OUR SCHOOL DAYS. BY T. HAGAN.

Crowded back, we look upon them-Past, yes, past—forever gone—
Scenes of pleasure, hours of treasure,
Sweet to gaze and look upon;
Past, yes, like a fleeting moment,
Oft they constitute an age;
Budding forth from early childhood,
Soon we turn life's gayest page.

Mingling with our infant comrades Life stamped naught upon our mind;
But when school days dawned upon us,
Footprints, then, were left behind;
Traces of a new-born era
On the way by which we trod,
Like the plow which marks its furrow,
Leaves behind the upturned sod.

Not alone we find we've labor'd,
Manly bands came to our aid;
Cheering words, like dews of heaven,
Gave a vigor not to fade.
Helping hands and tolling comrades
Made our interests all but one,
While our troubles, light and narrow,
Soon were lost in blithesome fun.

Passed we've now the span of boyhood,
With its memories flooding on,
As the bosom of a river
Ever bears its tide along.
Launched upon more ruffl'd waters,
And beset by greater fear,
Swift our bark floats down the current,
And the verdant leaf grows sere.

Pause we then—yes, stop to wonder
How our happy school days sped;
Years colled by and days long numbere
Would we could again but wed.
Thus we look upon life's morning,
Ushering in a noonday sun;
Veering round, it shrouded leaves us—
Thus the race of life is rnn.

WILD AND DARING HEROES.

Thrilling Narrative of a Terribly Tragic Enterprise. In March of 1862 the Confederate in these States. At 4 o'clock in the morning the men were awakened and hurried on the train. Their general scheme involved the other. The train once captured, they held, and a bold and brilliant plan was were to push ahead, burn the bridges, and destroy the track. The details of Also, buys and sells U. S. The train pulled slowly out of Marietta, and after an hour or so reached Big Shanty, where it stopped for breakfast. Big Shanty was a drill camp, and about 10,000 soldiers were stationed there. The engineer, conductor, and passengers were in the hotel at breakfast. The Yankees" had gone in with the rest, and were quietly eating their breakfast. Suddenly Andrews appeared at the door of the eating hall and said, in a leisure-

Their hearts were bounding wildly within their breasts, and their faces must have paled with resolution, for they krew that the hour of their trial ad come. And yet they walked coolly and tranquilly out of that room, concious that they must move so leisurely as to avoid all suspicion. When they reached the door they found Andrews awaiting them. For over ten years it has been our custom to give the public the benefit of our profits during the month of January every year. Our reason for doing so is, as a general thing January is the dullest month of the year, and if we tried to make profits they would hardly pay expenses, also, we have many winter goods on hand that we do not wish to summer over, and on the first of February we take our annual inventory and wish to have our stock reduced as low as possible, so by offering our goods ses thereby saving a large percentage

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH, Ann Arbor, January 1, 1878. HON. D. CRAMER,

Mayor of the City of Ann Arbor, Sir: We can say for the year 1877, that the city of Ann Arbor escaped that much dreaded disease, the small-pox, and in its stead the city has been visited by another disease fully as fatal, although not so much dreaded by the people, to wit, typhoid fever. The past seaen was one well calculated for the disease In the early part of the year the large fall of rain, then the long drought that followed, proscales in front of his store on Broadway, Fifth duced an unusual amount of malarial fevers This assisted by the negligence of many of the citizens in not keeping their back yards and water closets well cleaned, and in many instances we fear that they do not pay atten tion enough to the water that is used for cul nary purposes. In many instances the well that supplied the family with water was only a few feet away from the privy. Also as the well was located on the lowest part of the lot it received all the drainage, and in many instances the washings from the hog pens run down on the surface of the ground to within fifteen feet of the well. The disease was not confined entirely to one locality, but the of age or sex, attacking alike the child of years. There have been fifty-six cases of there were ten cases that proved fatal. There must be some decided measures taken by the city to stamp out this disease. The Board of Health would recommend the appointment of a city scavenger at a salary of four or five hundred dollars per year, payable in the month of June of each year, on the disbursed among the city poor in the several order of the Board of Health, countersigned by the Mayor and Recorder. His duty to be the cleaning of all privy vaults in the city behe to be under the direction and control of the Board of Health. Also that he can be re moved by the Mayor on the recommendation of said Board. The appointment to be made by the Common Council. This is a matter tax would be a mere trifle to each one, and the benefits derived by all, in the protection against Ald. Ortman moved the allowance of the safeguard. Two cases of dyphtheria, six of participated in by Ald. Cate and Schmidt in scarlet fever, and one of measels have been favor of the motion, and opposed by Ald. reported to this office. There were sixty-nine Fitteen permits have been granted for the emoval of corpses from the city. One hundred and seventy-three complaints have been made to the Board. The census of 1870 gives the population of this city at 7,363, which would give one death to every 106 49-69 persons living in the city. All of which we respectfully submit.

attached to the ill-starred vessel:

On Wednesday night at 9 o'clock I was called by the mate to assist the carpenter in stopping a leak around the rudder trunk. Found the stern-post loose, and so reported. Remsined at the post, using all possible exertions to stop the leak or prevent its increase, until about 5:30 a. m., when I was called on deck, and found the ship a partial wreck. One of the port boats was hanging over the side by her bow-tackle to the davit, the smoke-stack gone, and the ship heading for the beach. Reached the fore cutter and, in obedience to an order from the Captain, commenced to order from the Captain, commenced to art the water in the casks stored forward lighten the ship; was assisted in so doing by the carpenter and one of the quarter-masters, who was afterwards drowned. The mate suggested that sail should be made by setting the foresail, and, on getting his consent, went aloft and, assisted by Charles Seaman, loosed the foresail and succeeded in setting the sail, which remained but a few minsetting the sail, which remained out a few minties until carried away, and it was necessary to clew up the port wing of the sail. The ship struck heavily amidships, evidently breaking her back, but she continued to drive on the beach. The admirable management of the helm, assisted by the foresail, maintained the ship's position head on until fairly beached. Soon after this the main mast work and she head after this the main-mast went, and she began to break up rapidly, the first seas that boarded her having destroyed or crimbed all the reher having destroyed or crippled all the remaining boats but the dingy, which was attached to the starboard forward davits. Upon that boat I placed my chief hope of safety, provided I could maintain possession of the oat for sending a line ashore at low water.
ut while my attention was otherwise engaged But while my attention was otherwise engaged the boat was lowered and my purpose defeated, while she, without any management save the providence of God, was borne to the beach—a perfect "ark of safety" for the six or seven poor fellows who had the courage to secure the opportunity. During the trying hours of the day several of the ill-fated passengers, bravely intrusting themselves to the tide, evidently lost heart with the passage of the first breaker over their heads, and, first breaker over their heads, and, andoning all hope, sank without ruggle. Others, either washed or leaping off the wreck, would almost seem to have committed suicide, so deliberately did they bury their heads beneath the waves and meet their doom. The foremast falling aft, and the foresail being still partially spread, several were either killed by its fall or buried beneath the mass of the sail in such a way as made death certain... At about 4:30 or perhaps. about 4:30 or perhaps 5 p. m., the mid-ship body of the hull, the fore body being alsanp body of the hull, the fore body being al-ready gone, began to break up rapidly, while I urged all who would listen to me to trust themselves to Providence, the waves and their life-preservers. Many did so, and the majority with success. At length the closing scene was upon us. The lower-deck beams gave way and the starboard broadside, giving a few more heavy shocks from the surf, sank slowly be-neath the waves.

THE members of the Louisiana Returning Board appealed to Judge Bradley, of the United States Supreme Court, to issue a writ of certiorari ordering a transfer of the cases from the State to the United States Court. Judge Bradey, in a decision of some length, refused the application. The decision sets forth that the Returning Board make application on the ground of prejudice and inability to secure their rights and inability to secure their rights and the fact that the Jury law of 1877 is hostile to colored citizens. Justice Bradley says the application raises three questions First, was the presentation of the petition suf-ficient to amend the jurisdiction of the State court, or had that court the right to examine into that sufficiency? Second, if the State court had the right to examine, had the Circuit court had the right to examine, had the Circuit Court the right to re-examine and issue a certiorari or other writs? Third, if the Circuit Court had such rights, did the petition show sufficient ground to the first two questions? Justice Bradley answers that, in the Jury law of 1877, there is nothing open to constitutional objections, and also the prejudice is not such a cause as warrants a transfer. Neither the Fourteenth amendment nor the Civil-Rights bill was violated. There is no Civil-Rights bill was violated. There is no State legislation hostile to either.

Ir is charged, and the facts appear to prove that the lost steamer Metropolis was sadly unseaworthy and as rotten as punk. An eyewitness describing the wreck says: "In the immediate vicinity of the scene was a true realization of the terrible word 'wreck,' and, to the shame of humanity and civilization, the as vandalism, evidences of which were hard to elieve. It was ghoulism almost incredible committed mostly by negro residents of the beach close by, and sided by a number of whites. They took all the valuables and even the clothing from the dead that washed ashore. The sacred person of a female was not a bar to the worst sort of barbanism. There was a very large South American mail on board. The bags were cut open and rifled of their contents. The letters, after being opened, were strewn along the beach."

They had been led to expect that Mr. Tilder and the Democratic party North would claim their rights, and, if needs be, enforce them. Mr. Pelton and the Tilden managers besought Louisiana Congressmen and myself to urge Nicholls, the Legislature, and our people to work up a public sentiment in favor of the Electoral bill, under the belief that Mr. Tillen's rights were secured by it; and we lid so at their solicitation and upon their rep-resentations; therefore, Mr. Tilden's declaraon on the eve of his departure for Europe, at 'He had always disapproved the Electoral II,' came with bad grace. I supposed they all knew that; it has been kept wonderfully quiet, to be sure, but I thought every newspaper man in Washington last win-ter knew about it. I know positively that Sen-ator Conkling had a speech all prepared in favor of throwing out the vote of Louisiana, i which event he was to have been elected Pres ent of the Senate, and would have becom President of the United States pending the new election, which would have taken place a year afterward. Mr. Tilden's friends were satisfied with this arrangement, because they thought that, with his wounds fresh bleeding, he would have no trouble in securing the Democratic nomination; and Senator Conkling doubtless thought that, with the date. The cause which prevented an attempt at carrying this programme out was the distrust felt by Mr. Conkling's adherents on the Repubcan side—the carpet-bag Senators from the Grant's declarations. Telegram from William E. Chandler to Maj. Burke. Washington, Jan. 28.

To Maj. E. A. Burke, New Orleans: Referring to denials in a recently-published interview of yours, I have the honor respectfully to ask you this question: Were you, as representative of the Nicholls Government, with other Southern men and Messrs, Stanley er Northern men, present at a conference or conferences, at Wormley's Hotel, in Washing-ton, about Feb. 26 last, concerning Louisiana affairs? If so, was any written paper, whether signed or unsigned, and whether with or with-out names affixed as with seed of its correct-ness, made then or subsequently, embodying or purporting to state the whole or any part

The Proposed Tariff.

The bill prepared by the sub-committee of the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives for the evision of the tariff has been published. Following are some of the leading provisions of the bill:

visions of the Diff:

Books, periodicals, pamphlets, blank books,
bound or unbound, and all printed matter; engravings, bound or unbound; illustrated books and papers, and maps and charts, 20 per entum ad valorem. Type, plain book and lewepaper, 15 cents per pound. Type, job-ing and ornamental, 30 cents per pound. Cot-ons, plain goods, are classed under three heads, and are taxed, unbleached, 2 cents; if colored or printed, 3 cents. These are now taxed at a rate equivalent to 35, 33, and 42 per cent. The ew average rate is about 25 per cent. The new average rate is about 25 per cent. The finer goods are taxed about 35 per cent, as against an average of 50 per cent, at present. The present tax on jeans, denims, drillings, ginghams, cottonades, etc., bleached, printed, or colored, are now taxed from 40 to 65 per cent., and the duties are reduced to an average of 35 per cent. duties are reduced to an average of 35 per cent. The bulk of cotton goods imported is made up of hosiery, laces, braids and cotton yarn; the hosiery and laces now pay 35 per cent., and are reduced to 25, while the duty on the kind of yarn principally imported is raised from 60 to 80 cents per pound. The duty on spool-thread is reduced from 9 to 7 cents per dozen spools of 100 yards. The duties or glass are somewhat increased, and are gener ally specific, being computed by the square inch or foot, the rate of duty increasing as the size increases—the average rate aimed at be-ing 40 per cent., which is higher than the present rate. Earthenware, china, porcelain, are taxed 40 per cent., which is no reduction. Un-dressed flax is reduced from $20 per ton to $10 dressed flax from $40 to $30 per top. femp and jute and manufactures of them re-nain, with little or no change, at about 30 per ent. Spirits and brandy are to pay $2 per callon—no change; champagne to pay $6 per lozen quarts; still-wines in casks to pay about 60 per cent.; other wines in bottles, 60 about 60 per cent.; other wines in bottles, 60 per cent.—no change. The duties on iron manufactures are made specific on a basis of 35 per cent.—a very slight reduction. Pigiron is reduced from $7 to $5 per ton. Sheetron is reduced from 1½ to ½ cents per pound. Steel railway bars from 1½ to 1 cent per pound. Copper is reduced from 5 to 2 cents per pound. In regulating the duties on wheat, barley, rye, oats, etc., the duty is fixed per bushel, instead of by the 100 pounds, and the duty on coal is levied by the ton of 2,240 pounds, instead of by the round ton. The classification of sugar is amended, and the duty ranges from 2½ to 2½ cents per pound. Candy is protected by a duty of 40 per cent. The duty protected by a duty of 40 per cent. The duty a silks is reduced from 60 to 50 per cent, colen carpets are fixed at 50 per cent, and voolen goods generally at the same rate. In consequence of the changes from ad valorem to specific rates, it is not practicable to state accurately the changes. There is supposed to be a general reduction of 20 per cent. in the rates, but in this reduction is included the long list of articles made free.

A Dinner of Horse Flesh.

"I went on Saturday," writes a Paris correspondent, "to a horse-flesh dinner by M. Ducroix, Veterinary-in Chief to the Etat Major of Paris. It was prepared by an ordinary cook, the host vishing his guests to know that the food placed before them owed none of its palatable virtues to extraordinary culinary science. Everything except the sweets at dessert were of Chevaline extraction. I thought the soup better than bouillon made from beef. The bouilli was very toothsome; 'Cheval a la mode' was also excellent: but the crowning dish was roast filet, which was very tender and succellent. There was no flavor or odor that in the remotest way reminded one of the stable. "The weak point of the feast was the enthusiast, and dreams of nothing less States at the World's Exposition at than cheapening meat, and rendering the lives of horses tolerable by getting people to become hippopophagists. If the ultimate fate of the horse was to be sent to the butcher's shambles instead of to the slaughter-house, cabmen, he opines, would be more merciful to the beasts they drive, and the poor would be able upon cheaper and more nutritive meat. Since hippopophagy has been introduced here, more than 12,000 horses annually have fallen into the stewpans and soup pots of the French capital. It appears, indeed, that the supply is scarcely equal to the demand.

"On sitting down I felt, I confess, somewhat nervous. It occurred to me hat several chevaline diseases propagated by inoculation. M. Ducroix, who suspected my misgivings, informed me that the inspection of horseflesh for the flesh market is more close than that of beef. The living animal has to pass a veterinary surgeon, and, when it is reduced to the condition of microscopic examination. Some members of the Society for the Protection of Animals have invited M. Ducroix to London to make arrangements with them for a horse-flesh banquet at the Crystal Palace, prepared by a French cook."-Liverpool Courier.

Grant and His Lieutenants.

A correspondent of the Troy Times gives some interesting reminiscences of the war of the Rebellion, and particular-without her husband. y of the freedom with which Gen. Grant was accustomed to speak of his subordinates; "'What do you think of Sherman, General?' was asked, 'One of the most perfect men I ever knew.' 'And what of Sheridan?' 'Oh, I never think of Phil,' said Grant; 'he'll take care of himself.' 'What kind of an officer is Schofield?' 'One of the best,' was the reply. 'Schofield has not had a chance to show what he is yet,' added the General; 'but if the war lasts I mean to give it to him,' And shortly afterward Schofield was sent to North Carolina, where it was expected the bulk of the fighting would occur when the two armies of Johnston and Lee should Choice Graded Steers.
