

Michigan Argus.

FRIDAY MORNING, DE 13 1875

"METROPOLITAN" JOURNALISM. It is always neither the most intelligent nor the most reliable, if even intelligible. For instance, the New York Evening Post of the 27th ult. says: "A Detroit dispatch to the Chicago Tribune says that within a few days the friends of Gov. Hendricks have taken a series of adroit steps which promise to secure for him the Michigan delegation to the next Democratic National Convention." What steps, when taken, and who are the high (but unauthorized) contracting parties is not made public. Don't the Post bite to wit? And then comes the N. Y. World, of the 29th, with: "The Democrats of Detroit have directed their representatives to vote for Kerr." The one Democrat representing Detroit (only a part of the First district) is not an automaton to be directed so easily, and neither has any authorized body of his constituents assumed to direct him. The Post and World should not be so greedy for items as to fail to discriminate.

This first session of the Forty-fourth Congress will open on Monday next, December 6. A large number of members have already gathered at Washington, and the canvass for Speaker and other officers of the House has been active for several days. It was narrowed on Monday by the publication of a card by Hon. Fernando Wood, of N. Y., announcing his withdrawal from the contest. In so withdrawing he declined to expose his choice or course, but disclaimed any bargain for positions on committees or otherwise. It is understood, however, that he will give his support to Mr. Randall, of Pa., and all that he says Mr. Cox cannot get the vote of the New York delegation. Probably not all of this.

The same dispatches which announced Wood's withdrawal spoke of the improving chances of Kerr, who is developing more strength in the South and West than had been accorded him. It is understood that of the Michigan delegation, Messrs. Durand, and Williams favor Cox, and that Mr. Potter is for Kerr, first, last and all the time. His colleagues will give their votes to Kerr in preference to Randall. But as the caucus is set down for to-morrow evening it is useless to speculate upon results at this late hour.

The vacancy in the United States Senate, caused by the death of Senator Ferry, of Connecticut, has been filled, Gov. Ingersoll having appointed and commissioned ex Gov. James E. English, who will hold the place and discharge its duties until the Legislature, to convene in May next (and yet to be elected), shall elect his successor. Gov. English has served in both branches of the State Legislature, and represented his district two terms in the lower branch of Congress, from 1860 to 1864, where he was known as a "war Democrat," favored the most vigorous prosecution of the war for the suppression of the rebellion, and voted for the abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia. He won the reputation of being a faithful, intelligent, hard-working member, both in the House and in the Senate. He has been three times elected Governor, in 1867 over Gen. Hawley, and in 1868 and 1870 over Mr. Jewell, now the Postmaster-General. In 1866 he was beaten by Gen. Hawley. He has the ability and experience to make a good Senator, and is sound on all the issues of the day. Though preferring David A. Wells, especially for his views on the currency and tariff questions, and his ability to discuss and defend them, we accept the appointment of Gov. English as one fit to be made.

The press of the nation, city and country, metropolitan and "provincial," have been engaged for a week in discussing the question of presiding officer in the Senate, who he is, and what his term of office, and with a great diversity of opinion. Some are very confident that Senator Ferry, elected at the last or special session of the Senate, will become permanent presiding officer of the Senate and acting Vice-President; others incline to the opinion that he will become really Vice-President and that another President pro tempore must be elected; and others, still, hold that his position as pro tempore President ceased with the session and that the Senate is without a presiding officer. Proponent, we are confident, will warrant Senator Ferry in taking the chair at the opening of the Senate, and we are equally confident that no precedent makes him the presiding officer of the Senate to the end of the late Vice-President's term unless the Senate chooses to continue him so by re-election. During the term that John Tyler was acting President, since Harrison deceased, the Senate elected a President pro tempore at each session; and the same may be said of the term in which Fillmore served as President, vacating the chair in the Senate.

Common sense, if not parliamentary law, would teach that a President pro tempore occupying the chair of the Senate or any other body, when it adjourns to a day fixed, would take the chair when that body meets again, unless a permanent President appears and succeeds him; but that a body adjourning sine die with a President pro tempore in the chair will be without a presiding officer when it convenes in a new session, and must at that date elect a presiding officer in the absence of its permanent one, from whatever cause. This in the absence of statute law, of course.

Correspondence of the Argus.

LONDON, Oct. 22, 1875. MESSRS. EDITORS: I am glad to see that your issue of the 17th inst. contains a very interesting article on the subject of the late Mr. Mark's collection of works in sculpture, painting, gems, coins, books, &c., all of which at his death he bequeathed to his native city. To preserve this invaluable legacy, and at the same time to furnish a suitable monument to the man who had given to Denmark so high a position in the history of Art, a building was erected expressly for the purpose, and is now a spacious court, in the center of which is the grave of the great sculptor, covered with a verdant mass of ivy, the only green thing visible in the smoothly paved court—a mausoleum most worthy and appropriate, with no fulsome epithets, but only the name of the artist and the date of his birth and death. It is now officially proclaimed to the world that Gen. Schenck, Minister of the United States near the Court of St. James, received a loan of $10,000 ($50,000), to invest in the shares of the Emma Mine, and that he was guaranteed an interest of 18 per cent. on his investment (of borrowed money). Now, either Gen. Schenck knew that the Emma Mine was utterly valueless, a swindle admirabile, or he knew nothing about it. Whichever horn of the dilemma he chooses to take equally disgraces the nation he represents or misrepresents. And yet how long is this man, who sold the use of his name and the influence of his official position, to remain abroad and degrade the nation can only be determined, we suppose, by the next Presidential election, for there are no givings out of any intention on the part of Grant to recall him. A President who could wreath with laurels the heads of such retiring officials as Attorney-General Williams and Secretary Delano, cannot be looked to disgrace a Schenck.

The Act of Congress which provided for "celebrating the one hundredth Anniversary of American Independence, by holding an International Exhibition of Soil and Mines," authorized the creation of the United States Centennial Commission, and entrusted to it the management of the Exhibition. This body composed of two Senators, one from each State and Territory, nominated by the respective Governors, and commissioned by the President of the United States. The enterprises, therefore, is distinctly a national one, and not, as has sometimes been stated, the work of a private corporation.

The Exhibition will be opened on May 10th 1876 and remain open every day, except Sunday, until November 10th. There will be a fixed price of 50 cents for admission to all the buildings and grounds.

The Centennial grounds are situated on the western bank of the Schuylkill River, and within Fairmount Park, the largest public park in proximity to a great city in the world, and one of the most beautiful in the country. The Park contains 3160 acres, 450 of which have been enclosed for the Exhibition. Besides this tract, the Centennial Commission has secured a large tract of 3000 acres, and a farm of 42 acres has been suitably planted for the test of plows, mowers, reapers and other agricultural machinery.

The Exhibition buildings are approached by eight lines of a street cars which connect with all the other lines in the city, and by the Pennsylvania and Reading railroads, over the tracks of which trains will also run to North Pennsylvania and Philadelphia, Washington, and Baltimore railroads. Thus the exhibition is in an immediate connection with the entire railroad system of the country, and any one within 90 miles of Philadelphia can visit it at no greater cost than that of carriage hire at the Paris or Vienna Exhibition.

THE NEW ENGLAND RANGE with Emerald Hill Clock, combining all the latest and most valuable features of the new Cooking Ranges. The new MORNING GLORY beautifully mounted, and acknowledged to be one of the leading first class Cook Stoves.

THE WOODLAND COOK A new first class Wood Stove, for a low priced stove cannot be beat. It has all the modern improvements, and is generally used by the best of the people. It is made in the best of materials, and is the most perfect Range in the market.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

SUBSCRIBERS FOR THE ARGUS. A promising revival is in progress at Ypsilanti.

Robert Colyer will tell what he knows about the "salt" next Wednesday night, at University Hall.

Mr. Strong, proprietor of the Washburn House, of Ypsilanti, tried to commit suicide on Tuesday, but antidotes saved his life.

James Corrigan was sent to the House of Correction, at Detroit, on Monday, by Judge McMillan, for a term of five days. Cause, drunk and disorderly.

The Chelsea Herald says that Dr. Gates slipped down a small embankment a few days ago, and broke the smaller bone of his left leg, just above the ankle joint.

The burning of the barns of J. M. Congdon, reported in last week's Argus, will call upon the Washburn Mutual Insurance Company to shell out over $10,000.

The house of Edward Ryan, six miles north of this city, was burned Sunday. Loss, $1,000; partly insured in the Washburn Mutual. Supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

The Dexter Leader gives it to be understood that Judge Crane will, at the expiration of his term, "open a law office either in Lansing or in Ann Arbor."

The Ypsilanti Musical Union will bring out the opera of Martha on the evening of the 9th and 10th. Beside, of Jackson, takes the leading part, and the Detroit Opera House Orchestra will do the instrumental.

About fifty rods of new plank walk has been laid on the University grounds. A portion of it leads from the entrance east of Prof. Fries's house to the main walk, and the remaining portion from the main walk to the Homeopathic building.

Subject of discourse of Rev. C. H. Brigham at the Ypsilanti church next Sunday: "The Genesis Legends." The discourse at 10:30 A. M. "Fear as a Motive to the Religious Life." Evening lecture at 7 P. M., "The Religion of Phoenicia." Students' class at 9:30 A. M.

The whip socket manufactory of Worden Brock, of Ypsilanti, was burned on Tuesday. The building was one of the oldest in the city, and hence not very valuable, but the machinery was of considerable worth; owing to its weight it could not be removed. Loss, $4,000, with no insurance.

Our Dexter contemporary is getting decidedly stuck up. Hear him: "The English language is barren of words forcible enough to express the contempt we feel for the man who offered us six bushels of turnips for a year's subscription to the Leader." We had as well have said on our part, "I will wrap up in twine." An eclectic diet, that!

The Rev. Augustus Bush, rector of St. James' (Episcopal) Church at Dexter has been transferred to Detroit, on the ground that being Secretary of the diocese it was desirable to have him near the ecclesiastical headquarters. The Leader says that he is to minister to the two churches in Dexter, on Woodward avenue, and the other on the Grand road.

Barnabee with his concert-troupe, was favored with a good-sized audience at University Hall on Tuesday night, but in return he failed to favor his auditors with a first-class concert. His run was of course well received, but the singing was at best only second rate. After hearing Camilla Urso with her voluta, we could not but praise Mrs. Bell all the credit she may have deserved.

The young gentleman (B) who got up a corner in turkeys last week, in this city, has been engaged in some disgusting practices with small boys, and for the notorious business he was brought before Justice Beahan, on Wednesday, and fined ten dollars and costs, the total being thirteen dollars and seventy-five cents, with the requirement added that he should leave the city for ever and a day.

The new fire engine for the Fifth ward has made its appearance and has been safely housed in its new quarters. It was tested on the day of its arrival and found to be up to all of its pretensions. It is a very fine engine, in fact, and will undoubtedly be able to check the fire element in lower town to all satisfaction. It will be accompanied by a new hose cart, which is under process of construction by Delaney & Hill, of this city, and by five hundred feet of hose. It will be remembered by our readers that this engine was manufactured by Button & Son, of Watertown, N. Y., and that it cost $1,150.

For the past few years the Washburn Mutual Fire Insurance Company have been "tried by fire" most severely. They have been diligently seeking for the cause of it, and have come to the conclusion that the main reasons in losses have been over-insured risks. The company have concluded to make up the loss vigorously, and determined to cut down all over-insurance to a two-thirds standard. They have adopted an amended charter, which has met the approval of the Michigan General Assembly, a committee of Board of Directors, who are now engaged in preparing forms of applications and policies, by laws, &c., and we have no doubt the company will be placed on a better foundation than ever. Experience of the past fifteen years has shown them where the dangers, and we doubt not this company will soon ascend to the high popularity among the farmers of Washburn.

On Saturday evening last Mrs. Israel Hall, with her accustomed hospitality, threw open her parlors to the Woman's Club and a number of invited guests, who conveyed her dramatic readings by Mrs. O'Byrne, of Detroit, known elsewhere as "Pips." Mrs. O' is a new resident of our neighboring city and was entertained by fans. She is a slight, graceful, sparkling woman, and made friends here by her domestic and interesting readings. She did not waste a single word, however, in all her selections, and criticism in the most friendly manner she should say that "Lily Clare" was overdone; King Henry in the courtship scene, wood altogether too gently, being neither bluff nor gruff enough; but Miss O'Reilly's little comic piece of the translation of "Astruc" was capitally done, while the "Sisters of Charity" touched the hearts of all, and "The Sackcloth of Balaam" was excellent. These latter pieces could scarcely have been better rendered. We commend Mrs. O'Byrne to associations and clubs in search of a pleasant and profitable evening's entertainment.

PROBATE SOCIETY.—The Pioneer Society of Washburn County met on Wednesday of this week at Goodwin Hall in Manchester. A goodly number was present. The old organization was dissolved, and a new organization perfected under the statute of this State. An election under the new constitution was held, resulting in the election of Edward Clark, President; Chas. A. Chapin, Rec. Secy.; M. H. Goodrich, Corres. Secy.; Joshua G. Leonard, Treasurer. Interesting papers relating to the early settlement of Manchester and Sharon were read by Dr. Ross, Andrew Dobb, and Col. Palfrey. A good and beautiful dinner was provided, and the members from this city say that it all in all was a very pleasant meeting, and that they were highly gratified with the exhibitors at the meeting, which attracted much attention.

CITY TAXES.—On Wednesday the several taxrolls of the city were placed in the hands of Mr. Rogers, city treasurer, for collection.

From the rolls we take the following figures, showing the amount of taxes to be collected, and for what purpose, by Supervisor districts, compared with last year:

Table with columns for Ward, State Tax, County, City, School, and Total. Includes First and Second Wards, and Third and Fourth Wards.

THE BURNING OF THE BARN OF J. M. CONGDON, reported in last week's Argus, will call upon the Washburn Mutual Insurance Company to shell out over $10,000.

Magazines For December.

The Electric Magazine has a very fine line of literature, for the month of December. From the rolls we take the following figures, showing the amount of taxes to be collected, and for what purpose, by Supervisor districts, compared with last year:

The house of Edward Ryan, six miles north of this city, was burned Sunday. Loss, $1,000; partly insured in the Washburn Mutual. Supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

The Dexter Leader gives it to be understood that Judge Crane will, at the expiration of his term, "open a law office either in Lansing or in Ann Arbor."

The Ypsilanti Musical Union will bring out the opera of Martha on the evening of the 9th and 10th. Beside, of Jackson, takes the leading part, and the Detroit Opera House Orchestra will do the instrumental.

About fifty rods of new plank walk has been laid on the University grounds. A portion of it leads from the entrance east of Prof. Fries's house to the main walk, and the remaining portion from the main walk to the Homeopathic building.

Subject of discourse of Rev. C. H. Brigham at the Ypsilanti church next Sunday: "The Genesis Legends." The discourse at 10:30 A. M. "Fear as a Motive to the Religious Life." Evening lecture at 7 P. M., "The Religion of Phoenicia." Students' class at 9:30 A. M.

The whip socket manufactory of Worden Brock, of Ypsilanti, was burned on Tuesday. The building was one of the oldest in the city, and hence not very valuable, but the machinery was of considerable worth; owing to its weight it could not be removed. Loss, $4,000, with no insurance.

Our Dexter contemporary is getting decidedly stuck up. Hear him: "The English language is barren of words forcible enough to express the contempt we feel for the man who offered us six bushels of turnips for a year's subscription to the Leader." We had as well have said on our part, "I will wrap up in twine." An eclectic diet, that!

The Rev. Augustus Bush, rector of St. James' (Episcopal) Church at Dexter has been transferred to Detroit, on the ground that being Secretary of the diocese it was desirable to have him near the ecclesiastical headquarters. The Leader says that he is to minister to the two churches in Dexter, on Woodward avenue, and the other on the Grand road.

Barnabee with his concert-troupe, was favored with a good-sized audience at University Hall on Tuesday night, but in return he failed to favor his auditors with a first-class concert. His run was of course well received, but the singing was at best only second rate. After hearing Camilla Urso with her voluta, we could not but praise Mrs. Bell all the credit she may have deserved.

The young gentleman (B) who got up a corner in turkeys last week, in this city, has been engaged in some disgusting practices with small boys, and for the notorious business he was brought before Justice Beahan, on Wednesday, and fined ten dollars and costs, the total being thirteen dollars and seventy-five cents, with the requirement added that he should leave the city for ever and a day.

The new fire engine for the Fifth ward has made its appearance and has been safely housed in its new quarters. It was tested on the day of its arrival and found to be up to all of its pretensions. It is a very fine engine, in fact, and will undoubtedly be able to check the fire element in lower town to all satisfaction. It will be accompanied by a new hose cart, which is under process of construction by Delaney & Hill, of this city, and by five hundred feet of hose. It will be remembered by our readers that this engine was manufactured by Button & Son, of Watertown, N. Y., and that it cost $1,150.

For the past few years the Washburn Mutual Fire Insurance Company have been "tried by fire" most severely. They have been diligently seeking for the cause of it, and have come to the conclusion that the main reasons in losses have been over-insured risks. The company have concluded to make up the loss vigorously, and determined to cut down all over-insurance to a two-thirds standard. They have adopted an amended charter, which has met the approval of the Michigan General Assembly, a committee of Board of Directors, who are now engaged in preparing forms of applications and policies, by laws, &c., and we have no doubt the company will be placed on a better foundation than ever. Experience of the past fifteen years has shown them where the dangers, and we doubt not this company will soon ascend to the high popularity among the farmers of Washburn.

On Saturday evening last Mrs. Israel Hall, with her accustomed hospitality, threw open her parlors to the Woman's Club and a number of invited guests, who conveyed her dramatic readings by Mrs. O'Byrne, of Detroit, known elsewhere as "Pips." Mrs. O' is a new resident of our neighboring city and was entertained by fans. She is a slight, graceful, sparkling woman, and made friends here by her domestic and interesting readings. She did not waste a single word, however, in all her selections, and criticism in the most friendly manner she should say that "Lily Clare" was overdone; King Henry in the courtship scene, wood altogether too gently, being neither bluff nor gruff enough; but Miss O'Reilly's little comic piece of the translation of "Astruc" was capitally done, while the "Sisters of Charity" touched the hearts of all, and "The Sackcloth of Balaam" was excellent. These latter pieces could scarcely have been better rendered. We commend Mrs. O'Byrne to associations and clubs in search of a pleasant and profitable evening's entertainment.
