From the Washington Critic. THE JUDGE TO MANDY. He writes His Private Secretary in Addressing a Letter to Mrs. Waxem.

"I wish to goodness you'd lend me a stamp," said Judge Waxem, the Member from Wayback, to a Critic representing himself as a member of the Reform party.

"All right, young fellow, but you've got to make 25 cents discount on it," said the Critic, who was a member of the Reform party.

"I'm no equine dupe," replied the scribe, politely. "All right, young fellow, but you've got to make 25 cents discount on it."

How the New South is Growing. DECATUR, Ala., Feb. 15, 1888. ED. COURIER:—In my first letter I had something to say about the climate of North Alabama, and the contrast it has presented to the blizzard-stricken region of the north.

"In sorry Colonel McSwiggles' old dog couldn't come on and partake of the social splendors of the Capital. That is a good many pretty young women here, but Maria's giggles could a heck better out of the swing-free right along and never ruffled, for they ain't much show, though of ketchin' husbands for the girls, or wives for the men.

"I'm surprised to 'meet up,' as the southerners say, with so many Michigan people in this place. I have to-day talked with several, and find they are all highly pleased with their southern home.
