FRIDAY, MARCH 9, 1877.

WELLS (J. Madison, of the Louisiana Returning Board, is now a "peer," but Packard's friends are now in doubt his status.

THE TITLE of the President has heretofore been (by common consent) "His Excellency"; for the next four years it will be "His Fraudulency."

THE United States Senate convened in special session on Monday, on call of ex-President Grant, to confirm nominations sent in by the new incumbent of the White House.

IF "THE partaker is as bad as the thief" how will Hayes and Wheeler cleanse their official robes? Perhaps this is the sweet moral of consolation they roll under their tongues: "Stolen fruits are the sweetest."

DON HENDERSON is a "festive case," and so he fires off his big gun: just because an Electoral Commission and a Louisiana Returning Board have elected a President who is rejected by the people. There is no accounting for the taste.

THE Senate Committee on State affairs reported against Senator Burleigh's "bill to prevent bribery at elections." Its provisions were a little too strict for the average political follower of Zach. Chandler.

IT TAKES one woman to pen portraiture. This is what Mary Clemmer (late Ames) says: "Dr. Mary Walker is the most unmitigated little flea that ever pranced in a pair of pantaloons. In her public dress and actions she is a disgrace to womanhood." It is Mary's turn next.

KNOWING that that the inaugural procession and ceremonies would be incomplete without the presence of the members of the Louisiana Returning Board, the House thoughtfully and judiciously ordered their discharge from the dark, damp and gloomy dungeon, (a well lighted and furnished room in the capitol) on Saturday.

BEING a believer in the doctrine "Take time by the foretop," Gov. Hayes took the oath of office as President of the United States in the "red parlor" of the White House (Mrs. Grant's private reception room), at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening. Chief Justice Waite administered the oath, which was engrossed, signed, and "confided to the custody of the Secretary of State."

His "counselors" deemed such proceeding advisable, and also thought that "the proceeding should be temporarily kept secret." They feared, perhaps, that Mr. Tilden, relying upon the foolish resolution passed by the House declaring him elected, might come to Washington, take the oath of office, and set himself up as President on Sunday—that being March 4. A guilty conscience is reported to make people afraid of shadows.

dentical canvass, or "count," the New York Evening Post says: "Several precedents have been established so firmly that they are not likely to be overturned. One is that this is a government of law, and not of sentiment." In view of the fact that the result has been reached by a violation of law, by a confirmation, under the moose shadow of form of law, of the grossest frauds, one is at a loss to discover any great cause for special gratulation. We are equally at a loss to discover so clear an establishment of the fact "that this is a government of States as well as central federal power." It cannot be that the State has gained anything because the voice of Florida and Louisiana have been stifled, the will of Florida and Louisiana thwarted, and a fraudulent President forced upon the other States, the electors of which repudiated him at the ballot box. That is the worst phase of centralization which nullifies the decision of seventeen States. Centralization of that type is a cure worse than the disease. The Post makes a desperate effort to make fraud palatable.

This is what President de facto Hayes says of the founders of the government, —those old fogies of the last century: "They neither expected nor desired from public officers any partisan services. They meant that public officers should owe their whole service to the government and the people." Which talk won't be very gratifying to Zach. Chandler, who neglected his "service" in the Interior Department for months, and gave his entire time to "partisan service," —to running the political machine in the interest of the same moralizing, theorizing President,—the utterer of meaningless words and phrases. And Zach. Chandler is by no means the only official in high station who will laugh—perhaps sardonically—at the child-like simplicity of the man they—not the people—have elevated to place and power. Again: "They meant that an officer should be secure in his tenure as long as his personal character remained unimpaired, and the performance of his duty satisfactory." Which being honest words, the removal of an officer, or a neglect to reappoint him, will advertise to the world that his character is not unimpaired, and that he has been an incompetent officer. The lists of new appointments will be watched with interest. These words are also discouraging to the "outs,"—and they are legion in every state and locality—who look for their reward for political or "partisan services." And then won't members of Congress and their henchmen exclaim, "Thank God" for the following: "They held that appointments to office were not to be made or expected merely as a reward for partisan services, or merely on the nomination of a member of Congress as being entitled in any respect to the control of such appointments." But then, time will test the hidden meaning of these declarations, and meanwhile Congress will recommend, and the faithful will petition for post-offices, pension agencies, etc.

THE INAUGURATION.

The inauguration of Mr. Hayes into the presidential office has been accomplished. The solemn verdict of history will be that it was the most disgraceful and shameful political outrage ever consummated in this country. The only event in any way to be compared with it was the late civil war. But even in comparison with that this is the crowning infamy of our political history. When the South went out of the Union it did not undertake to destroy the principle of self government, and to annihilate the liberties of the people; it did not undertake to put upon the people of the North a government not of its choice. It claimed that the will of the North should rule the North, while the will of the South should rule the South. But here comes a great party, and deliberately through fraud and perjury annuls the will of the people as it found expression at the ballot box, and sets up a dynasty to rule after having been repudiated by one million majority of the white citizens of the country. It is the Louisiana outrage of the annihilation of self government and political liberty enacted on the broader field of national politics. No other people in the world would submit to it peacefully. It is one of the blackest crimes and most dangerous precedents which a free people could afford to submit to, and which would have justified a resort to arms if necessary to prevent its villainous consummation. If ignorant, narrow, and contemptible partisanship fires its cannon and beats its drums, patriotism, honor, and justice hang their heads in shame. So foul was the whole transaction that the miserable partisans who consummated the outrage could not raise a single cheer to greet the final announcement of the result in the halls of Congress. Let not the memory of these things die, until the Republican party, with its banner all befouled with and trailing in the dust, is made to feel the righteous indignation of an injured people. Let it not be forgotten that fraud, under the guidance of the Republican party is enthroned in the White House, and even sits on the bench of the Supreme Court of the United States. For four years let this ring uncessantly in the ears of the American people, and then let the infamy and dishonor of it be washed away as by a deluge. There remains yet the appeal to the ballot box; and if then it appears that fraud and perjury are mightier than ballots, there still remains the old Plymouth Rock, out of which strong hands will cut the gun flints of liberty and justice.

1. Fellow citizens, remember that the Constitution says: "The President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted." What is the vote? The Commission says the certificates of election constitute the vote. The decisions of courts of justice in almost every State in the Union declare that certificates of election are not the vote, but only evidence of the vote, and can, like any other evidence be disputed, and shown to be false. And upon this question the weight it is not the decision of a board of canvassers, but the vote of the people that confers the title to the office; and if a board of State canvassers refused to count the vote, it would not at all defeat the election by the people. This is sound law and sound common sense at the same time.

2. Remember that the Constitution says: "No person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States shall be appointed an elector." The Revised Statutes of the United States, section 131 provides: "The electors of President and Vice President shall be appointed, in each State, on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November, in every fourth year succeeding every election of President and Vice President."

Mark well: (1) No person can be appointed an elector under the Constitution and laws of the United States who holds an office of trust or profit under the national government; (2) under the Constitution and the law electors are appointed on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November, "which is the day of election, and not the day when the electors vote," as the constitution shows the appointment to be made in November, and that a person disqualified at that time cannot act; if the elector was eligible on Dec. 6th it was sufficient. This decision of Bradley's, and every decision made by any court in England or America. The only thing the man could support his opinion upon was the action of the Senate in admitting to its body those not qualified at the time of their election. But the proposition is a direct contradiction of every decision made by any court in England or America. The only thing the man could support his opinion upon was the action of the Senate in admitting to its body those not qualified at the time of their election. But the proposition is a direct contradiction of every decision made by any court in England or America. The only thing the man could support his opinion upon was the action of the Senate in admitting to its body those not qualified at the time of their election.

We are asked to accept the result. Never! We will never accept that which comes stained all over with the blackest and vilest of political crimes,—a usurpation and a fraud presiding as Chief Magistrate over the American nation. Submit to it we will for the present, but accept of it we never will while Anglo-Saxon blood continues to flow in American veins. The men and the party that have consummated this villainy of villainies will find themselves banished from power and place. Then, and not before, will we accept this thing, and cease to dwell upon the story of its foul wrong.

PUBLICUS.

IN THE Republican State Convention on Wednesday there was an animated contest over the candidates for Regents.

On the first ballot Hon. Victory P. Collier, of Battle Creek, late State Treasurer and one of the best business men of the State, was nominated, receiving 478 of the 607 votes cast. On the second ballot George L. Maltz, of Alpena, was nominated, the vote standing: G. L. Maltz, 307; B. D. Pritchard, 132; W. H. Withington, 116; H. C. Potter, 26. The Free Press correspondent says of Mr. Maltz: Mr. Maltz, who spent his boyhood days in Detroit, will be remembered chiefly as an officeholder under Republican officials. It is hardly conceivable that his nomination was influenced, in a great degree, by the sympathies which Dr. Rose.

And of Mr. Collier: Mr. Collier, it is believed, has formed no opinion as to the liability or complicity of either of the parties to the chemical delinquency in the great building, the new Court House, with office and fire-proof vault attached.

—Our neighbor of the Courier threw out his flag yesterday, and we presume will to-day claim a complete victory.

PRESIDENT HAYES sent the following nominations to the Senate on Wednesday afternoon:

- Secretary of State—W. M. Everts, of New York.
- Secretary of the Treasury—John Sherman, of Ohio.
- Secretary of War—George W. McCrary, of Iowa.
- Secretary of the Navy—Richard M. Thompson, of Indiana.
- Attorney General—Charles Devoes, of Massachusetts.
- Postmaster General—David M. Key, of Tennessee.
- Secretary of the Interior—Carl Schurz, of Missouri.
- And Blaine, Chandler, Cameron, Logan, Morton & Co. are not happy. An Executive session was held but no confirmation made. Objections were made to each name by leading Republican Senators,—to Everts by Blaine, to Schurz by Conkling,—to Key by half a dozen. All were referred to Committee.

THE Republican State Convention did a good thing on Wednesday in unanimously renominating Judge Cooley. He is an intelligent, able, upright judge, and the nation will be fortunate if President Hayes can find as good a piece of timber to give additional respectability and character to the sadly dilapidated and demoralized United States Supreme Court.

THE House attached a provision to the Army Appropriation bill prohibiting the use of troops to uphold either the Nicholls or Packard government in Louisiana, the Senate refused to concur, and so the bill did not pass. The House was right. The United States soldiers have been too long degraded by being made the police and bull-dozing tools or agents of the Republican party.

THE attention of Democrats in this city is invited to the call for Ward Caucus in another column, and of those throughout the county to the calls for County and State Conventions.

THE Inaugural address of President Hayes will be found on our first page. It is a fair document, and will give more satisfaction to the Democracy than to the body of the Republicans.

IT was Fitzpatrick, that jubilant bigger man than old Grant. And now J. Madison Wells can subscribe himself "President maker."

ONE who knows assures us that there is nothing singular in the uniform decisions of the Electoral Commission: "An eight spot always takes a seven spot."

DESPITE the vigorous efforts of Blaine and Morton, Kellogg, the creation of the Louisiana Returning Board, was sent to the committee by a vote of 35 to 29.

A Suggestion to Democrats. Lamont, Feb. 28.

To the Editor of the Detroit Free Press: Permit me to make a few suggestions to Democrats. We should arise in our strength and show the fraudulent crew that has disfranchised over four millions of Democrats at the last election, that votes man meet. Every town in the state should meet at an early day, and by strong resolutions denounce the thieving crew that has counted in the Returning Board Hayes as President; and should nominate a town ticket that all Democrats and all other well wishers of their country would pledge themselves to vote for at the election in April; and not to swap off even a vote for constable for a vote for supervisor, for any one that upholds the late fraudulent election returns.

WASHINGTON, March 4.

At a meeting of the members of the National Democratic Committee, held on the 3d day of March, 1877, the following address was unanimously adopted. A. S. HERBERT, Chairman. E. O. PRITCHER, Secretary.

TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE:

We submit to the country the following review of the events which have resulted in the declaration that Rutherford B. Hayes has been elected President of the United States. In the late political canvass two facts stood out prominently: First, the Republican party, true to its traditional motto, secured unity the North against the "old South," and while engaged in that effort it was striving to make good its probable losses in the North by dividing the votes of the South...

STEAM.

Details of the Plan by which Mr. Holly will build a steamship. [We have heretofore alluded briefly to a plan devised by Mr. B. Holly, of Lockport, N.Y., to supply a more extended and complete supply of steamships for the service of the country.]

A Letter Forty Years Reaching its Destination.

A Washington correspondent sends an application was received at the Dead Letter Office quite recently, from Mr. Palmer Gardner, of Burlington, Racine county, Wis., for a letter mailed to him in 1835.

Death at the Age of 104 Years.

Lady Smith, who had lived about three months longer, would have completed her 104th year, died in London, England, on Feb. 3. At the age of 23 she was married to Sir James Edward Smith, who was then a young physician of limited means, but had the courage to purchase on his own responsibility, the collection of Linnaeus and three hundred pounds.

Evening Newspapers.

There seems to be no better investment for money in city evening newspapers than in a cheap evening newspaper in Washington. The most profitable newspaper in Washington is the Star, a penny paper which sells for 2 cents. In Indiana, the News, a similar publication, has the largest circulation of any paper in the West. The success of the latter paper is, indeed, a marvel of journalism. It is now only a little over three years old, yet it claims, and we have no doubt, a circulation of over 100,000.
