THE SLEEPERS.

They are sleeping! Who are sleeping Children, wearied with their play; For the stars of night are peeping And the sun hath sunk away. As the dew upon the blossoms Bow them on their slender stem, So, as light as their own bosoms,

Vol. XVI.

They are sleeping! Who are sleeping? Mortals, co npassed round with wee Eyelids, wearied out with weeping, C osed for very weakness now; And that short relief from sorrow, Harassed nature shall sustain, Till they wake again to morrow, Strengthened to contend with pain

Balmy sleep hath conquered them.

They are sleeping! Who are sleeping? Captives in their gloomy sells; Yet sweet dreams are o'er them creeping, With their many-colored spells;
All they love—again they clasp them;
Feel again their long-lost joys;
But the haste with which they grasp them,

Every fairy form destroys, They are sleeping! Who are sleeping ! Misers, by their hoarded gold; And in fancy now are heaping

Gems and pearls of price untold. Golden chains their lumbs encumber, Diamonds seem before them strown; But they waken from their slumber, And the splended dream is flown.

They are sleeping! Who are sleeping?
Pause a moment, softly tread;
Anxious friends are foundly keeping Vigils by the sleeper's bed! Other hopes have all forsaken-

One remains—that slumber deep; Speak not, lest the slumberer waken From that sweet, that saving sleep.

They are sleeping! Who are sleeping?
Thousands, who have passed away,
From a world of woe and weeping, To the regions of decay! Safe they rest, the green turf under;

Sighing breeze, or music's breath, Winter's wind, or summer's thunder Cannot break the sleep of death! THE FALL OF TABLE ROCK.

THERE are thousands of Young Max, as well as MIDDLE AGED and Old Max, who are suffering to some extent from the above diseases. Many, perhaps, are not aware of their true condition, or when assistance is really needed.
For the benefit of such, we herewith give a few of the most common symptoms, vis: Washness of the Back and Limbs, Pain in the Hend and Side, Dinness of Sight, Dats and Webs before the Siges, Pulpitation of the Henr, Dyspenia, Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, America to Society, Self-Distract, Timidity, etc. For each and all of the above symptoms these remedies will be found a "Soyersign Balm."

These remedies embrace three prescriptions: A box of Passels, a box of Nerseus Tonic Pills, and a box of Virils Tonic Pills, and a box of Virils and should be used together in every case. Their superiority over other modes of treatment may be briefly stated as follows, viz:

They diminish the violence of sexual excitement.

They immediately arrest necturnal and diurnal emisaions. They remove local weakness, causing the organs to assume their natural tone and vigor.

3. They strengthen the constitution by overcoming nerveus deblity and general weakness.

3. They cultives the spirits, which are usually depressed, by expelling all exciting causes from the system.

DOCTORS gen raily pretend that Consumption is incurable, because they cannot cure it themselves; but this does not make it true.

Many mechanics will works on a job all day and after comp nothing but spoil the material they will tell you it never can be done in the way you want it. But by applying to a better workman—one who thoroughly understands his business—you will get your work accomplished in shape.

by applying to a better workman—one who theroughly unlershads his business—you will get your work accomplished in shape.

In this respect there is the same difference to be found in all trades and professions. The burglers in mechanism, in the arts, in law, in theology, and in physic, will say such things cannot be done. And it is muchar they could not be if all men were like themselves. But fortunately there is another class of men, and these, when they take your case in hand, do the job as you want it, or restore you to health, according to desire. We have only to remember this act to understand why one physician should pronounce that incurable which another can cure.

In mechanics, we sometimes find that by a possession of superior means, by some new invention, of which has the sole use, or by the greater lagenity of his mind, one person will make or do what no other can.

Exactly it may be so in physic. And this is the very reason why I have such great success over all others in the treatment of Consumption. By having the original genius, by possessing the Lung-Meter, which enables me to clearly determine the nature of the insease and by having such remedies for Consumption as no other Physician ever had, make bold t say that I have, and can effect a cure of this disease beyond the reach of any other man. To prove this to have been the case. I might give you numbers upon numbers of certificates from men and women given over to the grave, who have been rescued and restored to health by the persevering use of my remedies for Consumption. But it is not necessary for me to do so here, for the fact of one man doing what another cannot cannot, is evident to all men of common sense. If the Cousumptive wishes further proof than this, I can only say, come and satisfy yourself by trial of my skill in the cure of your complait.

Hotter for the fact of the discounter of your complait.

Some Facts about Wheat and its Culture The wheat plant is much more sensitive to heat than It is to cold. If it be steepe for only fifteen minutes in water ten de is destroyed. In Northern-latitudes the plant lives 180 days, but in Mexico only 00. Hence it is that our extreme Southern States have never been great wheat producing regions. Climate alone forbids it, even if the the soil were a right one Wheat requires a soil rich in hosphates, just as the vine requires lime Every plant seems to need a specific stimulant. The tea of Java is inferior be cause the soil is overloaded with the salts of iron, a cause to which the Nankin cotton of China owes its orange color .-Wheat also has its favorites in the catalogue of manures. British agriculture aided by chemistry, has discovered what they are, and having used them freely, is with the Comptroller of the State of New York. Div rewarded by crops that nearly treble the yield of hulf a century ago. These are the phosphates. Distant countries are exhausted of bones to supply them, and vast quantities of phosphatic fertilizers are manufactured at home to meet the growing demand. Winter-killing is constantly complained of by farmers without the causes being accurately known. If sowed too deep, the grain produces so few roots that it cannot afford to lose any of them without perishing. When the ground freezes and thaws many times, at ca h freezing it cracks open. The roots extend across these cracks and are torn assunder, thus depriving the plant of its necessary nourishment, when in many instances it per ishes outright, or maintains a sickly or unprofitable existence. Sometimes the crop is thrown entirely out of the ground, when it is sure to perish, as the chance of forming new roots is gone. The natural remedy for such calamities is known to be a deep covering of snow. As the plant, during the Winter, exerts all its energy in developing roots and leaves, erfect it, a heavy and lasting snow keeps it so warm as to allow this ergy to act, besides effectually protecng its roots from rupture by alternate freezing and thawing, But seasons occur when no snowy blanket falls. The artificial remedy is underdraining, and if done thoroughly, it may be pronounced effectually against winter-killing. Brit ish agriculture abounds with proof of this, and in this country, since underdraining has been introduced, there is much confirmatory evidence. Our severe and varfirmatory evidence. Our severe and variable climate renders it much more necessary than in England. One of the most marvelous faculties of the wheat plant is that of sending up a multitude of stalks from a single grain known as tillering. It is the secret of its great productiveness. Many experiments have been made to ascertain the limit of this faculty, and the results have been truly wonderful. An English gentleman sowed a few grains of common red wheat on the 2d of June, one of the plants from which had tillered so much by the 8th of August, that he then divided it into eighteen others, all of which were planted separately. In a few weeks so many of these had again multiplied their stalks, that he had set out sixty-seven altogether to go through the winter. With the Spring growth all these began tillering, so that in March and April a new divis ion was made, and the number of plants increased to 500. It was believed that another division might have been made and that it would have increased the number to 2,000. The 500 grew most vigorously, exceeding plants as ordinarily When harvested, a single plant yielded over 100 ears, and the whole number of ears produced was 21,-409, or more than 40 to each divided plant, and the grain measured 3 3-4 pecks, weighing 471 pounds. The grains were estimated as numbering 576,840.-All this was the product of a single

It is an error to suppose that ours is the greatest wheat-producing country. -We do our full share, without doubt, but our system of agriculture is steadily exhausting our best lands, and in a few years a diminution of the yield will be apparent in our census returns. Last year's crop is assumed to be 180,000,000 ashels, but the average is probably only 120,000,000. The average yield of other

Here is an annual production of over 306,000,000 bushels. If the crops of ntinent are included, the total may be safely assumed to be 900,000,000, as the unascertained product of Russia and Would Notify The TRADE that they are open Turkey must be very large. No better evidence of the primary value of the wheat plant to the human family could be given than such an exhibition as this. It proves that where the highest civilization has been attained, there the greatest production is realized .- New York Tri-
