OVER THE RIVER.

Over the river they becken to me,

Over the river they beckon to me,
Loved ones who've crossed to the other side,
The gleam of their snowy robes I see,
But their voices are lost in the dashing tide.
There's one with ringlets of sunny gold.
And eyes the reflection of heaven's own blue,
He crossed in the twilight gray and cold,
And the pale mist hid him from mortal view;
We saw not the angels who met him there,
The gates of the city we couldnot see,
Over the river, over the river. Over the river, over the river,
My brother stands waiting to welcome me.

Over the river the boatmen pale
Carrying another, the household pet;
Her brown curls waving in the gentle gale,
Darling Minnie! I see her yet. She crossed on her bosom her dimpled hands, And fearlessly entered the phantom bark, We felt it glide from its silver sands,

And all our sunshine grew strangely dark . We know she is safe on the further side. Where all the ransomed and angels be; Over the river, the mystic river, My chilchood's idol is waiting for me.

For none return from those quiet shores, Who cross with the boatman cold and pale; We hear the dip of the golden oars, And catch a gleam of the snowy sail:

And lo! they have passed from our yearning We may not sunder the veil apart That hides from our vision the gates of day. We only know that their backs no more

May sail with us o'er life's atormy sea; Yet somewhere I know on the unseen shore. They watch, and becken, and wait for me.

And I sit and think when the sunset's gold Is flushing river and hill and shore,
I shall one day stand by the water cold,
And list for the sound of the boatman's oar;

I shall watch for a glaem of the flapping sail; I shall hear the boat as it gens the strand, I shall pass from sight with the boatman pale, To the better shore of the spirit land, I shall know the loved who have gone before, And joyfully sweet will the meeting be, When over the river, the peaceful river, The Angel of Death shall carry me.

[We extract the following paragraphs A poor man or an obscure man pro- from the message of Gov. Craro.] Resources of the State.

The State of Michigan, although having at the present time a population of a little less than one million, and an amount of accumulated personal wealth that will compare favorably with many of the older States, is nevertheless in her infancy. The area of her territory is more than 56,000 square miles; being more than 10,000 square miles larger than either of the great States of New York or Pennsylvania, and more than 16,000 square miles larger than Ohio, and nearly as large as the whole of New England. When as thickly settled as Massachusetts now is, her population would reach nine millions. Surrounded on almost all sides by noble inland sens, miles of navigable waters. Her soil is varied, but rich and fertile; and notwithstanding the severity of our climate, produces in abundance every variety of fruit, grain and vegetable belonging to this latitude. Her agricultural resources are as yet undeveloped, and have never been appreciated, either at home or abroad. Her immense ferests of the choicest timber are of great value, giving employment to large numbers of hardy and robust men, in converting it into lumber, and conveying it to market, thereby creating a home demand for much of her surplus agricultural products. Her fisheries, another important item in the catalogue of her resources, are of too much value to be overlooked, having reached for the year ending June 1st, 1860, as appears by census returns, the sum of $250,467, being an amount from this source only exceeded by four States in the Union, viz., Massachusetts, Maine Connecticut, and Rhode Island. They, too, give employment to a large number of men, and thus also increase the home demand for our surplus prod-

A large portion of the territory of Michigan is underlaid by vast beds of mineral deposits; and in this description of wealth she is unsurpassed by any State in the Union. Her copper is of great purity, and its mines-of anknown extent-have already, although in their ufancy, reached an annual yield of more than 10,000 tons, equal in value, at the point of shipment, to the sum of $7,000,-000. Her iron mines are also of great extent, and the ore is of the richest and inest quality; and although they have very recently been opened, the first yield being only 1,447 tons, in the year 1855 -yet during the past year the shipments from Marquette, have reached the aggregate of 248,000 gross tons, besides 25,-000 tons supplied to the furnaces of Marquette, of the aggregate value of more than two millions of dollars. The immense increase exhibited here, in a we add to this, that one loves the American citizen, and does not love the go North and play Union refugee. I'm French emperor, the case may as well be its future importance. The prospective worth of these mines is, in truth, almost incalculable.

Michigan has also extensive fields of coal, containing a quantity sufficient to feed the furnaces of the world Much of it is of good quality, and all of it is valuable for manufacturing and other purposes. In the absence of manufactures, and from the abundance of fuel incident to a new woodland country, little attention has heretofore been given to this subject; yet the time is not far distant, when the coal fields of Michigan will be a source of much wenith. There are also extensive beds of gypsum of unsurpassed richness, and of great value, not only to the farmer as a fertilizer. but to the State as an article of com-

The telegraph brings us the painful announcement of the death of the Hon. Edward Everett, in Boston, on the morning of the 15th inst.

Our country has not been called to mourn the loss of a more distinguished civizen. For forty five years he has been politician. In all he was distinguished, but he has been most celebrated for his gift of oratory and for his scholarship, which gave him on European as well as an American reputation. Sin :- It may be of assistance to you to receive, together with the rebel deserters mentioned in my letter of this date, the following memorandum of information elicited from one of their number, Corp. Thos. Lawley, of the Marines. He says he was stationed during and since the bombardment, in the naval battery Buchanan, command ed by Lieut. Chapman, and situated near the mound; that there were between 500 and 600 men in the forts on the two days of the attack, and no troops Teachers, in Wilmington or its vicinity to rein-force them; that the fire from the fleet was so fierce as to drive the rebels from their guns and into the bombproofs throughout the greater portion of their works, soon after the commencement of the action, that two of their Brooks' guns burst, killing and wounding tweny-five of their men; that we dismounted eight of their guns, besides injuring several of their gun carriages; that we killed thirteen of their men and wounded thirty nine; that Gen. Whiting supposed the boats which were sent into the bar on the 25th, to be a storming party of seamen, to which he would have been obliged to surrender; that the bombardment of sunset was terrific. When our troops appeared in front of the fort, immediately afterward, the garrison only waited their attack to surrender without resistance; that they could not imagine why the attack had been abandoned; that matters remained the same way throughout the following day; that we could have easily pressed our troops into the fort until evening, when Gen Bragg arrived at Wilmington with 6,000 men from Richmond, and that finding our troops were re-embarking, Bragg decided not to molest us,

Lieut. JAMES P. MOSHER, of the 26th Infantry, recently discharged for disability, got badly bruised by a railroad muh up in Ohio, a few days ago, while returning "home from the war." If the rebels can't finish a man up, it seems only necessary to give a railroad a chance at him. We are glad to know, however, that his injuries are not likely to prove serious.

There seems to be considerable petty thieving going on now-a-days. the best newspaper of the day.

The SEMI-VIERLY WORLD will exactly suit those who want the news oftener than weekly, yet do not feel able to pay $10 for the Delly. It contains all the reading matter, news and editorials of the Daily, excepting only its advertisements.

The Weekly lowers published, save one. Its extraordinary success since its union with the New York Argus has justified us in very liberal expenditures for the year to comet such as will make it without a rival in interest and value to the farmers of our country. Its Agricultural Department will be as good and complete as any of the agricultural papers, and its reports of the attle, Produce and Mony Markets will excel thom $11. A page or more will be reserved to entertaining irreside reading, and the type will be large and clear enough for old eyes.

All the editions of The World are now printed on new type. Several new folding machines, just set up in our vaults, will enable us to work off and mail all editions with the utmost speed and regularity.

While the war continues, and the currency is of such short as it is, we can hope for little or no profit. Our terms have been increased, but not in proportion to the increased cost of everything used in making a newspaper. Indeed, to day there is nothing equally valuable so cheap as a newspaper.

NO THUMB-SCREWS TO GET OUT OF ORDER WARRANTED WITH OR WITHOUT COG-WHEELS It took the FIRST PREMIUM at Fifty Seven State and County Fairs in 1863, and is, without an excep-tion, the best wringer ever made. WHAT EVERY BODY KNOWS, viz:

That iron well galvanized will not rust; That a simple machine is better than a complicated ne; That a Wringer should be self adjusting, durable and fficient: That Thumb-Screws and Fastenings cause delay and rouble to regulate and keep in order; That wood soaked in hot water will swell, shrink and hit; That wood bearings for the shaft to run in will wear ut;

That the Putnam Wringer, with or without cogcheels, will not tear the clothes;
That cog-wheel regulators are not essential;
That the Putnam Wringer has ALL the advantages, and not one of the disadvantages above named;
That all who have tested it pronounce it the best ringer ever made; That it will wring a thread or a bed quilt without al-
