

RATES OF ADVERTISING: (10 lines or less considered a square.)

JOB PRINTING: Circulars, Hand-Bills, Brochures, Cards, Labels, Blanks, Bill-Heads, and other BUSINESS DIRECTORY: JOHN T. UHL, Prosecuting Attorney, at No. 100 North Main Street, Detroit, Michigan.

THE WISE DECISION: "I suppose she will marry some time or other, and perhaps after all, she will be as well off as many now, as to wait a half dozen years."

ATTORNEY AT LAW: JOHN W. CHEEVER, 100 North Main Street, Detroit, Michigan.

BANKERS, SALINE - MICHIGAN: Government Securities, Gold Coin, Drafts

DEALER IN FRESH AND SALT MEATS: JOHN G. GALL, 100 North Main Street, Detroit, Michigan.

ANN ARBOR, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1871. No. 1337

TEACHING PUBLIC SCHOOL.

Eighty little urchins. Coming through the door, Pushing and nudging, And a tremendous roar, "What are you about? Can't you mind the rule? Bless me! this is pleasant, Feeding public school."

THE BABE: "See, she has a little white butterfly, Not a stocking on her feet, Her little ankle white as snow"

CLARENCE HILLSDALE: "Dear Sir:-I am deeply and sincerely in love with your daughter. I propose to make her my wife, with your consent."

THE FIRST WAS A FAITHFUL counter part of himself in his younger days. There were a few improvements, such as a little better prospect, a few more dollars than he possessed at twenty-five, but the principle

THE DEAR SIR:-I am deeply and sincerely in love with your daughter. I propose to make her my wife, with your consent. My name, position and means are well known to you. I await your reply.

THE WIFE: "I suppose she will marry some time or other, and perhaps after all, she will be as well off as many now, as to wait a half dozen years."

THE WIFE: "I suppose she will marry some time or other, and perhaps after all, she will be as well off as many now, as to wait a half dozen years."

West Harley folded his, and leaned back on his chair with a happy smile illuminating his handsome face.

CLARENCE HILLSDALE coolly twisted his, and lighted his cigar with it, and went out for a smoke.

CLARENCE HILLSDALE: "These are pretty articles," said Clarence, taking up a pair of velvet slippers, "did you make them, Miss Dorian?"

CLARENCE HILLSDALE: "I suppose she will marry some time or other, and perhaps after all, she will be as well off as many now, as to wait a half dozen years."

CLARENCE HILLSDALE: "Dear Sir:-I am deeply and sincerely in love with your daughter. I propose to make her my wife, with your consent."

CLARENCE HILLSDALE: "Dear Sir:-I am deeply and sincerely in love with your daughter. I propose to make her my wife, with your consent."

CLARENCE HILLSDALE: "Dear Sir:-I am deeply and sincerely in love with your daughter. I propose to make her my wife, with your consent."

CLARENCE HILLSDALE: "Dear Sir:-I am deeply and sincerely in love with your daughter. I propose to make her my wife, with your consent."

From the New Life of Jefferson. Nothing could have been more congenial or delightful to him than the society in which Jefferson moved in Paris.

CLARENCE HILLSDALE: "Dear Sir:-I am deeply and sincerely in love with your daughter. I propose to make her my wife, with your consent."

CLARENCE HILLSDALE: "Dear Sir:-I am deeply and sincerely in love with your daughter. I propose to make her my wife, with your consent."

CLARENCE HILLSDALE: "Dear Sir:-I am deeply and sincerely in love with your daughter. I propose to make her my wife, with your consent."

CLARENCE HILLSDALE: "Dear Sir:-I am deeply and sincerely in love with your daughter. I propose to make her my wife, with your consent."

CLARENCE HILLSDALE: "Dear Sir:-I am deeply and sincerely in love with your daughter. I propose to make her my wife, with your consent."

CLARENCE HILLSDALE: "Dear Sir:-I am deeply and sincerely in love with your daughter. I propose to make her my wife, with your consent."

CLARENCE HILLSDALE: "Dear Sir:-I am deeply and sincerely in love with your daughter. I propose to make her my wife, with your consent."

clean. They are troublesome creatures from a propensity they have to crawl out of the aquarium and perch of thirt on the parlor carpet; but, as their rate of progress is slow, a little judicious poking and poking will keep them within bounds, and their habits as scavengers are so great that no tank flourishes without them.—Home and Society; Scribner's for September.

Dressing with Taste. It is strange that, with all the time American women bestow upon dress, so few know how to prepare a simple toilet with taste.

One of the secrets of dressing well is to dress appropriately; another, to be careful of the details of the details of the toilet. Through personal cleanliness, glossy, well-brushed hair, neat shoes and stockings, are as essential to a good personal appearance as the material and fashion of the dress.

ADAM SMITH has shown, beyond all possibility of cavil, that a great many more plus can be made if the process is divided among eighteen trades, than if run by one man.

ADAM SMITH has shown, beyond all possibility of cavil, that a great many more plus can be made if the process is divided among eighteen trades, than if run by one man.

ADAM SMITH has shown, beyond all possibility of cavil, that a great many more plus can be made if the process is divided among eighteen trades, than if run by one man.

ADAM SMITH has shown, beyond all possibility of cavil, that a great many more plus can be made if the process is divided among eighteen trades, than if run by one man.

ADAM SMITH has shown, beyond all possibility of cavil, that a great many more plus can be made if the process is divided among eighteen trades, than if run by one man.

