

The Ohio Folly. It is wholly unnecessary to wait until next year to discover what is the true Democratic sentiment on the subject.

The Religious Press on the Beecher Trial. Below are the opinions of some of the religious papers in connection with the Beecher case:

The Philadelphia Presbyterian, clearly convinced that Tilton has entirely failed to make out his case, believes that a large loss has been inflicted upon the "inestimable worth of a good character has rarely had finer illustrations than in this trial. It has helped Mr. Beecher that the public gave him a trustful hearing, founded on his past reputation. It has helped him quite as much that the public accepted nothing from Mr. Tilton that was not supported by evidence from other sources.

The Chicago Tribune, announcing the result of the recent election of directors of the Michigan Central Railroad, says: "It is fortunate for the Michigan Central that Mr. Joy will continue to control it. He is the only Western man on the board, and his energies and abilities have always been directed toward developing the Western country. The changes that he has lately made in the management of the road show his predictions in this direction. All of his new officers are Western men of highest ability, who know the wants and peculiarities of this section of the country much better than eastern men would. In spite of the disastrous railroad war the road has improved steadily since Mr. Strong became general Superintendent, Mr. Wheeler general freight agent and Mr. Wentworth general passenger and ticket agent. They are making immense efforts to restore the road to its former prosperity and a change at this time would have been disastrous. The financial exhibit of the road is not ready, but will be submitted to the directors at their first meeting at Boston. It is stated that the report will be far more satisfactory than has been generally supposed."

Making Wine from Native Grapes. The following receipt for making domestic wines from Catawba or Isabella grapes, used by G. A. Nicolls, at Reading, Pa., in 1859 to 1869, is commended to the New York Post, by a gentleman who has tried it successfully. Its directions have the merit, rare in receipts, of being full and precise:

1. Select perfectly ripe bunches, and then carefully pick off the stems and remove all grapes which are not quite ripe. Squeeze the juice out, either by hand or press, strain through a hair sieve, and pour it at once into a clean, sweet barrel or keg, adding to the vessel two gallons of water for every gallon of juice made.

2. In adding the two gallons of water stated in section 2, let it strain through a pulp, skins, &c., of the residuum of the grapes as they are squeezed.

3. During the cold weather, in the following February, when the wine is perfectly still and clear, draw it off into any other clean vessels, then quickly clean, seal and rinse thoroughly the barrel with clean water, and return the wine to it, bung it up and draw it off as required for use.

4. If you wish to make a very palatable champagne, have the champagne bottles ready when you rack off the wine as stated in section 3; put a tablespoonful of common syrup in each quart bottle; then fill with the wine, leaving about 1-1/2 inches clear below the bottom of the cork, which fasten very securely with strong twine, as the pressure of the fixed air to escape is very great.

5. An old brandy or whiskey barrel is the best (see section 2). Never use a new barrel, as the wine will taste of the wood.

Pierpont, who is fully as industrious as any of the three, does not apparently suffer from the heat. You visit him when the thermometer is 102 in the shade and you find him cool and calm. His linen is white and stiffly starched. He is always most carefully dressed, and has the reputation of having never perspired since he was a young man.

Bristow has moved his office around to the south side of the Treasury building, in a room that has such a draught through it that a young gale enters every minute. He is so phlegmatic that nothing in the way of manner could ever annoy him. He works very steadily and is rarely ever absent from the office.

The FLOODS IN FRANCE. Twenty Thousand Persons Without Shelter. A telegraph from Paris to the London Standard says: The accounts received from the South respecting the floods are perfectly appalling. At Toulhouse alone upwards of 300 houses have been carried away, and upward of 100 corpses have been recovered and buried. In one village in the neighborhood of 30 houses remain standing out of 400. Two villages, La Bastille and Neuples, are entirely destroyed. Railway and telegraphic communication between Toulhouse and the South is intercepted, and it is by a circuitous route that the news reached us that the valley of the Artois has suffered as severely as that of the Garonne. The Marquis d'Hautpoul is reported among the victims at Toulhouse. He perished in an attempt to rescue the inhabitants of the suburb of St. Cyprin. Upward of 25,000 persons are without shelter. At Verdun, near Fox, the loss of life is estimated at 80. The number of victims is said to exceed 1,000. Marshal McMahon, M. Buffet, and the Minister of War leave to-night for the scene of the disaster. The calamity, unparalleled in its magnitude, has entirely driven into the shade the scenes which took place at Versailles to-day, and M. Gambetta's doctrinaire speech on the occasion of General Hoche's anniversary. The accounts are as yet very incomplete, and it is feared the worst remains to be told.

GOSSIP OF THE DAY.

The reports of the condition and prospect of the new cotton crop throughout the Southern States are very flattering, and, as a consequence, that section of our country is looking forward to an early restoration of general prosperity.

It is said that the best conducted financial department of any morning paper in this country is that of the Philadelphia Ledger. It has been in the charge of the same editor for thirty-five years, and in all that time there has never once been the slightest suspicion that it was used in the private interests of any man, or to aid in any financial speculation whatever.

GRASSHOPPERS are $1.60 a bushel in Minnesota; potato bugs are 20 cents a quart in New Jersey—caught and killed in both cases, of course. Traps have been contrived in Minnesota, run by horse-power, which capture from five to twenty bushels of grasshoppers in a day.

The Civil Rights act, like a two-edged sword, cuts both ways. A curious suit under the act has been brought in Washington. A white man had engaged rooms in a house owned and occupied by a colored man, but rented by his wife in his absence.

The Spiritualist phenomena are to be thoroughly investigated in St. Petersburg by a special committee of scientists, appointed by the Imperial University, under the Presidency of Prof. Mendeleeff. In order to have the tests thorough, representative American mediums are to be invited thither at the expense of the university, they making their own terms.

The estimated value of all the churches and places of worship in New York city is $38,140,000. The Episcopal stand highest on the list, at $10,700,000; next come the Catholic, $6,900,000; Presbyterian, $6,874,000; Dutch Reformed, $3,401,000; Methodist, $2,818,000; Baptist, $2,492,000; Jewish, $2,007,000; Unitarian, $900,000; Lutheran, $857,000; Universalist, $410,000; Congregational, $417,000; Friends, $295,000; Swedenborgian, $100,000; African Methodist, $89,000.

This is the wicked way in which the Baltimore Gazette relates a recent editorial change: "Owing to the unforeseen financial embarrassments of the St. Louis Times, that voracious chronicler of things that never happened, George Alfred Townsend, has scrapped the St. Louis from his brogans, and again become a guerrilla in journalism. George wields a flashing pen, but alas! not for him is the flourishing cherry tree. He does it so easy, too."

This following is the only instance on record of a Postmaster resigning, except by request. The Postmaster writes from Kansas to Postmaster-General Jewell as follows: "Sir—As the grasshoppers are here, and destroying the corn and wheat and the oats and rye, I would ask you to discontinue this office. If they continue destroying the crops for three or four more days, there will be but few men left around here. Please grant me these favors, and oblige, yours truly."

The recent successive occurrence of earthquakes, tornadoes, and floods all over the globe, is certainly very remarkable. The earthquake in Asia Minor, that in New Granada, and the slighter one in Indiana came very near one another in point of time; and the tornado in Detroit and the floods in France, Austria and Switzerland were almost simultaneous. The extraordinary nature of these floods is evidenced by the fact that in Philadelphia fully 2,000 persons were drowned, and property destroyed to the value of $75,000,000.

A man fishing in the Tennessee river, at Chattanooga, the other day, fancied at last that he had succeeded in catching something valuable in the piscatory catalogue. Handling in his apparatus with some delight, imagine the change at finding the corpse of a young girl attached to his hook. Public opinion is still divided about the point whether the girl drowned herself intentionally or accidentally, or was drowned by some parties to conceal another crime. But the fisherman in this instance is distinguished with red and blue, and Jack Walton has lost a fond disciple.

As exchange gives an account of a loquat feast which was recently served up in a Missouri town. Soup was first served, and was supposed to taste like chicken soup; it was pronounced "good." Then came butter-cakes, through which loquats were well mixed. The cakes disappeared quickly. Baked loquats were then tried—plain hoppers, without condiment of any kind—and were pronounced an excellent dish. The dessert was a la John the Baptist—baked loquats and honey. Eating loquats is no new thing, for ancient historians speak of their frequent use in Eastern countries.

It looks as though St. Louis and Chicago, after safely passing through the ravages of commerce, the bickerings about population, the disputes regarding growth and improvement, and all the while retaining their tempers, were about to fall into a deadly conflict over base-ball. The St. Louis Club recently contested and lost a game in Chicago, and it is claimed by the tenetizens of the Monday City that their representative men and those accompanying them were shamefully treated—that some of them were hustled off the ground because they manifested their sympathy for their club by cheering, and that without the aid of policemen's clubs Chicago would never have won the game. When Chicago sent her nine to the other end of the bridge to contest the return game they were badly beaten, and the papers of that city set up a howl of indignation at the manner in which they were treated by those ill-bred St. Louisians. Meantime the people of the two cities are greatly agitated about this base-ball war, their blood fairly boils, and the next meeting of these two rival clubs may result in an open rupture and a few broken heads, if something is not done to allay the ill feeling.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

OPERATIONS have been resumed at the Grand Locomotive Works of Paterson, N. J., which have been suspended for some past. Three hundred men are employed on locomotives for the Russian government. A dreadful storm struck a large party of St. Louis on Tuesday last, mowing down trees, tearing up trees, etc., doing an immense amount of damage, and killing two men who were at work on a house. A party of seven lads, bathing in Waupee lake, near Fall River, Mass., a few days ago, joined hands and walked off the bank and into deep water, where six of the number, John W. Fielding, James William Joyce, William Dyer, Francis Kane and George McManus were drowned.

The Plymouth Church congregation, at a meeting the other day, voted unanimously to raise the salary of Henry Ward Beecher to $10,000 a year. Two heavy failures are announced from New Haven, Ct.: Taylor, Frost & Co., wholesale grocers and dealers in liquors, with liabilities of $150,000 and $200,000; and W. H. Bradley & Co., carriage manufacturers, liabilities about $225,000.

FRANK D. MOFFITT has addressed a letter to the Honorable William Brewster, asking for a trial on the indictment found against him at the instance of Mr. Beecher last summer.

instinctly killing Manning... Robert N. Yerby was shot and killed on the steamer A. J. White, near St. Louis Landing, Ark., a few days since, by R. L. Oliver and his sons. The killing grew out of an old grudge, young Oliver first shooting Yerby in the temple, and the other Oliver fired at him. The Oliver then ordered the boat to land, which was done, and they escaped in the woods. Four persons were instantly killed, and seven seriously injured, by the explosion of a saw mill at Hot Springs, Ark., a few days ago. The business part of the town of Washington, Tenn., was destroyed by fire on Tuesday last, mowing down trees, tearing up trees, etc., doing an immense amount of damage, and killing two men who were at work on a house. A party of seven lads, bathing in Waupee lake, near Fall River, Mass., a few days ago, joined hands and walked off the bank and into deep water, where six of the number, John W. Fielding, James William Joyce, William Dyer, Francis Kane and George McManus were drowned.

empirically declined to accept a challenge from Paul de Cassagne, the noted duelist. The father of Don Carlos has been arrested by the Spanish authorities. The London Times of July 8 summarizes the military and political situation in Spain, and gives a gloomy view of the Alfont case. The Italian government has decided not to participate in our Centennial on account of the considerable expense necessary. A large crowd assembled at Hendon, England, last week, to witness the pigeon-shooting match between A. H. Bogardus, of Illinois, and Geo. Rimmed, champion of England. Bogardus won easily. Bogardus has challenged all England to shoot against him. The Suffrage Extension bill has been defeated in the English House of Commons by a vote of 268 yeas to 166 yeas. At a large meeting recently held at Charleston, Va., to consider whether or not the States should repudiate their debt, a series of resolutions denouncing repudiation in the warmest terms, were adopted with but one dissenting vote. There is trouble in the Indian Territory, a Sheriff having killed a wealthy farmer named Jesse Foreman in attempting his arrest. The Foreman, a well-to-do farmer, had been charged with the murder of a man named Osgood, and for this act his arrest was attempted. Foreman's friends are in pursuit of the Sheriff.

WASHINGTON. The Postmaster-General contemplates making an official tour of New England in August, and the South in November. The trip will be the same general purpose as his recent Western tour. New and extensive frauds in connection with the whiskey ring are being made, and among those indicted for conspiracy are G. W. Fishback, late of the St. Louis Democrat; and Messrs. McKee and Houser, of the Globe. James W. W. Averill, late of the Standard, was recently visited by a hall-stormer of unprecedented violence and destructiveness. Many persons were killed, crops destroyed and valuable property damaged. Inundations and overflowing of the rivers of France continue to be reported, and a railway train is interrupted, with occasional loss of life. The London Standard reports immigration to the United States. It believes that Americans still covet Canada, and concludes the article in these words: "We wish Canadians to understand that England regards them as Englishmen, and would fight for Canada as for Kent."

Two English tourists were arrested at Mayence, not long since, by Prussian authorities, on the supposition that they were French spies. When it became known who they were, they were released with profuse apologies. The American rifle team has declined an invitation to visit the Exposition at London, which was offered them by the British government.
