The Student Heart.

(From the German—For the Boston Post.)

Oh student-heart, what makes thee grieve?
Why droops thy weary wing?
Dost ask if freedom yet doth live,
Of which the poets sing?

Oh student-heart, the strife give o'er,
Our land is freedom's home no more!

Alas, no, no, no freedom is my smart,
Not therefore my remorse;
My heart is just a human heart,
And beats with human force!

That I am far from her I love,
Grieves me all other things above,
Poor heart, my pity you excite,
You keenly feel the dart;

So far away, in love despite,
Forced from your love to part,
Yet be consoled and courage take,
And bear your ills for her dear sake!

Alas, no pleasure can I have,
No joy can I invite;
To be with her is all I crave,
All that can give delight.

Away from her I sigh and moan,
And beats my heart for her alone.

Well, then to her you dearly love,
Return in quickest time;
Pack up your books and make a move
Toward her for whom you pine!

In her dear arms and on her breast
Oh, student-heart, thou'lt be at rest.

'Tis idle, all, thy tarrying here
With yearnings such as thine;
Science, a mistress is, severe,
To pilgrims at her shrine—
And love a jealous deity.
With learning bath no sympathy.

THE WITHDRAWAL OF MASON FROM ENGLAND.
The Index, the London organ of the rebels, publishes the text of the letter in which Mr. Mason announces the termination of the Confederate mission to England:

"24 Upper Seymour St., Portman Square, London, September 21, 1863.
The Right Honorable Earl Russell, Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs:

"My Lord:—In a dispatch from the Secretary of State of the Confederate States of America, dated 4th day of August last, and now just received, I am instructed to consider the mission which brought me to England as at an end, and I am directed to withdraw at once from this country.

"The reasons for terminating this mission are set forth in an extract from the dispatch which I have the honor to communicate herewith:

"The President believes that the Government of her Majesty has determined to decline the overtures made through you for establishing by treaty, friendly relations between the two governments, and entertains no intention of receiving you as the accredited Minister of this Government near the British Court. Under these circumstances your continued residence in London is neither conducive to the interests, nor consistent with the dignity of this government and the President therefore requests that you consider your mission at an end and that you withdraw with your secretary from London."

"Having made known to your lordship on my arrival here, the character and purposes of the mission entrusted to me by my Government, I have deemed it due to courtesy thus to make known to the Government of Her Majesty its termination, and that I shall as directed, at once withdraw from England."

"I have the honor to be your lordship's very obedient servant."
J. M. MASON."

On this the Index makes the following comments, setting forth several reasons for withdrawal which are not embodied in Mr. Mason's letter:

"Mr. Slidell, we understand will remain in France as special commissioner to that government. Nor is it at all contemplated to terminate that mission and yet France, equally with England has so far refrained from entering into international relations with the Confederate States.

"There must be some overruling cause for the difference thus made between France and England in the termination of one mission and not the other. To those at all conversant with what is passing in the Southern States this is no mystery. Mr. Slidell has been received and uniformly treated by the government of France with every mark of consideration and respect for the government he represents. There may be grave reasons regarding policy or public law why France, like England, may not deem it incumbent as yet to recognize those States as an independent political power; but their representative has been freely admitted to every form of intercourse with the government of France for personal interviews with the Emperor whenever he has asked for them, with immediate access to all or any of the ministry, at first request. This would, indeed, seem but an ordinary courtesy to a gentleman in his position—the refusal of it would be more than a discourtesy—it would be an actual indignity to those whose representative he is.

"In England, Mr. Mason has been held by the government in the very opposite position. His correspondence with the Foreign Office laid before Congress at Richmond, we know from the southern press, produced a feeling of deep and universal indignation. It showed that, with the exception of a single and formal interview with Earl Russell, on his arrival, appointed at his residence, and not at the Foreign Office, he had been admitted to no intercourse whatever."

WOMAN.—A true woman can always find something to take hold of—her love is a very wild flower, that will grow in the crevices of the roughest rocks, and even there send down a root that the wind cannot dislodge nor the drought wither. Miss Webster.

Pat's Idea of the Divinity.

A friend, whom we shall call Pat, 'for short,' tells us the following good story about himself:

When but an idle boy, he was called up in a country school and the question suddenly propounded by the pedagogue—

"Patrick, how many Gods are there?" Pat was not a distinguished theologian then, and years have made him no better "very fast" in such matters, but he promptly responded—

"Three, sir."

"Take your seat!" thundered the master, "and if in five minutes you don't answer correctly, I'll welt you."

The probationary period passed, and Pat, taking the floor hesitatingly, stated the number of Gods at "five, sir."

He received the promised "welting" and a remand to his seat ten minutes for consideration. The ten minutes up, Pat was up too, and satisfied that he hadn't fixed the matter sufficiently high before, he shouted, "There's ten, sir."

He saw the ferule descending, and bolting out of the door he cleared a five-rail fence, and broke like a quarter horse across the field. Panting with exertion, he met a lad with a book under his arm, and with the look of one desiring the pursuit of knowledge under difficulties. "Where are you going?" asked Pat.

"To school yonder," was the reply. "You are, aye?" said Pat, quietly. "How many Gods are there?"

"One," answered the boy. "Well, you'd better not go down there. You'll have a good time with your own God. I've just left there with ten, and that wasn't enough to save me from the darndest licking you ever heard of."

Best Climate for Sheep.

Sheep can stand cold weather without injury if it is dry. Sudden changes and cold rains are very injurious. We believe sheep require shelter quite as much in the South-west as at the North. The weather is not as cold, but it is more changeable, and the sheep frequently get thoroughly soaked to the skin. In this condition a cold raw wind and a damp soil cannot help but carry off much of the heat which is necessary to the well-being of the sheep.

The natural heat of the body of sheep (105°) is much higher than that of horses and cattle. This heat is kept up by the consumption of food (or burning of fuel) in the lungs, etc., of the animal. To prevent this heat from flying off, the sheep is provided with a good, warm coat of wool. To be effectual, however, the coat must be kept dry.

In a cold, dry climate, if the wool gets a little wet on the outside it is soon frozen, and this acts as a coat of mail, with a good warm lining of dry wool inside, so that the heat from the warm body within does not fly off. It is said that the Scotch Highlanders in old times, when exposed during frosty nights, wet their plaids before lying down to sleep, and by holding them a short time from their bodies they were free from a stiff, hard board, sufficiently thick and impervious to defend them from the cold. The slight coat of frozen wool acts in the same way. But in wet weather there is no such protection, and so it is that you will find it equally important to provide shelter in the warm, but wet and changeable climate of the South-western States.—Stock Journal.

How Nature Covers up Battle-Fields.

Fields. Did I ever tell you, among the affecting little things one is always seeing in these stirring war times, how I saw on the Bull Run battle-field pretty, pure, delicate flowers growing out of empty ammunition boxes, a rose thrusting up its graceful head through the head of a Union drum—which doubtless sounded its last charge, or retreat, as the case may have been, in that battle—and a cunning scarlet verbenas peeping out of a fragment of burst shell, in which strange cup it had been planted? Wasn't that peace growing out of war? Even so shall the graceful and beautiful ever grow out of the horrid and terrible things that transpire in this changing but ever advancing world. Nature covers even battle grounds with verdure and bloom. Peace and plenty soon spring up in the track of devastating campaigns, and all things in nature and society shall work out the progress of mankind and harmony of God's great designs.

A KENTUCKY ANECDOTE.

A gentleman owned a slave who was a very intelligent fellow, and a Universalist. On one occasion he illustrated the character of his religion in the following manner: A certain slave had obtained a license of the Baptists to preach. He was holding forth in the presence of many of his colored brethren at one time, when he undertook to describe the process of Adam's creation. When God made Adam, he stooped down, scraped up a little dirt, wet it a little, warmed it in his hands, and squeezed it in the right shape, and then lean it up against the fence to dry—

"Stop here," said our Universalist darkey; "You say dat are de first man ever made?" "Sartin," "Den," said the other, "Jes tell whar dat are fence came from?" "Hush!" said the preacher, "two more questions like dat would spile all de theology in de world!"

"'Tis strange," said a young man, as he staggered home from a supper party, "shaw evill communications corrupt good manners. I've been surrounded by tumblers all the evening, and now I'm a tumbler myself."

Henry Clay on Abolitionism.

The sage of Ashland, with remarkable foresight, often spoke of the dangers that would result from a triumph of abolitionism in this country, and the consequent disregard of a part of the people for the rights of others. The following letter of his to Mr. Colton furnishes an exposition of his views of the revolutionary tendencies of radicalism:

"ASHLAND, Sept. 2, 1843.
"MY DEAR SIR—Allow me to select a subject for one of your tracts, which, treated in your popular and condensed way, I think would be attended with great and good effect. I mean abolition: 'It is manifest that the ultras of that party are extremely mischievous, and are hurrying on the country to fearful consequences. They are not to be conciliated by the whigs. Engrossed with a single idea, they care for nothing else.'"

"And yet they would see the administration of the government precipitate the nation into absolute ruin before they would lend a helping hand to arrest its career. They treat worse, denounce most, those who treat them best, who so far agree with them as to admit slavery to be an evil. Witness their conduct towards Mr. Briggs and Mr. Adams in Massachusetts, and towards me."

"I will give an outline of the manner in which I would handle it. Show the origin of slavery; trace its introduction to the British government; show how it is disposed of by the Federal constitution; that it is left exclusively to the States, except in regard to fugitives, direct taxes and representation."

"Show that the agitation of the question in the free States will first destroy all harmony, and finally lead to disunion, poverty, and perpetual war, the extermination of the African race—ultimate military despotism."

"But the great aim and object of your tract should be to arouse the laboring classes of the free States against abolition. Depict the consequences to them of immediate abolition. The slaves, being free, would be dispersed throughout the Union; they would enter into competition with the free laborer, with the American, the Irish, the German, reduce his wages, be confounded with him, and affect his moral and social standing."

"And, as the ultras go both for abolition and amalgamation, show that their object is to unite in marriage the laboring whites and the laboring blacks, and to reduce the white laboring man to the despised and degraded condition of the black man."

"I would show their opposition to colonization—show its humane, religious and patriotic aim. Why do abolitionists oppose colonization? To keep and amalgamate together two races in violation of God's will, and keep the blacks here that they may interfere with, degrade and debase the laboring whites. Show that the British government is co-operating with the abolitionists for the purpose of dissolving the Union. I am perfectly satisfied that it will do great good. Let me hear you on this subject."

HENRY CLAY.

ARTEMAS WARD ON THE WAR.

Not many more cute things have been said on the political managers of this war than the following, which occurs in Artemas Ward's famous lecture on 'Ghosts':

The last subject of which I thought was the war. When I was an apprentice to the printing business, in New Hampshire, having had a controversy with my employer, I ran away. I had no money, and could not beg, so I called at a farm-house and asked if they had any clocks to mend. They said yes, and wished I would fix it. I took the clock to pieces, at my dinner, and then looked at the table, where lay the countless wheels. I knew that I never could put that clock together again. So I told the folks I was dizzy, and would go out and get some fresh air, and I fled across the meadows like the bright-eyed gazelle, or anything else that goes quick. Those politicians who went to work to take the Union clock to pieces to get their dinners, never meant to put it together again. They have stolen their dinner, but they will not restore the clock. I haven't told you much about the ghosts, and it is so late now that there is not time. But I shall speak in San Francisco in about four weeks from this time, and all who hold tickets to this lecture will be admitted free.

Reading maketh a full man; conference a ready man; and writing an exact man; and, therefore, if a man write little he hath need have a great memory: if he confer little he hath need have a present wit; and if he read little, he hath need have much cunning to seem to know that he doth not know.—Bacon.

The last best fruit, which comes to late perfection even in the kindest soil, is tenderness towards the hard, forbearance towards the unforbearing, warmth of heart towards the cold, philanthropy towards the philanthropist.

Sorghum.

The Sorghum or Chinese sugar corn proves to be harder than Indian. The late frost in the North-west, which cut off a large portion of the corn crop, did not touch the Sorghum. Two gallons of cane juice are equal to a bushel of corn for fattening cattle, and from 600 to 1000 gallons can be obtained from a single acre. The Chicago Tribune says that hereafter it is probable the two crops will be produced in equal quantities in the West, the Sorghum for sugar and syrup making, and hog and cattle feeding, and the corn for man's consumption.

SUCRIDE.—On Monday forenoon of this week, Mr. Ossián R. Ross, a member of the Junior class of the University of Michigan, committed suicide at the residence of Mrs. Reese in this city, by severing the artery in his arm near the elbow. He was found upon the floor, by the side of his bed, in his shirt sleeves, with his boots off, and his face over a pall with a large quantity of blood in it. The razor was under him, and near him a bottle of chloroform. On the table was found this note:

"To all whom it may concern:
Having come to the conclusion that my life is no benefit to myself or friends, but a disgrace to both, I have determined to put an end to it. God forgive me if I do wrong. I die in the hope of Heaven.
OSSIÁN R. ROSS.
10 o'clock 40 minutes A. M."

Mr. Ross was in attendance at chapel exercises in the morning, and appeared as cheerful as usual. Various reasons are assigned for the commission of the act, none of which are necessary to make public.

Mr. Ross was a son of the member of Congress by that name from Illinois.

DRAKE—not he of "Plantation" notoriety, but the original NAR—has had the audacity to present us a Can of Oysters. Its first time in a number of years we have been thus grossly insulted, and not being the daily recipient of such abuse we can stand it just for once. DRAKE has always a large supply of these bivalves on hand, and those wishing to get a good dish of oysters can be accommodated at his "store" on Huron street.

Wool is still at 70 in our market and some fleeces have brought higher figures.

Wheat sold in Detroit on Wednesday, as follows:
No. 1 White, at 1.50
No. 2 " " " 1.47
No. 1 Amber, at 1.26
with prices tending downwards.
Corn was quoted 90¢93, and Oats at 60.

Gold has been all round the "sp bush" since our last quotations, and Wednesday closed in New York, at 144½.

Bounties to Volunteers.
The N. Y. Post's Washington correspondent says:

An amended circular has been sent out from the Provost Marshal's office, by which it appears that for every recruit who is a veteran volunteer, a bounty and premium amounting to 402 dollars will be paid, and to all other recruits not veterans, 302 dollars. These are for the old organizations. The object is to encourage volunteering, as those who are drafted receive $100 bounty. Men enlisted under this order will be permitted to select their regiments, which, however, must be one of the old regiments in the field.

According to this those now enlisting in old regiments get a bounty of $352.—If liberal bounties will secure volunteers there need be no draft.

From Washington.

Washington, Oct. 21.
Accounts from the Army of the Potomac yesterday noon, state that Kilpatrick's cavalry pushed back Stuart's rebel cavalry beyond Gainesville, towards Warrenton. There was considerable fighting, but little loss to us. It is positively stated that Lee was at Warrenton on Monday, and had formed a line of battle, and posted artillery. Our troops were moving steadily onward in columns.

Buford reports there was no enemy in force in Thoroughfare Gap, at 10 P. M., yesterday. The rebels were in force at Buckland Mills, four miles from Gainesville. Our troops are advancing. A great battle is considered imminent.

Special Dispatch to the Detroit Free Press.

Washington, Oct. 21.
Advices from the front are to the following effect: A large force of Lee's army was believed to be at Warrenton Monday, and had formed in battle array, and posted their artillery to check the advance of Meade's force. Our troops were moving steadily on, their columns being so disposed as to prevent surprise. Buford's division took the road through Thoroughfare Gap, and found no enemy.

In the engagement on Monday Gen. Custer was conspicuous, and reports that the rebel cavalry was driven beyond Buckland Mills from Gainesville, where our cavalry encountered rebel infantry and artillery in line of battle, their line extending a mile. At one time Davis' brigade of cavalry and artillery were cut off completely. He got well out of difficulty, however. Our loss in killed, wounded and missing was about 200, and several wagons, one of which contained the official papers of the brigade.

At one o'clock to-day several of our corps were reported to be marching against the enemy, and a battle was considered imminent.

Our headquarters were yesterday morning in the immediate vicinity of Grovetown and Gainesville, which means that our army was then considerably in advance of those places, but last night headquarters were in an entirely different position.

The Loss east Chickamanga.
New York, Oct. 19.—
A special to the Tribune from Chattanooga, Oct. 12th via Nashville, 18th, contains the following: "Complete official returns from the Infantry engaged in the late battles are received, and give the following statistics:

"McCook's Corps—Officers killed, 40; wounded, 168; missing, 70. Men killed, 863; wounded, 2,367; missing, 1,503. Total, 4,520.
"Crittenden's Corps—Officers killed, 39; wounded, 131; missing, 22. Men killed, 296; wounded, 2,158; missing, 655. Total, 3,300.
"Two brigades of Granger's reserve corps, engaged only in the afternoon of the second day's fight, lost—officers killed, 16; men 230; wounded officers 59; men 877; officers missing 34, men 527.—Total, 1,732.
"The losses of our cavalry, not reported, will make the grand aggregate about 17,000. Of the 4,685 missing, about 2,500 are wounded 36 pieces of artillery were lost and a few wagons.
"Southern papers of Oct. 9th are received. They still insist that their whole loss will not exceed 12,000; but partial returns published by them indicate that it is greater. Hindman's Division alone lost 2,100 out of 2,400 men."

AN INTERESTING LETTER.—Messrs Post & Buff, Agents N. Y. Sanitary Society, Rochester.—Gents: I deem it due to you to state the magical effect of one bottle of the People's Cure which I obtained from you in November last. Seeing the advertisement of your Society offering to give your medicine to clergymen for the poor of their parishes, I obtained a bottle for a poor girl of my congregation, who had long been nearly blind from Rheumatism, and strange to say, that one bottle cured her entirely. I write this hoping it may aid the Society in its efforts to introduce the medicine, and bless those who may use such a remedy; and I am sure that the Society will be fully justified in the most superlative form of speech.

Yours, Respectfully,
C. R. WILKINS,
Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church,

LYON'S KATHAIRON.
Kathairon is from the Greek word, "Kathiro," or "Kathairo," signifying to cleanse, rejuvenate and restore. This article is what its name signifies. For preserving, restoring and beautifying the human hair it is the most remarkable preparation in the world. It is again owned and put up by the original proprietor, and is now made with the same care, skill and attention which gave it a sale of over one million bottles per year. It is a most delightful Hair Dressing. It eradicates scurf and dandruff. It keeps the hair cool and clean. It makes the hair rich, soft and glossy. It prevents the hair from falling off and turning gray. It restores hair upon bald heads. Any lady or gentleman who values a beautiful head of hair should use Lyon's Kathairon. It is known and used throughout the civilized world. And we all respectably demand.

A WORD ABOUT AMERICAN WATCHES!
AFTER A THOROUGH TRIAL OF MORE THAN TEN YEARS, the time-piece manufactured by the American Watch Co., of Watliam, Mass., have gained a firm hold upon the favor of the public, and now, no less than 75,000 of them are speaking for themselves in the pockets of the people. From a very insignificant beginning the business has increased until we are justified in stating that WE MAKE MORE THAN ONE HALF OF all the watches sold in the United States. Repeated enlargement of our factory buildings, and the labor of 600 operatives, still find us unequal to supply the constantly increasing demand. And we may here observe that notwithstanding the high price of labor and materials, we actually sell our products at lower prices than those current five years ago.

We refer to these facts only for the purpose of properly introducing another subject relative to our manufacture of watches. Hitherto our chief object has been to make good watches for the million at the lowest possible price—something to take the place of the make believe watches called "Amers," "Elaines," "English Patent Levers," &c., annually thrown upon the market in hundreds of numbers by European watchmakers, and which are the refuse of their factories, unsalable at home and perfectly worthless everywhere.

This object we have accomplished, and now we have to announce that we have commenced the manufacture of watches of the very Highest Grade of Chronometry, unequalled by anything hitherto made by ourselves and unsurpassed by anything made in the world. For this purpose we have the amplest facilities. We have erected an addition to our main building expressly for this purpose, and have added to it the best workmen in our service. Profiting by our long experience, we have remodelled the form of our watches, introducing such improvements as have been suggested and proved to be good from time to time, and have instituted new and severe tests of isochronism, adjustment and compensation. New machines and appliances have been constructed, which perform their work with consummate delicacy and exactitude, and the choicest and most approved materials only are used. Nothing is left in waiting either in mechanical principles, material workmanship to ensure perfection in the execution.

We continue to manufacture our other well-known watches under the following names:
"APPLETON, TRACY & CO."
"P. S. BARTLETT."
And the "Soldier's Watch."
The latter the lowest priced watch we make, is a substantial, reliable time-piece, made in sterling silver—having pattern and is entirely reliable in the best manner in either marching, riding or fighting. All the above described watches, including the finest, which is named "AMERICAN WATCH COMPANY," are sold by watch dealers generally throughout the country.

WATSON'S NEURALGIA KURE.
WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

The attention and research of the most distinguished Chemists and Physicians for years have been devoted to the production of a remedy for those most distressing maladies NEURALGIA and RHEUMATISM. After long study and many experiments, a specific preparation has been discovered. WATSON'S NEURALGIA KURE, an Internal Remedy, is curing thousands of cases where all other remedies have utterly failed. We are assured that it is no mere "ANY-NE," relieving for the moment while the cause remains, but is a perfect SPECIFIC and CURE for those painful diseases. The vast number of testimonials, Embroideries and External Medicines, which act as stimulants of the surface only, are merely temporary in their effects and of doubtful value. The NEURALGIA KURE reaches the source of all trouble, and effectually banishes the disease from the system.

In ten days after she commenced the swelling and stiffness of her joints were materially lessened, and in three weeks had disappeared entirely."

Rheumatism.
"I was troubled with Rheumatism for two years, suffering more or less every day. I have taken two bottles of the 'People's Cure,' and have not had any pain since I left it off more than four weeks ago. I consider myself entirely cured, and the 'People's Cure' has made me feel very light and good—just like a young man though I am sixty-two years old."

The Michigan Argus.

Life's Incongruity.

Green grows the laurel on the bank,
Dark waves the pine upon the hill,
Green hangs the lichen, cold and dank,
Dark springs the heart's ease by the rill;
Age mingles with the youth's bright,
Pale is the water-lily's bloom;
Thus life will come in the shades of night,
And Beauty hovers o'er the tomb.

So, all through life's incongruous line
Each object wears from childhood down,
The transitory—Heaven's blue;
The all-enduring—solon brown.
Our bright, best dreams too quickly die
And griefs are green that should be old,
And joys that sparkle to the eye
Are like a tale that's quickly told.

And yet, 'tis but the golden mean
That checks our lives' unsteady flow,
God's counterbalance thrown between,
To poise the scale 'twixt joy and woe!
And better so, for were the bowl
Too freely to the parched lip given,
Too much of grief would crush the soul,
Too much of joy would wean from Heaven.

Cattle in the Field.
The Maine Farmer, in an article on the preservation of the fertility of our fields, advises that the cattle be not allowed to lead them down during the fall. It says:

"It is a custom among many to feed off the second crop in their mowing fields with cattle. This is called 'turning into the fall feed.' Many believe that this practice does no damage to mowing fields—that the hay crop will be just as large during the next year as if the cattle had not fed it off—that it is the same in effect as cutting 'rowen,' or aftermath and carrying it into the barn. A little experience and observation will convince one that this is not in fact the case. If the cattle, in their mode of gathering the second crop, tramped no closer than the scythe, or nipped it no harder than the man who mows and gathers it in does, perhaps there would be little difference in the two, but the fact is, that cattle not only nip close and hard, but they are generally allowed to follow it up until snow flies and covers the ground up—By that time the soil is pretty well stripped of herbage, and has no clothing for winter, and but a little fund to start upon next spring.

"Now, if the grass had been suffered to grow after all the haying from it had been closed there would be not only a coating of grass to serve as a protective mulch to roots during winter, but the heads or collars of the roots would be stored with food for the early nourishment of the starting blades of the coming season."

Machinery and Hard Labor.

Not such a great while ago our thread was spun between the finger and the thumb, and all our cloth woven in the clumsy of hand-looms. Now, by means of a spinning-jenny and weaving machinery, one person will make as much as two hundred yards of cloth in a day. Before the invention of the cotton-gin, one person could not prepare one pound of cotton so easily as he can now prepare one hundred pounds. Our grandmothers could barely knit one pair of socks in a day—now by means of a machine, one little girl can turn out a hundred dollars' worth of knitted materials in a day. A few years ago we were told it took seven men to make a complete pig; now the machine is fed with the raw material, which is not touched again until rolled up in papers of pins. In Providence, R. I., there is to-day a machine that takes a strip of metal from a coil, and makes two hundred and thirty inches of delicate chain out of it in a day. The metals are no longer worked by hand—a slow wearing process—they are shaved, sawed, bored, and hammered, with the greatest ease and accuracy, as if they were of the softest pine.

An instrument has been contrived and perfected of exceedingly delicate powers, which measures the operation itself—tells the exact time it takes for a sensation from the finger to reach the brain—two tenths of a second! Go in to a certain India rubber store in New York, and you will find a hundred different articles made of that staple—only a few years ago, good for nothing but to rub out marks and furnish active-jawed people something to chew. As wood gives out, coal pits are found everywhere. We begin to fear for lights with which to illumine our homes, and make all things cheerful; when lo! oil is distilled from coal, and we even have streams of it spouting out of the ground for us to fill our lamps with! Coal tar, once regarded as useless, is now manufactured into many different articles, some of them of great value—Scientific American.

How to Make Money.—Let the business of everybody alone and attend to your own; do not buy what you do not want; use every hour to advantage, and study even to make your leisure hours useful; think twice before you throw away a shilling—remember you will have another to make for it; find recreation in looking after your business, and so your business will not be neglected in looking after recreation; buy low; sell fair, and take care of the profits; look over your books regularly, and if you find an error, trace it out; should a stroke of misfortune come upon you in trade, retrace, work harder, "but never fly the track;" confront difficulties with unflinching perseverance, and they will disappear at once; though should you even fail in the struggle, you will be honored; shrink from the task and you will be despised. By following these rules, however, you never need say "fail!" Pay debts promptly and so exact your dues; keep your word.

Mr. Beecher says there are many persons who think that Sunday is a sponge upon which to wipe out the sins of the week.

Many men's praying and swearing is pretty much the same; when they pray they think of no good, and when they swear they think of no harm.

In a hot summer, when there is most thirst, there are fewest brooks. So of many people's charities—they are rarest when most needed.
