NUMBER 1561.

A CHRISTMAS GIFT.

By FELIX ARKHEWITZ.

He was feeble and old, and his figure was drooping. He sat there watching the boy in his sleep. And the boy was smiling and looking about him. As the fire burned itself with flicker and leap.

His hair was curly and silvered with trouble. With the snow that was falling without. His eyes were bright and looking at the world. Withal with hope and anxious with doubt.

Poor old eyes! They were tender and loving. Watching the feverish child's unrest. Noting the pulse of the delicate features. That should have been close to a motherly breast.

Burning with fever the boy lay moaning. His sunken cheeks were aglow with red. And his little hands with their restless fingers. Wandered uneasily over the bed.

The aged washer, with pleading anguish. Tossed the child's head and turned it away. A prayer of importunate, tender yearning. For the sweet young life that is fading there.

One day the child that is left to care for. Why is he so feeble and so sad? The child of the old man's life and joy. The child of the old man's life and joy.

But the boy sleeps on, and the snow is still falling. In the silent and sorrowful night. The child of the old man's life and joy. The child of the old man's life and joy.

It is Christmas eve, and the thought came sudden. "The light of the Christmas star will show me. If the little one is to live or die."

And his thoughts went back in a rush of feeling. His sunken cheeks were aglow with red. Year by year, with their mournful burden. The sad procession came thronging past.

He thought of his own distant childhood. And the shadow of the old man's face. Asking no questions of fate or of fortune. Early Heaven to make some sense of life.

He thought of his childhood, and the fear. When Christmas brought him a fond young bride. With a love that was in his eyes of beauty. With a love that was in his eyes of beauty.

And the years went on, and the children gathered. About the hearstone, happy and bright. And the old man's face was a smile of joy. And Christmas morning brought him light.

And the youngest child was the household's darling. With sunny eyes that were bright with joy. And he had a love that was in his eyes of beauty. With a love that was in his eyes of beauty.

And the old man's face was a smile of joy. And Christmas morning brought him light. And the youngest child was the household's darling. With sunny eyes that were bright with joy.

ishment, began to occasionally drop into my department and look on during instruction hours. He was very pleasant and gentlemanly in his manner, and gave an excuse for the interest he took, that he was a born Yankee, and therefore very fond of inventions.

Although there were other teachers, I discovered that he lingered most frequently in my vicinity, and seemed more interested in my conversation than that of my companions. I was young at the time, and no doubt had the usual desire of my sex to please. I felt flattered, perhaps, at his respectful attention, and took particular pains to make my observations on "what I knew about sewing machines," as intelligent as my limited powers permitted. He soon became a frequent visitor, and sometimes when business was dull would linger and converse on other subjects besides the technicalities of the trade. I found that he was well educated, had traveled considerably in his own country, and knew, as they say, "men and things."

His intimate friendship with one of the firm's most successful salesmen, and the frequency of his visits, and he made the additional apology for possible intrusion, that he was very much at his leisure and sometimes thought of connecting with the trade.

One day, I discovered upon probing him, that he was very much at his leisure and sometimes thought of connecting with the trade. One day, I discovered upon probing him, that he was very much at his leisure and sometimes thought of connecting with the trade.

Such was the painful story, as I gathered the particulars—no rare one in the annals of a quack, and yet sad enough as embodying the wreck of two lives. Perhaps a knowledge of the world softened my pride toward Mr. Lee a trifle, though it by no means cured my prejudice against him. On some excuse as to my convenience, I did not go on the afternoon before Christmas—(Christmas Eve at a very early stage of the anniversary), and meanwhile gained a channel of benevolence by telling my companions in teaching that he had better go home early and thus enjoy the gay sights and sounds presented by the streets on that festive season. And then I crossed the wharf by making another appointment with Mr. Harry Lee, for the same place, half an hour later, having in view the necessity of bringing him unexpectedly upon his wife at the very moment when she should be sewing away at the top of her ability.

Once upon a time I kept an extraordinary bug that I had captured under a glass tumbler, for days, to see the change of color in the insect. I remember when I first saw it, it was a very common one, and I thought it was a very common one, and I thought it was a very common one.

Miss Frances E. Willard, of Chicago, will give a free lecture this Friday evening, at the Methodist Church. Miss Willard's reputation as a lecturer and author is decidedly high. Though well known in the west she has never lectured in Ann Arbor. A fine address may be expected, and it is hoped she may have a full house.

The net proceeds of the Cantata of Queen Esther were $332.36. The Young Ladies Society of the Presbyterian Church return their thanks to the ladies and gentlemen who so kindly and willingly assisted in giving the same. The affair was a decided success.

The concert on Tuesday evening, was gotten up by a few of the singers, with which neither the society nor Prof. Pease had anything to do.

Thos. Schuennauer, a Detroit cigar man, got into a little bit of a row with Louis Knapp, a day or two ago, at the saloon of Mrs. Ketter on Washington street, and took the job to put Louis out. Result a knock down and a freecodey eye for Louis, and a pressing invitation to Justice McMahon to "walk into my office," which was served by officer Clarkin.

Jail was given for appearance next week.

H. Lathrop Gillespie, formerly of this city, and son of Bishop Gillespie, has charge of the work of constructing the wall which the government is building at the Falls of St. Anthony, for the double purpose of preserving the falls from destruction, with the vast water power dependent upon them, and of 60 miles of Mississippi river navigation above the falls. The wall is to be 1,850 feet long, 40 feet high, and four feet thick, with its base 70 feet below water level and 20 feet lower than the foot of the fall.

Yesterday afternoon a colored man called at the residence of Mrs. Wood, North Main street, and inquired if she had any chairs that she wished to be bottomed. Mrs. Wood requested him to wait a few moments while she attended to the immediate wants of her sick son, an adjourned room, and on returning found the sneak thief had left, taking with him her pocket book containing ten dollars in money that laid upon the front door, but no trace of the thief could be seen in any direction.

The firm of C. Bliss & Son is too well known to need any recommendation from us to the Ann Arbor public. Their store offers manifold temptations at all seasons of the year, but at Christmas time is more than usually attractive. They have for the approaching holidays an unusual assortment of goods on exhibition. It would be impossible within the limit of our space to give even a brief synopsis of their catalogue. Their prices are moderate, and there are few places in Ann Arbor where a purchaser of holiday presents would be more likely to obtain his money's worth than at the jewelry store of C. Bliss & Son, No. 11 South Main street.

The making of holiday gifts is an old and beautiful custom, but the selection of presents is often such a wearisome task that the purchaser naturally goes where he can find the greatest variety. Whether he will be generous to others or otherwise, one can scarcely do better than stop at Mack & Schmid's, where they will find a rare opportunity for selecting from among the endless diversity of articles peculiarly appropriate to the Christmas season. It will at least be a pleasant incident of Christmas shopping to tarry a while at their store and mark the elegant display made there whether you buy or not. They have just added a well-chosen assortment of dress goods, shawls, silks, quilts, etc. Here also may be found every variety of goods suitable for underwear, in the form of hose, undershirts, drawers, shirtings, and the thousand and one novelties that comfort and adorn are supplied at as cheap rates as at any house in the State. They who fail to visit Mack & Schmid's during the holidays will make a great mistake.

Large additions have recently been made to the School Library of this city. The new purchases include: A complete set of Dickens' works; a fine edition; Hawthorne's works complete; ten volumes of the Waverley Novels; a complete set of the "Little Classics" series; Legends of Michigan, by Littlejohn; Queen Mary, by Tennyson; The Seaboard Parish, and Robert Falconer, by McDonald; Innocents Abroad, by Mark Twain; Sketches and Anecdotes of Animal Life, My Feathered Friends or Bird Life, and Animal Traits and Characteristics, by Wood; A Short History of the English People, by Greene; Story of a Bad Boy, by Aldrich; Daniel Boone; The Poet at the Breakfast Table, and the Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, by Holmes; The Expansion of Heaven, and Light Science for Leisure Hours, by Proctor; Tom Brown at Oxford, 2 vols.; Old Town Folks, by Mrs. Stowe; Old Fashioned Girl, and Eight Cousins, by Miss Alcott; Chemical History of a Candle, and On the Various Forces of Nature, by Faraday; Morrison's History of Rome, 4 vols.; Virgil; Lessons in Life, Katharine, and Titcomb's Letters, by Holland; English Statesmen, and Recollections of a Tour in Scotland, by Higginson; Alice and Phoebe Cary; Ames; Hossier; Schuchert, and The Circuit Rider, by Eggleston; William Henry and his Friends, William Henry's Letters; Impressions of London Social Life, American Social Life, American Pioneers and Patriots, and Friends in Council, by Abbott. The library now numbers 683 volumes.

Parties have been actively canvassing this city during the week, soliciting aid for the use of the revived Register, which they have an undoubted right to do. But when they represent that they have over 1,000 subscribers and the Argus but 400, they would do well to remember the commandment, "Thou shalt not lie." The Argus has a larger bona fide circulation than the Register ever had or probably ever will have, and business men will do well to remember their old friends. As one of the firms largely interested in the Register stock never advertised its business in any city paper except the Register (nor subscribed for a city paper) that journal cannot well claim the patronage of the business public. If it does, let its proprietors not open its campaign by unnecessary and malicious injury. Neighborly good feeling and honorable competition is not promoted in that way, and our inexperienced buyers have evidently made a bad bargain.

The following transactions in real estate have been recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds during the past week:

Thos. and Jas. Hawkins to Benj. W. Waite, Jr., 160 acres of section 4, Sec. 10, $8,800.

MacK & Schmid to John H. Schuchert, 120 acres of section 19, Lot 1, $7,200.

Jacob F. Braun to George Mast, 40 acres of section 20, Salem, $1,750.

Nicholas Arksey to Wm. S. Bird, lots 9 and 10 in block 4, Ormsby & Page's addition to Ann Arbor, $600.

Wm. Cross to Edwin C. Warner, 3 acres of land, on French claim No. 691, Ypsilanti, $408.

Susan E. Rawson to George S. Rawson, 87 acres of section 15, Manchester, $3,267.

Geo. E. Monroe to Catharine Wines, part of lots 17 and 18 in J. M. Congdon's second addition to Chelsea, $600.

Andrew Spaford to John F. Spaford, 50 acres of section 17, Freedom, $1,500.

Herman Voland to Chas. Huber, 112 acres of section 15, Manchester, $6,200.

Henry A. Miller to Mary Dancer, house and one acre of land in village of Chelsea, $1,500.

Franklin D. Cunningham to Edwin D. Duncan, part of lots 8 and 9 in block 14, of the plat of Chelsea, and part of lots 4 and 5 in block 2, of N. P. Fair's addition to Chelsea, $800.

Susan R. Bott to Mary J. Green, 43 acres of section 6, Lyndon, $3,000.

John Bangardner to Frederick Kilschmidt, 7 acres of section 30, Freedom, $700.

Adam Stahl to Lambert Kleinschmidt, about 3 acres of section 30, Freedom, $410.

Salsine.

On the evening of the 10th inst., Prof. J. Estabrook delivered a superb lecture, the third in the course projected by Rev. Mr. Parsons, his theme being "The Origin and Destiny of the Anglo-Saxon Language."

The next lecture in the course will be given by Arthur T. Pierson, D. D., of Detroit, on the "Ideal Woman." The time for its delivery to be determined hereafter.

The union meeting of the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches was richly entertained on Sabbath evening last by a sermon by Rev. W. J. Campbell, on "The Mutual Relation of the Pulpit and Press."

On Monday evening, 13th, the Presbyterian Church was filled by an audience, attracted thereto to listen to various exercises prepared by the "Youth's Temperance Society." Excellent music, an elaborate essay by S. W. Chandler, M. D., on the effects of the use of alcohol as a medicine and as a beverage, and a goodly number of recitations and readings by young gentlemen and ladies, made the meeting one of the most interesting of the season.

The Presbyterian Sabbath School is to have a Christmas Tree, and the other schools are also aware of the claims of Christmas.

THE AUTHORS OF THE "SPELLING MANIA."

And now it is said that the publishers of Webster's Dictionary are responsible for the recent "Spelling Bee" excitement. Whether this is true or not, the spelling mania was a good thing, and it undoubtedly had a very excellent influence. Of all educational accomplishments, a proper knowledge of the orthography of our own language is certainly the most desirable, and of all the influences in our educational methods, that relating to this study is the most marked. And we were therefore going to say that through the spelling excitement came about through the advertising efforts of the Webster publishers or not, one thing is quite clear, and that is that there is nothing that has helped to stimulate the wide-spread interest in the subject, or that is so nearly a spell as Webster's.

Webster's Pocket Dictionary sold for One Dollar, and he had of almost every dealer in books. It is a marvel of compactness, containing about three hundred illustrations, over eighteen thousand words, brief but comprehensive rules for spelling, a large number of words from foreign languages, phrases, proverbs, etc., in common use. It is neatly bound in Morocco, with tucks and gilt edges. If not otherwise obtainable it may be had by mail from the publishers, Messrs. Trivett, Blakeman, Taylor & Co., 138 and 140 Grand Street, New York, by enclosing to them the price, one dollar.

Messrs. Baker, Davis & Co., of Philadelphia, successors to T. Ellwood Zell, are issuing in 64 consecutive weekly parts, a new edition of "Zell's Popular Encyclopedia and Universal Dictionary," making when completed two volumes of about 2,600 pages, and containing 150,000 articles, nearly 5,000 illustrations, and 15 superb maps. It is a complete geographical gazetteer, and excellent defining and pronouncing dictionary, and is concise and correct in its department of history, biography, science, art, language, natural history, botany, mineralogy, medicine, law, mechanics, architecture, manufactures, agriculture, bible, church and religious history, etc., bringing down investigations and discoveries to the latest dates. The four numbers on hand do not complete the letter A. As in ordinary cyclopedia type and page it would make twenty large volumes, we may well write millions in prose, and commend it to all who want a really good cyclopedia at a moderate price. Edwin Clark, of Kalamazoo, is the general agent for Michigan.

The annual meeting of the Southern Western Farmers' Mutual Fire Ins. Co. was held at the office of the People's Bank in Manchester on Saturday, the 4th inst., for the purpose of electing directors for the year 1876. A large and respectable attendance of members. Emerson, a nabi and Stephen Merriwell were re-elected Directors for two years. "The Secretary reported no loss by fire in this county since May, 1873. The Directors elected Andrew Spaford, President, and D. W. Palmer, Secretary for the ensuing year."—Manchester Enterprise.

University Items.

The Regents hold a meeting on the 21st. According to the Palladium there are 1,067 students in the University.

Prof. M. C. Tyler's article on Michigan University will appear in the February number of Scribner's Monthly.

Edward Egbert, a graduate of the law department, with the class of '71, died at South Bend, Indiana, on the 10th.

The executive committee of the Board of Regents have been busily engaged this week over the holiday books.

The holiday vacation about the literary department begins to-night and will continue till the Tuesday morning after New Year's.

The medical department closes Wednesday noon next, for holiday vacation, and resumes work two weeks from the morning of the same day.

The University Palladium made its appearance yesterday, filled, of course, with usual amount of fancy type and reminiscences of by-gone difficulties. As one of the latter, the "kettle affair" of last spring is pictured in its various phases.

The following committees for the junior hop have been appointed: on arrangements, W. R. Roberts, P. T. Cook, G. W. Orcutt, T. J. Egan, on invitation, A. W. Hard, O. W. Ferrell, W. J. Gray, H. O. Moore; on reception, E. H. Gilbert, E. H. Gayer, E. F. Smith.

Hereafter the privilege of admission to the literary department of the University on High School diplomas has been confined to such schools as could prepare students for all the courses; hereafter schools will be recognized if prepared to do the work for either or any course. So orders the faculty.

The president announced, on Monday morning, the death of Henry Frank Orton, a student of the sophomore class. He left this city last spring with symptoms of consumption and went to Colorado for his health, but he grew worse and returned to his home at Dane Station, Wisconsin, where he died on the 3rd of this month.

An interesting case of surgery was presented by Dr. Maclean to the medical class, on Saturday. It was this: about three weeks ago a lady came to him from the northwestern part of Iowa, a distance of 1,200 miles or more, with a diseased foot. The bones of the ankle were affected, and to such an extent that a cure was impossible. Something must be done however, and at once, for the lady's health was fast failing. Instead of amputating the leg he simply unjointed the foot from the bone of the leg, preserving the heel and toes. The lady came before the class, on Saturday, as before stated, and the operation was explained. The wound had almost entirely healed and it was especially noticed that this leg was fully as long as the other. The doctor said that the patient would be able to bear her whole weight upon this stump without pain as she could not have done if the bone had been cut off. A cork foot may be worn and nobody will ever know that a true foot is wanting.

Moody and Sankey

Are creating quite a stir in the religious circles of America, which is only equalled by the excitement following the introduction of Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs and Colds, Asthma and Bronchitis. The great virtue of this wonderful remedy is certainly very remarkable. No Coughs or Colds however obstinate can resist the healing qualities of this great remedy. It completely cures when all others fail. For sale by L. S. Lerch, Ann Arbor, Druggist. Trial bottles free. 2x160

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Three workmen on the Exposition Building, at Philadelphia, were killed the other day by falling a distance of about thirty feet. The cause was a sudden gust of wind. The building is much excited at Maloney City, Pa., over a horrible triple murder committed there last week. A party of masked men, at 2 o'clock in the morning, entered the house of Charles O'Donnell, seized and blindfolded him, and carrying him back of the house, where he was shot dead. A man named McAllister was also taken from his home and shot. A third man, McAllister, was also murdered. No reason is given by the people in the neighborhood for the bloody deed. Rev. John H. Vincent, the Corresponding Secretary of the Synodical Church Union, and of the Tract Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, publishes a card in the New York papers disavowing, in behalf of the Society, any interest in Bishop Haven's third-term sentiments. An order has been received at Fall River, Mass., from Manchester, England, for 25,000 pieces of printing cloth. Wm. Deane, of the New York City, has been arrested by the New York City, for the murder of John Lawrence, of the steamer Joseph E. Potts, in August last. Rumor, the confidential clerk of a firm engaged in making linens in New York, has been arrested by the New York City, for the murder of John Lawrence, of the steamer Joseph E. Potts, in August last.

Many people in New York adhere to the belief that Boss Tweed is secreted in the city. The failure of Freedman, Harding & Loomis, extensive wholesale clothing dealers of Boston, reported. The liabilities are estimated at $750,000.

THE WEST.

There is no longer any doubt that Gen. Babcock, the private Secretary of President Grant, has been indicted by the Federal Grand Jury at St. Louis for complicity in the whisky ring. The indictment charges him with conspiring with James McDonald, Avery and others to defraud the United States of the revenue. The President is stated from Washington, believes him innocent. Miss Mary Howard, the well-known actress, is expected to appear in a remarkably successful engagement at the Victoria Theatre, Chicago, in May. She is ranked by Chicago critics as one of the most powerful, particularly in her dramatic and emotional drama, as in her contemporary actress. She is, besides, the most attractive woman, both in form and features, of the American stage. In view of the fact that Gen. Babcock has been indicted by the St. Louis Grand Jury, the Military Court of Inquiry which met at Chicago last week to investigate the charges against him until the trial by the Civil Court at St. Louis shall have been held, or the War Department shall have decided to acquit him, it is probable that the actress will not appear in Chicago. Various portions of Nebraska experienced a decided shock of earthquake on the morning of the 1st. Hiram B. Sawyer, a witness in the well-known Sawyer trial, testified, the other day, that in 1874 he had contracted with John Bingham, who assured him that the ring was perfectly safe. That Babcock, the President's private Secretary, was in the ring, and so long as the present Administration continued they would be protected, but when a change in the Administration took place, they would be exposed.

This schoolmaster, Corneilus B. Windate, with a cargo of grain and a crew of ten men, sailed from Milwaukee for Buffalo on the 21st of November, since which time nothing has been heard of him. There is scarcely a doubt that the vessel and all on board have gone to the bottom of Lake Erie. An American steamer, the Princess, was wrecked in the Gulf of Mexico, and the vessel was lost. The Princess was wrecked in the Gulf of Mexico, and the vessel was lost.

There were 114 passengers on the ill-fated steamship Deutschland, fifty-six of whom were saved and fifty-eight are missing, as also are a portion of the vessel's crew. The three Northern powers of Europe have agreed upon the principle of non-interference in the affairs of the island. They contemplate perfect equality between Christians and Muslims.

A steamer and a freighter destroyed by accident is reported by cable from Bremen, Germany. The steamer Mosel was on the point of sailing for America, when an explosion occurred on the crowded wharf, killing and wounding a large number of people. Some time the steamer and freighter were unable to form any idea of the exact nature of the explosion, but it was soon ascertained, however, that the immediate cause of the calamity was a package of dynamite, the most powerful explosive known, which had been placed in the baggage. Sixty-eight persons were killed and 50 wounded.

The Princess was wrecked in the Gulf of Mexico, and the vessel was lost. The Princess was wrecked in the Gulf of Mexico, and the vessel was lost.

CAREFUL estimates place the cotton crop of the South at over 4,000,000 bales. Advice from the Texas border report no improvement in the condition of the country. There is general lawlessness and discontent along the frontier. On the lower Rio Grande the feeling between Americans and Mexicans is intensely bitter.

WASHINGTON. The bill introduced in the Senate by Mr. Morton, in regard to the counting of the votes for President and Vice-President, is a copy of the bill on the same subject which was prepared by the Privileges and Elections Committee and reported to the Senate last February.

The appointments of Messrs. Chandler, Nye, Pierpont, and J. Q. Smith as Commissioners of Indian Affairs have been confirmed by the Senate without reference to committee.

The President made a very singular error in his annual message—one which is creating much unfavorable comment among the legal fraternity. He says in his message, that Congress should devise some better method of trying claims against the Government than at present exist. He says that the present method is a very defective one, and that a better method is needed.

There is a good deal of indignation among the people of the South against the President's action in the case of the Princess. The President has been accused of interfering with the rights of the people of the South, and of acting in a tyrannical manner.
