Love at Sight and Without Sight. I have before stated that some of the private soldiers, from the upper rooms, were employed in the officers' quarters.

Some inexplicable cause the corporal was not again permitted to go out, and a negro—I should have mentioned that quite a number of servants were in the prison—was detached in his stead.

As in the first instance, the only communication which accompanied the gift was the donor's card. The corporal again acknowledged his obligations by a polite note.

When the glad tidings of our release came, the name of Corporal M. was found in the list. The intelligence was quickly conveyed to my young ward.

A circumstance is connected with the dispenser's notice before referred to, which deserves a passing notice. Before I left the prison, the picture was taken from the engravings.

SIR—Don't alarm yourself. If, after three weeks, the bullet is not removed, give the boy a charge of powder. Yours, &c.

P. S.—Don't shoot the boy at anybody. This is much akin to the laconic prescription of the celebrated Dr. Abernethy.

ANN ARBOR. FRIDAY MORNING, FEB. 14, 1862.

From the "Michigan Ninth."

CAMP HAYCRATT, Elizabethtown, Ky., February 31st, 1862. FRIEND POND:—I thought I would not write you again till I could have the pleasure of gratifying you with a description of a battle fought by the Michigan Ninth.

On the 3d day of this month, Col. Durfield received orders to march with headquarters and six companies of the Regiment, to Elizabethtown.

Some little time after the incident just related, I found myself one morning at a place called Oromeloto, a favorite drinking rendezvous of elephants.

Some little time after the incident just related, I found myself one morning at a place called Oromeloto, a favorite drinking rendezvous of elephants.

We took up our march on the 17th, a little before noon, and reached Bloomington a little before dark.

It is not expected that a battle will be fought between the Grand army of the United States, in Kentucky, and the rebel forces at Bowling Green.

Our regiment, I understand, is to pitch a convalescent camp near here for the accommodation of 2,000 convalescent soldiers.

Elizabethtown has a population of about 1500, and has been settled half a century.

The English government in June, last, is an English law got up for effect in the United States.

The company at Nolin is guarding the bridge which was burned by the rebels. It is in command of Captain Newcomb.

This month has been quite an unfavorable month for drilling; it has rained nearly every day in the month, and the mud is so plenty here as snow is with you.

The London Times on our Lake Defences. The London Times of the 7th thinks that, in case of a war with the United States, Canada would be attacked by sea instead of land.

Col. Dufield had a very interesting diplomatic correspondence with Captain Fry, chief of staff, in which the Colonel exhibited such superior skill and ability.

Not much could be done, probably, on either side, as the vessels must be expended from materials at Bowling Green.

President Lincoln Reveals.

We learn from excellent authority that during the recent visit of the Finance Committee of our Board of Trade to Washington, an informal visit was paid to President Lincoln.

Why, don't you know where they have gone? I thought everybody knew that.

The Ericsson Iron-Clad Battery. This battery was launched at Gun Point Long Island, New York.

The deck or top of the battery is even with the top of the hull, and is covered with two thicknesses of iron plate.

Not much could be done, probably, on either side, as the vessels must be expended from materials at Bowling Green.

CAPTURE OF FORT HENRY.

The Rebels Feel the Desperation of their Situation. We have a thousand proofs that the southern people are not sufficiently alive to the necessity of exertion in the struggle they are involved in.

The evidence of the prevailing sentiment are manifold. They are proved by the act of men who are elected to responsible positions. Many of palliatives, expedients and partial measures control in our public councils.

Better to fight at the risk of losing battles, than remain inactive to fill up the ranks of the rebellion. The government will not be so easily deceived.

The Richmond Examiner, this morning, in a leading editorial says: "The loss of our entire army on Roanoke Island is certainly the most painful event of the war."

Gen. Tighman is disheartened, and thinks it one of the most damaging blows of the war. In a letter to the Richmond Examiner, he remarked: "I am glad to surrender to you gallant officers."

The Cincinnati was in the lead, and, flying the flag-officer's pennant, was the chief mark. Flag-officer Foote and Captain Stembel crowded her defiantly into the teeth of the enemy's guns.

The Cincinnati had one killed and six wounded, the Essex six men killed and two officers, and seventeen wounded and five missing.

The Burnside Expedition.

The Fight at Roanoke Island. A Fort Monroe letter of the 9th states that the bombardment of Roanoke Island continued.

It was rumored at Norfolk on the morning of the 9th, that three regiments had been recently sent to Roanoke Island, and, as there was no chance of escape, they are all probably captured.

LATEST BY TELEGRAPH.

Fort Monroe, Feb. 11. By a flag of truce to-day we learn the complete success of the Burnside expedition.

The first news of the defeat arrived at Norfolk on Sunday afternoon. It caused great excitement. The previous news was very satisfactory, stating that the Yankees had been allowed to advance for the purpose of drawing them into a trap.

The rebel force on the island is supposed to have been little over three thousand fighting men. Gen. Winder was ill at Nag's Head, and was not present during the engagement.

Gen. Huger telegraphed to Richmond that only fifty on the island escaped. The Richmond Examiner, this morning, in a leading editorial says: "The loss of our entire army on Roanoke Island is certainly the most painful event of the war."

Nonfolk, 10th.—The latest news states that Capt. O. Jennings, Wason of Governor Wise, was shot through the hip and disabled, though his wound is not mortal.

Major Lawson and Lieut. Miller were mortally wounded. About 300 Confederates were killed. The number of Yankees wounded is about the same.

A late arrival this morning says that Elizabeth City has been shelled and burned by the Yankees, and that the enemy was pursuing on to Edenton.

The following, the very latest, we copy from the Norfolk Day Book: "A courier arrived here yesterday P. M., about three o'clock, from whom we gather the following information: The enemy advanced in full force upon Elizabeth City yesterday about seven o'clock, and began an attack upon that place."

A Card.

The members of the First Presbyterian Society have great pleasure in acknowledging their obligations to Prof. Fritze, and the ladies and gentlemen who assisted him at the concert given on the evening of the 10th inst., for the benefit of the Organ Fund of said Society; and to the generous public who so nobly responded to the call in this behalf.

Ann Arbor Boys Complimented.

The Lieut. Brown spoken of in the following letter from Port Royal to the Chicago Tribune, is our young fellow townsman, Lieut. W. A. Brown of the Michigan Eighth:

"On one of the night sentries, a small party of men under Lieutenant Brown and Porter surprised an outpost of the enemy who were stationed about a mile from a body of Cavalry. Eight of them were sitting about a fire engaged in a social game of cards. Our men had got around their rear. As soon as they saw that their approach was noticed, they halted under the shade of an old live oak. One of the rebels, springing to his feet demanded, 'Who goes there?' 'Friend, with the Stars and Stripes,' shouted Lieut. Brown. Upon this they fired upon our boys who returned the fire, killing two. They then retreated, trying to flank our boys, in order to gain their own camp. But the Michiganders poured in minie balls so rapidly, and the six surrendered, and are now at Beaufort."

Our thanks are due to Hon. B. F. CHANDLER and R. E. THOMPSON for various public documents of interest.

We learn through rebel sources that an unsuccessful attack has been made on Forts McRae and Baranca, and the Navy Yard, at Pensacola.

The Secretary of War has advertised for proposals for a daily mail between Fort Monroe and Port Royal via Hatteras and Roanoke Island.

The news from Port Royal indicates an early advance on Savannah. It can be reached by water without passing under the guns of Fort Pulaski. The city is being fortified.

New York, Feb. 10.

A vessel has arrived from Havana on the 25th.

The steamer Vera Cruz the 15th states that 16,000 allied troops were there, but 50,000 Mexicans were near Puebla.

The ultimatum of the allied Powers left on the 19th, to be presented to Juarez, and they also issued a manifesto, denying plans of conquest by Mexico, saying they came to extend the hand of friendship to a country wasting its vitality in civil convulsions, and ask the Mexicans to deliver themselves up to the good intentions of the allies. It was also decided that payment be exacted for the recent expenses of the allies. Four days were allowed for reply.

Venezuela is again plunged in civil war.

The rebel steamer Victoria and a schooner had arrived at Havana with cotton from New Orleans.

Santa Anna will arrive at Havana by the next steamer from St. Thomas and goes immediately to Mexico.

Prince Alfred had arrived at Havana where he heard of the death of his father.

A letter from New Orleans, received by the Victoria, says that the Superintendent employs on the Opelousas Railroad had been discovered for delivering the road to the Union forces, and this news was aided at Berkeley Bay.

The rebel steamer Vanderbilt had run the blockade, out and in again.

Vern Cruz advices of the 21st, say the allies had advanced towards the interior to Espiritu Santo, and the Mexicans retired without fighting.

Capt. Porter, of the Essex, is severely injured that was at first supposed. His arms, face and neck were badly scalded, and one eye is seriously affected.

Venezuela is again plunged in civil war.

The rebel steamer Victoria and a schooner had arrived at Havana with cotton from New Orleans.

Santa Anna will arrive at Havana by the next steamer from St. Thomas and goes immediately to Mexico.

Prince Alfred had arrived at Havana where he heard of the death of his father.

A letter from New Orleans, received by the Victoria, says that the Superintendent employs on the Opelousas Railroad had been discovered for delivering the road to the Union forces, and this news was aided at Berkeley Bay.

The rebel steamer Vanderbilt had run the blockade, out and in again.

Vern Cruz advices of the 21st, say the allies had advanced towards the interior to Espiritu Santo, and the Mexicans retired without fighting.

Capt. Porter, of the Essex, is severely injured that was at first supposed. His arms, face and neck were badly scalded, and one eye is seriously affected.

Our thanks are due to Hon. B. F. CHANDLER and R. E. THOMPSON for various public documents of interest.

We learn through rebel sources that an unsuccessful attack has been made on Forts McRae and Baranca, and the Navy Yard, at Pensacola.

The Secretary of War has advertised for proposals for a daily mail between Fort Monroe and Port Royal via Hatteras and Roanoke Island.

The news from Port Royal indicates an early advance on Savannah. It can be reached by water without passing under the guns of Fort Pulaski. The city is being fortified.

Important from Havana.

New York, Feb. 10.

A vessel has arrived from Havana on the 25th.

The steamer Vera Cruz the 15th states that 16,000 allied troops were there, but 50,000 Mexicans were near Puebla.

The ultimatum of the allied Powers left on the 19th, to be presented to Juarez, and they also issued a manifesto, denying plans of conquest by Mexico, saying they came to extend the hand of friendship to a country wasting its vitality in civil convulsions, and ask the Mexicans to deliver themselves up to the good intentions of the allies. It was also decided that payment be exacted for the recent expenses of the allies. Four days were allowed for reply.

The Nutritive and Digestive Qualities of Food.

The importance of this subject is so very obvious in itself, that it is deemed wholly unnecessary to offer any remark upon it. The nutritive and digestive qualities of the food we eat, are matters which concern the health of every individual. Many experiments and analyses have been made by competent men of science, to determine these points, and the results of them will be found comprised in the following:

Wheat is the richest in the elements of nutrition of all substances, except oil—containing ninety five parts of nutriment in every one hundred parts.—Indian corn ranks next in value to wheat, as it yields, according to Dana, ninety-one parts to the hundred of nutriment. In barley there is eighty-nine, in rice eighty-six, in rye twenty-nine, in oats twenty, in buckwheat sixty-eight per cent. of nutriment.

Meat of all kinds, in its raw state, contains about from seventy to eighty per cent. of water; hence, when evaporated to dryness, the residue amounts to from twenty to thirty per cent., which may be regarded as composed almost entirely of digestible matter.—Mutton is the most nutritious; then chicken, then beef, then veal, then pork, which is least so.

The fruits are as follows: plums, twenty-nine; grapes, twenty-seven; apricots, twenty-six; cherries, twenty-five; peaches, twenty; apples, nearly the same; pears, sixteen, and gooseberries, nineteen per cent. of nutriment matter. Garden vegetables stand the lowest on the list in respect to the amount of nutrition afforded by them, inasmuch as they contain, when fresh, a great portion of water. Cucumbers give only two per cent., melons three per cent., turnips four per cent., cabbage five per cent., carrots ten per cent., beets fourteen per cent., and potatoes—the highest—twenty six per cent.

Digestion is the conversion of food into chyme, or the process of decomposing aliment in the stomach, and re-composing it in a new form, and thus preparing it for circulation and nourishment. Of all the articles of food, boiled rice is digested in the shortest time—an hour. Tripe and pigs' feet are digested almost as rapidly. Apples, if sweet and ripe, are next in order.—Vanish is digested almost as readily as apples. Boiled potatoes require three hours for digestion, while roasted potatoes are converted in little more than half that time. Bread requires three hours, nearly—more than beef or mutton. Stewed oysters and boiled eggs are digested in four hours, an hour more than is required by the same articles raw. Turkey and goose occupy two hours and a half, but chicken requires a longer time. Pork and salted beef require five hours and a half for their digestion—more time, perhaps, than almost any other article of food.

J. M. H. Oswego Co., N. Y., 1861.

The Troops in Kentucky.—With the exception of Iowa, Missouri and Kansas, every Western State is represented in Kentucky by more or less regiments. Of the Eastern States, only Pennsylvania has troops there.—Ohio has sent the largest contingent of all—over thirty regiments. Indiana is a few behind this number. Next come Pennsylvania with five, Illinois with three, Michigan with three, Wisconsin with three, and Minnesota with two. Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania, have sent strong complements of cavalry and artillery, and Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, each some artillery.

Tell me, argute words, ye messengers of love, shall swayed printers here below, have no redress above? The shining angel had replied: "To us is knowledge given; delinquents on the printer's books can never enter heaven!"

The Capture of Cedar Keys.—The Charleston Mercury admits that the Cedar Keys, in Florida, have been captured by a Union expedition. By this movement, it says, the Federals have gained possession of the western terminus of the Florida Railroad, which connects the Gulf of Mexico with the Atlantic Ocean. Cedar Keys is a small town with about thirty houses, and probably one hundred inhabitants. The bar has nine feet of water, and is a good harbor for small vessels.

Visitors to the University.—The Superintendent of Public Instruction has appointed Hon. E. H. Thompson, of Flint, Rev. Azariah Eldridge, of Detroit, and D. K. Underwood, of Adrian, visitors to the University of Michigan for the years 1862 and '63.

The Independence Bells declares that the Prince de Joinville planned the Sherman and Burdise expeditions, and gave valuable advice to the Federal troops.

A Good Basis.—It is confidently asserted that the gold now held by the banks and the people in the Northern States amounts to $250,000,000.

Few minds are sunlike, sources of light in themselves and to others.—Many more are moons, that shine with a derivative and reflected light. Among the tests to distinguish them in this—the former are always full, the latter only now and then, when their suns are shining full upon them.

Words are nice things, but they strike hard. We wield them so easily that we are apt to forget their hidden power. Filly spoken, they fall like sunshine, the dew and the summer rain; but when unfeily, like the frost, the hail, and the desolating tempest.

Money Wanted.

Who will Lend Money?

Ten Per Cent Interest, (Or More.)

Sorrow comes soon enough without despondency; it does a man no good to carry around a lightning rod to attract trouble.

He who puts a bad construction upon a good act, reveals his own wickedness of heart.

It costs something to be elected Mayor of New York. At the late election, Guthrie's bills are put down at $20,000, Opike's $29,000, and Wood's $10,000.

The discovery of truth by slow progressive meditation, is wisdom. Intuition of truth, not proceeded by any perceptible meditation, is genius.
