LOCAL AFFAIRS.

—The Ypsilanti Sentinel says: "Until spring the business places will close at 8 o'clock every evening."

—The citizens of Ypsilanti have subscribed a sufficient amount to build a tower in connection with the new Normal School building.

—The house of Stephen Moore, in the Fifth ward, with part of its contents, was destroyed by fire on Friday afternoon last. Loss about $1,000, insured for $1,000.

—C. F. Field, Superintendent of Schools for the town of Manchester, holds a public examination of teachers, or perhaps of candidates, to-morrow, Oct. 13.

Among the latest patients issued to inventors in Michigan is one to Wm. A. Benedict, of this city, for a carriage top, and one to John Barnham, of Milan, for a beehive.

—The farmers fight themselves that the severe frosts of Friday and Saturday mornings last took the vigor out of the fly and checked his ravages in their wheat fields.

—That rain which came on Sunday evening last, having over into Monday, was very well, and not yet ready for winter quarters.

—Mr. Jaycox, of this city, who was injured some months ago by falling down stairs at his residence on Huron street, was taken to the insane asylum at Kalamazoo, on Monday last.

—The libel suit of Rose vs. Douglas has been noticed for trial: and Beal is canvassing the county in the interest of the plaintiff.

—It is not a fair and legitimate interpretation of the meaning of his speeches on and about Judge Huntington's decision.

—The Schustendubbers have a shooting match at their park, on Monday afternoon, with twenty-three chosen men on each side, under the lead of Capt. Beahan and Capt. Fred Bross. The members are requested to be on hand promptly at one o'clock.

—Two fine places in this city have been sold during the last week; the brick house of David Hemming, corner of Division and Liberty streets, to Col. J. L. Burleigh, for $7,000; and the new house (wood) of L. C. Risdon, corner of Huron and Division streets, to Dr. Maclean, for $7,500.

—In the Supreme Court on Tuesday, the case of Fanny E. Thatcher et al. vs. the Wardens and Vestry of St. Andrew's Church, was decided, the court affirming the judgment below, which was in favor of the church.

Opinion by Justice Marston. Wouldn't an order house indignation meeting now be in order?

—Justice Beahan had Jake Ellsbush and John Cherry before him on Tuesday. Jake on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, and Cherry charged with assault and battery—having shaken Jake up in a right lively manner.

Sentence to pay the costs or bond 15 days each with Sheriff Case. Officer Brown has them in charge.

—The Ypsilanti Commercial has this to say at the attendance at the recent fair it looked upon: "The first days of the fair it looked upon for our western friends of the county society. It appeared as if we of the fair had been sold. But Thursday and Friday dispelled the delusion, and we had no cause for complaint."

The Commercial says that the receipts of the fair were over $4,500.

—The Amos readers, who are the special friends of Dr. Rose, and who have taken stock in the vindictive attacks upon Judge Huntington and in the drastic appeals from the legitimately constituted courts to the public, are requested to read the article in another column from the Adrian Times, a journal which has from the first warmly sympathized with Dr. Rose and earnestly espoused his cause.

—It may interest some of our readers to know that an application is now pending before Judge Crowwell for a pardon of Lewis Bush, formerly of Manchester in this county, who was convicted at the October term of the Circuit Court in 1876, of the crime of forgery, and sentenced to the State Prison for the term of three years. We learn that the pardon is recommended by Judge Huntington, by R. E. Frazer, Esq., who tried the case as Prosecuting Attorney; by J. Willard Babbitt, present Prosecuting Attorney; by Hous. J. L. Burleigh, E. B. Norton, A. J. Sawyer, and E. P. Hous. members of the Legislature; by H. J. Robinson, C. Walbridge, Esq., C. Joslin, Esq., and by a large number of prominent and influential residents of Manchester and Saline.

—The Ladies' Library Association held its first regular reading for the season, at the residence of Dr. Angell, on Tuesday evening. The prevailing storm prevented a large attendance, but the exercises were excellent. Prof. Allen read Emerson's latest essay, from the North American Review, "Perpetual Forces;" Mrs. Chittenden, of the High School, recited "Beautiful Snow" and read "Sinner Weller's" Valentine, doing both in a manner highly creditable to herself and to the great gratification of her hearers. Miss C. spent most of her summer vacation in taking lessons in elocution and reading under a thorough instructor, and evidently improved in her opportunity. Dr. Angell read Buchanan's poem, "Autumn," and Prof. Walter closed the entertainment with a song.

—Hon. Henry W. Rogers has gone to Boston, to attend the session of the General Convention of the Episcopal Church.

—The Board of Regents.

The Regents of the University met at 10 o'clock, a. m. yesterday, instead of on Wednesday evening as previously announced. The President's annual report was submitted, communications received from several members of the faculty, and considerable routine business disposed of.

A communication was also received from Messrs. Christian and Webster, in which they stated their proceedings in the University laboratory unit; stated that they could not well proceed with the suit against Dr. Douglas until the decree in the branch of the case already decided was entered; called attention to the great cost of litigation suits; expressed an opinion that commissions on work superintended we presume—and traveling expenses could not be recovered, but that interest paid rested on a different basis and should not be conceded.

After the reading of the same the following resolutions, offered by Regent Cutcheon, were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the matter of the separate accounting between Dr. S. H. Douglas and the University be entrusted to the counsel of the Board, Messrs. Christian and Webster, with instructions to secure the substantial rights of the University, whether by amicable settlement or, if necessary, by amendment of the present bill in accordance with the opinion of the counsel; that the counsel be empowered and authorized on the part of this Board to proceed to such final settlement or not according to their judgment.

The expression seemed to be, without dissent, that the decision of Judge Huntington as final, and that parties must go to the higher courts for relief. We therefore hope for peace in the University management.

Attempt at Murder.

On Friday forenoon last our citizens were startled by the report that M. S. P. Jewett, an old and prominent resident on West Huron street, had been shot and killed by his former non-lawyer, Edward A. Hyde, but an investigation showed that Hyde had fired two shots at Mr. Jewett, at or in front of the latter's house, and that the second shot made a slight flesh wound on Mr. Jewett's left hip.

Mr. Hyde married Mr. Jewett's daughter about twelve years ago, who procured a divorce from him some five years ago on the ground of cruelty,—since which she has lived in this city, heretofore and children, who were attached to her father until each should be some fourteen years old, being supported by Mr. Jewett. The evidence given on the examination before Justice Beahan on Monday, showed that Hyde went to Jewett's house on Friday, sought and obtained admittance, and demanded of Mr. Jewett to see his children. He was told that they were not there, and asked to leave. Going out muttering and threatening, Mr. Jewett followed to the left of the premises. After getting upon the street Hyde suddenly drew his pistol and fired, Jewett dodging the first ball. Hyde immediately came down town and gave himself in charge of an officer,—in this passing, though not in evidence.

Hyde conducted his own case, and by his questions to Mr. Jewett aimed to show threats giving him fear, an attempt to kick him, &c., which Mr. Jewett denied. He also asked Mr. Jewett if he had ever been in the insane asylum, indicating "methinks in madness" if "insanity" is to be his defense.

Hyde was held for trial and in default of $2,000 bail committed to jail.

It is understood that Hyde has frequently threatened the life of Mr. Jewett, of his wife and of his children, and the family have lived in fear of him whenever in the city.

The Reform Club and the Students.

At a regular meeting of the Ann Arbor Reform Club, held October 3, the following resolutions were passed:

WHEREAS, We have been notified that the Students' Lecture Association of the University has been organized, and that the course of lectures, during this college year, the members of the Ann Arbor Reform Club, in good standing, and also their families, for one-half the price usually charged, therefore,

Resolved, That the thanks of this Club are hereby tendered to the members of the Students' Lecture Association for the kindness and liberality with which they have received us, and their consideration of the subject of having a course of lectures before this club, other than lectures upon temperance, is hereby indefinitely postponed.

Resolved, That while we would rejoice to see a Temperance Reform Club organized by the students of the University, and comprise all in any way connected with that institution, yet, in the absence of such an association, we cordially invite the students, and each one personally, to whatever department he may belong, to unite with the Ann Arbor Reform Club and attend our business meetings on Wednesday afternoon, and to assist us in our noble lectures and assist us to make our Club a permanent success.

Resolved, That the Secretary is hereby instructed to forward a copy of these resolutions to the Secretary of the Students' Lecture Association and to each of our city papers for publication.

Personal and "Beal."

In purchasing the business and politics and news and church office of that good and great and learned man, Dr. A. W. Chase, our neighbor of the Courier seems also to have purchased or inherited the doctor's ways and methods, his broad mantle of Christian charity, his generous rivalry, and his brotherly tolerance of all men and women, churches and societies, who differed from him in thought, word or action, politics or religion. When the doctor was at the mouth of his glory,—in the very condition of the frog who had swollen to nearly the size of an ox,—he graciously gave us his permission to leave the county and seek some other place where we could earn a living for our family. And now his heir and assign plays on the same wild instrument, and weeps and wails (mere crocodile tears) over our success in obtaining political preferment or filthy lucre,—never once imagining that an editor may have political principles that he didn't purchase and the persistent advocacy of which may not give fame or fortune; that he may be attached to a party and not own it; or that it is even possible for him (without being a coward) to recognize the right of others, in his party or out of it, to differ from him without traducing them in his columns. We survived the inflated career of Dr. Chase, and we hope, Providence permitting, to go on our humble way, earning an honest living, despite the howlings of Dr. Beal, who brands every citizen "today" or "a aristocrat" whose independence does not lead him to consider it his mission to personally abuse or vilify "all the world or the rest of mankind" who may disagree with him or Beal (especially Beal's enemies) upon any question public or private, and every man or paper whose bank account is shorter than his own.

—In this connection, and once for all, let the readers of the Argus and the public at large, of opinion understanding, that the personal, low, and vile attack made upon us is made for these reasons: That for eighteen months or more we have refused (as do all reputable journals in like cases) to espouse the cause of either party to the laboratory case; that we have refused to join Beal in a crusade against one of the parties; that we did not believe in the necessity for a legislative investigating committee, or that the report of such a committee could bind anyone, and disapproved of the manner of conducting such investigation; and because we have held from the first that in the courts was the place to determine the rights of all parties—as in other cases. And at the last we ventured to censure the denunciation of Judge Huntington by Mr. Beal, and dared to condemn, in our columns, the terms, his appeal to the public—the court of the demagogue—instead of to the same Supreme Court which he had once almost defied for being intelligent and honest enough to decide an important suit in his favor,—his test of both competency and honesty. This is the whole of our offense.

We said once for all, because we cannot afford to fill our columns week after week with the laboratory case, or with a personal controversy with Beal. We can furnish our readers' matter of more general interest. We shall, however, feel it a duty to defend ourselves when necessary, and when silence shall cease to be a virtue, in anticipation of which emergency we wear our temporary that his armor is vulnerable at more than one point.

Coldwater and its "Lions."

The Argus having briefly announced last week that the editor was spending a few days at his old home—Coldwater—it is perhaps expected that we shall say a few words of what we saw. Well, Coldwater is not exactly the same place it was when we first saw it forty-two years ago, when we left it for Ann Arbor, and returned to it only to find it a changed place with other Michigan towns and is now one of the most beautiful as well as one of the most enterprising of Michigan's most beautiful and enterprising cities. It has fine school houses, large and beautiful churches, and a busy, go-ahead population.

But, its "Lions" are Lewis Art Galleries and the State Public Library. We visited the Art Gallery of course, and in the two large, high, and well-lighted rooms, located in the midst of beautiful grounds and attached to the elegant residence of Mr. Lewis, found over 500 works of art,—paintings and marbles. The Catalogue includes many copies from the old masters, executed by good artists, with many later works, both copies and originals, among them numerous portraits from the celebrated Thompson collection, purchased when coldwater at the owner's death. Mr. Lewis, with commendable and almost unprecedented liberality, opens his gallery to the public every Saturday, free, and citizens and countrymen from miles around fill the rooms at each successive opening, feast upon the "things of beauty" and make them a "joy forever." Strangers are admitted to the gallery on any day of the week (Sunday excepted), on application. Mr. Lewis is a perfect gentleman, and his collection of Coldwater and vicinity, and of the State, is a love for art—a love for "the good, the true, and the beautiful." Would that he had an emulator in Ann Arbor.

We also visited the State Public School, accompanied by Albert Chandler, Esq., (our old "boss") and Dr. Tucker (our once family physician), and were shown by Supt. Allen, through the buildings and grounds of this newest of our State institutions, and one of the most deserving. Beside the central building,—containing the reception rooms, offices, dining hall, laundry (room to be removed to the water-works tower), and work rooms, there are nine two-story cottages, each with a capacity of 30 boys or girls, and each in charge of a lady manager. A tenth cottage, with double the capacity of the others, is now being erected. Five teachers are employed and the pupils are reported as making as good progress as in ordinary schools,—considering the families from which many of them come and the length of time they are under instruction, which averages about one year. The inmates now number about 287—all orphans or half-orphans, many of them coming from the poor-houses of the State. They are well cared for in person, comfortably and neatly dressed, well fed, and looked happy. None are received over 10 years old, and no more than five months of age. Homes are found for them in good families throughout the State—occasionally one coming back because of having got into the wrong place. Girls more readily find good homes than boys. This institution will save many men and women to the State who otherwise would grow up degraded and vicious if not criminal. We were favorably impressed with the internal and external appearance of things at the School, and with the intelligence, enthusiasm, and interest in his work manifested by the Superintendent, Coldwater contributed liberally to the founding of this noble charity, both in grounds and money.

We had the pleasure of taking many old friends by the hand: some whom we remember as old men and women when we were a boy, others who were boys and girls when we were children when we had grown to man's estate, but who are now fathers and mothers themselves. That is the order of nature.

We found our way some miles into country, through fine looking fields of growing wheat, where but a few years ago dense forests stood, an evidence that the country has kept pace with the city; and that the city has, in fact, as all cities must, derived its prosperity from the prosperity of the country around it.

So much for our brief vacation.

The bids are to be filed with the clerk and opened on Thursday next, Oct. 18,—the contract to be let the lowest bidder. The publication in paper to be commenced one week after the award is made, and the pamphlets to be furnished within three weeks after the close of the session.

Adjourned to Tuesday forenoon.

TUESDAY, Oct. 9, 1877.

Board met pursuant to adjournment.

On motion of Mr. Yeckley the basis of Equalization was fixed at $8,000,000.

Thursday was designated as the day for visiting the County Poor House; the Clerk, Sherman, simply asked each and every one who owned any amount, great or small, to bear in mind their long past promises, and walk up like a chicken to the door, with the cash in their breeches pocket, and pay me, or I will find out what virtue there is in a summons. If these collections can't be made willingly they must be made forcibly. I have come to this resolution to collect my outstanding debts. If you give this matter your immediate attention you will save yourself cost. Now I want you to believe every word of this because it is true. This thing must be done.

RED RIBBONS.

Judge Cheever will address the club next Sunday afternoon, in the Opera House.

H. R. Ash and Charles Boylan went to Chelsea on Saturday evening and addressed the club of that village.

Remember the Red Ribbon meeting at Whitmore Lake to-morrow afternoon. R. E. Frazer, Esq., and others will speak.

Last Sunday evening the second meeting was held at the school house on Lord Plains, and was addressed by Mr. Cheever.

The speaking thirty-five signatures at the two meetings. The meeting was large and enthusiastic. The organization of the club was completed the same evening, and the following officers elected: President, James Munroe; Vice President, Henry Richards; Secretary, Theo. Hicks; Treasurer, O. C. Swenland. A number of members of the Ann Arbor club were present.

The Opera House meeting of the Reform Club on Sunday afternoon last was largely attended. George M. Chester, of Detroit, publisher and editor of the Red and White Ribbon, was the principal speaker. The story he told of his "bucking against the tiger" since his student life in the University, some 17 or 18 years ago, and of his struggles with the "demon," was most affecting, and should have been sufficient to convince the minds of all his hearers of the benefits to be had by entirely abstaining from the use of liquor. Of the many speeches made by Mr. Chester, since his reform, we believe this was the first occasion on which he has related his "personal experiences." Mr. Almy Aldrich, also of Detroit, followed Mr. Chester with a few remarks, after which the pledge book was opened and five more persons "dared to do right."

The afflicted of this portion of the country should bear in mind the intended visit of the surgeons of the National Surgical Institute, to Ann Arbor, on the 14th and 15th of October, at the Gregory House. Perfect reliance can be placed on these surgeons, as the Institute which they represent stands pre-eminently reputable and responsible. It was founded by Dr. H. R. Allen almost twenty years ago, since which time it has been the happy meeting place of the lives of usefulness and happiness many thousands of sufferers from diseases and deformities for whom there was no hope at the hands of the general practitioner.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can do better than in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up, discouraged and worried out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can obtain as perfect a proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of 75 per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Headache, Sick Headache, Constipation, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it.
