The November Magazines.
A little shiver runs over us as we read November upon the magazine covers, for it reminds us of the near approach of Jack Frost with his shivering manners, and chilly airs:
—Those who think that investigations into the life of Shakespeare, and criticism upon his plays are overworked and barren themes, would do well to read Shakespeare and His Times, which forms the leading article in the Eclectic Magazine for November. For those also who can appreciate such a combination of instruction and entertainment as is presented by no other periodical, it would be well to examine the table of contents for this number. They will find such articles as Modern Geology and the Mosaic Account of Creation; Cathy, with notices of Travelers to that Country; an admirable and appreciative essay of William Woodworth, and another on the character of Cleopatra; the conclusion of Darwin's Descent of Man; Secret History of the Loire Campaign; and the Opium Trade with China; Food Economizers; M. Thiers; Burns and Sir Walter Scott; a continuation of Patti, and a short story, The Street-Sweeper of St. Roque, by the same author; and copious Editorial Miscellany. The number is embellished with a fine portrait of Beethoven. E. R. Peirce, Publisher, 108 Fulton Street, N. Y. Terms $5 per year.
—"Thirty seven Days of Peril" is the title of an article in Scribner's for November, which is an extraordinary bit of autobiography. It details the wanderings of Truman C. Everts, who was lost from the Yellowstone Exploring Expedition of 1870; and gives an interesting account of his desperate efforts, as also of his curious mental hallucinations—the mental vagaries of a starving man, with numerous illustrations. Another well illustrated paper is Mr. Richardson's description of "The Unbarred of Hell Gate." There is also a characteristic sketch from Miss Phelps, author of Ades Ajar, entitled, "Not a Pleasant Story; by passages from the Private History of a Public Nuisance." The other papers are: Priscilla; Halloween; or Carriage's Fate; Too wise for Love; Low Life in Nature; Wicked Gunner;—chaps. XVIII.—The Right Not to Vote—first paper; The Two Mrs. Scandals—chaps. I-III; The Clubs of Paris; Topics of the Times; The Old Cabinet, &c.; with Waiting Abstrus. Out of the Depths, Moma Phoebe, From Sea to Sea, for poetry. This number commences a new volume, and the publishers announce unusual attractions for the future, including a series of papers by Mr. Gladstone, Prime Minister of England. $4 a year. Address SCRIBNER & CO., 654 Broadway, N. Y.
—"The Catholic World" has Authority in Matters of Faith; The House of York—chap. xv.; The Stigmata and Ecstasies of Louise Lateau of Bois d'Hain; The Legends of Oislin, Bard of Erin; Lucas Garcia—III.; The Liquefaction of the Blood of St. Jannarius—III.; The Wayside Spring; Valentine; True Faith; The Place Vendome and La Roquette—II.; The Dollinger Scandal; a Ghost Story of the Revolution; The Religious Movement in Germany; The Mountain; Color—its Poetry and Prose, &c. $5 a year. Address LAWRENCE KENOR, General Agent, 9 Warren Street, N. Y.
—"The Atlantic" gives the opening pages of its November number to a scholarly comparison of "Tennyson and Theocritus," by Edmund C. Steadman. Celia Thaxter follows with "A Thanksgiving," a short poem in the longest kind of metre. —In "The Bellman of Stamboul" Dr. Goodell gives a graphic sketch of the treatment of the Turkish insane, showing pretty conclusively that it is not Christians alone who maltreat those who are bereft of reason. Mr. DeForest still continues his "Kate Beaumont," "Watch and Ward," by H. James, Jr., is also continued. "Wayside Pikes," by Clarence King, is a racy sketch of some individuals from the class which Colonel Hay has dragged into literature. The remaining contributions are "The Sphinx," a poem by M. E. N. Hathaway; "The New Light," also a poem, by Carl Spencer; "Tie Wedding Journey"—continued—by W. D. Howells; and "Our Whispering Gallery," which is still devoted to Dickens. "Recent Literature" closes the number with critical notices of Tyndall, John Jay, William Winter, Stoddard and Higginson. $4 a year. Address JAS. R. OSGOOD & CO., publishers, Boston, Mass.
—"Among the 'ladies' magazines,' Arthur's Home has, for twenty years, maintained a high reputation. The November number now before us is very attractive. The two engravings, "The Children's Offering," and "The Puppies' Nursery," the last a double page cartoon, are works of merit. The fashion pages are full of new costumes, and the literary department rich in stories and articles suited to all readers. In the announcement for 1872 we notice, among other attractions, that "Pipississway Potts" is to give a new series of "Other People's Windows." Everybody is charmed with "Pipississway." Terms $2 a year. Three copies for $5; 4 copies, $6; 6 copies, and one extra, $10; 8 copies, and one extra, $12. Published by T. S. ARTHUR & SONS, Philadelphia, Pa.
From the same, the November number of The Children's Hour, pronounced by the press everywhere to be "one of the choicest of its class," and "enough to drive a six-year-old crazy with its many delights," is already on our table, as charming and beautiful as ever. It contains the prospectus for 1872, and we recommend all who wish to put in the hands of their little ones a magazine that "speaks through simple forms of language the highest truths," while it fascinates its young readers by sweet and tender stories, to send for it. The price is only $1.25 a year.
—"Godley's Lady's Book," always the first to make its appearance, is bright and shining as ever, and promises good things for the coming year. It is an ever welcome friend in the house, and an almost indispensable article for the ladies. While it is plethoric with fashion and other plates, its contents find general reading. Now is the time to form your clubs for 1872. One copy, $2; two copies, $5; three copies, $7.50; four copies, $10, etc. Godley and the Argus for $4.25. Address L. A. GODEY, Philadelphia.
—"The Galaxy," always interesting and entertaining, is not behind this month, and has a table of contents that will not fail to instruct, which is as follows: Master Eustace, by Henry James, Jr.; Barbara and Bismarck, by Anne M. Crane Scemmler; Popular Fallacies, vii-xii, by Carl Benson; A Sicilian Night-Drift, by Howard Glyndon; Reminiscences of Lee and Jackson, by J. D. Imboden; The Pike Poetry; "Par Noble Fraternity"—The Two Newmans, by Justin McCarran; The Eustace Diamonds, chaps. xii-xv, by Anthony Trollope; At Evening Time It Shall be Light, by H. E. Warner; Admiral Faragut at New Orleans, by Gideon Welles; Dead; Ought We to Visit Her? chaps. xxxv-xxxvii, by Mrs. Edwards; Love Song; Poetic; Current Literature, The Galaxy Club Room, and Nebulae. $4 a year; two copies $7. Address SHELDON & Co., No. 677 Broadway, N. Y.

—"The Eclectic Repository, for November, is a capital number, and has a table of contents varied and interesting, fully up to the standard, if not in excess. It has a fine engraving of "Oberholzer on the Thuner Sea," and a portrait of Mrs. H. C. Gardner Profuse in illustrations, and beautiful in typography, it is a magazine well worth the subscription price, $3.50 per annum. Address HITCHCOCK & WALDEN, Cincinnati, Ohio.
From the same, Golden Hours, a magazine for boys and girls, and every boy and girl in the land would be better and happier if they could possess it. The November number has a table of contents well suited to the class for whom it is intended, and is profusely illustrated. $2 a year. Address as above.
—"The Herald of Health," advocates a higher type of manhood—physical, intellectual, and moral." This number contains forty or fifty articles excellent for sick or well, among which are: Early and Late Hours, by Rev. Chas. H. Brigham; an article on the management of children by F. E. Abbott, and a letter from P. T. Barnum on his health and habits. $2 a year. Wood & Holbrook, publishers 13 and 15 Light St., New York.
Hallowe'en.
Perhaps it is not generally known that there is an anniversary celebrated—by the young ladies principally—known as "Hallowe'en." It occurs the evening before All Saints Day, and falls inevitably on the last evening of October. It is thought to be a night when devils, witches, and other mischief-making beings are all abroad on their baneful errands, and particularly those aerial people, the fairies, are said on that night to hold a grand anniversary." All sorts of charms are resorted to, such as walking three times around the house backwards, the third time you are sure to walk into the arms of the one you are to marry. Take a candle—go before the looking-glass and eat an apple, combining your hair all the time, as you gaze you will perceive the face of your future husband or wife peeping over your shoulder. Grate a walnut, hazelnut and nutmeg and mix them together with butter and sugar into pills, and swallow before going to bed, and you will dream of the one you are to marry; and many such absurd things are resorted to. Many of our young people "meet their fate," we suppose, that evening, for Hallowe'en parties are getting to be quite numerous, and of course "Fates" met that evening are the "Fates."
GOT A POCKET FULL—A good-natured sort of young fellow, not inclined, perhaps, to kleptomaniac, but with a sort of "freezing" tendency to his fingers, stepped into Gilmore & Fiske's book store the other day, and observing some bottles of violet ink on the counter, was seized with a desire to possess one of them, and watching his opportunity, proceeded to place one of the aforesaid "violet" in his coat pocket. As luck would have it, the top "gearing" to the bottle was loose, and as he tipped the concern, off went the top, and into his pocket went the chirographic fluid. The affair was hushed up, the ink "settled" for, and the fellow went away with a badly stained garment and an everlasting reminder of the commandment, "Thou shalt not covet," etc.
The October report of the City Superintendent of Schools shows an aggregate enrollment of 1,475 pupils in the public schools, an excess of 70 over the October report of last year. In the central building there are 420 pupils, of whom 128 are non-resident. The enrollment of corresponding date last year, in the central building, was 465, of whom 95 were non-resident. Our schools are evidently enjoying a healthy growth.
The Detroit Commercial Advertiser comes to us in a new dress, and with an embellished head engraved on wood, and looks as neat and bright as a new silver dollar. It is published by WM. H. BURG. An announcement is made of its ninth annual distribution of premiums.

Burlington.
Leaving the East and arriving at Chicago or Indianapolis, how shall we reach the West? The best line is acknowledged to be the C. & Q., joined together with the B. & M. Railroad by the Iron Bridge at Burlington, and called the Burlington Route.
The main line of the Route running to Omaha, connects with the great Pacific Road, and forms to day the leading route to California. The Middle Branch, entering Nebraska at Plattsmouth, passes through Lincoln, the State Capital, and will this year be finished to Fort Kearney, forming the shortest route across the Continent by over 100 miles.
Another branch of the B. & M., diverging at Red Oak, falls into a line running down the Missouri through St. Joe to Kansas City, and all Kansas. Passengers by this route to Kansas, use Illinois, South Iowa, and Missouri, and, by a slight divergence, can see Nebraska also.
Lovers of the view should remember the Burlington Route, for its towers "high-pleasing from afar"—its tree-lined streams—its rough bluffs and gorges—its corn-occurring stretching over the prairie further than eye can reach.
Land buyers will be sure to remember it, for they have friends among the two thousand who have already bought farms from Geo. S. Harris, the Land Commissioner of the B. & M. R. at Burlington, Iowa, or among the four thousand home-owners and pre-emptors who last year filed claims in the "Burlington land office," where "Uncle Sam is rich enough to give us all a farm."
A dull is an impossibility to one taking Barr's Ague Medicine.
