidated, cheered and rallied. To this work THE TRIBUNE offers for 1887 several ex-
