The Michigan Argus

From the Rural New Yorker, NEW YORK.

A young wife stood at the lattice pane, In a study sad and brown, Watching the dreary, ceaseless rain, Steadily pouring down...

Men while the laborer had not been idle. They had taken a nap out as far into the surf as they could maintain a footing, and there clashing hands held a life-line and buoy ready as soon as the stranger should be within reach...

When the stranger regained consciousness, which was almost immediately, his opening eyes fell first on the lifeless body of Hartley Kennett—lifeless beyond the power of restoration. Then the stranger perceived that a woman was supporting his head...

Was the wife of Hartley Kennett to be condemned because, when descending to the foam-strown beach and beholding the bodies of the two men lying on the sand, she did not hesitate between her lover and her husband?

The storm was already breaking, and the shattered clouds were fringed with the crimson glories of the setting sun. Beneath the vast bow of promise which spanned the clearing sky, beside the gleaming surge, we have three on the sand—the living and the dead.

Tea Fast—A Radical Warning. [From the Seymour (Ind.) Times, Radical.] We would respectfully suggest to the leaders of the Republican party that they are crowding the "colored person" a little too fast for their own good...

In this condition, a part of the leaf and a larger part of the fruit buds yield to your nourishment, which goes to the production of root and leaf growth. The tree, therefore, in barren of fruit for the summer, its whole growth being required to recuperate its own vigor.

Loose, loamy soil is among the best for a crop of corn. While stubble land with a heavy growth of clover to plow under will make the best show for a crop, if manured well from the surface during fall and winter.

Let us assure the negro in his right to the ballot, but for the salvation of our party—for the welfare of our country—for the good of the negro—let us dissuade him from seeking or accepting office.

The New York Express, after recounting the unwarranted means resorted to by the Radical party to secure the ratification of the fifteenth amendment, and the revolutionary tendencies of that amendment in its application to our theory of government, through the assumption of new powers on the part of Congress, says:

"We must then meet the case as it is presented. Colored men will vote in defiance of all opposition, and, having the count put into their hands, it is for their protection in its use and education that we are to be vigilant."

Boxe Best For Strawberries. Heart and Home says a box of berries is soon broadcast over strawberry beds in early spring or at any other time during the summer. It is better to apply in rainy weather, as then the soluble portions are immediately carried down to the roots of the plants.

There are some men who will walk up to the cannon's mouth, and some women who will walk up to a lover's, without blinking.
