ANN ARBOR MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, APRIL 30, 1875

NUMBER 1528.

OLD GRIMES' MEN.

By V. M. HARRISON.

At last that speckled hen has got her head above the water. She died with a sigh or groan. While in her dozy state.

PHIL BLAKE'S EXPLOIT.

The growing city of Granopolis was excited.

Its three stores, five saloons, and a dozen or more of scattered "residences" fairly glowed.

How hot it grew, while he paced up and down! The breeze which had been gradually increasing.

Only a moment, and his clear, strong voice was heard. "Fire! fire!" he heard it even to the doctor's.

The discussion was of short duration. "Men," cried Dr. Burns, "the bridge must go down."

Probably not many of our readers had occasion to use the phrase, "to keep one's feet on the floor."

him. He bent low, but ten thousand fiery-headed devils, tucked him by the sleeve, whisked horrible nothings in his ears.

A sudden trembling of the earth beneath him—a deep rumbling roused him. Oh, heaven! here it was, bearing down upon him.

How hot it grew, while he paced up and down! The breeze which had been gradually increasing.

Only a moment, and his clear, strong voice was heard. "Fire! fire!" he heard it even to the doctor's.

The discussion was of short duration. "Men," cried Dr. Burns, "the bridge must go down."

Probably not many of our readers had occasion to use the phrase, "to keep one's feet on the floor."

The Staff of Life. Two thousand years ago, Hippocrates, the "father of medicine."

Near the close of the last century, when England and France were engaged in a long and bloody war.

Spring has come and the tramp looks plumply westward, for festivity and pleasure.

Twenty Thousand a Year Not Enough to Marry On. Says a New York writer: New York is crowded with rich unmarried men.

The Age of Paper. We read of the Stone Age, the Bronze Age, and the Iron Age.

Wolf Scapls. Probably not many of our readers had occasion to use the phrase, "to keep one's feet on the floor."

in his township at least twice in each year, to examine carefully the discipline, the mode of instruction, and the reports of the teachers.

GOSSIP OF THE DAY.

The Weshmen in Cincinnati have been engaged in a spelling-match, the orthography of their own beautiful tongue being the subject of their endeavors. Two of the hard words were Dudychevledighatan and Llyangstundwy.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

Mr. Cabernet, the Vineland (N. J.) editor has nearly recovered, and it is likely that he will soon be as well as usual, excepting that the bullet remains in his head. It is reported that there are two other persons living in Vineland with bullets in their brains. Good place to raise a regiment for the next war.

In a space of ten years not much less than two millions of British subjects have left their native land. Some went to Australia, some to Canada, and more to the United States. Until lately the Irish emigrants were in excess of the English or Scotch. Since 1869, however, the respective ratios are reversed.

The New York Times of a recent date, in a review of the financial situation, says of the outlook: "The voice of the croakers is growing fainter, and we are likely to enter the centennial with a degree of prosperity that will reflect credit upon the enterprise and recuperative ability of the American people." So note it be.

At a recent spelling match in Saratoga a gentleman offered a library, worth $160, to anybody who would spell correctly the following sixteen words: "Baa, Llama, Eleve, (dropped), Emeute, Turvon, Demennial, Ean de Vis, Banister, Scritchoidy, Pharmacopoeia, Esquisse, Epepennahy, Cionclonoux." The liberal gentleman still has his library.

PRESIDENT GRANT, in authorizing a denial of the report that Minister Washburne had been instructed by our government to request the French government to resume diplomatic relations with Mexico, makes public a fact which has not hitherto been officially known, namely: that at one time Gen. Sheridan was in readiness, and under waiting orders, with a considerable force, to march upon Mexico against Maximilian and the French troops.

An army officer, who has just returned to Washington from a fort near the Black Hills country, says that the mining adventurers are following a "will-of-the-wisp"; that if they escape the military they will certainly be destroyed by the Sioux. This officer has had special jurisdiction over a considerable portion of the Sioux country, and speaks from personal knowledge when he says that that tribe has never been more determined upon any subject than it now is to prevent the entering of white settlers into the Black Hills country in violation of the treaty.

That the Grand Centennial at Philadelphia will be a new wonder of the world is true beyond a doubt. All the curiosities of life, animal, human and vegetable; all the results of study and professional skill; all the big chesses and little dogs; all that art can create or science develop; will be there; and among these, there will be present William Squires, of Oregon; the modern Noah, who by that time will have constructed and equipped a fac-simile of the original ark, of the same wood as used by the first shipwright. All who wish to escape the deluge of noise can take refuge in this vessel.

Official statistics show that 260,814 immigrants arrived in this country during 1874. Of these, 2,645 were of professional occupations; 32,482 skilled laborers; 101,815 of various trades and occupations, and 122,458 of no occupation, a classification including women and children. Some of the minor divisions under the professional head are interesting, as the notation that there arrived 1 billiard-player, 1 equestrian, 1 letter-carrier, 1 omnibus carrier, 1 pensioner, and 2 bath-keepers. Six authors, 133 actors, 120 artists and 381 clergymen came over.

In speaking of the signature of John C. New, which looks like a bundle of fishbones, an exchange says: "How in the world Mr. New could have straddled up, such a combination of involved and labyrinthine lines, and at the same time devoted time enough during his less than fifty years of life to accumulating the handsome fortune of which he is possessed, is a deeper mystery than the signature. If we reason by analogies, it might be said that in a thousand years would be required to decipher the tangle, so the man that straddled it must have been born so long ago that he might have taken flying matches with the pre-odyssey. Mr. New can go down to posterity as the great chromatograph of this or any other age."

A Catholic statistician claims that out of the 40,000,000 of souls in the United States, 5,701,242 are Roman Catholics. They occupy 6,920 stations, chapels and churches; and they have the service of 4,873 priests, 33 apostolic vicars, forty-nine bishops, nine archbishops, and one cardinal. That they are increasing rapidly is quite obvious. They already have eighteen theological schools, or seminaries, with nearly 1,500 students; over 2,000 of all grades, and more than 300 asylums and hospitals. The jurisdiction of these prelates has a very wide range, from 2,000 in the diocese of Little Rock, Ark., to 300,000 in that of New York, rated at 700,000. These figures are stupendous.

Drunkenness has increased in France to such a fearful degree that the government has found it necessary to give the subject careful and serious attention. A bill has been introduced in the National Assembly, which is a step in advance of legislation in this country. We give two articles from the bill:

Article 2. Any person who shall be found intoxicated in the streets, hotels, coffee-houses, taverns, or other public places, and has for the repetition of this offense been sentenced twice, shall moreover by the second judgment, be deprived of the privilege of voting, or being eligible and appointed to any public office, or serving as juror, and of exercising arms.

Art. 4. Any elector who will present himself at the polls, any witness who will appear before the courts, any juror who will attend the Court of Assizes, in a state of intoxication, any Mayor, Mayor-deputy, member of Town Council, Municipal Council, or executive committee of the commune, shall be liable to the aforementioned penalties.

THE EAST. (Owing to inadequate facilities for the celebration, some 2,000 people were forced to camp out overnight in the latter place, sleeping in barns, churches, etc. All night long the road to Boston was crowded with pedestrians.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters met in New York last week, and transacted business relative to insurance interests. The percentage of losses the past year has been greater than any year since the great Chicago fire.

A man who had been arrested on suspicion of having committed a crime, was released on bail for $50,000. The man was a well-known figure in the community.

The Chicago pedestrian, O'Leary, has just accomplished at Philadelphia the extraordinary feat of walking 116 miles in 24 hours and 30 minutes. This is the best time on record.

Sale of a Wife. A correspondent of the Union Overland writes from St. Louis, Mo., of a curious story of one Hazzard's Wife. Hazzard had a wife who was a very beautiful woman.

A SECOND FATHER MATTHEW. Who is there that does not respect the memory of Father Matthew? He was a man of temperance. Immense societies bear his honored name; but there is one man who has struck a more sure death-blow to intemperance.

T. J. MILLIKEN, one of the wealthiest merchants in Sacramento, took for a wife a young octogenarian. She was very pretty, well educated, and her African blood was barely perceptible.
