FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.

BERLIN, GERMANY, Jan. 20, '87. To the COURIER:

Berlin is said to be improving. From olden times the custom has prevailed of making New Year's eve worse than the time of a witch's sabbath. Even in the very best parts of the city such a tumult used to reign that it was absolutely dangerous to be upon the streets late in Sylvester night...

New Year's day was very generally observed by calls; but the chief interest centered in the royal palace, where the Emperor received congratulations of the nobility and high officials of the realm on the eightieth anniversary of his entrance into the army...

Fortunately the climate in Berlin is not what with us would be called severe. The papers have been speaking the past week of the unusually high temperature in Paris on the 14th of June, it was like a fire-cracker to a cannon.

The reverence in which the Emperor is held, and the extreme formality and ceremony at the court may be seen from the following opening of the address of the Crown Prince to his father on this occasion. The Crown Prince introduced the commanding general of the army, and began as follows:

"Most High and August, Most Great and Mighty Emperor, Most High and Gracious Emperor, King and Commander of the Army, Imperial and Royal Majesty, the Army celebrated today the anniversary of the time when, eighty years ago, through King Frederick William III. your most august Royal Highness was introduced into the ranks of the Prussian Army..."

Every day since the Emperor returned to Berlin last fall, a multitude of people collected before the palace at noon to see him. Here in a short space of time from the Paris-Figaro during the illness of the Emperor, William, the physician was holding a consultation in his room. The doctor started toward the Emperor, and mentally and bodily rest, when just at this moment the Guard marched past the palace. Hearing the shouts of the people, the Emperor started toward the Emperor, and mentally and bodily rest, when just at this moment the Guard marched past the palace.

I am of the opinion that the Emperor drinks wine. When he goes on a hunt for a day he usually only the wine and that of his immediate suite. He goes to the bottle for Cognac, 1 bottle Claret, 2 bottles Benedictine, and 1 bottle Swedish Punch.

Last week I was so fortunate as to be present when Bismarck dissolved the Reichstag. The scene was far different from the first, when I attended. I was quiet with only half the members present. The atmosphere of this one belated a storm, and every member alike to there was in his seat. When Bismarck is expected to take part, it is a very difficult matter to obtain a ticket. There is very little room for spectators. There are few logs for friends to sit on, and the galleries are directly over the President's seat and rostrum, and are so peculiarly situated that if one is not seated in the first row, he can see only the back seat of the auditorium. The front row of each gallery seat ten persons. As soon as I heard that Bismarck was to speak, I went to the gallery, but failed. I even visited the American Embassy, but without success; they could not help me. There are only a hundred and fifty tickets reserved for the Reichstag, and I was resolved to see Bismarck, and the invitation to come early was a promise of being admitted by a secret passage into the gallery, so that I could take the best seat. This I did and was repaid for my trouble by the interesting scene. The excitement was of course, over the Military Bill. During the voting on the second article, Bismarck appeared, and for a few moments spoke. He was wearing a "Red Book," which was a token that Parliament was to be dissolved. As the President was about to proceed to the next article, Bismarck stepped to the rostrum, and in a few words, he announced that he had to leave the House. As the members arose, and the Chancellor stepped to the rostrum, and in a few words, he announced that he had to leave the House.

The following gentlemen constitute the republican judicial committee of this district: John F. Lawrence, Ann Arbor; Charles A. Sawyer, Ann Arbor; J. D. Rowan, Monroe; Seil C. Randall, Dundee; Wm. E. Depew, Chelsea.

Foster Litchfield, of Webster, who has been a subscriber for the COURIER since the paper was first started, and at St. Todd, of Kalamazoo, who has just completed his 25th year as a COURIER subscriber, each renewed for another year during the week.

The Detroit Tribune: "James A. Robinson, court reporter for the Free Press, is missed from the city hall. His eyes became suddenly troublesome and by advice of his doctor, he left his home on Friday night to place himself under the care of an oculist. If there is one thing attaches of the several courts miss it is the case of the Detroit Tribune and light-heartedness; also his outspoken remarks after a 'scoop.' But all wish him back to work."

The following notice of the late Dr. Henry J. Ewing, whose death was recently chronicled, is taken from the New York Herald of Monday Jan. 31st, 1887: Dr. Henry J. Ewing, a well known N. Y. dentist, died of pneumonia and pleurisy at his residence, No. 135 West Forty-eighth street, New York, on Thursday, Jan. 27th, 1887. He was 67 years of age. He was a member of the New York Dental Association, and in spite of the skill of two physicians, Dr. Ewing was unable to recover. I have intended for some time to speak of "living" in Berlin. The fare at hotels is excellent, I think fully as good as in Paris, and the cooking is of a material and varieties is as good as one could wish. In private families and boarding houses, however, it is usually different. We suppose that we are especially fortunate in being where we are. A friend of mine, a professor in an American University, who is here with us, told me that he tried several places, and that this one is the only one he could put up with. Differing from the usual custom we eat at table but three times a day. As very best parts of the city such a tumult used to reign that it was absolutely dangerous to be upon the streets late in Sylvester night. This time, however, only now and then was a shot fired from a window, only a few had their pockets robbed, and the greatest danger was that if one did not return late at night "Prosit Nequiter!" he would be liable to have his hat smashed upon his head.

Rheumatism. It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid. It is certainly fair to assume that you could have walked, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time, being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and an entirely well. It cheerfully recommends Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. Wood, Bloomington, Ill.

A. L. Noble, as representative of the Ann Arbor Thomson-Houston Electric Light Co., desires us to say that while the company would be pleased to have the citizens examine the works thoroughly, they object to having the place made a loafing headquarters.

If the Huron river should "get on a tear" and wash away the slaughter houses that perfume the air for blocks in the vicinity of the 5th ward schoolhouse, we are sure that a prayer of thankfulness would go up from many a parent's heart who has to send his children to that school.

Hutzel & Co., have taken the contract for laying the water works pipe at Elgin, Ill., 21 miles in length, and will commence work about April first. If more of our business men would show the energy and "git-up" of this firm there would be more booming, as they take all the skilled labor from this city.

There was a sound of revelry at the postoffice last Monday, where all the beauty and the chivalry—aged from 4 to 14—had gathered to look for valentines. Some were gratified, some displeased and some disappointed, and some, we regret to say, took advantage of the occasion to send saucy and impudent messages to those they disliked.

The many friends of Dr. Alabaster, a former pastor of the M. E. church in this city, now pastor of Trinity church, Chicago, will be pained to know that he is in failing health. Leave of absence has been given him, and he is now at Clifton Springs, N. Y. It is sincerely to be hoped his health may be restored, and that he may live many years to do efficient work in the church.

Our genial and usually shrewd friend, Morton, on Orleans st., made a trip to Ypsilanti, and seeing in a store a fine looking crock of buckler he purchased it, and came home chuckling over his grand bargain. The quality of the crock was extra fine until he got down about four inches, then he struck a rich mine of oleomargarine which to his utter disgust filled the balance of his crock. Moral—When you want good butter buy at home where you find good honest grocers.

The "donkey social" craze has struck this city, and several such affairs have already been held. The modus operandi is thus described: "You cut a big silhouette of a tallish donkey out of cloth or paper and fasten it to the wall. Each of the guests receives a cambric tail and pin, and is then blind-folded and placed in a corner opposite the donkey. After whirling around three times he starts out to pin the tail to the donkey. Whoever he strikes the wall there he must pin the tail. The result generally is a still tallish donkey surrounded by a galaxy of tails and lots of fun."

Last Sabbath afternoon funeral services were held at St. Andrew's church over the remains of Miss Mollie Backus, who died at MacGregor, Ia., on the Thursday previous, where she had been living with a relative since the death of her father. Backus, whose home is in Detroit, is absent in Europe, where he is traveling in the hope of regaining his health, and consequently was not present at the funeral. The remains will be interred in the family lot in Forest Hill cemetery.

The new German story paper which Louis J. Lieberman has established here is a bright, neat, attractive looking journal, and although we shall not probably spend much time in perusing its columns, yet we can imagine that those who read the German readily will be greatly interested therein. Success to you Louis.

The Ypsilanti Sentinel gives its city credit for having some enterprising men, on its council, at least. It says: "We got an engine before the public knew anything about it, perhaps some morning the city will wake up drowned out with water works." Oh, horrors! Just think of it! "Supposit"—but then, what's the use?

The recent eruption of the volcano of Mauna Loa, of which Prof. Van Slyke, of Honolulu, gave a glowing description in part in the last Courier, and completes in this issue, gives double interest to these notes. The eruption began January 15, and earthquake shocks followed each other in quick succession. No damage done at latest accounts.

Last Monday morning O. G. Wales, of Toledo, was appointed station agent of the T. A. & N. M. R. R. at this place vice E. A. Phillips. This is a change that will be heard with regret by our citizens universally. With no disparagement to Mr. Wales, Mr. Phillips has made an exceedingly popular and painstaking official, and numbers his friends by the hundreds. In fact we never heard of a word said against him by any one, which is much to say in a man's favor who has served a railroad company four years as faithfully as Mr. Phillips has served his company.

Under prohibition in our state constitution Ann Arbor had upwards of eighty saloons, and no revenue to its treasury therefrom, and the saloons kept open at all hours, all days, and at all times. Under the present tax law Ann Arbor has less than forty saloons with a revenue of $12,000 and upwards yearly, and sale allowed only during certain hours. This is a question that touches the pocket books of the people, as well as the moral sense. If this community has been benefited by the tax law, will it not be corresponding injured by a return to the old method? These are questions for our voters to weigh well before deciding how they will vote on the prohibitory amendment.

Capt. E. P. Allen, M. The examination will include reading, writing, orthography, arithmetic, grammar, geography, and the fundamental rules and simple equations of algebra. Candidates for appointment must be between the ages of 14 and 18 years, and must be residents of this Congressional district.

The effort to establish a theological school in this city, by the Presbyterians has at length taken definite shape, and Mrs. Sackett, the owner of the Seaman property, corner of Huron and State sts., where the schoolhof music is now located, has made a handsome commencement of the enterprise by deeding that property valued at $13,000 to the Presbyterians for that purpose. It is hoped that a fund of $50,000 can be raised throughout the state, $15,000 of which will be used in the erection of a suitable building. The institution will be managed by seven trustees, four of whom will be chosen by the Presbyterian Society of Ann Arbor and three by the state synod. The very best wishes of the people are with this most excellent movement. To meet a non-commercial school or seminary successful here, where so many students congregate, and where the great libraries are free to everybody, would appear to be an easy matter, and we believe the Presbyterians are making a grand move in the right direction. It has been determined to name this new school after the late President Tappan.

This is the result of the investigation as we learn.

Of her lecture on "Socialism and Society" delivered for the benefit of the Presbyterian church in that city recently, the Joliet Daily Press says: "The lecture was an able one and was delivered in a fine, effective manner. The subject is handled well, and shows depth of thought and research. Miss Burlingame is an eloquent and talented young lady, and expounds correct views on the problem with which she deals."

The Young People's Society of the Baptist church propose to give a novel entertainment, called "The Spinning Wheel Days." At the grand opera house Monday evening, Feb. 21st you will have a chance to see "Over the Garden Wall," of which the N. Y. Herald remarks: "Over the Garden Wall," last evening at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, was a good husband claimed upon the bills, the piece was gotten up for laughing purposes only, and it more than fills its mission. It is immensely funny. Mr. J. J. Smith being in splendid form and keeping the audience yelling with laughter at his comical acting. His songs were exceedingly well received. Mr. Knight repeated her charming hit as Nelly Wrangle, and sang and danced to the delight of all present. Our Bridget was no small factor in the fun-making.

"Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Knight appeared at the Fourteenth Street Theatre last evening in the absurdity called "Over the Garden Wall," and, as usual, amused their audience. Mr. Knight acted cleverly as a drunken German, Mr. James Quinn was comical as a stupid servant girl, and Mr. Edwin Foy made a hit as a burlesque ballet girl. The St. Felix sisters were seen in some new dances. That is what the New York Evening Post says of this entertaining play.

Jump "Over the Garden Wall" next Monday eve, at the opera house. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Knight are famous on the American stage for their excellent ability and sprightly manners, and "Over the Garden Wall," is full of happy hits and comical situations.

Of the Ragan Illuminated Tours, to be given at the University hall Friday evening, Feb. 18th, The Rocky Mountain News, of Denver, under date of May 18th, 1886, said:

As alle and corridors were thronged with people who stood patiently for nearly two hours during the performance, it was estimated that at least 500 failed to gain admittance. The character of the audience was flattering in the highest degree, and fairly represented the cultured people of Denver. It may be said that every reasonable expectation was more than realized. The entertainment is properly a magnificent illustration of lecturing, and one who knows which to emphasize the most, the lecture or the illustrations. The latter are the finest of the kind that have yet been produced, and this strong statement is supported by the best artistic authority in Europe and America.

In promulgating esoteric cogitations or articulating superficial sentimentalism and philosophical or psychological observations, beware of platitudinous ponderosity. Let your statements possess a clarified conciseness, compacted comprehensibility, coherent consistency and a concentrated cogency. Eschew all conglomerations of flutulent garrulity, jejune babblement and asinine affectations. In trying to impress upon others the superiority, reliability, and purity of all medicines and chemicals at Goodyear's Drug Store it is not necessary to use jaw-breakers. Let your extemporaneous despatchings and unpremeditated expatiations have intelligibility and veracious vivacity, without rhodomontade or theatrical bombast. Sedulously avoid all polysyllabic profundity, pituitous vacuity, ventriloquist verbosity, vapidiloquent vapidity; shun double entendres, prurient jocosity and pesteriferous profanity obscurent or apparent. In other words, talk plainly, naturally, sensibly, and truthfully, say that Goodyear's Drug Store is really the best place in Washtenaw County to buy pure drugs, etc., at low prices; also that special attention is given to the careful preparation of prescriptions and family medicines.
